THE '61 CHEVY BRINGS
JET-SMOOTH TRAVEL DOWN TO EARTH

HERE'S WHAT GIVES CHEVY ITS JET-SMOOTH RIDE—
Full Coil suspension—Chevy's one of the few cars with a coil spring at every wheel. Precision-balanced wheels —For smoother rolling with less vibration. Sound-hushing insulation—Sheet metal is carefully insulated against drumming and vibration. 51 built-in "shock absorbers"— Cushion the chassis against shock and shake. Live rubber body mountings—Extra-large butyl rubber cushions that further isolate the ride from the road.

This is the Impala Sport Coupe—just one of 20 Jet-smooth Chevies!

Better just circle your dealer's block the first time you try a Jet-smooth '61 Chevy. Get anywhere near an open highway and he's liable never to see you again.

What we mean, Chevy's ride whets your yen to travel. Wins you over with its delightful coil-spring smoothness, its hushed comfort and light steering. You find yourself feeling sorry for people who buy higher priced cars, thinking they have to pay premium prices for a luxury ride.

That may have been true at one time, but not any more. Chevrolet's ride, its roadability, just doesn't take second place to anybody's. Drive one soon and see.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor: I recollect a story in the papers way back yonder 80 years ago about a hunting trip Will Rogers took to Africa. The Saturday Evening Post was paying him a $1 a word for sending back a account ever week of his experiences. Ever time Will got a shot at some wild animal he'd put in his story, "Boom! Boom! Boom!" The magazine editors cabled him to quit shooting so much, said it was costing 'em a $1 a shot. That's the peanuts, Mister Editor, to what it's costing us taxpayers fer them Senators in Washington to talk so much. I was reading a piece last night on the high price of talk in the Senate. They was in session 290 days this last time and a copy of all their speeches weighed 112 pounds, filled 7,920 pages and used 12 million words. The feller writing this piece was comparing it with a standard size Bible that weighs two pounds and 10 ounces, has 1,149 pages, and less than 8 million words. If that was the end, things wouldn't be so bad, but all of it had to be printed in the Congressional Record at $85 a page. This feller went on to show that each Senator on the average talked enough to fill 78 pages, and one distinguished Senator used 309 pages. Getting it down to dollars and cents, it cost the taxpayers $26,265 just to put this one Senator's speeches in print. Putting the speeches of all of 'em in print for the last session cost the folks back home $672,000. I bring this item to the attention of the fellers at the country store Saturday night. Ed Doolittle claimed Senators was pickers alongside them diplomats in the State Department. He said he was reading a piece the other day where Russia owes us ten billion eight hundred million dollars and our striped pants boys offered to cross off the ten billion and settle for the eight hundred million. But up to now Russia is offering only three hundred million. Clem Webster allowed as how we better take it quick or they'd probably start charging us 6 per cent interest on the ten billion they don't aim to pay us. Zeke Grubb was in favor of making diplomats git a year's advance training working with a hunky mule. Zeke claims after a feller learns how to handle a stubborn, hunky mule he'd be just right to take on Russia. I think that's good advice, Mister Editor. Incidental, I've even heard that experience with mules is mighty good training fer getting along with wimmen. But I ain't endorsing it fer publication on account of my old lady might see this piece. Yours truly, Uncle Tim

Williams Must Watch His Statements

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
G. Mennen Williams has a habit to deal with if he wants to do well in his new job as Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs in the administration of John F. Kennedy. Put simply, Williams must change the habit of speaking his mind in public on whatever issue he wishes or any question that is put before him. For 12 years, Williams has been the public leader of the Democratic party in Michigan. As such, he had to answer primarily to himself for any view he might express on any issue. In short, Williams was the chief policy maker of the particular organization which he represented and as such he was a leader to be followed. In Washington, it is a different story. As a member of the Kennedy "team," Williams must be extremely cautious not to embarrass or offend the administration. His job, though it may truly deal with more important questions than he faced in Michigan and be of greater significance from the standpoint of world governmental affairs, is nevertheless that of an underling. That Williams recognizes the difficulty of his new role is certain. He has admitted he will miss the "individual eminence" which he had as governor. As he made the transition, Williams said he "can't say very much now because now I don't speak until I hear the leader speak." The adjustment is, of course, one which many people have made before Williams. But Williams served as a chief-lead for much longer than most who leave to become Indians in the war party of another. He also held a special position among Democrats and was even instrumental in helping his new boss get elected President. Still, there is no doubt that the habit of 12 years will be hard to break, even for a man of Williams' intellectual ability. Dignified Otis M. Smith, Michigan's Auditor General and the first Negro to be elected to statewide office, takes himself and his job seriously. Above all, he believes in his own real ability to do the job to which he was elected. Smith is proud to be the first of his race to attain such a high position, but he is also cognizant of the fact that it was ability and not inheritance that brought him to a position of leadership. He also seems to feel deeply the gratitude and humility toward the people who elected him that some politicians might sham. Smith compiled a distinguished record as an attorney, and as chairman of the Public Service Commission before Gov. G. Mennen Williams appointed him Auditor General to fill the vacancy created when Frank Szymanski left to take a Wayne County judgeship. Smith's election apparently came, not because of the fact that he is a Negro, nor in spite of it, but because voters felt he had demonstrated that he could do the job. "Yellow Jaundice," the liver-damaging ailment which is really infectious hepatitis under another name, hit a peak in Michigan during 1960. State health department officials said the disease should decrease slightly in 1961, if it runs true to its pattern of reaching a peak about every six or seven years. The more than 2,000 cases of the disease reported in the state last year came close to doubling the previous record, set in 1954. Michigan mirrored a national increase in the disease during 1960. Sanitation breakdowns in certain communities during an unusually wet spring season were largely to blame for the jump, officials said. Infectious hepatitis spreads through the intestinal-oral route, the doctors said. Best protection against the disease is a high degree of personal cleanliness, with frequent hand washings a necessity. Winter and spring, when family members are in frequent close contact, are the peak times for outbreaks.

From many telephone calls and personal questions asked me, I find that many a homemaker has misunderstood the instruction booklet that came with their household appliance. Every new appliance in the kitchen or laundry has a valuable "accessory" that families often lose after delivery. It is this instruction booklet.

Commercial companies spend much time and money to test equipment and work out detailed directions for operation. They know what is best for their products, and they offer this valuable information to customers in the form of compact instruction booklets.

As appliances become more automatic, more service probably will be required to keep them in working order. The instruction booklet, in the hands of a careful operator, can keep service calls to a minimum.

Booklets explain each new feature, such as a rotisserie attachment for an oven, special "pre-rinse" and "pots-and-pans" cycles on a dishwasher, and the "no-frost" system of a new refrigerator-freezer.

Instruction booklets specify requirements for proper installation, gas and electrical connections and water temperature and pressure. No appliance, no matter how automatic, can give top service if all basic requirements are not heeded.

The "service" section lists common problems which the homemaker often can remedy. Some problems sound simple, but servicemen make many calls to find an oven not operating because an automatic timer is set for "automatic" when it should be on "manual". An instruction booklet will suggest that if a refrigerator will not cool the cord may be disconnected from the wall socket. If a refrigerator is too cold, "junior" may have turned up the controls to freeze popples. If a garbage disposer stops suddenly, it may be overloaded and can be put into working order again by reducing the load and using the automatic reset button.

Additional information on appliances may be found in the "specification sheet" written for the particular model. Listed as essential information on construction and design details are such things as fuel requirements for a clothes dryer, method of "water fill" built into automatic washer and temperature of water needed by a dishwasher. Specification sheets should be kept near the appliance, not buried in a drawer. They can help both the homemaker and the service man.

Remember that appliances designed for 1961 are not the same as appliances produced in 1960. Many changes have been made. The homemaker is missing half the fun, excitement and advantage of owning an up-to-date appliance if she isn't using up-to-date methods in managing it.

BULEN TALKS Cars

TWO TYPES OF DEALERS
I recently heard a dealer acquaintance who had moved from a very large city to a medium size place explain the difference between the two.

He summed it up by saying that in his large city dealership he rarely knew his customers personally and almost never met them socially. But since moving to a smaller center the opposite was now true - he seldom DOESN'T know the people who are buying from him. Quite a few on a first name basis and many as personal friends.

He admitted that he now felt compelled to be scrupulously honest with his customers for the obvious reason that if he ran his business any other way, word would soon get around and his business would suffer.

This basic truth about the car business accounts for the fact that a "wheel and deal" dealer, to use the trade slang, can't operate successfully in a small town or city. He must pull buyers from miles around, usually on a basis of misleading price ads or similar gimmick claims.

It logically follows that since he doesn't expect to see his customers again (the distance involved quickly discourages driving back for service or complaints) this type of dealer considers his out-of-town buyers fair game for every type of corner cutting that will squeeze an extra dollar of profit out of the sale.

If you deal out of your own town or city with this type of operator on the understandable desire to "save" a few dollars, you are likely to regret it, as thousands of buyers who have will testify.

ALL TIME RECORD IN 1960
Chevrolet built 2,267,608 vehicles in 1960, breaking the 1955 record by 44,000 units. Of these, 1,830,029 were Passenger Cars. Impressive figures! Again in 1960 MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR by a margin of well over two hundred thousand.

If you haven't driven a 1961 Chevrolet or Corvair. Come in and let us show you why Chevrolet continues to enjoy America's preference. We'd like to show you, whether or not, you are in the market.

FRENCH CLUB

treasurer; Ramona Maytoreno, secretary, and Joyce DeLong, student council representative.

The club is restricted to students who have studied or are studying French. The members try to talk in French when the club meets and learn more about the country.

As a Christmas project this year, the club cancelled its usual Christmas party and used the money for a basket of food and clothing for a needy family.

The club's sponsor is Mrs. Leone Shaw.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

Appreciate The Nation's Pioneers

By Ilene Warren

On January 11, 1757, two hundred and four long years ago, Alexander Hamilton was born. This great man is little more than a name to many of us... he has rarely received the acclaim that he deserves. His influence was felt in many phases of the struggle to set up a stable government for the new United States of America. The monument in Old Trinity Churchyard carries a fitting tribute: "The patriot of incorruptible integrity; the soldier of approved valor; the statesman of consummate wisdom." Today we are somewhat prone to seeing only the characteristics of a person about which we can be critical - we have a tendency to do the same thing with the people about whom we study on the pages of history. Perhaps we seek these weaknesses because they make us feel a bit more content with our own failings. At any rate, we ought to take more time to study and appreciate those men who shaped their present and our future of this country. If you enjoy history, past and present, as I do, this is not a difficult task... once you can find or make the time to do it! Out of the many political criticisms last fall, I recall the questioning of the comparative youthfulness of the two presidential candidates... I recalled this last night, as I was reading about Alexander Hamilton who resigned from active political life at the ripe old age of 38 (although he continued to advise President Washington) and was only 47 when he was mortally wounded in the infamous duel with Aaron Burr. The fact is that many of the early patriots were young men... and they did a pretty good job, in spite of their youth... or because of it! On the other hand, we have that wonderful individual, Benjamin Franklin, who was in his 70's when he served his country so ably. Guess it takes a good mixture of age and youth to truly accomplish the tasks that need to be done.
