Vassar Rolls Over Cass City, 73-53

The Vassar Vulcans, third team in Class B in state rankings, lived up to their publicity Friday as they toyed with Cass City while posting an easy 73-53 victory on their home floor.

The Vulcans were off to an early lead and kept stretching their margin until the final period when Coach Mike Nievadomski opened the gates of mercy and flooded the floor with substitutes. Coach Irv Clasen also used the game to experiment as everyone suited got in the game.

The only bright spot in the game for Cass City was the fine game turned in by Tim Anties, who outscored and outplayed Tom Temple, ace guard for the Vulcans.

Temple scored 22 points in the first meeting of the two schools, but Friday Anties held him to just seven points while scoring 18 for Cass City.

From the Editor's Corner

Authorities for Michigan Week have changed the method of drawing for the annual mayors' exchange, Monday, May 22, so that towns of nearly equal size will exchange.

Cass City has drawn Berrien Springs, a community of 1,958 persons located at the extreme southwest tip of the state, about halfway between Niles and St. Joseph.

Gagetown's president will travel in the same direction when he visits Middleville, a Barry county community of 1,201 persons, located about 25 miles north of Battle Creek.

Grant VanWinkle writes to friends in Cass City that the best fishing is over in Florida now, but judging by what he had caught during the season, even a poor day would be acceptable to most snow-bound anglers. Here's his score: 10 Soil Cat, 52 Reds and 186 Trout (two-pound average) for a total of 248 fish.

Our congratulations to Cass City High School musicians for another fine performance at the Senior High Solo and Ensemble Festival at Mt. Morris Saturday.

In its second year of operation the Cass City Independent Cage League is expanding operations. League authorities announced Tuesday that an all-star team will be selected to play one of the top quintets out of Saginaw Saturday, Mar. 4.

The game will be played at Cass City High School and we'll have complete details in next week's paper.

Goslin Wins Nomination at Gagetown Caucus
Julius Goslin defeated A. J. Mosack in the feature battle of the Gagetown village caucus held Monday when nearly all of the nominations for village offices were contested. A total of 119 electors was present.

Prior to Monday's caucus, Mr. Mosack said that if he were defeated Monday he would not try to win the election on slips.

In other balloting, Hugh Corner was nominated for clerk over Madeline Sontag, 82-34, and Agnes Corner was without opposition for treasurer. Joseph Dann was nominated for assessor over Charles Grady, 56-54.

All three trustee nominations were contested. The results were: Walter Zuraw over Mae Fischer, 58-56; William Burrows over Dr. June MacRae, 96-21, and Larry Cummings over Mr. Dann, 62-54.

Nominate Trustees in Close Balloting

Record Village Vote Cast

A record 277 of the village's 576 voters jammed the polls at the Cass City Municipal Building to name village candidates in the primary election Monday.

The vote was the largest on record. Voters were attracted to the polls by the race for council seats where six candidates were seeking the three available positions.

Leading all of the trustee candidates was Leo Ware, who polled 178 votes.

The remainder of the vote was so close that any of the 12 persons who were turned away from the polls because they were not registered in the village could have swung the election.

Incumbent Trustee Lee Rabi-deau was nominated with 144 votes. He was closely trailed by Jerome Root Jr., who won a place on the ballot with 142 votes.

Harold Guinther was defeated by a margin of one vote when he totaled 141 in his bid for a trustee post. Other candidates were Gerald Priesskorn with 79 votes and Jim Champion with 71 votes.

Mental Illness Big Problem In Tuscola County and State

"One of the hardest parts of the work in the probate office is handling cases of mental illness," Judge Henderson Graham told members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

Not only is it tragic, Judge Graham explained, but it is also very expensive to State taxpayers.

In Tuscola county the handling of mental cases cost $32,815 last year in addition to state funds used. And the mentally ill cost Michigan taxpayers $74 million each year (about 18.8 per cent of the state budget.)

Even this whopping figure is not enough to do the job properly. At the present time there are eight mentally retarded persons waiting to be admitted to Lapeer State Hospital, Judge Graham explained. About $80 million is needed for expansion.

Before a mentally ill person is committed they must file papers in probate court. The probate court handles all of the mentally ill persons in the county except the criminally insane. The latter cases are heard in Circuit Court.

For the purpose of commitment, mentally retarded persons, alcoholics and drug addicts are judged mental illnesses.

The most frequent case and the one that costs the county the most money is the alcoholic who may be committed and released several times.

Bright Spot

One bright spot in the picture is the rate of cure now being effected in State hospitals. Sixty-two per cent of the patients committed are eventually cured . . . and, disregarding cases of alcoholism, only two of these disturbed patients have had to be re-committed, Judge Graham said.

The guest speaker was introduced by A. J. Stevens, program chairman.

New '61 Chevy with Jet-smooth ride!

Impala 4-Door Sedan—Jet-smooth traveler that rivals the luxury cars in everything but price

The '61 Chevy loves to go because it goes so well. Puffs along pavements like a happy tabby. Takes rough roads in stride and all roads in style.

Just why does a Jet-smooth Chevy treat riders as royalty as the high-priced luxury cars? It all came about through a delightful blend of Full Coil suspension, precision-balanced wheels, unique chassis cushioning, and a superb Body by Fisher insulated to hush away road sounds. All this adds up to less sway, less bounce, less dip, less dive, less tilt, less noise, less... well you name it.

Now combine this Jet-smooth ride with conveniences to pamper you and roominess to relax in. Add a full measure of quiet good looks. Voila, you've got Chevy's formula.

And the proof is in the riding. When you sample a Jet-smooth Chevy at your Chevrolet dealer's we think you'll find it just to your taste.

Over A Thousand

Boats in County

A year-end report issued by James M. Hare, Secretary of State, shows that Tuscola County has 1,341 of the third of a million motorboats registered in Michigan.

"Total watercraft registrations, including 11,182 boats licensed by persons residing outside of Michigan for use in the Great Lakes State, reached 343,968 during 1960," Hare said.

Hare attributed much of the increasing boat registrations to the fact that watercraft has replaced automobiles as status symbols on many levels of American life.

The 11,182 registrations of watercraft owned by out-of-state owners include only those belonging to boat enthusiasts who do not maintain a permanent mooring location in Michigan. Boaters who own lake cottages or who have marine facilities are included in the county figure given above, Hare pointed out.

More than 1,000,000 books go out of America's 7,500 public libraries daily.

MISCELLANEOUS

The fact that the automobile is so much a part of everybody's existence these days is shown by the number of human situations associated with it.

A city commissioner of Muskegon, Michigan, has raised a fuss about traffic jams and bottle-necks on the main street being caused by over-affectionate wives. He says that husbands being driven to work by their wives receive such long, tender and lingering farewells from their mates that the traffic gets piled up for blocks.

A policeman in a large eastern city questioned a man he came upon removing a set of tires from a car. "Jim asked me to change the tires," the man stated. The policeman replied as he escorted him to the police station that the car belonged to him, that his name wasn't Jim, and that he didn't recall issuing those instructions.

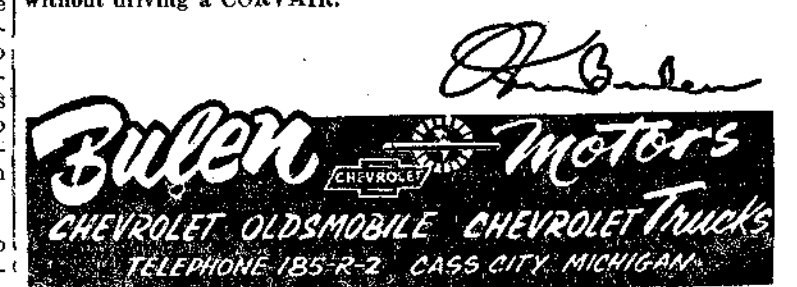

All the warnings about being ultra careful when driving take on new significance when you think about this piece of scientific research: The human eye blinks once every three seconds or twenty times a minute. At 60 MPH this means that a motorist is travelling about 18 yards blind, or one tenth of every mile, or one mile in every ten!

Finally, there was a taxi driver bringing a young fellow and his girl home from a dance when his old hack started having transmission trouble. "What a horrible clutch!" he exclaimed at last.

"And what business is it of yours," came the reply from the back seat.

If you haven't driven a 1961 CORVAIR you don't know how a compact should drive, ride and handle. As was said last year, "the only thing wrong with the Corvair was it was 5 years ahead of its time." Judging from sales, its time has come. Don't buy any "Compact" without driving a CORVAIR.

New Society Tells Officers; Board Members

R. O. Kern, Caro, W. A. Scott, Caro, and D. A. Crawford, Unionville, have accepted invitations to serve on the Board of Directors of the Tuscola County Association for Retarded Children, President Don Stamats announced to the group Thursday evening.

They will serve together with the officers of the association, Robert Reich, vice-president, Unionville; Mrs. Vernon Henrichs, secretary, Caro; William Andrus, treasurer, Cass City, and Stamats.

The Tuscola Chapter, organized in December 1960, is affiliated with both the state and national groups whose aims, stated in their constitutions, are "to promote the general welfare of mentally retarded persons."

One of the first goals of the Tuscola Association is the establishment of a training center for retarded children in Tuscola county. Funds for the project are being raised by the group and must be secured by voluntary contributions since tax funds are not available for this type work.

Scott explained to the group the distinction between its proposed school and the special education program which will be voted on by school districts in the county this summer.

Other action taken by the association included formation of a committee to work with parents of retarded children attending the Huron County Training Center at Kilmanagh in sponsoring a project for the support of that school, Everett Bosh, Clio, and Mrs. Harold Fessler, Caro, were appointed to serve as committee members.

Since our fresh vegetables are not as plentiful now, let's talk about our standby vegetable, the onion.

Even if onions did not have a single vitamin or mineral, which they do, they would still be one of our most valuable and favorite foods. Just let the teasing aroma of onions drift through the kitchen and the family begins sniffing and wants to know what is cooking that smells so good.

The Yellow Globe onions are in very good supply right now and that is good for they make such good eating in so many different ways. This variety of onion is usually strong flavored, has a yellow skin and white flesh and is of medium size.

To obtain the best onions, look for those which are bright, clean, hard, well-shaped and have hard skins. They should be stored in a dry cool place to prevent sprouting.

Onions have been making strong men weep for many, many years. But, peeling them under water will help prevent this characteristic. Rubbing celery salt on your hands will help remove the onion odor. Run the paring knife through a raw potato to remove the odor from the knife.

Onions are good most any way. To test their versatility, just read a cook book. Onion soup, fried onions, stuffed, scalloped, stewed, creamed, etc., etc.

Here is a new onion recipe you might like to try:

Onion Shortcake

Filling
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 egg (slightly beaten)
3/4 cup sweet or sour cream
6 medium onions

Sprinkle the sliced onions with salt and place in frying pan with melted butter. Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally until onions are very tender, but not browned. Cool.

Shortcake
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 egg (slightly beaten)
1 1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 tablespoon baking powder

Sift dry ingredients, work in fat, combine beaten egg and milk, then add to dry ingredients, stirring only until mixed.

Spread in a deep greased pie plate or baking dish, cover with the cooked onions. Mix the remaining 1/2 egg with the cream and pour over the layer of onions. Cook in a 425 degree oven for 25 minutes, or until shortcake is done. Serve hot with your favorite meat dish.

Whoever runs from an enemy permits an enemy to run his life.

Pay little attention to the man who says he never had a chance—he expects it to be handed to him on a platter.

Always take advantage of the little opportunities that come along and you won't have long to wait for the big ones.

Take time off occasionally from worrying about the faults of others and try to eliminate a few faults of your own.

A complete discussion of the proposed constitutional convention by Circuit Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay City highlighted a combined meeting of the Cass City Rotary and Zonta clubs Tuesday night, Feb. 14, at the New Gordon Hotel.

An estimated 70 persons heard Judge Smith talk what he expected from the "con-con" if it is given the approval of the voters and what he felt should be some of the changes involved.

Willis Campbell and Dick Erikson led the singing in a musical program that featured Roger Parrish.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. James Bauer, Zonta president.

Rotary President Cliff Croft introduced the guests.

A question and answer period followed the address.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

It's Time to Start Dreaming of Gardens

By Ilene Warren

The first morning after a snow-fall, our yard is beautifully covered with a soft carpet of white snow that is smooth and void of tracks... but not for long! Soon the cats make little tracks around the house and down to the river -- and if the dogs are let out of their pen soon the whole yard is criss-crossed with pawprints. Speaking of prints in the snow, do you remember how to make an angel-in-the-snow? When I was a little girl, my sister and I would find a place where the snow was untouched and there we would create our angels-in-the-snow. Children still make them; last winter, my niece Jan carefully instructed me how to do it. While some adults may not like to see the snow fall, it certainly delights the children.

This is the time of year when we get a yen to start searching the seed catalogs and to begin dreaming of the fine garden we're going to have this year or all the fancy shrubbery we'd like to have. When we started to build the section of the property where we decided to have the house was clear of trees and brush but there were a lot of little bushes that my mother called shin-tang. (When the fellow from the State Wildlife Habitat Program came to plan our tree planting, he said he couldn't think of a better name for it!) The first summer we lived here, we cleared most of the bushes out but I left a few of the larger ones, thinking that they looked rather pretty with their little yellow blossoms in early summer and green foliage. Friends who visited us from Detroit admired our rolling vista (the natural lay of the former pasture) and were curious about the pretty little shrubbery. One sad fact about out shin-tang shrubbery, though, was that the few bushes we left did not survive the following year. Left to grow in clusters in their wild state, they thrived (and still do in the areas outside the fenced-in yard) but separated and left singly or even in twos they soon died.

Since those days long ago (nearly seven years), we have planted a few trees and some shrubbery. It's been a slow process. The birches we transplanted from the "hinterland" -- some of the evergreens were given to us by Frank Sheufler of Owendale. The Hopsa Crab, a Niobe Willow and the Chinese Elms we purchased. The first tree I transplanted was a little poplar. My brother Jack laughed at me and asked, "Can't you find something better than a weed?" So I went back to the woods and transplanted a maple and an oak. But I'm still fond of my crooked, little poplar.

Mentioning the oak tree reminds me of the difficult time I had obtaining one. We have a huge oak at the back of our property. It's been a favorite spot of mine since I was a child... and when Ron and I first thought about buying this piece of land we thought we might build near the oak. Practicality (accessibility) forbade that. However, following Mohammed's theory, I decided to bring the oak to the house. Armed with my trusty shovel I hiked back to the big, old mother tree. I chose a nice sturdy sapling about five feet tall. If any of you have tried to transplant an oak, you know how much success I had trying to sever the roots with a shovel. Instead of a sapling, I brought back a seedling! A tiny treelet about 15 inches high -- even then the roots were of good size. Now, however, my oak is branching and is about eight feet high. I have been told that it's planted too close to the house (it's about 20 feet away) but I'm not too worried -- as slowly as that oak grows, our house will be gone before the oak's big enough to do any damage!

A week or so ago, I saw something that reminded me of an old-time country store: Barney Freiburger had a long bunch of bananas hanging in his store. I haven't seen bananas hanging like that since I was a youngster and saw them in the store at Shabbona. Barney said it'd been a long time, too, since he'd seen them in a bunch like that.

State Checking Election Procedures

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
The complicated problems surrounding elections in Michigan are getting a close look from the Elections Division of State's office.

It's not a question of honesty, just procedure.

Robert M. Montgomery, the former state legislator who directs the Elections Division, says every city, village, township and county in the state will be checked before the inquiry is finished.

He says the job may take two years, or it may take three, but the idea is to look over the procedures used by the various units. The study got underway shortly after the election of Nov. 8, 1960. Montgomery's division is the only state agency which has any administrative supervision over local election officials. But it also lacks any real power to compel the local authorities to make any changes, except court action in the case of wrongdoing.

Generally, there is no dishonesty among local election officials and workers, Montgomery says. And full-time clerks of local units of governments are quick to make sure their operations conform to the election laws, he said.

In the smaller units of government, however, a clerk is often only a parttime worker. The complicated election laws are easily misunderstood and records sometimes go awry.

Training sessions are held and procedures are checked before election times. But considering there are more than 1,500 precincts in the state, there is much room for training.

Publications from the Elections Division detailing methods of operation and changes in election law are also circulated.

Chief aim of the overall checking operation that is going on is to get elections authorities off on the right foot and familiarize them with the proper steps to take.

Besides helping the local officials to do their best at election time, the Elections Division has functions of its own to perform, and also acts as a staff for the Board of State Canvassers. When elections irregularities do crop up, either through design or as is more often the case, through simple mistakes, Montgomery's division investigates and takes steps to correct them.

Commercial exploitation of state-owned recreational land creates questions that will mount and multiply as Michigan's economy grows and diversifies.

On the one side are those who say woods and waters should be conserved to the utmost for pure enjoyment.

On the other side are the proponents of growth, some of them selfish and others seeking help for the state economy, who insist that a regulated program of mineral and timber use on public lands will have no ill effects.

Like most public questions, this one is far more gray than black or white.

Extreme viewpoints exist on both sides. There is sentiment in some places that any oil-drilling, iron-mining or timber-cutting is nothing more than a rape of the wilderness.

There is also feeling among some that refusal to permit reasonable exploitation is blind adherence to the status quo and a total disregard of economic health.

State agencies, chiefly the Conservation Department, are caught in the middle of the hassle because they must decide when, where and how any commercial operation on state lands will take place.

The "reasonable use" policy has long been followed in decisions by state officials. But determining just what is "reasonable use," particularly when subjected to barrages of argument from various quarters with opposing interests, is a problem that can only become tougher as the population, economy and pressure of business increase and become more complex.

The happy medium between conservationists and the tourist industry on one side and business and industry on the other is a shifting and elusive goal.

A total of about 750 miles of the nearly 2,000 miles of state highway in the Upper Peninsula now have the "frost free" designation, officials say.

Improved trucking facilities mean a better--and often cheaper--life for northern Michigan residents, the Highway Department says.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

We got a new feller in our neighborhood and I think he's going to fit right good. Me and Ed Doolittle went over to see him the other night and he was telling us he's got a sure fire trick to fetch rain. All he had to do to get rain, he said, was to fergit and leave some sacks of cement outdoors. Claimed he got about a half inch to the sack. We're mighty glad to git this feller out here. Now if we can git somebody to furnish the cement, we got the crops practically laid by.

A whole bunch of wimmen folks was calling on this feller's wife when we was out there. Coming home, Ed allowed as how he was the only dirt farmer to ever break the sound barrier, claims he got two words in edgewise while talking to the wimmen.

Me and Ed could've give this feller a heap of good advice on how to git along out here, but he talked like he'd been around some himself. As in most communities, the people out here with the narrowest minds has got the widest mouths. I try to keep away from neighborhood fusses. I've found out that it's a heap easier to stay out than git out. Of course, secretly they've got a few scattered around out here that, if they'd break a leg, I'd rather it was their neck. But I just keep these tender sentiments to myself.

I was noting in the papers this week a couple of important scientific items. A history professor from the University of North Carolina named Dr. Crittenden says the typical mountaineer has disappeared from the mountains in this country. I ain't surprised none to hear this scientific fact. Them mountaineers has been migrating fer years to radio stations to sing hillbilly songs. I reckon radio finally got 'em all. If perferer Crittenden will start a movement to git 'em back to the hills, I'll do all I can to help.

The second item came from a feller named Dr. Gans of London who claims the 2,400-year-old habit of doctors examining the patient's tongue is a complete waste of time. Fer most of my life the standard examination fer all doctors was to take your temperature, count your pulse, thump your stomach, and look at your tongue. When he got through he could tell whether you was well, bilious, or dead. And I ain't surprised none at this new discovery by Dr. Gans. As a matter of fact, Mister Editor, I ain't surprised at nothing no more. As far as I'm concerned, they can take the exclamation point out of the English language.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Road Money Sent to Village

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections are now being distributed to villages and counties, John C. Mackie, commissioner, announced this week.

Cass City's share of $42,238,399 collected for the fourth quarter is $3,558. Other area communities collected the following amounts: Caro, $6,001; Gagetown, $1,249; Kingston, $909, and Owendale, $997.

Tuscola county received $145,885. Huron county's share was $184,524, and Sanilac county received $140,262.

Collections increased some $516,035 over the amount collected in the same period in 1959, Mackie said.

Collections are distributed under a formula that gives 47 per cent to the State Highway Department; 35 per cent to counties for use on county roads, and 18 per cent to incorporated cities and villages for roads and streets.

Army Promotion For Lyle Ludlow

Lyle H. Ludlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Ludlow, Cass City, recently was promoted to specialist four in Germany, where he is a member of the 547th Engineer Battalion.

The 25-year-old soldier is a 1953 graduate of Cass City High School and a 1957 graduate of Michigan State University.

and then returning home without calling classes or giving instructions. The total enrollment is 12 pupils, all of whom live off the state and county roads and are snow bound.

Five officers were named to succeed themselves at the village caucus held on Thursday night. They are: president, George W. West; clerk, Cameron M. Wallace; treasurer, Andrew N. Bigelow; assessor, Harry L. Hunt, and trustee for two years, John A. Sandham. Other trustees are: Audley H. Kinsaid and Fredrick H. Pinney. G. A. Tindale presided as chairman of the caucus and G. M.
