Mar. 8 will be the last day to take taxes for Novesta township. LeRoy Kilbourn, treasurer. 2-23-2

The Cass City Village Council adopted the highest budget in the history of the village Tuesday night in its regular session at the Municipal Building when trustees approved estimated expenditures of $119,250.48.

The figure compares to the $110,479.27 spent last year and $106,731.72 budgeted. The increase will be used to help pay bills for work completed in 1960.

Nearly $18,000 is owed in back bills. The Permutt Company has $3,489.00 coming and C. R. Miller Co. $3,810.70 for resurfacing work completed in the village. The village owes C. R. Hunt $5,595.78 for street work in the village.

Village taxes will jump some $5,000 this year. All of the increase will come from the increase in assessed valuation as the mill rate was set at 15... the same as it has been since 1948 when 15 mills was raised. Much of the increase came from the addition of General Cable Corporation to the tax rolls.

Two Injured in Accident on M-81

Peter Micile, 22, of Saginaw and Norman Chrzowski, 23, of Midland were injured in an accident on M-81 in Watrousville Sunday afternoon involving a Cass City resident.

Mr. Micile suffered cuts and bruises and a sprained back and Mr. Chrzowski suffered cuts and bruises. They were treated at Saginaw General Hospital.

The accident occurred when Mr. Micile failed to stop before entering the highway and collided with David H. McGrath, 19, of Cass City, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Following the crash the cars rammed the home of Howard Cryderman, near the intersection.

All-Star Team to Face Saginaw Five

A Cass City all-star team will be the underdog when it meets Brinker Lumber of Saginaw Saturday night at Cass City High School.

The 15 players selected from the six teams in the Cass City Independent Loop will be facing a club that is unbeaten in two years of regular season play in the top cage league in Saginaw. The visiting club features a starting line-up with four players six feet or over. Heading the list is Willie Thompson, six-foot, five-inch center, who boasted a 20-point average in college before joining Brinkers.

Others include Ron Frost, six foot, six inches and Dick Yates, six-foot, 3 1/2 inches. The "shorties" on the team are the guards who stand at six feet and five inches, 10 inches, respectively.

Local Players

To try to contain this outstanding aggregation, 15 of the best in the league will perform. From league leading Mac and Leo come Clare Comment, John

For Improvements in Cass City

Council Considers Chamber's Request

A discussion of parking enforcement and alley repair was touched off Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council by a letter from the Cass City Chamber of Commerce board.

The board asked for consideration of three measures. They are: That the alleys behind the business district be blacktopped, drained and made one way with painted parking lines.

That the parking area between alleys and Main Street be blacktopped with painted parking lines.

That the parking laws be enforced.

One of the requests will likely result in immediate action. The council is expected to start rigid enforcing of the parking laws.

Action on the other two requests is more uncertain. There is definitely not enough money available for both jobs.

It is likely that first efforts will be made to start surfacing the sides of the road from the alleys to Main Street with curb and gutter. However, no definite action on this part of the request was taken.

Street Signs
Street signs, badly needed improvement for the village, is in the wind.

New signs, erected on posts, are under consideration for Main and Seeger streets. Cost will be a little less than $900 per intersection not counting the time needed for installation. The council will invite a salesman to appear at the next meeting of the trustees.

On the remainder of the streets, the village is considering repainting and repairing signs at a cost of $1.75 per sign, again not counting the cost of taking the signs down and replacing them.

Other Business
Because of the growing amount of work required of the assessor, trustees voted to boost the salary to $400 yearly from $350 yearly.

Discussion concerning village wages was held but no action taken because of business conditions.

Cass City to Play Friday in District Tourney

Cass City will play the winner of the Elktion-Pigeon-Bay Port-Caro game Friday, Mar. 10, at 8:30 p.m. in the district basketball tournament at Caro High School.

In drawings at Caro Tuesday, the other Class B pairing was Bad Axe against Vassar Friday at 7 p.m.

The winners of the Friday tilt will meet for the championship Saturday.

Also at Caro will be the District Class D pairings. Kingston will play Unionville Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Jwongzong meets Peck Thursday at 7 p.m. The remaining team in the race for Class D honors is Unionville which drew a bye.

Mrs. Martin, 92 Feted on Birthday

Mrs. Jennie Martin celebrated her 92nd birthday Sunday when 23 relatives and friends attended a party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Donald Miljore of Gagetown.

Of her nine children, all were able to attend except a son, Clifford, of Cass City.

Mrs. Martin received many gifts, cards and a gift of money. Mrs. Martin comes from a long-lived family. Her brother, John Doerr of Cass City, is 94 and her sister is 90.

Mrs. Martin was born in Canada and moved to Cass City when two years old. Her husband died in 1918.

A lunch was served the guests.

Hospital Auxiliary To Raise Funds

The regular meeting of the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary was held Monday evening at the hospital.

President Mrs. Almer Krueger presided at the meeting attended by 38 members. The group voted to have each member entertain four persons at a coffee or brunch during March and April as a fund raising project.

Another project of the Auxiliary is the donation of a puppet to each child that is a patient in the hospital. Since the opening of the hospital, 50 puppets have been distributed.

From the Editor's Corner

We expect that General Telephone Co. will receive few objections from area residents over its proposed phone rate increase.

But, if our memory is correct, it will be the first request for a general boost in rates since 1953. At that time the service was much poorer and the request was received with waves of indignation. Committees from various areas served by the company appeared before the Utilities Commission protesting the boost.

Since that time, lines have been overhauled, new phones installed and the way prepared for dial which General is promising by the end of 1962.

It may be that there is a recession nationally, but it seems to be having little effect in Cass City. More business activity has been reported this week than has been reported in Cass City in many a moon.

Here's a run-down: Asher's Men's Wear opens new, larger store. Cass City Floral opens outlet on Main Street. Bob McArthur buys Frantz Food Market and Edward Hahn becomes real estate salesman in area for Zemke Realty.

We can remember when there would hardly be that much business activity in Cass City in a year.

Scouting is more than attending meetings in Cass City and spending a week at camp in summer, we discovered as we reviewed former scoutmaster Keith McConkey's scout notes.

In a year the scouts attended two camporees, a pair of college football games, toured the Dow Chemical plant at Midland, participated in the Scout fair, swam at the Saginaw YMCA, helped park cars at football games, placed stickers on doors in a get-out-the-vote campaign, watered trees on Main Street and attended the national jamboree. All of this in addition to canoe trips, several hikes and camp-outs and about 50 regular meetings. You can see that adults assisting in the program deserve a vote of thanks from the community for devoting the time necessary to foster such a program.

Two Injured in Auto Accident

Two passengers were injured when a car driven by Mrs. Erwin Binder went out of control on M-20 Saturday morning and rolled over, six miles east of Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. Binder, son David, and three other passengers were en route to Central Michigan University when Mrs. Binder's car went on the shoulder of the road in a snowstorm.

Treated at Central Michigan Community Hospital were Suzy Soule of Tyre and Welthy Schadd of Filion. Both suffered shoulder injuries and cuts and bruises.

Sara K. Hunt Earns Rollins' Highest Honor

Sara K. Hunt, a Rollins College student from Cass City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hunt, has been honored by membership in Libra. This is the highest honor a Rollins woman may receive.

She is one of three women on campus who were tapped in a surprise ceremony last week. These deeds are chosen on the basis of high scholarship, outstanding character, good citizenship, extracurricular activities and their contributions to the college.

Miss Hunt, who was chosen last year to attend American University on the Washington Semester Plan, is president of the Human Relations Club and a member of the Chapel Staff.

A member of Chi Omega, she has served as secretary and vice-president of her sorority. A sociology and anthropology major, Miss Hunt plans to go into social work after graduation.

Grand Opening for Two New Stores

Two new stores are announcing grand openings in this issue of the Chronicle. The stores are Asher's Men's Wear and Cass City Floral.

Asher's have moved from their former location at the corner of Main and Leach streets to the former post office building.

Alden Asher, owner, says that much new stock has been added in the new, larger location.

He is offering free refreshments to celebrate the opening, as well as several grand opening specials.

The Warren Kelleys have moved the showroom and gift items of Cass City Floral to the location formerly used by Asher's. Mr. Kelley said that the new location enables them to show their expanded gift line.

To encourage everyone to come in and see their new store, the Kelleys are giving away a free carnation to every lady visitor during the grand opening.

WSC Meets at R. D. Keating Home

Mrs. William Wetters told 16 members of the Cass City Woman's Study Club her experiences in court when she served as a member of the jury.

Mrs. Wetters was substituting as program chairman for Mrs. Marie Bigelow who was ill and unable to attend. The meeting was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. D. Keating.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Keith McConkey Mar. 14. It will be "Bible Day" and the Rev. John Fish will be the speaker.

Refreshments were served.

Foul Foul Shooting In Hawks' Defeat

Sandusky turned the tables on Cass City Friday when the Redskins scored a narrow 67-64 victory over the Hawks at Sandusky. In the first meeting of the year between the two teams, Cass City won an easy victory. The defeat was the fourth this year for the Hawks by margins of six points or less.

Among the heartbreakers have been a two-point loss to Frankenthuth and a one-point loss to Bad Axe. The loss brings Cass City's record to five wins and 10 losses for the year with one game, against Bad Axe, left to play in the regular season.

An old bugaboo of this year's squad rose up to haunt them again against Sandusky. Excessive fouling and inability to cash in on their own charity heaves cost the Hawks the game.

Cass City counted 27 field goals to only 23 for Sandusky. But the Redskins converted 21 of 28 free throw tries, while the best the Hawks could do was 10 of 18.

The game was close all the way.

In these days of ever increasing population and bulging schools, the story of crowded classrooms and inadequate school facilities is being told so often that many people doubtlessly become a bit weary of it and perhaps even immune to its effect.

The Cass City School Study Committee has felt that one of its functions should be to learn what the real situation is in our own schools - just how adequate our facilities are and where a space shortage really exists, or is likely soon to exist.

First impressions might be that no critical problem exists here. We have no half-day sessions, no classes being held in storerooms, corridors or church basements and, with few exceptions, no very overcrowded rooms.

In spite of this apparent lack of a space problem, the committee's study has indicated that there is a classroom shortage and that this condition will become more serious within a short time.

School History

To understand the situation properly, it might be helpful to trace the development of our present school plant. Not too many years ago, the entire Cass City school system, kindergarten through 12th grade, was housed in what is commonly called now the high school building. This was constructed in 1926. We are told that when this building was planned many townspeople objected that it was larger than the town would ever need. As the school population increased, however, the need for more space was evident and in 1949 the first part of the present elementary school was erected. This made possible the transfer of a part of the elementary school to the fourth, fifth and sixth grades still remained in the old building. Again, as additional space was needed, an extension of the elementary building was authorized in 1955. Once again a portion of the elementary school was left in the high school building. With the passing of a few years the pinch was again felt and another addition to the elementary school was voted. This addition, four classrooms and a library, is currently in the process of being completed and the first students will move into it within two weeks. Again the additional facilities are not sufficient to care for the entire grade school enrollment. At this writing there are three elementary grades in the high school building. Plans call for one of these to be transferred to the latest addition. The other three rooms will be needed to care for expanded grades in the elementary school. Hence, two rooms in the high school building will again next year be used for elementary grades and as the bulge of higher class enrollments in the lower grades moves up (there will be four kindergarten and four first grade sections next fall) there will again be a shortage of space. It is interesting to note that in spite of three separate building programs for the elementary school through the years, at no time has the so-called high school building been available for exclusive high school use.

Further evidences of coming Concluded on page eight.

Ho Hum Dump Again

The last meeting of the village council before new trustees take office ended about the same as the first one started... a discussion on what to do about the village dump.

This time Elkland township got into the act when Supervisor Ed Golding and Trustee John Marshall appeared before the council Tuesday night at the Municipal Building and offered to share in the cost of maintaining the dump.

The board's preference is to pay a fee rather than participate in caring for the dump or owning the land.

New Site
The township's offer of aid does nothing to solve the basic problem facing the village... a new dump site.

The dump has been discussed informally for four or five years and seriously for two years. Councilmen have tried in vain to find a suitable location... who wants a dump on or near their property?

The present dump is full and exceedingly expensive to maintain as bulldozers are needed at regular intervals to push back the debris so a few more loads can be hauled in. This year $500 has been budgeted for the work.

One site northwest of Cass City has been offered and will be investigated by a committee appointed by President C. R. Hunt. It includes B. A. Calka and Leo Ware from the council and Mr. Golding and Mr. Marshall from the Elkland Township Board.

The committee is to report at the next session of the council and the new council will start the year the way this year's council started in March of 1960... discussing the dump.

Save Ironing Time With These Tips

How you actually do the ironing will determine the results as well as the time it takes. Did you know, for example, that if you wiggle the point of the iron, it will make tiny wrinkles?

Have you ever tried pressing a pleated skirt? It seems to take forever, whereas if you had spent a few minutes with needle and thread prior to washing, putting in two rows of loose stitches around the skirt, it would be an easy matter to press them in!

Avoid Ironing

You can save time ironing by not having to iron! If you have a dryer, be there to remove the clothes right after the time is up. If clothes do not stand, piled on top of each other, many of them need no ironing at all.

Drip-dry clothes can be finger pressed when they're put on a hanger. Few will need any ironing at all with this treatment and even the touch-up may be confined to a minute per garment.

Veils, ribbons and laces do not need the regular iron. If they're damp, they can be run over a light bulb for "ironing."

Trousers hung from a line should be pinned from the cuffs rather than the waist. The weight of the garment actually pulls out wrinkles while they dry.

Iron Smoothly

When you do have to iron, use a smooth gliding motion. If the ironing is done with the thread of the garment, the finished job is smoother.

If you have just stacks of clothing to iron, you may place hand towels, handkerchiefs and scarves smoothly on the outside of the bath tub to dry and they will be quite smooth when they are dry.

Corduroy will not be harsh when ironed if you press over a hairy cloth.

Farm Work Week Needs
Shortening, It Seems

As the work week in industry is shortened, there will be increasing pressure to lessen the work week on the farm for all its members, Dr. Kathleen A. Johnston, head of the Department of Equipment and Family Housing at Purdue University, predicts.

Dr. Johnston is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living, a non-profit organization devoted to the study and perfection of farm methods.

"It is difficult to hire human help for the home," Dr. Johnston explained, "but the mechanical advances in farming can be matched in the work of the house. However, it means the same thing—farm mechanization means—higher capitalization, better management of time, materials and machines, and maintenance of the equipment."

Last year a study was made in 50 counties in Virginia to determine the impact of a working wife on a farm family.

"The study points up that whether the wife is employed part or full time out of the home, she still has all or most of the homemaking activities and community activities the unpaid wife has. She accomplishes this by normally working a 72 to 77 hour week—or a 13 to 14 hour work day.

Gate Hinges

Front axle of an old auto, cut in half, and drilled to take bolts can be used as shown above to make excellent and serviceable hinges for heavy farm gates.

Fault-finding is easy—cultivate the habit of seeing the good in people.

Might never makes right, but at the start it appears to make good.

George W. Fox Dies Saturday

George W. Fox of Deford died Saturday at Hills and Dales General Hospital. He had been ill for several months and had been a patient in the hospital four days.

The Rev. Alan Weeks officiated at the funeral service Tuesday at the Deford Methodist church, of which Mr. Fox was a member. Burial was in the Fairview cemetery at Dansville.

Mr. Fox was born April 13, 1888, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox. He married Lucile Ostrander Aug. 8, 1916. He moved to Deford in September, 1958, from Lansing. Mr. Fox was formerly supervisor of a dining room at a college dormitory.

He is survived by his wife and a son, Norman B. Fox of Grand Lodge.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Use Stretcher For Starched Dollies, Crocheted Pieces

DOLLIES for table settings and other decorative uses around the home are very pretty provided they have that lacy, starched look. How can this best be achieved?

For these crocheted pieces, especially when you have a number of them, a stretcher greatly simplifies the finishing of the laundered or starched pieces. As many as eight or ten pieces can be stretched on this at one time. An electric fan speeds drying, too.

Making a Stretcher

To make the stretcher, select a piece of 3/4-inch plywood about 2 inches larger than the place mat. Draw an outline of the mat on the board and measure the circumference of the drawing. Count the total number of loops around the perimeter of one mat. Divide the number of loops into the measured circumference of the mat to determine how far apart to place the nails.

Before inserting the nails, lightly mark off the spaces with a pencil. It may take several tries before you end up with a pencil mark for each loop of the mat.

Once you've tried simple but tested methods for laundering, starching and stretching crocheted dollies and other decorative pieces, chances are you'll use them more often.

Use 3/4 to 1 inch rustproof nail such as escutcheon nails. Drive the nail into the board about 1/2-inch deep. The center of the board may be cut out, if desired, to speed air circulation through the mats.

For one of a kind mats, outline the crocheted piece on white paper or on a piece of unbleached domestic muslin.

Use Heavy Starch

Stains on mats should be removed before the actual washing process takes place. If you like cream or soft colored mats, then don't use a bleach; simply wash in warm suds with mild soap.

For very old and fragile mats or crocheted pieces, place singly in a glass jar with suds and warm water and shake gently to wash. Rinse all pieces thoroughly without wringing, just squeezing the water in and out.

Fill Cookie Jar With Two Treats

Appetites sharpened in-between meals by wintry winds are best satisfied with cookie jars and steaming cocoa or warmed fruit juices. If the cookie jar seems to get empty more often than usual, make two batches of cookies instead of one!

An old-fashioned cookie that is melt-in-the-mouth is made with sour milk and molasses:

Soft Molasses Cookies (Makes 48)

1/4 cup sour milk
1 1/2 cups molasses
1/2 cup melted butter or shortening
5 cups flour
2 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 cup chopped seeded raisins

Mix milk, molasses and butter. Sift together flour, ginger, salt and soda. Add molasses mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Add raisins and roll out to 1/4-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Keep the dough as soft as possible. Cut cookies and place on greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 20 minutes.

Dates are luscious in cookies and they keep the cookies fresh and palatable. Here's a recipe for them which makes a good quantity:

Quick Date Drops (Makes 70)

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
1/4 cup milk
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped pitted dates

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs and milk and combine well. Sift together dry ingredients and add gradually. Add rolled oats, nuts and dates. Drop by spoonfuls onto baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 15 minutes.

BULEN TALKS Cars

HOW OFTEN SHOULD YOU BUY A NEW CAR?
Every year? Every two or three years? Or when your old car is worn out?

I'm convinced there isn't a red-blooded driver living who doesn't have an opinion on this controversy so I'm passing along the verdict of a group of auto industry statisticians who've made a study of it.

After a cost accounting of depreciation and wear in today's market they have concluded that the best time of all is every three years. They base this conclusion on the declining rate of depreciation as a car ages, weighed against the mounting cost of upkeep. The depreciation factor is the most notably important in the first three years.

Depreciation is highest starting with the first year though it is compensated to some extent by service costs being almost nil. The second year depreciation rate decreases but service costs go up. Third year depreciation continues to decline normally but service costs jump sharply, to which additional cost of new tires and battery must usually be added. Style changes and engineering features of a three-year-old car become noticeably out of date, and this affects its trade-in value as a used car.

If one human point might be mentioned - and that is the simple, pleasurable pride in owning a NEW car every year - then there is much to be said for the economics of trading yearly. It is a well known fact that in today's competitive market that dealer over-allowance or discount takes much of the sting out of the first year's depreciation.

Betheldale Johanna Regal, owned by Clare Carpenter and son of Cass City, produced 17,860 pounds of milk and 607 pounds of butterfat in 305 days of twice daily milking as a six-year-old.

Clayacres Pansy Dan produced 15,972 pounds of milk and 628 pounds of butterfat in 270 days on twice daily milking as an eight-year-old.

Clayacres Star Ideal Royal produced 18,077 pounds of milk and 718 pounds of butterfat in 365 days of twice daily milking as a six-year-old. Both are owned by Gilbert Davis of Sandusky.

Snowball Dixie Rocket, owned by Dolan Sweeney and Sons of Uby, produced 15,900 pounds of milk and 622 pounds of butterfat in 323 days of twice daily milking as a four-year-old.

Many factors contribute to success—the first step being the will to succeed.

Want School for Retarded Children

SCHOOL PROBLEM

A target date, Sept. 5, has been set by the Tuscola County Association for Retarded Children for the opening of a training center in the county.

At a special meeting Thursday, Feb. 23, the group started planning for the opening of a school for trainable retarded children. The need for facilities for these youngsters who cannot participate in the public school program has been recognized and a concerted effort is now under way to meet that need.

"With approximately 400 retarded children in need of training not provided by public schools, we have undertaken a task that has been too long neglected," the group was told by Vernon Henrichs, Caro, in a special appeal made at the meeting. He called for a united effort to acquaint the public with the means now available to give these children a chance to develop their potential.

"As parents and friends of retarded children, we must be united by our common problem," he said, "and not allow anything to divide us."

The association is now engaged in an effort to locate suitable quarters and secure teachers to staff the training center.

More Physical Education

A second area in which there is a generally recognized need for better facilities is in the physical education and sports program. Our high school has at present a very inadequate physical education program. It has been criticized repeatedly on this score by accreditation authorities. Not only is the gym small, in terms of modern day installations, but the facilities the public never sees, such as locker rooms, storage space for equipment, shower and changing rooms, etc., are woefully out of date. There is a much difference between a 1926 physical education plant and a 1961 model as there would be between two cars of like vintage. At present there are constant and unavoidable conflicts between the athletic program and the physical education program, meager as it is. Neither will be able to measure up to modern standards until additional facilities are provided.

Holiness Groups Schedule Meeting

There will be a joint meeting of the Sanilac-St. Clair and Huron-Tuscola Holiness Associations Friday, Mar. 3, at the Brown City United Missionary Church. Guest speaker will be Dr. Paul Elliott, president of the Owosso Bible College, Owosso. Music will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Tromble of the Bible College music department. A potluck lunch will be served at noon and each one is asked to provide table service.

Live in fear you might make a mistake and you'll probably never accomplish anything.

Mac & Leo Holds Undisputed Lead In Village Loop

With just two games left on their regular season schedule, Mac and Leo reign as odds-on favorites to take the Cass City Independent Cage League title. The Gasmen moved into this enviable position by moving a full game ahead of the pack following a key victory Thursday over second place Sherman's, 57-53. In games among the also rans, Tuckey's defeated Walbro 37-32 and Erla's topped Fuelgas 43-40.

Mac & Leo-Sherman's

Although Mac and Leo's won as expected over Sherman's, they were forced to go all out to do it. The winners led 15-14 at the end of the first quarter and by the same margin, 29-28, at the end of the half.

The third quarter proved decisive. Mac and Leo outscored Sherman's 11-2 and entered the final period ahead 40-30. A 23-17 last period margin for the restaurateurs was not enough to close the gap.

Clare Comment whipped in 22 points and John Meininger, 17. Don Root helped with 14 for the winners. Sherman's was paced by Fred Leeson with 20 points and Fred Milligan with 16.

Tuckey's vs. Walbro

In one of the lowest scoring games of the season, Tuckey's edged Walbro, 37-32. Neither team could find the bucket. Tuckey's counted 20 points in the first half while the losers were held to meager nine points.

Ron Copeland and Roy Tuckey tipped in 12 each for the winners and Elwyn Helwig picked up nine points for the losers.

Erla's-Fuelgas

Erla's finally broke into the win column. After seven straight defeats the tail-enders rose to defeat Fuelgas 43-40.

Erla's, which has been playing better ball in recent weeks, was forced to come from behind for the victory. They trailed 19-17 at the half.

Accuracy at the free throw line spelled the difference. The winners converted 12 of 13 tries. For Erla's Don Erla had 11 points and Herb Rutkowski and Czekal picked up 10 each. Don Simmons poured in 20 for the losers.

The standings:

Team	W	L	GB
Mac & Leo	7	1	-
Sherman's	6	2	1
Tuckey's	4	4	3
Fuelgas	3	5	4
Walbro	3	5	4
Erla's	1	7	6

$50 Million More For Farm Loans

An additional $50 million has been made available to the Farmers Home Administration for farm housing loans, Mr. Robert E. Abbott, the agency's county supervisor, announced today.

He said that the new loan funds assure an adequate supply of this type of credit for eligible farm families during the balance of the fiscal year. Loans made so far this year plus those being processed had practically exhausted the funds previously available.

The major demand in Tuscola county is for loans to construct and modernize farm houses and most of the funds are used for new construction.

Improvements financed with loans may include the installation of central heating and pressure water supply systems, the additions of bathrooms and the modernization of kitchens.

Stick to your good resolutions—even bad men had good intentions.

Humanity is fickle—friends may toast you today, and roast you tomorrow.

The man who always depends on luck actually invests his savings in soap bubbles.

A third area in which a space problem presently exists lies in study hall space. When our high school was built, the room presently known as the library served as a study room for all high school students. Since that date two things have happened. First, the high school has grown until most hours there are twice as many students needing study space as this room provides. Second, all accrediting agencies now frown on the use of libraries for assigned study. Hence, the high school is now using a study hall seating about 80 to care for the needs of an enrollment of over six hundred. A neighboring school with about the same enrollment has a study hall seating 150. There is an alternative in the form of a program used in several area schools that calls for no study halls. This program, however, requires more classrooms, as well as more teachers and hence would not actually simplify the problem.

What To Do?

These are some of the answers the committee found to the question: Are we crowded? Where? But the really difficult question comes next. That is, what shall we build?

In this vein, there have been many suggestions. Some say build additional elementary rooms. Others say build a combination junior high and upper elementary school. Still others say build a new senior high school and use the present high school as a junior high with some upper grades with it. Many who have visited some of the fine high schools being built around us, and realizing that our own facilities leave much to be desired, feel that if we are ever to have a new high school, we must act now. They feel that although some may say, as they did in 1926, that we do not need that much, our children 20 years from now will thank us for our vision and foresight.

The committee would like to know what you think. They would welcome your comments and suggestions, addressed to the School Study Committee, Cass City Public Schools.

4-H Members Study Leadership

Six 4-H club members from Tuscola County were given additional training in the 4-H junior leader training program at the East Central Junior Leadership School in Port Huron last week. Attending were: Don Legg, Kingston; David Tiedgen, Grey Riley and Irene Whitfield of Caro; Carol Ann Eichel of Vassar, and Adeline Oseguera of Unionville, with Mrs. Ray Miller of Fairgrove as leader chaperone.

While in Port Huron, they studied panel responsibilities; planning club meetings; how to work with all age groups, and shared ideas with other club members.

The school was sponsored by the Sears Foundation and the County Extension Service.

The fellow who lives to learn will soon learn to live.

Seed Growers Elect Officers of Board

Glyde Rohlf of Akron, member of the board of directors of the Tuscola County Certified Seed Growers, was elected to serve as chairman of the board. Francis Starkey of Akron was elected vice-chairman and Russell LeValley of Akron, secretary and treasurer of the county association.

County Pupils' Scholarship Deadline April 1

During the past year the association took an active part in promoting the use of certified seed through an active local advertising campaign, local fair exhibit and through the distribution of certified seed to 4-H club members on farms where certified seed is not now being used, according to Allan Houghtaling, outgoing association chairman.

Certified seed growers in Saginaw, Bay and Sanilac counties were invited to become members of the Tuscola county group because they do not have a sufficient number of certified seed growers to have an association of their own, said Rohlf. Membership in the local association is $2.00.

The Tuscola group will sponsor a chicken barbecue and meeting of growers, their wives and friends on Tuesday, June 27. Plans are also being considered for a tour of growers to the U.S. Department of Agriculture research center at Beltsville, Maryland.

Tuscola county has the largest number of growers and the largest acreage devoted to the production of certified seeds of any county in Michigan. In addition to the regular certified seed growers, there are a large number of contract seed growers who grow certified seeds for shipment out of state.

One of the primary objectives of this organization is to promote mutual understanding between growers and the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, Michigan Foundation Seed Association, Farm Crops Department of Michigan State University and the

Gov. Swainson's Suggested Tax Reforms Fulfilling One of His Political Promises

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Tax reforms proposed by Gov. John B. Swainson have already accomplished their purpose: To fulfill a campaign promise without starting a political fight.

Democrats contend the plan has "something for everybody." The plan imposes a three percent corporate and personal income tax, wipes out or reduces the most inequitable taxes on business and exempts food and drugs from the sales tax.

It gains no extra revenue for the state treasury, but offsets $418 million in new taxes with $418 million in tax relief.

Perhaps it should make everyone happy, but opponents find two flaws: The plan cannot become law and it fails to solve Michigan's problems.

Democrats say the tax relief will create prosperity and the existing taxes will consequently grow into a flood of new dollars. A main ingredient of the plan is optimism.

But Republicans in the State Senate will reject anything with an income tax label. They proved that in 1959 and again when voters approved the one-cent sales tax increase in 1960.

Liberals and pseudo-liberals like the Swainson plan because it is something fresh. All other tax ideas have threatened to pinch the family pocketbook.

This one affects only those making more than $7,000 a year if they have a family and it's hard to feel sorry for someone who has a job when 320,000 Michigan workers are idle.

Swainson had to come up with the plan.

During his campaign for the executive office, he promised "fiscal reform," while his opponent, Paul D. Bagwell, backed the sales tax on the Nov. 8 ballot. Swainson opposed it.

Swainson won and promptly endorsed the sales tax, which also won, because "the people have spoken." The resultant reform plan is close to Bagwell's own ideas.

Democrats around the state are calling meetings to explain Swainson's ideas.

It will take nine legislative bills to enact the plan into law, requiring at least 18 votes in the Senate where Republicans hold a 22 to 12 majority and 56 in the House where Republicans hold a 56 to 54 edge.

Many, weary of financial crises in Lansing and the threat of new taxes, are happy with the thought that the problem is solved without costing them more, but time will tell if their hopes are soundly based.

Voters went to the polls to approve that extra penny of the sales tax to raise an estimated $120 million a year more for the state treasury. This too will fall short of solving the problems.

The $120 million will be piled on top of the $50 million in "nuisance taxes" due to expire June 30. If they do expire, it will be the first time in the memory of man that temporary taxes have not become permanent. And if they do expire, it will leave the treasury only $70 million ahead.

This is indeed a modest gain in the light of the needs of state agencies, particularly the universities and colleges. New buildings have been under a moratorium for three years.

The best bet around the capitol is that, if the nuisance taxes expire and if no new taxes are enacted, the next "crucial" crisis will arrive about the time Gov. Swainson's first term expires.

But the Governor's promise has now been fulfilled.

He has given Michigan a tax reform program and, if it is not written into law, will have a powerful argument when the 1962 campaign is launched.

Remember this historical note: Gov. G. Mennen Williams came to Lansing in 1949 advocating a corporation profits tax, an idea Republicans successfully resisted for 12 years.

Political strategists for years have contended that if the legislature had given Williams all he wanted when he arrived, his departure would have been much sooner.

Now it's Gov. Swainson's turn. To Republicans it sounds illogical, especially since it is tied to the hated income tax.

But, to a politician, logic is only valuable if it pays off at the ballot box.

Bounties Cost More, Accomplish the Least—Conservation Department

During Michigan's long history of predatory animal control, bounties have cost more money, have been used longer, have received more favorable publicity, and have probably done less than any other method of control employed.

Since 1935, the state's hunters and fishermen, through their license fees, have shelled out more than $3,000,000 in payments for bountied foxes, wolves (dropped from the bounty list in 1959), bobcats and coyotes.

Figures show that these were lost dollars. Bounties have neither reduced bountied animals nor resulted in more game.

Foxes, top money-getters in total bounty payments each year, are at least as abundant now as in 1947 when a five-dollar bounty was placed on their heads. Coyote and bobcat numbers have remained pretty much stabilized. Bobcats are bountied only in the upper peninsula.

Why doesn't the bounty system work? There are several reasons. Hunters and trappers harvest the annual surplus of predators but they don't make much of a dent, if any, in the animals' breeding stock. This means that the population of bountied animals stays essentially status quo, except for normal ups and downs which occur — bounty or no bounty.

Bounties fail in another respect, namely that of giving poultry and livestock farmers adequate protection against predator damages. Bounty men work areas where they will reap the greatest returns with the least effort. These areas aren't necessarily where control is needed to check damage.

Even if the bounty system did work, it isn't needed. Game populations can stand considerable predation without any noticeable drop in their annual levels. They have survived thousands of years of predation.

Actually, predators play a minor role in annual losses suffered by game. Other factors, particularly food supply and habitat, are far more important.

The Conservation Department's trapper-instructor program has proven itself to be a much better tool than the bounty system in helping farmers and other landowners of all damage complaints made by farmers and other landowners in 1960.

Punching another hole in the bounty bubble is the fact that from 50 to 75 per cent of the foxes bountied each year would be killed anyway. Instead, between $130,000 and $160,000 is spent yearly for bounties on Brother Reynard.

Michigan's Conservation Department is not alone in its stand against bounties. Its or 1957 poll of all state game departments revealed that only five part in sea lamprey control Pennsylvania supported bounties for four years; or 8) finance the Higgins Lake conservation school for two years.

Here is how game officials in some of the country's states feel about bounties:

Illinois: "The bounty system is considered totally ineffective in any type of predator control." Minnesota: "We do not favor a bounty system of predator control. The bobcat has been bountied for many years yet has maintained or increased its numbers." Nebraska: "Ridiculous. Bounty payments have never held in check our coyote populations."

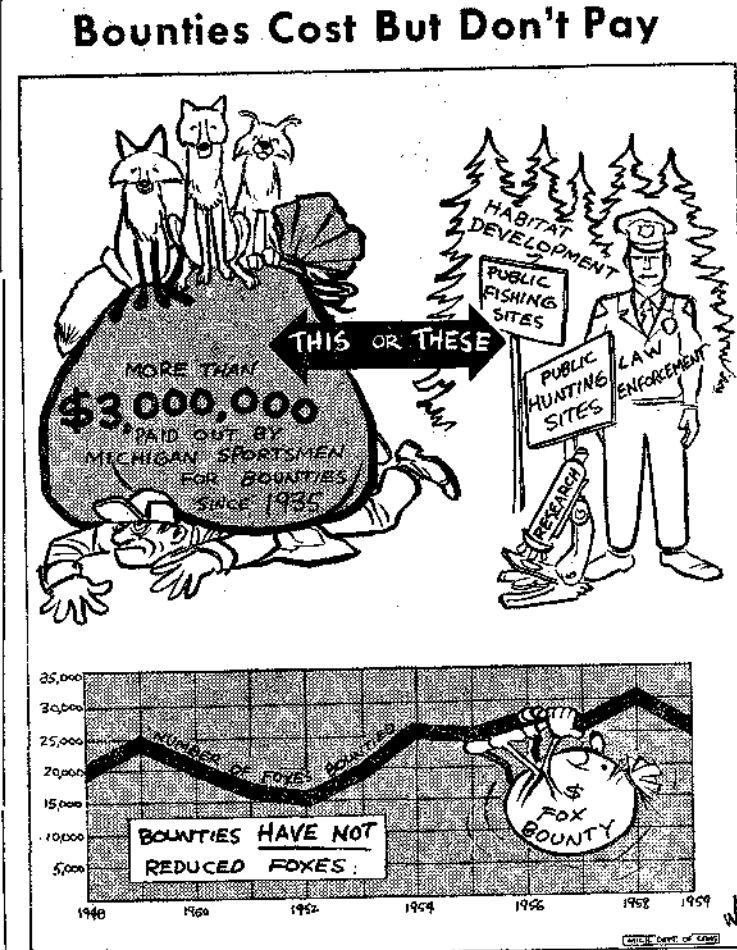

Mississippi: "Inefficient — wasted money." Rhode Island: "Fox bounties have been in existence since 1893 — except for an eight-year period — yet the population fluctuates from high to low every 10 years or so with no change in hunting or trapping pressure indicating that the bounty system has little effect in the long run." Texas: "The bounty system of predator control is not effective in reducing predator populations and is a waste of the sportsman's money."

Besides not working, bounties sidetrack some $200,000 each year from such conservation programs in Michigan as game and fish management, land acquisition and development of state game areas and public fishing sites, law enforcement, information and education, and research.

This is a sizeable drain during normal times; it looms much larger now with the State's Game and Fish Protection Fund (hunting and fishing license fees) scraping the bottom of its barrel for money.

There are many ways in which bounty money could be better spent. Applying current average costs, $200,000 would:

1) Bring the conservation officer force to its recommended strength by more than paying for the schooling and salaries of 24 additional men for one year; or 2) provide for the acquisition and development of some 25 public fishing sites; or 3) buy 6,250 acres of hard-to-come-by public hunting lands in southern Michigan; or 4) pay for the predatory animal control (trapper-instructor) program for five years; or 5) keep two of the Department's timber-cutting tractors running in northern Michigan for 25 winters to improve deer range; or 6) finance major flooding which would yield 10,000 acres of new or improved waterfowl habitat; or 7) cover Michigan's cooperative part in sea lamprey control for four years; or 8) finance the Higgins Lake conservation school for two years.

Michigan's bounty system isn't what it was cracked up to be. Figures going back to 1935 show that it neither reduces bountied animals effectively nor results in more game. Foxes, top money-getters in total bounty payments each year, are at least as abundant now as in 1947 when they were tacked to the bounty list. They and their bountied friends—bobcats and coyotes—play a minor role in game losses. What's more this threesome figured in only two percent of all damage complaints made by farmers and other landowners in 1960. Bounty payments sidetrack some $200,000 (hunting and fishing license fees) each year from such "real" conservation efforts as game and fish management, land acquisition and development of state game areas and public fishing sites, and law enforcement. This is a sizeable drain during normal times; it looms much larger now with the State's Game and Fish Protection Fund hard pressed for money.—Mich. Dept. of Conservation owners troubled with predator damages. It provides control at the right time in the right place and costs but one-fifth of the annual bounty bill.

The state's bountied threesome figured in only two per cent able opposition was building up.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Taxes has got me skinned down to one pair of pants and my vote but as long as I can hold on to that vote I aim to make a few observations about the situation from time to time.

For instant, I see where the American taxpayers has advanced $20 million to the United Nations to keep it from going broke. Russia advanced nothing, the piece said.

The same piece went on to show that we've paid 48 per cent of the U.N. Children's fund and Russia 2 per cent. We paid $30 million into the fund for U.N. Technical Assistance and Russia paid $2 million. We gave $23 million to help get clothes and food for the Arab refugees and Russia wouldn't give a dime.

In the last 10 months, the piece showed, the American taxpayers has put, not counting the Congo, $116 million in the United Nations program and Russia has put $17 million.

I ain't agin the United Nations, Mister Editor, in fact I'm strong fer it, but it looks to me like, considering we're footing most of the bills, we could make ole Khrushchev keep his shoe on and quit beating up the furniture with it at the next session. The chances are we paid for the furniture—and maybe the shoe.

Along them same lines, I'm glad President Kennedy has started giving away our farm surplus to starving people in other lands. It ain't doing nothing here but rotting away and costing us millions for storage rent. But they is one great trouble with it. Just as soon as folks across the pond start eating our bread they start forgetting which side is buttered and who buttered it. I wish they was some angle to the deal making 'em put the butter on the right side.

Ed Doolittle says he was reading where some farmer in Maryland allows as how he ain't going on Daylight Saving Time this summer, claims it's too hard to git his roosters set up in the summer and back in the fall. With farm products running 81 per cent of parity and living costs up 27 points, farmers is now 46 points down. If you add the fact we're living in a semi-military age and using a 50-cent dollar, that farmer in Maryland is in for a long spell of difficulties and it ain't all going to be about his roosters.

I see by the papers where politicians in some countries don't have it so good. To git back in the good graces of the Sultan, the Pasha of Marek, whatever that is, had to kiss the Sultan's foot. Over here, the politician that says the wrong thing just announces he has been misquoted by the newspapers.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

There were four full buses plus four carloads of Tuscola county women who enjoyed the Flower Show at Cobo Hall on March 2. The chairman of the tour was Mrs. Iva Houthoofd, Akron, from the Wisner home economics extension group.

The Tuscola County Home Economics Council will meet at the Tuscola County Nursing Home on March 9 at 2 p.m.

The project leaders from Section II will have their lesson on Rugs and Carpets at 1:30 p.m. in the courthouse.

Then on March 13, 14 and 15 the VanPetten, Moreland, Akron, South Almer and Unionville home economics extension groups will have their upholstery workshops at Gilford Extension Hall from 9 to 4 p.m.

If you are buying synthetic yard goods for home sewing, remember that fabrics woven of synthetic fibers and those treated with new finishes often require new sewing methods to avoid puckering along seams.

Seams cut on the bias have less pucker than seams cut along the straight or crosswise threads of a fabric. Even a slightly bias line on a straight skirt eliminates some pucker. A flare of only one-half inch from hipline to hemline of a straight skirt tapers the seam enough to improve its appearance.

A full skirt looks best when the adjoining sections have the same amount of flare. Otherwise, one section will show more puckers than the other. This is a point to note when selecting a pattern. It also is a point to guide the seamstress when she cuts a full skirt of several "like" gores. By letting the straight grain run directly down the center of each gore, the flare is the same on either side of center, the flare of adjoining gores are balanced, and the seams are on the bias.

In stitching all bias seams, except those in the shoulder and waistline, stretch the fabric slightly as it feeds through the machine. This helps avoid puckering as well as the possibility of breaking threads when the garment is worn. Press the seam open, then press it again in the direction of the grain to eliminate any stretched appearance.

The "hidden" seams, such as those in gathered dirmdls and pleated skirts hide the puckers and do not present a problem.

The low-price compact that looks and drives like twice the price!

Valiant's
the compact that rarely complains

(just like the Valiant owners you know!)

What makes Valiant, and the people who own it, so easy going?

For one thing, nagging annoyances that beset many other car bodies have been engineered out of Valiant's one-piece welded Unibody. And out where the road bumps are, Valiant's Torsion-Aire suspension stays smooth as milk 'n' honey.

Remember, too, Valiant's low prices begin $100 lower than last year. And because Valiant's built the way it is, it's bound to rate high at resale time.

For looks and liveliness, for long life and low cost, the top compact this year is Valiant. Come see the man who sells them!

WANDERING WITH WARREN

Almost Spring On Cass River

By Ilene Warren

Has spring arrived early this year? Time will tell... but our river acted like it was spring last Thursday. It kept rising until it overflowed its banks; however, by Friday morning the water had receded a little.

The river in front of our house has two banks -- we don't have to worry until the water tops the second bank... which, except for last year, it has done only twice since we've lived here. I say "except for last year" because the river did more than just overflow both banks last spring -- it kept creeping until our house was surrounded!

It was a Wednesday night, late last March, when we weren't able to get home; the river was over the road north of our bridge and a big culvert to the south of our house had been washed out. We spent the night at my mother's and the next morning decided that we couldn't go to work until we learned what was happening to our house. We drove as far as Earl Petteplace's farm, which is about one and one-half miles from our home, and hiked the rest of the way. We met Aaron Lefler who called to us, "Got your hip boots? You'll need 'em." I shall never forget the feeling that was mine when we crested the hill south of our house and saw that great expanse of water. The "river" was gently lapping the foot of the hill. "Are you game?" asked my husband. Nothing, but nothing was going to keep me from getting home to see whether or not we were flooded and to find out how our dogs were, so I quickly assured him that I was ready to wade the water. We underestimated the iciness of that cold, clear water -- I suffered more than Ron for he was wearing both boots and shoes while my bare feet were thrust into a pair of shoe-boots. In no time at all the water had topped my boots and by the time we turned in our front gate my feet were numb lumps. In a low spot in the driveway the water was over my knees...

...but we were thankful to see that the house was out of water (although the water was only 3 to 4 inches below the first row of cedar shakes) and that the dogs' pen was out of water. Once inside the house, we hustled into some dry clothes and drank hot coffee. The water soon began to recede for we could see little crusts of ice left around the trunks of the trees and along the edge of some concrete. As soon as we were certain that there was no danger of further flooding, we bundled up and made the return trip. Ron had a good pair of knee boots so he was Sir Galahad and gave me a piggy-back ride past the deep water (I, too, had changed to a different pair of boots and was able to wade the more shallow water without getting my feet wet.) It was really quite an adventure, but I was utterly unappreciative at the time. Ron asked, "Shall we take the time to get a picture?" I snorted disgustedly. "A picture of that? I never want to be reminded of this." Now, however, I do wish we had taken a picture... because I'm hoping it will always be just a memory and never a reality again!

Once upon a time (most stories begin that way, don't they?), a fellow who worked at the same place that I did asked me the name of a salesman who called at our office. The salesman was a jolly, chubby fellow with a great gift of gab. John asked me, "What's the name of the salesman who sells the mimeograph supplies?" I told him and added, "our verbose friend." "Yeah," agreed John, "he is kinda fat."

We received an invitation from our grandniece Jan Eyo to come to a party on March 25th to help celebrate her 9th birthday. She wrote the invitation on her grandmother's "tipewriter" and cautioned us to be careful while driving down because it was "slippery" outside.

Just one more item before I close for this week: A bit of advice for foggy weather driving -- please remember to use city lights. The parking lights do not show up until the outline of the car can be seen but the city lights penetrate the fog. I had to drive to Cass City from Bad Axe last Friday morning and certainly appreciated those drivers of oncoming cars who were careful enough to have on their city lights.

Dairy Princess Contest Scheduled

The fourth county Dairy Princess Contest will be held as a part of the annual Caro businessmen and sodabusters' meeting on Monday, April 17, in the new Caro high school cafeteria at 7 p.m.

Sponsoring the contest will be the sodabusters' organization with financial support from the state organization of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association: Flint, Mayville, Vassar, Sebewaing, Deford, locals of MMPA and the McDonald Dairy Cooperative of Flint, Michigan, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

All interested contestants should contact their local Farm Bureau, Grange or other community group. Applications are available through the Cooperative Extension office, courthouse, Caro, Michigan. Applications must be on file by Monday, April 3.

Serving on the dairy princess committee for the 1961 contest are: Fred Janks, Caro, a dairyman; Richard Bigsby, Caro; Dr. Rex Orr, Caro; Max Lawrence, Caro, and Frances T. Clark, county extension agent in home economics.
