

Board of Supervisors

Relax Surplus Food Rules

In their regular meeting Monday at the courthouse, Tuscola county supervisors relaxed the regulations for receiving Federal surplus foods from 60 to 80 per cent of the Federal maximum.

The move is expected to make the food available to five to 10 per cent more county residents. At the present time, 576 families are participating in the program.

The supervisors acted so that many families not previously eligible because of unemployment benefits could receive the food. Individuals and families are made eligible for surplus foods if their income from all sources does not go over a figure set by the Federal government.

For instance, a man without dependents could earn up to $125 monthly under the Federal regulations and still be eligible for food under the surplus food program. Under the former regulations set by supervisors, this man would become ineligible if his earnings reached $75 monthly. Irl Baguley, director of social welfare, explained. Under the regulations adopted by supervisors Monday, he said, this same man could earn up to $110 monthly.

Previously, the supervisors had set the figure at 60 per cent because Tuscola county is primarily rural and cost of living in this area is lower than in other parts of the state where up to 100 per cent participation in the surplus food program is allowed.

President John Kennedy's "New Frontier" policy is evident in the program. Previously, Mr. Baguley said, the program had included only eight commodities. Now 12 commodities have been announced for distribution.

"We will probably be short of one or more of them," Baguley said, "we usually are."

From the Editor's Corner

This is hospital week, a week designated by hospital authorities to call attention to the services of modern community hospitals.

Hills and Dales Hospital is co-operating by conducting tours today (Thursday) and Friday from 1 to 4 p.m.

If you take the tour we suggest you pay particular notice to the lab and x-ray equipment, the x-ray room and its equipment and the modern operating rooms.

It's these services that save lives and these services that cost money. For instance, both the lab and x-ray departments require full-time, trained technicians on call 24 hours a day.

Meeting Slated Monday

School Vote Interest Lags

There has been little real interest in the coming vote in Cass City and Deford school districts for the annexation of Deford Community Schools to Cass City.

Authorities have expressed concern about the lack of discussion about the annexation which will increase the state equalized valuation to an estimated $17,500,000 for the district.

Deford was to have met Wednesday night at the Deford school to discuss the issue with George Schutt from the Michigan Department of Public Instruction.

Cass City Meeting The instructional meeting in Cass City is scheduled Monday, May 15, at 8 p.m. at the school.

Featuring will be a panel discussion led by members of the school board.

Answers to such questions as these will be given: How will the annexation affect Cass City financially? How many students does Deford send to Cass City now and what will be the effect of the annexation on the student load? Would annexation cause a building program in Cass City? In all, there are over 20 questions and answers to be discussed in addition to any others brought by persons attending.

The annexation will be decided Monday, May 22, when the two districts vote. It must carry in both districts to be effective.

30 Children to Receive Hearing Tests at School

About 30 children in the northeast area of Tuscola county found to have hearing difficulties as a result of the recent hearing screening survey held in local schools will be given ear examinations by an ear specialist, Robert H. Criswell, M. D. of Bay City. The ear examination service will be held at the Cass City Elementary School Thursday, May 18.

This service represents one of the final steps of the hearing program. Children found to show possible hearing difficulty or loss in the group survey were given more intensive individual hearing check-up by the hearing technician, Mrs. Lillian Yedinak. If the results of these individual retests indicated significant hearing loss the child's parents are notified and a hearing evaluation by an ear specialist is offered. Following the ear specialist's evaluation, the child is usually referred to his family physician for continued medical supervision.

Hearing testing programs in the schools have found children who need help to hear. About 80 per cent of the early hearing problems occur before the child is five years old. Most of it results from the diseases of childhood including measles, scarlet fever, influenza and meningitis. Prompt care and adequate medical treatment of these infections are the best safeguards for the prevention of hearing losses.

Review History of WSCS Groups

An estimated 120 persons attended the annual mother-daughter banquet of the Methodist Church Thursday evening at the church.

Mrs. L. Profit extended a greeting from the mothers and Dee Ellen Albee gave the response for the daughters. Music was presented by Roger Parrish at the piano and selections from the "Uncalled Four," a high school quartet.

After a huge birthday cake with 20 candles, symbolizing the 20th birthday of the WSCS, was served, Mrs. Andrew Bigelow introduced Mrs. C. Carpenter who gave a history of the Bethel WSCS which joined the Cass City group in 1948.

She recalled how the Bethel church was located across the road from the Bill Profit farm and said there were 33 members in the Bethel Society and that many of the charter members are now active in the Cass City WSCS. She listed the members of the Bethel Society.

Mrs. Edward Baker told the history of the local society, saying that it was formed from the Aid, Missionary and 4th Conventions.

Before merging with the Bethel group, attendance was between 20 and 30 persons. Attendance now averages 55 and 60.

Mrs. Baker read the names of the charter members and told of those who have died.

Kindergarten enrollment at the Evergreen Township Unit School has been set for Friday, May 12, at 2 p.m. Parents are reminded that they are required by law to bring birth certificates and that all children must be five years old by Dec. 1 before they can be enrolled.

WSC Hears Book Report Tuesday

A book report by Mrs. Andrew Bigelow highlighted the regular meeting of the Woman's Study Club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Wetters.

Mrs. Bigelow told of "Act One," an autobiography written by Moss Hart, a famous Broadway composer of such hits as "You Can't Take It With You" and the current hit, "Camelot."

Mrs. Bigelow also told the highlights of the Huron county district meeting Saturday, May 6. Telling of the many outstanding programs presented by the Huron clubs during the year, she noted that Huron county had 180 members at their county meeting as compared to about 78 at the Tuscola meeting.

In the business meeting, the club voted to cooperate in the cancer drive. Mrs. W. D'Arcy was selected to represent the club at the Farm Bureau rural-urban meeting Saturday.

The next meeting will be a potluck dinner at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. E. Schwaderer.

Church Softball Loop To Form Tonight

The annual organizational meeting of the Cass City Church Softball League has been scheduled tonight (Thursday) in the Memorial Room (main floor) of the Presbyterian Church, at 7 p.m. Ken Eisinger announced this week.

Class C Friday ... D-B Saturday

Thinclads Here for Regionals

Cass City will be overflowing with athletes Friday and Saturday as the regional track meet for classes B, C and D will be held at the Recreational Park.

For the first time in several years, Cass City will reign as favorites to cop the regional in Class B. A total of 12 teams will compete for the team trophy and outstanding individuals will be trying to win and qualify for the state meet later in the year. Track events will start at 10 a.m. Saturday when Class D-B teams will compete.

Coach Mike Yedinak expects his biggest competition to come from Pinconning.

Other teams who will enter include Bad Axe, Caro, Crosswix, Lexington, Pigeon-Elkton, Port Huron St. Stephen, Saginaw Arthur Hill Technical, Saginaw Buena Vista, Saginaw SS Peter and Paul, Standish, Vassar and Yale.

Coach Yedinak is satisfied with the progress of the squad in track events, but feels that the field events need improving before Saturday's regional and the Thumb B Conference meet May 17.

A change in scheduling of the regional has helped the Hawks' chances of winning the championship Saturday. Previously, Marysville had competed in the Thumb regional. This year they were sent to a southern regional.

The Marysville team has plenty of depth and qualified observers feel they may have won the meet if they had been entered here.

In Class D, where 13 teams are entered, Unionville reigns as favorites to pick up the team trophy although Owengage has shown strength in the Mt. Pleasant relays and is sure to pick up points.

Class C Friday In the class C, which is slated Friday, Michigan Lutheran Seminary is the favorite in a field of 16 area schools.

A TOTAL OF 23 local residents volunteered to give blood at Hills and Dales General Hospital Saturday afternoon from 1 to 9 p.m. when members of the Northeastern Michigan Blood Bank team were present to assist in the project.

Of the 23 donors registered, four were rejected because of colds or other minor ailments. Nineteen donors gave blood. Three donors were establishing a blood bank credit for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Mrs. Lois Pringle, supervisor of nurses, reports that a total of 88 units of blood has been administered by the hospital and only 41 units replaced.

She says that the hospital would rather have the blood replaced than have the patients pay for the amount used so that ample blood will be available at all times.

Calf Vaccination Is Reaching Peak

Calfhood vaccinations are on the upswing this year, says Alfred Ballweg, county extension director for Tuscola county.

The number of calves vaccinated during March was the highest for any March since the Michigan brucellosis eradication program was started in 12,680 calves were vaccinated.

George Parsons, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State University, predicts that 14,000 to 15,000 calves will be vaccinated during May. May is usually the top month for calf-hood vaccinations.

There has been an increase lately in the number of herds in the state which have reactors, says Parsons. Losses are heavy in herds where lack of immunity allows the disease to run uncontrolled. Many of these herds will lose 75 per cent of their animals.

Estimates show there are about 261,000 calves to vaccinate each year in Michigan.

Parsons estimates that more than 100,000 calves will be vaccinated in Michigan this year. This still leaves about 161,000 calves which farmers need to have vaccinated to completely control brucellosis in Michigan.

Tuscola county farmers have vaccinated 736 head of calves from January 1 through March 31, said Ballweg. This is 167 head more than were vaccinated during this same period a year ago.

In the next 3 to 7 days, some of you will receive the following letter, please read it through and give it a lot of serious thought, as this is a county project. Others of you will be asked to participate in other ways. We are not asking for charity, we give something back to you for every penny spent by you and maybe in the future we can help your town with a project.

Caro Home-coming
524 North State Street
Caro, Michigan
May 4, 1961

Dear Sir:

This letter is being distributed to you on behalf of the Caro Home-coming Committee which represents the American Legion, V.F.W. and K. of C. We had planned on calling on you individually, but since we are businessmen such as yourselves we found that although we contacted many people in many towns in this county that we are running out of time. We wish to use this method to approach you on the subject at hand. On July 17 thru July 22 we are having a Home-coming that will be held in this community at the fairgrounds. We will have approximately 50 to 60 concessions and rides on the midway. Our grandstand entertainment will be county wide. We are going to have horsepulling one evening, a talent show, a water battle by the Caro Fire Department, and others for which plans are incomplete at this time. Admission will be free to the grounds, parking and the grandstand.

As you probably have heard, we being a non profit organization, are going to give 45 per cent of all profits this year to the Tuscola County Retarded Children's Association for this county. This organization that we are helping to sponsor has set their goal as September 5, to open a school somewhere in this county and are raising funds to operate and maintain this school. We have devised a book of advertising that we are selling to all the merchants of this county in which we would like to place your ad at a cost of $5 to you. The ad will be 1 1/2" by 3 1/2" in size and the books will be given to all the members of our three organizations which total about 600 plus the people that participate in this book. It is another way to raise funds for this organization, but it also gives you something for your money. We hope you will give this your utmost attention and cooperation as it also concerns your own people in your own town. If you decide to help us in this undertaking, please fill in the attached ad with your advertisement by June 1. You may either enclose a check or money order payable to the Caro Home-coming or give us permission to bill you at the end of June 15.

Thank you for your attention.

School Population Increase Perplexes State Educators

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

A big part of the problem faced by Michigan educators is the trouble they have keeping up with the school population increase.

While the spokesmen for teachers are far from reticent when it comes to telling the Legislature and the public about the burdens they carry, the cold hard facts turned up by a recent Department of Public Instruction study are none the less impressive.

According to figures, there were 1,676,543 children in public schools in Michigan on the fourth Friday following Labor Day.

The count, taken annually at this time, is used to determine the amount due each school district in state aid payments. This year's tabulation showed some 52,281 more students enrolled for the 1960-61 school year than were in public schools the previous semester. Enrollment increase this year was 2,625, greater than the increase last year over the previous figure.

But the hike this year fell far below the average increase over the last five years of 53,313. Chief reason for the higher average was the huge enrollment increases in 1955-56 and 1956-57.

Gain over the previous school year when the count was taken in 1956 and 1957 was well over 66,000 students each time.

The total membership increase in Michigan public schools for the last five years has been 291,584, according to the study by the divisions of research and department services of the Department of Public Instruction.

A fact that shouldn't be lost in looking at these figures is that they stand for children, who are entitled to basic education.

Indications are that the increase for the coming school year, that is, the count that will be taken the fourth Friday after Labor Day, 1961, will be about 45,000 the Department says.

Lead pellets from the guns of hunters which never reach their mark still cause a heavy toll among Michigan's ducks and geese.

Water fowl pick up lead pellets from the bottom of lakes and other feeding grounds while searching for food and grit. This delayed kill occasionally reaches alarming proportions.

A case in point is the heavy die-off of Canada geese recently discovered at West Gilkey and Indian lakes in Barry County.

The Conservation Department reports that 99 dead geese were picked up at Indian Lake and another 13 at West Gilkey. Still another 22 birds which were visibly sick were spotted by game men.

Lead poisoning was the cause of death in virtually all cases, the Department said.

Actual losses were probably higher, since many of the birds are picked up by predators and others die where the researchers are unable to find them.

Recent opening of the 1961 trout fishing season marks the start, for many Michigan anglers, of another year spent on the streams and lakes of the north country. For many, of course, fishing is a year-around pastime. Like connoisseurs of fine wines, many fishermen pick one facet of their hobby as surpassing all others for pure pleasure.

ORDER APPOINTING TIME

State of Michigan, The Probate Court for the County of Tuscola.
In the Matter of the Estate of Bridget Ann Ross, Deceased.
At a session of said Court, held on April 25th, 1961.
Present, Honorable Henderson Graham, Judge of Probate.
Notice is hereby given, That all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims in writing and under oath, to said Court, and to serve a copy thereof upon Frederick H. Many pick going after trout with a flyrod on a swift stream as the peak of the sport. Others, of course, choose bass fishing; still others say pike offer the greatest challenge; some say panfish caught from a boat on a hot summer's day make angler's greatest pleasure, and there are some who only like the hardy sport of fishing through the ice.

Probably most fishermen take part in all or a combination of the types of fishing.

The significance of the opening of trout season is that it marks the conversion from winter to summer fishing. The importance of trout fishing to Michigan is pointed up by the annual National Trout Festival at Kalkaska to mark the opening of the season.

Some experts contend that Kalkaska is located within 50 miles of more than half the best trout waters east of the Mississippi River.

Anybody with a shovel, and a yen for gold would do well to head for South Dakota along about Aug. 26-27. State officials there plan to plant some $35,000 worth of the precious yellow metal near Huron as part of a "Gold Rush Days" festival which is part of the South Dakota territory centennial celebration.

At least one Michigan citizen, Gov. John B. Swainson, would have to look no farther than the end of his shovel should he decide to have a go at digging gold in the hills of South Dakota.

Swainson received a personal invitation from an emissary of South Dakota's Gov. Archy Gubbrud to take part in the gold rush.

Like the other 49 governors, Swainson was presented a shovel to use should he decide to go and try his luck.

The shovel was gold-plated.

This summer you can suit yourself in a blend of cotton, and you will be in the height of fashion. The new cotton blends are woven into textured fabrics and tailored with details that match those of wool suits.

The slim silhouette leads, and narrow skirts are paired with boxy or "almost fitted" jackets. A few box-pleated skirts are seen. Collarless or stand away necklines go along with short, wide sleeves. Some suits are fully lined for a true suit look. Some have coordinated overblouses for a costume look. Textured cotton blends, open necklines and sleeves also mark summer coats. One favorite coat fabric is a blend of cotton, silk and viscose which has a light crisp touch and the look of nubby silk.

"Going" colors of summer suits and coats are hot pink, orange, bright blue and a range of greens. Calmer colors include peacan, beige and black, and these are often mixed with white for a tweedy effect.

Many people think that thick, heavy fabric means a warm coat. But a light weight taffeta coat lined with a quilted polyurethane foam and taffeta fabric can provide more protection from cold and wind than some heavy wool coats. There are no direct relationships between fabric thickness and the insulating or wind-resisting qualities. However, fabric structure is closely related to warmth and wind resistance qualities. Firm weaves, as poplin, gabardine, and taffeta also provide wind resistance. Napped wool, polyurethane form, napped or pile knits, and fiber bat fabrics provide traps for still air and make these fabrics good insulators.

The most effective combination for insulation is a cotton poplin outer fabric lined with a knitted pile fabric of acrylic fiber. The most effective combination for wind resistance is a cotton poplin over a lining of polyurethane foam quilted to acetate taffeta.

Think wrong — and a man is headed in the right direction for a number of bad habits.

HEATING PROBLEMS? CHOOSE FLAMELESS ELECTRIC HEAT

THIS MAYVILLE FAMILY'S GLAD IT DID!

The Guy Titus family of 6236 Third St., Mayville, Michigan, reports:

"One of the reasons we converted to electric heat was that it cost us less to install. Now that we have it, we wouldn't have any other kind. It's cleaner than our old system, and a lot less trouble to take care of. In fact, there's nothing to do at all. We just turn a dial to get the warmth we want. With electric heat, there's no sense of heat, just pleasant warmth. There are no drafts or cold spots either."

DETROIT EDISON

This family knows you can't beat electric heat when you're converting the heating system of an older home. Its flexibility permits quick, inexpensive installation. Because it's flameless, electric heat is the cleanest method there is—walls and furnishings stay clean with less care. And with electric heat, you get uniform warmth and comfort at a turn of a dial. There's no need to start up an entire system to get extra heat in one room. Electric heat may cost more, but it's worth every cent in extra comfort, extra convenience. And Edison's Budget Billing Plan equalizes heating costs over the year.

BULEN TALKS CARS

WHAT'S THE FUTURE OF SEAT BELTS?

The evidence is ample and it is still piling up that seat belts could save a lot of lives each year if the public could be persuaded to use them.

The American Medical Association, whose members have the job of patching up the victims of car crashes, estimates that 10,000 lives could be saved each year from the 40,000-odd highway fatalities if the victims had been using belts.

No less an authority than the California State highway patrol believes that serious and fatal injuries in 1,500,000 road accidents last year could have been cut by 35 per cent. All California and New York state vehicles are now equipped with belts.

Evidence that the public is ignoring the advice of safety authorities is the fact that seat belts are sold on only about 2 per cent of automobiles delivered to the public with about one third of these not being used after they have been installed.

Perhaps one reason for the apathy is that the public thinks the belts are designed for high speed only. Statistics show otherwise - that the belts save lives in low-speed collisions. An end-over-ender at 80 miles per hour is likely to be fatal no matter how well you're belted in. But a 5 to 15 mile-per-hour intersection crash can kill you too if your head collides with the dash panel, windshield or the pavement.

Any day you're convinced, we'll be happy to install belts in your car promptly.

2333 Corvairs sold in Los Angeles last month alone. Ilene Warren drove her's to Independence, Mo. in April, averaged 26 miles per gallon for all types of driving. Still the only American Car with:

1. Air Cooling (No Anti Freeze)
2. Aluminum Engine.
3. Independent Springing at all 4 wheels.

Have you Driven a Corvair yet? Don't be sorry. See for yourself why CORVAIR Sales are increasing faster than any make.

Pair Speak Vows At St. Agatha's

Miss JoAnn Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fischer, and Dr. Aniello Infante of Saginaw, formerly of Salerno, Italy, were married at St. Agatha's Church in Gagetown Saturday morning.

White stock and galian daisies, palms and lighted candles decorated the altar for the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Frank McLaughlin. Mrs. Ray Toohy was vocalist and organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of pure silk organza over net fashioned on princess lines, a scoop neckline and short sleeves. The sweeping full skirt ended in a long chapel train. Aisencou lace trimmed the front of the skirt and also edged the sweep of the skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion net was secured to a queen's crown of aurore borealis stars. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid and cascades of stephanotis, florettes and variegated ivy garlands.

Miss Shirley Metiva of Standish was maid of honor and bridesmaids were her sisters, Misses Janice and Sondra Fischer. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical gowns of white silk organza fashioned on princess lines with waltz length bell shaped skirts trimmed with inserts of ribbon and flowers. Their headresses were blue crowns with attached circular veils. They carried crescent bouquets of white carnations with blue florettes with ivy cascade.

Dr. Joseph Lamana of New York was the groomsman and Robert Newas and John Fischer, brother of the bride, seated the guests.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage was white orchids.

Immediately following the nuptial mass dinner was served for the bridal party and immediate families at the Gagetown Hotel. Three hundred guests from New York, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Detroit and Gagetown attended the buffet luncheon and reception held in the public school in the evening.

After a honeymoon trip through northern Michigan the couple will, for the present, make their home in Saginaw. Mrs. Infante is a graduate nurse of St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw and Dr. Infante is on St. Mary's Hospital staff.

Social Security Benefits Increase In Tuscola County

By the end of 1960, 4,821 persons in Tuscola county were receiving old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits. The total benefits paid to these people for December 1960 was $290,093, according to John T. Maidlow, manager of the Saginaw Social Security district office. "This is an increase in the number of people receiving benefits by about 11 per cent over the same month last year," he said.

Nationally almost 15 million persons were receiving about a billion dollars a month in old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits at the close of 1960. Many of these people were made eligible for benefits by the changes in the law made in 1960 — such as the reduction in the amount of work required to qualify for benefits and the removal of the age 50 requirement for disability benefits.

Improve Efficiency With Soil Tilt

Soil tilt is one of the farmers' principle economic aces-in-the-hole. Without good tilt much of the costs in cropping are wasted, reports Don R. Kebler, county extension agent in agriculture.

Soil scientists at Michigan State University are now saying they believe the element oxygen in the soil is of very great importance to plant growth and the resultant efficiency in fertilizer usage.

Everyone who has tried to raise plants in poorly drained compacted soils knows what poor growth results. This poor growth is caused by a varying number of factors besides weather. These wet, cold and compacted soils prevent the plants from growing properly, retards the intake of food nutrients, delays soil micro-organism decomposition processes of releasing plant food nutrients and reduces the amount of oxygen in the soil.

Besides the factors controlling growth, soils with poor tilt work harder, become more compacted and cost more money to till. Delayed planting time and difficulty of plants to break through the soil crust are other factors which help to increase the chances of reduced crop income.

Tilling helps to remove soil water, but before the water can get to the tile it must first be able to move fast enough through the soil.

Improved soil tilt will let the water move to the tile more rapidly and let the field be planted earlier.

There are ways to improve this tilt but a little time and patience is needed. Plowing down all the organic matter one can possibly manage will do the best job economically known. Here the livestock and dairy farmers have had the edge on the cash crop operator. The dairyman has alfalfa and barnyard manures to plow down which many non-dairy operations do not have.

However, all systems of farming could well afford to plow down organic materials each time the soil is plowed. Rye plow-down can follow beans, if wheat is not planted, also after beets and early silage corn. It also can be used after small grains where no legume seeding is made and straw competition is not a problem. Domestic rye grass seeded in corn at the last cultivation does a fine job of supplying vast quantities of organic matter. Lastly, legumes find their usual place as a small grain seeding or as a fall band seeding on prepared ground.

Do not forget minimum tillage, remarks Kebler. Soil tilt is a key to minimum tillage and minimum tillage helps to keep tilt longer. They go together.

A complete green manuring program costs extra but if followed will more than pay for itself over the life time of the operator. The farmer today who maintains his good soil tilt and uses good management practices will have a better chance of staying in the farm business than one who doesn't.

Don't waste sympathy on yourself—others need it so much worse.

Act important, if you must, but don't get in the way of others.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

Wasn't Thursday A Gorgeous Day?

By Ilene Warren

The cats and I are waging a chronic battle over whether or not they are to be allowed to sit on the window sill. The cats seem to be winning - mainly because they're free all day to do as they please and when I am home I'm too busy to be constantly pushing them off the sill. Actually, I don't mind their wiseful peaking through the windowpane... it's the nose marks on the glass that bother me!

Wasn't last Thursday a gorgeous day? I wonder if we'd have appreciated it as much if the preceding days had been equally lovely—it takes the bitter to make us treasure the sweet and so, compared to the chill wet days that we endured last week, Thursday dawned a day which a poet might eulogize. It may have been just such a day that inspired Thomas Carlyle to write:

So here hath been dawning
Another blue day:
Think, wilt thou let it
Slip uselessly away?
With Thursday being such a delightful day, I decided to take full advantage of it... which means I wanted to be outside as much as possible! So I hustled around early in the morning to dust, vacuum, scrub and wax... and clean nose marks off a couple of windowpanes! Outside, I admired the golden daffodils; found delight in discovering the tiny bud clusters on the lilac bush; and puzzled over the poor development of the tulips (my red Emperor tulips are blooming but the flowers are not of normal size nor are the stems as long as they should be - I wonder if the malformation is the result of an early start due to the late winter warmth with the chill, wintry spring retarding proper development).

I did some yard work and then decided that I should do some "research" for this column. It's convenient to have such a handy excuse for doing nothing... which is just what I did after wandering down to the river. Though somewhat squeamish about crawling things, I decided this was too early in the year for most of them and boldly lay on the grass to quietly await the resumption of activity by the birds who had grown still when I invaded their domain. It wasn't long before they resumed their chatter and their busyness. High above me, in the topmost branches of a budding maple tree, a blackbird serenaded me with his "plink-perlunk." Some tiny birds flitted about the bushes - they were restless little creatures. A hawk soared overhead so low that I could see the black patterns on the underside of his wings and the handy hook of his beak.

There are times (while the snow's deep or the mud is too much with us) when I consider favorably the advantages of being a town dweller... but most of the time I enjoy the quiet seclusion of the countryside. Victor Hugo wrote "Nature, like a kind and smiling mother, lends herself to our dreams and cherishes our fancies."

I couldn't conclude this week's column without mentioning my cardinal (I must give him a name - I'm sure it's the same one that comes each time): One morning last week we discovered Mr. Cardinal and his mates breakfasting in our front yard. (We finally finished tearing down the rock garden and now there is an expanse of fresh sandy soil - I thought this would attract some birds but I didn't think the cardinals would venture that close to the house.) Incidentally, I was happy to learn that the female cardinal isn't as drab at close range as she is from a distance - and in flight she shows a flash of two of delicate crimson.

O, lovely bird of scarlet hue,
A brilliant flash against the blue,
Thy merry song doth greet the day
With whistled notes so bright and gay.
Cheerfulness is a side line that very often clears the way for the main line.
Folks who try to start out on a shoe string today are apt to take a good lacing.

Trucks Create New Horizons

Michigan Week's theme — "Michigan's New Horizons" — ties in beautifully with truck transport and the service it renders the people of this State. For trucks do create new horizons through their ability to serve the most remote areas. They go wherever there are roads (and even where there aren't roads, for that matter), carrying new products, new conveniences, new services to people all over Michigan . . . Yes, trucks stand ready to play a most important role as Michigan goes marching forward to new horizons!

Special Education Helps Deaf

Hearing is one of the most important of our special senses, for without hearing, speech is all but impossible, and without speech society could not exist. It is around activities that depend primarily on our sense of hearing that our whole lives are largely built. Hearing loss can be as devastating to the educational, emotional and social development of the child as some of the more obvious handicaps. In fact, hearing loss is known to be one of the most socially isolating of all handicaps.

Recently in one area where over 100,000 children were screened for hearing losses and examined medically, it was discovered that in about 80 per cent of the cases found, neither child nor the parent had previously been aware that a hearing loss existed.

Today these children can be located and aided. Many of them can be helped medically to the extent that hearing can be restored, improved, or prevented from becoming worse. Others can be helped by proper school placement, preferential seating, lip reading, speech correction, use of a hearing aid and other related services.

Delayed detection and correction result in waste of human resources and unnecessary expense for the taxpayer. Such expense results not only when these children repeat grades because their hearing loss has prevented their keeping up with their classwork, but also in later life when their hearing handicaps restrict them from producing to their fullest economic capacity. A complete program for children with hearing handicaps is good business and should be included in all school programs.

In Tuscola County as in other areas in Michigan, we have hearing screening programs that locate the children with hearing handicaps, examine them medically, and recommend further treatment. The unfortunate fact is that all of the treatment that is prescribed is not always available, but it can be.

Part of the treatment is very often special education. A complete program of special education will provide the educational services that the hearing handicapped child requires in school. These services may help him to a better social and emotional adjustment. He might need to learn how to read lips, or learn more adequate speech patterns. He might need continued training in the use of his hearing aid. Children with hearing handicaps sometimes need special training in small groups in special rooms with special equipment. There are many special needs of these youngsters with hearing handicaps because they are special. A complete program of special education will provide for these special needs.

This is one of a series of articles on special education. An article on the Blind and Partially Seeing Children will appear next week.

Caro FFA Cops Land Judging Contest

Future Farmers of America Chapters in Tuscola county took part in a land judging contest sponsored by the Tuscola Soil Conservation District Thursday, May 4. Maynard McConkey, district chairman, announced today. The contest was held on the Keith Riley farm west of Caro.

Forty-three students representing six schools took part in the contest. The schools participating included Akron-Fairgrove, Caro, Cass City, Mayville, Millington and Reese.

First place was won by the Caro chapter with Joe Habdas, Melvin Witkowski and Paul Vaughn making the high scores. Richard Karels is the Caro Vo-Ag instructor. Second place went to Mayville with John Welke, James Welke and Leo Marr being the high scorers. Ray Howard is the Mayville instructor.

Third place was won by Millington chapter with Wayne Leix, Don Monroe and Jerry Simmonds scoring highest. Jake Meachum is the instructor.

Akron-Fairgrove, Ronald Nagy, instructor; Reese, Earl French, instructor, and Cass City, Lyle Clark instructor, followed in this order.

Joe Habdas of the Caro FFA Chapter had the highest individual score in the entire county in the contest. He also scored highest in the 1960 contest.

Two newly revised folders on horticultural crops are available in the Tuscola county extension office according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

They are, "Growing Pickling Cucumbers in Michigan" and "Chemical Weed Control for Horticultural Crops."

The cucumber folder discusses all phases of raising cucumbers in Michigan. Such topics as soils, varieties, fertilizer, planting, cultivation, chemical weed control, irrigation and harvesting are covered.

Michigan grows more cucumbers for pickles than any other state. The state has about 25 per cent of the U. S. acreage. The crop is worth about $5 million annually to Michigan farmers.

The second folder discusses principles of chemical weed control, weed sprayers and band application.

A table lists suggestions for chemical weed control in more than 40 different vegetables, fruits, flowers and ornamentals.

Suggested chemicals, trade names, the amount and time of application and the weed controlled by each chemical are listed.

Both folders are published by the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.
