Dean Powell Killed in Crash

Ira Dean Powell, 33, of Cass City was killed in an automobile accident at about 1:30 a.m. Monday when he crashed into a car driven by Walter Schantz, 25, of Gagetown.

According to Trooper Tageson of the Bad Axe State Police Post, the point of impact indicated that the Powell car was on the wrong side of the road when the crash occurred.

Mr. Schantz said that he saw the Powell car coming on the wrong side of the road and moved to the curb, but was forced into the path of the Powell car because of a vehicle parked on the side of the road.

Mr. Schantz received only bumps and lacerations and two passengers in the car, Paul Radabaugh, 22, of Sebawing and Clarence Schantz, Gagetown, were shaken up.

Both cars were demolished.

Mr. Powell was born July 18, 1927, in Cass City the son of the late Roy Powell and Mrs. Florence Powell.

He married Miss Barbara Sutherland in Bad Axe July 17, 1954. Following their marriage they made their home in Rochester, moving to Cass City in 1956.

He was employed at Rabideau Motor Sales. A veteran, he served with the Army from November of 1945 to March of 1947, mostly in the Pacific Theatre.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: a son, Jeffery Dean, and a daughter, Florence Elaine, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. William (Rosella) Kretschmer of Owendale and Mrs. William (Virginia) Allison of Saginaw; four brothers, Sanford and Milton, both of Gagetown, Frederick of Cass City and Vern of Elkton, and his mother, Mrs. Florence Powell of Cass City.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home. Rev. S. R. Wurtz, pastor of the Cass City EUB Church, officiated.

Committal services were under the auspices of the Tri-County Post No. 507 of the American Legion of which Mr. Powell was a member.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Elect Pair to Co. School Board

Two members of the Tuscola County Board of Education were named to office at the annual meeting of the group held Monday at the courthouse in Caro.

Maurice Ransford was re-elected for a six-year term and Irving Dean of Millington was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Bates Willis. Mr. Dean had been appointed to the board and was acting on the board prior to the election. Members of the board are named by the secretaries from the various county school districts.

Other members are Arvin Wingert of Kingston, John Kirk and Harry Russell.

Cass City was represented by Dr. D. E. Rawson at the meeting.

Slate Class Reunion

The 10th anniversary reunion of the Cass City High School class of 1951 will be held Saturday, June 24, at the high school, authorities in charge announced this week.

Expect Record Vote In School Election

Musall Injured In Second Auto Accident

Robert Musall of Cass City was injured and his car badly damaged when he was involved in his second accident in two weeks Sunday morning at 2:22 a.m.

Mr. Musall was traveling east on Deckerville Road, about two and a half miles west of Deford, when his car went onto the shoulder of the south side of the road.

When he attempted to drive onto the highway he lost control of his car and went into a ditch on the north side of the road and rolled over.

He suffered severe lacerations of the head and was hospitalized at Cass City Hospital.

The previous Saturday he was involved in an accident at 1:30 a.m. on M-81, a half mile northeast of Caro.

Mr. Musall had started to pass a vehicle driven by Ronald J. Swallow of Kingston. Swallow attempted to make a left turn into the drive-in theatre and the cars collided.

Both drivers escaped injury.

Kingston Supt. Resigns Position

George Hackett, superintendent of Kingston High School, has resigned, effective at the end of the current school year.

Although he is working on the first year of a three-year contract, he said that he will not return to Kingston next year.

Mr. Hackett declined to say why he was not returning. One reason could have been difficulty on a recent senior trip that has caused the school board to abolish the trips in future years at the school.

Mr. Hackett said that his plans for next year are indefinite at this time.

German Lass Tells Club of Life at Home

Miss Andrea Scherbeck, an exchange student from Germany who has been attending Sandusky High School this past year, was the guest speaker Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the Shabbona Extension Club in the Shabbona Community Hall. Miss Scherbeck explained some of the differences between the German way of life and ours but stated that, basically, we are very much alike.

Mrs. Clark Auslander, member of the Sanilac County Extension Council, also made a few remarks. Following the program, lunch was served at a table decorated with miniature flags of the United Nations.

Guests included, besides Miss Scherbeck, Miss Jean Shubel who is the Sanilac County Extension Agent and the Snover Extension Club.

Later in the evening, after the guests had departed, the Shabbona group held their annual election of officers. Those elected for the coming year are: chairman, Mrs. Edward Phetteplace; vice-chairman, Mrs. Clarence. Concluded on page twelve.

A record vote for a Cass City School election has been forecast for Monday when voters will decide whether to approve two requests for additional funds and name two men to the school board from among four candidates.

Possibly the top interest centers around the request of the school board for an additional three mills for operating expenses.

The school board says that an additional $45,000 is needed from local taxpayers to run the school properly.

The reasons for the substantial boost of about 46 per cent over the amount collected last year are numerous, according to the board.

One of the top reasons is the complicated formula used for the distribution of State Aid funds. State Aid, which together with local taxes form the bulk of the slightly less than half million needed to operate the school, will be reduced some $12,000 to $199,472.00.

Tuition fees ($21,280.00) and State Primary ($30,654.00) will change very little. Transportation fees ($9,300.00) will be reduced by the state. Local property taxes needed to balance the budget, the board says, are $175,510.95.

Other expenses facing the school include money to furnish five new rooms and for replacing furniture and equipment at a cost of $6,000. In addition, two new buses are needed and an added teacher in the elementary school to staff a fourth first grade class next year. Also needed is an additional high school teacher.

Superintendents of Tuscola county schools who are fighting for millage are hopeful that their appeal to the State Tax Commission will result in an added mill for operating. If this millage is granted, the board pledges to reduce the three extra mills for operating by a corresponding amount. The increase in operating funds will not affect the debt service. The millage has been reduced for debt so that nearly the same amount will be collected on the new valuation in 1961-62 as was collected this year.

Area voters will join with voters in all districts in the county to decide whether to okay three-quarters of a mill for special education.

Complete information about the program and its operation, which is the last of a series about the handicapped, appears on an inside page of this issue.

CMU Scholarship Grant Awarded To Sally Hobart

The Scholarship Committee at Central Michigan University has announced the award of a State Board of Education Grant to Sally Hobart, a member of the Cass City High School graduating class. The scholarship, which pays University fees, is renewable upon satisfactory academic standing.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Hobart of Gagetown. She has maintained an excellent scholastic record in high school and has been very active in student affairs. She was a member of the varsity cheerleaders and was homecoming queen in 1960.

Sally will enroll at Central Michigan University on an Elementary Teaching Curriculum.

Postmaster Lewis Bishop reported this week that there will be numerous changes in mail rates to foreign countries effective July 1.

Because they vary widely he suggests that persons sending mail out of the States check to determine the proper cost before mailing.

The Jason Kitchens, who live on route three in Cass City, have received over 80 greeting cards recently. The cards have been sent for no special event. Just a neighborly gesture to folks who have lived in the area for a long time, we were told.

If you like horse racing, you can make $4 go a long ways. That's the price for a ticket to the annual Rotary excursion to the Detroit Race Course Thursday, June 15. The ticket includes a bountiful buffet dinner and refreshments as well as admittance to a reserved section of the grandstand.

The event is open to all Cass Cityites.

Tickets are available through this week end from Rotarians Dick Erla or Al Knezer.

Most observers expect the vote for the three additional mills for the three additional mills for three-quarters of a mill for special education to be close. It's very possible that a very few votes will decide both issues.

Both propositions are explained in this issue. Study them and be sure to vote Monday.

Tot Dies In Freak Accident

John Paul Southworth, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Southworth of Caro, was killed in a freak accident at his home on Gilford Road in Caro at 11:48 Tuesday morning.

The tot was left for a few moments in the yard to play and was found lying in the driveway at the house. The Southworth car was parked in the driveway with the brakes on. The boy managed to open the door and release the brake.

Authorities theorized that when the car started to coast down the incline the boy was caught by the door and swung under the left front wheel and run over.

Erla Seeks Dem Nomination for Con-con Delegate

Dick Erla of Cass City announced this week that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in the primary to be held Tuesday, July 25.

Mr. Erla seeks to represent the 20th Senatorial District of Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties. He is the only Democratic nominee and is assured of a place on the fall ballot.

Mr. Erla was an unsuccessful candidate for state senator in the last state election. He has been active in Democratic politics at the county and regional levels.

He is co-owner of Erla Food Center and president-elect of the Cass City Rotary Club.

From the Editor's Corner

How much does a hamburger cost?

While housed in Chicago's swank Palmer House hotel on their recent trip, three seniors decided that they were hungry and asked that three hamburgers and three cokes be sent to their room.

A while later a bellboy came dutifully traipsing in with the food. One of the fellows casually handed him a $5 bill and held out his hand for the change... only to have him say, "That will be $7 please."

SOME COMMON SENSE ON OIL CHANGES

Through improved filters and higher detergent quality of modern oils, the once standard 1,000-mile oil change has crept upward to 2,000 to 4,000 miles in owner manual recommendations to the point where these recommendations have now become selling features of various models.

Car makers' figures often differ from oil company suggestions for... crankcase drainings, perhaps because the oil firms have a commercial interest in frequent changes. In any case, the owner manual should be the final guide.

Theoretically, a metal engine part continuously bathed in clean oil will never wear out. Where reality catches up with theory though, is that starting immediately after an oil change your oil starts to accumulate unburned fuel and water from condensation along with dirt. Though your oil will never "wear out" as such, this chemical adulteration weakens it and starts the creation of engine-pitted acid.

For this reason, dusty roads and short trips involving starting and stopping a cold engine are the hardest on your oil and hence your engine. If you do nothing but this kind of driving, then you would be wise to halve the... mileage of oil change recommendations... since these guides were made for "normal" driving including 50 per cent highway trips.

Modern high compression engines CAN be seriously harmed by deteriorated engine oil. Think of oil changes as a kind of insurance. Because the cost of a major engine failure is many, many times the cost of the additional oil changes, it is better to err on the liberal side.

Baseball Games Are Too Scientific

By Hene Warren

In last week's column I mildly bewailed the fact that a garden I planned to be all white turned out to be mostly yellow. Someone asked me, "Why don't you have an all yellow garden?"

Now, why didn't I think of that? Well, it's too late now because the white Mount Hood daffodils have been added . . . also jonquils . . . and this year, for the first time, a beautiful deep purple iris is blooming in the center of the garden bed.

Speaking of gardening, perhaps someone can tell me what I've been failing to do for my Kolkwitzia (beauty bush). I have one in the above mentioned garden and it's growing nicely but has never bloomed. No green thumb, I guess — just green efforts!

When I learned about the death of Roswell Raymond, a former Shabbona resident, a troop of childhood memories came marching back to me: times that I saw Mr. Raymond play baseball . . . and other games, especially at the old Shabbona homecomings. But chiefly I remembered hearing my brother-in-law Bill Ego (a pretty fair baseball player in his own right) mention "Rozzie" Raymond to raise his pitching prowess. Bill always thought that Rozzie had what it takes to make the big leagues . . . somehow he didn't quite make it.

While on the subject of baseball, it seems to me that baseball used to be a more colorful game . . . not only on the local level (I recall some of the Shabbona home-coming games when the all-colored team from Flint would entertain us with their antics while still playing good ball) but also in the major leagues. Today's baseball seems to be — perhaps rightly so — a scientific art . . . makes me wonder how someone like "Gee" Walker would fit into today's game!

Last Sunday, June 4th, was the 184th anniversary of the adoption of our National Flag. Iconoclasts would tell us that Betsy Ross did not make the first American (stars and stripes) flag (some historians, too, for that matter). Be that as it may, it's still a lovely story to hear and to tell about the creation of our first flag . . . and who's to know for sure that her grandson, William J. Canby, wasn't telling the truth as he heard it from the lips of his gentle grandmother when he was a young boy and she an old lady of eighty-four?

Someone came into Bule's one day and said to me, "In what book do you find all that stuff you write?" Gee, thanks for the compliment . . . I think.

Another letter has arrived from a friend, Leona Whiting, who is living in Sao Paulo, Brasil. Leona is becoming accustomed to the climate; at first disliked the humid weather. Now, she writes, since she has become accustomed, she finds the slower pace of living rather attractive. On the dampest days, she does just what must be accomplished and the rest of the time she lies down. But, then, I've never been one to eulogize the "good ole days" . . . this day seems pretty good to me. It's both a wonderful and a terrible age . . . but hope transcends the despair . . . and I find much that is challenging and stimulating.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor: I was reading some figgers last night by a column writer for the Associated Press showing the awful price the world is paying on account of Russia trying to git the upper hand all over the globe.

This feller said $14 million a hour is being spent in the world on weapons and armed forces ever hour round the clock, with the United States and Russia spending 73 per cent of it. The piece went on to say that it's costing $40 a year for ever man, woman and child in the world, including the millions in China and India. This feller figured out that this money would furnish housing for 240 million families, or pervide food and medical care for three million people.

And it looks like Russia has got us on a treadmill. We can't git 'em to quit and we can't quit till they do. Looks to me like sooner or later the hole is going to git bigger'n the dough-nut.

I don't know what the answer is, Mister Editor. About half the world seems to be working on the solution and the other half is part of the problem. Things is gitting too complicated for me anymore. Per instant, I see where they is predicting that in 20 years houses will be made out of plastic, won't rot, won't need paint. Cars will have turbine motors and tires will last 100,000 miles. Sidewalks will have moving belts so's a feller can stand still and git there just the same. Electronic stoves will git dinner ready in three minutes, and food will be kept market fresh for a whole year by radiating it, whatever that is. And to put the stopper in the jug, Time Magazine predicts that afore long women's girdles will be sprayed on from a can.

At my age, I ain't liable to make it another 20 years, and maybe it's fer the best. I don't know if I could stand so much progress in such a short time. I was raised up in the rocking chair age and as a feller gits older he ought to worry less about life on account of they being less of it to worry about. With things in such a mess, I'd just like to take me a vacation, that is, if I could git up the collateral or find enough co-signers. But I reckon I'll just take my vacation as usual, setting up at the country store and enjoying hearing about my neighbors trouble. Don't cost me a cent and always leaves me refreshed to know I ain't suffering alone.

Yours truly, Uncle Tim

Surplus crops have been so much in the news that we often overlook the importance of agriculture to the economy of Michigan. And, Michigan Agriculture is a big industry!

Dr. Robert Kramer, Director Agriculture Marketing and Utilization Center, Michigan State University, has supplied us with information which gives us a good idea of the importance of Michigan's agriculture.

First, let's study the labor situation. The total labor force in Michigan is 2,900,000 and about 6 per cent of that number is employed on farms. In addition, an additional 600,000 work in industries manufacturing equipment or supplies which farmers purchase for the business of farming.

Michigan's cash receipts from farm marketings totaled $705,000,000 in 1959, the last year for which records are available. Dairy products are the most important group as they contribute 28 per cent to the total cash receipts.

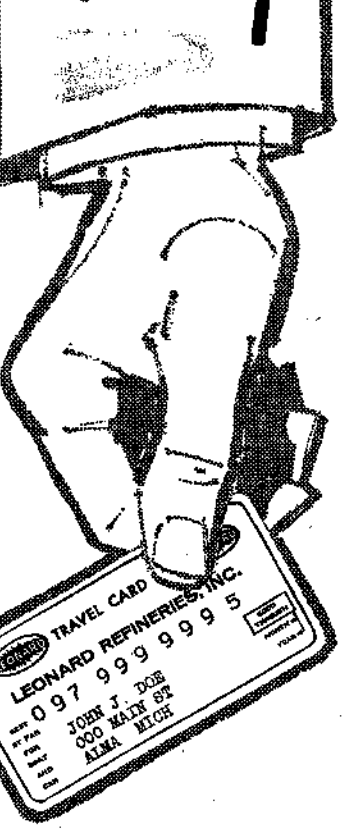

Michigan farmers are good consumers, too. Each year they purchase $65 million dollars worth of feed, $20 million worth of livestock, $15 million worth of seed, and $38 million worth of fertilizer and lime.

Also, they pay annually $115 million dollars for repairs and operation of capital items. This includes the repair and maintenance of buildings, repair and operation of motor vehicles and other machines, and the petroleum fuel and oil used in the farm business.

Michigan farmers spend $57 million annually for short-term interest, pesticides, electricity, telephone, livestock marketing charges, containers, milk hauling charges, irrigation, crating, binding, blacksmithing, hardware items, veterinary services, medicines and insurance premiums.

Michigan farmers spend each year over $61 million for hired labor. Another $200 million can be added for depreciation, taxes, interest on farm mortgages and returns to non-farm landlords. This does not include the expenditures that were necessary to increase their capital items.

The production of farm raw materials is basic to many other businesses in Michigan. Nearly 149,000 farms are highly dependent on farming. These farms employ over 770,000 people, have an investment of $7.3 billion, and sales of nearly $10 billion each year.

Since there are in the neighborhood of 350,000 tractors, cars and trucks on Michigan farms, they probably buy enough rubber each year to put new tires on as many as 175,000 cars.

Michigan farmers also furnish a market for somewhere in the neighborhood of 200,000 tons of finished steel and about 1,450,000 tons of chemicals each year. The over $700 million which farmers receive annually for the sale of farm products equals about 38 per cent of the retail value of these products. Assembly, processing, and distribution all over $1 billion in value to this agricultural output, so that the annual retail value of the output from Michigan farmers is over $1.8 billion. The retail value of foods consumed by the eight million people in Michigan totals more than $3.5 billion.

Food is a real bargain in terms of wages of factory workers. Between 1950 and 1958 beef prices increased about 21 per cent while weekly earnings increased 56 per cent, and the amount of working time required to buy a pound of beef dropped from 29 to 22 minutes. A good indication of the declining cost of food is a comparison of 1929, a relatively prosperous year, and 1958.

Wilting Makes Best Hay Silage

An excellent way of making high-quality hay-crop silage is by wilting to 30-50 per cent dry matter before harvesting, says Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Wilting makes the best silage because the farmer reduces the total weight which he hauls to the silo by 40 to 60 per cent, says Ballweg.

U. S. Department of Agriculture figures show that total nutrient losses are reduced nine per cent when silage is harvested as wilted rather than direct-cut silage.

Farmers can estimate the proper stage of wilting by using a simple compaction test. In this test, the farmer squeezes a handful of silage in his hand. If the silage does not form a wet soggy ball, then the silage is within the recommended wilting range.

Wilting the silage to 30 to 50 per cent dry matter usually means that silage cut in the morning can be put in the silo the same afternoon.

Hay crops cut between one-half and one-quarter inches in length make the best silage because they will pack tighter and thus keep out air which can cause spoilage.

Ballweg says that the best stage of cutting is when the hay crop is between the bud and one-tenth bloom stage of maturity.

He advises using two to three loads of direct-cut silage as a cap to help prevent excess surface spoilage after the silo is filled.

MATTER OF OPINION

Most youngsters are just as enthusiastic about the summer vacation as their mothers aren't.

Herd Size Varies Pasture System

Pasture systems for 60 cows may not be the same as for the 20 to 30-cow herd, says Don R. Kebler, county extension agent for Tuscola county.

Reporting on research with pasture systems, Kebler advises rotational grazing or strip-grazing for the herd of less than 30 cows.

He says that the 30 to 40-cow herd can use these pasture systems but some adjustment may have to be made for land that is located some distance from the farm buildings.

Where a large amount of forage is needed and distance is a factor, either green chopping or silage offer some potential.

For the herd of more than 60 cows, a combination of grazing systems plus silage fed out of storage offers the most promising possibility. This system is preferable to green chopping because of the conflict for labor.

Know The Truth About Building Materials

CROFT-CLARA BRINGS YOU THESE FACTS AS A PUBLIC SERVICE AND GUIDE TO BETTER BUILDING

CHOOSE MATERIALS with a view to easy maintenance.

QUALITY MATERIALS cost no more to install than cheap materials, but pay off in long life, good looks and minimum care.

MOST OF THE HUGE variety of materials used in homes vary greatly in quality and maintenance requirements, some are rugged and never need attention - others lose their initial luster in a distressingly short time, and like cheap knives and forks never look well again.

TOO OFTEN LOW first cost is the controlling factor that determines the type of materials chosen for a home. Disillusionment soon follows, for the cheapest type in first cost usually turn out to be the most expensive in the long run when you figure the costly maintenance and repairs they require.

BUT FOR ONLY A FEW DOLLARS more in first cost you can almost always choose top quality materials that give long service and require minimum upkeep. What's more, quality materials generally cost no more to install when a house is built than the same materials of the cheapest grade. The use of top quality materials throughout the house will increase total house cost by 5 to 10%.

AT THE RIGHT SIDE of this page is a chart to help you choose the best materials for your house based on long life and minimum maintenance thus lowest over-all-cost.

WOODS

Require Periodic painting and treatment to resist moisture. Best for keeping out cold.

ALUMINUM

Little upkeep and no painting. Due to being a good conductor very cold in winter. Sweats and leaves moisture on sills. Used mostly in southern states.

— EXTERIOR WALLS —

WOOD SIDING, CLAP-BOARD, PLYWOOD

Good durability, requires paint periodically.

BRICK & STONE

Most permanent and inexpensive to maintain due to no painting. Requires good insulation and vapor protection.

ALUMINUM SIDING

Gives excellent long-term service but should be vented -- Quality varies, so get thick top grade kind with permanent finish.

COUNTER TOP SURFACES

LINOLEUM

Low in first cost, colorful and attractive -- susceptible to stains, scratches, fading and rot due to water penetration.

PLASTIC LAMINATES

Wipes clean easily, will not stain, rot or fade, but knives will cut it. Good heat resistance, hot pans will mar it. Should last 20 years.

— FLOORS —

Hardwood Floors Oak

Strong, handsome, durable. The king of floors, easy to clean, particularly with one of the new durable finishes. Will last a lifetime.

SOFTWOOD FLOORS

Not quite so handsome or durable as hardwood. But still hard and long-lasting. Top Grade gives best grain and appearance, but use good finishes.

VINYL FLOORS

Most expensive in first cost, but toughest, best looking, easiest to maintain among resilient floor types - Highest resistance to wear, scarring and grease.

RUBBER TILE

Highly resilient and resistant to indentation marks and water, but will show wear unless periodically finished, preferably with self-polishing wax.

ASPHALT

Good low cost, good for slab floors, but less durable than other types; susceptible to stain, scuffing and dents.

State One of the Leaders in Human Rights Legislation

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Minority groups in Michigan have little reason to resort to "freedom rider" crusades, or even the "sit-in" or "kneel-in" tactics common in southern states.

They've got the law behind them here.

Northern states, of course, don't have the problems of the South. There is discrimination, because where there are people who differ in color of skin, national background or religion there is in some degree mistrust, fear and bigotry.

But Michigan has been a leader in guaranteeing human rights.

Even controversy over such things as the anti-discrimination "Rule Nine" which deals with real estate is based mostly on the fear that the rights of non-minority groups might be impaired by going too far with legislative or administrative rules.

Anti-bias law has far deeper roots than "Rule Nine," which was promulgated by the Corporation and Securities Commission.

First, there is the Michigan Constitution, which (in Article II) guarantees certain basic property and personal rights to all the citizens of the state.

The Fair Employment Practices Act, which sets up a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC), is aimed at insuring equal job opportunities for all citizens, regardless of race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry.

The FEPC finds its greatest tool for fighting bias is the threat of action although it can and will go to court to protect rights.

Legally, of course, it is difficult to prove an employer has been discriminatory in his hiring and firing practices. Too many questions involving only judgment, of such things as competence, personality, suitability and other characteristics, enters in.

But the law tends to make employers conscious of race regulations and even employees who might resent the hiring of some people realize the law makes it difficult to do otherwise.

Perhaps the most effective anti-discrimination force in the state is the example set by the Michigan government in its personnel policies and statements.

The Civil Service Commission has promulgated comprehensive and effective rules to prevent official bias.

Another move to safeguard the rights of all persons in Michigan was recently made by Gov. John B. Swainson, who issued a "Governor's Code of Fair Practices" to govern personnel practices and services, facilities and regulatory and contracting policies of all state agencies.

While Swainson, like any other politician, is aware of minority group bloc-voting, he also seems to have a very strong personal feeling in the area of civil rights.

"If I demand a right for myself," Swainson has often said, "then I must be ready to give that same right to others."

The Governor's code, which details the things which government agencies may and may not do in connection with civil rights, was based, he said, in the Preamble to the code, on fundamental American concepts that "all men are created equal," and are endowed with "certain inalienable rights."

"No state constitution, no state law can hinder the pursuit of equality, justice and liberty," the Preamble says.

The state has a good record in civil rights, Swainson said, but government must take special pains to keep its house in order.

"State government, as an employer, has a responsibility to serve as a model for business, industry, labor and private employment agencies," Swainson said in the Preamble to his code.

Group health and life insurance for state employees apparently will go ahead as ordered by the Civil Service Commission despite the fact that many agencies who have tight budgets may be hard-pressed to meet the state's share of the cost of such programs.

Attorney General Paul L. Adams has ruled that because the Legislature failed to prohibit the programs, they will be legal.

In an opinion nearly two years ago, Adams cleared the way for insurance programs in which the state and state employees participate in the cost of ruling that the Civil Service Commission could legally make the necessary commitments to set up such a plan.

State Controller Ira Polley asked Adams if it would be proper to certify expenditures for the state's share of insurance premiums. Adams said yes.

The Legislature not only refused to include in appropriations for salaries and wages any sums for insurance, it also failed to either approve or disapprove of such expenditures.

Adams' opinion said not only could classified Civil Service employees take part in the plan, but so could unclassified employees—which includes the Legislators.

Improper Milking Can Cause Mastitis

At the first signs of mastitis in his herd, an alert dairyman should immediately check for some improper milking practice, says Alfred Ballweg, county extension director for Tuscola county.

Proper practices include preparing the cow for milk let-down, milking when let-down is highest and taking the machines off as soon as the milk is gone from the udder.

If a dairy farmer checks and finds all these points okay, he should inspect his mechanical system. The machines need to have adequate and stable vacuum, elastic inflations free from absorbed fat and a properly operating pulsator.

Each dairyman needs to make regular inspections of his equipment and procedures so he can find trouble spots easier if mastitis strikes, Ballweg says.

If all procedures and the systems check out properly, the dairyman should call his local veterinarian for diagnosis and treatment of mastitis.

Vacation to most people is a change—and it helps get rid of it.

MICHIGAN IS INDUSTRY

What has developed a multi-billion dollar automobile industry in Michigan? The very same advantages that have attracted many other industries to this state—abundant sources of raw materials, a limitless supply of water, unmatched transportation facilities, and a labor force with an average employee productivity that is 18.3 percent above the national average.

Michigan has manufacturing operations in over 80 per cent of the 453 separate industry groups recognized by the U. S. Bureau of Census. A good percentage of these are only remotely related to the auto industry, such as the manufacture of concrete products, office furniture, food products, machinery, transmission equipment, cereal breakfast foods, refrigeration machinery and pharmaceutical preparations. Michigan is Industry—truly diversified Industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip this ad and mail it to someone in another state with your comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together we can assure a greater future for all of us.

Questions and Answers About Special Education

What is Special Education?
Special Education deals entirely with special assistance, through the schools, to handicapped children. It is a comparatively new program for Michigan schools. Programs similar to that proposed for Tuscola County are now operating in 23 Michigan Counties.

Who are the Handicapped Children?
We don't have to look very far to find some children with handicaps in every community. They are the children with individual differences caused by blindness, partial vision, deafness, poor hearing, limited mental ability, defective speech, crippling conditions, and other types of physical handicaps and social maladjustments.

Why should we tax ourselves for Special Education?
Most of us will agree that society and individuals have an obligation to develop the ideal of a full and useful life for every exceptional child in accordance with his capacity, regardless of the way he is exceptional. In our efforts toward this goal we recognize that parents and teachers are the indispensable guides to the future.

Our faith lies in the exceptional child himself and his capacity for developing, his right to an often denied full life, his need for freedom and independence, and his possession of a capacity for constructive citizenship.

Most Tuscola County people seem to agree that, so far as possible, education should be a local responsibility. It is generally less expensive, more responsive to local needs and local control. Administration of the Special Education Program, if adopted, will be in the hands of the County Board of Education—a five-member board elected by vote of all School Districts in the county. This board hires the County School Superintendent and would be responsible for employing the teaching staff for Special Education.

Will my school district be served?
All handicapped children regardless of school district will be included in the program. Transportation to these programs may be reimbursed through local and county agreement.

Do we have enough Handicapped Children in the County to warrant Special Education?
Conservative estimates by school people, based on three separate surveys, show that approximately 1,585 of the 11,660 school children in Tuscola County need and would be helped by Special Education. However, every student would benefit. If a Special Education program is established in Tuscola County the normal and "gifted" pupils in present classrooms would benefit. The regular classroom teacher and her students are at a disadvantage when "slow learners," emotionally disturbed children and others must be given the special attention they deserve. Providing Special Education for the handicapped would relieve regular teachers of this responsibility and give them more time to devote to their work with other pupils.

What will Special Education cost me?
The state will pay 75 per cent of the cost of operation of Special Education. 25 per cent must be raised locally. It will take (84) mill property tax to raise our county's portion of the needed funds. Each taxpayer would pay 75 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation to raise the needed money.

Who can vote?
If you are a U. S. citizen, at least 21 years of age, a Michigan resident for the preceding 6 months, a school district resident the previous 30 days, you are eligible to vote. Registration is required only in registration districts.

When and where will I vote?
June 12 at your local school election. Place and time will be posted in every school district. Contact your local school superintendent for further information.

The special education teachers who have written these articles, Bill Cannon, Charles Frederick, Leo Kipfmüller, Ron Laeder and Richard Reava, wish to take this opportunity to express their gratitude to this paper for publishing this series of special education articles.

12 Team Church League Set to Start Monday

The 12-team Church Softball League swings into action Monday with a schedule that calls for three games weekly through the middle of August. Games will be played Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Lifting the curtain on league activity will be Cass City Catholics and Cass City Methodists who meet at 7 p.m. The second game of the evening at 9 p.m. will pit Decker Methodist against Cass City EUB Church.

Wednesday's contests feature Lamotte-Mizpah United Missionary churches against Gagetown Church of the Nazarene at 7 p.m. and Grant Fraser vs. Cass City Presbyterians at 9 p.m.

Friday, June 16, the remaining four teams in the league swing into action. Deford-Kingston Methodists face Argyle-Cass City Baptists and Shabbona Methodist plays Deford Church of Christ.

On the basis of last year's play, Deford-Kingston (undefeated in regular season play) and Cass City Catholics (play-off champions) are rated as the teams to beat.

However, the league rule that makes players ineligible to pitch after they are 18 years old, often makes losers of teams that were at or near the top the previous year.

Little Leaguers To Start Monday

Cass City's Little League will swing into action on the diamond next to the elementary school next Monday, authorities in charge announced this week.

The game will pit the Yankees against the Giants. The second game of the year is scheduled for Wednesday, June 14, and pits the Tigers vs. the Pirates. Friday, June 16, the opening week of the schedule will be completed when the Giants meet the Pirates.

League officials announce that interest is higher than ever in the program and that because of the many boys who have signed for the program an extensive minor league will operate for boys not yet ready for the Little League team.

Pony Leaguers to Practice Tonight

Boys interested in playing baseball in a Pony League will report to the park tonight (Thursday) at 6 o'clock where the first practice is scheduled.

The league is for boys 13 and 14 years old and for some 15-year-olds who are not playing in the Babe Ruth League. Noel Frakes, organizer, said this week.

Complete details will be worked out during opening practices.

The group will enjoy a mystery tour June 20. They also plan to attend Camp Day at Sanilac County Park June 27 where they have been invited to present a few of their "Crazy Daisy Band" numbers. The club will then recess for the summer and will not meet until Sept. 26.

Ed Freeman, Cass City, ended his brilliant Central Michigan University track career last week end by winning the Interstate Conference pole vaulting championship. Freeman, second in the league pole vault finds last year, cleared 13 feet 7 3/8 to cop the conference title.

Ed Freeman doesn't take his pole vaulting too seriously. Just seriously enough, however, to make him the best vaulter in the Interstate Conference.

Freeman, a Cass City senior at Central Michigan University, capped his long track career at Carbondale, Ill., last week end by winning the title with a leap an inch and one-eighth under the league record.

That championship ended Freeman's bright collegiate career, but it didn't end his pole vaulting days.

For as some people collect stamps, Ed Freeman props himself over a bar some 13 or 14 feet in the air and drops back to earth again—just as a hobby.

Pole vaulting has been his hobby for about as long as he can remember.

It all started back in the third or fourth grade—he can't remember which—at Cass City. He had an opportunity to watch the great Cornelius Warmerdam in action and that, according to Freeman, set him off.

"I started out with a broomstick as a pole," he recalls, "and kept working at it because I enjoyed it. I think it was about two years before I could clear three feet."

By the time he attended Cass City High School, Freeman's hobby began paying off. As a junior he vaulted 12 feet-6 to establish a school record which still stands.

He also received an injury which he feels has hindered his vaulting ever since. His do-it-yourself leaping had other drawbacks, too.

"While jumping on my own as a kid helped me quite a bit, it also developed some serious errors in form that have taken a long time to iron out," Freeman admits.

"It took a lot of coaching both in high school and here at Central, before I was able to pole vault the way I was supposed to, but getting the proper form has enabled me to go higher than I ever could have gone on my own."

Freeman attributes his erratic collegiate performances to these basic errors in form and to the early injury.

He varies as much as a foot and a half in height from meet to meet. The week before winning the conference championship, in fact, he had not been able to go higher than 12 foot-6 in a dual meet against Eastern Michigan.

Freeman, who has a double major in geography and physical education, also proved to be one of Central's most versatile trackmen this year.

He experimented with the discus, javelin and took an occasional try at broad jumping in addition to his specialty. His 56 points in six meets ranked him as Central's second high individual scorer for the season.

Now that his collegiate career is over he'll forget about additional events. But Freeman's keeping his pole vaulting pole handy. After all, it's still a hobby.

People who fish for compliments only invite biting remarks.

DEFORD

Herman Rock, who attends Asbury College in Kentucky, arrived home Wednesday, May 31, to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rock.

Miss Laura Allen arrived home Thursday from Asbury College in Kentucky to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Allen. Shelby Ennis of Elizabethtown, Ky., accompanied her home and returned Monday to Kentucky.

Students Present Piano Recital

Mrs. Jack Esau presented her piano students in a recital Saturday at 10 a.m. in Salem Evangelical UB Church. Parents attended. The program was announced by Eric Esau.

Following the recital, the youngsters and some parents went with Mr. and Mrs. Esau and family to Indianfields park on a picnic. Participating were 12 girls and Karen Holm and Eric Esau. Included in the group were Ila Belle Babich and Dale Horak of Deford. Linda Kretschmer, Becky and Nancy Good of Owendale, Carol Gettel and Felicia McNeill of Gagetown and Pamela Dobbs, Brenda Powell, Carol and Margie Clarke and Joyce Austin.

ALTAR SOCIETY
Concluded from page one. dren. He said children should be expected to obey. Make few demands of them, he added, but see that they are obeyed. Avoid coaxing and bribing and have the same rules from day to day.

In a raffle, Charlotte Lauria, Mary Kerbyson and Patty Comment were the winners. Members of the group will serve at a father-son banquet slated June 18 at Cass City High School gym.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Melvin Balk who is leaving the community.
