

Faulty Exhaust Kills Cass City Man

From the Editor's Corner

A good deal of the news in every issue of the Chronicle and every other country weekly is contributed by readers. This more than any other factor accounts for the amount of space that run-of-the-mill stories receive. (The major stories of top interest, we cover in person.)

As a country paper, we like to print all of the local news in as much detail as possible. Seldom are local news stories cut for lack of space as happens often in the columns of our big city cousins who cover news of the world.

As a case in point, let's take the sports news. It's just not feasible for us to cover the City Softball League, the Church Softball League, the Babe Ruth League, the Pony League and the Little League and still have time for other duties. Therefore, we are forced to depend on reporters.

The more the reporter tells us, the more we are able to print. By far the best at this work is Irv Claxman who each week brings in a detailed account of the activities of the Babe Ruthers. At the other end of the scale is the Pony League which has not yet secured a reporter.

A story in this issue relates how the Rev. R. J. Searls' article about the chapel at Hills and Dales Hospital was accepted for publication in the "Christian Advocate".

What the story didn't tell, we learned this week, is that Mr. Searls will receive $30 from the magazine for its publication. Our first thought was that this was a lot more than we have ever received for writing a story and our second was that literary ability must run in the Searls family. Rev. Searls' brother, Guy, is a correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting Co. in Hong Kong.

It was a deathless Fourth of July holiday in Tuscola county . . . and the record of the first six months of the year shows that deaths have been cut by two-thirds in the county.

Through June of 1960, 12 persons were killed on county highways as compared to four fatalities this year. The record is impressive because the number of injury accidents jumped from 61 last year to 70 this year.

It is a reverse of the trend in the state that showed an increase in traffic deaths each month of the year, except for June.

As much better as the record is, it is no cause for complacency. In 1960, six of the 12 accidents occurred in one month and a similar catastrophic month in the final half of 1961 could shave the death total skyrocketing again.

Rev. Searls Sells Local Story to Magazine

The Rev. Robert J. Searls, minister of the Cass City Methodist Church, has received word from the editor of the "Christian Advocate" magazine that an article which he recently authored has been accepted for publication.

Entitled "The Churches Serve the Small Hospital", its content points up the possible role which churches in small towns are in a position to play in ministering to the small local hospital, its staff and its patients. Mr. Searls is of the opinion that this is an opportunity for community service perhaps too easily overlooked by many a small church.

Mr. Searls' interest in the possibilities of this matter grew out of his participation in the Cass City Council of Churches' activities in that connection locally and those of the newly organized Cass City Ministerial Association, of which he is president.

The recently completed meditation chapel on the ground floor of Hills and Dales General Hospital which was conceived by members of the Council and which was constructed and furnished by donations from all the churches in the area, is felt to be unique in a hospital of that size.

The chaplaincy services which are supplied by the Ministerial Association to both local hospitals is another example of how the churches of a small community can be of assistance to the small hospital within its area. Mr. Searls' article goes on to say. In Cass City the rotational Chaplain-of-the-Month schedule set up by the Association last year is filled by ministers from all the religious denominations represented in the village, each man donating his time and services to be "on call" 24 hours a day, and interested observers have noted that the ecumenical implications of such an united effort for the good of the community are not to be overlooked.

The "Christian Advocate" is a professional journal for ministers and church leaders and is published by the Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.

Billy Hennessey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hennessey, tied for first, in the Tuscola-Huron Boy Scout District, with a scout from Bad Axe. He and the Bad Axe boy drew lots for the first prize and the Bad Axe Scout won the bicycle.

However, the Bad Axe boy gave the bike to Billy and kept the second prize of a tent.

Cass City Area Residents Report

No Kidding! Working on The Fourth Not too Bad

By Mary Basing

Working on the Fourth of July isn't so bad.

That's the consensus of opinion of five persons who spent their holiday working in Cass City. While most Americans celebrated with picnics, parties and fireworks in back yards, parks and on the beaches, the Fourth to these five was just another day.

"The heavy traffic and death toll kind of spoils the holiday," said Miss Audrey Bader, 18, a nurse's aid at the Cass City Hospital.

"It's usually the other fellow that drives badly. When we were coming home, a car came right at us and we had to get off the road. I guess he'd been doing too much celebrating."

Miss Bader said she usually works on holidays but gets days off for doing it.

"I like working on the Fourth; I went away when I got out of work at 3:30 and did some celebrating," she said.

The holiday means the same to her as to other people, she said. "It's Independence Day -- I guess that's what it means to me," Miss Bader said.

Mrs. Jessie Ferguson of Decker, a receptionist at the Hills and Dales General Hospital, also said that July 4 means independence to her as she said she thought it does to everyone else.

"I don't work on holidays if I can help it," she said, laughing. "It's just the way the days fall. I work five days a week and if a holiday comes during those five days then I work."

"We didn't find too much traffic when we went to the lake after I got out of work."

When asked if she thought the holiday traffic spoiled the day for many people, she said:

"People on a whole will do what they want to do anyway regardless of the traffic."

Mrs. Beatrice Moore of Detroit, who is working at the New Gordon Hotel for a few weeks, said she generally worked on the Fourth.

"It's definitely worth working then," she said. "The tips are good from the travelers and you also get your wage."

She said she didn't get any time off -- she didn't want it.

"The traffic is too heavy, there isn't enough patrolling of the roads. When we travel on holidays we don't even drive the speed limit," she said.

Mrs. Moore said July 4 means one thing to her:

"My birthday."

"The Fourth is just a holiday -- a day off," Millard Ball, of 6773 Houghton Street, said. Mr. Ball worked at the Standard gas station in Cass City July 4. He said he had the afternoon off and didn't find much traffic on the roads. "There wasn't much more traffic than on a Sunday," he said.

"For the amount the government takes out of your pay check I don't even think it's worth working anytime," said Jim Moore, printer at the Chronicle, who, like the rest of the newspaper staff, worked on the Fourth.

When asked if he liked to work on the holiday, he said:

"I don't like to work any day of the week."

Mr. Moore said he didn't get any extra time off for working on the holiday.

"My boss is a slave driver, a Simon Legree," he said, snorting.

"The Fourth is just another work day," he answered when asked what the holiday means to him.

"People are a bunch of darn fools to go on the highways on a holiday," he commented on the holiday traffic.

As this reporter was walking out the door after interviewing Mrs. Moore at the hotel, Mrs. Cumper, the hotel's owner-cook, who worked on the Fourth, was heard to say:

"I think everyone has gotten far away from the original Fourth."

Not everyone can boast a pet such as that of the Park Russells of Argyle.

One Sunday, around last Easter, a thin deer trotted into the yard and stuck his cold, black nose into Mr. Russell's hand. Thus the friendship began.

The deer, christened Pet, has since come to the Russells' steadily over the past months for food and shelter. State Conservation Officer Clifford Hawes of Applegate said the deer looked about a year old. He probably had been penned illegally and recently released, Mr. Russell said. Hawes told him.

Because the deer is not fenced in, the Russells are not breaking any game ordinances.

Afraid of Dogs

Pet is afraid of dogs, Mr. Russell said. He has long gashes on his back and hind quarters apparently from getting too near dogs that run wild in the Minden State Game Reserve east of the Russell farm.

Though friendly and affectionate, Pet shies away from strangers, Mr. Russell, a retired school teacher, said.

But if people move slowly and have patience they can usually pet the deer, especially if they have bread with sugar on it or licorice taffy.

"Pet picks flowers and eats them. He likes lilacs and spiraea, weeds and corn and oats mixed," Mrs. Russell said.

"But he won't eat chocolate candy," she added.

"Pet has filled out some since he first came here. He used to be so thin."

Pet has unusual habits. Sometimes he goes away for two or three days and the Russells said they wonder if he will be back. Mrs. Russell said that once she was standing by the corner of the house and felt something brush against her skirt. Pet had been away for three days and just then had come up behind her.

Pet Plays Tag

"One time I told the nieces and nephews to start running around that Australian pine tree," Mr. Russell said, pointing to the tree in the front yard.

"They did and Pet started chasing them; actually played tag with the kids and seemed to enjoy it as much as they did."

"Another time Pet was lying on the lawn and one of the little kids came and got on his back. Pet got up and the child fell off and then Pet lay down again, waiting for him to get back on. The child did and Pet didn't move," Mrs. Russell said.

The Russells said that Pet sometimes sleeps on the lawn at night under a cedar tree or he will lie on their front porch. The Russells' other pet is a four-year-old white cat named Sugar.

"Pet plays with the cat, they seem to get along fine," Mrs. Russell said.

Nearly every day people come to the Russells' to see the yearling, according to Mrs. Russell. Even more come on Sunday, she said.

"Kids like to play with him and he especially likes children," Mr. Russell said.

Car Hop

Mr. Russell has marks on the hood of his car where Pet got in the garage beside the car and rather than back out had leaped, danced around on the hood and left these marks.

Pet had another mishap in the garage. Mr. Russell said. "The other day he was in the garage and someone walked in behind him. He went right through the back window, sash, glass and all," he said.

Mrs. Russell said that they were worried that something would happen to Pet during hunting season. He has 12 miles of heavy woods straight north of the farm to run in, Mr. Russell said.

"The conservation officer said that if Pet was still around regularly during hunting season we could shut him in the barn," he said.

When asked if they thought Pet was intelligent, Mr. Russell said:

"Oh, yes, he's intelligent. Pet can be eating and several people will come up to watch him. Now a calf would just keep eating or walk toward anyone but Pet will just come to her or me." He pointed to Mrs. Russell.

No Nuisance

"Some people might call him a nuisance but we have no garden, there's nothing for him to bother," he said, stroking Pet's six-inch, velvet-covered antlers.

Pet demonstrated his approval of what Mr. Russell said by playfully bunting his head against Mr. Russell's legs. After kicking a mosquito off his ear with his hind foot, Pet ambled away to nibble dandelions, seemingly uninterested in all the attention he has been getting.

Two Businesses Sold in Cass City This Week

Two changes in the Cass City business scene were announced this week as Ken Cumper purchased the business of Arlan Brown and Cameron Martin bought Bush's Restaurant.

Mr. Cumper will operate the back hoe and the septic tank service formerly owned by Mr. Brown in conjunction with his roofing and painting service.

The new owners of Bush's are experienced restaurant people. Mr. Martin and his wife have operated a restaurant for 14 years at Port Hope before coming to Cass City.

Local Recreation Program Attracts 150 to Park

An average of 150 children a day have attended the summer playground program so far this year, according to Mrs. Michael Yedinak. This is slightly below the average of 170 a day for last year.

When asked how long the playground will run, Mrs. Yedinak, playground director, said:

"The playground will run for four weeks and if we get more money, it will run longer."

Two events are scheduled for this week and one for next. A pool party, July 5, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, will feature water polo, races, games, contests and a watermelon scramble.

The stadium will be the scene of the pet show, July 6, at 10 a.m. Prizes will be awarded for the best dog by a girl and boy, the best cat by a girl and boy, the best trained pet, the best horse, the largest pet, smallest pet and best aquatic pet.

Any child may enter as many pets as he wishes. Duplicate prizes will be given in case of ties.

Next week's event is the number's parade which will start at the park entrance at 7:30 p.m. July 11. The parade will snake dance through town to the playground. Two large prizes will be awarded to the best costumed girl and to the best costumed boy. There is no age limit and adults are welcome.

The winners of the on-wheels parade, June 30, were:

Best float: "The Flintstones," Randy, Mary and Jeanne Doerr; Tim Knight and Ricky Lorentz; largest vehicle: Bob, Billy, Benny, David and Susan Hennessey; smallest vehicle: Cindy Salka and Eugene Nicholas; best wagon: "Miss Michigan," Linda Douglas, Sandra and Sally Geiger.

The best tricycle award went to Casey Wallace and John Ballard; best bicycle, Carla Calka; best costumed boy was Kim Glaspie and best costumed girl was "Sleeping Beauty" by Patty Doerr and Lynn Atwell; and the best bands were: "The Kingston Trio" by Scott, Drew and Craig Guernsey, and "Dixie Land" by Kathy McCullough, Sharon and David Eberline, Randy, Melody, Sherry and Debbie Bacon.

All contestants were treated at the playground after the parade. Prizes were awarded at the short program in the Elementary gym and Kool Aid was served.

Clean-up Plans Now Complete

Plans have been completed for a special clean-up of Main Street prior to the annual sidewalk sale scheduled Friday and Saturday, July 14-15. Keith McConkey announced this week.

A special project of the retail committee of the Chamber of Commerce, two local civic organizations have volunteered to help.

Handling the hoses to clean the sidewalks and streets will be members of the Elkland Township Fire Department, authorities said. Assisting in the clean-up will be local Boy Scouts.

Merchants on the main stem are being asked to do their part in the drive. They are urged to clean store fronts so that the community sparkles when shoppers come to the village to take advantage of the hot specials planned for the sidewalk bazaar.

The big day set for the clean-up campaign is Tuesday, July 11, at 6:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, other plans for the gala sale event have been completed. Tickets for the rides that will be on North Seeger will be available from all merchants during the days of the sale. With these tickets rides are only a dime. Without them, rides will be 20 cents.

After the clean-up Tuesday there will be a winner roast at the park for everyone participating. It will be handled by Scoutmaster Jim Ware.

Six Accidents Mar Tuscola's Holiday Week End

Tuscola County had six accidents over the July 4 week end, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Office. There were no drownings.

Two of the six accidents involved personal injury. Lappa Selvia, 17, of Route 1, Fairgrove, was taken to the Saginaw General Hospital at 11:15 p.m., July 1, after the car he was riding in, driven by Lazaro Saldens of 712 West Broadwell, Albion, hit a bump and went into the ditch on the left side of the road a mile and a half north of Reese.

Gerald Loren Letson, 13, of 8387 West Fairgrove road, Fairgrove, was hit while riding a bicycle by a car owned and driven by Vernon T. Drucker of 4210 Franklin, Omaha, Neb. Mr. Drucker was driving his car 60 m.p.h. on Vassar road.

He told police that as he approached the intersection of Gilford road he saw two boys on bikes on each side of the road. He said he slowed down but the Letson boy cut across in front of him from east to west.

Letson was taken to the Bay City General Hospital with bruises and a severe concussion.

The Pinney State Bank, Clerk

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Some of the fellers at the country store Saturday night bring up this item of crows and the national corn shucking that was discussed a few weeks back.

One old fellow allowed as how maybe we was being a little too unfriendly with the crows. He said he could recollect his Grandpa saying onct that crows was exceeding the farmer in prosperity. That was right after the Civil War when crows was outnumbering the farmer about 50 to 1. His Grandpa was living in Georgia at the time and he claimed that on account of the Yankees had stole all the silverware, it was the crows that showed the farmers how to eat corn on the cob. His Grandpa claimed this was a new invention and a big help to the farmer in them days.

In return for this favor, said his Grandpa, the farmer allowed the crows to have part of the corn. Race relations was real good.

Then come hard times and the Government started claiming part of the corn. Ever since then, claims this feller, the crows and the farmers has been fighting for what's left. The farmers has now got the crows outnumbered about 10 to 1 and this has about starved the crows out. He says that unless Congress makes a distress area out of some of the cornfields, they ain't going to be any crows left by the time Bobby Kennedy runs for President in 1968. He is in favor of not being too hard on the crows.

Zeke Grubb said he'd been thinking about that plan to have the Senator from Iowa or the Senator from Indiana to set at the head corn pile at this national corn shucking and he's afraid it'll cause hard feeling in other sections of the country. In these states, says Zeke, corn is mostly thrown to the hogs, and in the South, for instant, it is raised mostly to eat and drink.

Clem Webster allowed as how the safe thing to do was to get some neutral feller like General MacArthur to set at the head corn pile. Clem said that if the good General would accept the invitation he would personal present him with some gifts at the ceremonies. Clem said he'd whittle him a shucking peg and a corn-stalk flute that would play up to C-sharp, and take a little straw and weave him a bonnet from corn shucks.

The General is well known for his corn-cob pipes and Ed Doolittle said he'd whittle him one from a white cob, use a heating iron on it and git the stem from a cane stalk down on the creek. Ed said he'd make it so pritty the General would fergit he was mad at Harry Truman.

We'd appreciate it, Mister Editor, if you'd sound out the General on our proposition.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Five Years Ago
Ernest J. Partaka, 34, of Cass City was pinned for six agonizing hours under the wreckage of his overturned car Friday on a rural road in Sanilac County. Mr. Partaka swerved 300 feet off the road into a field and overturned just after 6 p.m. There was little travel on the road and he was unable to attract the attention of the few passing motorists until shortly after midnight when two persons heard his cries. He was taken to the Cass City Hospital for treatment. He suffered only minor injuries and was released.

BULEN TALKS Cars

BREAKING IN YOUR NEW CAR

If you have just bought a new car, or are about to buy one, then pay strict attention to the first thousand miles you drive it. They are by far the most important in the entire life of the car.

Tests by automotive engineers show that more wear occurs in these miles than in the next twenty to thirty thousand - and the better the quality of the engine the more this is the case.

Electronic measurements finer than one ten thousandths of an inch mean new parts fit together tightly - and heat up quickly - during the break-in period. If they become too hot, excessive and irregular wear from heat expansion can ruin an engine, or shorten its life by many thousands of miles.

High spots and other irregularities on metal surfaces will show up to delicate testing instruments on even the most carefully manufactured part. These parts must be worn together gently at first, especially the first two hundred miles, so that they "fit" together in their own microscopic grooves. If they become too hot they will expand to the point of no tolerance and gouge one another.

Avoid anything more than an hour steady running at low speeds during the first two hundred miles to allow for cool off. Change break-in oil to regular oil in the crankcase at 1000 miles and change the lubricant in the transmission and rear axle. Then gradually increase your speed watching for signs of heat.

If you buy your new car from us, you can, of course, be assured of a thorough "pre-delivery" check, as well as, competent, break-in service.

35,000 Mile Guarantee (or three years, whichever occurs first). Costs nothing. Requirements:

1. Change Oil regularly, using Quaker State Oil.
2. Lubricate Chassis at specified intervals.

If you take care of your car, you should do the above anyway. The Guarantee is good insurance. On request, we will give you the name of one person who received a complete engine overhaul FREE, by complying with the above.

Mrs. James Gustin

Miss Sandra Lee Bryant and James Richard Gustin were married July 1 in the Salem EUB Church in a 6 p.m. ceremony. Rev. S. R. Wurtz officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Bryant of Cass City and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Gustin of Miamisburg, Ohio.

The bride wore an intermission length bridal gown of de-lustered satin. It had a fitted bodice with three-quarter sleeves and a scalloped scoop neckline, appliqued with tiny seed pearls.

The gown's bell-shaped, scalloped skirt with matching belt featured self-roses at waistline sweeping into a full cathedral train.

The flat bow cap and pearlized orange blossoms held an imported French silk illusion veil. Her bouquet was two white orchids centered in lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Judy Garner of Bay City, Bonnie De-well of Saginaw and Carolyn Gross and Dian Cardew of Cass City. They wore gowns of yellow silk cloud organza with tiny self-covered buttons decorating the bodice which had a large rolled collar. A satin band trimmed the filmy sleeves and the same material trimmed the contour belt.

Their headpieces were small bows of silk organza and they carried flat natural straw baskets with arrangements of white majestic daisies.

The groom's attendants were John H. Gustin and Charles Crone of Miamisburg, Ohio, Bob Smith of Saginaw, John Petzold of Lexington, Va., and Mike Bryant of Cass City.

The flower girls, Diana and Pamela Bryant, sisters of the bride, wore yellow silk organza dresses featuring a round neck, with pleated bodice, puff sleeves and full skirts.

Their headpieces were crowns of yellow daisies and they carried small baskets of daisies exactly like the bridesmaids'.

The mother of the bride wore a blue silk organza sheath with matching overskirt, blue accessories and a white orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a pink chiffon sheath with matching accessories and also carried a white orchid corsage.

The church decorations were baskets of gladioli and yellow spider mums, candelabra and palms at the altar.

There was a reception immediately after the ceremony at the Elkon V.F.W. for 250 persons. After traveling through northern Michigan on a wedding trip the couple plan to live in Miamisburg, Ohio. The groom is a mechanical engineer for Frigidaire Division of General Motors Corporation in Dayton, Ohio. The bride is a second year student at Miami Valley Hospital School of Nursing, Dayton.

Visitor's Viewpoint

By Mary Basing

Lately I've been feeling like Annie Oakley minus gun and I owe it all to Lyle Koepfgen. When I was doing the story on his horses, Mam'selle and Mite B. Gold, Mr. Koepfgen gave me free rein to ride his 10-year-old saddle horse, Prince.

Prince is quite a horse. We have a lot in common. He likes to go his way and I like to go mine. He overrears and needs exercise and so do I. The first few rides consisted of a battle of wills. Often he seemed to win. Whenever I got really determined and brought out the crop he would shy into on-coming cars and I would have to let him have his way until the traffic passed.

But we're coming, Prince and I. Whenever I go to saddle him up he gets that look -- "Oh, good grief." He's reasonably tolerant now, but manages to get even with me for forcing my will on him by making it impossible to sit down comfortably most of the time.

I also had the pleasure and real thrill of seeing my first harness races in Caro, June 25. The Koepfgens were good enough to take me along and I saw their Mite B. Gold win her blanket.

Butch is the only nickname I've ever had. And only because my father is bigger than I. However, after traveling 20 miles over gravel last Friday with the back window of the Haire station wagon open, John Haire christened me Dusty. Again Monday, I drove up dust-covered in a dust-covered car.

Both times I had dust in my hair and on my clothes. The heat and the hecking didn't help as I washed down the car. A noon bath and change of clothes got rid of most of the dust but not the name.

I'm really not accident prone—usually. The other day Don Shagena saved the day when I ran down his mail box. Said I: "Uh, Mr. Shagena, I just backed over your mail box . . ."

"Oh, really," he said. "Was there any mail in it?"

That was the day I got lost and drove untold miles out of my way on the gravel roads south of town. It was a pleasant drive, I only wish I knew where I'd gone so that I could go back sometime.

I guess every reporter errs and I already owe three apologies to people for mistakes in stories. I misunderstood Willis Campbell when he told me about the loan that the school made recently. Though I wrote that the school borrowed money because Cass City voters hadn't increased the school's operating funds, it seems that the school would have had to borrow money anyway.

I also wrote that the grass fire last week had happened on the Clayton Root farm. It was on the Clare Root farm, 4 south 1 1/2 west and 1/2 south of Cass City.

Last but not least, Fred J. Neitzel came riding by on his bike, stopped and said that I should know that his name is Fritz not Fred J. So I promised never to write Fred J. again.

Constance Mosher Married in Baptist Church July 1

Miss Constance Mosher was married July 1 to Robert McAlpine in the First Baptist Church of Cass City. Rev. Richard Canfield officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosher of Cass City and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben McAlpine of Gagetown.

The bride wore a ballerina-length dress of white satin and lace. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink rose buds and lilies of the valley on a white ribbon.

The maid of honor was Betty Mosher, sister of the bride. She wore a ballerina-length dress of pink lace and net over satin and carried a bouquet of white carnations and ivy with pink streamers. She wore a matching headpiece.

Ronald McAlpine, cousin of the groom, Frank Mosher Jr. and Bruce McAlpine were the groom's attendants.

Mrs. Mosher, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a pale pink dress with matching accessories.

Helen Greenleaf was organist and Melva Gunther and Shirley Shaw sang "O Perfect Love."

The church was decorated with gladioli and palms with candelabra. Immediately after the wedding at the bride's home a family-style dinner was served for relatives of the bride and groom.

The groom is a farmer and the couple will live near Cass City.

Folks who can't are always ready to criticize those who can.

R. L. Vyse Marries Falmouth Girl

Miss Caroline Esther Koopman and Ronald Lee Vyse were married June 10 at the Falmouth Reformed Church with Rev. Louis Harvey officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Koopman of McBain. The groom is the son of Mrs. Sam Vyse of Cass City.

The bride wore a gown of white lace over satin with a scoop neckline, fitted bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. It featured a large bow in the back.

Attendants of the bride were Miss Jeanette Koopman and Mrs. Margaret Molitor, sisters of the bride. They wore gowns similar to the bride's in style but of silk broadcloth with satin cummerbund and bow. Miss Koopman wore a dress in blue and Mrs. Molitor wore one in pastel pink.

The groom's attendants were Lloyd Vyse and Jay Vyse, brothers of the groom. Ushers were Russ Molitor and Bob Koopman, brother-in-law and brother of the bride.

A reception followed at the Lake City Conservation Club with approximately 150 guests present. Mr. and Mrs. Vyse left on a trip to North and South Dakota. When they return they will live in Bay City.

July is vacation time for many homemakers as Michigan State University prepares for the thirty-fourth annual Homemakers' Conference on the East Lansing campus. The four-day program, from July 25 through 28, is planned to offer leadership training, community and world understanding and personal enrichment.

Classes and short courses from which women may choose include effective speaking, dollars grow through investments, understanding some space-age trouble spots, flower culture in the home and the living legacy of the Bible.

Featured conference speaker is Rachel Martens, home furnishing editor of Farm Journal Magazine, with "What Your Home Says About You." Dr. Ruth Usen, MSU sociologist, will present, "Liberating Opportunities for Homemakers."

There are evenings of music and time for campus tours, shopping and attending the ice revue.

I have copies of the program in my office, and anyone interested in going may contact me.

A supply of pastry in the freezer can help produce a pie on short notice. The pastry can be prepared in quantity, rolled into sheets and stored in several ways. Pastry can be stacked on a cookie sheet or cardboard, with each layer separated by a double thickness of cellophane or waxed paper, and wrapped in polyethylene or foil. The pastry sheets can be removed as needed, thawed in 10 to 15 minutes, then shaped and baked.

If you would like to shape your pastry before freezing, fit the pastry into pie pans and stack them. Separated by a thickness of cellophane or waxed paper. To minimize air space and protect the pastry, an empty pie pan can be placed inside the top shell before wrapping in polyethylene or foil. These pastry shells can be baked without thawing.

Pie shells can be baked before freezing and then packaged in individual polyethylene bags or foil. Then they can be used with or without thawing and are ready for chiffon pies, baked Alaska or cream fillings.

When pastry is shaped in pans, it cuts time from freezer to table; but when pastry is frozen in flat sheets, they take up less freezer space.

There's Plenty of Bear Left In Water Wonderland

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Daniel Boone had nothing on Michigan mirrods when it comes to bringing home the bear meat. Boone, a Tennessee frontiersman of no mean skill with the muzzleloader, may rank as the most famous bear hunter of all time, but hunters in the Water Wonderland have improved their take over the years.

Bow and arrow and firearm bear hunters killed 1,238 of the ferocious furry animals during 1960, the Conservation Department reports.

It was in the Upper Peninsula where bear hunters found their greatest success, and an improvement during the firearm season, which was concurrent with the deer hunting season, was the reason.

Some 800 bears were taken from above the Straits of Mackinac compared with only 270 in 1959, the department said.

Another 297 bruins were counted crossing the Mackinac Bridge on their way to the food locker or the taxidermist shop during the early fall bear season last year.

While hunters who use dogs to go after bear are often criticized by other sportsmen, the department said figures over the years have shown only a small percentage of bears are taken with the aid of dogs.

The department said 543 hunters reported using dogs last year, only 7.4 per cent of them were successful, bagging 40 bears.

Skill with weapons, rivaling old Daniel Boone, was the chief reason for the increase in bear kill last year, but the weatherman has to give in an assist. Conservation experts said warm weather during the concurrent deer and bear season, while hampering the whitetail hunters, kept bears from denning up early and helped produce the high tally.

Final figures comprising the box score for the 1961 Legislature showed about a quarter of the bills introduced finally passed.

In fact, there were 1,077 measures introduced, 681 in the House and 396 in the Senate, and 258 of them made it past the pitfalls of the lawmaking process.

Without considering the quality of the legislation, its sheer quantity is formidable.

Perhaps as many as 100 of the bills created major controversy before their passage. These ranged from the routine appropriations bills, which always bring strife, to highly specialized measures that would affect only a small portion of Michigan's population.

A lesson in the results of the 1961 session might be that whatever the amount of sound and fury, the lawmaking process goes on.

While attention focuses on the battles over dollars and the anguish of special interest legislation, a great deal of attention each session must be devoted to the relatively minor housekeeping measures and routine operational bills.

Boaters Beware! This is the warning sounded by safety experts who site the growing number of powerboat registrations in Michigan as a potential danger to life and limb, if used unthinkingly.

Nearly 370,000 boats have been registered in Michigan under the federal numbering system, state officials report.

And the number of watercraft authorized for use on Michigan waterways is growing at the rate of about 500 a day. The flow of registrations is expected to taper off by mid-summer, however.

Water safety, like safety on the highways, is the business of the man behind the wheel or rudder, as the case may be.

State Police files on water accidents show an alarming number of drownings and injuries are directly traceable to improper handling of the watercraft. Even the fisherman who stands up in the rowboat is still a major threat to himself and those with him.

Add to the ever-present dangers around the water, the threat from water skiers, skin divers and other new aquatic activities, and the conditions are becoming ever more dangerous.

Food faddists were on the receiving end of a warning by state Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis recently.

Miracle foods or food supplements are not magic cure-alls for what ails you, Heustis said. Instead, indiscriminate use of pills, capsules or concoctions can actually aggravate an existing condition or produce a brand-new ailment, he said.

A trip to the doctor may be far better than switching to a new brand of tonic, the health chief said.

A major part of the problem is that a general run-down feeling can often be traced to emotional strain, fatigue or simply not relaxing enough. People in this condition are prime targets for the colorful, but not always completely honest advertising by health food or health pill promoters, Heustis said.

While many of the claims of the advertising are patently ridiculous, they often are the straw which a sick person will clutch at. Get a diagnosis, and then get the proper treatment, Heustis said.

Tell 3 Ways to Test for Dry Hay

Fires from spontaneous combustion of hay have destroyed at least $1.25 million worth of Michigan buildings in the last four years. And that's not all.

"Spontaneous heating can destroy up to 40 per cent of the total dry matter in hay that doesn't burn up," points out Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer.

"This probably costs American farmers 75 million dollars a year — perhaps more than the fire loss."

Excessive moisture causes rapid fermentation. This produces heat and may lead to spontaneous combustion, says Pfister. Short-chopped or baled hay will store safely if put in the barn at 22 per cent moisture without going through a hay drying system.

The engineer suggests three ways to find out if hay is safe to store.

First, twist a handful of hay. It's safe if the stems seem slightly brittle and the twisting brings no sign of moisture.

Second, scrape the outer layer of skin on the hay stem. Hay can be stored safely if this thin layer doesn't peel off.

Third, notice whether the hay stays dry and fairly brittle when placed in the shade. If so, it's safe to put the hay in the mow.

"A hay drying system provides positive control of spontaneous heating," Pfister points out. "But it's still important to put this hay in at the right moisture content — ideally about 35 per cent."

A farmer needs to act quickly if he knows his hay is heating. Pfister suggests using a 10-foot pipe with a plug in one end to test the hay temperature.

First step is to drill one-quarter inch holes in the pipe near the plug. Then put a dairy thermometer down the pipe. Read the thermometer quickly when it is removed.

Pfister recommends calling the fire department and insurance company if the temperature exceeds 130 degrees. Hay at that temperature has a good chance of igniting.

Close Race in City Softball League

It looks as if the race for the title in the City Softball League may not be decided until the final week of the season.

Upsets have been the rule rather than the exception. With just five games played, every team in the loop has lost at least two games. Only Deford, which is winless in five starts, can be ruled out of title contention in the league.

Two one-run decisions marked the games played Tuesday, June 27. Bach topped Walbro 3-2 and General Cable whipped Deford 6-5.

Walbro-Bach
Bach scored twice in the opening inning on a hit and an error. Walbro tied the score in the second on a two-run round trip blast by Chris Schneider with Maynard Helwig on base.

Bach scored his winning run in their half of the sixth on hits by Wood and Beachy. Walbro threatened in their half of the sixth when Elwyn Helwig led off with his second hit of the night. He was stranded as the next three men went down in order.

General Cable-Deford
General Cable rallied in the last inning to push across two runs to keep Deford from registering its first win of the year. The score was 6-5.

Sparked by hits by Terbusch, Babich and Harry Hartwick, Deford had pushed across three runs in the top of the sixth to take a one-run lead. Cable tied it up in their half of the inning on Leroy Hoag's circuit blast. A triple by Jacoby set up the go-ahead for Deford in the top of the seventh, only to see it wasted as Cable rallied to win.

summer, showed that there was still plenty of whip in his arm as he pitched General Cable to a 4-2 decision over Bach.

He scattered six hits with only a three-base blow by Larush in the third causing any damage. The triple accounted for all of the loser's runs.

Meanwhile, Cable went to work on Bach for all of its runs in the middle three innings. Czekai powdered a round tripper in the third for the first run and the first hit for Cable.

In the fourth, they scored twice on three hits and in the fifth added another marker on hits by Kloc and Perry Hoag.

Erla's vs. Walbro
Walbro bounced back in the final game of the week with a 4-2 decision over Erla's.

The factory men combed Dan Erla for eight hits including a circuit clout by Elwyn Helwig. Erla's picked up both of their runs in the initial frame on hits by Fox and Carl Kolb.

Yankees-Tigers
Behind the steady chucking of Larry Hartwick, the Tigers posted their third straight victory, 8-5. Kenneth Hayes was charged with the loss.

Babe Ruthers In Second Straight Win

Cass City recorded its second straight victory in the Thumb Babe Ruth baseball league when they came from behind in the late innings to edge Ublly 6-5.

Clutch hitting by little Dave Stine provided the margin of victory. He tied the game in the sixth when his hit knocked in two runs and then scored the go-ahead run a moment later on a hit by Herhalt. His clutch single in the seventh scored the run that won the game.

Before the final two innings, Cass City was having a rough time with Shock, Ublly's pitcher. Cass City scored a run in the first on a walk and a single by Hempton and were then held in check until the sixth.

Meanwhile, Ublly used a circuit clout by Wyrick with a man on to score in the first. A pair of hits and a single in the fifth stretched the visitor's lead to 3-1.

In the sixth, Cass City found the range. Yedinak singled and Hempton walked. Stine tripled to score both runners. Herhalt singled to score Stine and then stole second. He scored on a single by Sherrard.

With a two-run lead going into the final inning, Cass City's defense went to pieces and Ublly scored two unearned runs on three errors to knot the game.

The winning rally in the seventh started when Ellis was safe on an error. He was sacrificed to second on a perfect bunt by Yedinak. Stine then singled to score the game-winning run.

Jim Champion went all the way on the mound for Cass City and notched his second victory in as many starts.

Today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. instead of the usual 4 p.m. starting time, Cass City will play at Elkton.

Construction Booms in Area

For the past several years, Cass City has experienced a steady growth, if not a boom, in construction of homes, businesses and industry. A check with village clerk Wilma Fry indicates that 1961 is continuing the trend.

About $134,000 has been spent on construction so far this year. Building permits for seven new homes have been issued since January 1961, according to Mrs. Fry. Their estimated cost is $79,000.

The village is spending $4,000 on road improvements of Hill Street to the Hills and Dales General Hospital. Mrs. Fry said that Cass City spent its 1961 road improvement money in 1960 by resurfacing north Seeger street at a cost of $15,000 and there is little money left for road improvement this year.

The new dental clinic on the corner of Seeger and Church streets will be completed this summer. This and the addition to Sommers' Bakery amount to $51,000 worth of new construction for Cass City.

Between January and June, 1960, there were also seven new homes. The post office and Osteopathic clinic added $68,000 of construction to that of 1960 after June. Also, the Donahue-Schwaderer clinic was built after July 1960 for $35,000.

There were building permits to five new homes between July and December 1960. Their estimated cost was $69,000.

No new plants are being built this year. Mrs. Fry said she was amazed that so much building is going on this year. As to new plants in the future, Mrs. Fry said, "We have all the industry we need."

"We have five plants in town which is all we can support. There is a little bit more room for them but I doubt that any more will come; we need more labor."

TOO LATE

Success is lost for the man who waits for his ship to come in—he has already missed the boat.

Design C-627. The big step-saving kitchen has a waist-high oven, counter top range and built-in dishwasher. A lavatory with separate shower makes a perfect "mud room." The large family room has a barbecue grill next to the two-way fireplace it shares with the living room. Sliding doors open onto a terrace. A dining room makes up the L-shape of the living room. The master bedroom has its own lavatory and two closets. Large closets are found in the other two bedrooms. Additional closets abound throughout the house and there is extra storage space in the full basement. Floor area is 1,673 square feet (not including garage), cubage is 80,970 cubic feet.

Almost Every House Has Unused Space Available

If the family has increased in size, perhaps one or more extra bedrooms will be top priority on the home improvement schedule. Or possibly indicated for early consideration will be a study where Dad can read or work in peace, a sewing room for Mother, a playroom for the children or a family room for everybody to enjoy.

First step in any such program is to evaluate the house in terms of its practical possibilities for remodeling to create the desired extra room or rooms.

Fortunately for those concerned with expanding a home's living facilities, almost every house has unused space that could readily be converted into useful extra rooms.

In many homes an unused attic will provide ample space for one or two extra rooms—bedrooms for the children or guest rooms.

Another good source of usable space is the basement, which often offers excellent possibilities for an attractive recreation room, family room, hobby room or TV lounge.

Usually it is possible to have an extra bathroom in either of these areas. In many homes the plumbing lines are so located that they can be extended to the floor above or below at modest cost.

Still other possibilities for conversion to more useful purposes are offered by an open porch or attached garage, either of which can often be made into a comfortable den.

Once you have decided which area of the house offers the best possibilities for remodeling, the next question to consider is how much, if any, of the work involved you will be able and wish to do yourself.

The answer, in each case, will depend in large measure upon the "handiness" of the homeowner, the amount of time he can or is willing to devote to the job, and the complexities of the project itself.

Do-it-yourself can be the answer for some people on some jobs. But it is usually not feasible when major alterations are involved, or when you want to add a porch, remodel a carport or put a dormer in an attic. Plumbing and electrical work also call for specialized outside help.

Having decided who is going to do what in connection with your remodeling project, the next thing is to call in the required general or specialized (plumber, electrician, etc.) contractors for competitive bids.

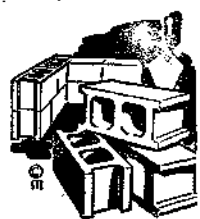

Mark down all measurements and take the sketch to a reliable lumber dealer. From it he will be able to give you an idea of how much the job will cost. Often, too, he can give you some practical tips on ways to make your remodeling job easier and less expensive.

If you are going to do most or all of the carpentry work yourself, make a rough sketch of the doors, windows or special architectural features, such as dormers or stairs.

You Can Depend on Local Area Firms

Each year many thousands of dollars are lost by home owners who are bilked by confidence men in the building and remodeling racket.

Because fraud in the work doesn't show until after they are gone, fly-by-night operators make a practice of wild claims and "give-away" prices.

Despite every effort by building organizations and better business bureaus, thousands of dollars are lost annually to "bargain" seekers who fail to determine the reliability of the firms they deal with.

Yet, anyone can protect themselves against losses of this type by buying only from firms who sell known quality and have established a local reputation.

All of the firms listed in this section as well as others who are established in the area can be trusted by area shoppers needing building and remodeling supplies.

Variety and selections are large and you have the added convenience of friendly local service.

$20 Billion for Repair

Millions of American families, who prefer a "new home at the old address," spent nearly $20 billion on home modernization during 1960 according to Home Improvement Council, which represents manufacturers, dealers, contractors and others involved in the home improvement business.

In 1961, home owners will spend even more for this purpose, Council executives declare, pointing out that there is a growing realization on the part of property owners that remodeling can be a good investment.

The home that is well kept and periodically improved will bring a much higher resale price than the owner's total investment in it.

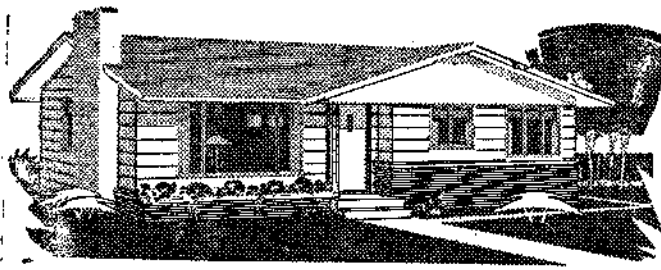

Many families, too, improve their present homes because they do not want to move. They have made friends in the neighborhood. The children are settled in area schools. The housewife has come to know and have confidence in area retailers. These and a variety of other factors exert a tremendous hold.

Living (as millions of families do) in post-war homes built to minimum standards, and with larger families, the happiest solution is often to improve the present dwelling.

Responsive to the needs of the many families embarking upon such projects is the growing number of one-stop home improvement centers, where home owners can obtain all of the materials and arrange for all labor needed for the most ambitious project. Financing can be arranged at the same time. As a result, home improvement projects are almost as easy to buy as a new car.

The world always finds a vacancy for the man who has made good.

Questions and Answers About Building Problems

Q. Is there anything I can do with my crowded clothes closets? They are inevitably too small, become cluttered and really don't do justice to the clothes I've stored or the convenience I require?

A. Numerous new space conserving products have been developed which can help functionalize substantial areas of your closets. Such items include collapsible tie-racks, multi-purpose coat and slack hangers - even new closet rods, gold colored, which enable you to easily slide your clothes back and forth as required. You'll find that your local lumberyard or hardware dealer has such products in stock - or can get them readily enough.

Q. Are there any easy ways to install sliding doors? My house is so full of swinging doors that I can't even arrange my furniture properly?

A. Almost every lumberyard has a literature file containing descriptive material on both the selection and installation of sliding doors. A related pamphlet which has proven of considerable interest to home fix-up projectors is the Carefree Hardware booklet, issued by Grant Pulley & Hardware Corp. of West Nyack, N. Y., and available for 10c.

Q. I'm building an indoor stage for my children in the basement of my home. Everything is being built with a real theatre "feel", of course. Where can I get stage curtain hardware that is neither bulky nor expensive?

A. Probably the best course for you to take is to use a substantial, regular duty drapery hardware, of better-than-average quality, such as an aluminum inverted "U" track which can either be equipped with tassels, floor pulley or (if really theatrical effect is desired) can be motorized.

There are deadbeats in all walks of life, but the debt of gratitude develops the most dodgers.

Proper Landscaping Ups Value of Any Property

When the landscaping of the home grounds is properly planned, it can substantially increase the value of the property.

Trees and shrubs increase in value as they grow, in contrast to many things purchased which deteriorate in value as time passes.

How do you plant your property to be more liveable and valuable?

The purpose of landscaping is to blend the home into the landscape, making it more pleasing to look at, and to afford extension of the living area from indoors to outdoors.

A garden living room may be planted for privacy and beauty, affording a delightful area in which to relax, entertain and play outdoors. Evergreen trees and shrubs, roses and fruits and other plants are arranged for more gracious living for family and friends.

In landscaping, we think of planting a picture to frame the house. There are three main areas of any property.

First, comes the front area, facing the street, which is continuously on view to neighbors and passersby.

Here we usually like to see a patch of open lawn. Trees may be planted off the corners of the house to form part of the landscape "frame." We need to connect these with a flowing line of plants, or "foundation" planting.

Low-growing plants are placed along the front of the house at its foundation. These are better placed in flowing lines than in a straight line. On each side of the entrance a higher-growing plant is planted to accentuate the doorway.

The "garden living" area is where the family lives. Usually it is at the rear of the house, close to the kitchen door, for convenience.

Planted shrubs and at least one shade tree can be arranged to provide "privacy" and coolness in the hot summer months.

In the garden living room the home owner can indulge his wants with roses, camellias or any other plants that will grow well in his soil and climate. Since this area is designed for living, it can be decorated with any of the lovely plants found at nurseries.

Nurserymen can advise what will best thrive, what plants to use to screen off the area, and give other valuable "tips" that will save time and money.

The third area is the "working" area, where fruits of your choice, berries and other plants may be grown.

LIFE ON THE CAMPUS

The college activities of some young couples today are limited to mother calling signals, while father carries the bawl.

The Want Ads Are Newsy Too.

Buyers Overlook Important Features

A recent survey of Home Builders, conducted by the Space Saving Institute resulted in some interesting factors pertaining to home selection being brought to light. The majority of prospective homeowners continue to be most impressed by visible kitchen and bathroom equipment while the more functional, (indeed, more important) yet less obvious products go almost completely unnoticed. Over 80 per cent of the home builders interviewed have indicated clearly that the true value of a home is always to be found in those materials and products which are neither open to clear viewing, nor are spectacular, visible or spectacular, interest provoking goods.

Appraisers and professional home evaluators often place greater emphasis on the attic and the basement than they do on the living room and kitchen, in ascertaining the worth of a structure. Builders have long since suggested that prospective homeowners use a new type of "buying barometer" to measure new home worth. . . a barometer which instructs homebuyers to look for brand names on products which normally go unchecked. They point out, for example, that brand names on door locks, pipes and tubing, sliding door hardware, window operators, drawer slides, closet rods and other such appointments are an excellent rule-of-judgment device.

Another wise investigator move by the prospective home owner is the reading of trade publications directed to builders and contractors. Often, reading the advertisements the builders themselves read, you can more easily penetrate the veil of what's really important in the new home you're planning to buy.

Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan
Dear Sir:

It is a welcome relief to sit down and rest and read the local newspaper. I enjoy such a service.

However, I am of the opinion that the local residents are not taking advantage of such a service as I feel that a newspaper should express a majority of opinions concerning local needs.

I am a native of this area and returned after five years in a large city, to live I hope.

Since I have been back I have discussed a need for local transportation for those who do not have private transportation. It was thought to be a good idea.

For this reason I am writing to you hoping to get some response from your readers.

Naturally, I realize there is a bus going to the larger local towns but I feel very strongly that our own local transportation would give work to some capable young man with only a part-time job, and would also benefit the Cass City business area as well as its residents.

"What Do You Think?"
Sincerely,
A Transportationless Reader
Mary Williams

WANDERING WITH WARREN

Swimming in
The Cass River

By Hene Warren

Last Thursday morning found me busy doing yardwork. There was a small section of the lawn to finish mowing and the flower beds needed weeding. After working from shortly past eight until eleven o'clock and beginning to feel a little dizzy whenever I should stand up from the onerous task of weeding (oh, all right — a little dizzier than usual), I finally decided it was time to quit.

The dogs were in the yard with me and they looked as hot as I felt. Pride likes to gambol in the water so I took him and Lass down to the river. Lass won't go into the water unless I literally pull her in or I tempt her by tossing out bits of bread (she's something of a glutton!) — so Lass and I stood on the bank and envied Pride the coolness of the river.

How foolish I am, was my thought as I stood there. I said to myself, "When you were a girl you cavorted in this river and gave no consideration to its muddiness or whether or not it was clean enough to suit you."

The day was sultry and I was hot and sticky from working in the sun — so, I did something I've not done in years: went wading in the river.

Oh, I've been in the river before — I've gone down to the stepping stones and, standing in the river and on the stones, have given the dogs baths. But last Thursday, I strode out into the middle of the river just above the rapids to the west of our house and walked back up the river to the stone steps that go down to the river in front of our house. In a couple of spots the water was over my knees. I really enjoyed it... and it was refreshing. I was able to coax (pull, might be a better word) Lass into the water and she and Pride accompanied me on my river trek.

I might add one thing — I used to go wading barefoot when I was a child; now, I'm a sissy: I wear shoes and socks whenever I go in the river — I'm still squeamish about all the little crawly things that might be on the bottom of the river!

The farmers are well into the haying season. I love the fragrance that comes from new-mown fields. It carries with it a nostalgic aroma that takes me back to my childhood when I used to run out to the barn to watch the men sling the hay into the lofts.

My dad used slings and pulley. The load of hay that was transported up into the loft seemed huge to me and I was fascinated by its slow ascension and then would watch the worker in the loft swing the load to and fro with the trip rope to be dumped in the exact spot where he wanted it to land. I remember wondering fearfully what if something goes wrong and that big load of hay falls on my brother — but I never did. Once, someone made a mistake in laying out the slings for loading and when one set of slings went up it took the front rack from the wagon with it. My cousin Frances was with me that day and we thought it was wonderfully exciting.

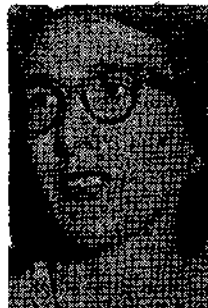

I suppose those sling-loads that appeared so large to the little girl of six or seven would be comparatively small if I were to see them now. Things have a strange way of shrinking!

Last Tuesday marked the 185th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Our heritage of freedom came not as easily nor as lightly as we sometimes take it.

Many heroes and statesmen were developed during the War of the Revolution but the original dream of a free nation was nurtured and developed by a handful of men. We read a lot about Samuel Adams and John Hancock but one who is less known is my favorite: Joseph Warren. (I've searched and fished but haven't yet been able to claim him as an ancestor!) I read a book a short while ago that pictured Samuel Adams as a rabble rouser, one who could easily incite a mob, and John Hancock as Adams' front man who
