"I've given the village back to the people," Julius Goslin, Gagetown village president, said this week, "and accomplished my purpose. What they do now is up to

The statement accompanied an announcement that he was not going to seek re-election in the coming spring election. His withdrawal leaves the field wide open as no other candidates have yet announced that they will seek the position.

"It is probable that there will be plenty of competition by caucus time as Gagetown traditionally is a hotbed for political competition and the voters turn out in droves for the caucus and the election when a slip candidate is

Cass City Upsets Bad Axe for First Cage Win

Bob Morley, who helped Cass City to its first cage victory of the season Friday night when the Hawks registered a hairraising 59-52 decision over the Bad Axe Hatchets, about summed up the sentiments of the team when he reported, "It's nice to win one for a change."

Playing at Cass City High School's gym, the Hawks combined a pressing defense with their best shooting percentage of the year to record the deci-

The score was even closer than the final tally indicated. With two minutes to go the game was tied at 52-all. The Hawks went ahead on a bucket by Larry Robinson and cinched the game a moment later when Morley twice stole the ball for easy lay-up buckets and the victory.

The Hawks registered 31 per cent from the field while the Hatchets hit only 29 per cent.

Cass City rang up a big second quarter margin and hung on for the victory. They poured in 20 points, their best point production quarter of the season, and held Bad Axe to just 12 points.

The Hawks opened a narrow lead early in the first period only to see it disappear as Bad Axe started hitting the meshes. The Huron county nine were fast breaking the Hawks for ęasy baskets.

Defensive adjustments during å time-out solved the problem and the Hawks exhibited a tight defense the rest of the game. At the end of the first period, the Hatchets boasted a narrow 19-15 margin. The Hawks' second period burst quickly erased the margin and at the intermission Cass City led 35-31. Neither team was effective in the third period and the play became erratic and both clubs were guilty of numerous passing and playing errors. The Hawks hit for just two buckets and five free throws while Bad Axe hit Concluded on page eight.

Damage Light in Wednesday Fire

Elkland township firemen answered a basement fire call at the Eidie Copeland farm southeast of Cass City at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday morning. According to Fire Chief Al Avery, the fire was started by either a heater or an over-heated water pump in the basement of the house.

Damage, confined to the basement, was not extensive. The house is unoccupied.

WHAT IS WRONG with Michigan? - asked a bipartisan legislative committee at a luncheon meeting Saturday at Martin's Restaurant. They learned that conditions are good in Cass City. #### Area Industrialists Like Cass City's Business Climate

There is nothing wrong with Michigan except its reputation, at least in the Cass City area, was the concensus of local industrialists when queried Saturday noon by a House-Senate committee trying to find what Michigan economy needs. The group held a luncheon meeting at Martin's Restaurant.

In Cass City, said W. E. Walpole, president of Walbro Corp., the labor relations are good, the cooperation between the plant and the community is good and the taxes not out of line with at least one neighboring state.

Although the committee was bipartisan, in Cass City only the Republican members of the committee attended the meeting. Biggest complaint of local industry was the lack of enough of the kind of labor force they felt was needed. Representatives of two area

John Stahlin of Belding was the chairman of the meeting and said that the findings of the committee in Cass City varied with findings in other areas of

AN AVERAGE AMERICAN housewife is what Mrs. Alfred (Toshiko) Cooklin has become since she came to the United States seven years ago. #### Discuss Taxes

A discussion of taxes revealed that the group felt that the Business Activity tax was not a good tax because it taxed without consideration of the money the company was making and had many inequalities.

An income-profits tax was felt by the group to have merit. Tuscola Rep. Allison Green said that he recognized that this tax had many advantages.

"One disadvantage to the income tax is that in good years the money available to the legislature swells and the government spending inevitably goes up. When the economy is bad, revenue will decrease but it is almost impossible to cut the cost of government that quickly to avoid building up deficit", Green

If you miss the popular weekly column of the Rev. Robert J. Scarls, it's because he is in Ford Hospital at Detroit for surgery. It was interesting to hear the Ray Matoy, Scout executive for the Saginaw-Bay Area Council, entertained Cass City Rotarians Tuesday noon with stories of his experiences as an organizer of Boy Scouts for children of Americans in Europe.

He said that while he was in charge of the program, a total of 19,000 American scouts was registered in troops in Europe. The boys were in addition to European scouts, who have their own troops, Mr. Matoy explained. He told again of the many values of scouting to the country, saying that the program cuts across nationalities and helps build good citizens and character -- the only answer to solving the problems of the free world.

Mrs. Alfred Cooklin Enjoys New Life

Mrs. Alfred Cooklin is an average American housewife. She has two children, loves to cook, sew and raise plants. She likes to get out once a month with the girls to chew the rag and reminisce.

The only difference between Mrs. Cooklin and most American wives is that she is Japanese. A lot has happened to Toshiko Yostadowa (her Japanese name) since she met an American sergeant while a nurse in a Kyoto, Japan, hospital. She has become a mother, a housewife, a farmer's wife and an American.

Toshiko, an attractive, 31-yearold brunette, met and married Alfred Cooklin in 1952. She and her husband returned to the United States in 1955. They now live in an enormous white house on a hill on Crawford Road, southeast of Deford.

The house is the nucleus of a 240-acre dairy farm that supports 104 head of Holstein dairy cows. Cooklin also rents an extra 120 acres. Toshiko came to the U.S.

seven years ago, on January 29, 1955. Her first impression? "It was so enormous, but I'm used to it now," she says.

Does she miss her homeland? "Once in awhile," she relates, "especially at first but now I have so many friends . . . " She plans to return someday, for a visit, and to show her children, Henry, 7, and Henrietta, 6, what Japan is like. Henrietta is not too anxious to make the trip for she was born in America but not so with Henry who was born in Japan shortly before his mother came to the United States.

To take the edge off any homesickness, Toshiko and a number of Japanese wives in the Saginaw Valley area get together once a month at the Saginaw YWCA and have something similar to a Japanese tea party, complete housewife.

with Japanese foods. The group holds a yearly New Year's gettogether and this year it was at Toshiko's home.

Having never been a farmer, it took her a little while to get used to farm life and routine. "It took me a long time to learn," she beamed, "but now I milk and do other chores and I like it."

Mrs. Cooklin was raised in a small town called Okubo, just outside Kyoto. All her family, except herself, are teachers. She has three brothers and three sisters. Her father is dead.

Preparing American dishes for her husband presented no real problem for Toshiko. She took a cooking course at the YWCA in Kyoto. She also received a lot of help from her husband, who, with a name like Cooklin, was a cook in the Army. Once in awhile, for a little variety, she prepares her husband's favorite Japanese dishes.

The really big problem she hit in the cooking field was baking pies and cakes. It seems there is very little pastry made and sold in Japan and so her experience was rather limited.

Her number one hobby is sewing. She took lessons at the Kyoto YWCA sewing school for a year and a half and now makes most of the clothes for her children and the rest of the family. Toshiko's living room is full of living proof that she enjoys growing plants. She has plants on tables, on stands and on decorative poles that reach clear to the ceiling. All these things tend to make Toshiko an American. Just one thing remains to complete the transformation. She has yet to obtain her naturalization papers.

When asked if she had them, she replied, "Not yet, but I expect to get them anytime." Then, legally, as well as physically, she will be an average American Clinic Dr. D. E. Rawson this week announced that he will move into his new clinic at the corner of Seeger and Church streets next week and will hold open house for interested persons Sunday afternoon, Jan. 14, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Dr. Rawson said that everyone in the community is welcome to tour the new facility during those hours.

Those who accept the invitation will see a 65 by 28-foot building that includes the latest advancements in dental facilities.

A constant temperature will be maintained the year around and all cigar, cigarette smoke and other air impurities will be whisked away quietly and quickly through mechanism in the heating facilities.

Visitors who enter the front door will be admitted into a luxurious waiting room that extends over three-fourths of the distance across the front of the building. Immediately joining this room is the business office. From the waiting room, patients will go into a long hall from which four operating spaces are entered on the north and public lavatories, Dr. Rawson's office and a staff lounge

Although the clinic is equipped with a grid type lighting system that furnishes a non-glare light, on many days the building can be used without artificial lights of any kind.

The reason is the unusual windows placed near the top of the building. They have been designed to permit a maximum amount of natural light, yet have been installed at an angle that eliminates glare, even on the brightest days.

Post Office Sets New Yule Mail Handling Record

Mail processing records for the Christmas holidays were broken one after another last month at the Cass City Post Office, according to a report from Postmaster Lewis Bishop.

The post office dispatched in excess of 100,000 pieces of mail. not counting parcel post during the Christmas season. While a count was not kept on incoming mail, the estimated volume distributed was close to 140,000 pieces.

Bishop also calculated that income and outgo of parcel post was up 12 per cent over last year.

He attributed the fast handling of the staggering amounts of mail to the new post office building, citing the spacious mailing counter and the large storage space.

Two seasonal assistants were hired but because of the efficiency they only worked a total of 36 hours apiece over a seven-day period, or a little over five hours

Classes for Adults Offered at Ubly

"How Planter Speed Affects Corn Population" was the topic of the first meeting of the 10week Adult Farmer Class which began Tuesday night at Ubly High School in the Vo-Ag room.

Results from the Corn Harvest Field Day at Sandusky last fall were presented. The relationship between population, ear size, depth of planting and corn yield were also discussed.

If enough interest is shown, the school also intends to offer courses in beginning typing and beginning sewing, starting Wednesday, January 17, at 7:30 p. m.

There is no charge for the farmer class but the other classes carry a fee. Persons interested in the classes may call the High School, Olive 8-5721; or register the first night of the of the

A case of rabies in a local dairy herd has prompted a Cass City veterinarian to issue a warning to pet owners, especially dog owners, to have their pets properly vaccinated.

Dr. Harry Crandell, DVM, also warned against getting near wild animals that show no fear, and which would ordinarily run from man.

Vaccination of dogs is highly effective in rabies control, according to Dr. Crandell. Of the 8,000 rabies cases reported last year, 87 per cent were in dogs and most of the other cases were directly traceable to dogs.

All infected animals and persons exhibit symptoms to some degree. As a rule, emotional or nervous disorders, excitability and paralysis may be observed. Any suspicion or possibility of

How many of you homemakers got gravy or grease stains on your good tablecloths during the holidays? The gravy stain is not such a good thing if it is spilled all over your lovely holiday tablecloth. Stain removal can be a problem, but there are some basics that make stain removal easier and more understandable. There are three kinds of stains: greasy, non-greasy and a combination of both.

Speed is one of the most important elements in removing any stain. The sooner you can try to remove it, the better your chances are of succeeding. Stains can be set by heat or age, which makes them difficult or even impossible to remove.

Cool water is the magic ingredient for getting rid of nongreasy stains. A cool-water sponging or half-hour soak removes many stains. Some may need an overnight bath. If a stain remains you can work a detergent into it and follow with a rinse. If it still persists, you may try a bleach.

The combination greasy and non-greasy stain gets the same treatment. If there is still a greasy spot after you have used a detergent, try a grease solvent. Let it dry, and repeat if

Special grease solvents can be bought at drug, grocery and auto-supply stores. Remember that these grease solvents must be used with caution, because they are flammable and some are toxic. They should be used only in small amounts in a wellventilated room. You should not breathe the vapors, and if you spill any on your skin, wash it off immediately. The solvent vapors are heavier than air and tend to settle, so small children should not be allowed to play on the floor in a room where solvents are being used.

For a complete rundown on removing stains, you can order from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Home and Garden Bulletin No. 62, the booklet, "Removing Stains from Fabrics." The booklet outlines the principles of stain removal; describes the absorbent materials, detergents, solvents and chemical stain removers that can be used, and then suggests the best methods for removing a variety of specialized stains, such as butter, candle wax, syrup, cosmetics, mildew, paint or tar.

This may seem a little far fetched but the first to agree with the statement would be a number of New York music publishers who heard the music of these two young Cass City composers during the Christmas holi-

The composers are Roger Parrish, Cass City School choral director, and Tom Jones, Cass City High School senior.

The trip proved to be more successful for Parrish who had one of his Christmas songs, " . . . And He Sang His Song So Low," singled out to be presented to singer Tennessee Ernie Ford, of TV fame. If Ford likes the piece, Parrish will be given a contract and Ford will record the piece for the coming Christmas season,

The song, a bass solo, was written two years ago. This Christmas it was sung at the Christmas concert by Bill Dobbs and by Jones at his church on Christmas Eve.

It was among a group of songs presented to the manager of recordings at Capital Records Recording Company. The compositions were also presented to several other publishing and recording companies and all were well received.

Jones presented an original theme from "Concerto Philia," for piano, which was presented at the recent school concert. He received many encouraging comments from the publishers and

Cass City Has Business Credit Listing Increase

Cass City businesses seeking Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book listings jumped from 80 to 97 over the past 15 years, according to a report from that company's Detroit office. This represents a business population increase of 17.

The county, as a whole, experienced a 16 per cent increase, climbing from 583 listings in 1947 to 677, as of this month, for a total increase of 94 listings.

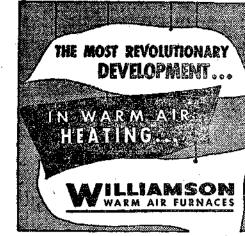

Two area towns retained the same number of listings and one area town suffered a decrease. Gagetown dropped from 16 listings to 15 and Kingston and Deford remained at 23 and 6 listings, respectively.

The Reference Book lists those manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit but does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, securiity dealers and real estate brokers. The figures listed, therefore, do not include all businesses or increases experienced by the towns listed,

THE NEW CAR WARRANTIES

There's a popular song of a few seasons back that says "love and marriage go together . . . " The same good sense applies to new car owners and reliable dealers.

a few years back, today's new cars still nequire expert service. That is the basic reason they are sold through dealer service establishments and not in "supermarkets" along with appliances and other products. Manufacturers, of course, have always

Though vastly improved over models of only recognized this, as shown by their admiristration of the new "12 months and 12,000 miles warranties, first publicized in 1961 and offered by all makers on the '62 models. Though most drivers fail to realize it until trouble develops, these guarantees are based on the dealer's "sole judgment" of whetherna factory part is at fault. How a new car owner's warranty claims are adjusted depends largery on the dealer he buys from.

Some volume dealers, interested only in quick sales profits, are reluctant to take on this type of "flat rate" warranty work between they lose money on it, or simply lack the facilities to perform the repairs. And if a purchaser bought his new car from a non-franchism "discount" operator, then he has, of course, no service claims what-

Here is some good advice a large consumer organization recent gave its subscribers: "Car warranties are so worded to obligate t dealer, not the manufacturer, to make good on faults. Restrict your car shopping to those dealerships which have earned a reputation of fair dealing in making warranty repairs. Buy the dealer as well the car."

tarmers have vaccinated over 100,000 calves during 1961.

"But a quarter million annually should be vaccinated," he points out. "Michigan now has only 250 infected herds compared to over 7,500 in 1955. Lax vaccination could put us back where we started."

Parsons says it's especially important to vaccinate all replacement stock.

Disease germs can remain in a cow up to 200 days before symptoms show up, he explains. An animal passing a clean test may still carry the costly disease because she's been exposed. Thus it's important to vaccinate the entire herd and keep complete records.

If there is infection within a herd, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and State Department of Agriculture will furnish vaccination for three years after disclosure of the last reactor animal. To be official, vaccination must:

Be done when a calf is four through eight months of age.

Use Strain 19 vaccine. Be recorded by the State Department of Agriculture.

Be given by an accredited veterinarian.

Be designated by a tattoo on the calf's right ear. Many Tuscola county livestock owners are neglecting calfhood vaccination and this could develop into a real problem for individual herd owners and for the county as a whole, said Alfred Ballweg, county extension direc-

The brochures will be distributed among selected industries in this country and Canada. The brochure calls attention to

He also pointed out the system of education concentrated on at Cass City.

WANDERING WITH WARREN She Died Quietly

Last week my mother passed away - gently, peacefully and without pain. The agony of sorrow that I had feared would be mine was immeasurably eased as I, with others, kept watch at her bedside and reasoned out the well-earned, serene release that was hers from the tired body wearied by over 86 years full of

The words of Tryon Edwards, "A faithful Christian life in this world is the best preparation for the next," and those of Henry Hart Milman, "It matters not at what hour the righteous fall asleep. Death cannot come untimely to him who is fit to die," remind me of my mother. Because of this, my only grief is that selfish sadness that makes us want to keep our loved ones in this life.

The icestorm last week was a blinger, wasn't it? Our road - as were many others - was a mirror of ice. My husband and I had spent last Thursday night with my sister Lillian in Caro, so Friday's icy morning found us rather far from home. The side road past Lillian's house was a giare of ice so we should have known what our roads would be like; nevertheless, in the afternoon we attempted the trip home. The last two miles were the worst however, we made it. Thanks to my husband's good driving and our trusty little car.

needed something to buoy up my morale. It was a long, pleasant letter with a sparkle - if John Haire starts looking around for another columnist - hmmm. On the other hand, maybe I'd better not suggest anything!

I'm looking forward to doing some reading (If I can find the time!) - Ron received several books for Christmas; among them Kennedy's "Profiles of Courage" and Herman Wouk's "This Is My God."

Reading is one of my favorite pastimes - unhappily, however, time is usually past before I get to the pastime! Through books we can look into the past; through books we understand the present a little better; and through books we catch a glimpse of the future. Horace Mann has written, "A house without books is like a room without windows," and Edwin Percy Whipple, "Books are lighthouses erected in the great sea of time."

Nevertheless, it is also true as Tom Brown wrote - "Some books, like the City of London, fare the better for being

Money to Operate State Government Still Biggest Problem of Legislature

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association Money to operate state government, where and whom it will come from, still looms as the largest problem facing Michigan lawmakers.

The problem reached its peak during the year-long 1959 session of the legislature when state employees faced one payless payday and were threatened with others.

A $71.5 million deficit was on the books at the end of the fiscal year in July and there is no sure sign that the financial picture has improved since then,

Legislators this year will be hard pressed to find new sources of revenue to meet the demands for governmental services.

In the 1961 budget-writing process, the Democratic administration and the Republican legislature were far apart on estimates of how much was needed and the amount which would be available for operations.

It is still a matter of conjecture as to which was right, but the two sides now appear closer together on at least one point: that more money is needed than is available.

Recent meetings of both parties brought forth general agreement that Michigan's citizens want services not now available under the present revenue pat-

If new money is to be forthcoming, the only unanswered question remaining is to find the most equitable means to tax Michigan citizens to provide it.

Some Republicans feel minimal opposition to the nuisance taxes which were allowed to expire last July indicated these might be desirable areas to impose new, permanent levies. The beer and liquor, telephone and telegraph, and cigarette and tobacco interests, of course, contend their products and services are already taxed beyond. reasonable limits. And there is justification for their

that if the four per cent sales a small percentage of the numtax were approved, it would soon be boosted again and again and again. There were no indications from any quarters that this was being considered.

The business community now complains loudly and with agreement in both parties that its taxes are already too high.

Many Republican lawmakers have been heard in recent weeks to say an income tax might be the lesser of the several undesirables.

Gov. John B. Swainson, who proposed this method to the 1961 legislature as part of his fiscal reform program, said he welcomed this stand by some members of the opposition party.

"We haven't seen their votes on the board yet, however," he said. "Speeches sometimes are not backed up when the voting buttons are pushed."

Swainson is sticking to his position that he will not approve an income tax alone, however. "This would not be the answer," he said. "The total picture of our tax structure ' must be taken into account."

Recognition by both parties could mean they are ready to sit down and seriously discuss how to put Michigan back on the black side of the ledger.

Any solution, however, must be designed to cover more than a single fiscal year. It must be a program which will keep Michigan's income growing along with its population and demand for services.

State personnel director Franklin K. DeWald would like to dispel the common belief that civil service provisions prevent the discharge of incapable employees.

In a recent 12-month period, 220 state civil service workers were fired, DeWald said.

"This record showed state agencies can and do fire undesirable employees," he said. "And Pessimists predicted last year this number of dismissals is only ber allowed to resign when faced with removal proceedings."

There are many who believe, however, that the civil service leaves administrators without proper authority to operate efficiently as otherwise and that when a supervisor lodges a complaint about a subordinate, it is he rather than the employee who goes "on trial."

The state's civil service work force of about 32,000 undergoes a turnover of about 10 per cent annually, a civil service commission research report shows.

The study showed that a total been fired since Michigan's civil service system was established by constitutional amendment in "State employees are subject to annual service ratings by their supervisors or an interim service rating may be given at any time," said DeWald. "Commission rules provide an employee who receives a conditional rating for one period and fails to achieve a satisfactory rating for a subsequent period, or an employee who receives an unsatisfactory rating may be dismissed."

The road to success is a public highway-not a deadend street.
