

Two Arrests Halt Shoplifting Wave

From the Editor's Corner

It costs more to run the village election on the primary system adopted several years ago by the village. But the increased cost has been more than justified by the increased interest. Every year since the new system replaced the ancient, inadequate caucus system there has been competition for the posts of trustees. No longer is it possible for a small clique to railroad selected candidates into office to run a business with a volume of well over $100,000 annually.

This year's primary election is February 19. Check your appointments - if you live in the village and if you will be gone on election day, pick up an absentee voter's ballot. They are available now from Clerk Mrs. Wilma Fry.

Highlight of Scout Week in Cass City is the Blue and Gold meeting held at the school. At this meeting parents learn what their boys have been doing all year long.

We are sure that each of them joins me in a tip of the hat to Scoutmaster Jim Ware for his many hours of volunteer work that has kept the scout program locally near the top in achievement and rating in the area council.

We realize that the increase in valuation has made tax paying harder than usual and that there is a natural rebellion when it comes to voting to make the pill more bitter. But every resident knows that a proper education is worth the money it takes to produce it.

The only question that remains, then, is whether more money is needed. A careful examination of what basic necessities the school is doing without should indicate the very real need for more operating funds.

We should remember that for many years Cass City's operating expenses have been below the state average and among the lowest in the Thumb. For this we are grateful. But it no longer suffices.

We urge you to vote yes in Saturday's vital election and bring our school's operation up to a par with the rest of Tuscola county and the area.

Little Damage in Two Area Fires

An over-heated water tank brought Elkland township firemen to the LeRoy Rooney residence on Doerr Road, Tuesday morning, but, according to Al Avery, fire chief, the fire was under control when they arrived. The call was received at approximately 9:00 a.m.

Soot in the chimney apparently caught fire and damage was slight.

Firemen checked an overheated oil stove in bitter cold weather Tuesday morning at 1:15 o'clock at the Norris Holdburg home, Cass City.

No damage was reported.

Two Cass City area girls, ages 13 and 14, have been implicated in an outbreak of shoplifting that affected 11 Cass City stores since Christmas. According to Police Chief Bill Wood, action will be taken pending further investigation.

The girls took such items as cupcake, wearing apparel, trinkets, rings, cosmetics and from one store they took a can of Metracal.

The 11 stores hit were Ben Franklin, Wood's Drug Store, Freiburger Grocery, Mac and Scotty's Drug Store, Federated, McConkey's Jewelry Store, Freiburger Hobby, Foodtown IGA, Hartwick's, Hunter's 5c Store and Gambles.

Wood stated that he apprehended the girls from information he received on a "tip".

In other police business, Wood reported that a 16-year-old youth was confined Tuesday to the Bay County Juvenile Home on an "unlawful driving away of an auto" charge.

The boy allegedly took his mother's car without permission and without a driver's license. He is also reported to have committed the act on previous occasions.

He was scheduled to appear in Probate Court today (Thursday) at 10:00 a.m.

Krause Pleads Guilty on Forgery Charges

A Mayville man was released on $1,000 bond after Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn ordered him to appear on Wednesday, Feb. 14, for sentencing after he pleaded guilty on two separate charges Wednesday, Jan. 31.

Ferdinand Albert Krause, Mayville, arraigned on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and forgery, pleaded guilty to both charges and a presentencing investigation was ordered.

Krause is charged with obtaining a $358.31 money order on January 16 from the Vassar State Bank, payable to a Vassar car dealer. He allegedly obtained the money by telling a bank official that he had an account with a Bay City bank.

He is also charged with writing a $150 check on the Peoples State Bank, Bay City, on January 18. He allegedly made the check out to himself and signed it "Albert Krause."

Vernon A. Bliss, 40, Caro, pleaded guilty at the same session to arraignment charges of breaking and entering of the Bradley Implement Company, Caro, on January 26. Sentencing was set for Wednesday, Feb. 14, and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

In another session, held Monday, Anthony Miklovich stood mute in a charge of negligent homicide and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. Bail was set at $500 and the case was continued to a later court session.

Miklovich is charged with negligent homicide in an accident on Kirk Road, Vassar township, that took the life of Mrs. Harold Wilson on October 21, 1957. His car allegedly crossed the center line and hit another car driven by Mrs. Wilson. She died at the scene of the accident.

Teachers Gather Wednesday for Annual Institute

Cass City High School Principal Arthur Holmberg is scheduled to deliver the invocation at the annual Tuscola County Teachers' Institute at the Caro High School on Wednesday, Feb. 14, at 9:30 a.m.

William A. Scott, county superintendent, will give the opening address and Dr. Samuel D. Marble, resident of Delta College, will speak on "Education - Door to the Future."

During the morning's meetings featured speakers will be Dr. Carl Hendershott, Delta College, Dr. Julia Adkins and Dr. Wilbur Waggoner, both of Central Michigan University.

Charlotte Richards, past president of the NEA, will be the luncheon speaker and Alexander C. Carmichael, Syracuse, N. Y., will address the afternoon session on "Education for Creative Living."

SCOTTY McCULLOUGH has become a "rug-ular" fellow since he began making hooked rugs three years ago as therapeutic treatment for arthritic hands. Now he does it more as a hobby and a creative outlet.

Local Reservists to Train in Illinois

Four Cass City men and three Gagetown men from the Caro Reserve Center, 428th Engineers Company, Supply Point, are scheduled to leave Saturday, Feb. 10, at midnight for two weeks' training at the Granite City, Ill., Engineers Supply Point.

The four Cass City men are: Russell Schneberger, Bill Tuckey, David Wilson and Fred Smith. The Gagetown men are: Jim Monroe, Francis Goslin and Jim Sontag.

The men and the rest of the company, all Thumb area men, will receive two weeks' training in supply point operation. The trip will be made by bus and the men are scheduled to return February 25.

Second in Series On Curriculum Set for Feb. 14

Cass City High School's agricultural and industrial arts departments are scheduled to be topics of the second in a series of curriculum seminars to be held Wednesday, Feb. 14, according to Rev. John Fish, curriculum study chairman. It will be in the Agriculture Room at 8:00 p.m.

Instructors Lyle Clarke and Orion Cardew will explain the scope and purposes of their respective classes and will be available for a question and answer period. Sometime during the session a tour of the shop will be made to show what is being done in the different departments.

The meeting, calculated to give residents an opportunity to find out more about the school curriculum, is open to the public.

Village to Get License Rebate

The Village of Cass City and area and county villages are scheduled to receive an increased Motor Vehicle Fund collection rebate for the final quarter of 1961, due to an 80 per cent increase in the sale of 1962 license plates in November and December.

According to a report from the Michigan State Highway Department, Tuscola county is scheduled to receive $162,594.00 of the $47,517,496 to be returned. The total collection is a $4,279,097 increase over 1960.

Cass City will receive $3,866.00. Gagetown is scheduled to get $1,349 and Kingston will receive $989.00.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie states that gross collections amounted to $1,590,985 and the Waterways Commission's share, amounting to $195,522, were deducted.

After deductions, the money is distributed under provisions of state law which provide that 47 per cent goes to the State Highway Department for use on state highways, 35 per cent to the State's 83 counties for use on county roads and 18 per cent to 513 incorporated cities and villages for their roads and streets.

Under this formula, the Highway Department will receive $22,333,223 as its share of the fourth quarter collections, while the counties will receive $16,631,124 and the incorporated cities and villages will get $9,558,149.

Rug Making Hobby A Time Consumer

What began three years ago as therapeutic treatment for arthritic hands has developed into a creative hobby for a Cass City pharmacist.

For Glen "Scotty" McCullough, making hooked rugs in his spare time is no longer a prescribed chore but is instead an outlet for artistic abilities.

"Scotty" has become so adept at making these rugs that two of them have been given away in promotions by the Cass City Gavel Club in past years and another is scheduled to be given away this April by the club.

Since he began, he has finished eight of the 100 per cent wool rugs. "It's so time consuming," he remarked. "Each rug takes about 150 hours to complete."

It is easy to see why each rug takes so long. The work involves tying three-inch lengths of wool yarn to a colored backing. There were 20,000 such lengths in the last rug he completed!

The tying is done with the aid of a latch hook, a dressed-up version of the old-time shoe hook. The yarn is wrapped around the hook about halfway up the shank. The hook is then inserted into the hole in the backing and up through another hole. The remaining end of the yarn is wrapped around the hook and the hook is pulled back, drawing the loose end of the yarn through the curved end formerly on the shank.

The end result is usually a beautiful 30x56-inch wool rug with a half-inch thick pile.

"Scotty" usually purchases his rugs in kit form from a company in Baltimore, Maryland. They vary in cost, according to size, and range from $35.00 to $50.00.

The kits contain all the yarn, backing and instructions. The backing is made of a heavy, treated cord and has the rug pattern stamped on in colors so the weaver knows exactly where the threads go.

The rugs come in different styles and designs. Floral, animal or decorative designs are featured on half-moon and varying sizes of the conventional rectangular rug.

The rug just finished for the Gavel Club (see photo) has orange and black squares with black and orange insets on a black background.

Another rug made specifically for a gift has green ends with a white center. In the middle of the rug is an oak leaf done in brilliant fall colors.

"Scotty", who also dabbles in woodworking, has been a lifelong Cass City resident. He and his family live at 4675 Hunt Street. He has worked for and been an owner of the Mac and Scotty Drug Store for the past 33 years.

To add a little variety to his rug making, he purchased a Swedish rug kit. The kit arrived complete with backing, thread and a graph explaining clearly how to assemble it.

The rug turned out beautifully, despite the fact that the directions were in Swedish and despite the fact that, as "Scotty" put it, "My Swedish isn't so good."

Panel of Pupils Say Parents Lack Interest

A four-member discussion panel of Cass City High School Council members told a Home and School Council audience that "Parents want a full program but don't want to finance it," at a public meeting Monday night in the elementary gymnasium.

The panel, moderated by Student Council President Tom Jones, showed an acute awareness of the situation as it pointed out and discussed problems its members and other students had experienced during the past year because of the cutback in operational spending.

The group was a part of a joint Board of Education-student program to present the problem and explain why the proposed three-mill levy is so urgently needed. The meeting was the last pre-election get-out-the-vote campaign before voters go to the polls Saturday.

Panel members Kathy Ballard, Charles Seeley and Charles Roveda cited lack of morale, athletic facilities and educational opportunities that have developed during the past school year.

Lack of interest

Miss Ballard told the group that of 24 students she had asked to speak on behalf of the school, none volunteered. She stated that she felt this was a reflection of the lack of interest on the part of many parents.

Roveda and Seeley spoke on the necessity of more and better junior and senior high school athletic facilities and how the cutback was affecting educational opportunities such as field trips.

The five Board of Education members followed the panel with a resume of the problem, telling why it has arisen and why the increase in evaluation has not aided the school.

A brief rundown on what the money would be used for if the millage is passed was given by Lester Ross, school board president.

Would Buy Buses

In brief, the money would be used to purchase two new buses each year for the next several years, add to the curriculum new subjects and subjects previously cut out, library books, to take care of necessary school repairs and bring the operational budget in line with necessary spending.

Fr. Arnold Messing, St. Pancratius Church, during the question and answer period, asked if all athletic funds came from the school income.

Hawks Lose to Lakers

Superior height proved decisive as the Lakers from Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port scored a convincing victory over Cass City Friday night at Cass City High School. The score was 72-52.

Despite the 20-point margin at the end of the game, Cass City looked much better against the Lakers Friday than they did in the opening game between the two schools. In the first game, the Hawks were pulverized, 62-35, and Coach Ed Wolford was pouring in the reserves early in the third period.

Friday, the bench warmers didn't take over until the final 47 seconds, although the outcome of the game was never in doubt by the end of the third period.

A bright spot for local cage fans was the play of Roger Parker. Since earning a starting spot two weeks ago, Parker has proved to be a fine shot and a good board man. Against the rangy Lakers he kept the visitors from complete domination on the rebounds.

Despite his efforts, it was the rebounding that killed any chance Cass City might have had to win. Time after time, it was the second shot that found the mark after Roger Deering, Gary Anderson or Ron Schulz had gathered in the rebound.

Early Lead

The Lakers raced to an early lead in the first quarter and were never behind. With Deering whipping in six buckets for 12 points, they bombed the hoop for 22 points while Cass City was netting 13 points.

In the second quarter the scoring was about even, with Parker, Bob Morley and Dick Creason sharing the scoring load. The Hawks whipped in 13 points. The Lakers countered with 20 points as Jerry Young and Ron Schulz led the attack with six points each. At the half, Cass City trailed 42-31.

Whatever chance Cass City might have had to spring an upset faded in the third quarter as the visitors posted a 16-8 advantage as the Hawks' offense was limited to a pair of field goals by Larry Robinson and four of six charity tosses.

In the final period, the clubs concluded on page two.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, Feb. 10—Don Aaron Ewald will sell cattle and dairy equipment at the farm, eight miles north, one mile west and a half mile north of Caro.

Saturday, Feb. 17—Richard Fackler will hold a dairy and farm auction at the place, five miles north and one and a half miles east of Davison on E. Stanley Road. It will begin at 12:30.

Wednesday, Feb. 21—Roy Vader will hold an auction at the place located a half mile west and a half mile south of Colwood on Vader Road.

He then suggested partial support by an athletic association comprised of 40-50 men who could raise necessary funds through various activities. He remarked that such an association would be a valuable asset even if the millage passed.

"Made in Cass City"

Perhaps the most impassioned plea came from Principal Arthur Holmberg. After he finished his speech, the 80-90 persons present gave him a long ovation.

"We do not build space capsules, rockets and so forth in Cass City... we build boys and girls," he told the group. "We send them on to colleges, into business and into the factories... we, as a community, have shaped these boys and girls and while they don't bear the label 'Made in Cass City,' the whole world soon knows it."

"We have 1,200 children in school... your children and my children... we are responsible for them," he continued.

"If you will just think of your is a legal holiday. No business will be transacted. The Pinney State Bank, The Cass City State Bank.

Churches Urge School Support

Cass City religious leaders issued a general statement this past week expressing their "distress at the indifference, suspicion, misunderstanding and uninformed zeal concerning our public schools." The statement was released at the Cass City Council of Churches meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 30.

The Council, in the six-point statement, also expressed concern over the "climate" of public education in the community.

The importance of maintaining high standards was also stressed, along with the need for maintaining the facilities of the school, upgrading the curriculum and maintaining adequate salaries commensurate with the importance of the services teachers perform.

The Council's 1962 officers were also elected at the meeting. Dr. Ivan MacRae was elected president and Mrs. Marian Douglas was named vice-president. Also elected were Mrs. Frances Coykendall, secretary, and Ron Geiger, treasurer.

Along other fronts, the Council also sent a letter to the High School Student Council offering assistance and encouraging their efforts to acquire a foreign exchange student.

Expect Large Voter Turnout

For the third time within a year, Cass City area residents will be asked to approve extra operating millage (3 mills for 3 years) said by all competent school authorities to be a vital necessity for proper operation.

Observers are predicting that the vote in the third attempt will exceed the number which voted in the previous election.

With some 2,000 registered voters in the district, the vote of the 730 who cast ballots in the second election in August is hardly adequate to express the opinion of the majority.

If a larger turnout is not evidenced Saturday, it will not be the fault of the Board of Education or of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools. Both groups have gone all out to inform the electorate of the reasons why the money is needed. Both groups are wholeheartedly supporting the measure and both are urging everyone to cast ballots.

A brochure outlining the need for the extra three mills and explaining what the money will be used for has been mailed to the voters by the school board. The booklet also explains how much it will cost each voter.

An open letter to the community has been sent out. The letter, signed by professional, business and social leaders, also explains the problem and makes a plea for voter support.

Two public meetings have been held, one by the school board in January and another by the Home and School Council Monday. (See story).

School board members have also been actively campaigning by making personal appearances at local club and civic meetings.

Last August, the issue was defeated by 96 votes when 413 no votes and 317 yes votes were cast. The result was a cutback in teacher, curriculum and maintenance spending by the school board.

Teacher supplementary spending was also cut, causing a furor among the teachers, until an anonymous donor offered to underwrite any financial loss if the coming election failed to obtain the necessary millage.

One of the end results of the cutback in spending was the dropping of the school from the North Central Accrediting Association, leaving Cass City with just one accrediting organization, the University of Michigan.

The three mills asked for is calculated to return the school curriculum to past standards with enough left over to meet North Central standards and for additional building maintenance.

Blue and Gold Night Fetes Cass City Scouts

The year's work of local Boy Scouts was reviewed Tuesday night at the annual Blue and Gold meeting held at Cass City High School for scouts, their parents and members of the troop committee.

At the meeting, scouts received awards and new scouts their troop cards.

New scouts are Bernard Freiburger, Wayne Seeley and Randy Doerr. Second class badges presented went to Mike Root, David Bolen, Donald Stilson and Tim Barnes.

Top advancement in scouting went to Chuck Roveda, who received his Star scout rank.

Chuck Roveda, Explorer scout leader, told of the work of his scouts and presented awards. Chuck Roveda told of the accomplishments of the troop throughout the year.

Other presentations were 11 Polar Bear awards to scouts who had completed the requirements. A film of the recent Klondike Derby (won by Cass City) was shown by Harold Roveda.

Marr to Seek Wide Open Sheriff's Post

Hugh Marr, Tuscola county deputy sheriff and county license examiner, this week announced that he would be a candidate for the office of sheriff in the Republican primaries in August.

Marr was born at Mayville and has lived in Fremont and Dayton townships all his life. The 48-year-old deputy sheriff has been a farmer most of his life and for eight years operated a livestock trucking business.

Prior to his appointment as a deputy sheriff, Marr served as supervisor of Dayton township for two years. He is still chairman of the Dayton township zoning board.

Sheriff William Tomlinson appointed Marr a deputy sheriff in 1958 to take the place of the late Vern Everett, who retired from his post as the county license examiner.

He and Mrs. Marr have been members of the county Farm Bureau for about 20 years.

Junior High Band Members Win Top Festival Ratings

Ten Cass City Junior High Band members attended the Junior High Solo and Ensemble Festival at Bad Axe Saturday and six of them were given various division ratings.

Diane Yedinak, Barbara Starmann, Sherry Matlack and Kathy Stroupe received a first division rating for their flute quartet. Miss Yedinak and Miss Starmann also received a second division rating with a flute duet.

Miss Yedinak and Rose Cook both played flute solos and received first and third division ratings, respectively.

A first division rating was also awarded to Mary Lou Spencer for a tuba solo.

The students were allowed to practice their pieces and then performed before a judge. There are five possible ratings the performers could have received.

WSCS Reminded of Power of God

Mrs. Earl Douglas told 38 members and four guests of the WSCS of the Methodist Church of the "Spirit of God" Monday evening.

Mrs. Douglas said that the spirit of God working in the world is stronger than the greatest hurricane, earthquake or atom bomb if Christians will make use of it.

Mrs. Roy Chisholm read the story of the Pentecost from the Bible on which the evening lesson was based. Mrs. Barney Hoffman concluded the program with a solo.

Group 1, with Mrs. Willis Campbell and Mrs. Warren Wood, cochairmen, was in charge of the dinner served at 6:30. It was preceded by a prayer meeting.

THE FOLLY OF PRIVATE DEALS

As anyone who has tried will tell you, attempting to sell your old car privately and then buying a new one without a trade can make you wish you hadn't.

Here are some of the steps an owner must go through to accomplish this complicated task:

Firstly, he must advertise his car in a newspaper where he will find that his ad won't begin to compete with those of dealers. If he is lucky and it does get him results, then he must generally be forever on call waiting for the right prospect to come along.

When he does find a buyer, he runs into real price resistance. Private buyers expect to buy from an individual for substantially less. That's usually why they answer such ads in the first place. In addition, the seller can offer no guarantees or service after delivery and the buyer knows that all future faults with the car become his responsibility.

Since better than three-quarters of all buyers have a car to trade, the chances are good that the buyer himself will have a car that will stand in the way of the deal. If the transaction passes this hurdle, then the problem of finance arises. Again, better than 70 per cent of all cars are sold on terms, and the chances are good that the prospective buyer will wish to buy this way.

It is to overcome all these problems, of course, that car dealers exist. You will be farther ahead if you find a reputable one and trade your car with him. If you should deal with us, you will be availing yourself of honest treatment, reliable service and fair dealing as a matter of course.

And, we GUARANTEE every OK Used Car or Truck sold for over $300.00. We pride ourselves on our satisfied customers who return to buy again and again.

I repeat. If you don't receive service or what you consider to be a fair deal, please tell me personally. I cannot straighten out what I don't know about. We will do our best to please.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

I Dreamed With My Seed Catalog

By Rene Warren

I am chagrined. Miffed. Disgruntled. Hurt. Let's face it: I'm downright jealous. Did you see, in last week's "Letters to the Editor," the nice tribute to that new column (what IS its name?) appearing in the Chronicle? How about that!

The first seed catalog arrived last Thursday - I settled down in an easy chair and dreamily turned its pages. The snow disappeared and in its place appeared green grass and tiny adventuresome plants began to poke questing shoots up through the sun-softened soil. What an imagination! When I snapped out of it, the snow was still blanketing the landscape and the already low temperature was sagging!

As I sat gazing out the window I thought: I do believe I'm becoming more of a hothouse poxy with each passing winter. Fearful lest I give in to the temptation to really be one, I hopped up - bundled into my coat, scarf, gloves and boots - and boldly ventured into the chilly, white outdoors. I let the dogs out for a frisky ramble; burned the papers; listened to some birds twittering in the trees along the river. Poor birds, thought I, wonder if they're getting enough to eat. Back to the house. Got a shiny pie pan, a nail, hammer and the sack of birdseed. Back to the river gate where I nailed down the pie pan on top of the gate post and filled it with birdseed. The pessimist in me decided, the best wind'll blow it all out. But, persisted helpful Annie, the wind's not blowing today - and maybe the birds'll eat some before it does blow away. Oh well, shrugged the pessimist, they probably won't find it but if it makes you feel better to waste the birdseed, go ahead! And I did.

The temperature really dropped last Thursday night. At eleven-thirty our thermometer registered 24 below zero (Friday morning we learned that Bad Axe registered 21 below, so, considering the built-in refrigerator we have in front of our house, i. e., the river, our thermometer must be fairly accurate). However, a certainty that it was cold was mine before I looked at the thermometer - the windows were frosted more than usual and there were strange creakings and thumpings around the house. Once there were two thumps that sounded like some knocking at the front door.

Despite my disbelief, there were a few moments when I began to wonder if we were entertaining a poltergeist! Later, the thumpings were explained to me to be the ice on the roof with the extreme cold causing it to expand and crack thus creating the odd noises.

So, 'bye 'bye, Poltergeist.

Freshmen Show Class in Victories

Cass City's Freshman team continues to look like the class of the Thumb following another pair of victories by wide margins.

They whipped Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Frosh 58-22 and knocked over Sandusky 60-37. It was the fourth and fifth wins without defeat for the young Hawks.

Jim Champion hit 18 points in the Lakeland game and Ed Retherford collected 13. Knoblet made 11.

In the Sandusky game Champion won out because of injury, but his teammates had little trouble picking up the slack to win. Retherford stormed for 21 points. Erla whipped in 13 and Knoblet had eight.

The next Freshman contest will be tonight (Thursday) against the Lakers at Cass City High School.

GREENLEAF

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Rienstra and Dennis and Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Rienstra and children were entertained Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trathen, honoring Mrs. Pete Rienstra's birthday. Sunday night the Rienstras stayed at the Trathen home to help them get ready for a trip to Florida. They left Monday morning.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hartwick were their granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schmidt of Saginaw.

Patricia Hoadley spent the week end at her home and returned to school in Lansing Sunday.

Evangeline MacRae of Midland and Alexandria MacRae of Bad Axe were week-end visitors at their home south of New Greenleaf.

James McLothan was a Saturday overnight guest of Timothy Karr.

Arthur Holmberg of Cass City was guest speaker at Fraser Church Sunday. Next Sunday, Feb. 11, William Pietscher of Bad Axe will speak.

Mrs. Clayton Root and Roger and Mr. and Mrs. George McKee were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nemeth Jr. The group were celebrating the birthdays of Mr. Nemeth and Mrs. McKee, which come on the same day.

Tree Planting

Time Approaching

Tree planting time will soon be here even though the ground is well hidden under a blanket of snow at the present time. Nurseries are making plans to get seedlings ready for spring delivery.

Directors of the Tuscola Soil Conservation District are making arrangements to have a supply of seedlings available for you when planting time comes. However, they must have your help in knowing just how many trees will be needed. Now is the time for you to let them know what seedlings you wish to buy from the District this year. Don't wait until planting time comes and then be disappointed if seedlings are not available.

District cooperators have planted approximately 2,000,000 trees since the District was organized in 1943. Many of these trees have been, or will be, harvested for Christmas trees, but a much greater number will remain to grow into timber for other purposes.

S. C. D. records in Michigan show that while there has been a considerable reduction in plantings of Scotch pine and other "Christmas trees," the planting of white pine has more than tripled in the last three years. Red pine and jack pine plantings have remained about the same.

This change in species planted indicates that District cooperators are tending to think more about good land use than about Christmas tree production. This is a healthy trend in planting habits as there are thousands of acres of land in the Tuscola District that are best suited for the production of timber.

Kritzman Helps Set Running Record

Lt. Col. Peter Kritzman, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman, Decker, and a 12-man squad set a new record for the five-mile cross-country run recently in a battalion field meet at Camp Schwab, Okinawa.

Kritzman and his squad, carrying full combat gear, ran the course in 38 minutes and 57 seconds, to pare a minute and a half off the old record. Four other companies competed in the meet.

Active on the regimental track and wrestling teams, Kritzman began his track career at Cass City under Coach Mike Yedinak when he ran the mile in 1957-58. He also holds an expert rating in marksmanship with the M-1 rifle and the pistol.

Okinawa, the largest island of the Ryukyu group, is 67 miles long and varies from three to 12 miles in width. The population averages 1,504 people per square mile, the heaviest concentration anywhere on earth.

Kritzman is a rocket squad leader at Camp Schwab, one of the nine camps on Okinawa.

With over seven months of his tour of duty left, Kritzman is expected to be discharged in September.

Top Independent Cage Game Slated

A cage treat is in store for area fans Saturday, Feb. 17, according to authorities at the Cass City Independent Basketball League.

That night an all-star squad from Cass City will play Wickes of Saginaw, one of the better independent clubs in the Saginaw Valley.

In a preliminary contest, Cass City High School freshmen will play the sophomores.

STUDENT COUNCIL panel members listen while Student Council President and panel moderator Tom Jones stresses a point during a discussion of student problems arising from the cutback in operational spending at Cass City High School. The discussion was a joint Board of Education-student program held at the Home and School Council session Monday night in the Elementary gym. The panel members are, left to right, Jones, Kathy Ballard, Charles Roveda and Charles Seeley.

Tuckey's Lose in City Loop

The race tightened slightly in the City Basketball League as league-leading Tuckey's suffered their first defeat in eight games. They were upset by Walbro, 80-27, in a low scoring game.

In other Thursday night games at Cass City High School, Sherman's blasted Erla's 56-34 and Mac & Leo edged Snover 49-42.

Tuckey's Walbro

Tuckey's started fast in the first period, but faded in the next three quarters as the factorymen raced to victory. Walbro trailed 10-5 at the end of the first canto, but moved into the lead, 15-14, at halftime. It was all tied at the end of three quarters, 20-20, to set the stage for Walbro's 10-7 last period advantage and the victory.

Chris Schneider paced the winners with eight points while Rossman collected 12 for Tuckey's.

Sherman's-Erla's

After trailing at the end of the first period 12-10, Sherman's applied the pressure to easily top Erla's 56-34. At the half the restaurant five were in front 22-18 and at the end of three periods had sailed the game away as they led 41-23.

Van Nocker led the winners with 22 points. He was assisted by J. D. Alexander with 16. Topping the losers was Dean Hoag with 11 points.

Balanced scoring featured the Cass City attack. Roveda hit for 12, Wallace collected nine, Ruhl had eight, Schember, four, and Copeland, four. Turner and Crane each collected two points.

Cass City will rate as favorites in the upcoming Junior High Tournament Monday, Feb. 12, at Marlette. Games start at 7:30 p.m.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Can Con-Con Conclude in Time To Meet Self-Imposed March 31 Deadline?

Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association

The Constitutional Convention gave itself a challenging March 31 adjournment date some time ago, but now faces the question of whether it can meet its self-imposed cutoff date.

A legislative appropriation last year provided enough funds to pay delegates their semi-monthly salary through May, but the elected members of the convention decided they should attempt to finish their work earlier.

The decision was sharply influenced by an attorney general's opinion which stated March 31 would be the last day the convention could work if it wanted to get its proposed constitution on the November ballot, when state officers will be elected.

Now, with some months of committee work and several hours of heated debate behind them, the delegates are beginning to realize the sharp limitations of the March 31 deadline. The validity of the Attorney General's opinion is also being challenged as it becomes apparent the cutoff date might mean a less than fully considered document could result from the short session.

Michigan's present constitution gives the 1961-62 convention the power to put its proposal before the people any time 90 days or longer after the time it adjourns. For the November ballot, this would put the cutoff date at August.

Attendance record of the delegates is excellent. According to Lloyd Ashe, a Lansing man who has kept track of legislators for years, says Con-Con delegates have been present for a remarkable 92 per cent of the time in the first 48 days during 1961. Thus far in 1962, their record is better still: 97 per cent.

Delegates who had no previous political experience in deliberative bodies are just now beginning to see the full process unfold. The convention sessions have been long and tedious for committee members who have gone over and over the material in their report and must review the entire committee considerations for the rest of the delegates.

Some of the less experienced have expressed concern over the fact that committee reports are not summarily accepted as the best possible proposals.

Partisan squabbles, not always fully brought out during the committee hearings, have tied up and delayed several of the meaty proposals which have reached the floor.

Limitation of debate has been viewed to this point with great distain but would appear to be one of the few ways to meet the March 31 deadline, if delegates want to meet it.

Honest appraisal of many of the speeches given by delegates on the floor leaves no doubt that better organized thoughts and a willingness to be concise instead of verbose would be a great improvement. Time could be saved and progress could be realized.

There is much to be said for and against setting limits on floor debate. Most deliberative bodies, however, find it imperative to take this action when faced with considerations of time.

The delegates, through their hard work to date and their apparently sincere interest in presenting a thoughtfully considered document to the people, have a very good public image.

If it is to remain a good image, it would appear they must make some quick decisions on whether they want to meet this deadline and the best way to do it.

Putting off until tomorrow is a habit which quickly lowers a person or group in its effectiveness. This tactic could easily present more problems to the delegates than they already face.

Drilling holes in new highways would appear to the average motorist to be an inconsistency of government, but state highway officials report this activity is a method of insuring safe roadways. Department workers last year drilled about 8,000 holes in brand new highways.

Six-inch cores are cut from new sections of highway to determine whether contractors have met the construction specifications.

Freeway construction specifications, for example, generally call for the thickness of concrete to be nine inches. Reinforcing steel must be placed in the concrete three inches below the pavement surface.

The cores drilled are measured for thickness and subject to a weight test at the department's laboratory at Ann Arbor. Each sample core must hold up under 100,000 pounds of pressure—equivalent to more than 25 regular sized cars.

Any variations from the specifications can mean the department does not pay a contractor the full paving cost. Department officials report few shortages are found.

Services Held for Edward Wehl, 43

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Church of the Nazarene, Cass City, for Edward E. Wehl, 43, who died Wednesday, Jan. 31, at the home of his brother, Homer Wehl, Reese, Mich., on June 5, 1918, was the son of Mrs. Hazel Wehl, Cass City, and the late Otis Wehl. He served with the U. S. Army from 1941 to 1945. In 1945, he moved to Reese where he lived until his death. He was a supervisor for Aircraft Tool Company, Vassar.

Surviving are his mother; three sisters, Mrs. Norman (Thelma) Schultz and Mrs. Cecil (Martha) Abke, both of Unionville, and Mrs. Melvin (Mareta) Whittaker, Cass City, and four brothers, Homer, Reese, Irvin, Bay City, Raymond, Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Rev. William Wehl, Norwalk, Calif. A brother preceded him in death.

Rev. Lloyd A. Wilson officiated at the services, and interment was in Elkland Cemetery. Committal services were under the auspices of Tri-County Post No. 507, of the American Legion.

We "Share" Things At Our House

By Dave Kraft

Well, it's been a year. As of Sunday it has been 365 days, nine hours and 18 minutes since I gave up my God-given freedom as a bachelor for the serenity and security of a happy wedded life.

This first year has meant a lot of things to me. Things like two more tax exemptions and a set of bills that would terrify a millionaire.

For the most part, I think this first year has been a good object lesson. I have learned things in this first year that I never even thought possible.

For one thing, I learned the true meaning of "sharing". "Sharing" in married life is like no sharing you'll ever experience in any other situation.

Learning to share has meant, for example, learning how to cram my entire wardrobe into the remaining six inches of closet left after my wife hangs up her clothes.

It has meant learning how to sardine my socks, sweaters, handkerchiefs, T-shirts and unmentionables into the smallest drawer of a four-drawer chest of drawers . . . the one on the bottom.

Sharing the bathroom has been my most enlightening experience. I've learned that it is strictly a matter of first come, first soaped. My wife has gotten pretty cagey since the baby arrived. Now, before making for the busiest room in the house, she usually drops the baby in my lap. Have any of you men ever tried to shave with a three and a half-month-old baby in your arms?

I have also learned that one never, never dries his face on his wife's nylon just because he has soap in his eyes and can't discern between the towel and the nylons that just happen to be drying on the towel rack.

Of course, the medicine cabinet is in the same category as the chest of drawers and the closet. It has four shelves . . . I have one . . . the bottom one.

I've also learned how little a man can sleep on and without. Our bed, as beds go, is relatively large and there is no good reason why two full grown adults can't share it in complete harmony.

The problem stems from the fact that my wife is a "pusher". I usually spend the night with a death grip on the headboard, my big toe wedged in a crack in the tailboard and the rest of me tottering on a thin strip of bed.

She is also a "cover clutcher." She seems to think blankets are going to be rationed and she has to get her share before rationing starts. The net result is that I usually end up with less covering than a maple tree after a hard winter.

I have tried to put my foot down in this struggle for equal rights. All this has done is teach me that in married life when you put your foot down, you usually step on your own toes.

In last week's Chronicle, there was a picture and an article about the Department of Public Works painting the street signs and making it easier for residents and visitors to find out where they were.

In connection with this, I'd like to point out that you people who used to live on Brooker Street, no longer live on Brooker Street. You now live on Booker Street.

It seems the fellows doing the work misplaced the brush used in making the letter "r" and didn't find it until they were putting the last letter on.

I think the moral is: "Don't judge a Booker by its sign post."

Eleven Local Scouts at Camporee

Eleven Cass City Boy Scouts and three adults, including Scoutmaster Jim Ware, participated in a week-end Polar Bear Campout at Wade Memorial Park, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 3-4.

The scouts slept in lean-tos, cooked their own meals and made a variety of scout equipment during the two days in order to be eligible for the Order of the Polar Bear award.

Scouts participating in the campout were Senior Patrol Leader Chuck Roveda, John Roveda; Jim Ballard Jr., Dean Hu-lie, David MacRae, Randy Doerr, Tim Barnes, David King, Wayne Copeland, Bernard Freiburger and Mike Root.

The adults who accompanied the Scouts, besides Scoutmaster Ware, were Harold Roveda and Jim King.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night for a few minutes, said he couldn't stay long on account of his church was putting on a hot dog sale and he was Chairman of the Mustard Committee.

The good Parson allowed as how he wasn't agin eating but it was gittin' so's you couldn't hold the weekly prayer meeting without serving hot coffee and doughnuts. At his church, for instance, he claims it takes more time and members to run the kitchen in the basement than it does to run the Lord's business upstairs. He told the fellers a week never went by but what the Kitchen Committee was putting on a barbecue supper or a chicken dinner and some weeks both.

This hot dog sale they was putting on Saturday night, he said, was somepun new and if it went pritty good he wouldn't be surprised to see 'em announce the next one on the church bulletin board out in front of the building, right under the topic for his next sermon.

And, claimed the Parson, the end ain't in sight. Just last week, he reported, some of the members was making plans to put in ping-pong tables in the basement and rig up a place to play horse-shoes and softball out on the lawn. He was predicting that the time was coming when the members was going to have to make up their mind whether they was running a church or a Y.M.C.A., and whether they wanted the emphasis put on the Good Book or on hot dogs and ping-pong.

But taking everything all in all, the Parson reported, he'd had a pritty good week, only two little matters coming up for major consideration. One of the members got in the hospital and it was three days afore he went to see her. The reason he was so late gitting there, he said, was because none of the members told him she was sick. But some of the congregation was mighty disturbed about it, he reported.

The second item, he told the fellers, was a little more tricky. The income tax folks was checking on one of his good members and he come to the Parson and ask him to sign a statement verifying the figger on how much he had give to the church last year. This member don't use no envelopes, is one of them put-it-in-loose members, he said, and the figger he wanted signed was pritty high.

The good Parson left without saying whether he signed it or not, and to speak frank, Mister Editor, none of the fellers had the heart to ask him.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where the Census Bureau says the average American farmer from 1950 to 1960 lived 8 mile from the nearest doctor. The piece didn't say, but I would reckon the life-span of the average American farmer is about as long as fer anybody else.

I ain't trying to cast no asparagus on the medical profession. The only time I ever knock doctors is when I'm feeling real good. When I'm sick my doctor is about the finest feller in the world. I reckon that's human nature, Mister Editor. And I reckon that's why most of the time it takes the doctor longer to cure a rich man than a pore man. Just the human nature in him—the doctor, I mean.

When I git to advocating reform fer doctors, lawyers, editors and some of them Congressmen, my old lady hints she knows a feller here at home that could stand a little reform. She always quotes that place in the Bible where the Lord told the Disciples to go out and preach the Gospel to all the world, starting in Jerusalem. "And the Lord," she adds, "was speaking from Jerusalem." But I never argue with my old lady. I just say pass the butter, please, and change the subject to the economic conditions in the Congo or some of them items wimmen don't know enough about to argue.

Speaking of my old lady, she's out in the kitchen baking a cake fer the church cake sale. Ed Doolittle claims when his old lady bakes a cake for the sale, he has to go and buy it back fer a dollar. He don't know when he's well off. When my old lady bakes one for the sale, I buy it back and then she donates it to the school lunch room. I ain't the only one, Mister Editor, that needs fer things to git started in Jerusalem.

And while I'm on the subject of wimmen I'd like to pay my respects to that school teacher that keeps writing you about my little piece in the paper ever week. I see in that last note she sent you where she is claiming my grammar sets a bad example for the youth of the community. First it was my spelling and now it's my grammar.

From what see in the papers and magazines, Johnny can't read none too good anyhow and I doubt he'd be trying it out on my little piece. Actual, I don't use better grammar fer about three reasons. In the first place, I don't know no better. In the second place, the fellers at the country store wouldn't understand it. And third, if I knowed grammar real good they'd have me writing pamphlets fer the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Final Rites Held For Stanley Kloc

Final rites were held Monday at St. Michael's Catholic Church, Wilmet, for Stanley M. Kloc who died Thursday, Feb. 1, at Cass City Hospital. He had been a patient at the hospital for six days but had been in ill health for the past eight years.

Born in Poland on December 24, 1888, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kloc. He came to Chicago in 1910 from Poland.

He married the former Anna Pociask in Chicago on July 3, 1918. In 1919, they moved to Novesta township where he resided until his death. Mrs. Kloc died in 1948.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Ersil (Stella) Emmons, Caro, Alice, Mary and Jennie, and a son, John, all at home, and one sister, Mrs. Victoria Smen-tek, Cass City.

Also surviving are four brothers, George, Deford, Peter, Cass City, and Stephen and Anthony, both of Poland. Three grandchildren also survive. Two brothers preceded him in death. Rev. Raymond Pilarski officiated during the services and interment was in St. Michael's Cemetery, Wilmet.

Pages From The Past

NUMBER 18 CASS CITY, MICHIGAN FEB. 8, 1962

First Grist Mill

The grinding of wheat into flour is perhaps the oldest industry with the first grist mill being built by Jesse Fox in 1870. A number of different owners have been in charge through the intervening years and it is only within the past ten years that the mill on the corner of Main and Maple Streets was torn down. The only record of its output we now have is that in 1898 it could produce 100 barrels of flour per day.

Pioneer Men Are Admired

Mention has been made in former issues of the woolen mills and the brickyards. All of these things, plus others not yet mentioned, force us to admire the accomplishments of our earlier citizens. It is easy to become interested in these pages from the past.

Barrel Making

Barrel making was another industry worthy of mention. James Oathout started in that business about 1890, his location being at the south end of town where Walnut Trailer Park now is. During 1898 his force of five men turned out about 12,000 barrels, most of which were used for that season's apple crop in this community.

Seed Growers Schedule Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Tuscola County Association of Certified Seed Growers will be held on February 13 in the Odd Fellows Hall, Akron, at 1:30 p.m., according to Glyde Rohlf, Akron, association president.

On the program, in addition to Herbert Pettigrove and George Wenner of the Michigan Foundation Seed Association who will discuss problems of county growers, will be Dr. Ray Cook, head of the Michigan State University soils department, and Dean Lovitt of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Tuscola county certified seed growers produce the largest acreage of certified seeds of any county in Michigan and it represents a very sizeable part of our cash crop income, said Rohlf.

The meeting is open to any interested farmer or businessman. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

People who find they can do without things they can't afford are the miracle workers of this age.

Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

How many of you people remember the "old fruit room" of your childhood? The days of the "old fruit room" when apples were stored in the fall for winter use are long gone. Maybe some of you remember having the job in the early spring of sorting over the remainder of the apples to remove any spoiled ones. Also, in those days there were usually a quantity which were wormy.

Today, apple buying is quite a different story because we usually pick up a four or five pound bag in the store. Also, we now expect to find every apple free from spoilage, bruises, etc.

Did you realize that someone else has taken over the storage, sorting, grading and packaging for us? This is a part of our marketing and distribution system today. Most of us are willing to pay for these services to obtain the convenience of buying produce in the form and quantity we wish.

There are two different methods used to store apples today. The method with which we are most familiar is refrigerated storage. The Michigan law states that the name of the producer, address, grade, variety and minimum size must be shown on the package of apples and also the same information must be given for a bulk display in the store. Another method used for the storage of apples is called controlled-atmosphere. C-A is a fairly recent development and provides us with fresh apples late in the season, until May or June, depending upon the quantity in C-A storage.

In C-A storage the apples are put in airtight rooms immediately after picking. These rooms are refrigerated and in addition the amount of oxygen is decreased and the carbon dioxide is increased. This slows the "breathing" of the apples. The breathing causes the apples to mellow and lose flavor. Apples are not usually taken out of C-A storage until late February or early March. But when they are removed from C-A storage they have that wonderful fall crispness and flavor. The prices of C-A apples will usually be a little higher than the regular refrigerated stored apples, due to the increased cost of C-A storage.

With these new developments in the marketing system we have today, we obtain the advantage of having high quality apples practically the year 'round. This is a far cry from the "old fruit room" method just a few years back.

Craddles and Frogs Built in Cass City

About 1890, and possibly several years earlier, Palmer Karr operated a Cradle Factory on the corner of his farm four miles north of Elkland Cemetery, on the present Bay City-Forestville Road. One of his products, in as good condition as if only a year or two old, has been located and is pictured here much the same as it might have appeared in an 1890 catalog -- if the "factory" had published such a thing.

For years this cradle was owned by Fred Joos, who remembers walking over to the factory with his father to make the purchase. Recently it was acquired by John Zinnecker as a relic worth keeping. Naaman Karr, who will be remembered by many as the genial funeral director in Kingston until his death in 1953, was a son of Palmer Karr and may have had a hand in making some of these craddles.

The building utilized to house the cradle factory is now on the Clair Profit farm where it is used for a toolshed. Mr. Profit has some of the hand tools used in the manufacturing of the craddles; he also has the lathe which was operated by horsepower.

In the other photo are pictured cast-iron frogs produced in the Cass City Foundry during the 1890's, we are told. They were to be used as door stoppers and, of course, were just a sideline to the main business of making plows of various kinds. Proprietor of the foundry was Martin Dew; the location was where the Hunt Construction Company repair shops now are: at the corner of Pine and West Streets. Mrs. Wilma Fry, owner of one of the frogs, states that its origin was told her by her parents. When we went to have the photo made, Fritz Neitzel produced the second frog from one of the corners

More About Cheese Factory

A cheese factory was mentioned in this column a couple of weeks ago. More information has been received. A short distance south of the cradle factory, on the side of the hill where Robert Vargo now lives, this cheese factory was started about 1890. It was originally operated by a Mr. Dunn but later turned over to William Wilkinson.

The Bird District School was situated at that time just a short distance south of the factory on the east side of the road. Cheese quite often was one of the items on the menu for school pupils as they inspected the wonders of cheese making during lunch hours. Both John Day and Mrs. Emily Decker, who were among those students, have verified the good nature of the proprietors and the quality of their products. Hugh McColl was one of the haulers operating routes to the factory with pickups between his own neighborhood in Greenleaf Township and the factory.

For years this cradle was owned by Fred Joos, who remembers walking over to the factory with his father to make the purchase. Recently it was acquired by John Zinnecker as a relic worth keeping. Naaman Karr, who will be remembered by many as the genial funeral director in Kingston until his death in 1953, was a son of Palmer Karr and may have had a hand in making some of these craddles.

The building utilized to house the cradle factory is now on the Clair Profit farm where it is used for a toolshed. Mr. Profit has some of the hand tools used in the manufacturing of the craddles; he also has the lathe which was operated by horsepower.

In the other photo are pictured cast-iron frogs produced in the Cass City Foundry during the 1890's, we are told. They were to be used as door stoppers and, of course, were just a sideline to the main business of making plows of various kinds. Proprietor of the foundry was Martin Dew; the location was where the Hunt Construction Company repair shops now are: at the corner of Pine and West Streets. Mrs. Wilma Fry, owner of one of the frogs, states that its origin was told her by her parents. When we went to have the photo made, Fritz Neitzel produced the second frog from one of the corners

More About Cheese Factory

A cheese factory was mentioned in this column a couple of weeks ago. More information has been received. A short distance south of the cradle factory, on the side of the hill where Robert Vargo now lives, this cheese factory was started about 1890. It was originally operated by a Mr. Dunn but later turned over to William Wilkinson.

The Bird District School was situated at that time just a short distance south of the factory on the east side of the road. Cheese quite often was one of the items on the menu for school pupils as they inspected the wonders of cheese making during lunch hours. Both John Day and Mrs. Emily Decker, who were among those students, have verified the good nature of the proprietors and the quality of their products. Hugh McColl was one of the haulers operating routes to the factory with pickups between his own neighborhood in Greenleaf Township and the factory.

Barrel Making

Barrel making was another industry worthy of mention. James Oathout started in that business about 1890, his location being at the south end of town where Walnut Trailer Park now is. During 1898 his force of five men turned out about 12,000 barrels, most of which were used for that season's apple crop in this community.

First Grist Mill

The grinding of wheat into flour is perhaps the oldest industry with the first grist mill being built by Jesse Fox in 1870. A number of different owners have been in charge through the intervening years and it is only within the past ten years that the mill on the corner of Main and Maple Streets was torn down. The only record of its output we now have is that in 1898 it could produce 100 barrels of flour per day.

Pioneer Men Are Admired

Mention has been made in former issues of the woolen mills and the brickyards. All of these things, plus others not yet mentioned, force us to admire the accomplishments of our earlier citizens. It is easy to become interested in these pages from the past.

Craddles and Frogs Built in Cass City

About 1890, and possibly several years earlier, Palmer Karr operated a Cradle Factory on the corner of his farm four miles north of Elkland Cemetery, on the present Bay City-Forestville Road. One of his products, in as good condition as if only a year or two old, has been located and is pictured here much the same as it might have appeared in an 1890 catalog -- if the "factory" had published such a thing.

Ham

Hickory-smoked and sugar-cured, this is the ham of distinctive flavor. An easy to carve family favorite, only...

MAGIC!
by
Eddie Doucette
BAKED GLAZED HAM

Today, hams in different sizes may be purchased pre-cooked — so they just need heating through, or tenderized — (partially cooked) — so the cooking time is cut down. Whether boiled or baked, the ham should be neatly trimmed of fat, leaving about 1" on the bone.

Careless lines are fat with sharp knife, for added effect, press cloves into each square of fat, the purpose of glazing is to add lustre. The glaze is simple, but so many — mystifying. Try any of these suggestions and vary them for interest. Sprinkle brown or granulated sugar all over surface of prepared ham. Bake in 425° to 450° hot oven. Sugar will caramelize and show off a glitzy, appetizing, golden brown coating.

Or, 7-Up Glaze for a bit of intrigue. Dissolve 1 tbsp. dry mustard, brown sugar, 7-Up, fruit spice. Brush surface of ham with this.
KITCHEN TALK — Try fresh apple sauce mixed with horseradish for side dish.
