

Hawks Fall to Raiders

History repeated itself Friday night when Cass City and Marlette met at Cass City High School in the final game of the year.

The Hawks faded in the last half as the Raiders pulled from behind for a hair raising 157-55 decision over the Hawks.

In the first meeting between the two clubs, Cass City led 34-32 only to see Marlette spurt in the final two quarters for a 67-49 decision.

The score was closer this time, but the end result the same.

At the half, Cass City was ahead 28-22 but a disastrous third period allowed the visitors to forge ahead and a desperate last period rally was not enough to overcome the edge.

Ability to hit from the charity circle spelled victory for the visitors. The Hawks were able to convert just 13 of 23, while Marlette hit 23 of 33 attempts. Cass City outscored the visitors from the field, 21 buckets to 17.

The game furnished an exciting background for a brilliant individual scoring duel between Roger Parker and Jim Caister. Caister whipped in 27 points.

Hunt to Hand Gavel Over at Next Meeting

C. R. Hunt, outgoing village president, will turn the gavel over to the new president at the next Village Council meeting Tuesday, Mar. 27, and end a three-year presidency and a 12-year member of the board record.

Hunt, a Cass City construction company owner, was elected to the board in 1950. Seeking to replace him is A. N. Bigelow, a veteran on the local political scene.

C. R. Hunt

Born in Sacramento, Calif., he came to Cass City as a child. He worked for E. B. Schwaderer Construction Company for 20 years before starting his own company in 1947.

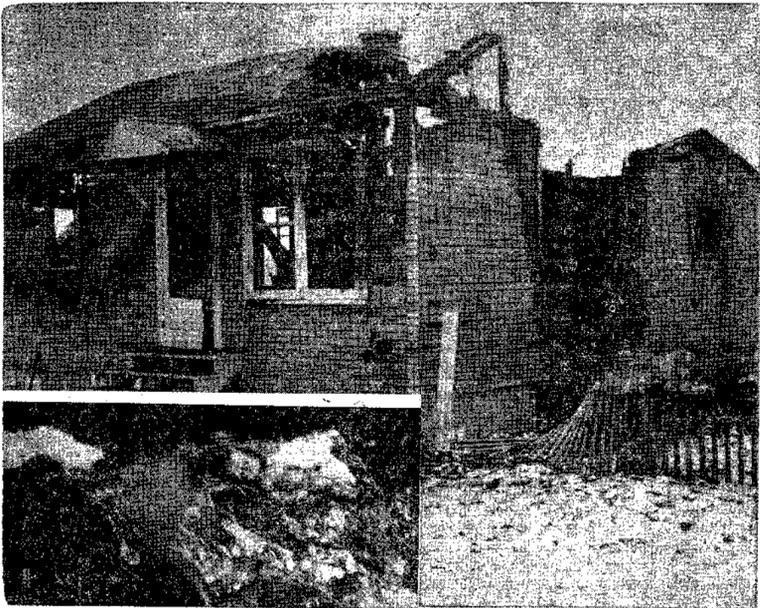

He is a past president of the Cass City Rotary and is a member of the Masons and Elks. He has been active in area Scouting and because he has no further political commitments, plans to do more work in that field.

A hunting and golfing enthusiast, he also enjoys hunting and fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have three children, Sara, doing postgraduate work in Madison, Wis., Mrs. Harriet Hool, Windsor, Ont., and Dick, stationed in San Francisco with the Navy.

From the Editor's Corner

Another chain letter is making the rounds. This one is a repeat of one that swept the area a few years ago. It involves buying bonds and sending them to top names on a list and adding your name to the bottom of the list.

Prospective purchasers might ask themselves how the list got started... how the first 10 names got on the list. Obviously, they didn't have to buy two bonds to get started... and no one knows how many lists were typed to start the chain moving.

There will be a lot of people in the Cass City area who will be stuck for a couple of bonds before the current craze subsides.

At least one business was omitted in the list of dues-paying Chamber of Commerce members last week. The board will wait one more week to hear if any other persons were missed, then publish the list.

The Chamber's dues this year are $25, as the board voted to make the collection at one time instead of asking for $15 dues and $10 for the Christmas decorations.

The annual Home-coming may be abandoned this year. A vote among the members is under way to see if it should be continued. Biggest argument against the annual show is the amount of cost for the one-day event.

Biggest argument in favor is that many area persons look forward to it and it breeds community good will.

Township Tax Collections Lag

Tax collection figures for three area townships have been announced by their respective treasurers. While most of the taxes have been paid, all three reported sums ranging from $46,000 yet to be paid.

Elkland

Dog owners have purchased 227 dog licenses to date.

Novesta
Arthur Hartwick, Novesta treasurer, reports a total of $46,696.36 collected with $4,756.20 yet to be paid. For the same period last year, $46,658.50 was paid with $1,280.56 still out. The Novesta tax roll will be turned over Thursday, March 8 (today).

Elmwood
Elmwood Township Treasurer Royce Russell reports a total of $101,687.46 in taxes collected, with a balance of $4,395.24 yet to be paid. The Elmwood tax roll will be turned in on Tuesday, March 13.

Total dog license sales was 126.

Two Area Drivers In Car Mishaps

Two accidents involving area persons were investigated by Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies and local officers during the past week, according to a report from the sheriff's office.

The first accident took place on Sunday, Feb. 25, when a car driven by Grant P. Zimecker, Deford, ran into the rear of another car driven by Richard M. Shaw, East Lansing.

According to a report filed by Officer Bill Schram, Shaw was attempting to make a turn off Cemetery Road onto River Road when Zimecker, unable to stop on the ice-covered pavement, hit the Shaw car in the rear.

M-81 and Cedar Run Road was the scene of the second accident which took place Sunday when a car driven by Gerald Generous, 17, Gagetown, and another driven by Brian Phelan, 18, Gagetown, collided.

A report filed by Deputy Carl Palmateer stated that Generous was signaling for a right turn and Phelan attempted to pass him on the left. Oncoming traffic forced Phelan to pull back into his lane, striking the Generous vehicle.

No traffic citations were issued in either accident.

Two-Alarm Fire Destroys House

Elkland township firemen fought for approximately three and a half hours before bringing under control a two-alarm fire that demolished a five-room home belonging to Carl Ekstrom, southwest of Cass City, Friday, Mar. 2.

The first alarm came at about 12:30 p.m. and the second, for more men, came at about 1:00 p.m. Also assisting were the Caro Fire Department water tanker and a county brine truck.

Lost in the blaze were household and personal items. The house was partially covered by insurance.

Cause of the fire has not been determined according to Fire Chief Al Avery.

County Director Slated

Civil Defense Budget Upped

12 Nominated in Chamber Election

Twelve Chamber of Commerce members have been nominated for four open seats on the Board of Directors, according to a report from President Gerald Frieskorn. Ballots have been mailed to all Chamber members.

Nominated were Mrs. Lucille Bauer, Mrs. Helen Stevens, Cliff Ferguson, Bill Kritzman, Irving (Ike) Parsch, Dr. Bill Harr, Gib Albee, Rod Krueger, Bud Jeffery, Ed Doerr, John McCormick and Bill Hunter.

Outgoing directors are Clinton Law, Tom Jackson, Phil Retherford and Alger Freiberger.

The four nominees receiving the highest number of votes will serve three year terms.

Also on the ballot is the question of continuing the annual home-coming celebration or to spend the $600 costs on other projects. Some members have voiced the opinion that the money might better be spent on other projects.

Tuscola county Supervisors approved a motion to adjust the Department of Civil Defense budget for 1962 operations to $7,400 at the regular March session held Monday at the Courthouse, Caro. Also passed in the motion was a request that a full time civil defense director be acquired.

The motion passed 20-4. The new director appointment is expected to be made in the near future by the Board Chairman, and is subject to Board approval.

During the afternoon session, the Board went on record as urging the reinstatement of the 15-mill limitation at the Constitutional Convention.

The Board gave Dayton Davis, Vassar township, a rising vote of thanks for services rendered during his long service on the Board. Davis ended his long term with Monday's session.

A special meeting was called for Monday, March 22, to discuss State Tax Commission Form 22. The meeting is for the benefit of new supervisors who have never worked with the form.

The Blood bank will be at Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, Friday, March 9, from 1:00-9:00 p.m. Donors are urgently needed.

Keglers Set to Invade Cass City

Men with little black satchels will be descending on Cass City Saturday and Sunday. They are expected from almost a dozen communities from the area and all will come for the same purpose... to annex first prize in the first annual Gavel Club Classic bowling tournament.

Gavelite Dick Wallace, who is ramrodding the event, says that the entries have been brisk but that more are needed to assure success of the event.

It will be the first statewide tournament ever offered in Cass City. Entry blanks have been sent to bowling establishments throughout the state.

Already received have been entries from Marlette, Fairgrove, Bay City, Decker, Sandusky, Crosswell, Frankemuth, Bad Axe and Cass City.

The event is slated for two week ends at Cass City Lanes. It starts Saturday and Sunday and ends the following week end. Bowlers should mail entries to Wallace and indicate date and time preference. Bowling will be at 3:30, 6 and 8:30 p.m. on both Saturdays and Sundays.

Any profit from the venture will be used by the Gavel Club for a future project at Cass City Recreational Park.

Caro Couple Seeks $145,500 in Suit

A motion to dismiss is under advisement by Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn in a $145,500 suit by a Caro insurance agent and his wife against Michigan Mutual Liability Company. The motion was presented at the Circuit Court session held Wednesday, Feb. 28.

The $145,500 is actually the total of two separate suits, one filed by Mary Osgerby for $97,500 and another, filed by her husband, Clarence Osgerby, for $48,000.

The suits stem from an accident on July 15, 1959, when Mrs. Osgerby reportedly stepped in a hole in the sidewalk in front of the Peoples State Bank, Caro, and allegedly suffered severe injury to her right knee and leg.

Mrs. Osgerby is seeking damages for the injury and Mr. Osgerby is seeking restitution of money spent through hospital and doctor bills, past and future, and for salary spent for help to take his wife's place at his insurance business.

The suit claims negligence on the part of the village of Caro and is against the Michigan Liability Insurance Co. as the village's insuring agent.

Representing the Osgerbys is Attorney Peter Cicinelli and the firm of Smith, Brooker and Harvey is acting as attorney for the insurance company.

In other court business, Dale Pike, Caro, charged with breaking and entering the Caro Community School on December 27, demanded an attorney.

The court is to appoint an attorney and his trial will be held at a later session.

Second Grade Play

The second grade class taught by Mrs. Malvina Howarth presented a play Thursday for the benefit of parents. The class had just completed a project concerning "community helpers" and the sketch, "What Will I Be from A to Z", dramatized what they had learned.

Each pupil participated in a costume appropriate to the occupation represented.

Church Association Told How to Spot Communist Fronts

Approximately 30 women heard Rev. John Fish speak on "Christianity and Communism" at the Presbyterian Women's Association meeting at the Cass City First Presbyterian Church Monday.

After speaking on the theory, fallacies and betrayal of Communism, he pointed out ways in which to combat Communism.

He stressed the necessity of recognizing Communism and its strategy. He also advocated support of those policies in local and federal government which create a free, just and responsible society.

Rev. Fish advised against extremist groups that distort facts and spread dissension. Such groups are particularly fond of attacking schools, courts, churches, foreign aid, the United Nations, income tax and our leaders in these fields.

During the business meeting, plans were announced for the Lake Huron Presbyterian Meeting to be held at the Bay City First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, April 24.

Extension Group Paints Road Signs

The Shabbona Extension Club is presently finishing a project that the club hopes will spread throughout Sanilac and area counties.

The club recently finished painting 60 road signs out of a lot of 92. The club, according to Mrs. Edward Phetteplace, is doing the work because of the importance of readable road signs in case of an emergency such as a fire or an accident.

All materials are provided by the Sanilac Road Commission, Sandusky, and the club stencils and paints the names on the signs. The signs are put in place by the Road Commission.

Nineteen members and visitors gathered at a recent meeting to do the work. The club expects to finish the project at a final session today (Thursday) at a meeting at Mrs. Phetteplace's home.

Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stinginess is just one example. Another: a new unutilized Body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park

A BUYER'S MARKET

It is a common occurrence when car dealers meet these days to hear the remark: "In all my years in the car business I've never known a buyer's market like this one." While buyer's markets have always come and gone with changes in the economy, the fact remains that today's surplus of cars over buyers has reached a very high level.

Nowhere is this more evident than in the used car market, for very specific reasons:

Before World War II, three out of five car owners had never owned a new automobile. As high as 80 per cent of car owners at one time bought their cars second hand.

The rising post-war living standard made it possible for former used car buyers to move into the new car class. This process has been greatly speeded up in recent years by low-priced compacts.

The manufacturer's production race of the late fifties resulted in extended credit terms that opened the new car market to still greater numbers of buyers.

For all these reasons, plus the fact that modern cars have been built to last longer, the values offered today on the used car market are the greatest in history. They represent the TRUE MARKET VALUE of the cars at, in many cases, a fraction of their new car price.

But one word of caution: Unless you are an expert mechanic, appraiser and market expert, you can still make a bad mistake. Your only safeguard is a reputable dealer who is both - and who wishes to keep your repeat business.

Our greatest satisfaction comes when someone comes back, purchases another car, saying "I bought my last car from you, they were just what you said, so I came back for another."

I repeat, if you feel you are not receiving the service you are entitled to, TELL ME PERSONALLY. If I don't satisfy you, SCREAM. But, give me a chance FIRST.

Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

The spring home economics extension Council will meet at 2 p.m. in the Courthouse on March 8.

Michigan hothouse rhubarb is now on the market. Michigan rhubarb houses located in Macomb county are providing this "pie fruit" for about 19c to 20c a pound. About 60 per cent of all hothouse rhubarb grown in the United States comes from the area near Detroit where 250 to 270 producers are located. The forecast is that about 5 million pounds of hothouse rhubarb will be harvested within the next few months. Although some hothouse rhubarb is marketed in January, shoppers will find increasing supplies in February with the heaviest production late in February and in March. Sometimes rhubarb is marketed in full length stalks; sometimes it is cut and over-wrapped with transparent film. The finest quality hothouse rhubarb will have a rosy red color all the way up to the leaf. It will be crisp, fresh appearing and stalks will be medium to large in size.

The leaves of hothouse rhubarb are small, immature and light yellowish in color and should be removed before cooking. The preparation of hothouse rhubarb is easy. Wash and cut into half-inch pieces, do not peel. Add only enough water to cover the bottom of the pan if cooking on top of the range. Cover pan, cook until tender, then add sugar.

Let's skip from hothouse rhubarb to a tropical fruit, the banana. The banana is the great starch food of the tropics. To grow bananas, you need a tropical climate plus heavy rainfall, with averages of 150 to 200 inches.

Brazil, India, Ecuador and Venezuela lead in the production of bananas. The United States is the major importing country for bananas and we purchase about one-half of the world's export volume. About 24 per cent of all fresh fruit consumed in this country is bananas. It takes a lot of care to transport bananas to have them reach us, the consumer, in the best possible condition for eating. After they reach this country by boat, they are loaded into rail cars. In winter the temperature (57 to 60 degrees) is maintained in these cars by using charcoal heaters. In the summer, the cars are refrigerated. While en route, messengers constantly check the cars for temperature and the condition of the fruit. Upon arrival at their destination, the bananas are quickly unloaded and stored for the ripening process. First, they are sprayed with a fine water mist to control the humidity. All of the rooms are refrigerated, the temperatures will vary, depending upon how quickly the fruit needs to be ripened to supply the market. After the bananas are ripened, they are then graded, inspected, weighed and packed for distribution in bunches to the markets. Some bunches will weigh around 40 pounds while heavier bunches will average between 75 to 100 pounds. There are several varieties of bananas. The varieties reaching the markets now are the Cabana, Lexington, Valery, Cherokee and Fortuna.

The Cherokee and Fortuna varieties have better eating qualities than the other three named. The reason for the higher eating qualities of the Cherokee and Fortuna is that during the ripening process the fruit's sugar remains in the fruit, rather than being transferred to the skin as in the case of the Cabana, Lexington and Valery. With so much care taken all along the line to transport the very best fruit to us, we have a responsibility too. Bananas need to be treated with respect and tender, loving care. Do not squeeze, drop or bang the bananas; also bananas should not be refrigerated but kept at room temperature. Your reward will be fruit of high quality and good flavor.

Care of Milking Machine Helps Curb Mastitis

"Proper milking machine care helps control mastitis - America's most destructive dairy cow disease," points out Edward Kazarian, Michigan State University agricultural engineer. Mastitis isn't a single disease, he says. It really refers to several udder ailments - some caused by infection, some by udder damage or irritation. The irritation-caused ailments are important partly because they open the way to infection. A recent survey by the MSU dairy department shows that mastitis has become more common in Michigan during the past 20 years. "Daily observation of various parts of the milking machine system is important," says Kazarian. "It's fairly easy to spot dirty or worn parts, air leaks and cracked rubber parts." A farmer should clean the vacuum line each month to remove milk deposits and dirt. A trained service man should check the entire milking system every six months. Inadequate or unstable vacuum often causes udder irritation. Worn pumps, dirty vacuum lines, lines of inadequate size and dirty or worn vacuum controllers may be to blame. Properly-working pulsators massage the teats which helps prevent udder irritation and increases milking efficiency. Worn, dirty pulsator parts can increase udder irritation. The milk quality test and the California mastitis test are means of determining the extent of the irritation. Don Murray told dairymen attending a mastitis control session during Farmers' Week. The tests will not show the cause of any irritation, but will show herd owners the type of job they are doing to keep irritation at a low level, he said. "This is important since we believe that if we can keep irritation low the extent of infection will also be low." Murray believes that the real value of using these tests is to maintain a record of results over a period of time. This will indicate any trends which might be developing. "If the index is increasing, some changes should be made to reverse the trend," he said. A decreasing irritation index indicates improvement in herd management practices, he added.

Lenten Services Announced by Village Churches

Three Cass City churches have announced programs and schedule changes for the coming Lenten season, according to their pastors. The churches are the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, St. Pancratius Catholic Church and the First Presbyterian Church. Lent started on Ash Wednesday, March 7 (yesterday).

Presbyterian Church "Man's Need and God's Action" will be the subject of the Lenten Study Group scheduled to meet at 10:00 a.m. on the six Thursday mornings from March 15 to Maundy Thursday, April 19, according to Rev. John Fish, Presbyterian pastor. All those in the church and community who are able to meet in the morning are invited to attend. Those participating in the group will be required to purchase the book, "Man's Need and God's Action," by Dr. Kenel Howe, director of the Institute for Advanced Pastoral Studies, Bloomfield Hills.

St. Pancratius St. Pancratius Catholic Church began its Lenten season yesterday (Wednesday) with the blessing of ashes before the 7:15 a.m. Mass followed by the distribution of ashes. Ashes were also distributed after the 8:00 p.m. Station of the Cross service. During Lenten season, the Stations of the Cross will be conducted on each Wednesday evening. Also on these nights, the five area Catholic priests will exchange pulpits. Participating priests are Fr. Isadore Mikulski, Sacred Heart, Caro, Fr. Peter Pijnappels, St. Joseph, Unionville, Fr. Frank McLaughlin, St. Agatha, Gagetown, Fr. Joseph Schabel, St. Felix, Pimmbog, and Fr. Arnold Messing, St. Pancratius. Friday evening Mass will be conducted at 8:00 p.m. during the Lenten season.

We're Not Going to The Gavel Club Ball!

By Dave Kraft

I took my wife to the Gavel Club Ball the other night. I didn't want to but I did. Not that I'm against dancing... as a matter of fact, I consider myself the Fred Astaire of our set. (No one else, least of all my wife, agrees, but that's just their opinion.)

It's just that the dance was on a Thursday night which meant that I'd have to drag myself through Friday. It's hard enough for me to keep out of the boss' way with eight hours sleep under my belt but with less than four, I have to stay on my toes or I literally get caught napping.

I tried everything to get out of it. I explained that the tickets cost money, I told her it was a work night, that I needed a haircut and so forth. I even tried to start an argument by digging up an old sore spot about the time she washed a red sweater and my unmentionables together and how everyone called me "Pinky".

Finally I decided we weren't going to go. I was so certain that I believed it right up to the minute we walked through the door and onto the dance floor. Then I didn't believe it anymore.

Despite my reluctance, I did enjoy the dance. Arliss Woodward's group puts out some very swinging stuff and Band Director Dick Case, who I understand had played a few sessions with the group before, did a fine job on a couple of piano selections, after half time.

Just one thing was wrong with the music. Too many intermissions. Two or three songs and a short intermission, then two or more and another intermission.

A couple years back, when I was in courting condition, I might have approved of this but when you're married and you go to a dance, why try to kid yourself... you go there to dance.

Besides that, when old twinkles gets going, he doesn't like to stop.

I enjoy mixing. Dances, that is. The only problem is that most couples usually have their own styles. It may not be the right style but after five or six years, they're used to it.

Consequently, when I dance with someone else, they're usually going one way and I, the other. To compensate, and to get out of each other's way, we usually forget about the music and indulge in a series of little hops and jumps.

To minimize any embarrassment, I always tell my partner that as long as our heads keep time to the music, no one will notice that our feet have gone crazy.

Very few did the "twist". My wife does it rather well. About the only way, I can get the right motion is to drop an ice cube down my shirt and hope for the best.

When it first started to be popular among the adults, I diligently practiced to get the right technique. All I got was an over developed set of lower back muscles and indigestion.

People doing the twist always remind me of two hesitant wrestlers, both afraid to grab a hold of the other.

I'm a jitterbug man, myself. Here, I excel. I make Arthur Murray look like he should have gone into the restaurant business. The secret is the step.

It's the same step I use for the waltz, fox trot, polka, schottish and rhumba. All I do is add a little kick... usually to my partner's ankle.

While my partner is hopping around in agony, I add a few flourishes such as a turn here, a jass-by there and an over-and-under hammerlock. This usually brings down the house. I can't understand why no one ever wants to dance more than one dance with me.

I need some assistance. We like to have at least one feature story a week. Something about an unusual person, a hobby, a business... anything that is slightly different.

Sometimes, especially after Gavel Club Balls, it's hard to think of something, or someone to write about. If any of you readers know of any unusual persons, hobbies, or businesses, the Chronicle would certainly appreciate a call.

In this age of more and more speed more people are getting cars and more cars are getting more people on the streets and highways.

REFLECTION
The millenium will have arrived when a mirror is invented that will enable a man to see his faults as others see them.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:
I see by the papers where them science fellers is claiming that people on earth will gradual squeeze themselves to death. They figger the population of the world is increasing by 46 million a year and it's a simple matter of figgers that in due time they won't be no standing room left.
I ain't no Fort Knox on science and figgers but I recollect when me and my old lady got married the nearest neighbors we had out here lived three miles away. Right now we got two neighbors that lives less than 300 yards away and I can see how we could get squeezed to death if this trend keeps up.
We was discussing this item at the country store Saturday night and Ed Doollittle allowed as how he aimed to take shelter in the stable with his mule when the population explosion got to the squeezing point. Ed says his old mule won't let nobody but Ed in the stable and as a extra precaution against any undue squeezing from his neighbors, he'll keep the mule's heels aimed at the door.
Some of the fellers claimed the population problem had its good points if it could be stopped at the right time. Zeke Grubb reported that, according to the latest per capital figgers, his part of the national debt was now $4,165. Zeke says if they can hold off payment on the national debt till the population is about to explode, his per capital part could be reduced to around $150 and he'd give the Government a whiteface cow in full settlement.
Clem Webster was predicting that the time is coming when all debts will be cancelled and even...

everybody will start over gitting in debt. Clem says Franklin Roosevelt claimed the national debt was just somepun we owed to each other. If the New Frontier will go along with his idea, allows Clem, he'll consider the matter closed on the $4,165 he owes.
Bug Hookum was lamenting how styles in worrying changes from one generation to another. Fer instant, Bug said when he was a boy he was always worrying about gitting run down and killed by a mule with a shuck collar on, and today Ed's got to worry about bedding down with the mule to keep from gitting squeezed to death. He claims they ain't much future to a situation where we ain't got but two choices, bomb explosion or population explosion.
This is a mighty bad time, Mister Editor, fer this feller McNamara to come out and say the folks back home is "worrying unduly" about the world situation. It would seem to me that a heap would depend on how much worrying he calls duly.
Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Our Neighbors Have Tax Problems, Too

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association

Those worried about the possibility of a state income tax might find consolation in the recent experience of their neighbors to the west.

The Wisconsin legislature enacted an entirely new 3 per cent sales tax on "selected items," including cars, trucks, radio and television sets, sporting equipment, musical instruments, boats, lawn and garden supplies, furniture and appliances and hotel and motel accommodations.

Wisconsin's tax, estimated to bring in $60 million a year, also would hit sale of restaurant meals, athletic event tickets, theater and other entertainment costs, telephone and telegraph service, beer, liquor and tobacco products.

As if this wasn't sufficient blow to the taxpayer's pocketbook, the legislature in our sister state increased the income tax by 1 per cent on incomes under $15,000 and 1½ per cent on those higher.

Reductions in personal property taxes were included in the comprehensive tax package in Wisconsin.

Boating and other uses of Michigan's thousands of lakes have increased sharply in recent years, and brought with it a hike in the number of accidents and deaths in water.

Although the reporting system from which the State Police compute the annual water accident statistics is not complete, it indicates strongly that increased use also brings increased misuse of facilities.

During 1961 various police agencies throughout the state reported 262 drownings and 231 other personal injuries in water accidents. The death toll was an increase of 12 per cent from the previous year. The injury count was up 5.5 per cent.

A large percentage of the drownings, 64.5 per cent, were charged to non-boating accidents.

State Police attribute the greatest portion of the non-boating deaths to carelessness. Fifty-four of the 156 non-boating fatalities involved persons who fell from bridges, banks, docks, piers or other waterside facilities.

Another 47 of the drowning victims were described as "non-proficient swimmers" and 35 more deaths were reported as caused by physical failure or exhaustion.

Among the boating accidents, carelessness also took its toll. Some kind of "operator negligence" was blamed for 24 of the deaths and another 12 persons died because boat operators disregarded weather conditions.

Overloaded boats, reckless operation, passenger negligence, unsafe boats and overpowered craft resulted in several other deaths. The department report showed no victims of boating accidents in which fire, explosion, wave swamps or other natural causes were the prime cause.

State officials are taking a close look at the 1961 water accident report to determine whether new laws might cut the death and injury toll.

State Rep. Charles Boyer, Manistee Republican who heads the House Marine Affairs Committee, has proposed a bill to put the burden of writing rules and regulations for use of the waterways on a water safety board.

The rules and regulations undoubtedly are long overdue, because the increase in water activity in Michigan has been a gradual one over the past several years.

It would appear, however, that the report would dictate more to the boater, swimmer, wader or riverside picnicker because of the heavy blame on individual carelessness. As in the case of traffic safety, the death toll quite often is attributed to human failures rather than lack of regulations.

Economic development, a term used to describe one of the apparent short-comings which have plagued Michigan for several years, has every chance for success.

A report by the Michigan Economic Development Department indicates nearly every type of business which wanted to could locate in the state's present facilities.

The department's "Available Plant Summary" shows there are 294 buildings vacant and immediately available for industrial purposes. They are located in every section of the state and range from the very small to the extremely large.

Activity during 1961 in using available plant space was good, department officials said. Some 125 buildings listed in last year's report were removed from the summary this year. The balance sheet showed 119 plants were added during the year, however, so the summary lists nearly as many buildings this year as last.

Members of both political parties have been heard to lament the lack of economic development legislation in the state, although the department report indicates there is considerable movement of industry both in and out of Michigan.

Some 119 Michigan communities also are organized to finance plant construction for new or expanding industry, the department reports.

It would seem somewhat incongruous that the plants are available and many communities are willing to help industries locate in Michigan, but the list of vacant plants remains basically the same.

A long, hard look at all the other factors in establishing business and industry - including taxes of all types, licensing requirements and labor costs - would appear to be in order.
