

Free Concerts Set in Village

It'll be a summer packed full of activity, members of the retail division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce decided at a special meeting Monday as they authorized an ambitious program for the community.

Shades of yesteryear will return during the summer when there will be five free band concerts featuring adult players under the direction of Director Dick Case of Cass City High School.

The concerts are slated for Friday nights around 9 p.m. in a shell to be erected near the corner of Main and Soeger streets. Cost will be taken care of by Chamber members.

Free Bikes

It will also be a good summer for the kids. Local merchants will be giving away a bike a week during the summer months.

Winners will be determined by a drawing from tickets that will be available at local stores. Complete details of this plan will be announced before the program begins.

Want Improvements

The retailers present went on record as in favor of two main street improvements. New street lights are needed now, they believe. Cost to merchants affected would total $2,800 and the amount would be prorated among the property owners.

The merchants feel that new sidewalks are needed, but feel that they should be installed a block at a time for uniformity.

Other Business

In other business, Barney Hoffman and Bernard Freiburger were added to the retail committee and Ken Eisinger, Jim Gross, Charles Auten and Harry Little named to a committee to work on a location for the concerts.

Wilson Returns as New Cage Coach

Wayne Wilson

Wayne "Speed" Wilson will return to Cass City High School after an absence of four years this fall when he replaces Irv Claxman as athletic director and head basketball and baseball coach.

When in the system previously, he taught English and was the Junior Varsity football coach. However, he is best remembered by many local residents for an activity that was not directly related to his teaching job.

Wilson established the popular Little League baseball program in the village and was generally credited with an outstanding job as administrator of the program.

After leaving Cass City, Wilson coached basketball at Owenage, and was freshman basketball coach at Bay City Central where his teams won 44 and lost 20 in three years.

A 1953 graduate at Bay City Central, Wilson was an outstanding athlete at the school where he earned two letters in football and basketball and three letters in baseball.

He graduated from Central Michigan in 1957 where he was an all-conference end in football. He earned three letters in football and baseball and two in basketball. He was also an all-conference catcher in diamond competition.

Bulletin

Miss Helen Wilcox of Cass City, a sister of Mrs. M. B. Auten, died Tuesday night at Harper Hospital in Detroit. A memorial service will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the M. B. Auten home.

The Rev. John Fish, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will officiate.

From the Editor's Corner

Another of M. B. Auten's "final" parties for Rotary was presented Tuesday night at the Scenic Country Club at Pigeon. As always, the program featured local talent and was enjoyed by all.

Meredith has been staging his "last" party before "retiring" for years and in the decade we have been here must have arranged a dozen or more... we hope he never quits.

Another empty building in Cass City will be filled. The former Brinker Lumber Co. building has been sold and an auto parts firm is scheduled to conduct a wholesale and retail business at the site.

If you ever had ambitions to help run Cass City Schools, it looks as if now is the ideal time to get elected to the school board. Only one petition has been filed and Tuesday night only two other petition blanks had been asked for at the school. Normally, there are five or six candidates.

You have until Friday to submit your petition to the secretary of the board to be eligible for election.

Sentence Pike on Looting Charge

Dale Pike, Caro, charged with breaking and entering the Caro Community School elementary building last December, was put on two-year probation, fined $100 and ordered to pay costs of $140 when he appeared before Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn Monday.

Pike was found guilty of the charge at an earlier court session. He was ordered to pay the fine and costs at the rate of $10.00 per month.

In other court action, a Caro man and a Columbiaville man were found guilty of probation violation and were handed corresponding sentences at a court session Wednesday, May 2, at Caro.

Gordon McDowell, Columbiaville, had his probation continued to July 1, 1962, and was ordered to pay court costs in full. He and two other men, William Berlin, Mayville, and Jack Sweet, Lapeer, allegedly stole a step belonging to Darold Baxter in October, 1961.

McDowell reportedly violated his parole by not reporting and by failing to make his court payments.

Alger Mc Alpine, Caro, on probation following his conviction for breaking and entering the Club 24, near Caro, on October 8, 1961, had his probation continued on his promise to stop drinking.

McAlpine reportedly got drunk recently and couldn't report for work.

See you at the Junior Prom, Cass City High School Gym, Saturday, May 12, 8:00 to 12:00 p.m. Admission: $1.25 and $2.00.

Grant $61,000 In Hill Accident Suit

Delphin Hill, a Vassar implement dealer, was granted $61,000 by a circuit court jury Thursday, May 3, in a $250,000 law suit against Michigan Fish Transport, Inc., Port Huron. Judge Timothy Quinn presided.

The jury deliberated two and a half hours before reaching a verdict in the case which began Tuesday, May 1. The case went to the jury at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday and it was 3:45 p.m. when they returned.

According to C. V. Hamilton, friend of the court, the figure was based on Hill's work expectancy, on medical costs incurred and to be incurred and on damages.

The jury gave Hill $51,000, based on a 17-year work expectancy at $3,000 per year, and $10,000 for medical expenses and damage to his pickup truck.

The case stems from an accident May 29, 1961, when Hill, going west on M-38 near the east Vassar city limits, was struck in the rear by a Michigan Fish Transport truck driven by Lyle Reaume, Port Huron.

Hill reportedly had reduced his speed upon entering a fog bank and the larger truck apparently didn't see him in the fog. In their brief, the defendant alleged that Hill's truck was not properly lighted.

Hill allegedly suffered severe physical damages, including a fracture-dislocation of a hip, multiple fractures of the pelvis, fracture of the right wrist, scalp lacerations, a cerebral concussion and laceration of a vein.

He was in the hospital, he said, from the date of the accident until the following Sept. 8.

Hill, who previous to the accident had bought a farm implement business in Vassar, also alleged that he had been unable to conduct the business properly since the accident.

James Churchill, Vassar, represented Hill and James J. Episkamp, Caro, handled the defendant's case.

Let Contracts on Two Area Drains

Two Cass City area drain contracts totaling $4,553.82 were let to various contractors Tuesday at Drain Commissioner Freeland Sorden's office, Caro.

The drains were the Dickinson Upper End drain, running south and west of Cass City in Elkland township and the Branch C of the Boutin Drain, north of Cass City and also in Elkland township.

Dickinson Drain

The digging and leveling contract on the Dickinson Drain went to Lee Dillon, Unionville, with a low bid of $325.85. N. C. Weitzel, Bad Axe, won the riprap contract with a bid of $226.51 and Wheeling Corrugated Company, Dearborn, with a bid of $366.40, received the corrugated pipe contract.

Branch C

James Corron, Pigeon, with a low bid of $1,440, was awarded the leveling and digging contract on the Branch C of Boutin Drain. Weitzel, with a low bid of $1,735.18, won the riprap contract and Wheeling Corrugated was awarded the corrugated pipe contract with a low bid of $419.88.

The date of review has been set for Wednesday, May 23, from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. at the Drain Commission office.

Chronicle Liners Successful Again

Just about anything can be sold with Chronicle liners. Latest success was reported by Mrs. Lloyd Reagh of rural Cass City.

She advertised a white kitchen trash burner, and it was sold before 9 a. m. Thursday, the day the paper came out. A lady from Gagetown was the purchaser, she said.

Chronicle liners can be placed by phone by simply calling 13 anytime up to 6 p. m. on Tuesday for publication the following Thursday.

"HOW MUCH are you worth?" asks "Perky", a four and a half-year-old Siamese cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Turner, Cass City. "Perky", who because of his pedigree is worth $200.00, likes to know these things. Mr. Turner watches his new charge. The cat was given to the Turners a week ago by a Detroit doctor and his wife. ### "Perky" Worth $200

Solvent Siamese Village Resident

Few village residents can estimate exactly how much they are worth in dollars and cents, but a recent newcomer to Cass City could give his value to the penny.

"Perky", a four and a half-year-old Siamese cat, is valued at $200.00, according to his new owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Turner, Cass City.

The Turners were given the cat a week ago by a Detroit doctor and his wife after they moved to an apartment in Detroit that does not allow pets. Mrs. William Noble, Detroit, the Turners' daughter, first heard of "Perky's" plight and informed the Detroit couple that the Turners would be glad to have the cat.

The cat, a beige and tan, blue-eyed, neutered male, is so highly valued because he is a pedigree animal. The Turners will receive the pedigree in the near future.

"He wouldn't have anything to do with Jay when he first got here," Mrs. Turner reported, "but now they get along fine."

All is not peace and harmony, however. "Perky" has been paying an unusual amount of attention to the Turners' 12-year-old parakeet.

"They don't get along too well," Mrs. Turner states.

"Perky" differs from other varieties of felines in that he doesn't drink milk, just water. His breakfast, according to a letter from his previous owners, usually consists of raw liver or kidney and his dinner is raw hamburger.

Mr. Turner is a retired Nestles Milk Company employee.

Wildlife, Roads Top Supervisors' Session

For the third time in as many months pollution of the Fish Point Game Preserve waters in the northwest corner of the county took up a major portion of the business at Monday's Tuscola County Supervisors' meeting at the Caro Courthouse.

During the morning session two wildlife officials, Howard Green, State Conservation Department, and John Hague, Federal Wildlife Department, denied charges that the diked-up water at the Fish Point preserve is stagnant.

The charges were leveled at a previous meeting by George Blehm, Fish Point resident, according to Clerk Archie Hicks. Blehm asserted that while there were inflow and outflow pumps, they were seldom operated, causing the water in the preserve to become stagnant, causing the death of waterfowl and fish.

Both Green and Hague denied the charges but were unable to list the causes of the large losses of wildlife and fish in past months in the area.

Mrs. Lucy Miller, chief county nurse, Merrill Petoskey, State Conservation Department, and Harold Tubbs, Caro conservation unit, gave their opinions of the situation during the afternoon session.

In other business, the Supervisors voted to refer to the Ways and Means Committee, for further study, a request for a $50.00 appropriation to help organize the Thumb Highway Improvement Association.

The request was made by Clare Hewens Sr., Bad Axe publisher, president of the newly formed association. The association is currently seeking all-weather designation for M-53.

Hewens also requested the appointment of representatives from Tuscola county to the board of directors. Cliff Croft and Herbert Ludlow, both of Cass City, were appointed.

A financial report from the Adult Mental Health Clinic of Saginaw Valley showed a balance of funds available of $13,521.87. Tuscola county, a member of the organization, contributed $1,975 to the clinic last year.

A check for $200, the county's 1962 appropriation for the Saginaw Valley Child Guidance Clinic, was ordered drawn. In a letter notifying the Supervisors that the 1962 appropriation had not been received, the clinic suggested that the county contribute $1,000 in 1963.

A motion by the Building and Grounds Committee, requesting the purchase of an A. B. Dick Company copying machine for the County treasurer's office, was passed. The machine cost $99.50.

WSCS Members Make Annual Pledges

Approximately 48 Methodist WSCS members made their annual pledges during the group's regular meeting Monday night at the Methodist Church.

The pledges were made after a pledge program presentation by Mrs. R. Keating. Theme of the program was "Make Up Your Own Mind."

To help members decide the amount of their pledges, chairmen of the standing committees gave a two-minute talk on the work and aims of their respective committees.

A current drive to raise money for the organization over the past month has netted the group over $700.00, members were told. Projects such as the rummage sale, luncheons and other aids, as well as pledges, accounted for the money.

Under discussion are plans for reunion dinners in June, July and August and the honoring of Cass City High School seniors on Baccalaureate Sunday.

THE OIL CHANGE CONTROVERSY

Back in the days of gravel roads and no filters it was a simple matter of changing your oil every 500 miles to keep engine wear at a minimum - a figure on which all authorities agreed.

Roads, oil and filters improved and the recommended change figure crept up to 1,000 miles. Then advertising claims began quoting 2,000 mile changes, 4,000 and finally 6,000 mile intervals as ideal for maximum wear and economy.

Oil companies still stick with the 1,000 mile figure as right for the average driver. In the interests of fairness, it must be said that this recommendation is confirmed to some extent by manufacturer's manuals on specific change intervals.

While recommending the longer change intervals, all makers generally list exceptions. Except when you drive at low speeds in low temperatures with frequent engine idling; when you drive on dusty roads; when you consistently drive short distances that do not permit the engine to fully warm up.

Industry statisticians claim that eighty percent of all driving is on trips of a dozen miles or less - a condition that seems to favor more frequent changes for best wear and performance. For most drivers this would mean 30-day intervals in Winter and 60-day intervals in Summer.

Oil is cheaper by far than the mechanical damage created by sludge. Our service mechanics always check your oil for sludge and grit. They'll recommend a change only if you need it.

A Time for Touting Trees

Few of Michigan's prized natural resources have been more important in the past or are more highly valued today than its forests and the trees which make them. They are a steady source of raw materials for industry and agriculture. They affect the climate, water resources and soil. They furnish food and shelter for wildlife and are vital to the state's vast recreational and scenic areas. The annual production and manufacture of forest products in Michigan is valued at more than $600 million. Income from the recreation "industry" is also estimated to be more than $600 million a year. Trees also hold a special something for millions of sightseers and nature lovers that cannot be expressed in dollars and cents. For all these reasons, Michigan each spring stages Arbor Day to honor its trees. This year, two dates have been set for Arbor Day observances—Apr. 26 in the southern lower peninsula and May 10 in the northern two-thirds of the state. Local communities, schools, conservation clubs, and others will take part in these special days by planting trees.

Pornography Topic At Rosary Altar Society Meeting

Fr. Cornelius MacEachin, Crosswell, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the St. Pancratius Rosary Altar Society Monday.

Fr. MacEachin's address, "A Christian Mother's Role in Decent Literature," dealt with pornographic literature.

According to Fr. The group was shown a large collection of indecent literature picked up from newsstands and magazine racks in the Thumb area.

Mrs. Irv Claxman reported on the recent meeting of The Thumb Deaconry Council held in Caro.

Mrs. George Murray, Cass City, reported on the 11th annual Saginaw Diocesan meeting of the NCCW held April 30th. While at the convention she took part in an organization and development workshop.

The national convention of the National Council of Catholic Women will be held November 3-7 at Cobo Hall in Detroit, members were informed.

Concrete Wins Bowling Title

Cass City Concrete won the Merchant's League championship in a roll-off Wednesday, May 2, in as fine a match as has been recorded in recent years in the village.

Concrete won the title by taking two games out of three games and total pins. After the teams had split the first two games, Frutchey bowed to the pressure bowling of Don Shagena as the 155-average bowler came up with a tremendous 236 final game.

His big game was needed for the victory. Concrete won the first 907 to 868 and Frutchey the second, 944 to 890. The deciding game saw Concrete post 931 to 879 for the losers.

Eight of the bowlers posted "500" series. For Frutchey, Nelson Willy, F. Knoblet, Joe Kilbourn and Carl Kolb reached the magic figure and for Concrete Jim Wallace, Aiden Asher, Shagena and Don Doerr connected. Rounding out the championship units were Bob Musall for Concrete and Walker Matlack for Frutchey.

The championship trophy was to have been awarded Wednesday night at a banquet at Caseville.

High individual honors went to David Buchinger, Reese, first place; Chuck Venema, Cass City, second place; and Vance Scott, Akron-Fairgrove, third place.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

It Was My Second Date --

By René Warren

Last week the Cass River slipped over its banks to wander, muddy and unruly, the nearby lower sections of land. By Thursday, however, though still surly and roily, it had crawled back into its bed. Writing about the river reminds me...

It was my second date with the young man. I should have been wary when the date was a fishing trip - but love (sigh) is a blinding force. So, off to the river I blithely went with him, content simply to be with this fellow with whom I had recently had my first date.

As we sat on the banks of the Cass River waiting for something - a fish, I guess - to bite the bait, we began to discover more likes - and dislikes in common. The warm camaraderie that had begun earlier was developing between us - and something else a little finer, a little more breathless and sweet.

As we sat there, the perception that he was about to kiss me took root within me with a yearning awareness. In breathless anticipation I lifted my face to his - just as he jerked away and pointed eagerly toward the river. Somewhere in the hinterland of my mind there registered a sound that might have been a splash afar off. My hero had jumped to his feet. He was pointing toward the nearby bridge. "Did you see that?" he queried eagerly. I gazed foggily at him, then turned a bewildered frown toward the bridge. "A fish jumped right over there," he continued. "A big one. Must have been this long." He spread his arms pretty far apart. "I think I'll drop my line over there," he said as he began to reel in his bait.

I sighed, bade farewell to the sweet moment that wasn't, and watched with wry humor as he scurried closer to the bridge in vain hope of catching the big one that always gets away.

Did I learn a lesson? Nope. I married the guy and was a "fishing widow" until in self-defense I took up the sport myself. Up until about five years ago, we enjoyed some pleasurable fishing treks - but other activities kept encroaching until now it's been a long time since either of us has gone fishing. Frankly (probably obviously) I haven't missed it much. Of course, it's not possible to sneak for my husband - but surely he doesn't miss it too much or he'd MAKE time to go. Believe me, I can say that from experience!

It's an impossibility—character can never rise higher than one's aim in life.

The fellow who thinks twice hasn't a chance today—the smart boy specializes in guessing right the first time.

Farm Debt Rises Sharply

In 1961 Michigan farmers had farm real estate debts and non-real estate loans amounting to nearly 600 million dollars.

According to information received at a recent Michigan State University farm credit meeting, reports Don R. Keblen, county extension agent in agriculture, this is an increase of nearly 87 million dollars since 1952.

Farm mortgage debt has increased nearly 65 per cent and farm non-real estate loans increased nearly 85 per cent in the past 10 years.

In the area of farm mortgage debt, "individuals and others" composed the highest single lending group holding nearly 50 per cent of this debt. From 50 per cent to 65 per cent of this credit financing was by sellers using the land contract method. Other lending agencies listed are Federal Land Bank with 24 per cent; all operating banks 17 per cent; life insurance companies six per cent, and Farm and Home Administration two per cent.

In general, the Federal Land Banks have greatly increased their share of real estate mortgage credit; loans by individuals and others has decreased and commercial banks decreased slightly.

About 48 per cent of non-real estate loans were financed by banks, 33 per cent by individuals and merchants, 14 per cent by production credit association, and five per cent by Farm and Home Administration.

Part of the farm credit study indicates from a lender's point of view that there appears to be a reasonable amount of competition in the money lending business. Borrowers, however, may not see it quite that way and would probably welcome even more competition. Although some persons are of the notion that credit for agricultural purposes is inadequate, that situation does not seem to apply in Michigan. True it is that some persons may not get enough credit and some persons may get more credit than they should, but for most farmers and farm organizations the credit supply appears to be reasonably adequate.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Some fellers go to the barber shop to git a haircut and some goes to git information. On account of me not having much hair left, I reckon you'd have to say I go to git about half and half. Incidental, I note my barber keeps charging me the full price and I aim to write a piece soon advocating that all prices fer haircuts be regulated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. That'll fix 'em!

But anyhow, I was over in town Saturday morning gitting my edges evened up and I'd have to say I got more information fer the price than I got haircut. The feller settin' in the chair next to mine was telling about the featherbedding that's going on right at the White House. I been reading where the railroad workers is being accused of this vice, but I didn't know till Saturday morning that we got featherbedding on the White House lawn.

This feller said he was reading where the Chief Gardener at the White House was asking fer more help to keep up them 18 acres of grounds. The piece said he has already got seven helpers but claims he needs nine. President Kennedy got his private gardener from Cape Cod to come down and look over the problem. This feller, after studying the work load first hand fer a week, said the job could be done real easy with four men if all four would do a little work. The customer in the barber chair said he hadn't saw what was done about it, but he was guessing the Chief Gardener would git his nine helpers. Until you hear to the contrary, Mister Editor, you can be advised that we got featherbedding planted among the White House roses.

The barber that was featherbedding on my haircut reported he had saw a piece in the papers where a Congressman by the name of James C. Davis from Atlanta dropped a unusual bill in the hopper the other day. Congressman Davis was agin hikin' the roof on our national debt any more, and his bill called fer reducing the national debt by one per cent each year. He argued in the Congress this would pay off our national debt in 100 years and that they wasn't many creditors who'd wait much longer than that to git their money. According to my barber, they not only throwed the bill out of the hopper but was about to throw the Congressman out of the building.

Putting the information alongside the haircut, I reckon I got my money's worth Saturday morning. I'm sorter like my old lady. I've knowed her to spend two hours at the beauty parlor and come out happy, even if she did look like she didn't git waited on.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

"Our basement was hard to heat..."

"Electric heat helped us turn a chilly basement into a year-round family room," says Mrs. Horace Johns, of Millington, Mich. "We have electric heat in the second-floor bedrooms and bath, too. Keeps them as warm as the rest of the house—even warmer if we want. We can raise the temperature in any of these rooms without overheating the whole house. One reason we chose electric heat in the first place was because it cost less to install. Now we like the convenience of electric heat so much that, if and when we buy another home, we'll have it throughout."

What about your home? Do you have a hard-to-heat room? Are you adding on a room? Are you buying a new home? Is the heating system in your present home more trouble than it's worth? One of the types of electric heating units shown below may be the answer to your heating problems. One easy way to find out is to ask your electrical contractor. Another is to call your Edison office. We'll be glad to send you a copy of our free booklet "Electric Home Heating" and will answer any questions you may have about the modern, worry-free way to heat your home—electrically.

No Library Service Available To A Million Citizens

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association

One million Michigan citizens without legal library facilities seems unbelievable to those who take such service for granted. But figures released by Miss Genevieve M. Casey, state librarian, indicated that this is the fact.

At least two counties, Montmorency and Luce, offer no library service at all. There is only one library in Ogemaw County. It is at West Branch, but leaves 7,650 people without service. Oceana County provides service for 6,000, but leaves 10,000 without any.

Metropolitan areas are also lacking. In populous Oakland County, the 25,000 residents of Bloomfield Township and Bloomfield Hills have no legal access to a library. The 6,454 people in Novi Township are served to a limited extent by a volunteer group.

The 47,107 residents of Waterford Township also have volunteer library service, but 19,058 citizens of Troy have none.

Solutions to these situations will be sought in a meeting of interested people Sept. 19 at Lansing's Civic Center. This will be Michigan's first Governor's Conference on Libraries.

Some 800 people are expected to attend. According to Miss Casey, a special effort will be made to invite "laymen" as opposed to "professional librarians." These people will come from as wide as possible a cross-section of the state.

The hope is that an increasing awareness of the present library role as well as its potential can be developed; that individual or regional action can be stimulated to improve the situation.

Librarians can see how much more efficient use can be made of existing facilities and certain duplication can be eliminated while expanding service to a growing number of Michigan residents.

This can be done by organizing local libraries to handle popular and frequently needed publications. They will work with regional centers where non-fiction, more technical information and data can be "wholesaled" to local points according to request. Regions, in turn, will work with the state library and those at leading universities to provide the most technical information which is very important to a smaller segment of the population.

The basic idea, as one librarian expressed it, is to get more value for the library dollar.

What happened in school bond issues in recent years will be studied in a new project of the Michigan Department of Public Instruction. Department spokesmen indicate there is no complete and accurate way to know what percentage of local bond issues passed or failed and consequently, no way to evaluate the factors involved in the outcome.

The report is expected to provide a better understanding of voter temperament and guide school people in presenting propositions which have a better chance of passing.

Time of the year is important, according to a hunch of one man working on the study. At first glance, a higher percentage of bond issues proposed in November and December pass than at other times. The hunch is that the Christmas spirit prevails. September seems not too good, because there is sometimes much uneasiness about youngsters getting back to school. It takes a few weeks for things to "settle." Income tax time is also a bad psychological time to propose bond issues, the study suggests, and for obvious reasons.

School issues failed in more than half the elections held in 1960-61, according to the Michigan Education Association, which now keeps close watch on such events.

MEA says that the type of bond issue which gets most frequent approval is for millage to repay bonds for construction. The most frequent use of voted millage for operations is in the Upper Peninsula and in metropolitan counties in the southeast part of our state.

Achievements in Science and technology will be pointed up this year as part of the annual Michigan Week under direction of a state expert in the field.

Dr. James T. Wilson, head of the Institute of Science and Technology at the University of Michigan, will attempt to help communities throughout the state focus attention on this field of the state's economy.

The Greater Michigan Foundation, sponsors of the annual event, recently published a handbook which depicts some of the factors which make science and technology important to Michigan's economy.

Contributions to these areas of economic growth also were outstanding from the state's colleges and universities; General Motors Corporation; the Burroughs Corporation; Parke Davis & Co.; Consumers Power Company; the Detroit Edison Company; and many other government and private organizations. All but a fraction of university research is financed by private firms, foundations or the federal government.

Michigan State University, for example, had 1,628 research projects under way during the year. They ranged from studies of the working of a cyclotron to research on a pickle picker.

At the University of Michigan, research costing an estimated $30 million was aimed at accumulation of knowledge about space ships as well as the working of men's minds.

Lenzner A Force In Community

This week's photograph is of C. Oscar Lenzner Jr., who, with his brother Franklin, ran the Lenzner Furniture Store that stood for several years where the Mobilgas Station is now located.

Oscar Lenzner Sr. came to Cass City in 1873 from New York. With his sons he opened a cabinet shop and built the above-mentioned store. In addition to building fine furniture, Mr. Lenzner also manufactured musical instruments, such as the banjo guitar, King David's harps, violins and organs. This talent was passed on to his sons.

After Mr. Lenzner's death, the two brothers mentioned above (Oscar Jr. and Franklin) continued in the furniture business. The store, still remembered by many, was torn down in 1930. It was, at that time, one of the oldest buildings in town.

C. Oscar Lenzner Jr., featured in this week's picture, died in 1927. He served as trustee in the Evangelical United Brethren Church for many years and was the church organist for twenty-five years.

With due regard for the Lenzner family abilities as furniture and cabinet makers, and their talent in producing musical instruments, Oscar Lenzner Jr. will long be remembered as the father of Herbert F. Lenzner, the publisher of the Cass City Chronicle for nearly half a century, and by all odds one of the really important influences in the history of this community.

Schusts Start Bakery in Cass City in 1878

Henry and Sophie Schust sold their bakery in Basel, Switzerland, in 1878 and moved to Cass City. Their bakery business in Cass City was on South Seeger Street and located in the building which for a time housed the General Telephone Company offices. The Schusts remained in Cass City for five years but "outgrew" the little village and, in 1883, moved to Saginaw. They, with their children, formed the Schust Company and eventually became the Sunshine Biscuit Company.

Walter J. Gamble had this to write about the Schusts: "They had little knowledge as to the demand of a small village for baked goods. They would make a large quantity of delicious cream puffs which would remain in stock too long. We boys who had few pennies used to stretch our money by watching until the cream puffs were just showing a trace of sour and about to become not saleable. Then we could buy for a penny such a cream puff as cannot now be bought for a dime, in fact, I have never seen their equal at any price. That family soon discovered that they belonged in a larger town. They moved and speedily became the successful Schusts of Saginaw."

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Liz Taylor Never
Had It So Good

By Dave Kraft

Girls, you have my sympathy.
The next time you want to complain about tight high heels,
pinching girdles, blotchy nail polish, runs in your hose and not being able to do a thing with your hair, my shoulder is at your disposal.I know just how you feel. Old Liz, excuse me, old Uncle Dave,
has been down that road and he knows what it's like.Those of you who saw the Lions Club "Revue for '62," particularly the Lions Style Show portion, have an inkling of what I mean.Yours truly was the ep-p-p...
the ep-p-p... the height of beauty as none other than Elizabeth Taylor.Some of you who know what I look like may think this is a little far fetched, but a few trimmings and trappings did the trick.I wore a black sheath-type dress with a plunging neckline and a soaring split up the hem.
My long black tresses fell to my shoulders and my bangs were about the bangiest you ever saw.On my tiny, size 10, feet were plastic sling pumps with rhinestone-studded bows. I had a stunning rhinestone bracelet, a cigarette holder and a pair of eyelashes that hit me in the forehead every time I blinked my eyes.I was, needless to say, stag-geringly beautiful... mostly staggering. As a matter of fact, as the cast mingled with the audience at the last show, three different men asked me for a date.It wasn't all beer and skittles, though. Being what you are when you ain't and without any practice, has its drawbacks.

Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration
AgentDo you as a homemaker read package labels? These labels are very important to you. They contain very useful information and we need to become label readers.The Michigan State Department of Agriculture, with its Food and Standards Division,
checks to be sure Michigan's regulations are met on all packages.The basic labeling law requires that the true name of the product be listed with the name of the manufacturer. In addition, the true net contents must be given in a conspicuous place on the principal panel of the label.The Federal law requires that all ingredients must be listed in order of their prominence. This means that the ingredients in the largest volume must come first, at the top of the list. Other ingredients are listed in descending order, in proportion to their volume, including spices, color and flavors.The next time you shop, how about taking a good look at cake mix packages? You will find some changes.Cake mix manufacturers have agreed on the following points:
the list of ingredients will be on the right side panel. Net contents will be placed on the front panel of the package in sharp contrasting colors. If the flavoring is artificial, it will be stated on the package. The yield the homemaker may expect will be stated plainly. For example:
"makes two - 9 inch layers."These changes have been made through the cooperative efforts of the manufacturers. It is hoped that all food processors will improve their labeling as much as the cake mix producers have done this past year.It will not be any problem for you or your teenage daughter
now to bake that extra special cake for the spring festivities coming along.Speaking of teenage cooks, in many homes today the teenagers
are not "helping out" in the kitchen as much as they did in former generations. Today's smaller family, modern kitchen equipment and conveniences have often lessened the need for teenagers to assume responsibilities of this kind. But the fact still remains that some day your daughter will have a home of her own and must take over in her own kitchen.Our teenagers have busy schedules today. But why not let your daughter be the "Boss" in your kitchen one day a week as a training course? This actual experience can be invaluable to her.
You can work out menus together, then let her do the grocery shopping for her day. Being "Boss" will give her a feeling of importance and she will earn by doing.My super structure, to be comparable, had to be robust, to say the least.To accomplish this, a ring of foam rubber was tied together and stuffed into position. Now I know how the horse felt when the tenderfoot put his saddle on upside down.I don't know how you women do it, but after spending two nights staggering and stumbling around in those high heels, my legs ached so much I couldn't even stand, much less walk.During the rehearsal I we had just one I didn't wear my nylons and my stark-white, hairy legs looked like two thin headlight beams that needed a shave.
I borrowed a pair of my wife's best nylons, without her knowledge, and now I have to buy her
a new pair.On the first night of the show,
I was resting my weary feet and when I put my shoes back on, I snagged my left nylon with my bracelet. I tore an inch hole in the sleazy thing.Dressed as I was, there was nothing to do but have a good cry. I would have, too, but I was afraid I'd smear my make-up.I made my grand entrance at the last of the style show. I followed the hostess with the most-est, Pearl Mesta (Dr. Bill Selby); Thelma Jackson (Tom Jackson) in her bathing suit and Alfreda Frigenburger (Al Freiburger) and her mother (Charlie Newas).In my part, after a little dialogue, MC Bill Jolly rushed on stage with a telegram, supposedly from Eddie Fisher.It said, however, that my sweetheart, Russ Leeson, couldn't keep our rendezvous because his wife, Mary, had canceled her Zenta Club meeting. At this, I was to faint and be carried off
the stage on a stretcher up through the aisle.It sounds easy enough, but my two stretcher bearers were far from graceful. Coming off thestage, the stretcher was tipped to a 45-degree angle and I started to slide to the far end of the stretcher.I grabbed the side of the stretcher in a death grip. Just then, the rear stretcher bearer stumbled on the stage stairstep.
I had visions of falling into the piano. The way Roger Parrish pays that thing, I'd have been beaten to a pulp before I could be rescued.Everything came out alright.
Of course, they had to pry my fingers loose from the stretcher before I could get up, but it was to be expected.That brings to mind something else. Have you ever tried to get up gracefully from a stretcher with a tight dress and a pair of high heels on?Your heels dig in but your toes won't touch the floor and your dress starts to climb dangerously higher. Finally, you have to throw yourself over the side of the stretcher and pull yourself up the wall. Nothing to it, actually.The whole thing was a lot of fun and I'll probably never live
it down. Just one thing, though.
The next guy that asks me for a date gets a punch in the nose.Everyone connected with the show did a wonderful job, but a special thanks should go to Mrs.
Lucille Bauer and Charlie Newas.Newas was a one-man theatrical agency, stage crew and program director. Mrs. Bauer narrated the style show, wrote the script, provided the costumes and make-up and took care of the fittings.Pride loses its flavor when a man has to swallow his words.There's nothing new under the sun—and the same old stuff is going on under the moon.Usually the politician who gets in office with a pull is in a position to get a big haul.Select a Gift for gents-Alumni scholarships at the University of Michigan, it has been announced by Walter B. Rea, dean of men and chairman of the UM scholarship committee.

Cass City posted two diamond victories to set the stage for a game to have been played Thursday at Bad Axe which may decide the conference championship. Cass City defeated Yale, 27-6, and Crosswell-Lexington, 7-2. Bad Axe and Cass City have 4-0 records in league play.

Included in the annual Spring Concert to be presented Friday, May 10, by the Cass City Junior Band will be a cornet trio and a clarinet quartet. The trio members are: Mary Lou Crawford, Jane Bringardner and Susan Shaw. The quartet members are: Dotty Jo Ballard, Bette Lou Bond, Doris Orto and Shirley Ross.

Koert James Lessman, Cass City, is one of a group of Michigan State University students whose names appear on the honor list for the winter term.

Three new names were suggested for the proposed new Cass City hospital. They are: Hilltop Memorial, Tri-County Mercy Hospital or Tri-County Receiving Hospital.

Four area girls received their caps in ceremonies at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, Sunday, April 28. They are: Beverly McClorey and Luella Spencer, both of Cass City, and Bonnie Pine and Ruth Seuryneck, both of Gagetown.

Tom Schwaderer paced Cass City to a one-sided victory in the Upper Thumb track meet held at Caro Tuesday when he scored 19½ points with three firsts and a leg on the 880-yard relay.

Mrs. Grant Patterson was elected president of the WSCS of the Methodist Church at a supper meeting held at the church Monday.

Members of the Cass City Council of Churches named Leonard Smith, of the Presbyterian Church, president of the combined group for 1952 in an election meeting held Tuesday at the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Two hundred and fifty persons attended the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and an additional 150 alumni and parents were on hand for the dance that followed at the top social event of the school year at the high school auditorium Friday night.

Twenty-five Years Ago
Two Cass City students at Central State Teachers' College were injured when the car they were in collided with another. They are: Miss Elvora Corpron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Corpron, and Miss Betty Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hunt.

Cass City remains in the race for Upper Thumb championship play-off with three victories and one defeat in league games. Mayville, still undefeated, looks like a real contender for the title.

Cass City electors who are taxpayers decided Monday by an overwhelming vote to bond the village for $14,000 to provide the amount the village council deems necessary for raising the village's portion of the estimated $89,000 necessary to construct a sewer system and a sewage disposal plant here.

Nineteen of the 22 instructors who will be employed on the faculty of the Cass City Public Schools the coming year have signed contracts.

Joe Vampell, a Kingston township farmer, was brought to the Morris Hospital here on Wednesday with a badly cut face received when his horses became frightened and ran away, throwing him into a barbed wire fence. "A Trip" was the subject of Mrs. A. J. Knapp's talk when she spoke at guest night of the Deckerville Woman's Club in Deckerville Tuesday evening.

Thirty-five Years Ago
Of the 18 instructors who have signed contracts to teach in the Cass City Schools next year, 14 are occupying positions on the staff at present.

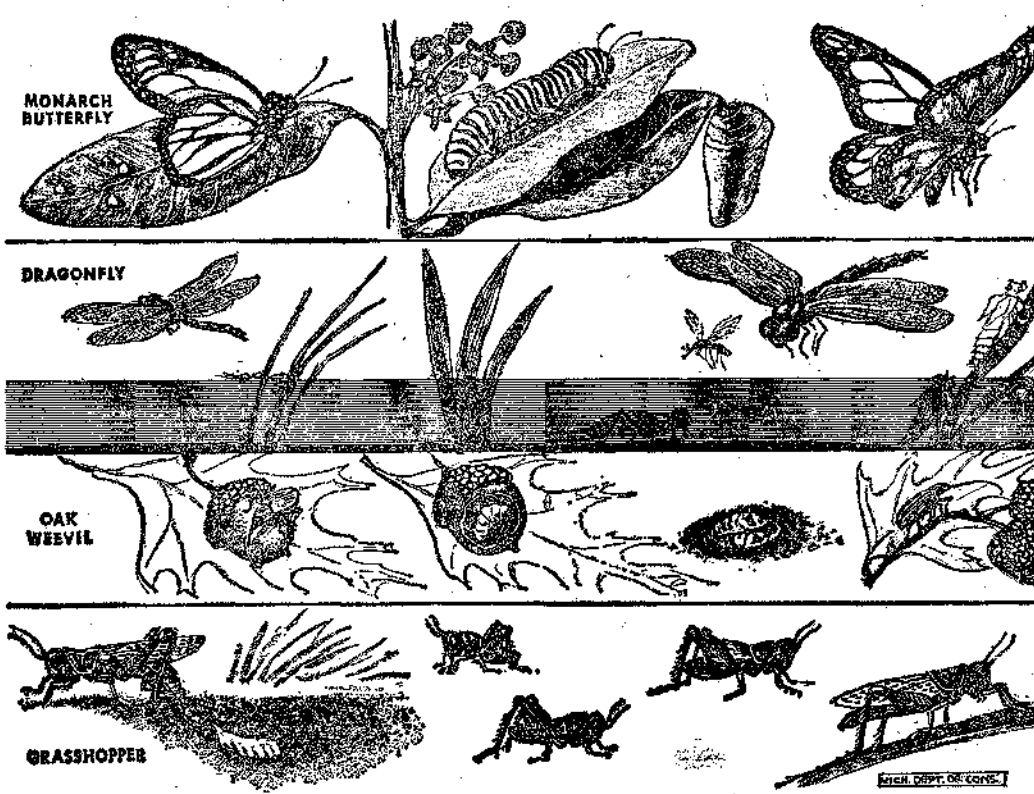

The Cass City High School records show a close race for honors in the Class of 1927. Pauline Knight is named the honor student and valedictorian. Magdalena Just, who is within a fraction of a point of Miss Knight's record, will deliver the salutatory at the Class Day exercises Monday, June 13.

Elmer Spencer, dairyman, living 11 miles east of Cass City, has kept a careful record of the receipts and expenses of his dairy herd and finds that for every dollar expended for feed, he has received a return of $3.25.

A. C. Benkelman of Washington, D. C., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Benkelman, the first of the week. Mr. Benkelman is an assistant test engineer in the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington.

Master Magicians

Amazing things happen everyday in the insect world. Smacking of pure magic is the series of changes that insects go through in their growth from the egg to the adult. This is called metamorphosis. It can be seen in the form of a striped, leaf-eating caterpillar with 16 legs which sheds its outside skin and is transformed into a legless, immobile, mummy-like case. In a short time, nature adds its touch of magic and out pops an orange and black monarch butterfly with 6 legs, wings and capable of only sucking liquid food. Dragonfly nymphs live in the water breathing through gills most of their early life. When they are full grown, the nymph crawls out of the water and takes a firm hold of a plant. Suddenly, the skin on its back splits and a winged, air-breathing dragonfly emerges. A white soft-bodied, legless grub goes to "sleep" in the ground after completing its development in an acorn and soon changes into a winged, brown hard-shelled weevil with 6 legs. Many insects do not undergo such abrupt changes. Young grasshoppers, for example, look very much like adults, except they do not have developed wings. They grow by a gradual process called simple metamorphosis, shedding their outside skin many times, and growing larger each time.

Letter to Editor

The Chronicle welcomes letters to the editor. In most instances letters will be printed in full. However, the paper reserves the right to edit letters to fit space requirements. All letters must be signed.

To the Editor:

On Friday afternoon, April 6, more than twenty-five Michigan State University graduate students toured Cass City. Your hospitality and willingness to show us your community were extremely useful to these students in Resource Development who come from Egypt, the Philippines, Viet Nam, states as far away as Montana and Oregon, plus Cooperative Extension workers and Vo-Ag teachers and others from your area.

They benefited greatly by seeing your community - leaders function as a team, seeing community facilities and progress, and observing your newly established industrial operations.

All now have a better understanding of community problems and opportunities. We thank you.

Some folks don't care what happens—if it doesn't happen to them.

The trouble with the man who thinks he knows it all, is that usually he knows it all wrong.

Some of our problems could be solved if we could stick an emergency clause in the law of supply and demand.
