

At Local Library

Lots of Cash; No Place for Books

Cass City and Elkland Township Library is getting too big for its britches. A steadily increasing number of books and a steadily increasing patronage in the present cramped quarters are severely limiting the operation of the facility.

Operating funds are no problem, building funds are. Each of the past few years, the library has ended the year with a surplus. To understand why the library continues to receive money when the report by Mrs. Avis Benkelman, treasurer, at the end of the fiscal year showed a surplus of $2,224.01, it is necessary to know how the money is received.

Three governmental units, the village, Elkland township and the State, furnish money. To be eligible for state aid, the township and the village must assess a minimum mill rate.

Last year this system resulted in $1,185.51 from the township, $1,593.63 from the village and $166.94 from the State. Total receipts were $3,117.81. Cash accumulated in previous years amounted to $1,401.28. A total of only $2,295.08 was spent.

This rosy financial picture takes on a blue tint when authorities point out that there is not enough room for one more book without first culling out some of the editions that have become beat up through usage.

If money were no object, Librarian Mrs. Arthur Little observed, we could use three times the space we now have. The space problem is so acute that the library has been forced to turn down donations of books.

Nearly everyone connected with the library has wistfully thought of the time when a new location could be utilized... but while $2,000 will buy a lot of books it doesn't make much dent in today's cost of buildings.

Best Sellers

Despite their handicap, the library sees that a large percentage of the new books on the best seller lists find their way to the library to replace books called and given to charity.

At General Insulated

Sign First Union Pact

After 10 weeks of negotiations, the Cass City plant of General Insulated Wire Works, Inc. and Local 6222 of the United Steel Workers of America have hammered out a contract that pleases both labor and management.

The new contract was signed Sunday after a vote by employees ratified the agreement by a ratio of 11 to one.

It specifies employee seniority rights, vacations, job security, holidays and other fringe benefits.

The three-year contract calls for about the same pay in the lowest level of wage classifications and includes increases in varying amounts for other workers depending upon job classifications and present rate of pay.

The second and third years of the contract call for wage increases of six cents per hour, per year.

The contract cannot be opened for negotiation during the three-year period. Maurice Halstead of Bay City, union negotiator, said that he was very pleased with the new contract and the harmonious way bargaining was conducted between management and labor.

Paul Alfano, office manager of General Insulated, said that the company was very satisfied with the contract and looks forward to three years of harmonious relations with employees in Cass City.

Total cost of the new contract was not revealed by the parties concerned.

The union contract is the first in Cass City since Nestles closed its doors nearly 10 years ago.

Graham Tries Again

In an attempt to regain his office, County Probate Judge Henderson Graham has filed a motion with the State Supreme Court seeking the removal of an enjoiner slapped on the judge by the high court last month. The motion was filed Saturday, June 2, by Graham's attorney, Thomas R. McAllister.

Graham was officially relieved of his duties as probate judge on May 21 by Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn, Supreme Court representative.

The move by the high court was made in connection with charges that Graham allegedly attempted to borrow $20,000 from an estate under his jurisdiction.

Graham, in his three-page motion, alleges that the enjoiner should be set aside because he had been acquitted earlier by the House of Representatives by a vote of 105 to three of charges filed by the high court.

Elect Krueger New Rotary President

Rotarians elected a new president and vice-president to take over at the end of the current term of President Dick Erla at the end of June.

The special election was made necessary because both Rotarians previously named to the offices are leaving the community.

The new president is Almer Krueger and the vice-president is Jim Bauer.

In other business, Leonard Damm announced that there are still plenty of tickets left for anyone wishing to attend the annual Rotary day at the Detroit Race track Thursday, June 14.

The general public is invited and tickets are available from Mr. Damm. Cost of the duckets is $4.00 each and includes a bounteous buffet dinner and cocktail hour.

Old Settlers To Meet in Deford

The 52nd annual reunion of Deford Old Settlers will be held at Deford School June 16 when festivities will start with a pot-luck dinner at noon. The program will start at 1 p.m.

Highlights will be the business meeting and a memorial service for members who died during the year.

Area residents are reminded that the reunion is open to all and that participants are required to bring their table service.

Board Rejects Caro Tuition Students

A plea from two Caro area school districts to send high school tuition students to Cass City was turned down Monday night by Cass City's seven-member school board at a special meeting at the high school.

The turnaround came after a 45-minute interview with five members of the George School, Ellington township, and the Parsals School, Almer township.

In rejecting the plea, the Cass City board issued this statement: "It is the general feeling of the board that it would be best not to accept students from the Parsals and George schools."

The two boards based their request on "the recent action by the Caro Board of Education" stating that tuition students would no longer be accepted in the Caro system. (Seniors already attending will be allowed to continue.)

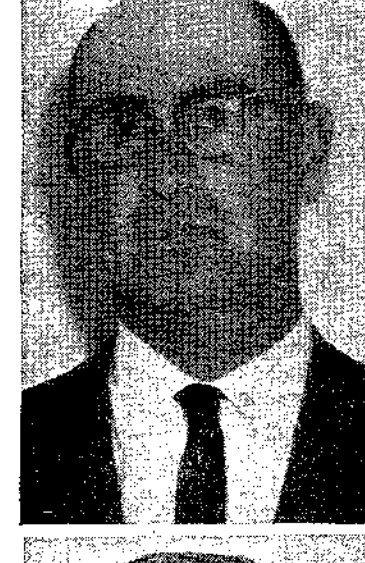

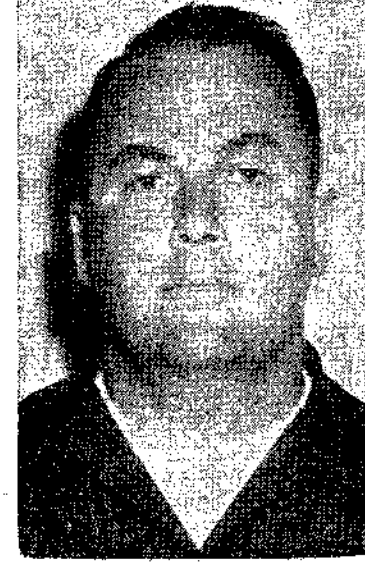

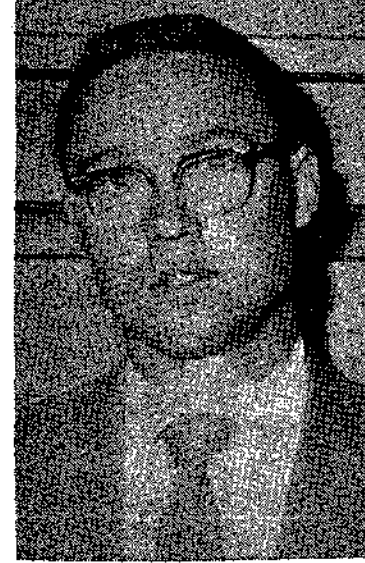

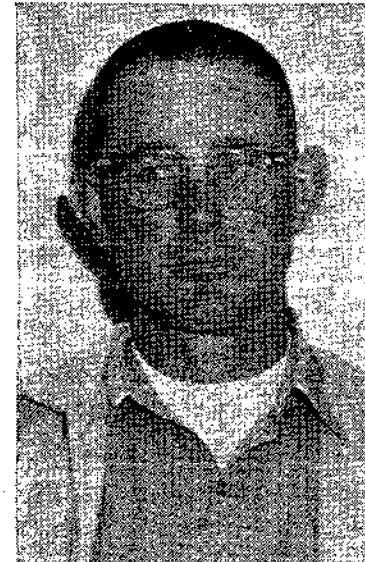

A letter from the Caro board to the Cass City board explained the action as a move to speed up annexation within the Caro School district.

The letter blamed an increase in elementary students, creating the need for a new elementary school, and on debts incurred through the annexation of other heavily indebted school districts.

It was also pointed out in the letter that Caro area school district boards had worked on plans for an over-all annexation previously and were aware of the coming action.

The request from the two districts, both just over five miles from Caro, involved a total of 18 students. Included in the figure were 12 students from George School and six from Parsals.

It is expected that of George School's 12 students, seven, all

CASS CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT voters will pick two of these seven candidates in Monday's school election to fill the two open Board of Education seats. Voting will be from 7:00 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the High School south entrance. The candidates, left to right, top row, are: Grant Glaspie, Don Koepfgen and Geraldine Prieskorn, three-year candidates. Four-year candidates are, second row, left to right: Elwyn Helwig, Robert C. Hervey and Fred Knoblet. Bottom: Roy Vader.

Reveal Backgrounds of Seven Cass City Board Candidates

With seven persons seeking two open Board of Education seats in the Monday, June 11, school election, increased voter activity is expected.

Interest in the election took a sudden upswing when last-minute petitions were filed May 11 by a number of candidates.

Seeking the two seats, one for three years and the other for four years, are Grant O. Glaspie, Donald Koepfgen, Geraldine Prieskorn, Elwyn Helwig, Dr. Robert C. Hervey, Fred Knoblet and Roy Vader.

The four-year term is being vacated by School Board veteran Lester Ross. Ross is completing his 18th year on the board. The three-year term is to fill an unexpired term left vacant by the resignation of James Gross earlier in the year.

Geraldine Prieskorn

Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn, the wife of a Cass City businessman, is seeking election to the three-year post, a seat she now holds by appointment.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Prieskorn is originally from Cass City, having returned to the village from Bay City three years ago.

A Bay City graduate, she studied business administration at Northwestern University. She was active in the summer recreation program in the village last summer and was secretary of the former Curriculum Study Committee. She and her husband are co-owners of the Ben Franklin Store.

"I think the education of our children is of prime importance in this day and age," she said in outlining her purpose for seeking the post. "I think more parents should get out and know what's going on in school and know what's going on in their children's education."

Don Koepfgen

Don Koepfgen, also seeking the three-year term, is a Cass City dairy farmer. A lifetime resident of Cass City, he and his family live on a 260-acre farm northwest of the village. He has five children, ranging from two to 10 years of age.

A graduate of Cass City High School, Koepfgen is a DHIA director and a Mason. He is also an avid harness racer, a hobby he shares with his father.

"I've heard a number of stories about the condition of the school," he stated in giving his reasons for seeking the post, "and I want to find out if they're true... I'll have four children in school next year."

Grant Glaspie

Grant Glaspie, another three-year candidate, has been a Cass City postal employee for the past 16 years. An Air Force veteran, his hobbies are flying and ham radio operating.

"I feel it is a civic duty and if elected, I'll try to help operate the school through the best possible ways and means," he answered when asked why he was running for the board.

Robert Hervey

Dr. Robert C. Hervey, Cass City veterinarian, seeking the four-year post, has been a resident of Cass City for the past six years.

"I've always been interested in education," he explains. "The school is the most important enterprise in the area... it's time some of us take an active interest in running the school and the people we hire to educate them."

The father of three children, he served in the Navy during the war and in the Air Force after the war. He is a member of the Veterinary Medical Association and enjoys reading as a hobby.

Elwyn Helwig

A lifelong resident of the village, Elwyn Helwig is also running for the four-year post. A Cass City High School graduate, he is the father of three children.

Active in church and community affairs, he is Elkland township fire department secretary, Thumb Investment Club vice-president, First Baptist Church trustee and a member of the Village Planning Commission. He served in Korea with the Army medical corps.

"I think that every citizen should do his duty," he states in explaining his candidacy. "I have young children in school and I feel that people with children should be on the Board."

Program Every Friday

Cass City shoppers should have a gala time this summer as retailers of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce originated the most ambitious summer program ever to hit the village. Details were concluded at a special meeting at the New Gordon Hotel, Monday.

There will be prizes galore and entertainment every Friday night starting June 15... and it's all free.

The first phase of the program starts Monday morning when participating member stores in the Chamber of Commerce will have tickets to pass out to area shoppers.

The tickets will be used in a summer-long weekly prize drawing that will see a bike go to the lucky ticket holder each week.

The first drawing will be Friday, June 15, in the parking lot adjacent to the former Ideal Plumbing and Heating Co. building. The drawings are slated for 9:30 p.m.

Immediately after the drawing, free musical entertainment will feature live music. Free dancing under the stars will be another weekly event.

As a grand finale at the end of the summer, a huge jack pot of prizes will be given away. Tickets placed in boxes in merchants' stores will all be saved until the end of the drawings so that every ticket deposited will provide the owner with a chance at all the prizes. Tickets will not be destroyed every week. To win, ticket holders must attend the drawing.

Keith McConkey, president of the retail division, appointed several businessmen to committees to ramrod the summer program to a successful conclusion.

In charge of tickets and their distribution are Joe Riley, Bill Hunter and Jim Shagena.

In charge of the band and related entertainment are Ken Eisinger, Warren Kelley, Dick Erla and Cliff Ferguson.

Other Business

In other business, members present expressed satisfaction with the start achieved towards new street lights and sidewalks in the community.

From the Editor's Corner

An interesting statistic revealed this week by Tuscola County Clerk Archie Hicks shows just how much Cass City's hospitals mean to the economy of the community.

The clerk says that 70 per cent of the births and deaths that occur in Tuscola county are in Cass City.

The reason for this lopsided figure in comparison to population is the number of non-residents who use the community's medical facilities.

Local doctors have large followings and patients are brought here by physicians from Caro and other communities.

The village dump is open on Saturday afternoons instead of Thursday afternoons. The sign at the dump entrance is confusing because the village fathers have not yet found time to repaint it to conform with the new regulations.

One of the older promotions (and one of the best) by a small town is the Chesaning Showboat. The show, a nonprofit venture sponsored by the Chesaning Chamber of Commerce, continues to be a major event.

Sponsors say that record crowds are expected for the show, July 9-14, again this year. Applications are being taken now for a queen contest and amateur show which is open to anyone in Michigan.

List Iron As Fire Cause

An unattended electric iron was tentatively listed by Elkland township firemen as the cause of an estimated $1,000 fire Friday noon at the Charles Parker home northeast of Cass City.

Damage was extensive throughout the living room and the upstairs directly over the living room where the fire apparently started. Numerous pieces of furniture were destroyed and smoke damage was severe throughout the rest of the two-story house.

Ironically, the Parkers had intended to move to a new apartment in Cass City, Sunday, Mrs. Parker and her two children were at the new home when the fire occurred.

Firemen answered the call at about 11:45 a.m. and fast action kept the fire from spreading throughout the house. Heat from the blaze was so intense that paint on the outside door jambs bubbled.

Rash of Accidents Hit Area Over Long Holiday Week End

A rash of holiday accidents and traffic violations struck the village and area during the Memorial Day holiday, according to reports filed by Cass City and State Police officers.

Accidents included a motorcycle-car collision and two one-car accidents. A Decker man was also fined on a reckless driving charge.

A Cass City woman was released from Hills and Dales General Hospital Saturday, following treatment of injuries sustained in an accident the preceding Thursday at the east limits of Gagetown.

Injured when the car in which she was an occupant went out of control and hit a utility pole was Mrs. Myra L. Jordan, 36, Cass City.

According to a report from Dr.

H. T. Donahue, attending physician, she was admitted to the hospital Thursday night suffering from shock, nose and lip abrasions and bruises to both knees.

The accident, according to a state police report, occurred when Mrs. Jordan's husband, Frank, 41, lost control of his automobile as it was being pushed by another car.

An accident Memorial Day at the corner of M-81 and Schwegler road, sent Kay Mark, 16, and Ronald Gretz, 18, to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment of cuts and abrasions.

The accident happened at 3:30 p.m. when the motorcycle driven by Gretz, on which Miss Mark was a rider, struck the rear end of a car driven by Clayton Karr, 25. The car was attempting a left turn onto Schwegler road from M-81. Both vehicles were going east.

Gretz, unable to stop, slid the motorcycle 72 feet, according to Police Chief Carl Palmateer who investigated the accident. Gretz and Miss Mark were thrown from the motorcycle.

Saturday afternoon, John Thomas Craig, 17, Cass City, lost control of a late model car he was driving and the vehicle struck the Cass River bridge, south of the village limits.

The right front fender of the car was damaged in the collision. Gordon Bigham, also of Cass City, was an occupant in the car. Chief Palmateer and Officer Bill McKinley investigated.

Gary B. Fifield, Decker, pleaded guilty to reckless driving charges Saturday in Justice Court and paid fines and costs of $29.30.

Fifield, 22, was charged with reckless driving on Third Street Friday night in a complaint filed by Third Street residents. He was brought into court by Chief Palmateer.

Waterfowl "Sitting Targets" For Shoreline Developments

Waterfowl have received added protection during recent hunting seasons as part of a plan to build up their low numbers. Needed now to carry the plan through are measures which will safeguard today's waterfowl wetlands as places where these birds can rest, feed, and raise their young in future years. In Michigan, waterfowl are finding more and more of their precious wetland homes being buried, bulldozed away, or otherwise wiped out by unregulated shoreline fills, dredgings, and similar man-made changes. New bills will be introduced this year by a joint legislative interim committee to curb these losses and allow for orderly shoreline development to meet all water-use needs—for industry, recreation, and other, as well as wildlife. In general, the bills are designed to clarify public and private rights and to control fills, dredgings, and other such developments in Michigan's Great Lakes and inland waters. Public support of these measures would, among other things, mean "Waterfowl for the Future by Conservation of Wetlands which Benefit Man and Wildlife," this year's theme of National Wildlife Week, Mar. 18-24.

In response to a question about the feeling of the two districts in regard to annexing to Cass City at a later date, neither board could answer.

In other business, the board voted to send plans and an estimated cost on the proposed special education room to the County Board of Education for approval.

An earlier drawing and estimate of $24,000 was turned down. The room, if approved, will be ready for use by next fall.

Board members were reminded that the annual school board meeting is Monday, June 11, at 8:00 p.m. in the High School gym.

Superintendent Willis Campbell also reported that there are still two teaching vacancies in high school English and biology.

GRAHAM CASE

Concluded from page one. He also claimed that the high court had no authority to take such action, according to the statutes and state constitution. He charged, too, that his suspension was not by the "due process of the law."

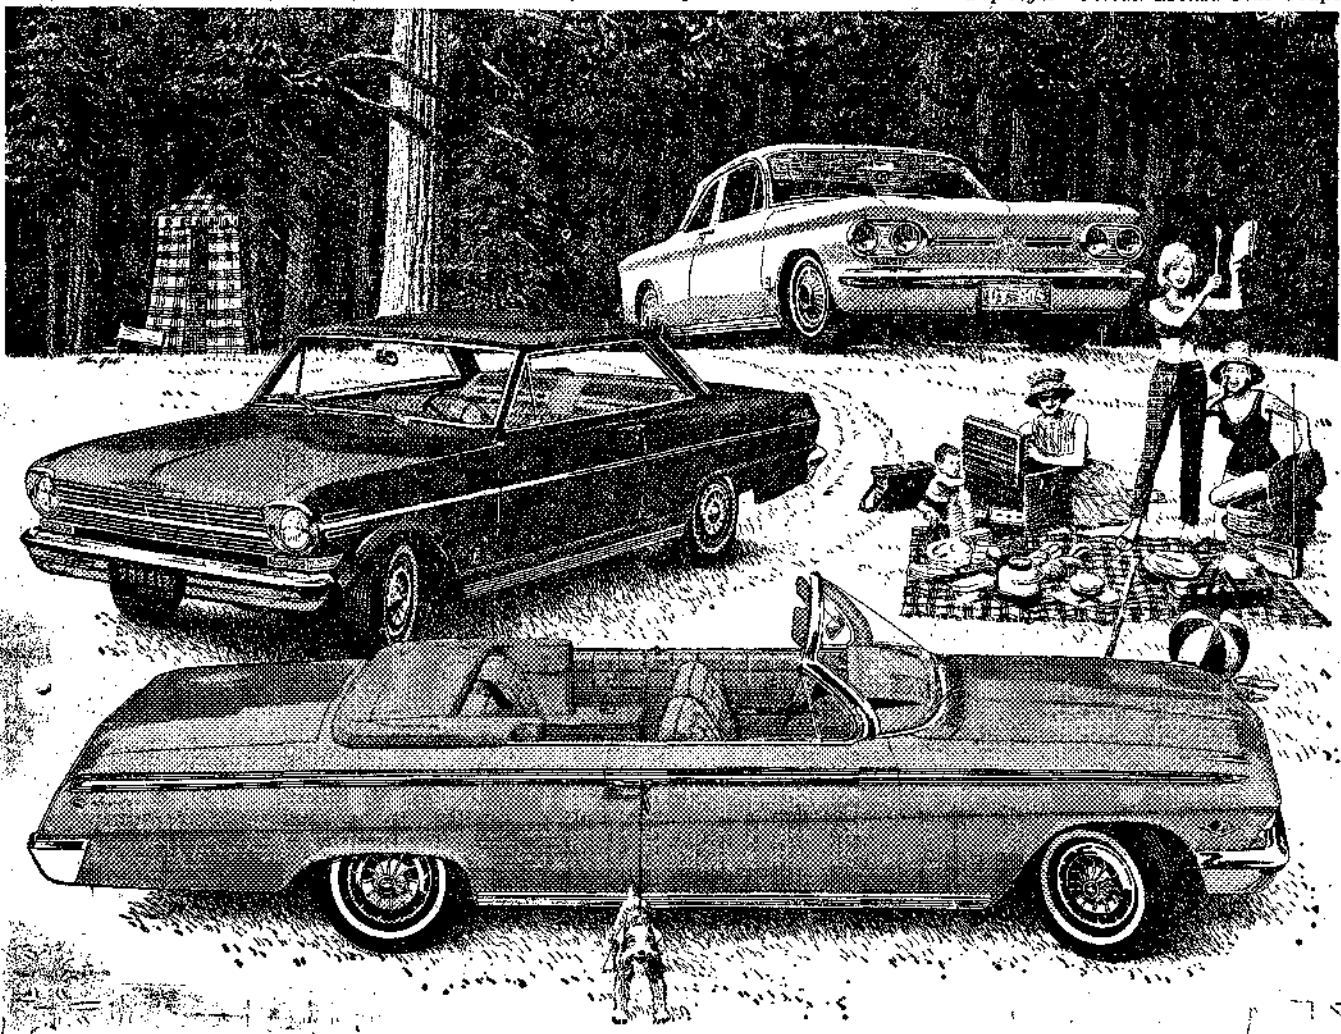

Graham, in an interview, intimated that if the motion fails, the next step will be the Federal courts.

GOOD BRAKES ARE GOOD HORSE SENSE

BULEN TALKS Cars

SAVING BEGINS AT HOME

If you are thinking of buying a new or used car, the best common sense counsel you can follow is to buy it locally from a reputable dealer.

Despite the simple economic logic of this advice though, many well-intentioned and otherwise sensible folks will drive fifty miles, and more to "save" fifty dollars.

Exceptions to this rule make sense when a motorist knows an out-of-town dealer in whom he has complete confidence. Or when he has real reason to complain of service in his own locality. A small price difference by itself, however, is seldom a wise justification for purchasing a car outside of your own town or city.

An out-of-town buyer should expect to trade for less because the dollar difference must frequently be expended in other ways: Paying for service that would normally be free at your selling dealer's, traveling costs and loss of time in warranty adjustments.

It is virtually standard practice among many dealers to trade off questionable cars to out-of-town buyers so as to protect their local reputation. These cars are sometimes priced below market averages but they are not bargains. If they were the kind of automobile that the dealer knows would create satisfaction for their owners and good will for himself, the dealer would sell them locally where he knows has to make good on service requirements.

Your local dealer is sharing your community tax burden and frequently the worthwhile work of service clubs and local charity efforts. If he wishes to stay in business, he knows he has to earn and keep your trust and patronage. It's just sound good sense to consider him first for your car needs.

Set Church Loop Softball Schedule

The 12-team Church Softball League is poised and ready to kick off the season that will include games three times weekly during the summer months.

The season will start Monday, June 18, when the Argyle-Cass City Baptists are pitted against the Decker Methodists at 7 p.m. and the Cass River United Missionary plays the Lamotte United Missionary in the 9 p.m. night-cap.

The schedule calls for two games Monday, Tuesday and Friday nights through Aug. 17.

Rained out games will be carded on Saturday nights. All games are slated at the softball diamond at Cass City Recreation Park.

The Baptists are defending league and play-off champions. However, in the church league this means little... champions seldom repeat due to the age limit for pitchers and changing personnel of teams.

The schedule was arranged at a meeting recently at the Presbyterian Church. Officers were elected. President is Joe Mellen-dorf, who replaces Ken Eisinger, and Secretary-Treasurer Gary Kelley, who takes over from Bill Ruhl.

The teams in the league and the schedule are:

1. Argyle-Cass City Baptist	2. Shabbona Methodist	3. Cass River United Missionary	4. Gagetown Nazarene	5. Deford Methodist	6. Church of Christ	7. Cass City Presbyterian	8. Cass City Catholics	9. Cass City Methodists	10. Grant-Fraser	11. Decker Methodist	12. Lamotte United Missionary

Research: Pathway to Better Fishing

Proud of today's progress and working for more sport tomorrow is the Conservation Department's fishery research program which will earn its share of the spotlight on "Science and Technology" during Michigan Week, May 20-26. Over the years, research has led to stream improvement, chemical control of stunted fish populations, and other measures which have helped sport fishing. A biologist holds up two jars containing bluegills of the same age to show how chemical work, backed by research, is increasing the growth rate of fish in many treated lakes. In the left jar are stunted bluegills taken from a lake which had more fish than it could handle. In the other jar are big-size bluegills which came from a lake after it had been treated to cancel out over-crowding. Despite its advances, research has many new and old challenges to meet, both in inland waters and the Great Lakes. Behind continued public support, it will come up with new ways to provide this generation's grandchildren with good fishing.

Parks Program Making Progress

Recreationists will discover some big changes when they wheel into their favorite state parks this summer. Since last fall, some $1.3 million worth of new construction projects have been contracted under Michigan's parks permit-bonding program. Most of these are already underway and many more capital improvements are scheduled to start shortly as a result of a recent $2 million bond sale. At some parks, projects have been completed and will be open for business during the 1962 season. The bulk of contracted improvements, however, will not be ready for use until 1963. This summer's busy schedule of work is going to produce some inconveniences in parks; the same sort of things you might expect if your own home were being remodeled. Progress is being made, however, to provide better facilities and more elbow room for the years ahead. Nearly $850,000 has been spent to acquire key park lands under the permit-bonding program.

Hearing Tests to Continue in Co.

The year's hearing testing program in Tuscola County schools was reviewed Thursday by the committee in charge at the courthouse in Caro, where members learned that a total of 5,806 children had been screened.

The program revealed that 115 children needed treatment. Mrs. Lucy Miller, county health nurse, reports that most of the children have already received medical attention and that the few remaining will receive care during the summer months.

The committee accepted the resignation of Mrs. Lillian Yedinak and said that her position is now open. Some college training and experience in working with children are required. A special training program is given at Wayne University.

Interested persons should contact W. A. Scott, county superintendent of schools.

It is expected that the hearing conservation service will continue uninterrupted next year.

Order Investigation In Forgery Case

Lyle Decker Jr., Caro, pleaded guilty to forgery when arraigned before Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn Thursday, May 31, during a court session at the Caro courthouse.

Decker allegedly forged and cashed a $50.00 check in Vassar on April 24. He made the check payable to himself and signed the name Nelson Briggs.

The check was cashed by a Vassar businessman.

Judge Quinn ordered a pre-arresting investigation and set Wednesday, June 13, as the date for Decker's next appearance in court.

The investigating officer in the case was Sheriff's Deputy Larry Tomlinson.

DEFORD

FIRE AFTERMATH—Eikland township firemen examine an electric iron believed responsible for an estimated $1,000 fire Friday, June 1, at the Charles Parker home northeast of Cass City. A number of pieces of furniture were lost in the blaze, and smoke damage was extensive throughout the two-story home, owned by Fred Iseler. Examining the iron are Fritz Neitzel, Joe Gruber and Eldon Stoutenburg. (Chronicle photo.)

Interest Lags In Evergreen School Election

BULLETIN: At an Evergreen township school board session early this week, incumbent Mary Joyce McNaughton filed a petition seeking re-election to the three-year post she now holds. Because she and incumbent Otis Dorland, who filed a petition earlier, have no opposition, they automatically retain their positions.

Contrasting Cass City's active race for two open school posts is the uncontested stand-still for an open post on the Evergreen township school board.

Whether the township school electors will be called on to pick a school board member at their annual meeting Monday, June 11, depends on the decision of the retiring board members, according to Milton Fox, board president.

Open is the three-year post currently held by Mary Joyce McNaughton, Evergreen township. She was appointed to the position last year to fill a vacancy.

As of a meeting Thursday, May 31, she had not declared herself in regard to the post, and no applications for the office had been received. The purpose of the meeting was to review applications and to line up business for the annual meeting.

Fox reports that if there is no opposition for the post, and Mrs. McNaughton decides to run, she will be automatically elected.

If she chooses not to run, nominations will be taken at the annual meeting.

Resourceful men do not pull problems down to their level—they rise up to conquer them.

New Type Combine

A new cone-type combine can give farmers nearly 100 per cent grain threshing and separating efficiency. The experimental machine has been developed by W. F. Buchele and W. F. Lalor, agricultural engineers at Michigan State University.

The engineers say the machine works like a giant perforated metal ice cream cone with an egg beater in it. The "egg beater" is also cone-shaped to fit snugly inside the ice cream cone.

When the combine is operating, rubber-covered beaters rotate the grain in the cone and cause it to rub against the cone's screen-like surface. The crop enters at the small end of the cone and the straw is pushed out the large end. The grain pops through the screen in the threshing process.

According to Buchele, the big advantage of the cone-type combine over conventional machines is that 95 to 98 per cent of the grain is threshed and separated in the cone. That's because the grain travels a spiral path, causing it to remain in the cone 20 times longer than in most machines.

In ordinary combines about 60 to 80 per cent of the material is threshed and separated in the cylinder. The rest is separated on the straw rack.

Buchele says farmers can use a smaller, cone-type machine because no straw rack is needed. Secondly, less power will be needed because the machine does not have to operate as fast as conventional machines. And finally, grain quality will probably be improved by cone-type combining.

On conventional machines, the cylinder bar hits the grain head and depends on impact to separate and thresh the grain. The cone-type combine goes at a slower speed and uses more of a rubbing action to do the job.

It's much easier to win friends if you refrain from trying to influence people.

Accidents and Fires Expensive For Farm Families

Accidents and fire cost farm families about one seventh of their net income, according to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer. Michigan farmers lose about $300,000 per month in fires and farm-work mishaps alone.

"Of course, you cannot put a dollar value on the hundreds of people who die each year in farm catastrophes," Pfister continues. "Especially tragic are the 100 children under 14 years of age who have lost their lives in machinery accidents since 1950. Forty-four of these were under nine years old."

Too many people feel accidents occur by chance or because of some supernatural event. Actually, they are usually natural results of careless, forgetful disregard for safety. It's really an "accident" when someone disregards a safe practice and escapes injury, Pfister said.

The safety picture is improving. Fatal farm-work mishaps have declined one fourth since 1956 while farm production went up. Fatalities per 1,000 farm workers declined 15 per cent in that time.

Pfister has seen evidence that young men are becoming more safety conscious. FFA, 4-H and other youth safety programs are paying off. Michigan men between 20 and 24 years of age have only half as many fatal tractor accidents as do men between 35 and 39.

"A person is on the road to safety when he realizes accidents don't happen just to the 'other guy,'" Pfister believes.

Area Persons Among CMU Graduating Class

A 1957 graduate of Bronson

High School, Bronson, he majored in science and history at Western and is slated to receive his BS and secondary teaching certification.

He is also slated to receive his BS and secondary teaching certification during the ceremonies.

The two will be members of WMU's largest graduating class and are among 481 persons to receive BS degrees.

Cass City Area Church Notes in Brief

Hospital Auxiliary In Regular Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary Monday evening, May 28, in the hospital building, Mrs. H. T. Donahue led an informative discussion of the proposed King-Anderson bill on Medicare and of the Kerr Mills medical care bill now in effect.

During the business meeting, Secretary Mrs. G. Murray reported on the East Central District annual meeting and workshop for Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, held May 16 at the Midland Hospital in Midland, which she and seven other members attended. The delegation participated in the lecture series offered and was taken on a tour of the host hospital.

In other business, the group approved the appointments of Mrs. N. Hurry, Mrs. H. Bulen and Mrs. R. Palm to a committee to investigate the possibilities of the group sponsoring a bridge tournament in the near future. All interested parties are invited to contact these committeemen.

Church School Starts Monday

Vacation Church School classes are slated to start Monday, June 11, with classes running from 9:00 to 11:00 a. m. daily, according to a report from Presbyterian Pastor John Fish.

The theme for all three departments of the two-week school is "The Bible."

An estimated 180 reminder cards have been sent to the children of the Presbyterian, Methodist and EUB churches by Mrs. Fritz Neitzel, school director.

Mrs. Neitzel has also extended an invitation to all other children in the community to participate in the interdenominational school.

An offering will be taken each

Thursday for the support of the Tuscola County Migrant Mission work. On Tuesday of the second week of the school, the children will be asked to bring clothing or toys to give to the Migrant Mission.

Kindergarten classes will meet at the Methodist Church, Primary classes at the Presbyterian Church and Junior classes will be held at the EUB Church.

Knowledge is power only when hatched to the right theory.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

It's Likely to be A Family Tragedy

By Dave Kraft

By the time you read this, a great tragedy may have struck my household.

It's not the type of thing one likes to talk about. Most people file such things in the family closets under "skeleton." If word gets around, I know we'll never live it down.

Our goldfish is trying to commit suicide!

He keeps jumping out of his bowl. I know it sounds silly but it's true.

The other day, I found him lying on the floor, apparently lifeless and sticky like fish get when left out of water.

I picked him up gently, tearfully. Just as I was going to commit his earthly body to the village sanitary system, he gave a couple of quick flips.

I quickly ran back into the living room and dropped him into the bowl. He started swimming just as if he had never been out of the water.

When I told my wife about it, she patted me on the head, smiled and said, "Yes, dear."

A few days later, I received a frantic call at the office from my wife.

"The goldfish jumped out of the bowl again!" she screamed. It was the same situation. She dropped him back in and off he took.

We are at our wit's ends. No one knows what to do.

I've tried talking to him, but he just blows bubbles at me. Right now, I have my wife stationed near the bowl with a stick. She has instructions to crack him one if he tries it again, but she has to sleep sometime.

I've thought of taking him to a psychiatrist, but few of them work under water. There's also the possibility that I'd end up as a patient.

I've noticed one peculiarity about his antics. He always seems to be heading for the bathroom.

I'll tell him one thing. If he thinks he's going to share the bathtub with me, he's got another sink coming.

*****
We spent Memorial Day at the annual gathering of the clan. Each year on May 30 all the members on my father's-in-law side gather in Vassar.

Actually, I don't think they are on anybody's side, particularly at the table. It's every man for himself and starvation take the hind one.

You know what reunions are. That's where everyone finds out who got married, who didn't get married and . . .

Getting back to the table (and who left it?), the meal was fantastic!

I have never seen so many varieties of food prepared in so many different ways.

Of course, the staple was chicken - barbecued, roasted, baked, fried, fricasseed. Some joker even had a live chicken tied to the table leg with a "do-it-yourself" sign on it.

All that food certainly looked good, but who knows? I never got a bite.

It was the passing of plates that did it.

There were so many dishes of food that I never even got close to my plate. My arms felt as if I'd been chopping wood all day long when it was over.

I lost my fork three times during the shuffle and once I passed my plate by mistake and before I could get it back, they'd picked it clean.

The tragedy of the affair is that it happens only once a year and you never really get to know anyone.

I kept calling one fellow "Uncle Tom" and it wasn't until the end of the day that I found out he was "Aunt Grace."

My mother-in-law is still in a tizzy. She has three children, ages two to five, that aren't hers. I guess it all balances out, though. Somebody has her nine-year-old daughter.

Democracy develops individual initiative, and builds a pyramid of character.

THE SQUEEZE

People don't worry about taking their money with them today—the problem is to make it stretch while they are here.

Services Held for Charles Silvernail

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Caro Evangelical Church for Charles P. Silvernail, 64, following his death earlier at Hills and Dales Hospital.

Born September 6, 1897, in Kingston, he was a lifelong resident of Tuscola county. He married the former Leta M. Ostrander, February 7, 1923, in Deford.

Mr. Silvernail was assistant plant manager at the Caro plant of the Michigan Sugar Company. He had been employed by the company for 37 years.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: two daughters, Mrs. Bryce Bitterling, Snover, and Mrs. Kenneth Ball, Harrison, and three sons, Charles Jr., Mayville, and Carl and Francis, both of East Lansing.

Also surviving are 11 grandchildren; a brother, Ray, Snover, and three sisters, Mrs. Edna Van Horen and Mrs. Boyd Jarvis, both of Kingston, and Mrs. Mary Rickwalt, Caro.

Rev. Donald Thomson, Holt, and Rev. M. H. Willard, Caro, officiated at the services and interment was in Ellington Cemetery.

CASS CITY INDUSTRY SAYS: Congratulations Graduates

We join your family, friends and this entire community in wishing each of you well in whatever endeavor you may plan for the future. Your graduation is an important achievement and, if you want it to be, the first step toward greater ones.

We would also impress upon you the importance of this day for another reason. Education, as we know it, is the foundation of democracy and the American concept of liberty. James Russell Lowell expressed it eloquently: "It was in making education not only common to all, but in some sense compulsory on all, that the destiny of the free republics of America was practically settled."

In other words, only an educated people treasure and strive for freedom. Contrary to what the propagandists preach, the great masses of the communist world are not educated. The selected few are allowed to continue their education after elementary school and enter a profession of their choice. You, on the other hand, have a free choice and thus become the master of your own destiny. You are, then, the master of the destiny of your country. What it will become in the next two or three decades depends almost entirely upon you. To keep your heritage, your freedom, and self respect will require your greatest effort. We wish you well and ask God's blessing upon your endeavors.

WANDERING WITH WARREN

I Loved the "National Geographic"

By Ilene Warren

In last week's column the National Geographic magazine was mentioned in connection with Charles A. Lindbergh's world-famous flight. Issues of this magazine were a source of endless entertainment and education for me when a child.

My sister May was a school-teacher and subscribed to this magazine. Copies were stacked on a shelf in the upstairs of our home. I was permitted, while still at a tender age, to bring one or two at a time down to the kitchen to look at them under supervision. One of my favorites was an issue that contained colored illustrations of pigeons. I grew to recognize the outside of this particular issue and chose it most often to bring downstairs. As I grew older, full permission to use the magazines without supervision was given and many moments of pleasure and enlightenment were mine because these magazines were available in the home.

Some people have such literal minds. In a recent column my love of "purr wee beasties" was mentioned. Someone asked: does that include mosquitoes and flies? Ah, lackaday. In one word: no.

There has been discussion regarding the dredging of the south branch of the Cass River and possibly the east branch. The thought of having our "front yard" messed up is rather disconcerting - however, one has to look to the future and to consider what is best for all. If dredging will decrease the possibility of flooding, well, I guess it will receive an aye vote, albeit reluctantly, from me.

But what will happen to my concrete steps? How long before I will again be able to sit at the water's edge to idle away some lazy moments that could be put to more productive but less soothing use?

On Tuesday night of last week, my niece and I went to my sister Mary's home to watch the Jerry Lewis Show on TV. While we were there a thunderstorm made quite a racket. I thought to myself, "Wonder if Lass will push through the gate of the pen."

Lass is one of our collies and is terribly afraid of thunderstorms - probably due to a traumatic experience she had when she was a year old (lightning ripped into our utility room where it shredded the protective coating on the electrical wiring and the dogs were in the room).

When we arrived home, Pride met us at the gate... but no Lass. I drove up to the corner (where we found her twice before - she has a tendency to wander when she breaks out of the pen while we're away) but couldn't find her. We've searched for her - spread the word about her - but to no avail. I wouldn't mind if I were certain she's at some home with kids to give her lots of attention but it's the thought of her wandering lost in the woods that bothers me. Pride wanders about as though he were lonely, too... but he's certainly been "King of the Castle" - he gets all the attention!

PRIMROSE PATH

More good resolutions could be kept if men wouldn't allow their bad habits to grow and multiply.

HIGH COST

The world does allow people to have their own way, but they must be willing to pay the price.

IN A RUT

Borrowing money to get on his feet sometimes leaves a man with a loan shark on his hands.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:
I see by the papers where the Civil War is about to break out again between our Yankee and Confederate Senators in Washington. One Yankee Senator, allowed as how the South, except for her ancestry, cotton, football and the Miss America contest, didn't have much future. A Confederate Senator replied that if the North didn't quit trying to run the South's business, the Confederates were going to have to take another pot shot at Fort Sumter.

Such goings on in the capital of the nation! It's a great pity we ain't got more United States Senators and less Yankee and Confederate Senators in Washington. I recollect reading about a sign a feller in Florida had out in front of his tourist cafe. It said: "Confederate Cooking Yankee Style." Now there was a real diplomat, a feller that belongs in the U. S. Senate.

Sometimes I think all our Senators talks too much. I recollect once, when somebody ask Cal Coolidge why he was known as "Silent Cal," said he had found out early in life that a feller never had to explain something he never said. I reckon that's good advice for all of us, especially the wimmen folks. Clem Webster was telling the fellers at the country store Saturday night about the time he took his old lady to the doctor and the doctor put a thermometer in her mouth and told her to keep it shut for five minutes. Clem said them was the most enjoyable five minutes he ever spent, said he ask the doctor what he'd take fer that dad-burned thing.

After the fellers got all the world problems settled Saturday night, they got around to discussing Liz Taylor. On account of the language they was using, I'm mighty glad Zeke Grubb's piencer didn't drop by fer a spell. About the last we heard from the good Parson, he was gitting ulcers, and if he'd been there Saturday night he would have got ulcers deluxe. According to some of the fellers, Liz has announced she ain't planning another marriage right soon. Ed Doolittle allowed as how they wasn't much planning to her other four and he couldn't see how number five would need none. And that, Mister Editor, is about all they said about Liz that you could put in a family newspaper.

Well, politics fer the November elections has got started pritty good. If we got to have a drought this would be a good year fer it. With about half the crop work eliminated by a drought, farmers and ranchers would have more time to spend on politics and the Government would have to worry less about the surplus. We got plenty of candidates around the country but not many issues. It's like the cafe owner that told a customer, "We ain't got nothing today but ham and eggs, but we can offer you a fine choice of waitresses."

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Early Hay Harvest Gives More Profit

Early-cut hay means added milk check profits whether stored in the silo or in the barn. Now is the time to gather these profits, remarks Don R. Kebler, county extension agent in agriculture.

Research has shown that early-cut forage is normally more digestible, higher in protein, more palatable and produces more milk than forage cut in later stages of bloom.

Cows like early-cut forages and milk records show it. Increased milk production is the result of not only higher digestibility, but also of increased consumption since cows prefer it.

Dairymen should plan to start harvesting when the stand reaches one-tenth bloom. This is usually during the last week of May or early June. Haymaking should be finished before the crop reaches the half-bloom stage. But extremely early harvesting -- before the bud stage -- can damage the stand and lower the yields of future crops, Kebler cautions.

Early-cut hay is difficult to dry without a hay drier. Only two of the past 11 seasons were good for field drying hay during the first three weeks of June. With a mechanical hay drier using unheated air, at least six harvesting days could have been added to more than one-half of these haying seasons.

About 20 Michigan dairymen stored low-moisture silage or "haylage" in conventional-type silos last year and with excellent results. However, this is recommended only for the careful operator.

Kebler suggests that dairymen start putting low-moisture silage in the silo when the moisture content of the crop is around 60-65 per cent. It is safe to continue filling until the moisture level drops to about 30 per cent.

For best results, low moisture silage should be stored only in a silo which is tightly sealed.

Seal the doors and be sure there are no cracks in the silo wall to admit air.

One of the biggest problems with making this low moisture product is determining the correct moisture range. This can be accurately done with moisture de-

Forty-one years ago, when a wooden bridge still spanned the deadwaters of the Cass River in Evergreen township, there was built the Mispah Mennonite Church. For over two score years this church and its pastors have been ministering to the spiritual needs of this community. That

$1 Million Would Boost Educational Television

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Educational television in Michigan could take a giant step forward if $1 million in funds is found to further the goal of establishing a statewide network.

A federal law recently signed by President Kennedy included a $32 million appropriation designated for distribution to states on a matching basis to promote educational television.

Michigan has been among the top states in the use of educational television, said Paul Lutzeier, director of information and educational services for the department of State.

Lutzeier has been chairman of a "Working Committee for Educational Television" for the past three years. He previously was on the administrative staff at Wayne State University, where he was familiar with the educational television work done there.

About July 1 a number of plans will be submitted to Washington which could result in creation of several new educational television stations. Approved plans can be put into effect without appropriation of additional funds by the state legislature.

Progress reports will be held at MSU's Kiva June 13. The public as well as interested groups is welcome to attend.

Michigan's "Big Three" colleges and universities, Michigan State, Michigan and Wayne State, have been involved in educational TV projects for several years.

At the present time several others of the state-supported institutions are involved in it, as are several individual school districts around the state, Lutzeier said.

"If educators throughout the state are alert and submit sound proposals for setting up educational television facilities, Michigan stands a good chance of getting a million dollars of the federal appropriations," he said.

Industrial centers in the state should emulate Boston and Cambridge, Mass., if Michigan is to hold its youth here in the future, according to a Detroit research consultant.

Aaron J. Blumberg contends that reliance on the auto industry to provide jobs which will encourage Michigan's young people to remain in their home state is now outdated, just as dependence on farms, mines and lumber camps became outmoded some years ago.

"Future employment expansion in Michigan will depend on brain-power rather than muscle-power," he said. "Perhaps the Detroit and other metropolitan areas hold our last and best hope for keeping the flower of Michigan youth in our own state."

Competition for the "most sophisticated" of the nation's industries, those which employ high proportions of college-trained people and have the power to stimulate higher levels of employment and incomes, requires attractions, Blumberg said.

Among the attractions are things which only a large city or metropolitan area can provide: cultural activities, big league ball clubs, outstanding chapters of professional societies and extensive educational facilities.

"The new image which the Detroit-Ann Arbor-Lansing areas must emulate is that of Boston and Cambridge," Blumberg said. "Boston was once a thriving manufacturing center. Now it is reaching ever new heights of employment and income as a producer, user and exporter of brain-power."

The campaign is on! Michigan's long Legislative session will soon be ending and the political heat will increase after that, but the pressure has already started.

Sure signs of the campaign beginnings are the changes of tone in speeches.

At the beginning of this year, Gov. John B. Sawinson said he was "ready for the fight" with the Legislature. When his tax proposals came under fire in actual debate, however, his speeches tended to lean away from any strong words which would induce anger among lawmakers.

With his fiscal reform program dead now, Swainson has returned to the familiar charges of "fiscal irresponsibility," "careless disregard of the people's needs," and other similarly strong statements.

During the Constitutional Convention, delegate George Romney said he was too busy with the business at hand to participate in "politics."

Now Romney, Swainson's likely GOP opponent, is a little more subtle in his use of words, but he is getting in nearly daily blasts at the Democratic administration in both Lansing and Washington.

Like all other politicians, each is sure he has the answers if only the state would listen.

One peculiarity to be watched closely in this fall's campaign will be the two top candidates' views on fiscal reform. Each has voiced the need for reform and, surprisingly, both have proposed in different words basically the same means for achieving reform.

Republican members of the present Legislature aren't entirely convinced the method proposed centered around a state income tax is the desirable answer.

Romney could well face as much trouble with the Legislature as Swainson and his Democratic predecessor had in attempting to gain approval of such a program.

Four County 4-H'ers To Visit Tennessee

Four 4-H Service Club members will be going to visit Bradley county, Tennessee, this month as part of their People-to-People program.

The trip has a three-fold purpose: (1) to learn something of our southern neighbors' culture, (2) their agriculture and industry and (3) to tell them of Michigan's agriculture and industry. While in Tennessee they will be living with other 4-H members, and will not be considered guests but as members of the family.

Also, during their stay in Tennessee, they will serve all Michigan dinner to the Kwanis Club of Cleveland. The food is being supplied by Michigan farmers.

Those taking part in the people-to-people program this year are: Fred Ruppert, Margaret Finn, Ann Nellett and Larry Merchant. Ed Schrader, county extension agent in 4-H club work, will accompany the group.

Success is the world's reward for many little things well done.

The man who reforms, and then boasts of his past, hasn't learned his lesson yet.

The marketing specialists tell us that during 1962 there is going to be a good supply of eggs. In fact, the supply will be a little larger than during 1961. Actually, the number of laying hens will be about the same, but the production per hen is expected to be greater.

The egg business today is operated entirely different from the time when a farmer would have a few chickens as a side line. The up-to-date egg farmer has a very closely controlled operation to maintain high standards and quality. First of all, he buys chickens bred for laying. His flock may well number in the thousands. They are housed in quarters which have the temperature and humidity controlled at all times. In most of the housing, runways are provided to keep the chickens off the floor and it is also equipped with automatic feeding and drinking troughs.

The eggs are gathered several times during the day and refrigerated immediately to maintain quality. They are shipped in refrigerated trucks and sold in the retail market from refrigerated cases.

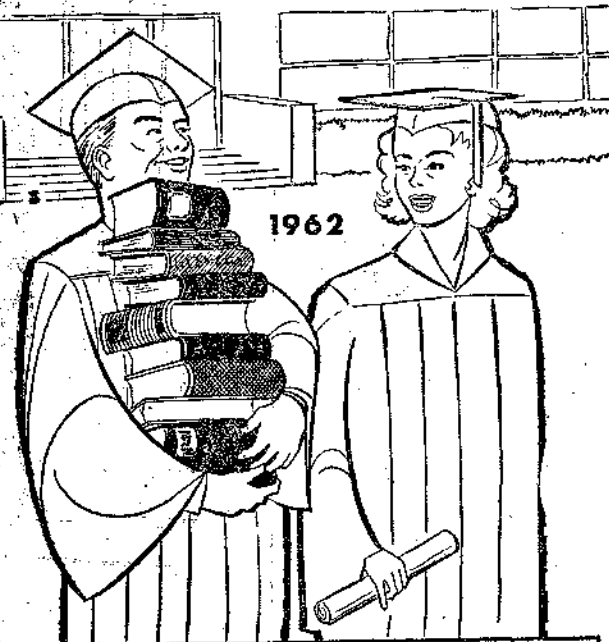

Studies that have been made show that when egg quality deteriorates, it usually happens after the eggs have been purchased by the consumer. It is very important that we get the eggs in the refrigerator at home just as soon as possible. Eggs certainly do not like warm temperatures. Eggs provide very high quality protein and should be in our menus in some form from five to six times a week.

Can you remember what you or your mother used to think about the homemaker that fed her family from the "bought" can away back when? Gone are those days when the homemaker was looked down upon when she fed her family from the "bought" can. Even though food in cans cannot be seen before you purchase it, the label tells you a great deal about the contents of the can. All statements on the label are required by law to be truthful and not misleading. It will tell you the legal name of the product, such as peas, or peaches; the net contents in weight or fluid measure; the name and address of the packer or distributor; and all ingredients in the container. Many packers include more information on the label than that required by law. Be sure to read the label on the can before you buy. It provides a window to the contents of the can. Canned foods, ever ready and convenient, can rightly claim being one of the original pre-packaged convenience foods.

The price we pay for canned food includes the cost of production on the grocery shelf when we want to buy it. It is a year around job for marketing people to keep the grocers' shelves filled with canned foods. Under normal conditions, canned food packed in the summer starts moving to market in the fall of the same year. By the beginning of the new calendar year, the industry, packers, brokers, wholesalers, etc., have decided what their requirements will be for the coming season.

The man with money to burn seldom has occasion to call out the fire department.

For lasting progress we must put our schools into life, and life into our schools.

IT TOOK A HEAP O'LEARNIN'

It also took courage, hard work and determination. We join your family and many friends in sincere congratulations.
