

Fire, Police Alarm System Expensive

When Cass City switches to dial phones Dec. 1, the operator will be gone . . . and missed. Much of her taken-for-granted services will not be adequately replaced by the electronic gadgets of the new system and those that are used will definitely cost the village and Elkland township more money.

These facts were revealed in a lengthy discussion of the police and fire alarm systems sparked by the appearance of Elkland Township Fire Department Chief Al Avery, Elkland Supervisor Ed Golding and Delbert Profit at the village council meeting Tuesday night.

The present fire alarm system costs the taxpayers nothing and the present police alarm system only $5 to $10 a month for toll calls to Caro.

The proposed new alarm system will cost taxpayers about $110 a month, plus installation costs of $65 or more. Preliminary discussions indicate that Elkland Township and the village will share the cost equally.

The System
Replacing the calls to individual firemen and the tripping of the alarm whistle will be two systems.

Twenty special phones will be placed in the homes of the firemen at a cost of $65 for installation and a rental fee of $38 per month. These phones will automatically ring when the fire number is dialed.

For added protection, plans call for a direct wire to the sheriff's office in Caro at a cost of about $72.00 per month. The sheriff would then push the button that would sound the fire whistle when the fire was phoned to him. The sheriff's phone would also automatically ring when fire call was dialed.

The village would use this direct line for police calls. All calls for Chief Carl Palmateer would go directly to the sheriff for relay here. "It is estimated that when dial is installed the present system of handling calls would cost some $35 monthly. The direct line and participation with the fire department would then add only $20 monthly to the village's bill and authorities feel the system would be much better for both departments.

The council voted to have a representative of General Telephone at a special meeting slated for 4 p.m. Friday when the program will be discussed and a definite decision reached.

Swedish Miss to Enroll at School

An attempt to bring a foreign exchange student to Cass City High School for the coming school year will be successfully culminated Sunday, August 19, when attractive 17-year-old Amelie Christina Claus arrives in Detroit by plane from Lidkoping, Sweden.

Miss Claus, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harald Claus, Lidkoping, will spend from August 19 to next July in three different Cass City homes, in conjunction with the "Youth for Understanding" teen-age exchange program.

The trip and her stay in Cass City have been sponsored by the various village clubs and civic organizations, including the Rotary, Lions, Gavel Club, Council of Churchees and the Junior Woman's Club.

The project is under the auspices of a Cass City High School Student Body committee headed by Sherry Law, senior.

At Law Farm

Miss Claus will spend from August to November at the 80-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Law, Sherry's parents. She will spend from November to March at the Warren Kelley home and from March to July with Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Ballard.

Her home town of Lidkoping, population 14,300, is located in the southeastern corner of Sweden. She attends Hogre Allm. Laroverket School and is majoring in biology. She plans to study medicine.

Her grade status is RII-3, equivalent to a senior in the United States. Although she will be a senior at Cass City, she will have to finish her senior year in the Swedish system when she returns. She is currently vice-secretary of the biological society at her school. As hobbies, Miss Claus enjoys riding, dancing and literature.

Predict Light Primary Vote

County and state voters will pick their candidates for the Nov. 6 General Election in Tuesday's, Aug. 7, Primary Election, following one of the most hectic and dramatic campaigns in recent years.

Balloting will take place at the regular polling places from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. For Cass City and Elkland township, this means Precinct No. 1 at the Municipal Building and Precinct No. 2 at the Elkland town hall, Cass City.

In the controversial race for state senator, 20th district, stickers will be used to carry the names of Republican candidates Arthur Dehm, incumbent, and John Ney, Bad Axe. There is no Democratic candidate.

The order to use the stickers was made by Secretary of State James Hare and rescinded an earlier order that the names be blotted out because of a State Supreme Court decision that the State must reapportion. Late last week, the U. S. Supreme Court granted a stay against the reapportionment ruling.

Although interest in the election has picked up in the last few weeks, primarily because of the senate mix-up and the intense campaigning being done in the sheriff and coroner races, County Clerk Archie Hicks is predicting a light vote. Approximately 18,300 persons are registered for the election.

Representative

Vieing for General Election ballot positions for Tuscola County representative post are two Republicans and two Democrats. Republican candidates are incumbent R. Allison Green and Orville F. Hubbard, both of Kingston. On the Democrat ticket for the post are Duane Farnum, Vassar, and Frank J. Balcer, Millington.

Sheriff

Perhaps the most active campaigning is being carried on for the post of sheriff, being left vacant by retiring sheriff William Tomlinson. Four Republicans and one Democrat are on the ballot.

On the Republican slate are: Hugh Marr and Pat Dillon, both of Caro, and both deputies; Gordon Carter, Chief of police; Vassar, and Francis Gleason, Millington. Lone Democratic candidate for the post is Robert Russell, former Vassar police officer.

County Coroner

Coroner J. Benson Collon, Caro, incumbent seeking re-election, is sharing the ballot with three other Republicans and two Democrats in the race for the post.

Other Republicans seeking the post are: Walter E. Harmon, Kingston funeral director, and George W. Clark and Clayton L. Atkins, both Vassar funeral directors. Democratic candidates are: Lee Blackmer and Charles Main, both of Vassar.

No Opposition

The rest of the field are running for their respective positions unopposed.

Incumbent Archie Hicks, Republican, Deford, is pitted against Ivan Middleton, Vassar Justice of the Peace, Democrat, in the race for county clerk.

Republican James J. Epskamp, incumbent, and Democrat Richard F. Kern, Caro lawyer, are unopposed in their bid for the prosecuting attorney post.

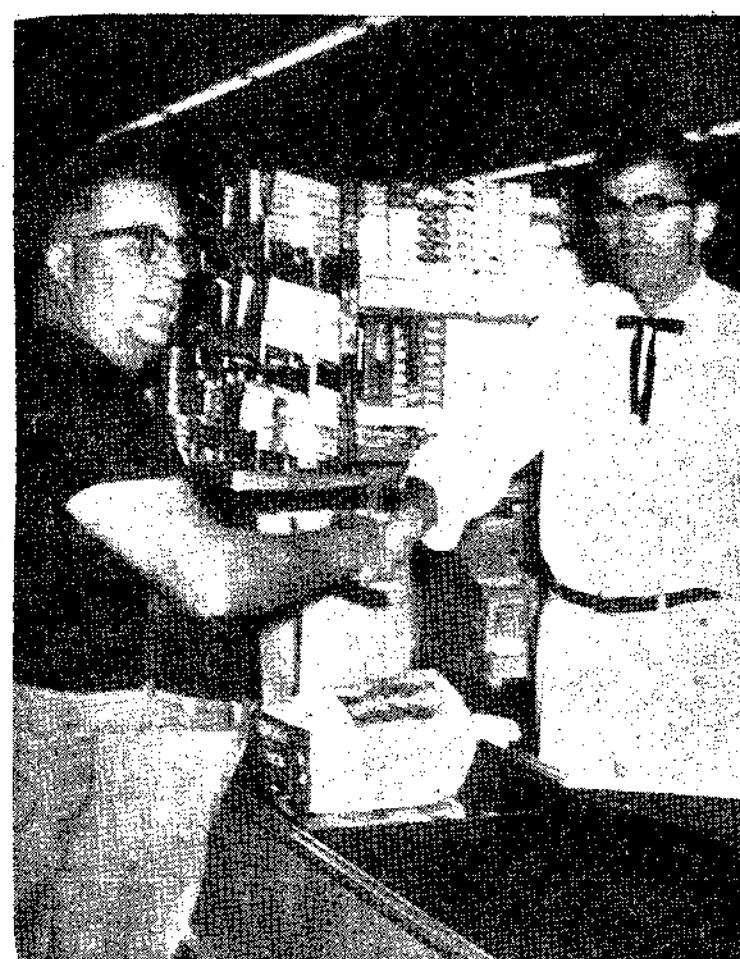

Also unopposed in their bids for the register of deeds nomination are incumbent William J. Profit, Republican, Cass City, and Mildred Hill, Fairgrove, on the Democratic ticket.

Seeking the county treasurer nomination, unopposed, are incumbent Arthur M. Willits, Caro, Republican, and Ursula Stewart, Democrat, Vassar.

Incumbent Drain Commissioner Fredland Sugden, Republican, Mayville, and Charles F. Becker, Akron, Democrat, are unopposed in their bid for nomination for the drain commissioner post.

State Nominees

HARRY LENDA shakes hands with Ervin Karr, the first customer to enter the IGA Foodliner Wednesday morning when the new store opened. The opening capped several months of work and over two years of planning.

The store features all of the latest aids to customer shopping in super markets. Included are 50 feet of new dairy cases, 60 feet of new produce cases, 56 feet of frozen food cases, 72 feet of meat cases and hard surfaced parking for 100 cars.

From the Editor's Corner

We understood from members of the Chamber of Commerce that there had been a definite proposal for the placing of trash containers on Main Street, as suggested by the council. Evidently, somebody goofed as there was no mention of the project at Tuesday's council meeting.

It will now probably be another month before action is taken on a project that everybody seems to be in favor of, but nobody pushes.

The distaff side is getting more and more important. When the story broke this week about George Romney slated in Tuscola County and the Thumb, we rummaged through our files in hopes of coming up with a picture. We found none. The same day we received a two-column and a one-column cut of Mrs. Romney through the mail, but none of the GOP candidate for governor.

Our good neighbors at the Tuscola County Advertiser in Caro solved our problem by lending us one they had on file.

One of the first signs of fall is here. Candidates for Cass City School's football team began informally to throw the ball around at the park this week so as to be ready to make a flying start when practice officially opens under the direction of new head coach Ora Lemanski. Incidentally, Cass City's prospects for a championship are brighter in football than in any other sport for the 1962-63 season.

Proving highly popular in informal games this year has been "Bloopers ball." We predict that it will be the top participating sport in the recreation program next season.

July 30 Popular With Seeger Clan

Mrs. John Seeger, Cass City, has never had any trouble remembering her grandson's, Frank Young, birthday. . . it is the same day as hers, July 30.

Monday, she received word that a son had been born to the Youngs on . . . you guessed it July 30.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, August 4 — George Marshall will hold a machinery and household goods auction at the place six miles south and three miles east of Cass City at 1:00 p.m.

Saturday, August 11 — Gene McCrumb will hold a household, cattle and farm machinery sale at 12:30 p.m. at the place, six miles south and one-fourth mile east of Cass City on Deford Road.

Saturday, August 11 — Mike Skorpada will hold a farm auction at 1:00 p.m. at the place, seven miles northeast of Caro on M-81.

Saturday, August 18 — Dorwin T. Wilkins will hold a farm auction at the place, one and three-fourths miles west of Caro at 2:40 Van Giesen Road.

Death Winner in Race Against Suicide Attempt

Two Tuscola county sheriff's deputies lost a race with death Wednesday, July 25, as they rushed to prevent a 59-year-old Deford man from committing suicide.

The victim was Walter J. Gurbacki, 59, Deford. Coroner Melvin Weisenborn attributed death to a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the chest from a 30-30 rifle. He was pronounced dead at his home, the scene of the shooting.

According to Gene Wilson, deputy, Mrs. Gurbacki telephoned at 9:10 a.m. Wednesday that her husband was threatening to kill himself. Two deputies, Pat Dillon and Larry Tomlinson, investigated but when they arrived at the Gurbacki home, he had already shot himself.

He reportedly had been despondent over ill health.

Funeral services were held Saturday, July 28, at St. Hedwig Catholic Church, Detroit, and interment was in the church cemetery.

Gurbacki was born in Buffalo, N. Y., June 10, 1903. He married Lillian Walls in Buffalo on February 16, 1924. A farmer, he and his wife moved to the Deford area from Detroit seven years ago.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: a daughter, Mrs. William Woodring, Melvindale, and two sons, Richard, Livonia, and Raymond, Melvindale. Six grandchildren also survive.

Three Uninjured In Car Pile-up West of Cass City

A Pigeon man and two Cass City persons escaped injury late Wednesday morning, July 25, when the car in which they were riding went out of control and rolled over into a ditch on a curve on M-81, five miles west of Cass City.

According to a report filed by Sheriff's Deputy Carl Palmateer, the car, driven by David R. Miller, 18, Pigeon, went out of control when a left rear tire came off the wheel.

Occupants in the vehicle were Sue Coykendall and Kay Mark, both of Cass City.

Ugly Man Dies in Two-car Collision

A 77-year-old retired Ugly farmer was killed Saturday noon and another car driven by Carl J. Messing, 22, Minden City, collided as Bukowski was making a left hand turn into his driveway.

Injured in the crash was Messing. Concluded on page two.

Council to Ask for Bids

Set Hearings For Sidewalks

The Cass City Village Council took steps to put the massive downtown sidewalk construction program into orbit Tuesday night at their regular meeting at the Municipal Building.

Trustees voted to advertise for bids to be opened Aug. 20 and to hold a hearing Tuesday, Aug. 21, for affected property owners.

Just what type sidewalks the village will get is still uncertain. Bids will be requested for both concrete and bituminous concrete (asphalt) for eight blocks of sidewalks extending two blocks east and west from Seeger Street.

Asphalt walks have been estimated at about 25 cents per square foot and concrete at about double this amount.

The program with asphalt sidewalks is expected to cost the village about $4,000 and, of course, double this amount for concrete. Cost to property owners for asphalt would be in the neighborhood of $1.37 per running foot of their property. A 22-foot frontage was estimated to cost some $30.

Big Problem

One of the big drawbacks to asphalt, pointed out President C. R. Hunt, is that it will raise the level of the walks at least a half inch.

Some of the stores have only about a quarter inch fall from their fronts to the curb and the raised sidewalk will cause a drainage problem.

Another disadvantage to the asphalt is that it tends to get sticky in hot weather.

Funds for the program are expected to come from the miscellaneous account which was deliberately raised from the usual $5,000 to $10,000 this year.

Other Work

The village awarded a contract to Ken Cumper for repair of the village's garage roof. Cumper's low bid was $175.

The council will start plans for adding a second water main from the wells at the park to the general system. Under the present system, if the main breaks, the village would be without water. It was one of the steps advocated for the village in a recent survey of water problems by the village's consultant engineers.

Other Business

Village Engineer Bill Schram reported that the new village street sweeper has arrived and is now in operation. The demonstrator model cost the village $741.

President Hunt reported that he talked with representatives of Cass City Hospital and the street in front of the hospital was widened three feet. An attempt was to add four feet, but when work started it was discovered that four feet would put the

False Fire Call Work of Prankster

A theft and a prank were the two complaints filed by Cass City persons with the Bad Axe State Police post during the week.

Richard Erla, Erla Meat Packing owner, Cass City, blamed a prankster for a false fire call he received Sunday morning at 4:55, reporting that his plant was on fire.

"He said the place was on fire and that I should get over there right away," Erla reported.

Erla stated that he thought at the time the call was from the fire department. When he got to the plant, he found everything in order.

Police investigation revealed the call came over the long distance line from Bad Axe.

Jerome Root, also of Cass City, reported to State Police that someone had entered his cottage at Oak Beach recently. Taken were six cans of goods, including three cans of insect spray.

Stine Wins Bike In Friday's Drawing

Dean Stine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stine of Cass City, was the winner of the bike given weekly by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

The free drawing is now in its eighth week and there are three more bikes to be given away. Rapidly approaching is the giant drawing slated for the final night.

At this drawing all tickets gathered throughout the 10-week period are placed in the barrel and a host of prizes will be given to many lucky winners.

road over the water main, Hunt said.

A maintenance contract was signed with the State where the village receives money for maintaining M-81 (Main Street) in the village. The contract is signed every year and has proved financially profitable to the village.

Decision Deferred

A wage increase for village employees, first discussed last month, was again deferred as information on wages from other villages had not been studied.

Romney To Talk In Caro

George Romney, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will speak at the Hotel Montague Tuesday evening, Aug. 7.

Romney will meet county residents at the Hotel Montague at 5:30 p.m. Following the meeting he will attend a smorgasbord in his honor at the Montague at 6 p.m. Interested residents will pay $2.25 each for the smorgasbord and the privilege of hearing Romney.

In Bad Axe

His stop at Caro will cap a quick tour of the Thumb. The GOP candidate is scheduled at the Huron County Fair prior to his Caro appearance.

Tickets are now on sale for the smorgasbord. GOP authorities say that a limited number will also be available at the hotel.

Hospital Looks For Volunteer Aid in Drive

A call for volunteers in a drive for the Cass City Hospital was made today by Dolan Sweeney of Uby, vice-president of the board of Trustees of the Hospital.

Sweeney stated, "In order to set up a campaign organization we need volunteer workers. We hope, therefore, that everyone interested in helping as a worker in the building fund campaign will let us know of a willingness to serve on a committee."

"To volunteer as a worker a person should phone the campaign office - Cass City 512 - or let Mrs. Bertha Hildinger or a member of the Board of Trustees know of the interest in helping in the drive. All workers will receive training before solicitation is started."

Members of the Board of Trustees of the Cass City Hospital are: Almer Krueger, president; Dolan Sweeney, vice-president; Morris Jones, secretary-treasurer; Dr. J. H. Ballard, Clifford Croft, Leonard Damm, Dr. K. I. MacRae, Dr. Richard T. Oliver and Edward Rusch.

Morris Jones, a member of the building committee, stated that "steps are now being taken to get the architect's plans completed so that we will be able to start construction of the addition as soon as possible after the necessary funds are raised. This is most important because of the urgent need."

The campaign goal is $75,000.

4-H County Extension Agent Ed Schrader, Mark Battel and Grant Merchant of Cass City and Douglas Brown of Fostoria joined the 100 4-H'ers and 30 adult dairy project leaders on the tour. Participants visited the Detroit offices of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association and also made a stop at a large creamery.

After seeing professional marketers in action, the young people elected their own board of directors and tackled some knotty pricing problems. They were soon tossing around such oft-misunderstood terms as "base," "surplus" and "blend price."

Nevels Pearson, long-time assistant 4-H leader who originated the annual event in 1927, was featured speaker. Others on the program looked at dairying through the eyes of producers, processors, distributors and consumers.

Repertory Company Slated to Present "Live" Production

Cass City will get a taste of "live theater," without charge, when "Cry, the Beloved Country" is presented at the Presbyterian Church Tuesday, August 7, at 8:00 p.m. by The Bishop's Company.

Written by Alan Paton, the play deals with a Zulu parson who, after searching for his son, finds him in a Johannesburg, South Africa, prison, accused of killing a white man.

There is no charge for the hour and a half long production. Support for the performance comes from sponsors and a voluntary offering.

The eight-member company, currently on its ninth national tour, has toured over 680,000 miles playing in 48 states and Canada.

Vic Guernsey, Cass City, one of the sponsoring members, has announced that persons willing to provide an evening meal, bed and breakfast for a member of the cast are asked to contact him. Sponsors for the program are also needed. There are four men and four women in the cast.

The Bishop's Company, the first traveling repertory company of its kind in the nation, was founded October, 1952, by Phyllis Benbow Beardsley, in Los Angeles, Calif.

Farmers Plan Visit To Research Center

A number of Tuscola county farmers, both cash crop and dairy, are making plans to visit the national research center, said Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

In some instances, wives will accompany their husbands and in others neighbor farmers will make the trip together.

Officials in charge of the Center express their interest in having groups visit there. During this time of year many groups combine a visit to the station with a sight-seeing tour of Washington, D. C., and other points of interest in the immediate area.

Anyone interested in sharing a ride call the Cooperative Extension Office, Caro, no later than August 3, according to Ballweg.

CARNIVAL CAST—These 13 swimmers are among the estimated 60 persons scheduled to take part in the Water Carnival tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at the Recreation Park. The carnival, replacing a previously announced talent show, was originally planned for last Thursday, but was canceled because of inclement weather. The cast are all advanced swimmers in the Recreation Program Water Ballet class.

HOT WEATHER COMPLAINT

If your engine repeatedly stalls in traffic jams on hot days it is likely that "vapor lock" is the cause of the trouble.

The cause of this condition is sudden and intense heat that results in the gasoline in the fuel lines and carburetor coming to a boil and giving off a vapor that unbalances the fuel-air mixture causing the engine to stall.

You may prevent this stalling by shifting to neutral and gunning your engine from time to time. This results in fresh, cooler fuel being pumped into the fuel lines and carburetor which eliminates the condition until this fuel too becomes overheated.

Vapor lock invariably occurs while a car is standing or moving so slowly that there is little air circulation. The moment that the car gains momentum the vapor lock disappears. The reason is that rushing air cools the fuel lines, eliminating the boiling condition.

If you are having frequent stalls in temperate weather and when first starting your car in the morning then your engine has more than vapor lock trouble. It is likely that your carburetor fuel-air mixture needs adjusting and your points and plugs checking.

In short, while there is no actual cure for vapor lock short of bringing about a situation where the gasoline can cool off, it is much more likely to occur in an untuned engine. If this problem is bothering you our service department will be glad to check it for you without obligation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson

Large baskets of white gladioli and orchid and violet Fuji and spider mums banked the altar for the double-ring ceremony uniting Miss Glenda Eastham of Caro and George Wilson of Gagetown in marriage. The rites were solemnized by Rev. Ralph D. Churchill.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Eastham of Caro and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Wilson of Gagetown.

Mrs. Bernard Fitzstephens played the wedding march from Lohengrin and accompanied Mrs. Clare McDurmon as she sang "I Love You, Wedding Prayer and Whither Thou Goest."

The wedding was held in the Caro Methodist Church at three o'clock Sunday, July 8.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a gown styled with a fitted bodice of three dimensional Venetian lace, a scooped neckline and cap sleeves. The full sweeping chapel-length skirt was fashioned of nylon organza over taffeta and featured a shadow hemline. Her elbow-length nylon illusion veil was secured to a nylon chiffon rose headpiece enhanced with pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis and white feathered carnations centered with an orchid corsage.

The honor maid, Miss Denise Kennedy, wore a violet sheath dress of chiffon over taffeta, featuring a puffed overskirt with a bustle effect. Her headpiece was of rose petals with a circular veil. She had matching wrist gloves and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and iris spider mums.

Bridesmaid was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Eastham. Her orchid dress and veil were identical with the maid's of honor and she carried orchid spider mums and white carnations.

Donald Scott Wilson of Norfolk, Va., was his brother's best man and James Wilson of Gagetown was groomsmen. Howard Muntz of Cass City and Robert Eastham seated the guests.

The bride's mother chose a navy blue sheath gown with lace bodice and draped chiffon skirt with white accessories. Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a frock of soft Nile green lace over eggshell taffeta and white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall which was decorated in the bride's colors, orchid and violet. Mrs. Ervin Wilson of Akron, Sandra Birdsall of Port Huron, Genie Miller of Port Huron and Mrs. James Wilson served.

Glenda is a Caro High School graduate and a Central Michigan University graduate and taught music for the past three years in Port Huron. George graduated from Gagetown High School and served in the Navy. He is employed in the Gagetown Branch Bank. The newly-wed couple will live in Gagetown, following a month's trip to the Seattle World's Fair and other western states.

When the bride left on the wedding trip, she was wearing a pale yellow embroidered sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Prenuptial showers were given by Mrs. James Wilson and Mrs. Donald Wilson at Gagetown and by Mrs. Robert Eastham and Mrs. Andrew Lasiewicki of Caro.

MSU Reports Farm Outlook for Remainder of '62

Michigan State University economists have made some predictions on the farm outlook and the expected prices for the remainder of 1962. John Ferris, of MSU's Department of Agricultural Economics, predicts the following trends and prices during the next few months:

Milk prices, although due to increase seasonally during the last half of 1962, will average somewhat below a year ago. Production in late 1962 will likely be above last year, but will increase less than for the earlier part of this year.

Total milk production increased eight per cent in Michigan from January to June. And the percentage was even larger in the Southern Michigan Marketing Order. At the same time, there was little increase in Class I sales. The prospect that production will continue to be higher than Class I sales means that base prices could well be down by as much as the 29c drop in price supports on manufacturing milk, Ferris points out.

There is some evidence that the upturn in milk production is beginning to level off as farmers respond to lower milk-feed and milk-beef ratios. Michigan dairy farmers could all benefit if they would cut back production. A cut may be slow in coming, especially from those specialized dairy farmers who have adopted new methods — with its labor-saving features and high capital investment.

Feed cattle prices are expected to decline during late summer and early fall. But Ferris expects only a small reduction in prices.

There's good news for hog producers! Hog prices moved up about $19 in early July. Little, if any, further price gain can be expected with hogs this summer. However, only a moderate price decline is in sight for late summer and fall months.

Hog farmers now planning for 1963 can feel fairly confident about the outlook for the first six months of the new year. Prices should hold near $16-$17. Odds favor a moderate increase in the number of spring farrowings.

The Feed Grain Program has apparently held hog production back to some extent. Some farm-

Fuelgas Aims for Local Winners In LP Gas Contest

Cass City Fuelgas Manager Ken Eisinger reported this week that he hoped someone in the area would win the top prize offered in this year's LP Gas Council giveaway.

"We've done real well in the past," Eisinger said. "We had five winners in this area including two prizes of major gas appliances last year, but it would be wonderful if one of the top 10 prizes would land in Cass City during this contest."

The top prizes are 10 "second" homes to be given away. Altogether, 140 prizes are offered including gas room heaters, gas ranges and portable hurricane lamps.

Free entry blanks are available at Fuelgas. There is nothing to buy.

Mr. Businessman

Here are 9 solid facts you should consider in planning your advertising:

1. The newspaper is an advertising medium that is WANTED—it is sought after and paid for, and advertising in it is not an intruder in the home.
2. Nearly all of a newspaper's circulation is CONCENTRATED in its market area - without overextending into less promising markets.
3. The newspaper provides PENETRATION in the primary market by reaching virtually every family or customer in that market.
4. People read newspaper ads when they are ready to make a decision and to act - WHEN THEY'RE READY TO BUY.
5. The newspaper is convenient; it may be consulted at a time most CONVENIENT to every member of the family.
6. People LIKE TO READ NEWSPAPER ADVERTISEMENTS - surveys show 85 per cent of people want their newspapers to contain advertising.
7. Every issue of every newspaper contains INFORMATION AND FEATURES of interest to every member of the family.
8. Newspaper reading is a habit and a part of people's routine.
9. The newspaper is ideal for comparison—items in a newspaper may be easily compared with items in other newspaper ads.

The most effective and most economical way to promote business is through newspaper advertising.

Women in Groups of

One I Can Handle

By Dave Kraft

I spent an hour and a half Thursday surrounded by an estimated 260 women... young women... Brownie and Girl Scout age women... at Whispering Pines.

The occasion was the climax of the week-long Day Camp and my assignment was simple: Get a picture of the retiring Day Camp director.

Have you ever tried to get a picture of a retiring Day Camp director with 507 women... young women... Brownie and Girl Scout age women... around?

I can handle most women in groups of one but when they come at me in waves, I am stupefied. It doesn't make any difference what age they are, I become immobile.

My fingers begin at the knuckles, my legs start at the knees, my tongue gets stuck to the top of my mouth, and to hide my embarrassment, my face gets red.

It was with no little apprehension that I parked my car at the Whispering Pines camp. I sat in the car for awhile, pretending to see if I could hear the pines whispering, but to no avail.

Finally, with clipboard and camera in hand and a heavy heart, I approached the rear of the crowd of mothers and children watching the different units give their various skits.

I stood there for 45 minutes unnoticed and I was just beginning to think the whole thing was going to be a breeze when one of the women blew her whistle and shouted, "Everybody over to the flagpole!"

The whole mass of women, all 1,593 of them, young and old, began surging toward me. I began to feel faint. I tried to turn and run, but my feet wouldn't move.

Suddenly the thought struck me... "I'm so skinny, they think I'm the flagpole!" I was just about to scream my identity when the first wave swept past me and kept on going. I looked over my shoulder and relaxed as I realized that I had been standing between them and the real flagpole.

The Day Camp director, Mrs. Earl Mattlin, Caro, had already been given her gifts and was sitting in a chair all alone... the type of odds I liked, so I approached her.

I took her picture and was just getting some additional information when the 2,356 women, Girl Scouts, Brownies and assorted children started swarming back.

They crowded around me, stood on the chairs, hung from the rafters, smothering me in a blanket of humanity.

"Girls, ladies, children," I pleaded, "you're bending my flash attachment." It's funny what comes to your mind when you think you're about to die.

I was getting dizzy and I felt my beloved clipboard slipping from my grasp. I was about to fall on my knees in front of Mrs. Mattlin and beg her to save me when I realized that the mad rush was only to see what her gifts were.

I eased myself over to the edge of the crowd and one of the ladies offered me a popsicle which I greedily took... anything to calm my nerves.

Seriously, I'd like to thank Mrs. Pat Rabideau for her assistance in getting the picture and the information. She rounded up the girls, got the necessary information and helped me back to my car.

To get to the camp, I had to drive for a couple of miles down a dirt road. It is a pretty safe bet that you can drive down any given dirt road on a warm day and see at least one snake within the first two miles.

With this thought in mind, I determined to run over any snake I saw.

I decided this because they don't like me and I don't like them... sort of a mutual hate pact. Single out any particular snake and he'd just as soon slip a fang into me as look at me.

It's a matter of survival of the fittest... either I get them or they get me... so far I've been lucky and faster. Faster going away from them than coming towards them.

Anyhow, I decided to run over every snake I saw... I was pretty lucky.

I killed four sticks, one piece of wire and nine shadows.

I saw one real snake. I got clear past it before I realized what it was. It was so big I thought it was another stick.

I stopped the car and looked back. The snake was stretched across the road. I shoved the car into reverse and charged back, confident that I could back over it. After I had passed the spot I'd last seen it, I looked up in time to see it crawl into the grass at the side of the road.

I pulled up alongside... couldn't see hide nor scale of him. I debated on getting out of the car... once out of the car, the odds were 50-50. I like them better about 99-1, my favor, when dealing with snakes.

I opened the car door, climbed out and jumped up and down on a couple of likely bunches of grass and jumped back into the car.

No sense being foolhardy. You know what they say about a snake in the grass being almost as bad as one in the hand.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where Commerce Secretary Hodges says 10 per cent of the folks working in his department was getting paid to do jobs that 40 years ago and that don't exist no more. He said he couldn't do nothing about it on account of all of 'em belongs to the Civil Service and can't get fired. He told the Civil Service Commission that they was two and one-half million employees in the executive department of the Government and that 250,000 of them was dead wood, hired to do jobs that has now disappeared. He figured it would save the taxpayers nearly two billion dollars a year if we could get rid of this dead wood in Government jobs.

Secretary Hodges was wasting his time, Mister Editor, discussing these items with them Washington bureaucrats. Once they start a project in Washington, they aim to keep it going till eternity. Senator Byrd was telling not long ago about the feller that got kicked out the front door of the Treasury Department and had to go all the way around to the back door to get hired again. And I recollect Senator Smith of North Carolina telling about the time he called up the State Department to see if he could get a job for a constituent. The Department head ask Senator Smith what the feller could do. "Nothing," said the honest Senator. "Fine," said the Department head. "We won't have to break him in."

It's mighty hard, Mister Editor, to get the hogs off the corn, especial the Washington breed of the hog family.

Out our way, the news item of the week was about Bug Hookum getting one of them air conditioning gadgets that you put in the window. The feller at the country store Saturday night was a little upset over this item. Ed Doolittle allowed as how this was some more of that "status" business you read about in the papers. Ed said he could recollect when Clem Webster put up the first TV antenna in the neighborhood and it wasn't two months afore ever wife fer miles around had to have a TV and one of them things sticking up over the roof. The feller kept waiting fer Bug to show up and offer a apology fer such strange behavior. But Bug never showed, and Ed reckoned he was setting at home trying to get his money's worth out of the dad-burned thing.

Personal, I don't need one fer my "status" on account of owing enough at the Bank to keep my "status" in good shape. Furthermore, I git by pretty good without one. I try to stay in the shade in the daytime and at night I sleep plenty cool by sticking my feet out the window.

There are many risks that are foolhardy, because you get to a certain point where you just cannot take a chance successfully. Such as letting a 10-year-old child drive a tractor, because his judgement is not mature enough to cope with the hazards. People cannot always see that they are taking a chance. In fact, in general, we feel that what we are doing will not lead to an accident.

Dr. Pfister thinks that people are interested in safety, even if they do not act like it. Most people intentionally do not want to become injured in an accident.

In summing up Dr. Pfister's ideas, he reminds us that we cannot possibly remove all the risks and should not even want to remove them all. We must set our goals and decide whether they are worth the risks involved to achieve them and learn how to handle those risks successfully.

Them new-fangled contraptions ain't fer a old timer like me. I come along in a age when the moon was used fer romance and not fer space travel.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

We are planning on having a craft workshop sometime the latter part of the year on Swedish straw craft and German cornhusk craft. If you are interested in making mobiles or Christmas decorations from natural straw, now is the time to collect the straw. Cut the straw close to the ground when the grain is slightly under ripe. Hang the straw upside down in a dry place to dry.

The date for this workshop has not been set thus far, but will announce it as soon as final plans have been made.

Since this is farm safety week, I would like to give you Dr. Richard G. Pfister's, of Michigan State University's engineers, philosophy on safety.

To quote Dr. Pfister, "Safety isn't first. If you think it is, you are either kidding yourself or else you may have a very strange set of values. We do damage to safety if we believe it is first because there are many more important things in life than freedom from injury."

Now Dr. Pfister is all for safety because it is his business. He stands pat on the idea that safety is a means to an end, a means to making life more successful. That is what he thinks safety is, not preventing injury but making life more successful. We should seek success, not the removal of risk. In fact, he thinks we cannot afford to remove all risk because we must put safety into a working situation. Dr. Pfister supports the "necessary risk" idea of safety but we must accept those risks that are not easily eliminated and try to be as successful as possible in handling them.

Taking a vacation away from home, for example, may be more risky than staying in your own backyard, but the goal is probably worth the risk.

There are many risks that are foolhardy, because you get to a certain point where you just cannot take a chance successfully. Such as letting a 10-year-old child drive a tractor, because his judgement is not mature enough to cope with the hazards.

People cannot always see that they are taking a chance. In fact, in general, we feel that what we are doing will not lead to an accident.

Dr. Pfister thinks that people are interested in safety, even if they do not act like it. Most people intentionally do not want to become injured in an accident. In summing up Dr. Pfister's ideas, he reminds us that we cannot possibly remove all the risks and should not even want to remove them all. We must set our goals and decide whether they are worth the risks involved to achieve them and learn how to handle those risks successfully.

We Will Brag About The Seeger Street Curbs

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

Whenever the village government paves a street, there are as many superintendents (non-paid) as there are people in town. If one took them all seriously, we would have curbing anywhere from seven inches high to no inches high.

But then, I feel for the men on construction. They are both village employees and village inhabitants. But the minor disagreements will be gone with time and in later years we'll brag to the grandchildren that we can recall when Seeger street had no curbs. Or so "it seems to me."

Book publishers circulate newsletters of various sorts to professional people in any field. One was nice enough to believe I can read and suggested I do book reviews for them. The samples they had were from this column and from a similar one that used to appear in THE DUNDEE REPORTER. THE AUGSBURG NEWSLETTER is a monthly listing which carries reviews of current articles for professional people in church work and is sent to all ministers without cost - a publicity venture.

This month it included a list of six or seven books which I had reviewed between other duties and the editor wrote, assuring me I would be asked further. I like to get books at that price - doing a review. Then, too, it is satisfying to know that thousands of readers at least glance at the reviews and, on the basis of what I tell about the book, either reject or buy it.

Or so "it seems to me."

Have you noticed how the number of Cass City's vacant stores has dropped recently? I imagine the Chamber of Commerce takes the credit (deservedly). With a parts business now in the old lumber yard location and a new supermarket being readied for opening this week, along with the many other changes and additions that have been made in recent months, we feel that our business 'complexion' has vastly improved.

It is perhaps fair to say that a new business takes customers away from someone else. But downtown businesses will gain some, too - especially the kind where mother sends Junior down to the store with a list. So, Cass City's shopping customs would seem to be changing business all around.

Or so "it seems to me."

As I mentioned before, our three youngsters have spent the entire summer, to date, with their grandparents in Seattle. They have been good about writing and it has been a wonderful experience for them. It seems that the high point of the trip so far has been the near-electrocution of Grandfather while changing a pump cord. Honest Injun, Dad, that wasn't in the plan.

The United Nations does not have a high-yield gold mine as its source of money. The difficulty in operating a world agency without cash is ever more devastating than trying it on a village level. But that is exactly where the UN is now! Soviet Russia does not enjoy being asked to give money in support of its aggressions in the Gaza Strip and the Congo.

The fact that there must be a force to bring wisdom into the actions of newly-formed nations (now there are more of these than there were original nations!) and responsibility, too, means that civilian leaders must be sent to help these newer nations, as well as troops, in some instances.

From a practical standpoint, we cannot 'sell down the river' our young people who are being sent now in place of money. One step will be to buy UN bonds when they become available. The alternative, it seems to me, is war, which may see all of us in uniform again, offering our very lives.

We can be grateful for this opportunity to support the UN with bonds rather than bullets. Or so "it seems to me."

Mrs. Boughton Dies After Long Illness

Funeral services were to have been held at Little's Funeral Home Wednesday for Mrs. Esther G. Boughton, 68, Cass City, following her death Saturday, July 28, at her home. She had been in ill health for the past two years.

Born in Novesta township, June 8, 1894, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Coulter. She married Ray Boughton on May 15, 1919, in Cass City. The couple lived in Detroit until 1947 when they retired to Cass City. She was a life-member of the Cass City Methodist Church and a member of the Echo Chapter, OES.

Surviving, besides her husband, are: a son, Robert, Detroit; a brother, George Coulter, Bradenton, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Glenn Tuckey, Cass City, and Mrs. L. G. Fultz, Piasoffke, Fla., and four grandchildren.

Rev. S. R. Wurtz and Rev. James Braid officiated and interment was in Novesta Cemetery. A memorial service was conducted Tuesday evening by the OES.

It's just human nature that makes it easier to dream of big things, than to do little jobs well.

Statistics Prove Education Pays off in Dollars and Cents

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Value of an education is shown daily in the records of the unemployed and the paychecks of the skilled workers.

In 1949 statistics showed a man with four or more years of college earned about $93,000 more between the ages of 25 and 64 than a high school graduate.

By 1958, a U. S. Department of Labor study showed the difference had increased to $152,000.

"Education is an increasingly sound dollar and cents proposition for both the individual and the community," contends Dr. John L. O'Donnell, assistant director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research at Michigan State University.

"As modern technology continues its breakneck pace, there is every reason to think that the advantages of an education will become even more pronounced," he said. "The general character of current trends is demonstrated by the sharp rise in the proportion of the labor force engaged in managerial and professional work."

The growing demand for education presents many problems, however, including the inevitable costs of such growth, according to O'Donnell.

"We have no difficulty measuring the rising expenditures in new plant and equipment," he said. "Yet we often find ourselves deploring expenditures on human capital. Even some professional economists have tended to overlook the vital importance of the quality of human capital as part of our total capital resources."

O'Donnell said there was great encouragement to be noted in a recent awareness of the theory that the real difficulty in education is to raise the abilities of capital resources by improving standards and thus increasing the contribution from human capital.

Almost before you notice, the summer will end and school will be resuming for the year.

With the beginning of school each year, motorists face the possibility of meeting a school bus on the roadways. State law requires cars to stop in both directions when a school bus stops to pick up or discharge passengers.

Statistics show many motorists do not make the required stops for the buses, according to State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

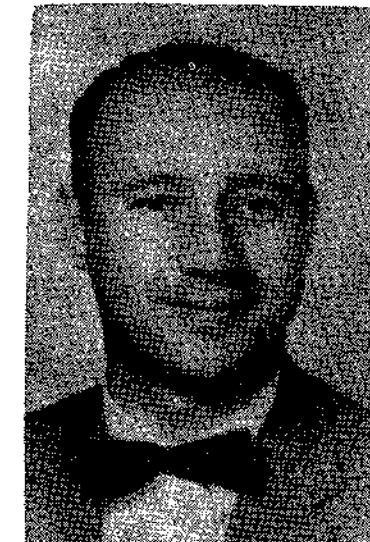

During 1961 the State Police recorded 496 rural school bus and related accidents killed two children and injured 347 other persons.

On the one hand, some accidents are caused by motorists who do not make the required stops for school buses because of excessive speed, inattention, obstructions to visibility, defective brakes, recklessness or physical impairment.

On the other hand, Childs reports that many youngsters without apparent reason or regard for safety dash suddenly across the road going to or leaving the bus.

The accident rate involving school buses was relatively low in 1961 and represented a reduction from the previous year.

tion from the previous year, Childs noted.

The reduction resulted despite an increase in the number of school buses on the road and the total estimated mileage of all Michigan vehicles.

"We are seeing improvements nearly every year, but this is no time to rest on our laurels," Childs said. "Every motorist and child should be doubly alert to each other, to the law, and to general rules of safety."

Legislation passed by the 1962 session will not become law until sometime late this year, or possibly even next year.

The effective date of bills passed in a given session depends on when the Legislature adjourns. They become law 90 days after adjournment, unless otherwise specified.

Among the pieces of legislation which will be delayed in its effect is a measure proposed by Rep. William A. Boos Jr., a first-term Democrat from Saginaw. Boos and others interested in the bill had hoped to start using the new law this year but did not take steps to hurry its effectiveness.

The permissive legislation will allow counties to provide for day parole for persons convicted of misdemeanors. Determination of whether a prisoner will participate in the "day parole" program would be made by the sentencing judge.

"This would allow anyone who is working and is sentenced for a minor act to continue his employment," Boos said. "It is patterned after the Huber Law in Wisconsin, which has operated very successfully there for a number of years."

Court officials viewed the program as very useful in nonsupport cases and other offenses where a prisoner may be fined or required to pay funds to someone.

"In many nonsupport cases, for example, the judge is reluctant to sentence an offender because his means of support will be cut off entirely," Boos said. "With this program the man may continue working even though sentenced to spend his time in jail while he is not working."

Under the program, details of which would be spelled out by the county when it is put into effect, the sheriff or friend of the court would collect wages and make payments as necessary from it.

A savings would result to the county, also, because among the payments charged against the salary could be the prisoner's board in jail.
