

No Fatalities County Accidents Minor Over Holiday

From the Editor's Corner

The Chronicle is destined not to have an air picture of Cass City.

Several years ago this writer attempted to get one with Warren Wood as the pilot with disastrous results. We lost our glasses and our dinner . . . no picture.

Last year our summer reporter, Mary Basing, went up with the Tuscola County Conservation tour and came back with a lot of blurs. This year it was Dave Kraft who tried for the local picture without success, in the conservation tour.

He took four shots, none of which were pictures.

Besides being the automobile and tourist state, Michigan is also a leader in minerals.

We suspect that most folks know that we lead in the production of salt and brines. But how many realize that we are also tops in gypsum and peat?

Michigan is second in production of iron ore, sand and gravel, bromine and magnesium compounds; fourth in production of cement, lime and marl, and fifth in copper production.

We are far down the list in oil production (18th) and have the same rank among the states in total value of mineral products. In 1960 this value was $435 million.

All of these statistics remain strictly of academic interest to area folks.

They won't come to life unless one of the many oil companies which sinks a well hits a gusher and farm families start taking the profit from their share of the black bonanza.

We were on the highway Labor Day and found about every fifth car with its lights on at midday. After vainly trying to tell the first few motorists we passed that they had forgotten to turn off their lights, it dawned on us that everyone couldn't have forgotten.

Later we discovered it was part of a safety campaign over Labor Day. Its effect was evidently not great as holiday fatalities were about the same in Michigan as they were last year.

Child Hurt in Village Accident

A four-year-old Cass City girl was treated for bruises sustained Tuesday afternoon when she ran in front of a car driven by a Cass City man.

Michelle Konwalski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Konwalski, was treated at the office of a local physician for bruises suffered when she ran into the side of a car driven by David Parrish, 21, rural Cass City.

The child reportedly ran out into the street in front of her parents' bakery and into the left front fender of Parrish's car.

In other area police business, Mrs. Theron Hopper, Deford, notified Deputy Sheriff Carl Palmateer Saturday that a dog owned by Frank Novak, also of Deford, had bitten her son, Gene, on the arm.

The dog is being kept under observation for a 10-day period to see if it has rabies.

Electric Fence Starts Grass Fire

Although Michigan was tied for second place in the nation with a total of 25 Labor Day week end traffic deaths, only 11 minor accidents were reported in the county over the four-day holiday. Of the eleven, only four involved area persons.

Labor Day accidents included a two car collision in Fairgrove when a car driven by Harry L. Kehoe, Gageton, was struck by another driven by Earl W. Childs, Akron, according to a report filed by Deputy Bill Schram.

Kehoe was reportedly parked in the line of traffic when the Childs vehicle crossed the road and hit Kehoe's car at an intersection.

Another Monday accident occurred at the intersection of Thomas and Loomis Roads in the northwestern corner of the county when a car driven by Albert Peter, Kingston, struck another driven by Genetta Johnson, Saginaw.

According to the report filed by Deputy Larry Tomlinson, Ike Johnson, Mrs. Johnson's husband, was an occupant of the car at the time of the accident. No injuries were reported.

Two other minor accidents, involving area persons, were reported earlier in the Labor Day holiday.

Saturday, a car driven by Lorenzo Sanchez, Detroit, backed into another car driven by Robert Snover, Kingston, in Kingston. Samuel Villarreal, also of Kingston, and owner of the car Sanchez was driving, was an occupant at the time of the accident. Deputy Hugh Marr investigated.

The intersection of M-24 and M-46 was the scene of another Saturday accident when a car driven by Derald Geister, Decker, struck a trailer being pulled by a car driven by Bernard Delisle, Hale.

Mary Strassburg, Kingston, was an occupant of the Delisle vehicle and Peter Frank was an occupant in the Geister car. Deputy Marr investigated.

area electors. Speaking Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel, Kirk said that the document represents a series of compromises, but pointed out that many experts have praised it as one of the best in the nation.

"Don't reject or accept the constitution on the basis of one article," Kirk said. Judge it on the basis of whether it is better than what the people of Michigan now have.

Without attempting to explain the lengthy document, Kirk told

Area Voters Show Little Interest in Wheat Balloting

Barely more than a fourth of the estimated 1026 county farmers eligible to vote on the wheat control referendum Thursday, Aug. 30, turned out to vote, according to a report from George Schian, Agricultural Stabilization Committee Services office manager, Caro.

Of the 290 voting, 167 were in favor of the control and 123 were against. One vote was challenged. Voting, according to Schian, was about the same as last year. He could give no reason for the lack of interest in the referendum.

"Actually," he pointed out, "anyone planning to grow over 15 acres of wheat in 1963 was eligible to vote."

There are 926 county farms with allotments of more than 15 acres but those with joint ownership boosted the eligible voters to the estimated 1026.

Huron County Voting in Huron county was comparable with 299 of the 1200 eligible voters turning out, according to Mrs. Doris Western, ASCS office manager.

The vote there was 178 in favor and 112 against.

The voting in the two counties reflected the national and state returns as far as lack of interest was concerned. Of 5,860 voting in Michigan, 3,008 voted for continuation of the marketing control program and 2,879 against, with 273 ballots challenged.

On the national level, returns from the 39 states involved in the voting showed 83,843 in favor of the quotas and 40,496 were opposed.

Under the quota system, the following conditions go into effect: producers who stay within their acreage allotments may market all the wheat they produce without penalty. Commercial area growers who stay within acreage allotments will be eligible for price supports on their entire production.

Family Ends 60-year Tenure

Announce Sale of Wood's Drug Store

One of Cass City's oldest business organizations changed hands this week when Wood's Drug Store was sold to Tom Proctor of Midland, according to a joint announcement by the principals this week.

Wood's was established some 60 years ago in the vacant building that formerly housed a grocery store.

In 1917 the drug store was moved to its present location at the corner of Main and Seeger streets. Warren Wood, who sold the store, has been associated with the store since 1917 when he helped on Saturdays and after school.

In 1948 he became sole owner of the business and has operated it until he sold last week.

Experienced Man

Proctor is no stranger to the drug business. He comes to Cass City from Midland where he worked for Community Drug. He is a graduate of Ferris Institute.

Proctor is married. His wife, Elaine, is also a graduate of Ferris where she earned a degree in accounting. The couple has one child, a boy, Kurt, 11 months.

Proctor said that he would continue to operate the drug store under its present name: Wood's Rexal Drugs.

Injuries Plague Hawks

Cass City's chances for a Thumb B Conference championship were dealt a severe blow last week as two boys counted on by coaches received crippling injuries.

Walter Hempton, fleet halfback, broke his arm and will be out possibly to the final game of the season. Dave Parrott, sophomore fullback who had shown plenty of promise in early workouts, is gone for the season with a broken ankle.

Coach Oarie Lemanski has made several changes in the lineup following opening practices. Ron Randall has been moved from end to fullback and Sophomore Jim Knoblet has replaced Tom Ellis at tackle. Ellis has been slowed by a trisected knee suffered in the 1961 season.

The boys will receive a baptism of fire Friday when they are slated to scrimmage Bay City Handy, last year's state champions.

The game starts at about 7:40 p.m. and there will be no admission charge for fans who want a sneak preview of the 1962 edition of the Red Hawks.

Slate Kick-off Dinner for Cass City Hospital

The Founders' campaign for the Cass City Hospital building fund will be launched Wednesday, Sept. 12, at a kick-off dinner for volunteer campaign helpers to be held at the Cass City Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Committees are now being organized in preparation for the formal launching of the drive. Anyone interested in helping in the campaign is urged to contact the campaign office located at the Cass City Hospital.

Speaking for the board of trustees, Almer Krueger, president, stated, "We are pleased with the good response we are getting in our appeal for volunteers to help in the drive. However, many more volunteer campaign helpers are needed. Unless we get more volunteers we will be unable to contact all those interested in giving to the building fund."

"Although we realize that people are busy, the great need for the new wing to the Cass City Hospital justifies taking the necessary time to help in the drive."

"Those volunteering as campaign helpers are asked to make only 12 contacts. The 12 names chosen may be anywhere in the area served by the Cass City Hospital. Cards for people to be solicited are secured through the campaign office."

"Those who make Founders' gifts become voting, nonassessable, life members of the Cass City Hospital, Inc., a Michigan non-profit organization."

"It is important to emphasize that gifts will be used only for the constructing and equipping of the new building which will be owned by the Cass City Hospital and built on land owned by the Hospital."

"The new building will be a separate structure from the existing hospital building on which there is a 99 year lease."

"Under the laws of the State of Michigan no person or persons can get any profit from the Hospital or get any of the assets," Krueger continued. "As a non-profit organization all income must go to the hospital and, although improbable, if the hospital no longer existed all assets would have to be given to another nonprofit organization or be given to some branch of government."

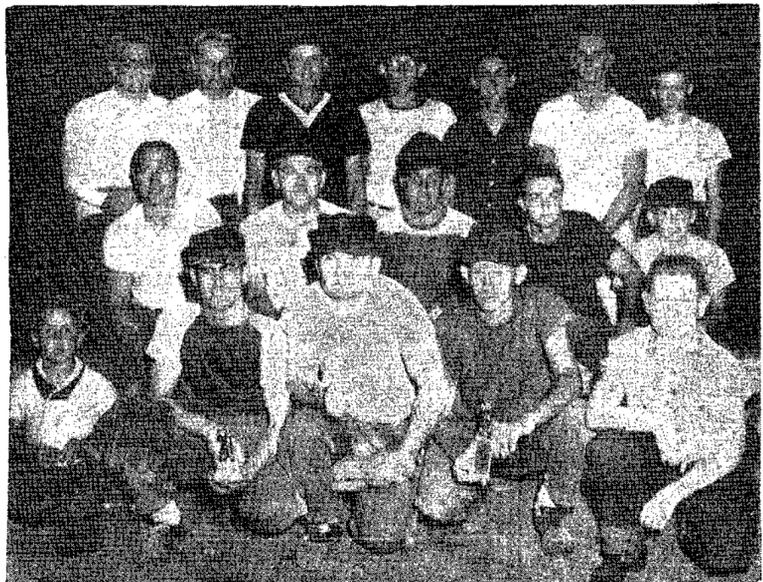

"We feel that the Cass City Hospital will serve this area for many years, because for over 36 years a high per cent of the people have called on the services of the hospital which was originally known as the Morris Hospital."

Adjustment is that sensation you acquire when you are too busy to be bored with life.

The fellow who retires without a hobby finds it's a poor policy.

In a 5:30 candlelight ceremony Saturday, Sept. 1, Miss Marcia A. Rosenberg of Saginaw and William H. Rohnkohl of Utica were married. Pastor Harold Kettner officiated at the rites in Grace Lutheran Church, Saginaw.

The bride chose a sheath gown of silk organza over taffeta styled with a fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves forming points over the wrists. The sheath skirt was applied with an Alencon lace motif and featured a chapel length train fashioned of unpressed pleats with a bustle hold at the back. A pearl crown held her silk illusion veil. She carried baby white orchids with natural orchid foliage.

Mrs. John Thorne of Bay City, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Pamela Roberts of Garden City, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid. Both wore sheath dresses of satin styled with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and overskirt fashioned of unpressed pleats. Matching hats completed their all-antique gold ensembles. They carried cymbidium orchids in tones of brown and green with foliage.

The bridegroom's attendants were Norman Pole of Utica, best man, and David Williams of Dearborn, groomsman. Ushers were Robert Taylor of Utica, Roy Jeffery of Cass City, Donald Steele of Saginaw and John Thorne of Bay City.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the VFW Hall in Saginaw. A six-foot centerpiece of pink and purple gladioluses and carnations centered the buffet table.

The couple will reside in Mt. Pleasant where they will attend Central Michigan University.

He attended Cass City Schools for one year.

DRIVERS WHO FEAR ACCIDENTS MOST

To 10 per cent of the nation's drivers, the threat of an accident involving bodily injury holds a danger much greater than the possible injury itself. That's the fear of what may happen to them at the hospital.

These are motorists who suffer from disabilities requiring special drugs in emergencies. More than ten million cardiac cases, three million diabetics, one and a half million epileptics and millions of others.

Rendered unconscious by an injury, a cardiac patient, for instance, could die from lack of special drugs to treat his condition. Diabetics could go into insulin shock and epileptics become seriously ill. One in every 10,000 males is born an incurable hemophilic who could bleed to death from a slight wound.

So that the public and medical attendants will know of a driver's special disabilities, a unique organization exists to protect motorists suffering from such ailments. It is called the Medic-Alert Foundation and is a non-profit organization that provides its members with a metal wrist bracelet designating their ailment.

The bracelet contains the serial number of each member relating to a file at the foundation's headquarters in Turock, California, where 24-hourly phone service will accept emergency collect calls. Individual membership is for life and costs only $5.

If you should encounter a Medic-Alert bracelet on an unconscious accident victim, be sure to heed its warning. If you are unsure what to do, bring the bracelet to the attention of medical personnel or contact the Medic-Alert organization for guidance.

Present Clover Leaf Awards

Michigan's dedicated volunteer 4-H Club leaders - often called the key to 4-H success - had their day Tuesday, Aug. 28, during the 47th annual State 4-H Show at Michigan State University. Traditional clover awards went to 156 leaders at the Tuesday banquet on the MSU campus. Each of the leaders recognized had served 20, 25, 20 or 15 years. Coveted 30-year "ruby" awards went to Ed Rose of Clinton County; Mrs. Evelyn Miller, Mackinac; John Thompson, Muskegon, and Mrs. Albert Schmieg, Saginaw. Of the 16 leaders receiving the "emerald" clover award for a quarter century was Tuscola county's 4-H Club leader, Mrs. Bertha Achenbach of Akron. Mrs. Achenbach is leader of the Akron 4-H and is also secretary of the County 4-H Council.

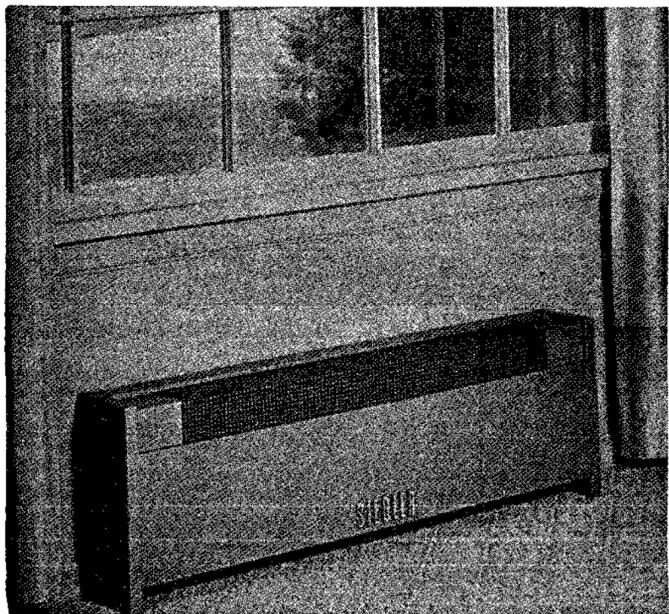

Loren Brady of Unionville for 20 years as leader and Mrs. William Ashmore and Mrs. Floyd Werde- man of Gagetown and Cass City, respectively, and Mrs. Fred Starkey of Caro for 15 years of leading 4-H Clubs. "4-H could not succeed without the volunteer leaders who spend countless hours supervising and guiding club activities," State 4-H Club Leader Russell Mawby stressed. "The dedication of these adults is all the more remarkable because nearly all serve with little or no pay." A vital link in the 4-H program, N. P. Ralston, director of MSU's Cooperative Extension Service, termed the efforts of the more than 13,000 leaders in the state. He extended special recognition to the leaders during the Tuesday evening "Happy Holidays" program.

Leaders were challenged with many new and changing interests of young people in a space age world. The State Show exhibits were vivid illustrations of these changes. Once primarily an organization for rural young people, today more than half of the state's 70,000 4-H'ers come from urban or rural nonfarm homes. With the shrinking number of farmers, most of farm youth also will eventually seek other vocations. Club work symbolized by the four-leaf clover plays an important part in extending youthful horizons. ENTHUSIASTIC The fellow who puts a punch in everything he does always gets more kick out of life. VILLAGE COUNCIL
A public hearing was held on August 21, 1962, at the time, place and date as advertised in the Cass City Chronicle for the two issues preceding the hearing. All members of the council were present except Mr. Guinther. Approximately one dozen interested citizens were present. None of the citizens expressed opposition to the proposed sidewalk work but the general opinions favored the use of concrete over the use of bituminous concrete. There being no further business the meeting was adjourned by the president.

H. L. Bridges Village Clerk
A regular meeting of the council of the Village of Cass City was held August 28, 1962 at 8:00 p.m. All members were present except President Hunt. Mr. F. B. Auten, President Pro-tem, presided.

Minutes of the July regular meeting and the two special meetings were read and approved as read.
Bids on a new tractor were opened and the two low bidders were Rabideau Motor Sales and Ryan John Deere Sales.
Motion by Guinther seconded by Seals that action be tabled until the next meeting and that the street and sidewalk committee along with Mr. Schram examine the tractors and compare specifications. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

Motion by Seals seconded by Guinther that we accept the contract with the State for maintenance of M-81. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.
The request by the Chamber of Commerce for twenty-two (22) litter barrels to be placed on Main Street was discussed. The question raised by the council was, for whose use are the barrels being requested - foot traffic or the merchants. An answer to this question would probably have a bearing on any action the council might take in the future. The Chamber of Commerce requested that a council member serve on a committee that has been set up by them. Mr. Ware was appointed to represent the council on this committee. He was asked to convey the sentiments of the council concerning litter barrels to the committee.

Mr. John Haire reported that the State does not share in water tower costs but money could be obtained in the form of a loan.
Motion by Root seconded by Ware that the bituminous concrete bids for sidewalk construction be rejected and bidders notified. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

Motion by Rabideau seconded by Seals that regular council meeting dates be placed on the Junior Woman's Club calendar. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.
An improved group insurance plan was explained by the Clerk.
Motion by Rabideau seconded by Root that we adopt the improved group health insurance policy which includes life insurance and that the Village absorb all cost except that which is applicable to disability provisions. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

Motion by Ware seconded by Seals that we renew our membership in the Michigan Municipal League from 10-1-62 thru 9-30-63. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.
Motion by Rabideau seconded by Root that bills OK'd by the finance committee be paid. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

There being no further business the meeting was declared adjourned by the president.
H. L. Bridges Village Clerk
A special meeting of the Council of the Village of Cass City was held on August 29, 1962, at 4:30 o'clock p.m. Present were Auten, Rabideau, Guinther, Seals and Ware with Mr. Auten, President Pro-tem, presiding.

The street and sidewalk committee and Mr. Schram reported that the minimum specifications of the tractor had been met or exceeded by both Rabideau Motor Sales and Ryan John Deere Sales.
Motion by Seals seconded by Guinther that the low bid of $3,579.54 by Ryan John Deere Sales and Service be accepted. Yea-2. Nay-2. Acting President F. E. Auten cast the deciding vote in favor of the motion. Motion carried.

Motion by Guinther seconded by Rabideau that a cab be purchased for the tractor. Yea-4. Nay-0. Motion carried.
There being no further business the meeting was declared adjourned by the President.

Wild Animal Show At Saginaw Fair

Ostrich, camel and elephant races, high-diving mules, donkey polo, wrestling bears, trained cheetas, zebras and tigers: these are just a few of the acts making up the sensational wild animal grandstand show at this year's Saginaw Fair, Sept. 9-15. Captured and trained by Gene Holter, famed Hollywood animal trainer, many of the animals appearing at the Saginaw Fair have starred in such popular motion pictures as "The Swiss Family Robinson", "Around the World in 80 Days" and "The Ten Commandments," as well as many favorite TV shows.

Local drivers will compete in the wild animal contests, driving swift and unpredictable ostriches and jockeying the stubborn but speedy camels in races that promise thrills and laughs aplenty for the whole family.
The midget diving mules will climb an aerial ramp to a diving tower 30 feet high, dive into a six-foot deep pool of water and swim to the exit ramp. It took owner Jonny Rivers over two years to select and train these unusual animals since only one mule in a thousand has a natural inclination toward water.

Demand Expected to Exceed Supply for Many College Graduates Next Spring

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Employment forecasters early this year predicted a good year for college graduates, especially those in the engineering, science and teaching fields.

If the Michigan State University placement bureau activities are any indicator, the forecasts were accurate.

Jack Kinney, MSU placement director, noted the bureau had a record year. More employers visited the bureau and set up more interviewing schedules than during any previous year.

There were 1,513 employer visits to the MSU placement bureau during the 1961-62 school year as compared with 1,162 in the previous year, Kinney said.

The number of job interviews with individual students dropped to 13,058, slightly below the number recorded during the 1960-61 school year, he said. "This was due mainly to the fact that students were more selective."

"The demand for engineering and science graduates remained high and many companies fell far short of their quotas," Kinney said. "Business graduates also fared well as the demand for accountants continued and there were good opportunities for graduates in marketing, production administration and hotel, restaurant and institutional management."

The economic climate also tended to improve the bureau activities, Kinney said. "Liberal arts majors found increased opportunities because the favorable economic situation brought about more sales and management training programs in businesses."

Predictions about the demand for school teachers also rang true, the Bureau director noted. "Teaching candidates were recruited heavily by the public school systems," he said.

"The Number 1 shortage continued to be in the elementary education field, but there were great demands for teachers of mathematics, science, foreign languages, special education and women's physical education," he said.

Hospitals in Michigan spent $32 million more during 1961 to operate than in the previous year, according to a report by the Michigan Hospital Association.

The cost, a grand total of $443,505,000 last year, was boosted from $411 million the previous year while admissions increased by 12,957 persons over 1960.

A breakdown of the operating costs of a hospital shows nursing service takes the bulk of the patient's dollar paid for care.

Nursing service and education accounts for an average of 29.3 cents of every dollar spent in providing patient care, the association said.

Other major expenditures include 12.3 per cent for medical, surgical care, or delivery room and anesthesia; and 11.6 per cent for administration and general operations, and 10.6 per cent for dietary provisions.

Lesser quantities of the operating dollar go for housekeeping, pharmacy, medical records, laboratories, radiology, electrocardiogram, electroencephalogram, physical therapy, plant operational costs and laundry and linen service.

Economic development, a term used frequently now which undoubtedly will be even more familiar in the future, was given in 1947 to a state department created by the Legislature.

The Economic Development Department was established to "advance the welfare and prosperity of the people by encouraging and seeking proper use of the state's resources and the development of its communities, areas and industries."

A director heads the department but is appointed and advised by a 10-member commission, whose members serve three-year terms.

Comprised basically of four divisions, the department attempts to maintain present industry and induce expansion and new location of others.

The area development and industry service division is charged with the responsibility of helping communities to organize local industrial development programs. It also helps Michigan firms expand markets for their products.

A research division compiles data for use by all four units of the department.

The other units, with duties and responsibilities overlapping, also rely heavily on research and an information division to make its work known.

An Airplane is The Only Way to Fly

By Dave Kraft

I can think of no better way to get up in the air about something than by taking a plane. That's exactly what I did the other day, on the Conservation Department's air tour.

In view of my case history as a devout coward and as an individual who constantly has a cold caused by a draft from ill winds, I should have known better.

I got to the Caro airport at 3:00 p.m. It was 4:15 before I took off. Seems everyone that came wanted to go in other directions than towards Cass City.

This should have been a warning... Kismet's way of telling me to keep my little wingless body on the ground.

Finally, a farmer and his two sons arrived and, as luck would have it, wanted to take the Cass City tour.

Time was running out.

We got into the plane, a four-passenger, three-wheeled Piper Cub, and the pilot strapped me in... I was too busy bravely clutching my camera and clipboard to my chest.

He revved the engines and charged down the runway... faster... faster... and still faster.

I pressed myself back into the seat. "Say there, fellow, aren't we going just a little fast?"

"We have to go fast, sir," he answered, "or we'll crash into that clump of trees and be killed."

"Yes." "Oh, by the way, I know it's an oversight, but you forgot to issue my parachute."

"Sorry sir, we don't use chutes in light planes," he replied. "We don't fly high enough for them to be effective. If you were to jump, you'd probably be splattered all over the countryside."

"Yes." "What if the plane crashes?"

"Same thing."

"Yes." "I think I'll get out now."

"Sorry, sir, but we're airborne."

"Then get it un-airborne," I yelled. "I want out of this thing... take me back!"

"Sorry sir, no can do... besides if I take you back, you'll still have to pay for the whole trip."

"You're about the sorriest pilot I ever saw," I barked back. I quieted down, however. When it comes to money or my life... well $3.25 ain't hay.

We flew over some beautiful country... at least that's what they told me... I was too busy watching the propeller... I knew as soon as it stopped we were all dead.

I had one nasty experience. I was concentrating on the propeller and the pilot tapped me on the shoulder to get my attention.

"Asargh!" I screamed. "You keep your hands off me, you assasin... you touch me again and I'll knock your head off."

"Sorry, sir... I was just trying to get your attention."

"Don't hand me that! You were trying to push me out, you dirty airplane pilot!"

I thought about belting him one in the kisser with my camera, but an airborne plane without a pilot is a very unhandy situation, at best.

Four times during the trip I did manage to get up enough nerve to take my eyes off the pilot and the propeller to take some pictures.

I took a shot of some strip farming, the Scott Paper pulpwood concentration yard and two shots of Cass City.

Taking pictures in the close quarters of an airplane with a huge Speed Graphic press camera is pretty difficult. Despite the fact that I took pictures of strip farming, the concentration yard and the village, they turned out to be shots of the pilot's earlobe the instrument panel, my belt buckle and a dazzling shot of a bug crawling on the window.

I don't know which is worse... taking off or landing, cause it's almost the same, but with more action.

The plane heads for the runway... faster... faster and still faster. Only this time you start yelling, very rapidly changing from a sniveling coward to a screaming lunatic.

The pilot fights to keep you in your seat and fights the controls at the same time. The ground keeps coming up faster and faster. The guy in the back seat grabs you around the neck and you start to black out. Then, suddenly, quietly, you're down.

It wasn't half bad, now that I think about it.

Actually, I had a very nice time as a guest of the Conservation Department and the Extension office. It was the first time I'd been up in a light plane since I was about five years old. It's a wonderful way to see some beautiful country.

Bob Freye, Walbro Corporation Engineering department, offered to take me up in his plane as his guest... purpose—anything I wanted to do, pleasure or photography.

If the offer still holds, as soon as they let me out, I may take him up on it.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor: I see by the papers where Secretary Dillon that carries the keys to the money box in Washington has final got around to fixing the official shortage for the 1962 fiscal year. He says we come up 6 billion short this time around.

On account of this being the 26th time we been short in the last 29 years, I reckon some papers didn't even mention it. I'm just setting the figgers down in case my banker thinks I'm the only one short around here.

Per quite a spell now the most popular thing coming out of Washington news stories is the words "billion dollars." It's a billion dollars here and a billion dollars there and a billion dollars everwhere. It's got so's it's hard fer them Washington reporters to git through the first paragraph of anything without saying somepau about a billion dollars.

They ain't many folks, including me, that's got any idea of how much a billion dollars is and we git used to taking this item fer granted ever morning like we take our coffee. Well, Congressman Frank Row come out not long ago with some figgers that the taxpayers back home can understand. He says, fer instans, if you give your old lady a billion dollars and tell her she can't spend but $1,000 a day of it, she won't pester you fer money no more fer another 3,000 years. Now that is language, Mister Editor, that I can understand, and it's the first time I've had me a good idea of how the money is flowing in Washington.

But the best item I've saw come out of Washington on the situation come from Senator Cotton. He allows as how things is "always a riot of colors along the Potomac." He says the lawns is green, the sailors is dressed in white, the Pentagon boys is wearing gold uniforms and the Government is running around in the red. Yep, I reckon things is right colorful along the Potomac.

Well, it appears the Estes hearings will last out another phisical year. When you git this case boiled down, it looks like they got him charged with gitting money fer putting fertilizer that didn't exist in storage tanks he never built. Maybe, Mister Editor, he was putting this fertilizer that didn't exist on them crops the Government pays farmers not to grow. I'm a little confused, can't figger out which one ought to be the defendant in this case.

I brung this item up at the country store Saturday night and Ed Doolittle was of the opinion that if Estes had put the non-exist fertilizer in Surplus and the non-exist storage tanks in the Soil Bank, everthing would be legal and he could appeal his case to the United Nations. Personal, Mister Editor, if I ever git un-confused just onct, I'm going to quit reading the newspapers.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

I hope you homemakers won't miss the meat exhibit that will be at the Fullmer Stockyard on Sept. 18 in the afternoon. The readers that have followed this column will remember that I have spoken many times about the "Dual Grading" that started July 1, 1962.

The meat exhibit that will be in Caro Sept. 18 will give you all a chance to see what "Dual Grading" is doing for the meat that will be appearing on meat market counters from now on.

I find we all like the eating characteristics of U.S. Prime and Choice grades of beef. But, actually, most of us select beef upon the basis of leanness, rather than the characteristics which indicate higher quality. These factors are the reasons a new system of grading of beef, "The Dual Grading," was started.

Research has shown that cattle of the same weight and quality, size, grade, may vary in value to the meat retailer considerably.

Under this "Dual Grading," beef quality or palatability, will be judged as it always has been. Marbling, color, texture and firmness of the lean meat, in relation to the age of the animal, are the factors which will continue to be used.

Cut-ability, or the percentage of the saleable cuts, will be determined by the thickness of the fat over the rib eye, the size of the rib eye muscle, the amount of kidney and pelvic fat and the carcass weight.

The other grading in "Dual Grading" will be the yield grade. This grade will be determined by the percentage of saleable meat the carcass will provide. Yield grades will be indicated by numbers from one to six. One indicates the highest and six the lowest grade.

BOOK REVIEW Pearl Buck's Books Are Surprisingly Good

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

Why is it that authors whose material I don't expect to like write such good books? Pearl Buck has been writing for years and I have repeatedly condescended to read her books with disdain, only to be surprised.

A BRIDGE FOR PASSING is no exception and perhaps I was so pleasantly surprised this time because it is a biography instead of a novel.

There are two 'story lines' in this book. On the one hand, it is the story of the making of an earlier novel into a motion picture, on location in Japan. On the other hand it is a tribute, written with consummate skill, to Mrs. Buck's husband. Both lines are well done and make good reading.

This China-born daughter of missionaries has written a novel, THE BIG WAVE, set in Japan which was to have been filmed by a Japanese film company, with Mrs. Buck as advisor. She had left her chronically ill husband, on doctors' advice, in Vermont in the care of her many adopted daughters and returned to her 'adopted' country for the project. When he dies, she finds that she misses him more than she had thought possible and this dominant theme of the death runs through the entire book. She pays him high tribute without mentioning his name, describes his exception to his illness without telling what the illness was. After having been an alert person for many years, he had, for some months before his death, become a human vegetable, able to speak and get around, but not knowing what was going on in the world, completely detached from life. She looks back on their marriage as an ideal one. Both had entered it as divorced persons, but each had given room to the other as an able technician; he as a publisher and she as a writer. She tells, in almost every other chapter, of what their life together had been like. And she develops it, with more consummate knowledge, skill and sensitivity than any other modern writer I know of, into the solace and understanding needed to face the problems created by the death of a spouse. As such, this book would be valuable to young preachers and others concerned with the biology of grief, as well as to those who share a common need.

When she returns to the making of the picture, we find that Mrs. Buck has apparently never served as such an advisor before, and she tells, almost completely, what goes on. Although she is always more interested in the human element than in the technical side of the project, she nevertheless writes with great skill concerning the technical aspects. The first concern is that of selecting a proper cast. This is done, of course, in Japan with actors who could hardly speak English. Some of them, for example, were taught to say one sentence in English, and that's all the English they knew. How they all get along together and how the play made an impact on the whole population is part of the story. With the delicacy of a Japanese calligraphy, she describes her friends and acquaintances and her experiences, detailing with a spark of feminine intuition the contrasting changes she finds in a country with which she has long associated.

I'd recommend this book very highly, both for entertainment and for education.

A BRIDGE FOR PASSING by Pearl S. Buck. Published by the John Day Co. Available at the Elkland Township Library.

Dollars may be inflated, but there's still a big demand for them.

are you a neglectful mother?

Are you so busy looking after your family that you neglect yourself? It does happen, you know—too often. Take nutrition, for example. Most mothers know that a balanced diet includes food from all four basic groups: (1) fruits and vegetables, (2) breads and cereals, (3) meat, (4) milk. So, they're careful to give their children balanced meals. And that includes all the milk they need to grow sound bones, sturdy bodies, healthy teeth.

Yet, isn't it strange that many of these same mothers neglect to drink milk themselves? Perhaps they've forgotten that everyone—no matter what age—needs the 86 vitamins and nutrients in fresh milk. Perhaps they don't realize that milk gives more real nutritional value—with proportionately fewer calories—than any other single food. Perhaps they feel they should "save the milk for the children". Yet, penny for penny, milk gives more real food value than any other product. There really isn't much excuse, is there, for neglectful mothers?
