Mary Lou Jones Near Top in Tests

From the Editor's Corner

We imagine that with the current world situation there will be a revival of interest in fallout shelters. There are probably many sources of information about shelters, but one we think would explain not only shelters but the effects of nuclear explosions is offered by Pennsylvania State University.

School authorities say that anyone can get a complete correspondence course by return mail for $2.75.

The address is correspondence courses, 202 Agricultural Education Building, University Park, Penn.

The course is called "Fallout Protection for Family, Food and Farm." Exams are optional.

Mrs. Gordon Holcomb says that sometimes it doesn't pay to live on the end of the line. The Holcombs are the last subscribers on the phone line and recently road builders knocked out her service for several days. Many persons use this line, Mrs. Holcomb reports, but the break occurred near the end of the line and she was the only subscriber that was out of service.

Most hunters we talked to viewed the dismal weather on the opening of pheasant season with mixed emotions. The rain ruined the hunting, but preserved some of the birds for area residents who'll be able to go back after them during the entire season. One thing that seems sure. There are more pheasants this year than there have been in years in this locality . . . and they are getting harder and harder to get.

Virtually every nimbler reports that the pheasants are sticking more and more to the ground and running rather than flying.

Two sure winners of the wet opener were the commercial clothes drying concerns and the bars, both of which did land office businesses.

It's Been A Good Year to Get Hitched Here

June is losing its status as the "marryin' month" and August is taking its place, at least in Tuscola county, if a report from the office of County Clerk Archie Hicks is correct.

Marriages for June, 1962, totaled 32, 10 fewer than the 42 licenses applied for in August. The June figure is four below 1961's 36 applications.

August, as of the end of September, carried the most marriage license applications for 1962. Last year's August total was a low 29 applications.

In general, county residents felt 1962 was a good year to get hitched. Marriage applications, as of the end of September, totaled 255, or 38 more than 1961's 217 applications.

Complete monthly figures for 1962 are as follows: January - 24, February - 22, March - 11, April - 22, May - 20, June - 36, July - 30, August - 42 and September - 30.

McConkey Appointed To Welfare Board

Maynard McConkey was appointed recently to succeed himself as a member of the Tuscola County Social Welfare Committee, a post that he has held for seven years.

Last week the Chronicle reported in error that McConkey was appointed to the County Soil Conservation District.

The mistake was not as grievous as it might have been, because the civic minded Cass City farmer has also been on the Soil board for about seven years, although he was elected and not appointed to this post.

Her test scores will be sent to her first and second choice colleges which were named when she took the tests.

Miss Jones, a senior, plans to attend college, according to Seals, and listed the University of Michigan as her first choice.

Fatal Accident

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies have termed as "unavoidable" an accident Monday evening, Oct. 15, which resulted in the death of a 78-year-old Caro man.

Mike Duda, Caro, was struck by a car driven by Richard Little, Cass City, as he stood in the middle of the road waving his arms. Duda died later in Caro Hospital.

A check with Epskamp's office earlier this week revealed that Little will still probably appear before the prosecutor to give his version of the accident, but only as a matter of record.

Area Family in Two Accidents In Two Days

Hard luck dogged the driver's seat of a Gagetown husband and wife involved in two separate accidents within two days this past week.

As the result of an accident a mile east of Rescue Saturday, Mrs. Milton Powell, 38, and her daughter Sandra, 12, were injured.

Mrs. Powell's car and another car driven by Aaron Haley, 42, Owendale, collided at an open intersection.

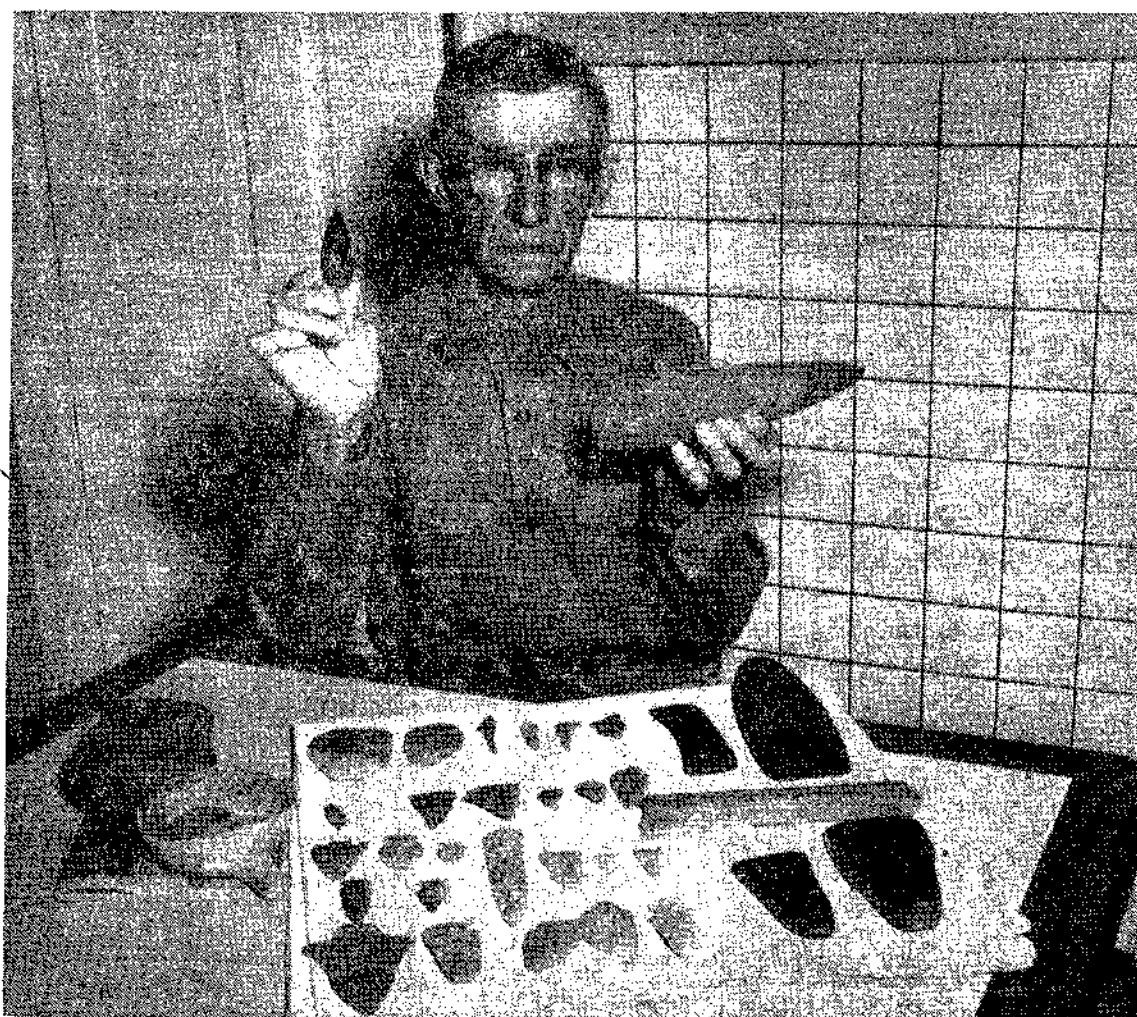

Mrs. Powell and her daughter were taken to Cass City Hospital where they were admitted with bruises and abrasions. Haley was not injured.

Huron county Deputy Robert Quinn blamed the accident on rain and steamed-up windows.

Two days earlier Thursday, Oct. 18, Mr. Powell was ticketed for failure to yield right of way in an accident five miles east of Owendale in which two persons were injured.

According to investigating officer Deputy Edward Mroczek, the accident happened when Powell, 43, made a left turn in front of a car driven by Jay C. Standish, 35, Cleveland.

Calvin Burke, 38 Troy, was thrown from the Powell car by the impact and was momentarily unconscious. He suffered a cut lip. Standish suffered cuts on the face and bruises. Both men refused treatment.

INDIAN RELICS—Herman Charter, 73, Cass City, exhibits two of the Indian relics he has unearthed since he began collecting 60 years ago. One is a medium sized arrowhead and the other is a large sandstone work implement. On the table before him are various arrow and spear points and a variety of work items ranging from skinning stones and scrapers to drills.

Spotting Arrowheads Easy for Charter

Sharp Eyesight Helps Area Man in Search for Relics

Neighbors say that Herman Charter, 73, rural Cass City, can go into a bare 20-acre field and spot an arrowhead quicker than the average person can spot a boulder.

This amazing facility has enabled him to acquire one of the finest Indian arrowhead, spear point and work implement collections in the Thumb.

His collection includes over 125 arrowheads of all sizes, shapes and colors; a number of spear points, and a wide assortment of stone working implements.

Most of his collection is comprised of items he has found, but a few are gifts and others were purchased.

He began his collection about 60 years ago when he found his first arrowhead in a plowed field. For the next 30 years he collected them when he found them, never really actively searching for the relics.

Then followed another 30 years of almost complete disinterest in the hobby during which time he doesn't recall either finding or being given any. He only recently began seriously collecting the relics again.

Although he has over 100 arrowheads and none of them are classified or marked, Mr. Charter can remember where he found most of them.

For example, during the interview, he placed two arrowheads in the palm of his hand. Both were of fine quality and in excellent condition. "I found these two near the Cass City dump 30 years ago in a five-minute period," he related.

He still has the first one he found 60 years ago. It is an unusual point, about two inches long and flat on one side. His most recent find was two arrowheads he picked up in a wheat field on his farm this year. He has discovered as many as six arrowheads in one day.

"You usually find them on bare or worked-up ground," he explained, especially after a spring rain. Bean or corn ground is best. When you're looking for arrowheads, check everything. I usually cover about three or four rows at a time."

Most of the arrowheads have been found on his farm and in the surrounding area. He has also found many in the high ground around Mudd Lake, a mile northwest of his farm.

Many of his arrowheads are of the classical shape, while others look like rejects from an arrow factory. Others are finely chiseled heads of almost jewel-like perfection. They come in a variety of colors and in hard and soft stones.

The most unusual points include those that are flat on one side and curved on the other and blunt points. He also has one that is of classical design but is curved. Some arrow points are only a half-inch in length.

Work Implements

The work implements of his collection include eight large skinning stones and seven smaller stones similar to the skinning stones. He also has a four-inch black stone with a sharp con-

There Is A Market For Guernseys

There is a market for Guernsey cattle, Alfred Beutler reports. A couple of weeks ago, Beutler advertised two Guernsey heifers and sold them the day the paper came out.

"I had made up my mind to see if they could be marketed at a profit, if not I was going to keep them," the Cass City farmer reported.

The ad read: FOR SALE - two Guernsey heifers, 16 months, vaccinated, TB and Bangs tested. Alfred Beutler, 4 west, 2 1/4 south of Cass City.

Bridges Reports Almost All 1962 Taxes Collected

Cass City posted its usual good record for paying village taxes in 1962, according to figures released this week by H. L. Bridges, village treasurer.

Of the total amount of village taxes due, $54,551.90, all but $144.30 has been paid, Bridges said. Uncollected were taxes owed by three village individuals.

This year the tax rate was 13 mills. Real property in the village has an assessed valuation of $3,508,800, while personal property valuation is $687,500.

Bridges said that the money. Concluded on page three.

Injuries Minor in Weekend Accidents

A Cass City man was ticketed for reckless driving Sunday evening following an accident in which three of his six children were injured.

With Spencer were his wife Jaunita and their six children, Ernest Jr., seven; Kenneth, six; Robert, five; Paul, four; Daniel, two, and Debra Ann, one.

Paul, Daniel and Debra Ann were taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital where they were treated for minor injuries and released.

Deputy Carl Palmateer investigating the accident with Patrolman William McKinley assisting.

Villagers Injured

Three Cass City persons were among six persons who suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision Saturday morning west of Reese on M-81.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ludlow and Miss Muriel Addison, an occupant in the Ludlow vehicle.

The accident occurred at the intersection of M-81 and Beyer Road when Ludlow's car and a car driven by Delbert Sahr, 16, Reese, collided. Sahr's brother Wayne, 15, was also injured.

The Ludlows and Miss Addison were taking Mrs. Goodrich to Saginaw where she was to catch a bus for Traverse City. All were treated at Saginaw General Hospital.

Saturday Accidents

A sudden rash of village accidents kept Cass City Patrolman William McKinley busy Saturday morning and afternoon.

A two-car accident which resulted in damages to both vehicles took place at 8:30 a. m. on M-81, northeast of Caro.

According to the report, a car driven by Robert Pawlowski, 24, Galesburg, Ohio, traveling west, struck a bump which threw the rear of his car into the path of another car driven by Earl V. Webster, Livonia.

McKinley investigated an accident at 9:30 a. m. in which a car driven by Donald J. Stilson, 36, Cass City, struck the rear of another car driven by Ronald Rutkowski, 19, also of Cass City. Rutkowski, driving a Bauer Candy Co. vehicle, reportedly had signaled for a left turn. Stilson was ticketed for failure to have his car under control.

The intersection of Leach and Houghton streets was the scene of a two-car accident at 2:50 p. m. in which vehicles driven by Mrs. Clarence Miller and Mrs. Myrtle McColi, both of Cass City, collided.

Both drivers reportedly did not see the other car approaching.

Truck-Car Accident

A car driven by Elmer Haggie, 53, Caro, ran into the rear of a bean-laden truck driven by Lester Evans, 42, Cass City, Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, according to a report filed by Deputy Carl Palmateer.

Haggie told Palmateer that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and failed to see the truck.

The accident took place three and a half miles west of Cass City.

Rain Blamed in Saturday Crashes

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies were kept busy Saturday, Oct. 20, investigating three area accidents. No injuries were reported.

Saturday's inclement weather was blamed, as it was in the other two accidents, for a collision at the corner of Deckerville and Phillips roads, near Deford.

The accident happened when a car driven by Shirley Frank, Saginaw, struck an abutment and went out of control into a ditch.

According to a report by Deputy Gary Wilson, the Frank vehicle was attempting to avoid a collision with a car making a right turn, driven by Fred Kilbourn, Deford.

Mrs. Albert Frank, Dearborn, was an occupant in the Frank car and Floyd Waters, Dearborn, was riding in the Kilbourn car. The Kilbourn vehicle was not damaged.

Earlier in the day, a car driven by Matthew Talt, Swartz Creek, and pulling a trailer, went out of control on M-81, three miles east of Kingston and landed in a ditch. The trailer struck a tree and was totally demolished and the car struck a fence.

Talt told Sheriff William Tomlinson and Deputy Jim Hildinger that the car started to skid and he lost control.

Cars driven by William J. Patch, Harrison, and Anthony Withowski, Detroit, collided at the intersection of Deckerville and Crawford roads, three miles east of Deford.

Patch was attempting a left turn and Withowski, unable to stop, attempted to pass him. Withowski's car struck Patch's vehicle in the left front corner.

When we came to a river we got wet. This river bed was paved with rocks the size of melons. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspension systems this was!

Conventional light-duty units have co-spring independent front suspension—easier on truck, load and driver.

New engines, suspensions, frames and narrower front ends show their stuff on Mexico's tough Baja Run!

With months of proving-ground tests under their belts, why did new Chevrolet trucks take on the rugged Baja (bah'hah) Peninsula?

This is the toughest line of trucks Chevrolet has ever built. Sending them over the most punishing terrain in North America (a road totally unlike the fine highways on the Mexican mainland) was double proof of this fact. Frames, engines, suspension systems were subjected to stresses far greater than trucks normally encounter. You can be sure that trucks that can handle this kind of beating can handle any kind of work.

The club is in the last days of its campaign and the belts will be installed Friday and Saturday, Oct. 26-27, at Auten Motors. The display, located at the intersection of Main and Seeger streets, was contributed by Marv Winter. (The splashes on the picture are Chronicle close-ups of the season's first snow fall.)

Mosher Turns in Top 4-H Report

A Junior Wranglers' 4-H annual report, written by a Gagetown youth, has been picked as the best of 30 reports handed in by the club members recently.

The report was filed by Gary L. Mosher, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mosher, Gagetown. Lee Smith, Wranglers' leader, and Ed Schraeder, county 4-H agent, both commended the report.

The two most outstanding paragraphs of the one-page report read as follows: "When the Junior Wranglers' of Cass City was formed, in 1960, under the leadership of Lee Smith, I became a member. Mr. Smith, feeling the need of a horse club, began what is regarded as one of the best and largest horse clubs in Tuscola county."

"The 4-H program helps to build the morale of rural people. It promotes the need of keeping a set of records and encourages the use of a sound feeding program. 4-H teaches people how to raise healthier animals and larger crops. This all helps in putting America at the top as a pattern for all the free world to follow."

Mosher's father has a 147-acre farm and rents 40 acres. Gary, a senior, plans to study agriculture at Michigan State. His projects have included cash crops, a dairy heifer and a horse.

In other Junior Wrangler business, a hayride will be held tonight (Thursday). Members should be at Chuck Peasley's between 7:30 and 8:00 p.m.

Hayride committee members are: Chuck Peasley, chairman; Dave Bullock and Jack Burns. Chaperone committee members are: Carol Turner and Pat Zellar. Members may bring guests.

The next club meeting will be at Martin's Restaurant, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

UNICEF Drive

Earlier This Year

In an effort to bring a larger turnout for its annual drive, the local UNICEF campaign will be held Tuesday, Oct. 30, instead of Halloween night, according to a report from Mrs. Leo Tracy, co-chairman.

Children expecting to take part in the drive will meet Tuesday night at 5:30 in the Girl Scout rooms where they will receive their materials. Following the drive, the group will return for refreshments.

A meeting was to have been held Tuesday evening during which individual maps of the village and other materials were to be distributed to committee chairmen.

Ordinarily, between 40 and 45 children take part in the program, but with the change in dates, drive officials are hoping for at least 65 children, now that "trick or treat" privileges won't be forfeited.

Each home in the village will be contacted and just one contact at each home will be made. Residents are asked to leave their porch lights on for the children.

Those taking part in the program will be carefully chaperoned by one adult and one older teenager per group. Children from the ages seven to 12 will participate in the drive.

Various phases of the work are being carried out by the six participating churches as follows: Methodist, publicity; Presbyterian, maps; Lutheran, cartons; Evangelical United Brethren, helpers; Catholic, refreshments, and Nazarene, education.

Guard your leisure time always—keep others from using it.

Constitution's Bad Points Outlined At WSC Meet

Seventeen members of the Woman's Study Club heard Con-Con Delegate Thomas McAllister, Bad Axe, tell why he voted against the new proposed state constitution, at the Club's regular meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Ernest Croft.

McAllister, one of three Republicans who voted against the constitution, said he did so because it gave the control of the state to five southern counties.

He criticized the distribution provision which he states would take representation away from rural areas. As an example, he stated that if the Thumb counties were put in a district with Bay county, area persons would be outnumbered by 50,000 persons and by 100,000 persons if attached to Saginaw county.

He also criticized the proposed judicial setup, declaring that much of the power of the circuit court would be taken away. He pointed out that the appellate court outlined in the constitution would be very expensive.

He told the group that, under the new constitution, the state would be the supreme authority over the state's schools.

Ninety per cent of the constitution is adequate, McAllister reported. He advocated voting on part of it and then holding a separate election on the more controversial portions.

A question and answer period followed his talk.

The local WSC will be the guests of the Gagetown club Nov. 5.

The local club sponsored a benefit tea at the home of Mrs. Chester Graham Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Look for Private Homes for Patients

Authorities are looking for private homes for patients in Tuscola County.

The Michigan Department of Mental Health and the State Department of Social Welfare are cooperating in a program involving the transfer of elderly patients from the state mental hospitals to facilities within the community.

The goal of the program is to transfer elderly people who are well enough to leave the hospital to boarding homes, convalescent homes, or county medical care facilities. These persons can be replaced by patients now on waiting lists.

Doctor Walter H. Obenauf, Medical Superintendent at Pontiac State Hospital, said "17 persons have been transferred already and many more can be transferred when suitable arrangements have been completed."

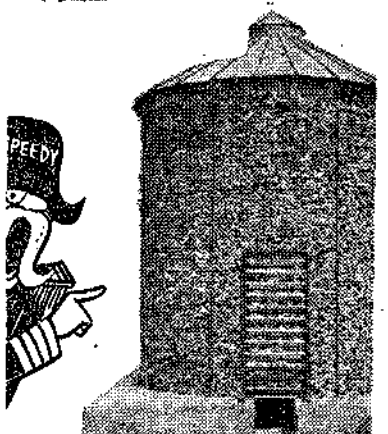

Many of these persons are eligible for Public Assistance which will pay for their care. Ronald Rogers, supervisor of the Tuscola County Bureau of Social Aid, said that boarding homes are needed for those with no family to care for them. These men and women who wish to leave the hospitals have various hobbies and interests and feel that life in the average home would be far more satisfying than life in a large institution.

There are two home finders assigned to the program who will be glad to talk with anyone wishing to care for one or more persons in their own home. Anyone interested in this program can contact Rogers at the Tuscola County Bureau of Social Aid, Tuscola County Courthouse, Caro, or telephone Osborne 3-3536.

COLD WEATHER STARTING

The frost is on the pumpkins and it is time to make sure that your engine will keep turning over these frosty mornings as the temperature dips lower.

Just why lower temperatures make cars hard to start is not primarily because lubricants become sluggish as many drivers believe. Though this is one of the major causes of hard starting, the major trouble results from low battery output.

Engineering tests show that normal battery output taken at temperatures of 80 degrees drops 60 per cent at zero. While this is happening, the engine is getting harder to turn over, of course, and the combination makes for hard starting. There is insufficient charge for spark plug ignition, a situation that gets rapidly worse after two or three starting failures.

A minor tune-up is not costly and will probably be sufficient to put your car in shape for easy starting in the cold mornings to come. Our mechanics will check your battery for charge, clean and tighten terminals and check your points and plugs.

Now is also the time to change to lighter grade oils that make starting easier and cover moving parts with protective lubrication on cold mornings faster than thicker summer grades. If your antifreeze is left over from last year it is probably out of rust inhibitor and should be discarded. In any case it should be checked and brought up to strength.

Drop in soon before the winterizing rush starts.

COMMENTS BY KRAFT

My Cup Runneth Over and Spilleth

By Dave Kraft

If you recall, in a recent column I made mention of a liner ran by Cliff Ryan offering a "tilt bed and wench." Since then, I have been told of another classified caper, carried by the Chronicle and reminded of one, that I had run across a long time ago.

Barney Freiburger ran a three-line ad in the classified section one time, but somewhere between make up of the classified page and the press, one line was dropped out.

It was printed as "FOR SALE—One good, used . . . Barney Freiburger."

Hmmm . . . sounds like something my wife might run about me.

This other gem is one that I've read in several different versions. This one is taken from a clipping borrowed from Jim Seals, Cass City High School guidance director.

Monday—"For Sale: R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Phone 958. Call after 7 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelly who lives with him cheap."

Tuesday—"We regret having erred in R. D. Smith's ad yesterday. It should have read: For Sale: R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 958 and ask for Mrs. Kelly who lives with him after 7 p.m."

Wednesday—"R. D. Smith has informed us that he has received several annoying telephone calls because of an error we made in his classified ad yesterday. His ad stands corrected: For sale: R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 958 after 7:00 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelly who loves with him."

Thursday—"Notice: I, R. D. Smith, have no sewing machine for sale. I smashed it. Don't call 958, the phone has been taken out. I have not been carrying on with Mrs. Kelly. Until yesterday."

she was my housekeeper."

"My cup runneth over" . . . and spilleth on my newly-pressed pants and tuck out the crease. It didn't really . . . I just can't stop myself once I get started.

What maketh my cup runneth over and all that jazz is that I received two compliments in the same day on something very dear to my heart and pocketbook . . . this column.

Mrs. Albert Anthes, Rt. 2, Cass City, stopped in and asked if it would be possible to obtain the first four columns the paper printed.

Seems she has started a scrapbook containing the columns which will be given to people who are ill with the thought in mind that my crazy ramblings will cheer them up.

This column has been very well received and I am proud and happy to say that I have received several fine compliments about it, for which I am grateful. The fact that Mrs. Anthes feels my work has been worthy enough to collect and to share with others, particularly to cheer the sick, is one of the finest tributes I have ever received.

The other compliment was more symbolic than anything. If you've ever had anything to do with Fritz Neitzel, you know that, first and foremost, he's a nut.

Last week, a major portion of this column was about the fine art of fly flicking. Fritz called and asked me to drop in on my way home for lunch.

When I arrived, there were three pretty high school girls waiting. Fritz handed one of them something and told her to present it to me.

It was a fly swatter. Not just an ordinary swatter, but one with a blushing pink business end.

I was speechless. I was touched to the quick. I was flabbergasted. An attached note read, "To my fellow fly finisher. Good Sluggin', Your Friend Fritz."

I need some answers. Mrs. Ervin Walrod, Gagetown, brought in an interesting item the other day and I need some help identifying it.

It appears to be a fist-sized bundle full of short pieces of lavender tinsel. She said her husband has plowed large quantities of the stuff under in a field on their farm.

She also said that while near Hale, similar stuff was found in a wooded area.

The tinsel is about two to three inches in length and a sixteenth of an inch wide. Also in the bundle are strips of silver quarter-inch tinsel about nine inches long. All of it is wrapped in two-inch wide strips of wrapping paper.

I thought at first it might be some kind of packing material. However, tinsel would be a rather expensive item for packing. Because of its location, I also surmised it might have come from a weather balloon.

If you have any ideas, I'd sure like to hear them. I have samples of whatever it is at the office for inspection.

Wayne Brown's roommate at Central Michigan University will either have to change partners or change his name, if a report from Mrs. Cliff Robinson is correct.

Wayne, a freshman at CMU from Cass City, spent a week at home recently, suffering from boils on his leg.

His roommate's name is Boyles.

"I like the way modern concrete roads keep their riding smoothness!"

The National Road Test confirms for taxpayers that concrete provides lasting riding quality.

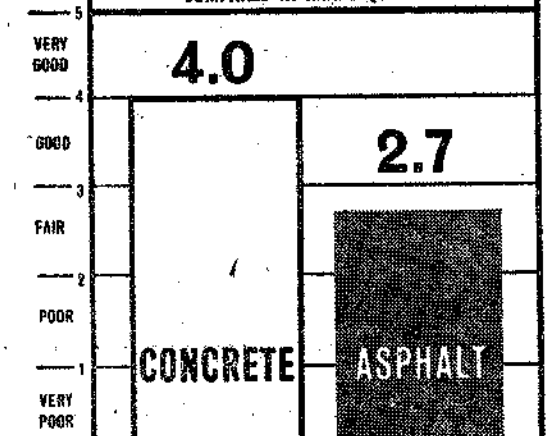

Concrete and asphalt were tested side by side on 5 loops in the recent National Road Test, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials. Loaded trucks traveled 17 million miles over the hundreds of pavement test sections.

At the end of test (two years of traffic), the surviving sections were measured for riding quality. Concrete averaged "very good." Asphalt averaged "fair."

It's with good reason that concrete is preferred for important roads such as state primary routes. The low upkeep cost of concrete saves taxpayers money year after year.

Corn Pickers Maim And Kill Farmers

Seven hands, 25 fingers, one arm, one leg, a crushed hand and one death.

That's part of the toll paid by Michigan farmers during last year's corn picking season, said Alfred Ballweg, county extension director. And a similar toll can result this year unless corn picker operators change their habits. One operator lost his hand last fall when his picker accidentally jumped into gear. While attempting to free the hand, his leg and foot also became caught in the picker. The farmer then amputated his own leg below the knee with a pocket knife to free himself.

Another man lost the fingers of his left hand when his foot slipped off the clutch pedal as he reached into the picker to clear the clogged rolls.

Most corn picking accidents can be blamed on one cause — the failure to shut off the power-take-off, according to Richard Pfister, agricultural safety engineer at Michigan State University. Hurry, fatigue and a lack of "safety-mindedness" are the types of things that encourage farmers to take chances. "Approaching the corn picker to unclog it while it's in gear is much like playing 'Russian Roulette,'" says Pfister. "You just can't do it carefully."

While the hand is quicker than the eye, it is still slower than the corn picker. The snapping rolls of a corn picker take corn at the rate of 12 feet per second. "If you are in the habit of unclogging a picker when it's in gear, the chances of getting caught in the act are pretty good."

Pfister recommends that farmers keep pickers properly repaired and adjusted, travel at slow speeds and keep all children and other riders away from the machines. "Make sure that the biggest loss of the corn harvest season is not your arm," he concludes.

If you find you can't write it and sign it, then don't say it.

A woman's head on a man's shoulder often accomplishes much more than his does.

IT SEEMS TO ME General Cable Helps With Space Satellite

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

The last issue of the SATURDAY EVENING POST carried a double-page advertisement run by the creators of Telestar — that Bell Telephone space satellite which handles communications between continents by some miracle of science. Perhaps you saw it, too. In that gigantic list of the names of the 1249 companies involved (which solidly covered the two large pages with fine print) I found one that both pleased and surprised me: General Cable Corporation. When that firm moved here, it was generally felt that it was part of the Bell system's competition.

At any rate, many Cass City town and country people (people we all know personally) can now feel that they played a vital role in the only peace type satellite.

Makes one feel 'ten feet tall,' doesn't it?

Or so it seems to me.

Juvenile delinquency is a growing menace in many places these days. Judge Julius H. Miner of the US District Court of Chicago said a few years ago, "Irreligion has become the major contributing factor to our national juvenile crisis. I have observed that over 85 per cent (!) of the criminals that appeared before me were non-church-goers."

If we would take this and other judges seriously, we would support the churches by filling them to the doors each Sunday while the need for jails would diminish.

Or so it seems to me.

What symbol of your faith could be displayed at the World's Fair in New York in 1964? THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY, a prominent Protestant magazine, has posed the question and has had thousands of answers. The editors seem to favor some sort of art work (Rembrandt's CHRIST AT EMMAUS, for instance).

What most adequately stands for your faith? Just for fun, the most interesting letters I receive will be printed in this column. (Address them to me at my home, 4632 Oak Street.)

Visiting in this county is Dean Heinrich Gruber, who is cut off from his church in East Berlin. One comment he made recently speaks to me on our race issue in America. We need to be bridge-builders "to keep good men on both sides together." We must keep open the gates through which men communicate with each other. When we become too bitter to talk to opponents, we are indeed lost!

Or so it seems to me.

Mississippi has come to Michigan!

One of the brush fires started in that Southern state has ignited in our own territory!

Three Negro men in search of education recently purchased a nice home in a good neighborhood in Saginaw. Crowds have begun to gather each evening and have knocked out windows with bricks and stones. No one has made any claim against these men, but still there is violence.

What would happen, do you think? If they moved to Cass City?

Incidentally, the event above may provide broadcasters with a ready-made poll on the popularity of the new fall season television programs. People happy with TV fare don't leave home to plague neighbors.

Or so it seems to me.

Rev. Wurtz Attends EUB Conference

Rev. Samuel R. Wurtz, Salem EUB Church pastor, Cass City, left Monday to attend the 35th General Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Grand Rapids.

The ten-day conference began Tuesday and will end Thursday, Nov. 1. Scheduled to draw a peak attendance of 4,000, the conference is featuring four prominent national and international churchmen.

Five hundred elected delegates from the United States, Canada, Europe, Africa and Asia are also slated to attend the session.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Zeke Grubb's preacher came by the country store Saturday night, reported the members of his congregation has got two new projects going full steam. First off, he said, the Attendance Committee met Friday night and Hezekiah Adams gave the fingers showing the attendance had dropped about 10 per cent since last Easter.

Katie Hightower claimed it wasn't no wonder with them hard benches in the Church, but the good Parson said he argued they was the same benches Katie's ancestors set on 50 years ago without grumbling. Rufe Zinder spoke up and took sides with Katie, allowed as how the caboose of folks had changed a lot since then. The Parson told the fellers, he knewed somepun had changed but he didn't know which end so he didn't argue the point.

Anyhow, he reported, the Committee voted to put cushions in all the pews, starting next month. He said he voted agin the cushion amendment on account of he has already got enough sleepers in the congregation. Fer instant, he said Big Slim sleeps pritty good now without cushions, and with cushions they won't be able to wake him up fer the Benediction. He told the fellers that not long ago Big Slim ask him what kind of prayer he ought to say when he set down in the pew. He told Big Slim it would be most fitting if he'd just say the "Now I lay me down to sleep" version.

And the second project they got going, he reported, was to run him off. He said it was on account of a sermon he preached last Sunday on Jonah and the whale. He told 'em how the whale had eat up Jonah on account of him not obeying the Lord.

He allowed as how the congregation liked it fine as long as he was talking about Jonah, but when he told 'em the whale was going to eat some of them if they didn't git to doing better, it was another story. Some of the members was even complaining Monday that he had scared the daylight out their young'uns with a man-eating shark story.

The Parson told the fellers he wasn't surprised none on account of him gitting run off from his last church over that same sermon. But he reported he wasn't worrying none over the situation. If he has to move, he said, he was going to take that sermon and a few more like it and put 'em in a book and call the book, "Moving Sermons." Folks is always wanting to hear moving sermons, he said, and them in his book he was figuring on writing was not only guaranteed to move the congregation, but would move the preacher ever time.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Important Non-Partisan Ballot Draws Less Voters

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association
Most voters are relatively familiar with the top names which will appear on the Nov. 6 ballot in Michigan.

Lesser candidates, those below the office of Governor, often get lost in the shuffle, however. Ballot proposals take an even greater loss when voting time arrives.

Usually Michigan voters are diligent about voting for Governor. Most people also vote for the candidates for Administrative Board posts. These include the Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Treasurer and Auditor General.

A great drop occurs in the count, however, on votes for Supreme Court justices. These candidates are nominated at major party conventions in August, but run on a non-partisan ticket. In a voting machine, the candidate names are far to the right of the machine; in paper precincts they are listed on a separate ballot.

The same thing occurs when a Constitutional amendment or other ballot question is listed, farther to the right on a machine, and on still another separate ballot in paper districts.

This year, even more of a drop than normal is anticipated when votes are counted on a proposed Constitutional amendment. (Not to be confused with the proposed new Constitution to be voted on next April.)

A proposal to allow a general revision of the state laws was approved for ballot placement by the Legislature. Since then, however, its presence has gone almost unnoticed.

Because the proposal is of a rather technical nature, very few people are expected to take the time to familiarize themselves with its effect and vote on it, said State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery.

The Constitutional change would allow the Legislature to provide for a general revision of the statutes.

Presently revision is prohibited. The Governor appoints a commission which puts the laws together each year. This commission is prohibited by the Constitution, however, from making any corrections which might slip through during passage, such as misspellings.

Proponents of the amendment in both parties said it would greatly improve legislative effectiveness. Rep. Joseph A. Gillis Jr., D-Detroit, and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Birmingham, sponsored it.

They substituted a simple 24-word sentence for the 80-plus word section now in the Constitution prohibiting the revision. It would provide that "the Legislature shall provide by law for the general revision of the statutes at such time and in such manner as it shall determine."

One of the first concrete steps toward providing a youth camp program in Michigan is under way.

The State Department of Social Welfare recently purchased a site at Pup Lake, south of Houghton Lake in Roscommon County, for the establishment of a youth conservation-rehabilitation camp for 50 boys between the ages of 15 and 17 years.

Creation of the camp was authorized by the Legislature. Its establishment was one of several proposals which resulted from a five-year study of probate laws and facilities for juvenile delinquents in Michigan.

The three buildings at the Pup Lake facility will provide a self-contained operational unit under the joint jurisdiction of the Social Welfare Department, the Conservation Department and the Department of Public Instruction.

The youth will work with reforestation, dam and flood control and other conservation projects. At the same time they will be participating in a program of rehabilitation, academic education and vocational training.

The impact of a new facility in Detroit is being watched in other states as well as throughout Michigan.

A defense Contract Information Center, the first outside the Washington, D. C. area, recently was opened by Gov. John B. Swainson and the head of the U. S. Army Mobility Command in Detroit.

Purpose of the Center is to provide information to prospective contractors on jobs up for competitive bids in defense work.

Some 2,000 contract specifications were listed the day the center opened.

With knowledge at their fingertips on contracts to be let, it was hoped Michigan contractors could better compete for defense work, both inside the state and in other places.

Swainson said he hoped the center would stimulate interest among Michigan businesses to bid for defense contracts, and thereby broaden the scope of Federal work funds being returned to state producers.

"From the use of this center, I hope, will come many more defense contracts to Michigan with the benefit of more jobs for our state," he said.

Area Girl Seeks Added Laurels

Competition for Miss Michigan Farm Bureau in November is the next step for Mary Lanna Kramer, named Miss Farm Bureau for Tuscola county Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the annual county meeting in Caro.

Miss Kramer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kramer of Kingston, was chosen from a field of five contestants. Runners-up in the county contest were: Donna Jean Seibel of Unionville, Martha Kilmer of Mayville, Harriet Tracy of Mayville and Sandra Retherford of Deford.

In other Farm Bureau business, five directors were elected during the business session which also saw the passing of 14 of 16 resolutions presented. Elected were: Bruce Ruggles of Kingston, Alan Latimer of Akron, Albert Bauer of Reese, Robert Bush of Caro and Willard Freeland of Pectoria.

Featured speaker for the program was Robert Smith, Michigan Farm Bureau official. Clifton Lotter, county president, presided and Lyle Sylvester, vice-president, introduced the guests to the more than 300 persons present.

Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Women's Committee chairman, delivered the invocation and David Seddon, Young People's Committee chairman, introduced Miss Kramer.

FOR PERSONS OVER 18 YEARS OF AGE

APPROVED BY THE PRODUCTION CODE AUTHORITY

Well, GEORGE ROMNEY,

what are you going to do about the mess in Lansing?

First, let me say that only the people lose from all the bickering in Lansing. All the people.

Why all the bickering? The answer is that there is no leadership in Lansing. The legislature cannot lead. No committee can lead. Only the man in the governor's chair has the authority and the responsibility to lead the state government.

But no man, regardless of his authority and responsibility, can lead unless he has developed the ability to get people thinking and acting together. He certainly cannot get cooperation by blaming the other fellow when things go wrong and taking all the credit when things go right.

We all lose when there is no leadership. We either get lop-sided legislation which suits no one, or we get deadlock. The people can't win when we have deadlock and division in Lansing.

LEADERSHIP is necessary to get all sides working together to provide a government that can get things done for all the people of Michigan. I'd like to put my experience in leading people with diverse ideas to work for you.

Will you give me a chance to PROVE what a new team in Lansing can do?

Band Boosters Plan For Candy Sale

The annual Band Booster candy sale is slated to get under way Monday, Oct. 29, with a canvass of the village by band members, according to a report from Richard Case, band director.

The eight-day sale will end Monday, Nov. 5. This year the sale will feature a choice of Queen Anne boxed candy.

Case stated that the money will be used to purchase band instruments and equipment. He also commented that last year's drive was the biggest fund-raising project put on by the Boosters.

The opening canvass will take place after supper with Band Booster members providing transportation for the students.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

It's apple-choosing time in Michigan: Time to leaf through your recipe file for all those delectable ways of using our crisp-n-snappy apple harvest.

October is the time when apple supplies are largest. In September, Michigan's crop was estimated at 13 million bushels. Now it seems we'll have about 10 per cent fewer than that and over four billion bushels less than last year.

Quality is grading out unusually high. The proportion of culls is very low. This means that probably fresh market supplies for consumers will be nearly adequate.

Michigan apples are especially flavor-filled this year, due to our cool, dry summer. Such weather tends to concentrate the sugars and flavor essences as the fruit matures. The same weather does retard the apple's growth, or "sizing" as growers call it. So... this year the proportion of the smaller sizes is greater than normal.

(This year the smaller sizes have prime eating quality. Medium and smaller sized apples always remain firm and crisp longer than very large apples.)

In Michigan, the apple industry is growing faster than it is in any other state. This year, our 60,000 acres of apple baskets are filled with "the big four" varieties. There are about three million bushels each of Jonathans and McIntosh; about two million bushels of Delicious, and about one million bushels of Northern Spys.

The Jonathan is the tart, crisp, less juicy apple that has red over 90 per cent of its surface and that holds its shape when placed under a pie crust.

McIntosh is a larger round, red apple with a thick skin, soft, crisp texture and wonderful aroma. Its mild-sweet flavor makes it a favorite for desserts, baking or general use. In a pie, however, it cooks smooth and loses volume.

Delicious is the familiar medium-sized apple with fine points at the blossom end... good for lunches, football snacks or making fresh apple salad.

The mild-tart sweetness of the large, tender-skinned, bright-striped Spy, plus its ability to hold its shape, makes it unexcelled for baking. A spy that has 50 per cent red color is considered highly colored Spy.

Ordinarily, the fresh-from-the-orchard "Mac" are eating-ready fall and early winter. Jonathans, Delicious and Spys are considered winter apples.

There is an apple to suit every taste and every use, for more than 600 varieties are known. It would be impossible to remember the characteristics of more than a few. As a general rule: "For fresh eating, choose a good characteristic color for its appetite appeal; for cooking, color is not so important."

With beautiful apples arriving from nearby orchards - the annual question arises: "Does it pay to take advantage of October's lower prices and buy apples by the bushel?" It's a good question, for you can often buy twice as many for the same amount of money "by the bushel" as you can "by the pound."

The answer depends on how quickly you intend to use them-or the temperature of your storage space.

Apples fresh from the trees keep well for two to three months in cool, dark, well-ventilated, moist storage. (The lower the temperature, down to freezing, the longer they will keep.) A bushel of mature, hard apples will keep at 55 to 60 degrees F. about a month.

If you have no cold storage except the family refrigerator and you can't use them fairly soon, it will pay you to buy your apples by the pound, or consumer size bag.

Wherever you store them, try to keep apples away from foods with strong aromas.

There are two large, three medium and four small apples in one pound. Six to eight medium apples will fill a 9" pie shell, or make three cups of applesauce.

The most popular apple package in Michigan is the four-pound polyethylene bag, containing 10-12 apples.

These poly bags are part of a quality control effort, for they help to reduce bruising the fruit. (Michigan sells more apples in poly bags than does any other state!)

Through the years, a continuous State-wide effort among growers has meant an improvement of growing, grading, storage and marketing practices. That's why... it's no Trick-to-Treat your family to a top-quality Michigan apple.

Apples are more than a filling for a pie - or the main ingredient of that favorite Waldorf Salad, or a centerpiece.

The apple is industry and agriculture, economics and marketing, tradition and progress all wrapped up in a shiny red or yellow skin.

The annual apple cycle touches the lives and occupations of a good cross-section of our population. For instance, more than 70 cents of each dollar average growers receive for apples goes for labor, supplies and cash-out-of-hand expenses. (In fact, allied business like packaging, storage and transportation industries ordinarily receive more for their supplies and services than the grower does for his fruit.) The remaining 30 cents the grower receives pays depreciation, upkeep, interest on his capital investment and pay for his own labor and management. So let's all enjoy an apple.
