Election Director Supports Board

Election laws can be comconnected with elections and voting on county levels sometimes are in doubt as to whether or not a citizen is entitled to vote.

A local resident, Philip Retherford, was disgruntled in the recent election because he was refused permission to vote by the Novesta election board and decided to find out if he was illegally disfranchised.

Retherford owns a farm in Novesta township and for many years lived at the farm and was a duly registered voter in the community where he had lived. A couple of months ago the Retherfords purchased a home and moved to Cass City.

Since both Mr. and Mrs. Retherford were registered in Novesta the couple drove to Deford to cast their ballots in the last election.

When they arrived the election board denied them the right to vote because they were no longer residents of the township. Retherford felt that since he was not given his registration card and still owned property in Novesta that he should be allowed to cast his ballot.

Who was right? A check plicated and even persons at local sources failed to provide a definite answer and James Epskamp, county prosecutor, had left for a vacation Tuesday when Retherford called at his office for > an opinion. Because of the general interest that the story has generated, the Chronicle Tuesday afternoon called Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections for Michigan, at his Lansing office.

According to Montgomery, the Novesta board was right and Retherford was not illegally deprived of a vote. The only time that a resident who has moved can vote in his former district is when the change was made within 30 days of the election. (After the registration deadline is past.) At this time, the voter explains the special circumstances to the board and signs a special card allowing savs.

To Offer Student Insurance School Board Approves Plan

offered to Cass City School students. Board of Education members decided Monday night at their regular session. The decision followed a report from two insurance agents.

VOLUME 56, NUMBER 31

One of the . agents, Herman Streit, Continental Casualty Insurance, was to have met with Supt. Willis Campbell Wednesday to outline how the plan will be offered to the students.

Offering essentially the same coverage as a General Motors Underwriters plan under study for the past month, the new plan would pay up to $10,000 in medical expense as compared with $4,000 from GM, It would, however, carry a $25.00 deductible clause.

Other basic differences in the two policies centered around rates, treatment and required participants.

The proposed policy would cost students $1.50 per school year as opposed to $1.75 for the GM policy. Treatment would have to be within 30 days, instead of one week, and the patient would not have to be hospitalized for treatment.

A minimum school premium of $100 will be required and will require participation of at least 65 students. The GM plan requires at least 25 per cent of the entire student body. The only option offered by the proposed plan is a 24-hour, 12-month plan costing $10.00 a year. Campbell told the group that questionnaires concerning the offering of the GM plan were sent to 80 Junior high parents. Fifteen of the questionnaires were returned and eight of the 15 were in favor of the policy.

The proposed plan will also pay above and beyond any coverage the student may already have. Local agent for the plan is The Cub Scout program in John Sandham.

No action was taken by the local board, pending a report from Abke who was to check with the State Police to see if such training is permissible.

A motion by Donald Reid authorizing the school to borrow up to $50,000 for operating expenses was passed.

No action was taken on a request made by Mary Patterson, student body representative, in regard to outside assemblies. Until the fall of 1961 eight assemblies per year, costing a total of between $300 and $400 were offered, free of charge.

With the 1961 cutback in school expenses, the assemblies were dropped.

Miss Patterson stated that the student body would be willing to pay 10 cents per student, if necessary, to get the assemblies reinstated. (Until 1955 students paid 10 cents per assembly. At that time, according to Arthur Holmberg, principal, the expense of the assemblies was incorporated into the school budget.)

No action on the question was taken because it would be virtually impossible; according to Holmberg, to obtain assemblies at this late date. Bookings for the coming year are usually made in the spring.

Gallery Plugs for New Jail A plan to raise funds to replace Tuscola county's antiquated jail was outlined for County Supervisors Monday during their regular November session in Caro.

James Gallery, Tuscola County Advertiser publisher, brought the issue before the board, asserting that the county's outmoded jail should be replaced.

A sinking fund started several years ago now totals $118,000. If coupled with a one-mill levy for one year, or $136,000, the resulting $254,000 would pay for a new jail, Gallery pointed out.

Gallery told the board that he intends to run a series of articles citing the need for the new building. The building is estimated to be over 100 years old. To Audit Records

The order, reportedly not aimed at any justice in particular, was passed, according to County Clerk Archie Hicks to "conform with the law, which wasn't followed too closely in the past."

The motion stated that upon death of any justice, or when, for any other reason his office becomes vacant, or at the end of each term, his records shall be audited within 30 days. If he is re-elected, the audit shall be completed within six months.

The CHRONICLE

With the approaching Dec. 4 conversion of Cass City telephones to dial operation, the story of the automatic telephone (dial) takes on added interest.

Invention of the marvel can be traced to Kansas City, Mo., and a provoked businessman by the name of Almon B. Strowger. In 1889, Strowger, who operated an undertaking establishment, was irked by the telephone operators who he suspected were directing business to his competitors.

Strowger felt there must be a better system. He began experimenting. This research ultimately resulted in the automatic telephone system.

by which one customer's phone could be connected with another's without using a local operator. He made sufficient progress to file his invention with the U.S. Patent Office. His patent was granted March 10, 1891.

The first automatic phone consisted of a series of buttons by which calls were punched out. In 1895 the dial was invented. This crude noisy set was the forerunner of the new, quick, compact dial phone which is used the world over. In 1891 Strowger formed a company now known as Automatic Electric, which added numerous inventions to the original automatic telephone. Handset telephone and direct operator dialing can be attributed to this company.

IT'S BEEN A DUSTY SUMMER

A savings of three or more miles per gallon can be effected if motorists would make certain that their automobile engine's air filter is not clogged with dirt and grease.

If you have your car serviced regularly at our shop your air cleaner will be inspected as a matter of course. It it needs changing, we will recommend it to you.

Air filters should be changed when they are too dirty to permit sufficient air volume through to the carburetor. Usually, this condition is reached every ten to twenty thousand miles in normal driving. No rule of thumb, however, can allow for prolonged driving over dusty roads.

An engine tune-up now before the first cold winter morning tells you you need one - along with a tow - will save you money and a lot of aggravation. If your filter is plugged, you are only wasting the money spent on the tune-up to ignore it.

Eighteen times as much air as gasoline is needed in your carburetor mixture to get the most out of your fuel. You lose both power and economy if your engine is starved for air through your fuel being too enriched Numerous tests by automotive engineers show a consistent 20 to 30 per cent gasoline economy gain in cars using clean filters against identical models using clogged ones. It's been a dusty summer. If you can't remember when your filter was changed, it may need it now and you'd be wise to attend to it.

Survey of MSU Indicates School Will Need $101 Million for Science Buildings

By Elmer E. White Michigan Press Association Research Needs

Emphasis on science in education will increase in future years if an estimate of needs at Michigan State University is any indication. A recent MSU survey for the National Science Foundation shows the East Lansing institution needs more than $101 million for scientific buildings and equipment during the next 10 years.

Dr. Milton E. Muelder, vicepresident for research development at MSU, said the survey, represented "an honest statement of needs reflecting the tremendous explosion scientific research."

surrounding ***

Full impact of this tremendous money need cannot be seen. however, without a closer look at what it would include.

Muelder said the expansion in scientific research would call for nearly 100 new faculty members at MSU, representing 56 areas of special skill not now included in the faculty ranks.

About 77 per cent of the $101 million, or $78.2 million, would be used for new buildings which would contain approximately 62 per cent as much space as is now available in all academic buildings on the campus.

The industry's information service notes that Michigan residents collected almost $400 million last year for medical, surgical and hospital care and loss of income.

Special Consideration

High school age wards of the state may soon have available to them a special scholarship fund at several Michigan colleges and universities, according to the Department of Public Instruction. The State Board of Education has approved a plan for granting scholarships to deserving state wards. In addition, other state institutions of higher education have been asked to consider providing special scholarships to these youth.

Four schools, Central, Western, Northern and Eastern Michigan, are under jurisdiction of the State Board of Education. The control board of Michigan College of Mining and Technology also has created a special scholarship fund for state wards. DePersonal News and Notes from Greenleaf

We a fairly reasonable insurance have very little Brucellosis premium - to protect his investment and we haven't even mentioned the hundreds of dollars he would lose in lower income because of production losses if "Bang's" strikes.

You may ask -- why worry about Brucellosis in Tuscola county when it really isn't a big problem? Here are four good reasons:

1. It can happen here -- don't think it can't.

2. It can spell financial ruin. 3. It's a health hazard to the dairyman and his family. (Pasteurization of milk makes it safe for human use). The germ can enter the human body through the mouth or skin abrasions, so working around infected animals can be dangerous.

4. Finally, the 1962 State Legislature passed a bill which will require all female cattle born after January 1, 1963, if sold for dairy or breeding purposes after reaching 9 months of age, to have been officially vaccinated for Brucellosis.

Dairymen in the county have a tremendous investment, not only the value of livestock but also in the necessary facilities to operate a modern dairy farm. This investment plus operation costs make dairy farming a big business -- one that cannot tolerate mistakes or negligence.

Dairymen - Don't neglect your future investment and income -Vaccinate those heifer calves from ages 4 through 8 months -

Since frost has, come to our area, we sometimes are faced with the problem of not having enough fresh vegetables for our menus. When we are considering fresh vegetables for our families, we should not overlook the good nutrition and economy to be found in a head of cabbage, turnips and rutabagas. These lovely cabbage heads do not just happen. Through breeding and development have emerged our tender, succulent and nutritious varieties of cabbage which hold a highly respected place among our vegetables. We, as a nation, eat more cabbage than any other fresh vegetable aside from potatoes and lettuce. Cabbage is an inexpensive supplement of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) in the diet. One pound of raw cabbage will give

St 6:41 19 Dial Seven Numbers For Local Calls

That's right . . . you will dial seven numbers to make local calls starting December 4. That's the day your new automatic dial system will be cut into operation and the day your new directory becomes effective. Because every Cass City telephone will have a new number December 4... be sure to check your new directory for correct numbers.

Complete dial instructions are included in the first pages of your new telephone directory.

General Telephone is proud to bring with this modern communications system, nationwide Direct Distance Dialing. These new services are part of Gen Tel's 1962 $16 million expansion and improvement program in Michigan.

you four cups or eight servings, while one pound will yield two cups of cooked cabbage. You can realize a lower cost-per-serving if you shred the cabbage yourself, as compared to buying the cello-wrapped raw shredded style.

And while we are talking about vitamin C, one-half cup of cabbage will provide you with about one-third of the recommended daily allowance of ascorbic acid for a normally active man. The amount of vitamin C from cooked cabbage will depend on the length of the cooking time. A half-cup serving of cooked cabbage, cooked a short time in a small quantity of water, will provide about one-third of the day's recommended allowance; cooked in a large amount of water for a longer period of time, will provide only about onefourth of the recommended allowance.

Green leaves contain more vitamin C than bleached leaves and the core and outer leaves are richer than the parts generally used at the table. Small heads tend to contain more vitamin C for each unit of weight than large heads.

As storage temperatures and the period of time cabbage is stored rise, vitamin C losses tend to increase. However, cabbage is still a more stable source of ascorbic acid than most leafy vegetables. Just another tip on "saving" vitamin C. Cabbage combined with dressings, such as mayonnaise or French dressing, retains somewhat more vitamin C than cabbage held without dressing.

To retain the best favor, color and nutritive value, cook cabbage in an uncovered pan with just enough water to prevent burning, until tender. Overcooking causes strong odors and flavors and poor color and this often accounts for objections to cabbage from members of our families.

There are so many ways to serve cabbage: cooked, raw or dressed up with many other foods, but how about cabbage cooked in ham broth with potatoes, turnips and rutabagas for a truly wonderful old-fashioned boiled dinner?
