Control of the backboards by defense. the Red Raiders and an excellent 54 per cent shooting percentage from the floor paced Marlette to the victory. Cass City also hit well from the floor with a 40 per cent average but was only able to get 55 shots at the hoop.

The squad showed the lack of experience resulting from the use of several sophomores and untested juniors in the game.

Coach Wayne Wilson was not overly disappointed about the loss and said that the team showed promise in defeat.

The Hawks were hurt by the loss of Walter Hempton on fouls. Hempton racked up four fouls early in the first half and played less than half the game. Many Players Both coaches used many players. Wilson looked at 12 different cagers and Marlette alternated two complete teams.

Lucia, Jul Tomte and Goats Part of Swedish Christmas

Christmas to most people is main dish is ham. We have, how Christmas trees, presents, Santa Claus and big dinners. To Amelie Claus, Swedish exchange student at Cass City High School, Christmas is the queen of light, Smorgasbord, Jul Tomte and a goat under the Christmas tree.

Miss Claus, a senior at Cass City, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harald Claus, Lidkoping, Sweden. She arrived in Cass City Aug. 19 and until Sunday, was staying at the Clinton Law farm, northeast of Cass City. Sunday she moved to the Warren Kelley home in Cass City. Amelie (pronounced Ahmelie) is an attractive brownette whose soft Swedish accent belies her definite attitude. Christmas, as in America, starts about the first of December. The first major event of the holiday is the "Lucia" celebration on Dec. 13. The holiday is celebrated in schools, homes and with parades in the cities. The central figure is "a girl in a long white shirt, wearing a crown of evergreens and candles," tells Amelie.

"She carries a saffron rose . . . no other rose will do, only a saffron rose. We call her Lucia, the queen of light, because it is so dark in Sweden at that time," she explains.

Actually, the Christmas season starts with the first week of Advent and the traditional lighting of the candles. The first candle is burned a quarter of the way down and then the second week a new candle and the first one are both lighted.

The end result is a stair-step of four candles at the end of the four weeks of Advent. Christmas Eve

The next big event after

"Lucia" is Christmas Eve. "It is the most important," Amelie says. That night, the Christmas tree is decorated. "We have our big meal . . .

Fan Blamed in Wednesday Fire

Damage was confined to a furnace in a fire early Wednesday morning at the Jerry Shea residence, 4469 West Street, Cass City, according to a report from Fritz Neitzel, Elkland township fire department secretary.

The fire, reported at 3:00 a.m., was reportedly caused by a fan on the furnace.

The house is owned by Charles 11-29-2 Auten, Cass City.

do you say . . . bouillon? We dip brown bread in it." The dipping of bread into the bouilion is traditional. "I don't like it, but I still do it," Amelie's frank confession. Jul Tomte

Santa Claus, as in many American homes, makes his rounds on Christmas Eve. In Sweden he answers to the name of "Jul Tomte," pronounced "Yul Tom-Ordinarily, he visits just the homes with small children. Oddly enough, Jul Tomte usually bears a striking resemblance to the head of the household.

Hanging stockings by the fireplace is unheard of in Sweden. No tradition in the Swedish observance of Christmas is comparable to the hanging of stock-

Christmas Goat

Conversely, nothing in our observance of Christmas is comparable to the Swedish goat under the Christmas tree. Amelie, who isn't sure why he is there, describes the goat as made of straw, about three feet high and with a red ribbon around its neck. Some are bigger and some are smaller.

Her family places all their presents under the goat, under the tree. Not all families do this, Christmas Day is a full holiday. No one works, nor do they work on the day after Christmas. The day after Christmas is set aside especially for family parties and visiting. The Christmas holiday comes to an end Jan. 13, the "20th day of Christmas", and the Christmas trees are taken down.

"Some people leave their trees up until Easter," she reports. Amelie feels Christmas in Sweden is just as commercial as it is in the United States. "More and more, we are taking much from America," she says. "They see it here and they do it," she concluded. The Swedish people do not celebrate New Year's Eve in as grand a fashion as in America. "We celebrate it more quietly," Amelie reports. "There are no big parties."

Amelie's home town, Lidkoping, population 18,000, is about 400 "Swedish miles" from Stockholm, or approximately 250 American miles.

Her father is a dentist and she has an older sister. Amelie, who learned English in school and during a 10-week visit to England, plans to attend college. Upon returning to Sweden, she will have to finish her senior year. She explained that orclasses. Here, she has only six. tin's Restaurant. Amelie was one of a number of students at her school who applied for a scholarship through Youth for Understanding. In an aside from the difference of Swedish and American Christmases, she pointed out another staggering difference between the two countries. "Adults don't chew gum," she confided. "Children don't do it very often. There's much more discipline in school than here." "Some kids always chew gum," explained Amelie, "but they are what you call 'Beatniks,' or like them."

concluded, "It looks so funny."

More Than a Square Deal

Loot Cash from Gagetown Firm

An unknown burglar got more than a square deal at the Square Deal Hardware Store, Gagetown, early this week, when he broke into the firm and took an estimated $35-40 in bills and change, Bad Axe State Police report. The building was robbed of the money, a lady's wristwatch and possibly other items in the break-in some time Monday night or early Tuesday morning. An inventory will be taken to determine the total losses. According to Trooper Milton Wolner, Bad Axe, the thief entered the store through a boarded up basement window opening into the coal bin. The store, owned by Van Flambrouck, Flint, is managed by his sister-in-law, Miss Melanie Payok.

Miss Payok stated that she returned to the store at about 8:30 p.m. to check the furnace. She believes that the burglar was in the store at that time. Police, however, were unable to place the exact time of the break-in.

Chamber Set For Popular Bike Drawing

The popular free bike drawing returns to Cass City Friday right at 9:30 p.m. when the lucky ticket will be drawn at the corner of Main and Seeger streets. The giveaway is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and tickets are now being given away by participating merchants.

Last year when the bike campaign was combined with a free dance and music, some of the largest crowds of the year crowded West Main Street. The Chamber hopes that the same enthusiasm still prevails.

There will be three bikes given away during the month.

They will be given away Fridays, Dec. 7-14-21.

Hills and Dales Designated Civil Defense Shelter

Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, has been named one of five county locations suitable to serve as Civil Defense shelters in the event of a national emergency.

The announcement was made earlier this week by Frank Kroswek, County Civil Defense director. Also designated shelters were the Tuscola County Nursing Home, the County Court House and two buildings at the State Hospital.

Hills and Dales has been marked for 600 persons, Kroswek reports. The actual number of non-patients would depend on how many bed patients were in the hospital at the time of the emergency.

The hospital will be stocked by the government with food. water, medical supplies and radiological monitoring equipment.

To be eligible as a shelter. Kroswek explained, the building must have a "protection factor of four (at least eight inches of concrete overhead) and be able to serve 50 persons."

Kroswek also announced that Cass City High School Principal Arthur Holmberg is slated to become a licensed radiological monitoring instructor.

On other CD fronts, Kroswek reported that the final Medical Self-help class will be given on December 18. Those passing the examinations will be qualified to act as instructors. Five Cass City persons are enrolled in the

99.9 PERCENT PERFECT

When you consider that the modern automobile has more than 20,-000 separate parts it is little wonder that the job of remedying things that go wrong is becoming more of a specialist's job all the time.

This was illustrated recently when a motorist attempting to eliminate a vibrating noise from beneath his car went to four separate repair shops paying for needless work on his differential, wheel bearings, drive shaft and brakes. The fault lay with a loose clamp on the car's suspension system that permitted a vibration to be set up throughout the bottom of the car, while it was in motion. When the clamp was tightened, the noise disappeared. Lack of knowledge at the service level frequently adds considerably to a motorist's service bill through the repairman having to experiment with various.. remedies while searching for the solution to a mechanical fault. A motorist stuck with such a mechanic is essentially paying for his lack of technical education in wasted time.

Franchised dealers today are vitally concerned with building a sound service establishment through rendering quick quality service at moderate prices. This is especially so in our garage where we prize service as the mainstay of our dealership.

Based on the number of parts involved, a car that was manufactured with 99.9 percent of perfection should have 20 faults according to the mathematicians. That makes a modern automobile less than one tenth of one percent flawless.

It is the dealer's business to know his product so well that even that small percentage is eliminated.

Ross Brown Quits Road Commission After 28 Years

A retirement dinner, paying tribute to 28 years of service with the Sanilac County Road Commission, was held for Ross Brown, 65, of Cass City Friday night, Nov. 30, at the Crossroads Restaurant.

Mr. Brown, a lifetime area resident, was presented a wristwatch by Mark Patterson, foreman, in honor of his 28 years with the commission. The watch was a gift of fellow employees and foreman.

He started as a grader driver in 1934 and was a blade-truck driver when he retired. He celebrated his 65th birthday last visit with relatives in California. He has three children, Mrs. Don (Patsy) Kitchen of Lake Orion, Mrs. Bob (Ione) Smiley of Pontiac and Mrs. James (Normaleen) McIntosh of Cass

Hutchinson in German Maneuvers

L. Hutchinson, 28, whose mother, Mrs. Iva Peterson, lives on Route 3, Cass City, recently participated with other personnel from the 96th Transportation Company in Exercise Marne Rock, a two-week field training exercise conducted in Southern Germany.

The exercise was designed to maintain the individual soldier's over-all combat readiness and effectiveness, with emphasis on small unit tactics.

Hutchinson, a heavy-truck driver in the company in Boblingen, entered the Army in April 1960, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas in June, 1962.

Specialist Hutchinson, son of Daniel Hutchinson, Cass City, attended Cass City High School. Before entering the Army, Hutchinson was employed by the Atlantic Service Station in Danig,

A later primary election will be proposed to the legislature next year with the backing of Secretary of State James M. Hare, Michigan's chief elections officer.

His staff which conducts the elections, however, is not wholeheartedly behind his proposal. The elections division of Hare's office is headed by Robert M. Montgomery, former Republican member of the Legislature.

Montgomery and Hare, despite their different political leanings, usually see eye to eye on ways to improve the election system in Michigan. Hare prides himself on this bipartisan cooperation in the elections office, one of the most important in state government.

On the question of primary dates, however, the two administrators hold opposing views.

Hare contends Michigan should return to a September primary to cut down the length of campaign time required of a candidate. He sees it from the candidate's point of view primarily. He points out that with the exception of the war years, the primaries from 1940 through 1950 were conducted in mid-September rather than the early August dates now set.

Montgomery argues that a September election, with the present number of voters and complications which could arise from a statewide recount, would present a hardship to the people. His main argument is that elections are set to suit the needs of the voting public, not the candidates.

"Candidates, who may be worthy, get overexposed in the current 90-day campaigns," says Hare. "They lose friends and fail to influence people. The campaigns are needlessly expensive too, and few candidates can real-

Limited Supply Special Yule

Stamps Available

The new four-cent Christmas stamp that has gained such wide popularity across the nation and that is in short supply, is available at the Cass City Post Office, Postmaster Lewis Bishop said this week.

However, the supply is limited and they will be issued on a firstcome, first-served basis, the postmaster explained.

In addition to its regular Christmas rush, the postal department is busy preparing for the rate increase that starts Jan. 7, Bishop said.

At this time, first class mail jumps a cent, to five cents an ounce; postcards to four cents; air letters to eight cents, and airmail postcards go to six cents

Greeting cards are "third class" mail and will cost four cents each when postage boosts become effective.

However, for faster service, cards may be sent first class this year for four cents. First class cards will be forwarded or returned to the sender if undeliver-

14 From County At Junior Show

The climax of more than nine months of careful feeding, grooming and training has quickly drawn to a conclusion for the many 4-H Club livestock members who are attending the 33rd annual Detroit Livestock Show.

Fourteen 4-H'ers from Tuscola county have entered animals in the market lamb, hog and steer classes at the show, 4-H Club Agent Ed Schrader reports.

Cattle exhibitors have been working hard with their animals since before March 1 when all steers had to be in the hands of the 4-H youngsters. Sheep and

Dates of this year's show are Dec. 3-6 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Main emphasis of the show is on the education of young stockmen, according to 4-H leaders. They point out that many of these 4-H Club members will be the commercial farmers and meat producers of the fu-

More than 350 exhibitors are expected to bring their prize livestock to the Detroit show, according to Ralph Morrow, 4-H livestock specialist at MSU. The event is jointly sponsored by the MSU 4-H Club Department in cooperation with the Detroit Junior Livestock Society.

Members from 34 counties in Michigan are expected to take part in the show. The livestock exhibitors will compete for several thousand dollars in prize money and a chance to be recognized as the proud owner of a grand champion animal.

Carcass entries were to arrive Monday afternoon. Exhibitors took part in an on-foot judging evaluation of market lambs, hogs and steers the same evening. Carcass evaluation sessions were to have been held in the meat coolers of several Detroit meat packing houses Wednesday.

Other livestock exhibitors arrived Tuesday. The judging followed on Wednesday and the anual sale for the prize lamb, pork and beef will be held today (Thursday).

Headquarters for the show is the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in downtown Detroit. Special awards and grand champion honors were presented at the annual banquet Wednesday.

Entries from Tuscola county include: Larry and Michael Zwerk, Walter Hecht Jr., Vassar; Herman Rupprecht Jr., Frankenmuth; Alan Milligan, Wilbert Goodall, Dean Hutchinson and Roger Root, Cass City; Robert Bullock, Snover; Terry Boyne, Marlette; Kathy and Janet Jickling, Kingston; Mary Sue Burns and Ruth Ann Severance of

pearance, the use or the care

Agent When you determine the value of clothing, do you judge the ap-factor of the garment? Appearance, use and factor vary from person to person because of individual preferences. Also, they may vary each time you shop because the intended use of the garment you buy may be different. For example, if you are buying jeans, the 'use' factor is pretty important.

But if you are buying a dress-up dress, the 'appearance' factor will be more important. The 'care' factor in school slacks will be the important item. Durability and appearance of a lasting style may be of prime importance when you plan to wear a clothing item often or for several years. You should spend less on limited use of short duration items. You should interpret all the information available about each garment before you decide whether or not to buy it. That means that you should study the labels and tags and examine each item and, as you do, try to answer these questions: What is it made of? How well is it made? What service can I expect? What kind of care does it require? Are there any special finishes? If so, what is their value? Is the sizing correct? Is the styling suitable? Are there any special features, such as trim?

Now I would like to leave clothing and go into something wild — wild mushrooms, that is. While wild mushrooms, good and bad, can pop from the ground overnight, commercial mushroom is a business as exacting as the cultivation of orchids. Moisture and temperature must be constant, carefully controlled. Since mushrooms have not one spear of they are indifferent to both sunshine and darkness. The reason they are grown in specially built mushroom houses, or in some cases in caves, is because of suitable temperature and protection against drafts.

Of an estimated 40,000 known species of fungi here and there in the world, some 700 have been found highly edible. The trick is to tell one from the other. In commercial mushroom production they take no chances whatsoever. The compost in which mushrooms must grow goes through a week's pasteurization. After the compost has been cleared of any possible unwanted fungi, the spores of mushrooms, produced by pure culture spawn makers, are broadcast over the prepared beds.

In the United States we prefer the white varieties known as Snow White, White King, White Queen, etc. These are all of the "Agaricus Campestris" species. Seventy-eight per cent is grown in Pennsylvania and the remaining percentage of mushrooms is grown in localities near our largest cities.

Mushrooms have been a deliercy for many, many centuries. The pharaohs of Egypt considered them much too good for the common people. The Chaldeans of Bible times loved them. The Romans called them "the food of the gods" and Julius Caesar passed laws restricting their use to members of his court. Mushrooms will not endow you with colossal strength as the ancient Romans believed they did for warriors; but mushrooms will transform the most ordinary of dishes into a gourmet-styled culinary creation. Because of the unique flavor and texture of this magical cap-on-stem vegetable, it is in ever increasing demand by American cooks.

In convenient canned form, mushrooms are ready for heating as a tasty vegetable and for combining with many other foods. The sliced mushrooms do marvelous things for flavor and appearance when added to Chicken-ala-King and numerous other creamed "specialties." The whole mushrooms and buttons are ideal for broiling or sauteing and used as a garnish for steaks, chicken, fish and other meats. Mushrooms stems and pieces spark the flavor of soups, sauces for vegetables and meats, poultry and fish stuffing, spreads and dips for canapes and snacks.

Starting Off on The Right Foot

Thinking about zipping down a snowy slope on a pair of skis for the first time this season? If so, here are a few suggestions to help you off to a smooth, safe start. Get into shape before starting to ski by doing exercises at home that will strengthen foot, ankle, leg and hip muscles. Learn the fundamentals of this swisher sport from a qualified ski instructor or experienced skier. Seek their competent advice about selecting equipment. Always use safety release bindings and an Arlberg safety strap (top left photo) while skiing. Dress warmly; when your legs, feet and ankles are warm, they function better and are less prone to accidents. As a novice, avoid skiing on crowded slopes. Don't be a hot-rod on skis. Always smooth over holes made in the snow when you fall.

Final Services for Jane MacKichan

Funeral services for Miss Jane MacKichan, 86, native of Austin township in Sanilac county, were held Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Douglas Funeral Home. The Rev. M. R. Vender officiated and burial was in Elkland cemetery. Miss MacKichan died Nov. 28 in Stevens Nursing Home where she had been a patient since June, Daughter of the late Alex and Lillie MacKichan, she was born July 27, 1876.

She is survived by a nephew, Robert MacKichan of New York City, and a niece, Mrs. John H. Flewelling of Lansing, and several cousins.

Gosh, I'm all choked up. You may remember that last week our family, at least my side of it, was torn asunder by the death of Cyclone, my beloved goldfish. Friday I received a sympathy card from Sue Greenleaf, I was really touched. I just didn't think anyone cared. It was signed, "In deepest sympathy for the loss of your

IT SEEMS TO ME Two Suggestions

For Fair Symbol

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

In the issue of October 25, I reported an attempt of THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY to get its readers to suggest what item should be the Christian Symbol for display at the 1964 World's Fair. I urged readers to send in their ideas and would like to share with you, very briefly, from two of those replies.

The question I asked was, "What most adequately stands for your faith?" Bonnie Profit says, among other things; "Any beliefs which an individual holds to be self-evident in his personal life compose his faith. The nonbeliever of religious standards also creates his own faith in rejection of common spiritual pre-She concludes her thoughtful (or 'even "thoughtfull") letter by quoting this ancient saying: "A wise man changes his mind often, a fool

The second letter writer did not include a name, so I cannot give credit where credit is due. This letter, too, ends in a proverbial saying: "What is serving God?

'Tis doing good to man." People who attempted to write their ideas to share with us soon realized that it is difficult to symbolize our faith with a 'thing.' I congratulate those who did write us for their honest attempts to organize their personal faith. That is what makes Cass City a good town in which ministers can work with people who try to make their faith valid for such days as those in which we

Or so it seems to me.

* * * * Still cleaning out the file of notes accumulated during my illness -- so I will trust the Cubans not to start a world war, Governor Barnett of Mississippi not to start a civil war and the courts not to rule on religious issues while I share in "bits of little-ness.' For example, did you read about the child kept in after school? Seems he was caught praying!

Imagine my amazement the other day when I saw a pickup truck on the railroad tracks near the depot! It turned out to have regular wheels plus a set to fit the tracks. What I could do with that! I saw railroad-type wheels on a car down in the Ozark Mountains some years ago - but in the home country of "Snuffy Smith," every potential escape route from the "G-Men" (including my Dad) explained that car. Chief Palmateer, you had better check on the activities of Stationmaster Angus McEachin!

We stop to pay tribute to those in their "golden years." Included are: Douglas MacArthur, who thinks we are at the beginning of our history; Amos Alonzo Stagg, for seventy years a football coach, now 100 years old! His creed: "My prayer has not been for victory. It has been 'let me do my best." And Mrs. Marion Hart, a mere 70 years of age, who recently 'pulled a Lindy' by crossing the Atlantic in a single-engined plane. She learned to fly at 54!

In the June 23 issue, THE NEW YORKER magazine had a frightening report on how spraying to control insects upsets the balance of nature. It seems to indicate that we're killing the wrong bugs and that those which do remain alive are thriving on the insecticides. (I wish someone would kill that fly buzzing around my typewriter. Fil shoo him over to Dave Kraft's

To arms! To arms! The Foreign Legion has disappeared — to be seen no more! Where does a man threaten to go now, when his wife threatens?

The Saints and Sinners luncheon in Washington, D. C., heard the actor portraying Secretary of State Dean Rusk ruminate about Cuba thusly: "I don't know whether to send JFK to buy it, Billie Sol Estes to steal it, Senator Hubert Humphrey to talk Castro out of it, or Harry Truman to tell him where to put it." Wally Phillips of the Chicago Tribune suggests an international TV split-screen hook-up starring Castro and Khrushchev. Title? "Arsenic and Old Louse."

May I congratulate the person who read proof in my column of Nov. 22? Writing about Casey Stengel's comment on his book, I quoted his own, typical comment: "It's all very instuctural." It came out in good grammar, all right, but not good 'Stengeleze' and not true to old Casey! (It was corrected to read "instructional.")

Did you realize that an average seven out of 10 people overpay their income tax? Reason is that new rules are not yet common knowledge.

Not being familiar with Charles Dickens, twist specialists by the dozen turned out for try-outs in Switzerland recently. The play being cast was "Oliver Twist"! Replacing the association of "wine, women and song" is "Metrecal, the same old Gal and Sing Along with Mitch."

If you don't think smoking makes a woman's voice harsh, try dropping a cigarette on her rug.

And, finally, Add this to the list

Of cosmic jokes: Folks used to take capsules;

Now capsules take folks! Blastoff!

finds it much easier to get the swing of things.

My old lady was in town last Saturday and she brung home one of them slick magazines fer wimmen. On account of me not gitting my weekly dose of fine reading material from the Department of Agriculture and them other Guvernment agencies, I picked up this thing the other night to give it a glimpse or two.

Things is going on in this country, Mister Editor, that the menfolks don't know about. Some of the items that was in that magazine ought to be barred under the Fifth Amendment. Fer instant, one of them female writers allowed as how the average man could tell everything he knowed in one hour flat, Personal, I don't think it would slow down his conversation much. After that he could set in and talk about wimmen.

And she claimed a "survey" showed that wimmen was talking a heap slower than they was 20 years ago. Just how you could git a "survey" on this subject is

Services Held for

Funeral services were held Saturday, Dec. 1, at Little's Funeral Home for George W. Robinson, 79, lifetime area resident, following his death Wednesday, Nov. 28, at his home in Austin township. He had been in ill health the past four years.

He and Mrs. Robinson, the former Laura Mae Rogers, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple were married November 13. 1912, in Ubly and moved to the homestead.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: a daughter, Mrs. Carl (Irene) Wright of Cass City, and a son, William of Champaign, Illinois. Also surviving are six grandchildren and four greatgrandchildren. Three brothers and one sister preceded him in

Rev. Luke Yoder of Bay Port and Rev. James Braid of Cass City officiated at the services and interment was in Elkland

Dear Mister Editor:

And another woman writer was claiming that they is a plot among men writers to git wives back in the kitchen. I think this statement was a little overdrawed and that most men would be satisfied just to git the wife back in the house. But the item that put the stopper in the jug was this piece by some woman perfesser at one of them big female colleges in New York. First off, she says gossip is good fer wimmen, claims the reason wimmen live longer than men is because they relax by gossiping. If that's true, Mister Editor, we got several female characters out this way that'll live to be 187.

Use Direct Distance Dialing

. . . and you'll agree that this fascinating finger-tip convenience makes long distance calling easier and more fun than ever.

There are just three easy steps: 1. Dial 1. 2. Dial the area code, if one is needed. 3. Dial the number of the phone you are calling. When you hear the "beep-beep" tone, the operator is waiting for you to tell her the number of the phone you are using.

Person-to-person, credit card and paystation calls must be placed with the operator. For complete DDD instructions, check the first pages of your new directory.

Varied Program at OES Meeting

Forty attended the November meeting of Echo Chapter OES Wednesday evening, Nov. 28. The new worthy matron, Mrs. Keith Murphy, presided. In the business meeting, members voted a contribution to the Christmas TB Seal project, Plans were made for
