

Industries Report More Jobs Here

Cass City industrial officials are making optimistic forecasts for business and employment in 1963, following 1962's record breaking employment peaks.

A survey of the industries this week shows that employment in most cases is slightly up from a year ago. Nearly all of the factories anticipate reaching 1962's peak and in some instances, even surpassing it.

The uplift in employment naturally parallels the recent report by Cass City merchants announcing a banner business year in 1962.

General Insulated
General Insulated Wire Works, Inc., moved from Cass City's second largest employer to the largest during the year. Employment hit a peak of 250 persons during 1962, as compared to 1961's high of 145.

Paul Alfano, personnel manager, in previewing 1963, estimated the company will hit a peak employment of 300 persons before the year is out.

The company's 1962 low was 145 persons, well over 1961's low of 80 employees.

Walbro Corporation
Walbro moved into second place as an employer but remained in close contention for first with a peak employment of 225 in 1962. Top employment in 1961 was 175 persons. Low for the year was 120 persons in June as compared to 80 in 1961. The overall average was 160 persons in '62.

Lambert Althaver, Walbro official, predicted that while 1962 was better than 1961, the coming year will be even better than 1962. The current work force totals about 200 persons.

Bassett Manufacturing
Bassett Manufacturing, makers of automotive under parts, heaters and other car items, is currently experiencing a peak employment of 25 persons, according to Robert Bassett, owner.

The firm hit a low employment of seven persons last June, just prior to the automobile model change-over. Bassett anticipates neither any hiring nor lay-offs during the new year.

Business for the year was about 30 per cent greater than in 1961, Bassett reported. He predicted that if the automobile industry's new mid-year model release is a success, business will probably be about 15-20 per cent greater than in 1962.

Erla Meat Packing
Erla's Cass City Meat Packing Company posted a 25 per cent increase in wholesale business and anticipates about the same amount of business in 1963, according to Richard Erla.

Top employment for the year was 37 persons and settled at about 35 employees for most of 1962. Employment is up about 10-12 persons over recent years.

Erla stated employment may increase if plans for anticipated expansion of both the firm's market and meat packing plant are finalized in 1963.

Anrod Screen
Anrod Screen Cylinder continued to maintain its four-year level of 30 persons, listing a peak of 34 employees for a short period in 1962, according to Almer Krueger, plant head.

Krueger anticipates that employment will hold its level with perhaps a slight decrease during the year.

Evans Products
Evans Products, Gagetown, currently has an employment force of 30 persons after reaching a high of 125 during the year. Average employment for the year was about 65-70.

How 1963 shapes up depends on the number of contract jobs the firm will handle, according to Jerald Concluded on page two.

Expect Interest To Lag in First Elkland Primary

Elkland township will hold its first primary election in history, but interest is not expected to be too high with only one post being contested and just one new candidate on the slate.

Township Clerk C. E. Patterson announced the slate following a three-day delay during which two candidates decided whether or not to run. Only one withdrew.

The contested race is for the treasurer's post with incumbent Delbert Profit pitted against Mrs. Laurence (Gloria) Hartwick.

New on the slate is Don Koepfgen, seeking the Board of Review seat. He was originally running against John Zinnecker, incumbent, but Zinnecker withdrew his petition.

Seeking re-election are: Ed Golding Sr., supervisor; C. E. Patterson, clerk, and John Marshall, trustee. No contestable candidates were filed. Albin Stevens is justice.

County Officers Capture Young Wisconsin Escapace

An 18-year-old Green Bay, Wis., state reformatory escapee was captured Wednesday, Jan. 2, by Tuscola County Sheriff's men near the Deford farm where he spent the past two months as a hired man.

Arrested by ex-sheriff Bill Tomlinson and Deputy Carl Palmateer was Arthur Shockley of Racine, Wis. He had worked for the past two months at the Gordon Holcomb farm, Deford.

Shockley, who when captured was using the alias "Jim Hanson," and another inmate escaped from the reformatory six months ago. Shockley's partner was captured shortly after the escape.

Shockley reportedly later stole a car and a gun. According to Deputy Palmateer, he removed the shells from the gun, smashed it and threw it in a ditch near Deckerville.

The law officers captured Shockley by directing Holcomb to send him on an errand on a tractor. When the youth was on a relatively deserted stretch of road, the officers moved in. Shockley offered no resistance.

Shockley was serving time at the state reformatory for breaking and entering and stealing a car.

The youth waived extradition Wednesday during a Circuit Court session before Judge Timothy Quinn and was returned under custody to Wisconsin Saturday evening.

People, Temperature Mild in Mussoorie, Missionary Tells

"Who's teaching the missionary's children while the missionary is busy teaching at the mission?" is a question few people give any consideration.

The popular picture of the missionary is one who brings spiritual and mental education and administers to the physical needs of the less fortunate of other countries.

Harold Jump and his wife, Edith, know who's teaching the missionary's children, at least those of Seventh Day Adventists in Southern Asia . . . they are.

Jump, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Jump, rural Cass City, recently returned from six years at Mussoorie, U-P Province, India, where he is upper elementary teacher and principal at the Vincent Hill School.

His wife, originally dean of girls, is presently school matron and French teacher.

The school, divided into three sections, grades 1-6, 7-8 and 9-12, has about 90 students. Technically, it is for children of missionaries of the General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, South Asia Division.

"South Asia Division" includes, in part, Burma, Pakistan, Ceylon, all of India, and Afghanistan. Children of some missionaries in Ethiopia and Lebanon also attend.

Jump, his wife and three children left for the school in November, 1956. The boat they were on was one of the first to be turned away because of the Suez Canal trouble.

The closure of the canal forced their ship to go around the tip of Africa, causing a delay of about two weeks.

Mussoorie is located at about 6,700 feet in the foothills of the Himalayas, approximately 90 miles southwest of Delhi. Called the "Queen of the Hills," the main section of the summer resort town is spread over eight miles of hills.

Jump couldn't estimate the population of the town, except that during the summer, it swells to about 50 times its normal size.

Climate
The popularity of the area is due largely to its climate with temperatures ranging from a low of 24 degrees to a high of 90-95 degrees. There is always a gentle, cooling wind.

There is some snow in the winter, Jump relates, but it doesn't last very long. At its worst, snow may get two feet deep.

The school is two and a half miles from town and there is no mechanical transportation, except a scooter in case of an emergency.

Living Expenses
The cost of living depends largely on the seasons as far as fruit and vegetables are concerned. In season, they are plentiful and cheap. Out of season, they are hard to get and prices may rise four times as much.

Canned food, particularly American food stuffs, are always expensive, almost three times as much as in the States.

"Cheese is very expensive," Jump related. "A 10-ounce piece of cheese may cost as much as $1.60."

Some items may cost as much as 100 per cent more than here. Clothing is also expensive unless you use the native cotton.

County Parties To Meet

January is slated to be a busy month for the county's two major parties with both groups holding conventions and with the Democrats scheduling a membership drive kickoff.

First to hold their county convention will be the Democrats on Wednesday, Jan. 23, in the Court Rooms at the Court House at 8:00 p.m.

Delegates named at this session will attend the Democratic state convention Feb. 2 in Grand Rapids.

The Republican convention will open Jan. 30 at 8:00 p.m. in the Court Room of the Court House. Eleven delegates will be picked to attend the Republican state convention Feb. 16, also in Grand Rapids.

The state conventions will be selecting candidates for state superintendent of public instruction, two seats on the University of Michigan board of regents, two seats on the Wayne State University board of governors, two seats on the Michigan State University board of trustees and two state supreme court justices.

Both parties will also select new state central committee chairmen and vice-chairmen.

Membership Drive
Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski and Frank J. Sierawski, assistant secretary of state, will speak at the County Democratic Membership Drive Kick-off meeting Saturday, Jan. 12 at the Hotel Montague, Caro.

Further details may be obtained from Melvin J. Stewart, county Democratic chairman Vassar.

Synthetics such as dacron or nylon are "very expensive." The quality of home-grown products is never as good as American merchandise, he asserted.

Pliers, for example, are very hard to find. Those of good quality steel are very expensive and even those can't compete with foreign made products.

The larger cities, such as New Delhi and Calcutta, are almost Concluded on page three.

Cass City Junior Miss Crown Goes To Owendale Girl

Pretty 17-year-old April Fluegge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fluegge, Owendale, was named Cass City Junior Miss following a talent show Monday night at the Cass City High School.

Miss Fluegge, picked from a field of five girls from Cass City, Owendale and Deckerville, is now eligible for the state finals at Pontiac, Jan. 26. The contest was sponsored by the Cass City Jaycees.

Other contestants were Suzanne Barnes and Pat Finkbeiner, both of Cass City, Kathy VanVleet, Deckerville, and Kathleen Kretschmer, Owendale.

April will receive a "Bobbie Brooks" sport outfit and a cooler for entering the state finals.

At the state finals, Miss Fluegge will compete against other girls picked by other Michigan Jaycee chapters. The winner of the state contest will receive a $2,000 scholarship and a week's paid trip to Memphis, Tenn., for the national finals this spring. Prizes in the national contest total $14,000.

Judges were Don Kaufman, Jim Jezewski, Dick Gaffney and Rod Krueger, with Mrs. Kaufman and Mrs. Jezewski assisting.

Improving Hawks Edged by Lakers

Cass City showed marked improvement in their first post-holiday game as they battled Elktion-Pigeon-Bay Port to the wire before dropping a 53-49 decision on the Lakers' spacious floor Friday.

Improved performances by three sophomores, Jim Champion, Ed Retherford and Jim Knoblet, helped Cass City battle the Lakers on almost even terms.

After trailing by as much as 10 points midway in the third period, Cass City rallied to move within a single bucket in the dying moments of the game only to see the Lakers control the ball for the last 50 seconds and walk off with their fourth victory in the conference. The Hawks now have a single win and three losses in Thumb B Conference competition.

The Hawks showed marked improvement in one area of their game Friday. From the charity circle, they connected on 15 of 21 tries with Roger Parker banging home six for six and Champion four for five.

Coach Wayne "Speed" Wilson was pleased with the performance of the club even though he said that the boys were not driving for the basket enough and were guilty of several defensive lapses.

Weather Blamed In Local Accidents

Holiday accidents in Cass City injured one person and kept village police busy recently. Poor driving conditions were blamed in each accident.

A parked car, operated by Roger Parker, Cass City, was damaged on the right side by an unidentified motorist Wednesday, Jan. 2, in front of the Dairy Mart. Patrolman William McKinley investigated.

On New Year's Day, a car driven by Robert Wright, 24, Lincoln Park, went out of control and struck a light pole on West Street. Wright was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment of leg injuries, according to a report by Police Chief Carl Palmateer.

Cars driven by Susan Coykendall, 18, Cass City, and Lola Tolonen, 58, Pontiac, collided at the intersection of West and Pine streets Monday afternoon, Dec. 31. Damage was slight. An occupant in the Coykendall vehicle was Sandra Shagena, 17, Cass City.

On Monday, Dec. 24, a car driven by Mrs. David Kraft, Cass City, skidded into the rear of a car driven by Ronald Parrott, rural Cass City, at the intersection of Main and Seeger streets. According to Chief Palmateer, Parrott was parked, waiting for the light to change and Mrs. Kraft was unable to stop because of ice on the pavement.

Area persons were involved in two separate accidents in Cass City and Kingston, Friday, Jan. 4, according to reports from Cass City and county police.

In the Kingston accident, a car driven by Henry P. Leshkevich, Caro, slammed into a car owned by Arnold Moore, Kingston, while the vehicle was parked in front of the Kingston High

New Manager at Gagetown Bank

Mrs. Nelda Phillips has been appointed manager of the Gagetown branch of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Sebawaing, according to Norman H. Schroeder, president.

Mrs. Phillips was also named assistant cashier. She replaces Donald Wilson who resigned last summer, effective December 31.

She worked for six years at the Unionville Savings Bank before becoming affiliated with the Sebawaing bank in August, 1962, at the main office.

Wilson had been associated with the Gagetown bank for many years and when it merged with the Sebawaing Farmers and Merchants Bank six years ago, he became vice-president and manager.

Mr. Wilson joined the bank in September, 1935, while it was still owned by the late James Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will leave for Redwood City, Calif., in February to spend several weeks touring the West.

School. Leshkevich told Deputy Robert Larsen that he was sick from sugar in his blood. Larsen's report stated that later Leshkevich's condition was found to be from drinking.

Cass City Police Chief Carl Palmateer investigated when cars driven by Mrs. Clifton Ferguson, Deckerville, and Alva McAlpine, Gagetown, collided on E. Main the same day.

McAlpine had reportedly just pulled away from the curb and was moving slowly when struck by the Ferguson vehicle.

Green is Speaker Of House

Allison Green, Tuscola representative, was named Speaker of the House Tuesday night in a caucus held in the House Chambers at Lansing. Green will be the first Tuscola representative to become Speaker in the past 87 years.

His official election to the post was to have been held yesterday

Allison Green (Wednesday) when the House convened.

The county's last Speaker of the House was John P. Hoyt, first elected in 1872. He served two terms in the state legislature.

Green, Tuscola County's representative in Lansing for the past 12 years, was opposed for the post by Rep. Homer Arnett, Kalamazoo, and Rep. Wilford G. Bassett, Jackson, both Republicans.

A former opponent for the post, Rep. Robert Waldron, Grosse Pointe Republican, is currently seeking Green's floor leader's post. Green held that post for the past eight years.

Green was elected in 1950, over a veteran Fairgrove representative. There is no additional pay for the speaker's post, although the speaker has a $1,000 expense account.

As speaker, Green will be in charge of committee appointments, clerk, stenographic and janitorial appointments and appointment of page boys.

Born at Caro, Oct. 28, 1911, Green was graduated from Caro High School and Central Michigan University. He was a member of the county board of education and has been a teacher, coach, principal and superintendent in Tuscola county. He is also a beef farmer.

His wife is the former Marjorie C. Denhoff, Kingston. The couple have six children.

Cass City Pair Purchase ST & H Station Lease

Two local men, Earney Seeley and "Bud" Peasley, have taken over the management of the ST&H Oil Service Station in Cass City.

The pair purchased the lease from Grant Hutchinson. Hutchinson reportedly listed heavy farm commitments as the reason for the sale.

Seeley and Peasley boast 35 years of experience in serving Cass City customers. Peasley was with the Farm Produce Company for 22 years and Seeley worked for Cass City Oil and Gas for 13 years.

Another familiar face will be Richard McClorey who has been at the station for the past 10 years.

The station will continue to offer Sinclair Products, minor car repairs, car wash, muffler and tail pipe repairs and grease and oil service.

Golding Explains Local Tax Picture

Elkland Supervisor Ed Golding Sr. told Rotarians the pitfalls and problems that he faces as tax equalizer for the township, Tuesday noon, at the New Gordon Hotel, he explained how the township's assessed valuation is adjusted to the state's equalized valuation for the purpose of raising money.

Although many persons cannot understand it, the amount of the assessed valuation is always adjusted so that taxes are raised on the valuation as determined by the State, said Golding, as he opened his address.

However, if we listed the assessment at the state's figure, many property owners would feel that their valuation had been raised way up without any improvements to their property, the supervisor explained. For this reason a county assessed valuation lower than the state's valuation is used and the figure adjusted (or equalized) to meet the state's valuation.

More Money
Regardless of the type method used for computing taxes, it is costing more to run county, school and township than it did five or 10 years ago.

When you think of the roads, schools and services offered today, you know what the increased cost is for, Golding asserted. No one would like to go back to conditions as they were 10 years ago.

In 1962, the total state equalized valuation for Tuscola county was $10,624,838.

Golding closed his address by pointing out that it is impossible to visit each property owner individually during assessing time.

But if you or any taxpayer feels that he is over assessed, by all means call me at my home so that your assessment can be rechecked and the assessment explained or changed if it proves to be in error, he said.

Golding was introduced by Cliff Ryan, program chairman.

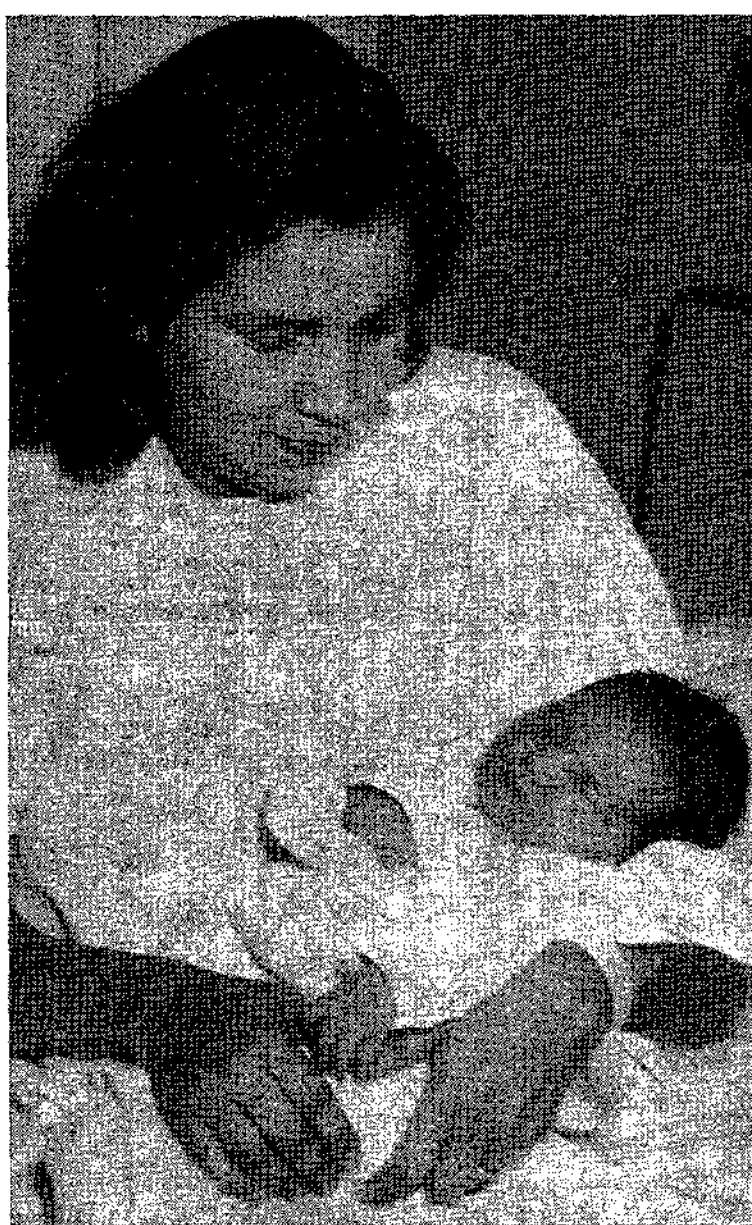

Emergency Repairs For Gagetown Tank

Gagetown's 50-year-old water storage tank is undergoing emergency repairs for the second time in 18 months, according to a report from Joe Mosack, village president.

Repairs on the tank, located in the Municipal building basement, are to include new nipples and bypass pipes and a new "pop-off" valve next to the main intake at the tank.

Although the system is 50 years old, many of the original wooden mains are still in use and in excellent condition, Mosack remarked.

In reporting on the repairs, Mosack expressed the village's gratitude for assistance from Cass City's Public Works head, Bill Schram. He also cited the cooperation of the village during the emergencies.

CARL LEE SPENCER seems a little indifferent about having his picture taken as the first baby born in Cass City and at Hills and Dales Hospital in 1963. Born Wednesday, Jan. 2, at 8:35 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spencer, Cass City, the boy weighed in at 10 pounds and was 20 inches long. The Spencers have six children at home. Mr. Spencer is a mechanic at Bulen Motors. (Chronicle photo)

From the Editor's Corner

The first primary election in history for Elkland township presents a problem for township officials.

Ordinarily, one precinct votes at the municipal building and the other at the town hall. This year the village is holding a primary on the same date and will be using the municipal building for its own election.

Because of the conflict, township officials are busy preparing the town hall so that both precincts will vote in the same building.

Barring a snowstorm between now and the week end, we can personally report that skating on the bay at Bay Port is excellent.

We spent the better part of the afternoon Sunday with the family on a winter picnic and skating party and cannot recall ever finding better skating ice.

The fishing seemed to be about as poor as the skating was good. There must have been more than a dozen fishermen in our immediate area and we failed to see one fish caught in about three hours.

Cage fans who took the trouble to go to Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Friday night were treated to two action-packed, interesting games. Despite the fact that Cass City has won only once in five tries, every game has been at least reasonably close and interesting to watch. The Hawks figure to be able to upset any team left on their schedule with the possible exception of Sebawaing which boasts a veteran powerhouse squad.

INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

Tusco Products

An unconfirmed report from Tusco Products lists a current work staff of 17 persons coming from a high of 30 shortly before cutbacks in October.

The company is in the midst of a comeback try and appears to be making headway. Started in 1957, the firm was forced to close its doors in July of 1961.

A skeleton crew of nine employees started work again in June, 1962. Before the shutdown the shop employed nearly 200 persons.

It is speculated that employment will rise again during the automobile model change-over.

Mrs. Braid Speaks at WSCS

Mrs. James Braid told some 50 members of the WSCS Monday evening the history of the World Council of Churches, telling of the organization's founding in 1910 until the last assembly at New Delhi in 1961.

Speaking at the Methodist Church, she explained how the '61 meeting was especially important because it was then that the International Missionary Association joined the Council. The program was completed with a panel discussion. Participating were Mrs. Ronald Raulin, Mrs. William Leverich and Mrs. Dale Brown.

It was shown that the political theories of a country do not keep it from membership in the Council. Programs successfully completed by the Council include settling over 1,000 refugees and distribution of medicine, food and clothing to 50 countries. Fifty-seven nationalities were represented by the 577 delegates at New Delhi.

Mrs. Malvina Howarth gave the devotion, "Jesus Christ the Light of the World." Group V, with Mrs. Wrayburn Krohn and Mrs. Jerry Shea, cochairmen, were in charge of the supper.

Mecca for Muskrats

It's a good bet this muskrat trapper won't be empty-handed when he returns from checking his sets in this marshy section of the Maple River state game area, about 10 miles north of St. Johns along US-27. Dotted with dome-shaped muskrat houses, the 200-acre wildlife flooding yielded 2,800 'rats last season--14 to the acre. A take of 3-4 muskrats per acre is considered good in most parts of the state. The animals' numbers remain exceptionally high at the flooding this year, but their supply of food is dwindling fast. Last season's harvest was a spectacular end product of stabilized water levels and good food supplies which encouraged the big buildup of 'rats. Managed primarily for waterfowl under the Conservation Department's multiple-use program, the water impoundment produced a better-than-average 100 broods of ducks in 1962. The department is managing some 40 major, water-controlled floodings similar to the one at Maple River. Many are bringing trappers' good returns but none as dramatically as the Maple River project--Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Hide Air Condition Work for Movies

Audiences seeing the new film, "Mutiny on the Bounty", would never guess that the re-created British man-of-war is, below decks, a modern vessel, complete with diesel engines, radar and of all things, air conditioning.

This information comes from David Matthews of M & M Plumbing & Heating Company, who received a description of the ship's air conditioning system from Lennox Industries Inc., manufacturer of the equipment.

Since the film was made in tropical Tahiti, the air conditioning had to be able to handle not only the hot, humid air but also contend with the problem of cooling the ship's cabins and dining facilities which are mainly located in that portion of the hull which lies below the water line, the water temperature averaging 80 degrees.

Modern-appearing equipment could not, of course, be allowed on deck, and so considerable ingenuity was required to conceal air intakes and exhausts. This was solved by Lennox engineers who concealed the air intake in the deck-mounted chicken coop (ships of that era carried their own livestock) and provided air discharge through an opening in the capstan, the post on which the anchor chain is wound when the vessel is under way.

Exhaust from the ship's diesel engines is through the center mast

A collection of new books arrived recently at the Cass City and Elkland township library, according to the librarian.

County Shows Sharp Increase In Number of Businesses

The business population of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in Tuscola County has increased 14 per cent during the post World War II period, announces Mr. W. S. Garrison, District Manager of the Detroit office of Dun and Bradstreet, Inc. He states that figures obtained by a physical count of the January 1963 edition of the Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book included 665 business names listed in Tuscola County as compared with 583 in 1947.

According to Mr. Garrison, each January business concerns in all parts of the United States are asked by Dun and Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements. This year requests are being sent to approximately three million business concerns.

The Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book lists those manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit but it does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers. Therefore, the figures for total business in the United States would be higher than the three million quoted above.

Using the Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book listings as a guide, it is interesting to review what has happened in the principal Tuscola County communities during the 'post World War II period.

Farm Bureau Ladies Hear Mrs. Wiltse

The women's committee of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau met at the Farm Bureau Center in Caro Jan. 4.

Twenty-one members heard Mrs. Gladys Wiltse, Caro, a member of the Tuscola County Social Welfare board, tell of woman's views of welfare.

She traced the reasons for welfare assistance and related ways in which the department serves to help the needy. It was reported that 241 tons of surplus commodities were distributed in 1962 to welfare and low income families in this county.

During the business session Mrs. Walter Moderow, Reese, was elected delegate to the legislative tour of Washington, D. C., Feb. 24-27.

The committee received commendations from the Tuscola County Farm Bureau board of directors for their outstanding program and achievements during the year. The group received a first place award in the state contest for which Mrs. Clare Carpenter, chairman of women's activities, was given a trip to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Atlanta, Georgia, in December.

Plans were made to host the District six Advisory Council meeting to be held in Caro Jan. 28.

Officers from Huron, Sanilac, Lapeer and St. Clair counties will meet with those in Tuscola county to formulate programs and projects for the year.

Play it safe on the highways—you'll find it's time well invested.

A well-made suit or coat has tape secured along the inside edge. Home economists at Michigan State University say this hidden feature insures a firm, smooth line along the edge of the garment.

We Folded Our Shanty And Silently Slipped Away

By Dave Kraft

Life is full of seemingly insurmountable obstacles. My latest problem is what to feed a seven-inch perch.

I've posed this problem to several persons. I always get two answers. The first one is "A what?"

The second answer is "You're not supposed to feed them, you're supposed to eat them."

That's where the problem comes in. I know what you're supposed to do with the darn things, but before you can do that, you got to clean them.

Before I get too far ahead of myself, let me explain that the fish joined our family as the result of an ice fishing excursion north of here. My first.

I went with Al Avery and his son Doug and Fritz Neitzel. We went up in Al's station wagon. You ever ride in Al's station wagon?

Well, actually, you don't ride in it, you assist. You keep one foot over the hole in the side of the door, the other foot over the hole in the floorboard, your shoulders against the side windows to keep the frost off them and then you talk like crazy to keep warm because the heater doesn't work. He's thinking about trading it in.

Thus situated, you travel from place to place. Luckily, Al recently finished a medical self help program through the county civil defense and if you end up with a vertical vertebra or a wrenched tibia, he can straighten you out.

Anyhow, by the time we got to the lake, I was so cold you could have chopped a hole in me and used me to fish through.

I stepped out of the car and a blast of cold air turned all my blood into instant ice. It was just as well. Al forgot to bring along the ice spud for chopping holes so they just turned me upside down and used my pointed little head.

We sat in the first spot for three hours and caught nothing but a severe case of cramps, runny noses and bulging eyes from staring at the end of our lines.

Once a couple of the guys went to check on some of the other fishermen to see how they were doing. They came back and we asked them how the others were faring.

One of them answered, "One guy had two, but I think he brought them from home."

It was right about then that we decided to change locations.

At the next place there was a surplus of fishermen sitting on little boxes. It looked like an Icelandic monk's convention and they were all trying to drown their prayer wheels.

We chopped holes and set up the shanty.

I become quite emotional when fishing and I jerked my first fish up so hard that he fell off my line, flopped around for a second and then fell into the other ice hole.

Within the next three hours, we caught in the neighborhood of 20 perch.

After awhile we folded our shanty and silently slipped away. Somewhere along the line, I must have really offended the rest of our entourage, because when we got home they made me take all the fish.

I took them into the house and ordered my wife to clean them. She ordered me to go soak my head.

She quoted some scripture. Something about "He who catcheth, cleaneth." It's funny, but I don't recall ever hearing that before.

I put the fish in a pan, ran some water over them and commenced to cleaneth.

I had cleaneth about halfeth of them when I noticed this one swimming like crazy in the bottom of the pan. He'd been out of water for at least six hours!

I kept telling myself, "I'll clean him next." It's the same one that's swimming around in a dish pan in the basement.

From here on out, I'm going by the old adage, "It is more blessed to give away than to have to cleaneth."

Suggest "Florida Keys" Project for Lake St. Clair

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Create Land

Recreation lands are in great demand in Michigan and most natural resource enthusiasts agree that scarcity of land will be a critical situation soon, if it is not such already.

State parks and recreation areas bear a heavier load of campers, swimmers and picnicking groups every year. Where will additional land for Michigan people and out-of-state tourists come from in the future?

One idea man, completely outside the Conservation Department, has a unique idea of where one batch of new recreational lands can be created.

Paul Lutzeier, aide to Secretary of State James M. Hare, suggests Lake St. Clair offers great potential for new recreation facilities.

The lake, particularly in the shallow areas near Harsen's Island, is a natural for man-made islands linked together in the same way the Florida Keys are joined. Lutzeier says this unique project would be "one dramatic, yet relatively inexpensive solution, to the pressing problem of providing recreation lands."

Conservation officials are considering Lutzeier's proposal for a pilot study of the island idea. Charles E. Millar, head of the department's lands division, said the idea definitely "has some merit."

The location proposed for the island-making project is an area where Lake St. Clair ranges in depth between two and 12 feet. Lutzeier suggested that material periodically dredged from the shipping channel in the lake and industrial waste from the Detroit metropolitan area could be used as raw materials for the islands.

Because of the population concentration in the Southeast Michigan area, the chain of 20 islands proposed by Lutzeier would provide recreation opportunities for the hundreds of thousands who live within 50 miles of Lake St. Clair.

Lutzeier, who also worked with Hare in planning the now annual International Freedom Festival in cooperation with Windsor, Ont., officials, sees Lake St. Clair as "an acre of diamonds. It has the greatest recreation potential in Michigan because of the population surrounding it."

Unemployment Down

What's ahead in 1963? For one thing, the job outlook is good, according to Michigan State University Economist Roger L. Bowlby.

Michigan's unemployment rate has been steadily dropping and the trend seems to be continuing, Bowlby said. "For the first time since early 1956, Michigan's rate of unemployment has dropped below the national average," he said.

A continuation of this trend, although the national unemployment figure remains relatively high, should take Michigan out of the category of "the problem state," the MSU spokesman predicts.

A continuation of the drop in unemployment will largely depend on the overall performance of the American economy, Bowlby pointed out, but the recent trend appears to be strong enough to warrant a prediction of its extension.

Loss of defense jobs and decentralization of the auto industry were blamed for many of Michigan's problems in the employment record during the past few years. Bowlby predicts these will not likely be important factors in the coming years.

"It is very reasonable to guess that Michigan will share in the national growth of output, income and employment during 1963," he said.

More Young Criminals

Juvenile delinquency may increase in the immediate and near future, warns State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

This conclusion is drawn by Childs on the basis of current rates of delinquency in comparison with projected numbers in the juvenile population of the state.

During 1961, Childs reports about two-thirds of the persons arrested by various police agencies for major offenses were under 21 years old.

Childs noted that of 51,634 arrests for what are considered major offenses, some 33,798 of the persons were 21 or younger. Of these, 19,930 were in the 16-and-under age group.

An indication of the potential for numerical worsening of the juvenile crime problem comes from the basic population figures. The number of 19 year olds youths in Michigan in 1975 will be approximately double the 97,146 in that age group during 1961, Childs said.

A closer comparison can be noted in the fact that in 1961 there were 160,144 in the 14-year age group. This was an increase of 43,460 over the 1960 population in the same group, Childs said.

Wranglers Elect

Suzanne Barnes

Cass City Junior Wranglers 4-H Saddle Club members picked Suzanne Barnes to head their group as president for 1963 during a meeting held recently. She succeeds Dave Bullock.

Other new officers include: Chuck Peasley, vice-president; Arlene Peasley, treasurer; Barbara Bustamante, secretary; Linda Seeley, reporter; Patsy Zellar, refreshment chairman, and David McNaughton, parliamentarian.

Gifts were exchanged by the members and out-going president Bullock presented leaders Lee Smith and Al Seeley with gifts from the club. The leaders also gave gifts to the club members.

All future meetings will be held at school in the Agriculture room. From the meetings the members will be taken to Martin's Restaurant where they may be picked up by their parents.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Jan. 9.

BOOK REVIEW Anne Morrow Tells Story of A Wedding

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

When most of us think of Anne Morrow Lindbergh, our minds go back to one of two incidents in the life of this daughter of an ambassador (US Ambassador to Mexico): either her marriage, not too many years ago, to our nation's most popular pilot, "Lindy", or her role as the mother of a child who was kidnapped and killed (according to the jury) by Bruno Richard Hauptmann. But this book is about neither of these. Anne Morrow has become a well-known author in her own right and this perceptive book, DEARLY BELOVED, is her most recent.

A wedding is taking place and we are "let-in", by the writer, to the varied thoughts that are found roaming through the minds of various of the witnesses in this home wedding. Her method in this book is self-described as "reflections in a fictional frame."

Andre, a visiting French boy, reflects: "Over here if you took out an American girl and gave her a compliment, she was apt to throw it back in your face and laugh at you." Beatrice, on the other hand, realized "what Spencer gave her without complaints, without her asking; what she gave him without ever thinking about it." Which led her to summarize:

"Yes, she had met Spencer late, but they had truly met. It was such a miracle that it hardly mattered whether it was in first or second marriage, whether in youth or middle age. Wherever it happened, it was the true meeting, the true marriage. Those who truly meet, meet here, meet now, meet in God . . . These are the people God has joined together, and the only ones, whom no man can put asunder."

Frances' experience had been different: "Stephen was her child; Pym was her lover." It was a clandestine alliance, however, and doomed to misery. Which leads her to think: "Yes, this was sin: not treating the big things in life - love, death, birth - with the bigness they deserved, with dignity, reverence, grace."

The bride's grandfather, Theodore, also has some remembering to do and some conclusions to reach. The prayer (inserted at his request) into the service "was what he believed in life; the central core of his belief, his concept of a stream of compassion, which fed the world. When it flowed through us, all action was furthered along, was pure and good, was 'strength.' But outside of it, our efforts were against the tide; puny, only half effective."

Mrs. Lindbergh's conclusion is weak, I felt, because it is unproved by the evidence. We enter Frances' thought as the wedding is concluded, pondering the phrase "... for ever and ever." Her conclusion: "Here - now - living - true: this is the life everlasting." If this is all, life is barren and unrewarding indeed!

However, this is a fine book - in style, in content. You may read it with pleasure if you, too, like to think about life - its purpose and meaning. You will not like it if you must have action in your reading. This book is not a narrative, except in a limited fashion.

You will take an inventory of your own marriage as you read this. Is it as good as you expected? You will find yourself asking and answering this question as you read this perceptive novel.

DEARLY BELOVED by Anne Morrow Lindbergh. Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York, 1962. Available at Elkland Township Library or your bookseller's.

Do you know the proper use of spices and herbs?

Spices and herbs can make so many otherwise commonplace dishes appetizing, appealing and even glamorous. Let's take a look at the spices and herbs.

First of all, you will need to know the basic difference between a spice and herb. As commonly used, the word "spices" has come to mean the whole field of seasonings. A more complete classification of "spices" is spices, herbs, seeds, seasoning salts and condiments.

Spices proper are the roots, bark, leaves, fruit, flower, or herbs of aromatic plants grown in tropical lands. Some of these "real" spices are cloves, allspice, pepper, cassia (known to us as cinnamon), ginger, mace and nutmeg. In addition, there are blends of spices such as: chili powder, poultry seasoning, pickling spice and many others.

Herbs are the leaves of plants grown only in temperate climates. Some popular herbs are bay leaves, basil, celery leaves, oregano, parsley, mint, marjoram, sage, rosemary, savory and thyme.

Seeds are from plants grown in both tropical and temperate zones. The more common ones are anise, caraway, celery, mustard, dill, fennel and poppy.

Seasoning salts are combinations of dehydrated vegetables such as celery, onion and garlic with table salt.

Condiments are usually liquid or semi-liquid mixtures of spices, herbs or both with other ingredients. Examples are prepared mustard, catsup and chili sauce.

The whole world contributes to spicy eating. The list of lands from which over 50 "spices" come reads like an exotic travelogue.

The ability to season foods properly, too, is what makes a chef out of a cook. "Spices" are those little items that put the extra zest into a dish and are responsible for the tantalizing aromas that float from the kitchen. And, they can give many a budget weary dish a wonderful lift.

I have a wonderful bulletin on herb cookery that I'll send out if you want one. Just send me your name and address here at the courthouse.
