Making the trip were Kenneth MacRae, 87, retired rural Cass City farmer, his son, Dr. L. Douglas MacRae, and his grandson Doug, both of Bay City.

Chief purpose of the visit to Scotland, according to Dr. Mac-Rae, was to track down for themselves the history and background of the MacRae clan and to revisit the area in which the clan originated.

Approximately 110 years ago, Kenneth MacRae's father, Christopher, then eight, migrated with his parents from Scotland to Canada. In 1892, Christopher MacRae and his family came from Canada to the present home site, a quarter-mile south of New Greenleaf in Sanilac county.

The trio left July 1, landing in Prestwick, about 30 miles from Glasgow. From there they traveled to Letterfearn in the heart of the area originally the Mac-Rae region, in the northwest corner of Scotland.

Part of their stay in the area was with the current clan chieftain, a 35-year-old gentleman farmer who owns, among other things, a castle, a hotel and an 11,000-acre farm.

The chieftain's holdings are on Culloden Moor off Loch Duich, northeast of Letterfearn.

The MacRae clan was a colorful and warrior clan with a history steeped in tradition and bravery. For hundreds of years they served as constables and gamekeepers under the MacKenzie clan.

Always ready for a fight, according to Dr. MacRae, the clan proudly bore the name, "The Wild MacRaes," a title given them by the English who insisted they had "claws instead of fingers." Once, except for those too young to fight and those unborn, the entire MacRae male population was wiped out.

Until shortly after the turn of the present century, the clan never had a chieftain. Then, the present chief's father, Dr. MacRae reports, "married money." He purchased the castle and surrounding lands from the Mac-technicians, school teachers, secretaries, housewives and farmers. One son, Bruce, now runs the 150-acre dairy farm. In summing up the trip, he remarked, "As for me, I enjoy seeing any place . . . there's always something different. It doesn't make any difference where you go, you find good people . . ." Highlights of the trip were stops in Edinborough, at Edinborough Castle; Iverness, the "Capital of the Highlands," and Glasgow. Mr. MacRae's grandson, Doug, is still in Europe visiting crops. Mr. MacRae described farming in the area thusly: "They don't keep their cattle in barns. There were no dairy cattle at the castle. Their cattle are different ... mostly Black Angus and a longhaired red Scottish cattle. I saw

Name Rev. Vender "Pastor Emeritus" for Long Service

The Rev. Melvin F. Vender was honored by the members of the congregation of the Cass City Presbyterian Church recently when they named him "Pastor Emeritus" of the church.

The honor culminated a long career of service for Vender and gave the veteran churchman a "delightful inspiration", he reported this week.

The Venders are familiar figures in Cass City, active not only in church work, but also in the civic and cultural activities of the community.

He was a member of the Masons in Cass City and the Cass City American Legion Post.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vender were born in Bad Axe and his career centers around the Thumb, although he has served in congregations in three midwestern states.

Accidents

Three minor accidents involving area residents were reported by police authorities this week. Cars driven by Alfred Lee Seeley, 37, of Cass City and Clarence Frederick Ewald, 34, of rural Unionville collided at the intersection of Oak and Third streets Saturday.

Both drivers stated that they failed to observe the other car coming to the open intersection. Seeley was traveling west on Third and Ewald, south on Oak. The left rear fender of the Ewald car was damaged and right front fender, grill and headlight of the Seeley pickup were damaged. Cass City Patrolman William R. McKinley investigated.

Slight Injuries Two persons suffered minor bruises in an accident Saturday at the corner of M-24 and East Dayton Road, according to a report from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The injured were Charles O'Dell and Bob Schmidt, both of Cass City.

The accident occurred when the O'Dell car hit the rear of an auto driven by Joann Barbara Ferguson. O'Dell, driving south on East Dayton Road, stopped for the M-24 intersection. The Ferguson auto was attempting to make a left turn at the intersection and was hit in the right rear.

Churcott reported to Tuscola county sheriff officials that he did not even have time to slam on the brakes before ramming and killing the deer.

Churcott was uninjured, but his car was damaged in the accident.

Freak Accident Severely Injures Defordite at Work

A freak accident severely injured Darwin Curtis of Deford recently. Curtis was changing a tire at the Tuscola County Road Commission Garage when it blew up.

He was treated at Saginaw General Hospital for severe cuts around the face and body and a broken jaw. He is currently recuperating at home.

Employees at the garage said that Curtis had taken every available safety precaution while changing the tire.

The tire was already inflated and let go while it was being placed on the wheel, they explained.

Vandals Loot Equipment at Girl Scout Camp

Vandals broke into a storage shed at Whispering Pines, the Girl Scout day camp site at Deford, Saturday and looted the building.

According to Mrs. Wilda Janeschek, director of the camp, the thieves took a pup tent, tin snips, lantern and other items.

Tuscola county deputies who investigated said that entry to the building was made from the rear of the building by prying open the door.

Forced to retire because of a light heart attack, in 1959 he moved back to Cass City. His has been an active retirement. He has been filling the pulpits of various area Presbyterian churches steadily in re-church served as guides in the church, rectory, convent and school. Coffee and tea were served in the parish hall.

Race relations continue to be tense in our nation. Every night the TV newsman tells of the happenings of the day in this critical area of our life today. It appears that right now changes have to be made. And if they are not we will pay a terribly high price for our stubbornness. Or, so it seems to me. * * *

Sunoco had posted a run in the opening inning as the gasmen touched Elwyn Helwig for their only two hits of the game. Their meager margin held up

Set Final Play . Program Pirates-Giants

The theme for last week at the Cass City playground program was Indian week. Attendance records were sky high as the children made Indian beads and headbands.

The week was climaxed with a hot dog roast and an Indian dance by Bill Hutchinson. Eighty children watched Bill perform authentic Indian war-hunt dances. Swimming lessons were again curtailed because of rain.

This week was to include an Olympic day Tuesday and a pirate and scavenger hunt Thursday. The final week, which starts July 29, will include the annual water show Tuesday evening at 7:00. Again races will be highlighted with diving feats and the annual money dive. The program will be concluded Aug. 2 with a clean-up day with the children working to clean up areas of the park and school grounds.

With the opening of a State Police recruiting drive, Sgt. John Lohrstorfer, commanding officer of the Bad Axe post, is urging young men to call at the post to inquire about this fine career and the new advantages of a five-day week and a higher pay scale.

"This is the first recruiting drive since 1960 and is being conducted in connection with a training school scheduled this fall," Sgt. Lohrstorfer said. "It is an opportunity that should not be passed up because of the many advantages and benefits of being a State Police officer. But candidates must act now, because applications for this school/must be turned in or postmarked by midnight July 28."

Young men between 21 and 29 years of age, married or single, not less than five feet, 10 inches in height and with a high school education or its equivalent are eligible to apply. They may call at any post for details and application blanks or write to the Civil Service Commission at Lansing.

"Our basement was hard to heat..."

"Electric heat helped us turn a chilly basement into a year-round family room," says Mrs. Horace Johns, of Millington, Mich. "We have electric heat in the second-floor bedrooms and bath, too. Keeps them as warm as the rest of the house-even warmer if we want. We can raise the temperature in any of these rooms without overheating the whole house. One reason we chose electric heat in the first place was because it cost less to install. Now we like the convenience of electric heat so much that, if and when we buy another home, we'll have it throughout."

What about your home? Do you have a hard-to-heat room? Are you adding on a room? Are you buying a new home? Is the heating system in your present home more trouble than it's worth? One of the types of electric heating units shown below may be the answer to your heating problems. One easy way to find out is to ask your electrical contractor. Another is to call your Edison office. We'll be glad to send you a copy of our free booklet "Electric Home Heating" and will answer any questions you may have about the modern, worry-free way to heat your home-electrically.

Why It's High

Motorists under 25 years of age have been paying premium rates for auto insurance for several years now although few appreciate the reason behind this penalty against them. Higher rates, especially for male drivers are almost a universal practice.

Lee T. Matthews, general manager of the Michigan Insurance Information Service, notes that insuring the accident-loss experience of young male drivers is one of "the most difficult situations challenging the insurance industry." ***

Most insurance companies have removed women under 25 from the higher rate, Matthews notes, although this group formerly paid it also. The insurance industry spokesman notes that young males account for only about eight per cent of the driving population. The group has an accident loss ratio three times that of all other drivers, however.

In Michigan, Matthews said, the uneven ratio of drivers-to-accidents results in some $22 million losses greater than would occur if the 25-under group had McCONKEY the same accident ratio experience as drivers in other age groups.

who maintains a good record. Industry support of driver programs is one of several , means being attempted to reduce or eliminate the high risk ratio in the group.

> Exceptions which are made usually come after the first year of insured driving, if a good record is established. Married drivers and the incidental operator of a family car often pay less than the high rate, Matthews notes.

Losses of the under 25 group usually come in two phases, the industry spokesman said. This is one of the reasons for hesitancy in making exceptions to the premium rate.

One group of losses usually results from inexperience in the earliest period of driving. The second comes when over-confidence and immature actions set in after mechanical driving skill has been acquired.

Wage Problems

Promises of further study to a minimum wage law will be carried out late this summer by a joint legislative committee. The Governor's proposal for enactment of a minimum wage law was shelved in the waning days of the regular legislative session in favor of further study of exemptions.

Rep. Don Gordon, freshman House member from Leland, is chairing the committee. In addition to holding 12 hearings in The problem to the industry various cities to get the public's arises because exceptions to the don's committee also has been studying the laws now in operation in other states.

The 1963 Legislature considered minimum wage proposals ranging from $1 to $1.50. Most members finally agreed $1.15 would be a reasonable amount.

The big hitch in the measure came when sections to exempt certain businesses from the minimum wage were considered.

Some members felt resort operators should not have to pay the minimum wage. It might discourage development in the tourist industry, they said. Others sought to exempt such persons as car washers, golf caddies, shoe shine boys, newsboys, and all hotel, motel and restaurant workers.

 Gordon's committee has planned hearings in Lansing, Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Escanaba, Traverse City, Manistee, Cadillac, Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, Kalamazoo, and on Mackinac Island.

Presumably the committee will be ready to report to the session early next year with a measure aimed at satisfying the various interests which opposed a minimum wage bill this session. Most of the committee members were full supporters of the proposal this year.

by the Federal Aviation Agency, Bartlett said.

In addition to the well-known problems arising from young people's interest in homemade rockets, there are official regulations to be learned. These are set

The federal agency prohibits the firing of rockets within five miles of any airport boundary or controlled air space. It also is against regulations to fire a rocket into any clouds, or to altitudes where clouds cover more than half of the sky.

The FAA regulations, set to protect people in the area as well as the would-be scientist, also prohibit firing a rocket at night or during the day if horizontal visibility is less than five miles, or within 1,500 feet of any person or property not associated with the firing.
