Cass City Bank Low Bidder for Bonds

The Cass City State Bank was the low bidder for $75,000 worth of general obligation water bonds issued by the Village of Cass City with an interest rate of 3 3/8 per cent.

Bids were opened Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Municipal Building in Cass City and there were five bidders for the issue that stretches through 1981.

The Cass City State Bank's bid for the period covered by the bonds has a net interest cost of $27,540.31.

Other bidders and the net interest cost of their bids were: Manley, Bennett, McDonald & Co. $27,743.63; Kenower, MacArthur & Co. $27,994.99; First of Michigan Corporation $29,222.72; Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. $30,922.04.

Retirement Schedule
The retirement schedule for the bonds includes payment of $1,000 by Oct. 1, 1964. $3,000 will be paid Oct. 1 each year from 1965 to 1968 inclusive. From 1969 to 1974, $4,000 worth of bonds will be retired yearly and from 1975 to 1978, $5,000 worth will be paid off annually. From 1979 to 1981, $6,000 worth of bonds will be retired yearly.

Repayment Plan
The village will net somewhere between $36,000 and $38,000 annually from water and sewer charges. Expenses of the department will run about $32,300. Payments of the bonds and interest will range somewhere around $6,000 annually.

Although the full faith and credit of the village have been placed behind the bonds, the revenue from the department should nearly pay the cost of the improved system.

It is expected that the $150,000 project will solve the village's water problem for years to come. Half of the cost of the improvements to the system is being paid by the Federal government under the Accelerated Public Works program. The grant spurred the construction of a new water tower and new water mains.

Plans originally called for the work to be completed on a pay-as-you-go basis, but were discarded when the Federal grant became available.

Area Youth in Two Collisions In Two Days
Theron Roach, 16, Deford, may give up automobile travel and become a full time pedestrian after being involved in two accidents in two days. He was an occupant in both accidents.

In the first one, Friday night, Roach and three other teenagers received minor injuries when their car went out of control on Sebawaing Road, near Owendale, went into a ditch, struck a tree and rolled over.

Driver of the car, John F. Mika, 17, Decker, Judy Bohnsack, 15, Cass City, and Roach received bruises and Cathy A. Ryland, 15, Cass City, cuts and bruises.

Mika told State Police he lost control of his car on wet pavement. He was ticketed for speeding.

In the second accident, Saturday, Roach was an occupant in a car driven by Mrs. Hazen Reavey, Deford, when it was struck in the rear by a car.

Some authorities were worried that the issue would be turned

Drive For New Uniforms

The Cass City Band Boosters are determined to secure new uniforms for the band and are in the midst of an intensive drive to secure items for a fund-raising auction to be held Saturday, Nov. 2.

They are issuing an appeal to Cass City area residents for used items of any kind or description. Used furniture, farm machinery, appliances, tires, toys and other items will be welcomed by the sponsors of the event.

The sale will be held at Bartnik's Sales and Service. Lora Hillaker is donating his service as auctioneer.

According to authorities, most of the present uniforms were purchased in the 1930's and are badly worn and too small for most of the band members.

If the Band Boosters are successful in raising the necessary money, the present Senior High uniforms will be used by the Junior High band.

Securing new uniforms is an ambitious project. Costing between $80 and $90 each, an initial order of 50 uniforms would run between $4,000 and $5,000.

Persons wishing to help with the project should call Mrs. Ronald Walker, Lynn Spencer or Cecil Barriger and arrangements will be made to pick up any donated item.

Need Fair Share To Meet Chest Quota—Campbell

If everyone will give their fair share, we will meet our $7,000 quota again, Elkland-Novesta Community Chest Chairman Willis Campbell said this week.

By Tuesday noon 30 solicitors had reported collections amounting to $1,593.94. Solicitors have averaged $53.12 each.

Campbell reminded residents that it would be a big help if they would have their donations ready when the volunteers call.

"It's still much too early to tell if we are going to meet our quota this year," the drive chairman concluded.

"The purpose of the drive," Heinzman said, "is to help the Democratic party of Michigan become debt-free in '63."

Howard Jones, state-wide Dollars for Dems chairman, urges contributors to give their dollars only to official collectors.

From the Editor's Corner

It has been talked about at length and everyone seems to be in favor of it, but, like the weather, no one does anything about it.

We're talking about a building code. In practice, it is as good as it sounds in theory, according to Russ Hicks, who has been intimately associated with a code in Waterford township for a decade.

Hicks, who has served on zoning and planning boards for many years, says that a building code is one regulation that virtually everyone is in favor of in Waterford township.

We have squabbles over planning and zoning, but not our building code, he explained.

His experiences should serve as a spur to Cass City to develop more comprehensive building regulations. A new code has been in the talking stage for over a year and is enthusiastically endorsed by builders, plumbers and electricians.

Since it also protects the home owner, we suggest that perhaps we should stop talking and start acting.

Add to the high cost of living the price of panhandling. The trade no longer asks for a dime for a cup of coffee. In Detroit a week ago we were accosted by a fairly well dressed man who said, pardon me, sir, but can you spare me the price of a meal?

Always a sucker for a pitch, we gave him 50 cents and walked on with the vague feeling that we had been taken again.

It was Editors' Day at Michigan State University Saturday and the Haire family, visited the ultra new Planetarium at the University as part of the festivities.

The new facility, built by donations from alumni with no cost to taxpayers, is very impressive even to an untrained observer.

To dramatize the possibilities for space research, authorities simulated the exact conditions that prevailed in space when John Glenn went into orbit. A projector is used and the entire ceiling of the auditorium is a giant curved screen.

Electronically operated, technicians can duplicate the firmament for any given moment during the last century by simply making a telephone-like dial.

Cost of the building and equipment? $530,000.

Free passes will also be given by the theatre.

The program will start promptly at 7 p.m. and the schedule calls for children to be home earlier than they were after the 1962 show.

The program is a joint effort of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, Cass Theatre and Jaycees.

Explain Jaycees at District Meeting

The District 15 fall meeting of the Michigan Jaycees Saturday at Cass City High School was highlighted by the presentation of awards and an address by G. Merritt Martin.

Martin stressed the importance of working together as a team for achievement. He defined the Jaycee movement as one of leadership and training for the men of tomorrow. He said that Jaycee calls for members to do more than the job requires.

He stressed community development as a prime function of the organization and said that all Jaycees should strive for more members.

Presentations were made to representatives of clubs from Sandusky, Port Huron and Marquette for outstanding achievements.

The group were welcomed by Rod Krueger, Cass City president. After the banquet the ladies met in a separate meeting headed by Mrs. Elinore Bishop, district vice-president of Michigan Jaycees Auxiliary. She showed slides of the auxiliary and explained its purpose. A short question and answer period followed.

Travel Trophy

Cass City was presented the district travel trophy at the meeting. The trophy is designed to encourage members from various clubs to visit each other.

Clean-up Time Again

Cass City is slated to get its annual fall face-lifting next week with the advent of the Clean-up, Fix-up and Paint-up campaign to be held Oct. 28 through Nov. 2.

Cass City businessmen and residents contacted have pledged cooperation to make the event a success.

Village President Lee Rabideau issued a proclamation earlier this week setting aside the six-day event. Also backing the clean-up is the Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of Mrs. James Bauer.

Free pick-up by the village of rubbish and leaves will be offered all day Friday and Saturday morning. Residents are requested to have refuse in front of their houses.

Alleys will be inspected by councilmen towards the end of the week and suggestions offered on possible clean-up measures.

Residents with large vacant lots are also asked to have them cut sometime during the week.

Several Cass City businessmen, according to Mrs. Bauer, have consented to paint their buildings or take extensive clean-up measures.

Last year, during the first campaign, the program was kicked-off with a parade and an educational program. Prizes were awarded to the students writing the best clean-up essays.

Mrs. Bauer announced that a major clean-up push will be held sometime next spring, and will probably include the parade and educational program.

County Valuations Increase

County Taxes Up for 1963

Last year's dip in county taxes was short-lived, county supervisors learned during their week-long October session last week in Caro.

Taxes for 1963 rose to $3,079,961.40 or $98,808.81 over last year's low of $2,981,152.69. The raise was due mainly to increased valuation through new and improved construction in the county.

Last year, taxes for the county were down some $26,535 over the previous year largely because of a drop of a quarter-mill in allocations to the county, from 4.5 to 4.25 mills.

Although the county allocation is even lower this year, going from 4.25 mills to 4.24 and township allocations dropped to 1.65 mills as compared to 1.75 last year, the resulting .11 mill went to the Intermediate School District (County School Board), previously a line item in the county budget.

The nursing home received its usual .324 mill and the special education continued at .75 mill, with the rest going to county schools for the remainder of the 15 mill total tax allocation.

Elkland Township

Elkland township taxes jumped from $208,214.34 to $228,134.89, an increase of $19,920.55. Taxes in 1962 were down about $10,000 over the previous year.

All other area townships experienced raises in taxes ranging from $2,000 to $5,000. Ellington township was up $5,108.07, going from $43,286.91 in 1962 to this year's $48,394.98. Elmwood taxes jumped from $99,706.79 to $102,080.60 for an increase of $2,373.81.

Taxes for Novesta township were up $2,990.52, going from last year's $51,339.50 to $54,330.02 this year.

Budgets

Finances and budgets for the coming year were the order of business for supervisors during the week with reports and budget requests heard from four departments.

Mrs. Gladys Wiltse, Caro, chairman of the County Welfare Commission, submitted a budget request for $155,000 after Ir Baguley, welfare director, outlined the program and explained its functions for the supervisors. The request was turned over to the Finance committee and will be acted on during the January session.

Also present were Elmer Haines, Vassar, and Maynard McConkey, Cass City. Later, Haines was re-elected by the supervisors to a three-year term on the commission.

Also referred to the finance committee were requests from the State Bee Inspector for a $500 budget and an $800 budget request submitted by the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Commission. The bee inspector's budget last year was $400 and the Relief Commission's budget was $800.

Frank Krowek, county civil defense director, reported on the activities of his department. Total expenditures for the year were $6,559.11 with an actual cost to the county of $3,409.90 because of Federal support to the department.

A request by the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association for a budget of $350 was cut to $250 and approved.

Legality Questioned

The legality of payment of county funds to the Tuscola County Retarded Children's Association was referred to the Education Committee for further study. The board reportedly has two different opinions from State officials on the issue. Attorney General Frank Kelly has reportedly said it is legal if each child is listed, while Auditor General Billie Farnum has flatly declared the payment of county funds to the association illegal.

Bonds Purchased

County Treasurer Arthur Willets was instructed to purchase short term tax bonds to cover tax collections for 1963.

Area Pair Face Larceny Charge

Two area youths were to have been arraigned Wednesday morning in Circuit Court on charges of larceny over $100 in connection with the theft of tools from a Fremont township man.

Arrested Thursday, Oct. 17, were Jerry A. Curtis, 18, Deford, and Cornelius P. Michels, 18, Route 3, Cass City.

The pair allegedly stole a tool box full of tools from Robert Fox, Mayville. Curtis is currently on probation.

Tie-breaker Vote Gives Post to Area Woman

The strange world of politics took an even stranger quirk last week during the county supervisors' week-long October session when an area woman who lost a bid for a county seat was elected to the post in a second vote held to break a first place tie between two county men.

Named to the post was Mrs. Sally Patnaude of Gagetown. She beat out Ken McLaren and Leon VanSteenhouse for the Democratic four-year term as a member of the Board of Canvassers.

In the first balloting, Mrs. Patnaude received five votes and McLaren and VanSteenhouse tied with nine votes each. Because a tie in voting for Board of Canvassers members was new to the supervisors, they called a two-hour recess while County Clerk

Fire Guts House

Disaster Averted By Resourceful Dianna

Martin Zawilinski is still incredulously surprised by the heroic achievement of his 13-year-old daughter, Dianna, whose presence of mind and coolness under pressure was credited with saving the lives of eight children.

Her efforts in saving the family from disaster when the Zawilinski home was gutted by flames, still has her father shaking his head in awe.

The youngster was awakened by flames shooting through the kitchen at about 11:15 Thursday. She immediately dashed upstairs where the children were sleeping and started shepherding them out of the burning home.

The three youngest were the first to leave. "I made five trips in all," Dianna recalled, "before all the children were out of the house."

Complete Loss

Zawilinski said that his farm home, five miles east of Cass City, was declared a total wreck by the insurance investigator. He estimated the loss at about $15,000.

Destroyed were the home and all of the furnishings. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Most of the damage occurred within the home. From the exterior, the home does not appear too badly damaged. Completely remodeled recently, most of the new paint on the exterior of the house was not even scorched.

However, the interior was so gutted by smoke and flames that Zawilinski said that he will tear down the shell and build a new home.

The Elkland Township Fire Department, which kept the fire from spreading, said that the cause of the fire was not determined.

The Zawilinski family is staying in an apartment in Cass City while waiting for the new home to be constructed.

Things Chevrolet has developed since the last time you bought to give you more for your money:

Double-wall construction. This feature of Chevrolet cabs and the Fleetside pickup body has two advantages. Insulation and sound-deadening material is sandwiched between the two layers of steel in the cab to give you more comfort; in the body, the lower inner wall acts as a buffer against load damage, preserving the outer appearance of the truck.

Give Vocational Training "Equal Time", Official Says

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Are Schools Wrong?

A bad attitude may not be entirely to blame for a youth's decision to drop out of high school before he completes the four years.

This is the conclusion of Ken T. Bement, Burroughs Corporation vice-president. Bement notes that a youth who concludes that the school will not adequately use his potential to prepare him for the next half century of his working life may be right.

"Our schools, reflecting the wishes of parents, emphasize academic subjects, glorify the undisputed virtues of higher education, and under-staff, under-finance, under-program and under-value vocational training," he said.

Bement has expressed his view on the dropout problem to educators on a number of occasions so it is not being thrown to the wind as criticism without construction.

"We have been and still are victimized by the fixed idea that our schools are intended to produce college students," he says. He urges that "equal time" be devoted for vocational training of the 70 per cent of high school students who do not go on to college.

Bement contends that unlike the "old days when a wood shop and metal working shop would suffice," today schools need a dozen or more highly specialized, up-to-date shops to train needed technicians and specialists.

Realistically, Bement admits the cost of adequate vocational training facilities is beyond the means of the vast majority of schools even with federal aid.

He said one alternative to this problem could be the creation of "area schools" equipped and staffed to offer specialist training and technician training for a large geographic unit.

"Man must keep pace with his invention," said Bement. "We can neither afford nor can we tolerate a tomorrow in which a skilled elite dominates a technologically illiterate mass."

"Our only assurance that future generations will live as free men in a peaceful, abundant society is our ability to teach and to train this and future generations in the technical skills and sciences that make man the master of his creation."

The Big Drink
Liquor is a big business in Michigan, especially during the forthcoming year-end holiday period.

The Liquor Control Commission has ordered more than $26 million worth of alcoholic beverages for the annual holiday sales spurt. Commission Chairman Don S. Leonard said the purchases recommended for the holidays totaled $78,425 cases. This was about 23,000 cases more than were sold in the last two months of 1963.

Justification for the increased purchases this year probably can be seen in Commission report which showed that late-summer sales this year were up more than seven per cent over the same period of 1962.

Child Killers
Vaccines are available for most of the childhood diseases today, but the leading killer of the children goes unabated, according to Dr. Goldie B. Corneliuson of the State Health Department.

"It's too bad we can't have a vaccine to protect against accidents," notes the director of the maternal and child health division.

"Immunizations have reduced childhood diseases to the lowest point in history, but accidents are continuing to take a needless toll of life."

In the age group of 1-15 years, accidents last year killed 472 Michigan children. This represented more than one third of the deaths from all causes in this age group.

"We know that accidents don't just happen," the Health Department spokesman said. "They are the results of sequence of events: a chain reaction. If we are aware of the factors that lead up to accidents we can do a great deal to prevent their occurrence simply by eliminating one or two of the links in this chain."

For example, Dr. Corneliuson noted that most childhood accidents occur in the late afternoon, when children are apt to be tired and hungry, and a mother's attention is on preparing the evening meal. The stress present to the mother daily is also great at this period. She may be hungry, tired or in a hurry.

"Half the battle in preventing childhood accidents is knowing the danger signals, and taking extra precautions during critical times," she said.

Broom Sales May Hit $550 Mark

A recent clean-up drive brought Lions Club broom sale receipts to $488, Treasurer Ed Cantile told members Monday night during the club's regular meeting at Martin's Restaurant.

SELF-PROFIT

Honesty is the best policy, but some believe it pays only when it pays first.

ETHICS AND THE CAR DEALER
Sometimes it's difficult to stay honest in the car business. If we advertise a GOOD used car at its normal value, someone else will advertise a worn out wreck of the same make, year and model at a far lower price.

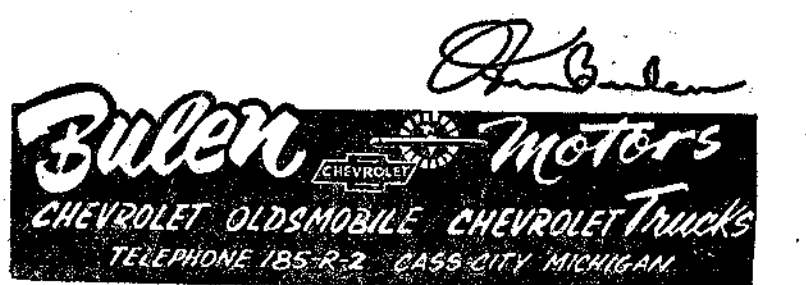

What happens then? Well, shrewd buyers are attracted by the low price to the advertiser's used car lot where they are in many cases talked into buying some other car at a much higher figure.

There are lots of ways of doing this. The most common one is for a salesman trained in this technique to talk about different models, makes and options until the prospect is so confused he no longer has any idea of the real value of the car he finally buys. In any event, the big job is to get the potential buyer to the lot in the first place which this kind of unethical gimmick does nicely.

Just as often, a used car is advertised that simply doesn't exist. In this case the dealer chooses some make and model that is particularly popular at the moment and of course tags it with an extremely low price. When the prospect shows up the car has just been conveniently "sold."

We always have the cars we advertise and they are not junkers but clean quality automobiles that we have in most cases reconditioned. They are advertised at an honest price and we are prepared to stake our reputation on the satisfaction you will derive out of owning them.

Check with your beauty operator first about "rattling" your hair, or you may be sorry! Excessive rattling of fine hair will damage it. If it's already happened, begin a good hair-care routine immediately. Tell your hair stylist of your problem and follow her suggestions. US-USSR Pact Ups Wheat Prices

Dr. John Ferris, agricultural economist with the Michigan Co-operative Extension Service has compiled the latest outlook for agricultural products in the months ahead.

Milk - Average prices received by Michigan farmers increased during August as the base price in Detroit was $4.28, up 17 cents since July and seven cents over a year ago. The excess price of $3.08 was 30 cents higher than last year. Milk prices increased again in September but will not move up much more this fall.

Cattle - Feeder cattle prices edged lower into early October. Choice yearling steers were quoted at $25. Medium (Holstein) steers at $20 and choice steer calves at $27 in Kansas City on October 7. Sales have been slow because western producers seem to have the feed to hold feeders off the market and cattlemen are reluctant to pay asking prices.

Hogs - Prices leveled off from their late summer slide and show promise of holding up throughout the fall months. Early October sales of medium weight butchers were just over $16. Producers can expect prices to decline to about $15 during the first quarter of 1964.

Lamb - Prices declined to around $20 on choice and prime grades at Detroit in early October after holding relatively steady since late July. Heavy beef supplies have been forcing lamb prices to edge still lower in November before leveling off, but some seasonal price gain can be expected early in 1964.

Eggs - Prices paid wholesale distributors in Detroit for Grade A large eggs averaged slightly over 43 cents a dozen in September. They are expected to continue in the low to mid 40's in October. Little change is expected in November.

Wheat - President Kennedy has removed restrictions on selling wheat to Russia, although resale to Cuba or Red China is prohibited. This is expected to increase exports and help hold prices over the support level. Prices have moved up strongly in anticipation of the U.S. - Russian deal.

Wheat prices on October 9 were about $1.95 in central Michigan, nearly 20 cents over the effective support. This is a favorable selling price even though speculation could push prices higher.

Beans - It will take another vigorous effort on the part of the dry bean industry to move this year's large crop, predicts Ferris. A wet harvest season in Europe may help exports this year. Prices on navy beans held near $6 through most of the harvest season due primarily to a late crop and encouraging export interests.

Corn - Prices are expected to decline as the peak harvest season is reached, but increase again in December. The extent of this increase will depend upon CCC sales policy. However, prices should increase to around $1.20 by next summer in Central Michigan.

Potatoes - The outlook is about the same as for last season with the possibility of moderately higher prices for Michigan growers having good market outlets. Michigan prices have been relatively lower than those of other producing areas, although prices have been slightly above those of last year.

Four Missionaries To Speak at Local Convention

Egypt, Nigeria, Brazil and India will be represented at the Missionary convention at the New Greenleaf United Missionary Church beginning Tuesday, Oct. 29. Sessions will be held at 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday and at 10:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 3.

Miss Ethel Young, for the past 15 years a missionary in Egypt, will be representing Port Said, Egypt, with information on the country and the Moslem religion. Thursday evening, Oct. 31, the scene will shift to Nigeria, Africa, when Rev. Eldon Boettger will be the speaker. Rev. Boettger spent the past three years working with natives in Christian literature and Bible correspondence.

Sunday morning services at 10:00 a. m. will feature Norman Charles, a Pennsylvania dairy farmer who worked in the mission fields in Brazil.

Rev. Weyburn Johnson of North Dakota, a missionary to India, will have the closing service of the convention Sunday night at 8:00. For the past five years, he has managed a large Christian book store in Calcutta.

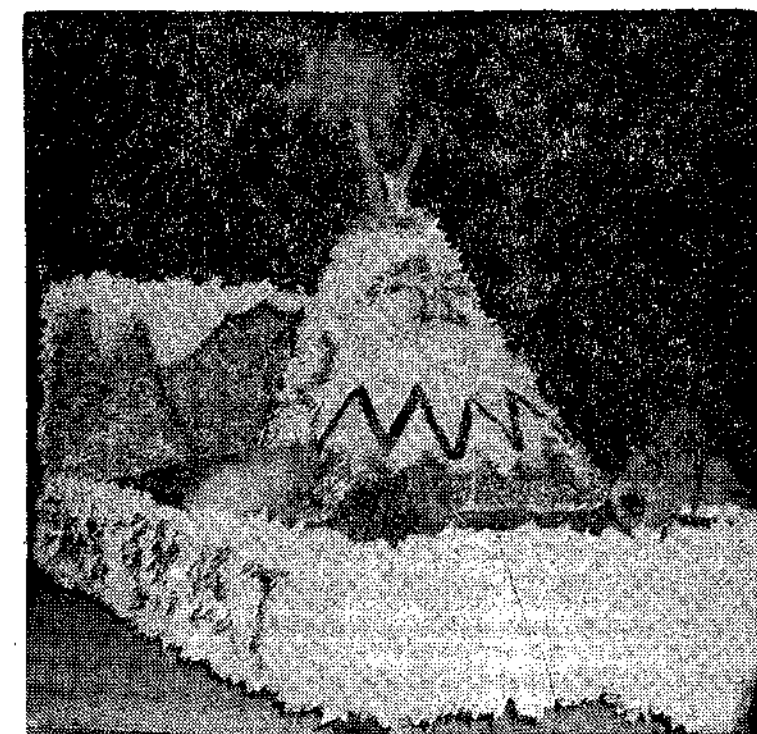

The public is invited to attend any of the services.

Elk in Michigan

From a total of eight animals released in the Pigeon River area during the 1915-19 period, Michigan's elk herd has grown to become one of the major tourist attractions in this neck of the state's northern woods. It also has expanded to create a problem of numbers; a problem marked by such storm warnings as overbrowsing and indications of elk starvation. Size of the herd is estimated between 2,000 and 3,500 animals. The Conservation Department has undertaken a long-range research program to refine this estimate and cross-check other information which has been collected since the herd was established 45 years ago. While this project has not been completed, one fact stands out clearly: Some small-scale, carefully controlled hunting is going to be needed soon, and carried on from year to year, to keep these animals from doing further damage to limited winter food supplies which are also used by deer. Main goal of the elk management program, of course, will be to maintain and promote the value of this herd as a public viewing attraction.

Leave Lights On, UNICEF Asks

When Cass City children knock on local doors Wednesday, Oct. 30, in their pre-Halloween UNICEF fund-raising drive asking for "trick or treat," they'll really be saying the trick is to treat the world's underprivileged children, the Rev. James Braid, Methodist pastor, announced this week.

Five Cass City Churches are behind the drive. Last year funds from similar drives held in 100 countries provided aid for more than 30 million children.

The drive will be held between 6:00 and 7:00 p.m. and residents wishing to give are asked to turn on their porch lights.

Two Annual Fund Projects Set by Hospital Auxiliary

Two annual projects of the Hills and Dales Women's Auxiliary are under way, members of the organization announced this week.

The annual fruit cake sale has started. The three-pound cakes are available from every member of the auxiliary. Chairmen for the sale are Mrs. D. E. Rawson and Mrs. Cliff Ryan.

The other project is the second annual bridge tournament. Four groups of 16 players are in the second month of the tourney and each pays a fee to play... the money goes to the Auxiliary.

The monthly meeting of the organization is scheduled for Oct. 28 at the hospital meeting room. It will be highlighted by a report of the East Central District meeting in Cass City.

Promote Miller at Calif. High School

Harry Miller, a former math teacher at Cass City High School, has been promoted to chairman of the math department at Del Campo (Calif.) High School, a brand new school that opened this fall.

The school is operated on a unit scheme. There are ninth and tenth grade units now. The 11th grade unit will be added next year and the 12th the following year.

There will be 2,000 students when the school is completed. Miller was named president of the 34-member teachers' club.

Mrs. Elaine Miller is attending school and working for a degree in speech therapy. In California, the course requires five years. Mrs. Miller has about three and a half years left to study.

The Millers say they like California more and more, but the children still recall the days in Cass City as the best times of their life.

GETTING UP SLOWLY after a collision near the sidelines Friday in the Sandusky-Cass City game were this Hawk and Redskin. The teams fought each other to a standstill as the game ended in a 13-13 tie.

Hawks Rally to Tie Sandusky 13-13

The Cass City Red Hawks fought from behind twice to tie favored Sandusky Friday night at the Hawks' Home-coming game at Cass City Recreational Park. The score was 13-13.

Cass City had to beat both Sandusky and the clock to salvage the tie. The Redskins scored in the first quarter on a drive that started near midfield. With Fullback Bob Dral and Halfback Vance Hull gaining most of the yardage, Sandusky moved down the field in a sustained drive to score. The extra point was good and the Redskins led 7-0.

The remainder of the first half settled down into a defensive battle with neither team able to move the ball consistently.

On the final play of the first half the Hawks tied the score. The marker came after a great individual effort by Walter Hempton.

With everyone at the park knowing a pass was coming, Quarterback Ed Retherford stepped back, waited until the last possible second and lofted a pass towards Hempton near the right sidelines.

A Sandusky defender was all over Hempton fighting for the ball but Hempton came down with it, shook off the tackler and streaked down the right sidelines to pay dirt. The play covered 65 yards. With time run out on the clock, Ed Retherford passed to Dave Parrott on a fake kick to knot the score at the half.

Sandusky Scores The Redskins charged back in front on another sustained drive, this one covering 45 yards. Dral smashed for the final four yards and the marker, Mike Karr made a game saving play on the try for

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

It Was One of Those Miserable Nights

By Dave Kraft

YAWN!

Good grief! Excuse me, I didn't mean to yawn in your face like that, but I had one of those nights.

Ever since I opened the door that day and found Matt on the doorstep in a basket, I've been having those nights.

One thing I can safely say about my family . . . if I had another child, he or she would be crying.

We started last night by going to bed late. You'd think I'd know enough by now to go to bed early, but my wife has been spending a great deal of time spending a great deal of my money and I thought we should have a talk.

We talked long and loud which caused or at least set the whole miserable night off . . . Our loud voices woke Matt.

Now that boy has all the tenacity of a bulldog with a mouth full of a burglar's trousers. When he's awake, he's really awake and when he's asleep, it isn't for very long.

It took a couple of hours to get him settled down, what with a change of unmentionables, a bottle and much cooing. And then Sally woke up.

Sally goes to bed a little easier than Matt. She has reached the age of understanding and a "shut up and go back to sleep!" is usually sufficient. But not last night.

It was another several minutes before she got settled which was just time for Matt to get rested and ready to go again.

It was something like 3:00 a.m. before everything got settled. And then I couldn't get to sleep.

Now don't get me wrong. I wasn't up tending to the children all this time . . . my wife was. But I'm a very sympathetic husband and when my wife is up tending to the well-being of my children at some unholy hour, I at least have the common decency to stay awake . . . or almost awake.

There was a time when she made me get up and do the tending to, but I soon changed that.

One morning she got up and found Matt with his diaper on his head and Sally sleeping on the floor while I was snoring away in her bed. Can I help it if I'm not too bright when I'm half asleep?

Bill Zemke came in the other morning looking somewhat down-trodden. When asked what was wrong, he replied, "Did you ever have one of those days?"

We replied that we had and some of those nights too and asked what his particular problem was.

Seems he'd gone to Detroit the afternoon before and had a flat tire on the way. He had one on the way home from Detroit, too.

The next morning he came out to go to work and, yep, you guessed it, there sat his car . . . with another flat tire.

Bill borrowed a car to go to his office and when he got there he found that he'd left his office keys on his key chain . . . in his car at home.

I assume he went home, picked up a logging chain and beat the living Dickens out of his car . . . at least that's what I'd have done.

All that baloney about the terrible reception on returning to Cass City in last week's column was just that . . . a lot of baloney.

Nearly everyone, with the exception of my wife, was real nice. As a matter of fact, they've been so nice I'm seriously considering going away every month just so I can come back.

BOOK REVIEW
It's A Very Good
Sophisticated Western

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

If early American adventures are your meat, you will like VOYAGE TO SANTA FE, by Janice Holt Giles. This is the story of a wagon train bound for Santa Fe back in the days when going by wagon train was not merely the best method of travel, but the only way.

Judith Fowler is the story teller, and Johnny Fowler is her husband of less than one year. Also, he is the leader of the wagon train, and its sole owner as well. We are taken on this wagon train and get so we can smell the dust, suffer from want of water, and face the death of our comrades on the trail as they did.

This train faces the same problems of any such adventure—plus one. Judith is the only woman on the train! She acts as nurse to the personnel of the train, as well as wife to the trainmaster and cook for the train leaders. This novel is not as fast-paced as many similar stories, because the author has nothing significant happen without first preparing the reader.

Personality conflicts arise to cause trouble, which Johnny, of course, always handles wisely although Judith at first does not understand. Late in the book we see the men of the caravan acting at their worst. After being misguided by a frontier trapper who has joined them, only to betray them, the wagon train is forced to halt for more than one day because of his evil desires aided by some men of the train who have become mutineers (if that can be used of landlubbers as well as seafaring men).

They attempt to steal the horses from the train, abandoning it by the banks of the Grand Canyon. At the same time an attempt is made, and nearly is successful, to kidnap Judith. However, Johnny's leadership is again proven and the train gets into Santa Fe, minus some of the original party.

Parley is one of the few experienced men with the wagon train, and often rides with Judith. And it is through him that the reader gains insight into why certain things are done.

If you like what I have come to call "sophisticated westerns" you will enjoy this book. I, personally, have not before now read any of Janice Holt Giles' books. However, the publisher lists an even dozen novels from her pen. I trust that she will write several dozen more.

VOYAGE TO SANTA FE by Janice Holt Giles, Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston, 1962. Available from the Cass City and Elkland Township Library.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where them folks that got the Supreme Court to take prayer out of the public schools ain't having much success with that atheist colony they started.

It don't surprise me none fer nobody to be doing so good that don't believe in some sort of Supreme Being. I ain't qualified to speak on the legal end of prayer in the schools and it could be the Supreme Court was holding—according to law, but they didn't hold again a feller having a prayer in his heart.

I ain't never fell out with a feller over what kind of politics or religion he's got, so long as he's got some. But I believe everybody ought to have a little politics on his mind and some sort of religion in his heart. I heard a preacher say once that a atheist was worried about getting a shirt over his wings when he ought to be worried about getting a hat over his horns. And that about sums up my feelings in the matter. A feller's religion might not be deep as a well or as wide as a church house door, but so long as he has got some, they was hope fer him. It was a comfort to me, when things looks bad with Russia, to remember they outlived God. No nation that has outlived God can win over America in the end.

But I better git off this subject, Mister Editor, afore Zeke Grubb's preacher has me arrested fer preaching without a license.

I was reading last night where 54 per cent of all the food people in the United States eats today comes out of tin cans, and 50 years ago it was only 3 per cent. And over in another piece some science feller was writing that a human weighing 140 pounds contained enough fat fer seven cakes of soap, carbon fer 9,000 pencils, fosferous fer 2,200 matches, enough iron to make a eight-penny nail, enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop, and enough water to fill a 10-gallon bucket.

It could be, Mister Editor, that with folks now building the body with 54 per cent from tin cans, the composition of the human body would be changing. In another 50 years, fer instant, it could contain enough water to fill a 10-gallon bucket and enough tin to build a 12-cylinder automobile. We got to be thinking about such matters.

And to close my little piece this week on a encouraging note I see where Congress is spending $21,200 to study toads, $103,000 to make pictures of the Eskimos, $2,911 to study flowers in Peru and $5,700 to study the swimming habits of seals. All of which, I reckon, is good on account of our deficit fer 1963 ain't going to be but $8 billion and we don't owe but $300 billion.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Quackgrass Abounds In Soil Bank Land

Farmers removing land from the Soil Bank for 1964 crop production should start controlling quackgrass this fall. The weed can be a serious problem.

"Many fields coming out of the Soil Bank in Tuscola county are infested with quackgrass and other weeds," says Alfred Ballweg, county extension director. "These fields should be planted to corn next spring since the best control program cannot be used ahead of other crops."

Fall application of amitrile-T or atrazine is recommended so corn can be planted early next spring. Waiting to apply the chemicals until spring may delay corn planting until late May which can reduce yields as much as 15 bushels per acre.

Plant residues and trash should be removed, plowed or disked under before spraying begins. The quackgrass should be sprayed when it reaches four to six inches of new growth, crop specialists note.

Farmers planting only one year of corn should use amitrile-T at the rate of two pounds of active ingredient per acre. Two pounds of atrazine can be used when corn is to be grown for two or more years. Farmers should plow in two weeks if freezing does not occur on land sprayed with the amitrile-T.

"The herbicide can be applied next spring if the quackgrass does not make sufficient regrowth of at least four inches this fall," said Ballweg. "Spring plowing can then follow a week after spraying."

He advises farmers to plan an added spray application next spring for effective quackgrass control. A pre-emergence or very early post-emergence application of two pounds of atrazine next spring will give season long control of annual broadleaved weeds and grasses.

The MSU specialist adds that sugar beets and vegetable crops should not follow corn treated with two pounds of atrazine because of residual effects. Soybeans, field beans and small grain crops can be planted after one year of corn where a combination of two pounds of amitrile-T and two pounds of atrazine was used.

Tyre, Michigan
Oct. 18, 1963

Dear Editor,

I wonder how many times we have watched with pride our maroon-clad high school band while they performed for a half-time show at a football field, played at a concert, or marched down the street on Memorial Day. Our band is the part of our school that people see, and they must be impressed with the dignified manner displayed by our youth. For some of the members band gives an opportunity to express musical talent that otherwise would never be experienced. For others band is a chance to change from the purely academic course of study and learn to enjoy good music in a social situation that will make them better citizens.

What do you know about your band? Have you watched the boys and girls assembling at the school to leave in the cars of some of the band parents who have generously donated their time and cars to get a few of the deserving students to an honors band performance after they have spent long hours of practice readying themselves for the occasion? Have you noticed the length of bare ankle exposed and wondered why?

Here are a few facts: A father can point with pride to his son and say, "That is the uniform I wore when I played in the band." Of course we have all heard that our present generation will average taller and heavier than their parents - that is the reason the uniform is pedal-pusher length.

The bulk of the uniforms being worn right now was purchased during the middle thirties and is of remarkable good quality. The community pride of the students, the parents and King's Cleaners is shown in every loving stitch where the material is taken in, let out, lengthened, shortened and patched. The "new" uniforms, added about twelve years ago, are of poorer quality - they are not wearing well. However the practical parents plan to use the repaired old uniforms for the future Junior Band where they will fit.

If one simply watches the band, he may not realize how often the parents have to rush the suits to the cleaners to get the brass stains out between performances.

The Band Boosters, all people who are interested in the instrumental music program at Cass City, made plans for the coming year. These plans include a week's camp at the end of the summer, to be attended by all prospective senior band members, to prepare them for the marching season. Mr. Walker, the band director, announced that we would need a few more instruments in the near future. The Band Boosters gave $50 scholarships to four members of the band who had competed for the opportunity to go to summer band schools this past summer. Now the uniform situation seems more urgent than ever, and in addition to these other projects the Band Boosters are holding an auction sale at Bartnik's to start a fund to be set aside for the purchase of the new uniforms, which will cost in the neighborhood of $4,200.00. Interested people have already donated useful articles such as machinery, furniture, bicycles, appliances and tires.

This is OUR band. Let's keep it dressed properly so we may continue to be proud of it!

Sincerely,
Marian Spencer
