

Report Ninth Crash of Year

Cass City began 1964 with nine automobile accidents during January, Police Chief Palmateer announced this week. The village finished the month with two property damage accidents on Monday, Jan. 27.

In the first accident, at about 3:45 p.m., Charles Orban, 49, rural Caro, drove his car into the rear of a car driven by Homer Butcher, 77, Unionville, on West Main Street. Both cars suffered damage.

Two hours later, a car driven by Richard Mallory, 27, Cass City, struck the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Shirley I. Mouton, 21, Cass City, on Seeger Street.

Mrs. Mouton was reportedly attempting to turn into a driveway and failed to signal. When Mallory attempted to miss the Mouton vehicle, his car spun around, striking the left front corner of the other car.

Sheriff's deputies reported two accidents involving area persons during the past week.

Saturday afternoon Harry Marks, 25, Bad Axe, was ticketed for driving under the influence of liquor after his car struck a car driven by Mrs. Bertha M. Hahn, 40, Kingston. Mrs. Hahn told deputies that she was going south on Cemetery Road a quarter mile south of Kelly Road, when she saw the Marks car being driven erratically down the road. She said she attempted to avoid the other car but failed. Riding with Mrs. Hahn was her husband, Simon, 53.

Marks charged that the Hahn vehicle was weaving and not his. Tuesday, Jan. 28, a car driven by Ronald Parrish, 18, Brooker St., Cass City, struck the rear of a car driven by Gary L. Jacques, 20, E. Caro Rd., Caro, at the intersection of Ellington Street and E. Caro Rd.

Jacques had reportedly stopped to let another car pass before making a left turn. He told deputies his turn signals were on. Parrish reported that he was not aware of the other car until the last minute.

From the Editor's Corner

The Chronicle may be the intermediary that will establish a friendship between a family in Holland and a soldier from California.

This strange twist of events started when Tineke van Eerde of Holland became a foreign exchange student and was assigned to Cass City.

A feature about Tineke appeared in the Chronicle and was read by T/Sgt. William Ritter in California.

This month Ritter was assigned to Amsterdam, Holland, and before taking off is visiting his parents, the Ben Ritters, in Cass City. While here he will talk with Miss van Eerde and get the address of her parents and when he gets in Holland, he plans to look the family up.

Look for a rap on your door within the next few weeks by a member of the Junior Class. The annual sale of magazines and the Chronicle starts Feb. 13. The students have an extra incentive for raising money this year, as they use the proceeds to help finance their senior trip. If they select the same destination as this year's class, they will be headed for the World's Fair at New York.

Another of the periodic visits from big city newspapers occurred in town Tuesday. This time it was a lady feature writer trying to learn "what Cass City thinks of itself."

She was being shown the town by Mrs. Lucile Bauer. If she decides to write about the community, we'll wager that the story will have an angle that most folks who live here every day will challenge as to accuracy in catching the spirit of the community.

However, in the broader sense, the publicity will be beneficial to the town because it's virtually impossible to write about the community without reiterating our accomplishments in recent years... certainly these stack up as well or better than any other Michigan rural community.

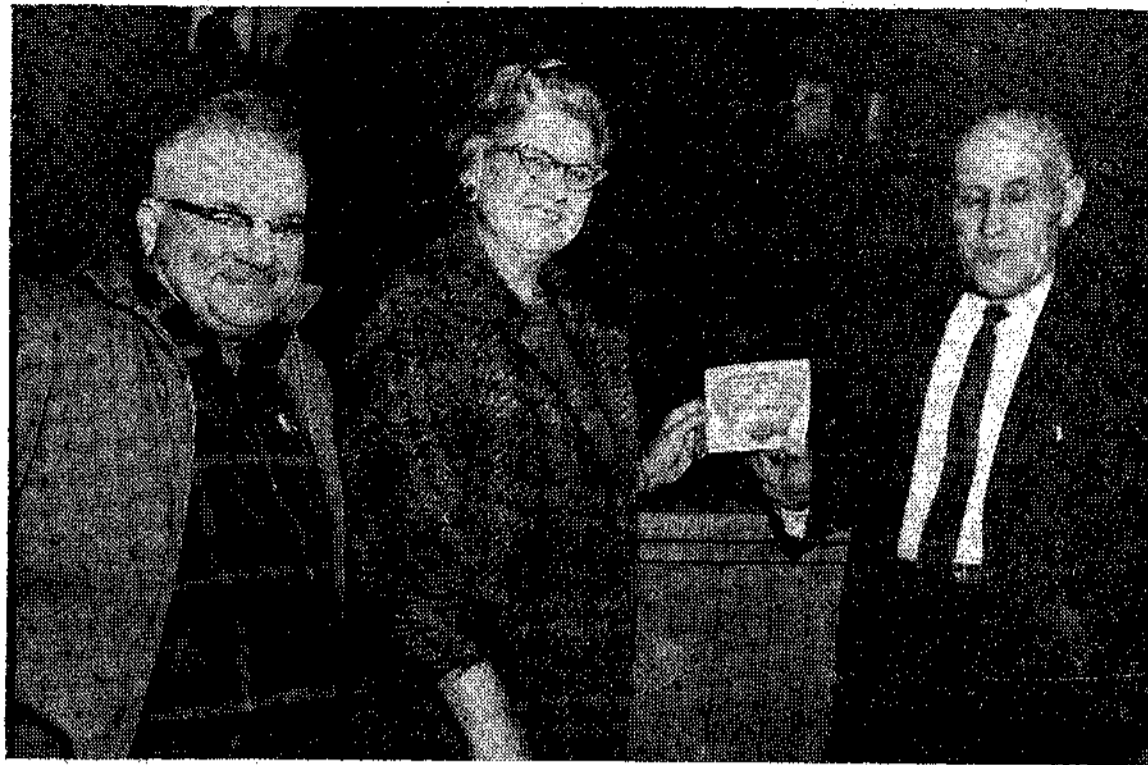

Townsend Snags Top Accounting Position in Texas

A former Cass City resident, Les Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Townsend of Cass City, has been named controller in charge of all operating and financial divisions for a new Rhodes store opening in San Antonio, Tex.

Townsend, a graduate of Michigan State University and Cass City High School, has been with Rhodes since 1960 when he joined the corporate staff and was controller of the Country Club and Southgate stores in Sacramento, Calif. At 30, he is one of the youngest retail controllers in the nation.

Townsend has been prominent in the field of control analysis and was co-author of "How to Analyze a Selling Department" in 1960, published by the Controllers' Congress and a gold medal winner for expense savings ideas in 1962. He was also speaker for the Controllers' Congress 1962 meeting on "Inventory Shrinkage Control."

Townsend, his wife Rose Marie and daughters, Becky and Teri, live in the new Dreamland Oaks area.

Slate Sales Twice Weekly

Michigan Livestock Exchange Announces First Sale Date

Michigan's only livestock auction yard open two days a week will begin operation Tuesday, Feb. 11, Michigan Livestock Exchange General Manager Ike Walton announced Saturday at a sneak preview of the Cass City yard.

"No effort has been spared in providing efficient, well constructed stockyard facilities," Walton told newsmen, agricultural officials and teachers, and supporters from seven surrounding counties.

Walton's announcement that the yard would be operating two days each week came as a surprise. It will be the first auction yard of its size in the State to operate under the two-day schedule.

Sale days will be Tuesday and Friday. The opening session Tuesday, Feb. 11, will start at 1:00 p.m. with feeder pigs, outside, followed by feeder cattle, calves, bulls, butcher cattle, cows and hogs.

Friday sales will start at 4:00 p.m. Only slaughter cattle, including cows and bulls, and hogs will be sold. Walton stressed that calves, lambs and feeder cattle will not be sold at the Friday sessions.

He explained that the Friday sale will give meat packers an opportunity to have livestock available to begin Monday morning slaughtering.

The whole operation, Walton stated, will be geared for rapid auctioning, with an anticipated two sales per minute. For the convenience of local farmers, he estimated that fat cattle would be ready to sell by 4:00 p.m.

One important service of the yard is that checks will be mailed to farmers by the evening of the day of the sale, instead of the following day.

The new 196-pen facility, offering 30,000 square feet of stockyards and capable of yarding 1,500 or more head of livestock, will be managed by Chris Labor, former Bad Axe auction yard manager.

Local Man Almost Duplicates Once in A Million Years Feat

Four weeks ago, the Chronicle ran an item about a local man, Chlois Pomeroy, who had the rare experience of purchasing the same license number for the second consecutive year.

At the time Pomeroy remarked that it was a "once in a million years" happening.

Friday afternoon, Rinerd Knoblet, Rt. 3, Cass City, came close to duplicating Pomeroy's feat. Knoblet purchased his 1964 plates and they bore the number 929,781, exactly the same as his 1962 license plates.

Knoblet's 1963 plates bore the number 929,967, giving him his "once in 500,000 years" odds.

Sentence Pair For Auto Offenses

Two county men were given probationary sentences for different offenses during a Circuit Court session Wednesday, Jan. 29, with Judge Timothy Quinn presiding.

John D. Crawford Jr., 18, Cass City, charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile, was given a two-year probationary sentence with the first year to be spent at Camp Fuglesy. He was also ordered to pay costs of $100 and to make restitution of $91.37.

Crawford reportedly drove away an automobile owned by Donald Volk last November 16.

David Dinkle, former Mayville constable, was put on probation for two years and ordered to pay court costs of $100 and to make $160 restitution.

Dinkle was charged with removing an automobile without the consent of the mortgagee. He obtained a $523.95 loan on a 1958 automobile last April from the Mayville State Bank. He then drove the car to Omaha, Neb., without the consent of the bank.

District Debate Meet Slated at Akron-Fairgrove

Cass City debaters finished a whirlwind of activities over the week end as they girded themselves for a State League District meet this Saturday at Akron-Fairgrove.

The Red Hawk debate squad finished the State schedule with a 6-2 record following a forfeit this week by Otisville.

Saturday the squad attended a "brush up" tourney at Ann Arbor where they finished six rounds of debating with two wins and four losses. Competition included schools from all over the lower half of the state, according to Miss Nedra Mendelin, debate coach.

Sunday the group attended a banquet at Zehnder's Hotel in Frankenmuth where informal discussions of the club's prospects and mapping of strategy for the coming district meet was the order of business.

If the squad should take four out of six debates at the Akron-Fairgrove meet, the next step will be the regionals slated soon at Central Michigan University.

The debaters recently finished a heavy local debate schedule and tied with Imlay City and Vassar for second place. Last year the squad ended up in a five-way tie for third place.

Slate Benefit Dance For Don Finkbeiner

Cass City Lions and village firemen have extended an invitation to area residents to attend a "Don Finkbeiner Benefit Dance" Thursday, Feb. 20, in the high school gym at 8:30 p.m.

All proceeds from the dance will go to Finkbeiner, severely burned in a house explosion and fire Jan. 14.

The dance was officially announced Monday night at a Lions Club meeting at Martin's Restaurant. Details of the dance are being handled by Lions President Paul O'Harris and Harry Little. Representing firemen at the meeting was Jerome Root Jr.

The dance will culminate a series of fund-raising campaigns by individuals, clubs and other groups for the 27-year-old repairman and father of two children. A Deckerville band will provide the music.

Fund raising began when it was learned that Finkbeiner carried no hospital insurance and very little accident insurance. The family's troubles are further complicated by the fact that Mrs. Finkbeiner is expecting another child the latter part of this month.

It is expected to be several weeks before Finkbeiner will be able to use his badly burned hands.

Tickets for the dance may be purchased by donation and may be obtained from any Lion or fireman. Refreshments will also be served at the dance.

Graham Hearing Opens

A hearing on an injunction to stop payment of ousted Probate Court Judge Henderson Graham's salary bogged down Tuesday over a legal question. As of press time Wednesday, the hearing was still in session.

The hearing opened in a packed court room before Judge Richard G. Smith of Bay City, and almost immediately hit a snag over the question of who had the burden of proof.

Judge Smith called a recess so attorneys involved could check the law.

The injunction is sought by Maurice C. Ransford of Caro to halt payment of Graham's salary. Graham has collected more than $15,000 since his suspension in May, 1962.

Ransford's attorney, Douglas Williams, seeks to have the office declared vacant under the new constitution which states judges of record must be attorneys. The constitution makes exception for nonlawyer incumbents.

A hearing has also been asked in Supreme Court in which Judge Graham would attempt to show by what right he holds office.

The remainder of Tuesday's session and part of Wednesday's hearing was confined to what questions of the order to show cause should be dropped and which were relevant.

Banquet Keynotes Boy Scout Week Festivities Here

The annual Blue and Gold dinner Monday, Feb. 10, at the Elementary School gym will be the highlight of National Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7-13.

Scoutmaster Jim Jezewski said that the event will start at 6:30 p.m. and will be a potluck affair for parents and families of the scouts.

The highlight of the program is the presentation of awards to scouts.

There are some 30 boys in scouting in Cass City today. The two patrols meet every Wednesday night at the Scout rooms over the fire hall.

Assisting Jezewski are three other volunteer adults and the scout committee. The adults who take an active part in the weekly training include Assistant Scoutmaster Jim Husa, Dexter Johnson and John Schmittausler.

The local scouts are planning a display to be placed in a Cass City business, Jezewski said.

Bulletin

Mary E. Willerton of Cass City died early Wednesday morning at Cass City Hospital. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

License Examiner Here Saturday

It's that time of month again and License Examiner James Hildinger, Tuscola county Sheriff's deputy, will be at the Cass City Municipal building Saturday, Feb. 8, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon to renew drivers' licenses.

Hildinger is available the second Saturday of each month at the Municipal Building for renewals.

It takes lots of horse sense to maintain a stable government.

Farm Bureau Hosts Clergy at Caro

"Our individual freedom and citizenship responsibilities depend on the principles of helping the individual to help himself," said Mrs. Clare Carpenter in an address to a group of Farm Bureau members and their ministers Friday.

Speaking at a clergy-farmer program at the Farm Bureau Center in Caro, Mrs. Carpenter cited the government compensatory payments as "hand-outs" taken from the already burdened taxpayers. "The subsidy funds taken from one pocket is put into the other with the hand of government control wrapped around it," she said.

It was suggested that the test of any government policy should be "how will it affect the character, morals and well being of our people."

County Farm Bureau president Alfred Goodall reviewed the history of the organization since its origin in 1915 and explained the structure of the county group.

Clifton Lotter spoke on the policy making procedure within the organization. He traced the formation of resolutions from community Farm Bureau to the national level.

A slide presentation, "The American Way," was shown to explain what Farm Bureau stands for.

The Rev. James Braid from the Cass City Methodist Church gave the benediction.

Preceding the program a dinner was served to those attending by the Farm Bureau Women's group under the supervision of Mrs. Frank Satchell.

Among those attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodall, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. John Koepf, Ellwood Eastman, the Rev. and Mrs. George Getchel, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Betts, the Rev. James Braid and the Rev. Helen Royce.

Hold Last Rites For Clayton Ryan

Funeral services for Clayton L. Ryan, 51, of Bradenton, Fla., were held Monday at Bradenton. Ryan was stricken with a heart attack at Bradenton Tuesday, Jan. 28.

He had been in ill health for several years following a fall at his former home in Fort Wayne, Ind. He was critically injured in the accident and never fully recovered.

Ryan was born in the Cass City area. He married the former Esther Felshow, who died in 1961.

Surviving are: his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ryan; two sisters, Mrs. James Colenso of Royal Oak and Mrs. Lawrence Struble of Bradenton; and two brothers, Cliff of Cass City and Cleatus of Pontiac.

Burial was in the Greenlawn Memorial Cemetery at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. William R. Barnfather

Pontiac Central Christian Church was the setting for the Jan. 18 marriage of Roberta Jean Horner of Highland, Mich., and William Robert Barnfather of Milford.

The Rev. Edwin Wilson of Ashland, Ohio, officiated at the 8:00 p.m. ceremony. Candelabra, palms and baskets of white glads and baby mums decorated the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audley Horner of Highland. They are former Cass City residents. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barnfather of Milford are parents of the groom.

She chose a floor-length gown of imported hand-clipped French Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline with white sequins and seed pearl trim. The gown's full skirt fell into a chapel train with scalloped bottom. A horseshoe of self-fabric roses graced the back. A double-tiered crown of white seed pearls and crystal held her elbow-length bouffant veil of English silk illusion. She carried a white orchid with a cascade of baby red roses on a prayer book.

Mrs. Arnold Erla of Cass City attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a gold velvet gown styled with fitted bodice, bateau neckline and long sleeves. The bell skirt featured unpressed pleats with a bow at the back. She wore a matching hat. Her cascade bouquet of Fuji mums was tinted to match her gown.

Cathy and Geraldine Horner, both of Highland, Mrs. LaVern Rutkowski of Cass City and Karen Gaffney of Highland were bridal attendants. Their gowns were identically styled as Mrs. Erla's, only in lime green with hats to match. Their cascade arrangements of Fuji mums also matched their ensembles.

Terie Lynne Lester of Cass City, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Jimmy Raymond of Highland.

William Field of Milford was best man. Other attendants were Peter Hubbell of Milford, Louis Horner of Saline, Thomas Barnfather of Milford and Norman Raymond of Highland.

Ushers were Allan Barnfather of Milford and Gary Suzor of Pontiac.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece pink suit with gold brocade and the groom's mother had a pink chiffon dress with a lace jacket. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

A reception was held at the UAW Hall, Pontiac, for 200 guests. Mrs. Duane Lester of Cass City and Mrs. Mike Agemy of Highland Park, sisters of the bride, served the wedding cake.

The bride chose an aqua wool dress with black accessories for the wedding trip to Washington, D. C.

The couple will make their home at 1310 E. Highland Road, Highland.

Stirtons Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Stirton observed their 50th wedding anniversary at their home Jan. 28. No celebration was planned but they received anniversary cakes, flowers and calls from relatives and friends.

Archie P. Stirton and Miss Gettrude Turner were married Jan. 28, 1914.

The couple had seven children, five of whom are living. They are: Gordon Stirton of Kerwood, Ont., Lucille Way of Arcata, Calif., Betty Steiner of Urbana, Ill., Isabelle Clarke of Birmingham, Mich., and Archie Jr. of Fraser. They also have seven grandchildren.

Folks never grow old by living — only by losing interest in life.

Senate-House Due for Change Under New Constitution

By Emer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Changes Coming

Even seasoned observers of the State Capitol arena will need a scorecard to tell the players in next year's legislative game.

This will be especially true in the State Senate which had a considerably high turnover in the past four years. Now many of the relatively new members of the upper chamber are setting their sights on higher goals.

The creation of an appellate court in the new Constitution is drawing the eyes of at least two senators, who have already announced their interest in one of the nine seats still to be set down in districts.

New Congressional districts also are a big drawing card. At least four and possibly more senators are viewing a job in the Washington House.

Three others are known to be either retiring or seeking a higher state office.

To have nine potential vacancies this early in an election year, when petition filing is still months away, is a rarity but perhaps a sign of the times. Political campaigns seem to begin earlier each successive election year.

House changes also will be many, but this figure is less firm because fewer members in that body have committed themselves. One element in the House, however, will cause an automatic dropout of at least a dozen members.

The new Constitution prohibits a legislator to be on the payroll of another governmental unit. House membership includes several school teachers, and a number of other city, township and county officers who must this year choose which public office they wish to maintain.

The possibility of new districts in the State Legislature also could open the door for major fights for these positions and the loss of still other incumbents.

Needs and Opportunities
Educators viewed Gov. George

Romney's budget request in their area with relative optimism, but will be keeping an especially keen eye on the Legislature this year where appropriations are concerned.

Romney's recommendations came closer to the higher education requests than any previous proposal.

The special interest in budgeted funds comes as the result of federal action on the $1.2 billion aid to education bill. The Congress provided a one-third matching system under the act whereby state, local or private funds must supplement the Federal aid.

The concern of Michigan's various colleges and universities was summed up well by John G. McKevitt, business and financial officer for the University of Michigan.

"It remains to be seen whether the Legislature provides the funds necessary to attract the Federal grants over and above current appropriations, or whether it considers the Federal contribution as an excuse for cutting back on state monies," he said.

Best estimates are that Michigan's more than 30 four-year institutions could share $8 or $10 million a year under the aid to education program, if home-based funds were available.

Speed Studies

If speed kills, as has often been said, a statistical survey by the State Highway Department would indicate the roadway slaughter will continue on the rise.

In the past 13 years, the average speed on Michigan highways has increased from 48 miles per hour to 56.9 miles per hour. The survey shows Michigan's average speed has been increasing every year since 1950. In 1958 the average jumped nearly one mile per hour, from 56.1 to 56.9 miles per hour.

This average, however, includes all vehicles. Buses rank nearly as high as passenger cars in average speeds, but trucks travel at a considerably lower pace, with just less than a 50 miles per hour average.

The average is pulled up sharply by passenger cars, at about 58.4 miles per hour, and buses at 56 miles per hour in the 1963 study.

The "fast driver" category is also on the upswing, the survey showed. The percentage of all vehicles which exceeded 65 miles per hour last year was 20.5 per cent, as compared to 15.8 per cent the previous year.

Michigan's speed survey is not designed to draw conclusions about the total effect of motor vehicle speed, but rather to indicate the trend of travel in the state.

Department officials conduct the survey with radar machines set up at 25 daytime and 10 nighttime locations, using the same posts each year to eliminate variables in the test.

BULEN TALKS CARS

CONTRACTS AND THE LAW

It has always surprised me how otherwise sensible people, who wouldn't cross a busy street blindfolded, or sign a blank check in a business deal, won't hesitate to endorse an uncompleted contract when they're buying a car.

Fortunately, in most cases where this occurs due to a shortage of time or some other cause in the sales transaction, no harm results because the dealer is an honest and reputable businessman. But it is a bad practice. The buyer should know exactly what he is buying, on what terms, and in writing which he should understand before he signs.

Out-of-town buyers who THOUGHT they were buying on such-and-such finance terms, or specific optional equipment, are the usual victims of misrepresentation of this sort. In most cases they didn't receive a completed contract until weeks after they had taken delivery of their car and their first finance payment was due.

Reputable dealers frequently lose sales by honestly stating the monthly terms, only to have an unscrupulous competitor verbally underbid them with figures that bear no resemblance to those later filled in on the contract.

If you buy your car from Bulen Motors we want you to fully understand all of the terms of your sales agreement. It is just plain good sense for you to know exactly what, and on what terms, your hard-earned money is buying.

Nerve Exhaustion

By Dr. E. P. Lockwood
"When I awake in the morning I feel nearly as tired as when I went to bed," said a lady consultant the other day. She also included the symptoms, liver, stomach and bowel complications. She wanted to know what modern Chiropractic could do for her.

General nerve exhaustion is probably a type of case most frequently handled in our office. This is quite natural because slight pressure on nerves exhaust the vitality which causes the condition. No method or procedure can correct nerve pressure which does not work directly on the nerves. The other symptoms often following exhausted nerves include headache, neuritis, nervous indigestion, so called rheumatism and dizziness. Treated separately as symptoms all these conditions defy correction. When the general nervous system is strengthened by adjustments all symptoms disappear because all nerves have been normalized to all parts of the body. This is the basis upon which Chiropractic rests.

The truth of this principle is proved by the praises of millions who owe their health, (even their life in many instances) to the correct application of this fundamental law of life and health. If you would get well and keep well, consult a modern Chiropractor.

One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific Chiropractic, written by Dr. E. P. Lockwood whose office is located at Cass City, Tel. 872-2765.

Hawks Lose Pair Of Heart Breakers

Cass City lost another game in the final minutes of play Tuesday night as Buena Vista edged the Hawks at Cass City High School, 84-82.

The game was every bit as close as the score indicated. After the opening minutes of the first quarter when the visitors jumped into an 8-0 lead, no more than six points separated the two clubs at one time.

At the end of the first period, the score was tied at 25-25. Cass City edged in front 44-41 at the half and maintained the edge with a 70-67 advantage at the end of three quarters.

With two and a half minutes to go, the Hawks were in front by four points. But in the next two minutes, Buena Vista overcame this edge and moved four points in front.

With 10 seconds left on the clock the Hawks pulled to within a single bucket, but time ran out before they could attempt to score again.

Jim Knoblet played an outstanding game for the Hawks. He went the entire distance and avoided running into foul trouble for the first time this year.

Walter Hempton bombed the bucket for 22 points and was ably assisted in scoring by Ed Retherford, Jim Champion and Dave Stine, who netted 16 points each.

Junior Varsity

Buena Vista made it a clean sweep with a 65-44 decision over the Cass City JV's.

For the second time this season, Marlette rallied in the final moments of the game to defeat Cass City in a Thumb B Conference tilt. In the first game between the two schools the Red Raiders went ahead with about five minutes left to play and then won going away. The loss shoved Cass City into third place.

Friday at Marlette the Hawks made it tougher before bowing. It took the winners two overtimes to finally clinch the victory. The score was 87-81.

In the seesaw battle, Marlette took an early lead, lost it and then rallied to tie the score in regulation time.

Marlette started with a scor-pair of buckets by Jim Champion and a basket by Walter Hempton.

Marlette countered with a pair of free throws by Warren O'Meara and two baskets.

In the decisive second overtime, Bob Jameson hit a basket and two free throws, while Paul Chappel, Mike Doak and O'Meara hit single baskets. Hempton's two overtime buckets were not enough to salvage the victory.

Jim Knoblet led the attack for the Hawks with 25 points as he hit 11 field goals and three of three from the free throw line. When he fouled out, Cass City's chances were materially damaged.

Hempton also helped keep the Hawks in the game with 22 points. Sam Patrick led Marlette with 25 points, while Chappel and Jameson each netted 15.

Lynn Takes First In Skiing Regional

Lynn Atwell skied to another first Sunday in the giant slalom race (girls open class four) at the Region III U.S. Ski Association championships at Boyne City.

Sunday's win gave Lynn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Atwell, Cass City, a total of 1196 out of a possible 1,200 points for the season.

The giant slalom differs from the regular slalom in that it is a much faster race.

Next on her schedule will be divisional championships at Nub's Nob soon.

Police Patrolled 30,992 Miles in '63 Palmateer Reports

Cass City police patrolled 30,992 miles in 1963, according to a summary report presented at the January council meeting by Police Chief Carl Palmateer.

Palmateer and Patrolman William McKinley worked 4,627 hours and handled 1,278 calls. The department investigated 77 automobile accidents and issued 69 traffic summonses during the year. Verbal warnings totaled 64 and 38 parking summonses were given out.

There were nine larceny reports and nine persons arrested in 1963. Of 54 dog complaints handled, 22 dogs were destroyed.

Accompanying Palmateer's year-end report was his regular monthly report.

The department started the year by patrolling 2,205 miles in January. Palmateer put in 391 hours and McKinley worked 152 hours. The department handled 94 calls in January.

YOU AND ATOMIC ENERGY

Mrs. Enrico Fermi and Walker L. Cislak at Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant, October 13, 1960. The plant is named in honor of the late, famous Italian-American physicist.

Machines greatly increase the productivity of the men who work in industry. They help make possible higher wages, shorter hours and our country's superior living standards. The energy the machines use, electric power, is one of the lesser costs of production. Nevertheless, it is a part of the total cost of the finished product.

Michigan doesn't contain much native coal, oil or gas—not nearly enough to provide all the energy necessary to run our great industries and provide for the needs of the state's more than 8-million citizens. So fuel must be imported and its transportation costs money. About half of Edison's cost of coal is in the transportation of it, literally by the train load and boat load.

In contrast, uranium, processed to run an atomic energy power plant, is measured by the pound. So its transportation cost is an insignificant factor. Going a step further, the Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant, near Monroe, has a special kind of nuclear reactor, a breeder reactor. I believe that this type of reactor, which produces more fissionable material than it consumes, is one of the most important projects of its kind in the world.

As Dr. Fermi said in 1945, "The country which first develops a breeder reactor will have a great competitive advantage in atomic energy."

It is good that Michigan is the site for this kind of research and development work, and that the power it produces will be distributed over our lines. It's one of the ways by which we seek to overcome higher generating costs and produce electric energy at as low a cost as possible.

An important part of our service to you is preparing for the future in this way, by pioneering and participating in the research and development that are so meaningful to you, to our state, our nation and to the world at large.

Sincerely,

Walker L. Cislak Walker L. Cislak, President DETROIT EDISON

education with us," stated Rev. William Lutz, executive director of the council.

It is hoped that host families will take advantage of this school day and make needed arrangements to visit their schools, have lunch at the school cafeteria or perhaps a special assembly to enable the children to benefit from the visit of one from another land.

Arrangements are being made for the visiting students to contribute a registration fee to help defray expenses.

Other business conducted at the meeting was to assign members of the council to teams. In order to serve the foreign student program in the state more effectively, these teams will represent the council to set up and carry out the program in outlying areas.

It is suggested that those who have an interest in the program and have not returned the enrollment card, should do so immediately so that contacts can be made.

"This does not, in any way commit the family to entertain unless it is convenient. It does, however, give us an opportunity to ask if there is an interest at such time when a group of students are scheduled to visit in the area," Lutz said.

Cull 30 Per Cent Of Herd Yearly

If you are not culling 30 per cent of your dairy herd annually, you are below the average of Michigan dairymen in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association program.

Alfred Bullweg, county extension director in Tuscola county, reports 23,500 of the 78,300 cows in the Michigan DHIA program in 1963 were removed from the herd for various reasons.

Death is not the big cause as only 1.6 per cent of the animals died. Accidents took 40 per cent of these, milk fever 18 per cent and "hardware disease" almost 15 per cent.

An indication that dairymen are culling herds more heavily is revealed in the figure that nearly 50 per cent of the cows sold left the herd because of low production. Another 20 per cent went out because of sterility and breeding problems.

The county extension agent believes more farmers are paying close attention to total milk production of each animal and disposing of those which are not "money makers." To do this a farmer must have good production and feed cost records. That is why, Bullweg believes, good dairy farmers must have some kind of production testing program that will give them the answers on individual cows.

BOOK REVIEW

Here's A Pair You May Wish to Try

By the Rev. Robert J. Searls

From my stack of books received for Christmas were two paper backed books that were worth reviewing and that you may wish to buy. "Through The Valley of The River Kwai" is one of them and "America's First Ladies" is the other.

Omitting only Mrs. Johnson, this second volume gives short biographies of all the first ladies who have lived in the White House with their better-known husbands. In addition to the printed portraits, there are also photographic reproductions of our previous first ladies.

Our Presidents' wives were not always as important as we have been accustomed to feel they are. Starting with Mrs. Roosevelt (Eleanor), the Presidents' wives have become better known. At your next party, why not see how many first names of first ladies your guests can recall? Mrs. Roosevelt was active in social betterment causes, and her tall, unbecoming figure was seen around Washington, particularly the slums of that beautiful city. Of course, papers of the day made fun of her but she remained socially sensitive long after her famous husband died.

Next in line was 'Bess' Truman who inherited by marriage the difficult task of controlling her husband's anger. She was more of a housewife and mother than most first ladies are, and was never the butt of the jibes of correspondents and other newsmen. "Just plain Bess" was all she desired and in essence that is all she remained.

Mamie Doud Eisenhower had an advantage not often claimed for a first lady: she had always lived on the "fly" as a general's wife and therefore found the move into the Executive Mansion not too upsetting. Even when the President became seriously ill she answered practically every "get well" card he received! After that she threw herself into White House routine to save her husband's strength. She still gets as much applause as he does, witness the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy

endeared herself to the nation because of the personal tour (via TV), that she guided us all on, of the White House, speaking of things that had happened of historical import in each room. "Jackie's" manner with her children, an easy-going manner, yet strict when required, showed that she was aware of the problem of raising children in a fish bowl. And her deportment when her husband died in her arms, victim of an assassin's bullet, and the simple directness of all that followed, will go down in history.

Most of the first ladies are dealt with in three or four pages. This volume puts together in one place much information of use by those who write history. After all, you never really know a man in public life until you know the woman behind the man. In this book by Christine Sadler we get that much-needed knowledge.

"Through The Valley of the River Kwai" is one of several books written as post-war accounts of the efforts made by the Japanese to build a much-needed railroad bridge across the River Kwai with prisoners of war forced to provide labor. Ernest Gordon writes of how he is a prisoner in several of the camps whose job it was to build the bridge.

To me it seemed there were two incidents never before told that were fascinating. First was the informal schools, taught by fellow-prisoners who knew their topics, which not only filled the time but kept alive hope that they would have new skills to market when war was over.

The second was the shift in Gordon's ideas about the Christian faith. An agnostic at the beginning of the book, his experiences made a man of faith of him. He is now a minister.

"America's First Ladies," by Christine Sadler, 1963, MacFadden, New York.

"Through The Valley of the River Kwai," by Ernest Gordon, 1963, Bantam, New York.

Slate Coffee Break At Detroit Edison

Detroit Edison Company is having a "coffee break" at its sales offices throughout southeastern Michigan for all its friends to help observe the birthday of the "father of the electric industry," Thomas Alva Edison, Tuesday, Feb. 11.

Harry E. Richards, manager of Edison's Tuscola sales district, said "the electric coffeepot will be on all day for one and all."

Municipal officials and civic leaders of local communities have been invited to take part in cake-cutting ceremonies.

The informal "party" is part of the National Electrical Week (Feb. 9-15) observance devoted to focusing attention on the contributions of the electrical industry to America's progress.

Walker L. Cislir, president of Detroit Edison Company and president of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, said the United States, with only one sixteenth of the world's population, possesses one third of the world's electric power producing capacity.

Falcon proves it's America's toughest compact in the rugged Monte Carlo Rallye!

Four Falcons started from Oslo, four from Paris, on routes calculated to be equal in difficulty and length. Weather conditions varied from clear, bitter cold through freezing fog to blinding snow—and the time schedules made no provision for delays. Here a Falcon swirls through a sudden snow shower, testing traction in a practice run.

Falcon entered two classes in Europe's 2,700-mile winter ordeal—won them both and finished 2nd overall out of 299 cars. That's durability!

In the Rallye's five special Alpine sections, Falcon was first overall in four, tied for first in one. That's roadability!

In the Rallye's final test around the Monte Carlo racing course, Falcons were first and second. That's maneuverability!

MONTÉ CARLO—The 33rd Monte Carlo Rallye started with 299 cars. Some 2,700 miles and 3½ days later, only 163 were still in the rally when the field struggled into Monaco—but they included all eight of the specially equipped Falcons that originally started! This eight-out-of-eight record was perhaps more remarkable than the fact that, despite a handicap formula that favored the smallest cars, a Falcon captured second place overall. One car can have luck... but eight have to have total performance. Because the Rallye samples every variety of weather and road conditions the continent can provide, and because it winds up on the most remote byways in the French Maritime Alps, it is a supreme test of all the car's abilities. Falcon steering had to be flawless on glare ice above a 1,000-foot drop. Those fabulous V-8's had to run like dynamos.

The final results in the Monte Carlo Rallye gave Falcon 2nd place overall, 1st in Class 8 of the Touring category, 1st and 2nd in Class 5 of the much tougher Grand Touring category, 1st and 2nd in the final three-lap test on the Monte Carlo circuit. The best finish by a Valiant was 88th overall. Falcon gained invaluable experience in how to build a car better, make it tougher, sharpen up its total performance. That's the real reason Ford is interested in open competition—and why Ford-built cars have got so much more to show drivers. Drive one and see; it won't have six lights, or a horn you can hear for four miles in stormy weather, or the other special rally equipment—but it'll sure surprise you!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

COMMENTS BY KRAFT

A Family Like Any Other Family?

By Dave Kraft

It's a quiet week-end afternoon with the family engaged in various individual pursuits, much like any Cass City family.

Father is reading the paper, trying to decide whether he should irritate his ulcer with news of the African situation, the French situation, the Viet Nam situation, the Red China situation, the East Berlin situation or the American situation.

Mother is knitting... pearl one, knit two, pearl one, knit two, clickity-clack, clickity-clack. She is either knitting a tent or a sweater for an elephant.

Sister is watching cartoons and commercials. She doesn't move and from time to time her parents take her pulse to make sure she is still alive.

The last member of the family is seated in his high chair. His tray, once piled high with toys, has been swept clean with a few jerky, but quick passes of his stubby little arms.

A look of boredom creeps over his cherubic little face, as if he were thinking, "I've been sitting here for several seconds and nobody has paid any attention to me."

He pounds the top of his tray for attention. Nothing. He slides down in his chair and gives his impression of a child choking to death on his high chair tray. Nothing.

Seeing this fail, he draws himself up to his full sitting height of 14 inches, places his hands on his tray, takes a deep breath and splits the air with a screech that would have put Tarzan to shame.

Success! There is a flurry of activity. Father no longer has to look for something to upset his ulcer. His startled reaction was to tear his paper down the center and he has found a situation right here at home that needs immediate attention.

Mother, an emotional and high strung individual even when it comes to tying her shoes, has knitted when she should have pearly and clacked when she should have clickited.

Sister has gone into shock. Father yells, "Hey, there! Shut your mouth." Mother says, "Don't raise your voice," and father isn't sure if she's talking to him or the baby.

Sister starts to cry. The center of attention smiles his twisted little smile and coos his twisted little coo.

Mother consoles father and tells him the paper will be easier to hold now that it has been rendered in twain. She gives sister a piece of gum which stops her crying and then piles the baby's tray with toys. She resumes her knitting.

All is quiet. Suddenly the television channel changes programs and on comes a puppet show about a car that flies "through the air or in the sea."

Sister screams "Super Car!" Father tears his paper in half, mother pearls two and knits one and the baby clears his tray.

And so the afternoon goes... much like with any other Cass City family? *****

Well, I've gotten my share of comments about my beard. It seems that I'm not alone in the venture. Joe Krepf who lives at the Walnut Trailer Park and works for Evans Products in Gagetown is also growing a beard. His is to be for the Saginaw Timber Town Festival. Looks good. Joe's last name, when pronounced right, sounds quite a bit like Kraft.

Mrs. William Zimba was in and commented that her husband had grown a beard once. "It was just like having a new man around the house," she says.

Bill Parrott told me a story about a bearded farmer who was trying to hang a freshly killed pig on a notched pole so it could be dunked into boiling water for de-hairing.

The farmer put a stick through the pig's hocks and slid it up the inclined pole. It was hard work and he really had to struggle the last few inches. He gave it his all and the stick slid into the notch, right on top of his beard. He'd probably still be hanging there if his wife hadn't cut him down.

Most of the comment has been adverse. There is some talk that a petition is being circulated requesting that I shave my beard off.

Three people told me they liked my beard. One was myself when I looked in the mirror and the other two asked that I not use their names.

Make a resolution to live each day well and live it usefully.

Today's troubles stem from the unpleasant, unperformed tasks we pushed aside yesterday.

ROLLING ALONG at a merry clip is the eighth grade team at Cass City School. The boys now boast a seven won, three loss record and undoubtedly several of the boys will be seen on varsity squads in years to come.

Third row: Mike Murphy, John Maharg, Jack Selby, Bill Klinkman, Dave Hennessey.

HAVING TROUBLE getting started is this group of seventh graders. They have won two while losing seven, in games with other schools in the area.

Front row: Fred Ryan, Rodney Wright,

Robbie Bridges.

Second row: Tom Guinther, Randy Aleksink, Dale Ashmore, Gary Rich.

Third row: Scott Tuckey, Terry Brinkman, Joe Mark.

URGING THE JUNIOR HIGH squads on to their best efforts are the cheerleaders. The girls all look forward to the time when they may be one of the select few chosen to lead the varsity. Girls are selected in open competition at the beginning of the year.

Youngsters Prep for High School Loops

Receiving little publicity and watched only by parents and teachers who are responsible for their program, the Cass City Junior High cage program nevertheless has swung into high gear.

The small fry play a regular schedule with other teams in the Thumb B Conference and have their own cheerleaders and regular paid referees.

The only differences between the games of these youngsters and their older counterparts are the size of the players and the crowds and the length of the games.

Each of the quarters is six minutes long as compared to eight for the high school teams. But the crowd grows about as tense and the coaches become excited, just like a regular high school game. (Against Caro Monday, the Tiger coach received a technical for protesting too vehemently amidst the excitement.) The seventh and eighth graders have their own cheerleaders who accompany the teams to all of their games, at home and away.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to notify the local readers of the Chronicle that I am not in accord with the recent subscription drive for magazines sponsored by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars or any other service organization. I personally have never endorsed this project and with recent developments, I never will.

Sincerely yours,
William O'Dell
Service Officer, American Legion Tri-County Post No. 507.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where one of them big automobile companies is coming out twice a year with new cars. They aim to put some out next month and call 'em the "1964 1/2 Models." The other car makers will fall in line and they ain't no telling where the thing will stop. I'm expecting it to git to three or four showings per year, all done in fractions.

It's going to be a little confusing, special to this young generation that ain't learned much arithmetic and has trouble with fractions. Johnny, that already can't read none too good, ain't going to recollect if he's driving a 1964 1/2 job or a 1964 3/4 model.

The fellers that designs new car models was claiming the American public needs more than one new car showing a year. I could drive a 2-horse wagon through that argument, Mister Editor, but it wouldn't do no good. A heap of folks will be buying a 1964 3/4 model when they ain't got a good start yet on paying for their 1964 1/2 job.

These automobile companies is the master thinkers of our age. I recollect a few years ago when they come out with all them rainbow colored cars. They claimed they was not only pretty but the loud colors would cut down on road accidents. They allowed as how fire trucks had always been painted red so folks could see 'em and git out the way. I ain't noticed no letup in car wrecks and it proves that wrecks ain't caused from not seeing the other feller. It proved that fire trucks had just as well be painted black, like funeral cars.

I don't know, Mister Editor, what this world is coming to. Fer instant, Ed Doolittle's daughter come by the country store Saturday night looking fer Ed, said he hadn't been home since "lunch." Ed's daughter works in one of them city offices and now she comes home talking about "lunch."

Us rural folks, as a general rule, ain't got but three eating times a day, breakfast, dinner, and supper. Dinner comes as close to 12 noon as we can git it, and supper comes after it gits too dark to work. We ain't got no such thing as "lunch" around here and whenever I use the word dinner in my little piece you'll know I'm talking about the meal that comes about the time of day when the sun is straight up and down over the top of the house.

Me and my old lady was talking about these matters at breakfast and she allows as how, just when it looks like the country was going to the bow-wows one week it keeps coming back the next. But if we git to calling dinner "lunch" and putting out automobiles in fractions, I ain't too shore we'll make it one of these weeks.

Uncle Tim

Experts Predict Trends Started in '63

Will Continue Through This Year

If predictions are facts, look for more of the same trend in 1964 as in 1963, reports Don Keblor, county extension agent in agriculture.

Generally here is the prediction for 1964: Continued economic growth and a possible three per cent increase in our gross national product, stimulated by another good auto year. There'll be a rise in consumer prices, a good export demand.

This sure sounds good, but there is a prediction for a decline in gross income in farming, due chiefly from wheat income. There will be a continued rise in production expenses and a lower farm income.

In other words, farmers are still in the throes of economic belt-tightening with no relief in sight. Maybe the farmer has some consolation. Most crop prices paid for his products are expected to hold to present levels, except for possibly wheat.

Except for an economic catastrophe as observed by many in 1929, we can look for more of the same with fewer farmers of larger holdings. The farmer who will survive this trend we are in will be those with a topnotch business record, management and analysis system for his operation.

The time to start was yesterday, but it is not too late to start today. Tomorrow will be too late. "I have seen too many farm operations suffer a slow death by economic strangulation," reports Keblor. The saddening thing is that many could have been saved and put on to a sound foundation if earlier management records and tools had been used. In most all cases, the operators let this economic strangulation sneak up on them before they realized it was too late to break loose.

The time is later than many farmers believe. They can't be complacent today and strong and safe tomorrow without a good personal management program. Nonfarm businesses have relied on management decisions from record keeping to keep them alive and a farming business of tomorrow will be the one which follows nonfarm business management and record keeping practices.

It is not too late to enroll in the Telfarm program. Do it soon. Attend the adult farmers' class at Reese High School Monday evening, Feb. 10, at 8 p. m. at which time a program on Telfarm will be presented or stop in at the Cooperative Extension office in the Courthouse at Caro and let us explain it to you, said Keblor.

Tact helps you get what you want without letting the other fellow know you want it.

Our citizens swallow a lot of dope every day, but little of it is of the narcotic variety.

THREE AUCTIONEERS will be needed to handle the twice weekly auctions at the Michigan Livestock Exchange yard in Cass City. The yard is slated to open Tuesday. Looking out from the auctioneer's box are:

Ike Walton, Exchange manager from Detroit; Boyd Tait, auctioneer from Caro; Lorn Hillaker, auctioneer from Cass City; Chris Labor, yard manager, and Lester Johnson, auctioneer from Mason.

Seed Growers Slate Meeting

The annual meeting of the Tuscola County Association of Certified Seed Growers will be held on Thursday, Feb. 13, in the county Farm Bureau building at Caro beginning at 1:30 p. m., according to Raymond Hecht of Reese, association president.

Program speaker will be Leyton V. Nelson, extension specialist in crop science from Michigan State University. His talk will be on seed improvement programs in Western Europe.

Other program speakers will be Dean Rynex of the Arwell Inc. who will give a presentation in regard to pest control. Herb Pettigrove, secretary of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, MSU, will be present also.

One-hundred-ten county certified seed growers grew approximately 5,000 acres of certified wheat, oats, barley, corn and beans during the 1963 crop year. The production of certified seeds represents a sizeable industry within our total county agriculture, said Hecht.

All interested seed growers are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Jem Mallory Sr.

Dies at Hospital

been a patient for the past two weeks. He had been in ill health for the past eight years.
