

Village's Canteen is Full—Residents Note No Change

A Chronicle Poll Tuesday shows that the addition of 11,000 new feet of water mains to the Cass City water system has had no ill effects to the supply of water to city residents.

Mains and feeders joined to the old system in recent weeks to bring improved water service to the north side of town include 9,000 feet of eight inch pipe and 2,000 feet of six inch pipe.

In addition a new, 200,000 gallon tank has been built which will take over from the old water tower within the next several weeks, William Schram, superintendent of public works, reports.

In some cases this new pipe cross connects feeder lines which were formerly dead end lines. In other cases, the new lines parallel existing, but inadequate, small pipe. Much of the new line breaks new ground in surrounding the north side with an eight inch main.

When the valves were turned recently and water from the city's 400 gallon-a-minute pumps poured through the new lines, there should have been no ill effects to the supply of water through existing pipes, Schram said.

There wasn't, according to 100 per cent of the people spot surveyed Tuesday.

And most of those questioned are the ones who should know - wives and mothers who daily tap the water supply for the innumerable chores of keeping a family and a home clean and healthy.

Questions put to the householders and to the hospital, school and Walbro concerned any possible effect, such as higher or lower pressure, a change in taste or any change at all to the water supply.

Every one questioned agreed that they had felt no effects of the increased pipe yardage in the system to their own water supply.

All agreed that, as far as they could see, there had been no change in the water service.

All agreed that the water service in Cass City was good before the extension of the water system and still is good.

"I've never had any reason to complain," said Mrs. Arthur Moore of 4261 Oak Street. "And I have no complaint now."

"About a week ago I did notice one day that the water pressure in my house was low. But it was all right the next day, and has been ever since," Mrs. William Johnston of 4604 Oak Street, said.

"I would have noticed if something had been different," Mrs. Russell Leeson of 6537 Main Street replied to the Chronicle questions.

"I did notice that the pressure seems a little stronger, but then we live upstairs."

Donald Crouse, superintendent of the Cass City school system, said that there had been no change in the supply of water to the schools.

"No one has mentioned any problem to me, so there must not be any," he said.

Speaking for one of the big users of water in the community, the Walbro Corporation, Lambert E. Althaver, vice-president, said "We have had good service in the past, and I have not seen any change in the service. We have had no problem."

For two persons, though, the fact that they saw no change was disappointing.

At 4705 N. Seeger, Donald Erla and his wife had been hoping that there would be an increase in pressure.

"When we turn the hose on outside, we get no pressure in the house," Mrs. Erla said.

"We were hoping we would have an increase in pressure. Now we suspect the problem is in the pipe between our house and the main."

Richard Palm, administrator of the Hills and Dales Hospital, said: "I know of no other city in Michigan which has as fine water as Cass City."

"But, on our part, we anticipated an increase in pressure. We have not noticed any."

"I assume that when the new system is fully tied in with the old, that the pressure will come up to our expectations."

And so it will, says Schram. "When the new tower, with its higher elevation, is brought into service, the water pressure will probably reach 60 to 62 pounds."

Schram said that on the east, south and west sides of the city, the pressure has been at 50 pounds in the past.

"This increase will help the hospital when we switch over. The hospital will probably realize more pressure on the upper levels. They have no problem on the bottom floor."

Others who will benefit in the future, Schram said, are those people whose homes on the north side are fed by small lines such as on Church street.

Here, and elsewhere homes can be tied into the larger feeder lines which have been put down along the streets.

Schram also stressed the fact that the new extension provides better fire protection to the north side - he put in 10 new hydrants - and that he now can isolate small areas to repair breaks without having to shut off water supply to a great number of people.

Pointing with pride to the 1961 engineering study followed in building the new extension, Schram said it was a step in the right direction in making Cass City's system "an ideal system."

"When this plan is completed there will be no more perfect system in the United States," he said.

Deer Only Casualty In Area Accidents

Several Cass City area residents were involved in minor accidents during the past week. All escaped without injury except one deer.

The deer, running swiftly from the west side of M-81 near the Colwood Road intersection piled into a car driven by Pete Frank of 5464 North Cemetery Road, Cass City, early Tuesday morning. The deer died.

Three area teen-agers escaped injury when a car driven by Robert L. Towler, 16, of Snover, went out of control and went into a ditch on Schwegler Road a quarter of a mile from Huron Line Road Sunday afternoon.

They were Norma Linderman, 16, Cass City; Brad Chippi, 14, Decker, and Helen Linderman, Cass City.

Edward S. Lasko, 21, of Mushroom road, Deford, lost control of his car on loose clay Sunday morning while going south on English road in Wells Township near Silvernail Road. His car rolled over into a cornfield.

In another minor accident Saturday, Wanda M. Brown, 19, of Cass City hit a bump in Unionville Road a half mile south of Fairgrove Road in Fairgrove Township.

As a result, her car skidded off the road, striking a telephone pole.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer investigated a property damage accident which happened Friday afternoon at the intersection of Church and West Streets.

James Dennis Copeland, 15, of Decker, was traveling north on West Street when he made a wide turn and struck a car driven by Deloris Leiterman, 37, of Gagetown which was going west on Church street.

Another property damage accident happened Friday at the village park when three local young men reportedly picked up a Volkswagen owned by Lawrence Strace of Argyle Road, Decker, and set it down again close to another car.

In doing so, the Volkswagen and the car, owned by Dr. K. I. MacRae of Cass City, were scratched.

Chamber Board To Hear Firm's Pageant Proposal

Representatives from a professional pageant planning company will present a proposal for Cass City's centennial observance to members of the board of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

The proposal, drawn up by the W. S. Rogers Company of Ohio, will outline what the company could do for the Cass City celebration if the village wants to sign a contract.

According to James Ware, co-chairman of the centennial committee, the proposal will include plans for a pageant of Cass City history which the company would produce with local talent.

The meeting will be held in the special meeting room of the Hills and Dales Hospital at 7:30 p.m. Clinton House is serving as the other co-chairman.

Car Lost in Friday Fire

Quick work by Cass City firemen kept a car fire from destroying a garage at the home of Jay Sugden, 6417 Church Street, Cass City, early Friday morning.

Mrs. Sugden told firemen she first noticed the fire when the horn on the car, belonging to Jerry Sugden, began blowing at about 1:00 a.m.

Firemen were able to extinguish the fire before more than smoke damage resulted to the garage, but were unable to save the automobile. Firemen speculated that a short in the car's wiring system started the fire.

In other fire news, insurance appraisers set the damage to the fire at the Daily Creason home, last week, at approximately $12,000 on the house and contents.

That fire was started when a spark from the furnace landed on wooden roof shingles, setting off a blaze that destroyed the entire upper portion of the house.

Green to Run for Secretary of State

Rebuffed in his try for the nomination as the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Allison Green, veteran State legislator from Kingston, will make a bold try for the office of secretary of state.

In a tight race on the floor of the Republican convention in Detroit Saturday, Green was finally edged out of the nomination for lieutenant governor by State Senator William Milliken.

Milliken took the lead late in the polling of delegates after Wayne county Republicans from the 17th Congressional District voted 66 to 17 in his favor.

At this point Green, speaker of the house and a 14-year member of the legislature, moved to have Milliken's nomination made unanimous.

As expected, the loser in the fight for the second spot on the Republican ticket was immediately nominated to the office of secretary of state.

State GOP Chairman Arthur G. Elliott Jr. moved that Green be acclaimed for secretary of state.

Green said Monday that he feels that he entered the race for lieutenant governor too late to make his campaign effective.

"We got going so late that I found many delegates, who would normally have supported me, already committed," Green said. "This was my chief problem."

Before the convention both Green and Milliken had claimed to have over 850 votes to support their bid for nomination.

Green, who described the floor fight as a close horse race, said that late in the drama he lost one delegation and part of another. Desertion of other delegates started.

"When this happens you're in trouble," he said. "Your 'fair weather' friends stuff off."

Immediately after his nomination as secretary of state, Green went into a huddle with Governor George Romney to discuss the coming Republican campaign.

Green declared that, in his opinion, the Governor had remained neutral in his fight with Milliken over the second spot on the Republican ticket.

Kingston to Get New R. R. Signs

Modern railroad crossing signals will be installed in Kingston where the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks cross West State Street (M-46) in the community.

The State Administrative Board has awarded a contract to the railroad company to make the improvement. The new signal will cost $10,350.

The crossing in Kingston is now marked with old-style wig-wag signals.

The contract calls for the railroad company to install cantilever-type flashing light signals at the crossing.

A similar project to insure safety at railroad crossings is under way in Cass City.

Here, the Grand Trunk Railroad is installing a $10,000 automatic flashing-light signal where the railroad tracks cross M-81.

From the Editor's Corner

The electronic age failed the coaching staff at Cass City High School Friday. Instead of writing down what happened on each play it was decided to tape it. When the tape was played back it was supposed to give a more concise record of the game.

Everything went according to plan until Coach Oarie Lemanski went to play back the tape. Something fouled up and there were no Cass City statistics on the game.

With the failure, the coaches have decided to revert to the old system of writing down the action on paper . . . a move we heartily applaud because we use this record to compile statistics and check performances as we write about the game.

This week we were able to use figures compiled by Port Huron Catholic.

Elsewhere in this issue you'll find a brief biography of Stan Putnam who is on loan while I am not working, and the Detroit Free Press is on strike.

Stan came up with a descriptive quip in answer to a query by Neil Hurry about when he was going to settle the strike.

Well sir, Stan said, I really can't say, at the Free Press I'm just a Pfc.

It's the age of specialization on larger papers. On the dailies where he has worked, Stan has written many hundreds of stories . . . but when we told him at the Chronicle that we wrote the heads with the stories he explained that he had never writ-

Paper Wins $1,600 In Cross-suit

A cross-suit between the Huron News Company, Inc., of Bad Axe and the Cork-Pine Printing Company of Vassar was settled last week by agreement between the contending parties.

In the cross-suit, the Huron News claimed that the printing company owed it $2,943.88 while, for its part, the printing concern claimed the newspaper owed it $3,813.55.

The charges arose from the fact that the two companies do printing for each other.

Tuscola County Circuit Court formally recognized the agreement on Sept. 15 by ordering that the printing company pay the Huron News a sum of $1,600.

Active Exchange Sees More NFO, More Livestock

While the number of members of the National Farmers Association at the weekly sale at the Michigan Livestock Exchange rose Tuesday, so did the number of livestock sold.

Some 100 members of the NFO appeared at the sale.

The NFO is seeking to convince area stock raisers to voluntarily hold their stock off the market for a better price.

There were also 10 state policemen and an equal number of deputy sheriffs from the surrounding area on hand to prevent possible disorder.

There was no disorder.

As at previous sales, NFO members were allowed to stop trucks bringing stock to the sale at the entrance to the exchange and talk to the drivers.

No truck turned back Wednesday.

Gagetown to Vote On Water System

Gagetown property owners Monday will decide whether they want to foot the bill for an improved water system or keep the village's seven blocks of wooden water mains.

Qualified village voters will go to the polls that day to ballot on a proposition which calls for the village to borrow $53,000 to pay, in part, for improvements to the water system.

In early August the village council voted unanimously to put the issue up to Gagetown's some 200 qualified voters.

If approved, the village would borrow the $53,000 through general obligation bonds.

The money would be used to replace the wooden mains in the village water system with up-to-date piping.

In addition, a new water storage facility would be constructed and the needed hydrants, pumps and other necessary operating equipment installed.

The engineering plans and cost estimate for the improvements were prepared specially for the village by a Birmingham engineering firm.

In all, the improved system would cost $67,000. The village will apply for the balance of the funds - $14,000 - from the federal government's accelerated works program.

The slated improvements would have a usefulness to the village of not less than 40 years before additional work might be needed on the system.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Beachy, Gagetown village clerk, the problem of doing something about the system came up when the state notified the village that its water system did not have adequate pressure.

Chronicle Hires Free Press Man

Currently short handed because of the illness of the editor, the Chronicle has employed a Detroit Free Press reporter to assist with reporting Cass City news.

The reporter, Stanley Putnam, is temporarily laid off from the Free Press because of the 73 day-old strike of two Detroit newspaper unions.

Before joining the Free Press staff as a general assignment reporter, Putnam worked for the Schenectady Gazette, Schenectady, N. Y.

Chest Officers Elected

The Elkland-Novesta Township Community Chest held its annual meeting in the Municipal Building, Tuesday, Sept. 15, to organize for the coming year of activities.

Rev. George Getchel was elected president of the Chest this year by the Board of Directors of the Community Chest.

Also elected to office were Howard Bacon, vice-president; Mrs. Donna Palm, secretary, and Mrs. Maxine Clara, treasurer.

Mrs. Helen Ross, William Bridges, Arleon Retherford and Harry Little were named as trustees of the Chest.

Bacon and Mrs. Clara were also elected as new members of the Board of Directors. They will serve in place of Mrs. Julia Murray, whose term expired this month, and Paul Alfano, who has moved from this area.

Willis Campbell has once again agreed to serve as the General Chairman of the 1964-65 Community Chest fund drive.

Campbell announced that the kick-off dinner to get the drive under way will be held Tuesday, October 6, in the restaurant of the New Gordon Hotel.

The drive chairman said that the goal of this year's drive will probably be officially set sometime this week.

"CIRCUSIANNA"—That's what Charles "Duke" Turner, Cass City, calls these figurines, some of which he carved himself. Turner has been an avid circus fan since a child and his collections of circusianna consists of records, the carvings, books, pictures and other memorabilia.

Duke Says Love of Circus Is a Hard Itch to Scratch

How big is a "lot louse"? What's a "dukke"? Who rose from an orphan Pontiac stable boy to a famous circus personality? Don't get upset if you don't know the answers to these questions. You're among several million persons who haven't the faintest idea and couldn't care less.

Just because you don't care, however, doesn't mean that somebody else doesn't care. As a matter of fact, many persons do care . . . enough to form the Circus Historical Society, an organization dedicated to the preservation of anything pertaining to the circus.

Cass City's representative in this organization is Charles "Duke" Turner, owner of Western Auto Store in Cass City and he can answer those questions faster than most persons can give their age.

Turner is a minor authority on anything circus, and if he can't answer a circus question, he'll darn soon find the answer in his extensive circus library. "Circusianna"

As a circus buff, Turner is a firm believer in the collection of "Circusianna" or circus mementos and his collection consists of seven and a half hours of circus music, hand-carved circus figurines, circus pictures, his books and other odds and ends.

Turner defines the circus as "an itch that's almost impossible to scratch these days."

"The circus was as American as apple pie, but it's disappearing from the American scene," he continues. "Kids of today don't

Decker Dance Aids Cancer Victim

A benefit dance in Decker two weeks ago to do good for a victim of cancer did, indeed, do just that.

Some 250 friends and neighbors of Mrs. Leo Ashcroft, who has been suffering from cancer for the past five years, turned out for the benefit.

Decker-Masons donated their hall for the dance which was held on the evening of September 12.

A total of $581 was donated to help Mrs. Ashcroft and her farmer husband buy costly, new medicine to combat the cancer, according to Mrs. James Fleming.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

I been pritty busy all week in what them school folks calls the field of higher education. It all come about on account of a matter brung up by my preacher Sunday morning. He allowed as how any man that was 50 years old end didn't have a philosophy in life wasn't worth his salt.

I'm 50 years old with plenty to spare and I'm trying ever day to be worth my salt. I got crab grass, chickens that ain't laying, milk cows that was behind in production, notes at the bank, arthritis in my big toe, but I ain't shore about this philosophy item.

First off, I didn't even know how to spell it. I went over to Ed Doolittle's to study up on it in Ed's dictionary and couldn't even find it. I was looking under the F items and Ed's daughter, the one that works in the city and calls dinner "lunch," showed it to me in the P section. The same folks that spells numonia with a P probably invented the P in philosophy. I ain't never spelt numonia with a P and I don't aim to start putting one in philosophy.

From the best I could git out of Ed's dictionary, philosophy is "moral wisdom." That's gitting too high up on the ladder, Mister Editor, fer me. Fer instant, I always drive around till I find a parking meter with some time left on it. I know it's wisdom, but is it moral? It looks to me like my preacher could stick to the Bible and leave the dictionary out of it. I aim to put this item on the agenda at the country store Saturday night, Clem Webster, that finished the 8th grade and is our outstanding scholar, can probable throw some light on the matter.

Yours truly, Uncle Tim

Concluded from page one. realize what they've missed ... something so great ... it's a great pity."

"Duke" began his romance with the circus as a child. He recalls that he saw his first circus at the perceptive age of two.

He jokingly explains his present interest as "perhaps a subconscious desire to regain a lost childhood."

To satisfy his desire, he reports that he attends a circus whenever he gets a chance, anywhere within 100 miles of Cass City. He also mentioned that he failed to see the Clark-Walters Circus that had a one-night stand in Cass City last July.

Music Lover

Duke's most prized circus possession is his collection of circus records.

"Circus music just isn't heard today and there are no records available," he charges.

Turner has, or thought he had, every record that Merle Evans, bandmaster of Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus for 45 years, had made. He found out recently while talking with Evans that he doesn't have three records cut before 1930.

Turner has known Evans since the early 1940's and describes him as "a living legend in his own time as a musician, conductor and composer of circus music."

Duke's collection consists of seven and a half hours of circus music of every kind, including six records of callopie music. He also has some "very interesting late-model records of callopie with modern instruments."

Figurines

Other "circusianna" includes several hand-carved quarter-inch scale figurines. These include two clowns, two wagons, complete with teams, an elephant and an elephant girl.

Turner carved a number of the figures himself, including the elephant which took about 30 hours.

His books on the circus, numbering about 15, cost an average of $10.00, "if you can find them."

Duke is full of circus facts and anecdotes. Things like the incident that took place when the Mills Bros. Circus was in its third stand in 1959.

"They were caught in a sudden snow storm," Duke elaborates. "There is nothing more incongruous than an elephant standing in a snow drift."

Or the incident when Barnum and Bailey was touring Germany before World War I and German officers were assigned to travel with the circus to study their train loading techniques. The Germans used these same techniques to good advantage in World War I.

Was Drummer

Turner comes by his love for circus music naturally. He spent nine years as a professional drummer playing horse shows, stage shows and dances.

He went "legit" for 18 years and worked for Chrysler. He purchased the Western Auto store in Cass City two years ago. Even his childhood was a little less than normal. His father was an export official for the long extinct "Hupmobile" and Turner spent from age seven to age 13 in South Africa where there was a "dam good one-ring circus."

Oh yes, in answer to the opening questions, Duke says a "lot louse" can be almost any size since the term refers to anyone who hangs around the circus lot.

A "dukke" is not a little Duke Turner; it's a quick lunch in circus parlance.

The famous circus personality who rose from an orphan stable boy in Pontiac to the top of the circus world was none other than James A. Bailey of Barnum and Bailey.

Although he loves the circus, Duke is not above shattering some of its myths. "Contrary to popular belief," he confided, "elephants do forget."

Theatre Slates Live Stage Horror Show

The group which will present the program is currently touring in Canada and the local showing will be the first in the area.

Featured in the family-type horror program is a live Frankenstein, various other monsters and a seance with the spirit world.

New Band Uniforms Shine at Half-time

For the Cass City Red Hawks Friday it was a tough first-half against the Port Huron Catholic eleven.

At half-time, the Hawks went to the locker room outscored by their opponents.

But the second half was different. The Red Hawks were in control and made the only score in the last two quarters.

It wasn't enough to tally up a win or a tie, but it was better football.

What made the difference? Did Coach Orlie Lemanski pull a Knute Rockne and beg the team to score one "for the Gipper?"

Maybe, but then don't forget, out there on the field during half time was the Red Hawk band playing for all it was worth.

And marching in their brand new uniforms for the first time.

Sharp! It could be that the zest and spirit of the high-stepping bandmen, led off by three pretty majorettes and a strutting drum major, all in their new garb, boomed the spirit into their team that carried the ball during the second half.

No one can say it didn't. Right away you notice that there is something different about these new uniforms from the old "maroons" worn by bandmen for the past 13 years.

The low caps with the visors are gone and in their place are tall, high-crowned shakos like those worn by West Point Cadets.

Trimmed in white around the base and crown, the shakos add flash and style to the wheeling bandmen maneuvering through their march programs.

Ronald Walker, band director, says the shakos are a lot more practical than the caps, too.

Mainly because the shakos, made of plastic, can't be crushed into odd shapes by excited bandmen as they cheer their team on to touchdowns.

The second big feature about the new uniforms is the predominance of white against the maroon background.

The outstanding white makes the band stand out when marching in the field, sitting in the stands or when bandmen mingle with the milling crowd.

The white comes from an "overlay" that is put on over the new-style short coat and tails. The white overlay is decorated with a red hawk in back and a "CC" for Cass City in front.

When the overlay is taken off, the maroon and white trimmed uniforms become suitably sedate for a conventional band concert.

It's all very regimental, and in their first program of the year the bandmen moved through a cha-cha of "The Good Old Summer Time," a company-front drill before the stands, and a mock high school dance program, like they were born to the colors.

The band is good this year, their director feels. The uniforms make them better.

The band's next appearance will be Saturday at the University of Michigan when it will march with some 200 bands in this annual massing of Michigan high school bands.

And then, watch out Caro High, here we come!

GREEN

Concluded from page one. "I feel that the governor was neutral throughout the campaign," he said.

"If there were any shenanigans, it was by members of his staff who wanted to tip the scales."

For Green, the coming campaign is vital to his political career.

After 14 years as representative, he did not run again for his seat in the house.

"I've burned all my bridges behind me," Green said of his choice to run for an administrative office in the state's government instead of continuing in the legislature.

If he fails to knock the incumbent Democratic Secretary of State, James Hare, out of office, Green will himself be out of political office.

Green termed his opponent "formidable."

"But," he added, "he has his weak points."

One of these weak points, Green said, was Hare's role in the recent controversy of the legislative apportionment.

Green charged that election dates given to the legislature by Hare were different from the dates given to the courts.

"He was playing with the legislature," Green said.

Green said he will officially begin his campaign on Monday. "I told the governor that, after my stiff campaign for lieutenant governor, I needed a week's rest."

He said his campaign will be a combined effort to put over the whole Republican ticket as well as take on the incumbent Secretary of State himself.

"We feel we have a good chance with our Republican ticket," Green said.

"I feel that the Republican fortunes are turning for the good and that this year we have a very good chance of taking over the state's administrative offices."

The Green Acres Farm Bureau met Tuesday evening, Sept. 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McRae with 13 members present.

Ronald Fox opened the meeting and Mrs. Olin Bouck gave the secretary's report. Gerald Bouck gave the minuteman report with August Lindquist giving the package report.

Kenneth McRae led the discussion, "Programs Take People and Power." The delegate and alternate to the state convention are Mrs. Olin Bouck and Bruce MacRae.

Cards were played with the traveling prize going to Mrs.

Bouck. Lunch was served by the hostess.

The October meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Don Becker.

GAGETOWN WATER

The village was left with the choice of doing something about the system or paying higher fire insurance rates, the village clerk said.

A study of the system showed that the village water supply, drawn from two wells, is adequate to supply the needs of Gagetown residents.

The borrowed money would be paid back from the return on water bills, Mrs. Beachy said. There would be no hike in the price of water to pay for the improvements.

The village clerk could not say how old the wooden mains are.

"They must be pretty old," she said. "They must have been put there at the very beginning."

She said that the village has no outstanding indebtedness.

Voting on the proposition will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Council Rooms of the village.

There's no lack of honesty in the world—the problem lies in a faulty distribution system.

Hawks Stand Even Chance with Marlette

Although Cass City dropped its first game of the year to Port Huron Catholic Friday, 19-13, the team rates at least an even chance to defeat Marlette in the opening Thumb B Conference of the year to be played at Marlette.

The Red Raiders lost their opening game of the season to North Branch, 6-0.

Coach Oarie Lemanski was far from unhappy with his team's performance in the first game of the year. "We're a green team, but we are showing improvement," he said, "and if it continues we may have a better team than we were expected to have."

Lemanski said that the team needs work on blocking and tackling and made many mistakes.

The coach singled out the work of Jim Knoblet at linebacker and Bob Rabideau and Greg Thompson at defense ends as outstanding. Al Wallace made several good tackles from his safety position.

The Hawks will meet a team about their own size and weight when they play Marlette. Against Port Huron they were out-weighted in the line defensively about 17 to 19 pounds.

The Hawks found the husky linemen just about impossible to move. They made only 30 yards rushing as compared to 369 yards by the Warriors.

What little offense Cass City could muster came through the air.

Cass Pasieczny, playing his first game at end, sparred as a pass catching end. In the final period he caught a pass from Ed Retherford good for about 20 yards and then a moment later snagged a Retherford heave in the end zone for a touchdown.

When he came down with the touchdown toss Pasieczny was covered by two men and made a circus catch to wrestle the ball away from the defense.

Port Huron opened the scoring with a pair of touchdowns. The first came in the first period when Chuck Michaluk capped a drive by plunging over from the two. Midway in the second quarter Phil Wittliff passed to Gary Rossi on a 11-yard touchdown play.

Cass City closed the gap when Knoblet intercepted a pass by Jim Venia and went 60 yards to score.

The final Warrior score came late in the second quarter on two long runs. Wittliff rambled 40 yards and moments later Pat Andrews sprinted 21 yards to score.

Local State Fair Winners Listed

Cass City area farmers brought home a batch of ribbons from the recent state fair as prizes for their quality swine and sheep.

The Yorkshire swine raised by Arthur Battel and Sons placed third in the contest to be named Michigan Premier Breeder with eight herds competing.

A sow from Battel's herd was named as the Reserve Senior Champion, while other prizes included first for a junior yearling sow; fourth for a fall gilt; 10th and 11th, spring gilt; third, mature boar, and fifth, ninth, 11th and 12th place for spring boars.

The flock of Crandell and Ludlow won a first and third for rams, two years or older; first and second for one-year rams; second and third for ram lambs, first and sixth for one-year ewes and first and third for ewe lambs.

The flock also won first place and from it were selected the Grand Champion Ram and the Grand Champion Ewe. The flock was awarded the Premier Breeder banner.

This flock also took third for a pair of four lambs; first for a pair of one-year rams; first, pair of ram lambs; second, pair of

Old Grads Gather For 30th Reunion

Cass City High School was given up to nostalgia for the good old days Saturday as three classes which graduated 30 years ago - give or take a year - got together for a reunion.

And they came from all corners of the state and from as far away as Canton, Ohio, to see each other.

To see if the most likely to succeed had done so.

To see if the class humorist was still as funny as he was in the days when the great depression was getting under way.

To see who has grey hair, how the waist lines are doing, and to ask "Do you know what ever happened to . . . ?"

Some 120 members of the classes of 1933, 1934 and 1935, with their husbands or wives, turned up for the four hours of sentimental conversation.

Also on hand for the occasion were two of their former teachers: Mrs. Alex Tyo, who taught the girls home economics, and Willis Campbell, who taught agriculture until he became school superintendent.

It was the first time these three classes held such a joint session and it was termed by those who attended as highly successful.

So successful, in fact, that the three classes agreed on getting together five years from now to do the same thing.

Named to head up the committee for the next get-together were Lewis Horner, Audrey Barzilar, Waunetta Remington and Pat Garety for the class of 1933.

Lloyd Severance, Hazel McLean Wilson, Ed Hillaker and Helen Bartle for the class of 1934.

And for the class of 1935, serving will be Harland Charter, Olive Rohlf, Leota Anthes and Edonna Walker Sweeney.

Serving on the reception committee for Saturday night's reunion were Wilma Finkbeiner, 1933; Don Reid, 1934, and Arthur Battel, 1935. Arleon Retherford served as toastmaster of the evening.

During the reunion there was a brief memorial to 18 classmates who are deceased.

Mayville Driver Appeals Conviction

Glenn T. Schlattman, 19, of Clark Park Road, Mayville, appealed last week for a reversal to his conviction of driving while intoxicated last February.

Schlattman posted a $500 bond pending action on the appeal by the Tuscola County Circuit Court.

He was convicted of drunk driving in Indianfield township last winter by Douglas L. William, justice of the peace.

He was sentenced to four week ends in jail, six months probation and fined $50 and court costs.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Take A Stand You Hairy One's

By Dave Kraft

There is a slowly developing controversy over the forthcoming centennial.

Every nook and cranny is a beehive of activity as Cass Cityans gather in small, furtive groups, all asking the same question.

The question that could well split this quaint little village, nestled on the edges of the banks of the Cass River, into two warring groups.

What is that question that threatens to pit brother against brother, son against father, husband against wife, mother against son, sweetheart against sweetheart?

That question is: "You gonna grow a beard?"

Only each man can answer that question and only each woman can hope her man has the right answer. Essentially, it's a matter of allowing oneself to cultivate on his face what grows wild in his armpits.

The question of whether or not beards would be allowed arose with the first word that Cass City was going to have a centennial. Centennial authorities were steadfast. This was going to be a "modern" centennial, with an eye to the future and not one of those everyday centennials with people dressed in old clothes and antiques and all that jazz.

On the flip side of the coin were those people who had waited a hundred years just to be able to wear a beard. After all, they thought, a centennial doesn't happen every day... or every other day, for that matter.

Things began to ferment so openly that the former group conceded to the latter group, and stated thus, "You can grow 'em if you want, but don't do it in public."

That's not really what they said, but it amounted to about the same. What they said was, "Go ahead and grow 'em if you want, but it'll be just for the heck of it."

This seemed to abate the anger of the Hairy ones and left the Hairless ones some room to start making other plans for the coming event.

Let me say this about that. I don't think it's right. I think somebody should make a stand. I think somebody should stand up and say, either you tell us to grow beards or we won't play ball... or nothing.

I think somebody should be indignant. I think somebody should start growing beards right now... regardless of color, creed or sex. Don't let them push you around. Get out there and grow hair.

Say, that sounds like a good motto. "Get out there and grow hair." It's got class.

Don't let them stop you. They can only beat you, intimidate you, chide you and take all your belongings. But don't let that stop you... get out there and grow hair.

Hmmm? Am I going to grow a beard? Well... I mean, that is... I had planned to straddle the fence...

fen... What I mean to say, is that... I've got to consider my busin... Well, sure I'm going to grow a beard... if my wife'll let me.

Prize blooper this week, as caught by our proof reader. "Mr. and Mrs. So & So were in Detroit recently to see Jayne Mansfield in "Bust Stop."

Schneeberger's drive-in opened Sunday night to a capacity crowd, according to Bud and Russ. They placed a color television in their window and hooked the sound to an outside loud-speaker. Before long, there were a number of cars out front watching the Sunday programming.

Things almost got out of hand when Russ tried to shut it off so he could go to bed. Consequently they've set up a program schedule from 7:00 to 11:00.

Best of all, though, is the good news that they've promised the pop corn and candy concession to me.

Nobody sent me any recipes for my still. I've concluded that everyone must think I'm an undercover agent for the revenuers and as soon as they let on they know how to make illegal hootch, I'll nab them.

Nothing could be further from the truth. There's no reward for turning in mountain dew makers, so why bother, that's my feeling. Somebody did bring in a can of Blue Ribbon Malt Extract and a bottle of Copper Brite. The malt looked as if it had been around since Prohibition and the Copper Brite was a little dull.

Still, every little bit helps and we're always glad to receive donations... as you well know.

It's poor business to make hay while the sun shines unless the barn is insured.

Mark Battel Heads 4H Service Club

A member of the Cass City 4-H Livestock Club has been elected president of the Tuscola County 4-H Service Club.

Mark Battel of Cass City was chosen to head the organization at a meeting of the group at the Wilbur Memorial 4-H building in Caro Sept. 17.

Mark Battel

Other officers elected for the 1964-65 program were: Faye Campbell of Caro, vice-president; Mary Graven of Fairgrove, secretary; Suzanne Kirk of Fairgrove, treasurer; Bob Carpenter of Cass City, reporter, and Francis DeLong of Cass City, parliamentarian.

Thirteen members were present and discussed the program for the coming year. The group decided to attend the UCLA and MSU football game at East Lansing.

Miss Gabriele Tessman of Germany, guest in the home of Suzanne Kirk, was a special guest of the group.

At the close of the meeting, members went to the Elbow Room for refreshments.

Now on display: the most beautiful Chrysler ever built.

This is Chrysler '65. The big one that delivers. Luxury that reflects your good taste, for one thing. A fast answer to your demands, for another.

Look at it. Clean-lined. Big. Beautiful. Eighteen feet of comfort. Two tons of security. Called Chrysler.

It's easier to get into and out of. There's lots of headroom, and legroom and hiproom.

Get in and drive it. The first thing you'll notice is best described as "scorch." Model 1965 is a very quick automobile.

And there's an improvement in ride you can really feel.

One more point. A Chrysler isn't all that expensive. Seven Newport models are actually priced just a few dollars a month more than some of the most popular smaller cars.

Visit your Chrysler dealer and see them all: economical Newport; sports-bred 300; and the luxurious New Yorker. Move up to Chrysler. Model 1965. The man who sells them will make it easy.

IT SEEMS TO ME Sun and Warmth Attracts Oldsters

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

A special report in "The Christian Century" for Sept. 16, 1964, by Donald A. Lowrie, entitled "Children's Crusade in Reverse" is about the communist efforts to raise a complete generation of children for whom Christianity will be considered nothing more than superstition. This has been a prime goal for many years, but one not yet met. Dr. Lowrie tells why, using more than two pages of fine print. I can only lift out a few of the points he makes. Quoting an official survey, the churches of Leningrad are not doing "too well," and the number of christenings and church weddings was increasing. For the last 20 years, it has been illegal in the USSR to give formal religious instruction in Russia. The "formal religious instruction" forbidden is the kind given in church or church school; more recently, however, there is a ban on such instruction in one's own family.

The schools have been ordered to step up their efforts to put an end to such beliefs. A child may wear his baptismal cross at home, or at least have it hanging over his head or sewn into his pillow. One alert teacher was honored by the Russians for observing that during Lent four of her third-graders did not take cream with their coffee, saying, "I don't want it." After Easter, however, all four had cream in their coffee once more. "Her suspicions were confirmed: their parents had forbidden the four to drink coffee with milk during Lent."

The report tells of many more failures on the part of the Russian leaders to stamp out Christianity. Probably your pastor would loan you his copy of the magazine, so you can read more on how the churches are withstanding communist pressures. Sometimes, it seems to me as if the church really means something significant to its members when it is suffering persecution.

One source of conflict between the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestant Churches of our day is on the birth control issue. Specifically, it becomes an issue when the Catholic Church insists on making its view into state law, prohibiting anyone (including doctors) from selling birth control contrivances or even giving instruction in how to achieve birth control. A test of Connecticut's 85-year-old law against birth control will be asked by two persons next month. "It seems to me that some such effective and acceptable law is needed to avoid over-population."

Who owns a church? Last November 94 per cent of the congregation of the First Methodist Church in Union Springs, Ala., voted to withdraw from the Methodist Church as a result of the denomination's rules concerning race. At issue legally is a conflict between church regulations which retain title of every Methodist Church and a state law which provides that 65 per cent of the congregation can retain the property after voting to separate. I know where I'd place my wager if I were a gambling man! Or, so it seems to me.

Year after year, more and more older people are moving to places where they will have sun and warmth in their retirement, reports our expert on the golden years, the Rev. Melvin Vender. Between 1950 and 1960 about 250,000 people 65 years of age and over, picked up and went to Florida; about 170,000 moved to California, and three other states—Texas, Arizona and Colorado—attracted around 73,000 older people in the same 10 years. Where are they moving from? I hope somebody makes a study of this soon. Why? I'd just like to know.

Why doesn't the fellow who says, "I'm no speechmaker," let it go at that instead of giving a demonstration?

Many have tried, but peace of mind can't be bought.

Michigan Mirror*Human Resources Council Leads Anti-poverty Battle

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Help the Poor

Michigan officials hope to take full advantage of Federal funds available under the new anti-poverty program.

Gov. George Romney established a 30-member human resources council soon after the war on poverty legislation was signed by President Johnson.

Coordinating Federally-funded programs will be just part of this unit's job. The council was comprised of administrators from several state agencies concerned with human resources plus private citizens.

One state agency voiced its interest in anti-poverty activity even before council members were appointed.

Highway department officials said they could use 400 men in a work-training program on some 200 miles of freeways in Northern Michigan.

The proposal called for a sharp increase in the enrollment of the Department's student highway technician training program with funds largely from Federal coffers.

Some 40 students have been enrolled in the training program since it was initiated in 1957. They work half the year for the department and attend school the remainder.

Highway officials said up to 400 young men could be given training in forestry work which could lead to careers in the field, while the state would save money and accelerate efforts to beautify the freeways.

Expansion of the training program, under the Federal anti-poverty law could help fill the continuing need for men with backgrounds in soil conservation, erosion control, forest management and related fields, they said.

Department spokesmen said this need exists in local road agencies as well as in the state governmental unit.

Easier Shopping
Many consumers work even notice it, but some packages being sold in Michigan have a new look because of the state's 1964 revision of the weight and measures act.

State Agriculture Director G. S. McIntyre said the new law gives the buyer an advantage he never had before through several features.

In the past, the law required a statement of quantity in a package of food but not on such non-food items as paint, anti-freeze, varnish and oil.

Under the new law the quantity must be declared on all packaged items sold by weight, measure or numerical count. Thus, if a non-food item is sold in a container that looks like a quart, it must state the exact quantity inside.

Terms that tend to exaggerate content quantity such as jumbo, king-size, giant or full are illegal under the new law, which took effect August 28.

Some of the computing problems of shoppers also are cut down under the act. Each package must be labeled in terms of the largest unit.

A 20-ounce loaf of bread, for example, must be declared as one pound, four ounces, or 1 1/4 pounds.

Agriculture department spokesmen emphasized that many packagers of non-food items which did not come under the old law already labeled their goods by quantity, but there were some who didn't.

The old theory was that the size of the container spoke for itself.

Among manufacturers who did not label for quantity, no law violation occurred for a semi-filled container because the law did not require this declaration.

McIntyre said the new law would work to the advantage of both the consumer and the upstanding members of industry "because the chiseler must now meet requirements that the honest member has complied with on a voluntary basis for years."

County Extension Day Sept. 24

The 50th anniversary of the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service will be highlighted in a program at Caro High School Thursday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m.

The early part of the evening program will feature highlights of agricultural extension work, 4-H club and home economics extension programs in Tuscola county dating back to May 1, 1917, when the first temporary agricultural agent, Alexander MacVittie, was employed in Tuscola county.

May 8, 1914, marks the signing of the Smith Lever Act of Congress which made possible cooperative financing of the extension work as part of the nation's Land Grant system, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Highlighting the evening program will be a cardboard cow talk by "Lecturer" Jim G. Hays, professor emeritus, Michigan State University. Hays was for many years an Extension dairyman at MSU and during that time made many visits to Tuscola county. He made many acquaintances among county farm people, particularly dairymen, as dairy extension specialist for the Dairy Department of MSU.

In discussing "bovine architecture", Professor Hays will attempt to show that the orthodox concepts of dairy cattle type are all wrong. Using a cardboard model, Professor Hays will reveal his specifications for a new style labor-saving critter.

Hays retired as an Associate Professor of Dairy at MSU in 1955 after 33 years of teaching and extension work. A graduate of Michigan State in 1911, he returned to his Alma Mater 11 years later as a staff member in the dairy department. He has had a long career as an employee of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service and is, therefore, well-known to many of the early pioneers in dairy extension work throughout the state.

Refreshments, including milk, cake and ice cream, will be served at the close of the meeting. Any interested Tuscola county citizen is invited to attend.

Six Stops on Farm Pond Tour

A farm pond tour will be held Tuesday, Sept. 29, starting at 9:30 a.m. in the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, Maynard McConkey, District Chairman, has announced.

The tour will start at the Leonard (Max) Wilcox pond, located 4 1/2 miles south of Kingston, then 1 1/2 miles east on Lanway Road, or 1 1/2 miles north of Clifford on Kingston Road then east on Lanway Road. This is a fill-type pond, stocked with fish and used as a family recreation area. One end has been left shallow for the benefit of waterfowl.

The second stop will be at the E. Jack Clothier pond, located 1/2 mile west and 1/4 mile south of the Wilcox pond on Cemetery Road. This is a pit-type pond constructed this spring and is not entirely completed.

Next is the Charles Brasseur Jr. pond located on Mayville Road, 3 miles east of Kingston Road at corner of Mayville and White Creek Roads. This pond is in the process of construction and is an opportunity to see some of the factors involved in such a project.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:00 p.m. at the Reynold Johnson farm at the corner of North Lake Road and Swaffer Road. This is about 4 1/2 miles west of Mayville on Saginaw Road (old M-38) then 2 1/2 miles south on North Lake Road to Swaffer Rd. Johnson's pond has a spring as a water supply and is used by the family for fishing and swimming.

The second afternoon stop will be at the Bernard Rohrer pond at the corner of Lane Road and Barnes Road, or 1 mile east of Sheridan Road on Barnes Road. This pit-type pond has a spring and a well to furnish water. It also has a shallow end for waterfowl.

The final stop will be at the Reuben Meyer pond 2 miles south of Millington on M-15 and then 1 3/4 miles east on the Birch Run Road, or 3/4 mile west of Sheridan Road on Birch Run Road. # TO THE VOTERS OF DEFORD & CASS CITY SCHOOL DISTRICTS

THIS SCHOOL WILL CONTINUE TO OPERATE!

ONE OF THE MOST often asked questions about the Deford annexation is whether or not the Deford School will be closed. If the annexation is approved, the school will definitely remain in operation. The existing seven-room school is of sufficient size to handle the education needs of the Deford elementary (K-6) children for an indefinite period.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION ON THE FRIDAY, OCTOBER 2, ANNEXATION VOTE QUESTION—CONTACT ANY CASS CITY OR DEFORD BOARD MEMBER OR DONALD CROUSE, CASS CITY SUPT.

ANNEXATION ANSWERS

Various questions have been raised in regard to the Deford Annexation election being held Friday, Oct. 2. In an attempt to better inform the voters in both Cass City and Deford districts, the following information is offered:

1. ECONOMY OF OPERATION -- Both economy of operation and quality of education depend on size of the school. In the past, most of the children in the Deford District have attended Cass City High School. Annexation will benefit both communities by insuring the enrollment needed to run an adequate, effective high school.
2. BROADER TAX BASE -- Combination of the two districts will provide a broader tax base for needed school construction in the Cass City system which will ultimately benefit all students attending Cass City. The $17,177,613 valuation of the Cass City system, coupled with the $2,367,628 valuation of the Deford district would give a tax base of $19,545,241, state equalized valuation.
3. HOW TO ANNEX -- Annexation depends on the mutual assumption of bonded indebtedness by the two districts involved. For the Cass City District this will mean a minor raise in the current tax levy by a quarter of a mill or 25 cents per $1000, state equalized valuation. For Deford it will mean a slight reduction in school taxes.
4. AFTEREFFECTS -- Future plans are for the Deford elementary children, grades kindergarten through sixth, to attend school in Deford and for the Deford junior high students, grades seven and eight, to attend junior high school in Cass City. The increase in junior high enrollment in Cass City will enable more economical operation and provisions can be made for a better educational program. No Cass City students will be transported to the Deford school.

It is the feeling of the Cass City Board of Education that annexation of the Deford School District will be beneficial to the quality of education in both the Cass City system and the Deford system.
