

"Good Days Are Here Again" Say Cass City Businessmen

One of the major factors cited by post-election know-it-alls for the way things turned out last week is that this nation and state are enjoying unprecedented prosperity.

Voters, commentaries ran, don't like to upset the proverbial apple cart when they've got things so good.

Therefore, the analysts say, it is difficult to knock out of office an incumbent party which is riding on the crest of an economic boom.

The majority of Elkland Township voters joined the nation in mandating Lyndon B. Johnson back into office by the largest number of votes ever given to a presidential candidate.

They also helped to return Governor Romney to the state house for two years; the first time a GOP governor has been given a second term since before World War II.

Is it because Cass City environs never had it so good, like the commentators say? How does this prosperity fare here? It fares well, according to all accounts.

Cass City is prosperous, whether or not this was the deciding factor in Elkland's support of the incumbents.

But just how prosperous? It is hard to say.

Noted as a conservative community, comments and predictions from industrial and business leaders generally hold to a conservative line.

How do you measure prosperity?

There are a lot of factors, intricately intertwined but all of them joining in an unending wheel of producing, supplying, buying and selling.

To start somewhere, start with employment. The biggest noise about getting any economy rolling is always concerned with getting people back to work.

This is how it was in Cass City's most recent "darkest days," when the Nestles Company, the village's sole large employer, shut down. People were out of work. Real estate values went down. The village economy was skidding.

Twelve years later there is one thing that cannot be argued about in the village's economy, an area ripe for dispute. There is no hard core unemployment.

In fact, there is a real scarcity of labor hereabouts.

The Bassett Manufacturing Company, for instance, has sent appeals out as far as the state employment commission in Saginaw. But to no avail. General Cable is on constant lookout for new employees.

But workers just can't be found. Everyone (who wants one) has a job. Many commute great distances to work, no longer depending solely on the local village labor market, reflecting Michigan's over-all job prosperity, the best since 1955.

Local industry is reported to have sent letters into this community appealing for persons to come work at the factory.

"I remember when there used to be 15 to 25 men a day come around looking for work. Now I'm lucky if I see one a day," said one industrialist.

On top of this many area families have two bread winners. Mother is down at Walbro or General Cable, while Dad drives to Saginaw or down to Pontiac.

Depends on Negotiations

Set Terms for Site Option

The Cass City School Board Monday agreed on the terms of an option for the Donahue property designated as the site of the proposed new high school.

Formal action was deferred, however, pending the outcome of sidewalk negotiations.

The terms agreed upon are: a two year option at a cost of $1,000, with the option cost to go toward the purchase price of the property.

Dr. H. T. Donahue, owner of the property, has also agreed to share the cost of some 600 feet of sidewalk which would run to the school site over other property he owns.

Board members were in accord on these terms.

However, the board did not act on taking up the option.

Such formal action was postponed until the December meeting pending the outcome of negotiations for the right-of-way for a sidewalk.

The school site property, located just north of the village line, is undeveloped.

Zoning of the property and neighboring land, and provisions for a sidewalk to the school site, are the two primary concerns of the board in preparing the ground for the proposed school.

Horace Bulen, president of the school board, reported Monday night that negotiations with several residents living between the village line and the school site for a sidewalk right-of-way are progressing.

He said that he is hopeful that the negotiations can be concluded on a voluntary basis in the very near future.

The board ran into negotiation difficulties with site neighbors when the board formally accepted the site last month as the future home of the proposed high school.

The difficulties arose partly due to reports hitting the street that the board favored village annexation of the Donahue and surrounding properties, and partly to the board's failure to contact these residents before accepting the site.

Rent Bus
In other action, the board voted to rent a school bus for the remainder of the year to relieve two heavily laden Deford school buses which now have to be used on page three.

November Court Begins with Five Criminal Cases

Five criminal cases opened the November session of the Tuscola County Circuit Court, with Judge Timothy C. Quinn presiding, last week.

Leroy R. Burrows, 28, of 108 Goodrich, was given a two year probation sentence on Nov. 4 by the Judge on a charge of breaking into the Vassar transit company, 1211 West Saginaw Street, Vassar, in September.

He was also fined $100, charged with $100 in costs, and ordered to pay $60 restitution; the money is to be paid at $10 a month.

A presentence hearing was set for November 25 for James W. Fader, 27, of Lupton, who pleaded guilty on Nov. 2 to passing three bad checks totaling $15 in Unionville within ten days in July.

Quinn Second in Appeals Contest

With returns running late at press time last week, the Chronicle had to report that Tuscola County Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn was trailing in his bid for a seat on the new State Court of Appeals.

But, as up-state returns came in, Quinn caught up and passed two contenders, who had been leading him by a large number of votes, to win the election as one of three representatives on the court from the second district.

As the unofficial tally shows, with a few precincts still not tabulated, Judge Quinn placed second in the six way race, with 323,326 votes as against Thomas Kavanagh's top 345,218 votes and third place Louis McGregor's 317,874 votes.

CHLOROPHYLL EGGS? This is the hen that lays green eggs, this is the green egg, and this is the rooster who has very little to say about the whole thing. Donnie Gracey holds the hen, his brother, Charlie, holds the egg and Keven has the rooster. These "Easter Egg" chickens are the talk of the chicken coop at the Ron Gracey farm, northeast of Cass City. (Chronicle photo)

Graceys' Green Egg Factory Exotic Bird

There is a rooster at the Ron Gracey farm, eight miles northeast of Cass City, who is married to a hen that lays green eggs.

Normally, the average rooster would suspect "fowl" play, but according to Mrs. Gracey, her rooster has taken the matter in stride, mainly because he and his hen are Araucanas or "Easter Egg" chickens, the only domestic chickens to lay colored eggs.

How the rooster and the hen got together is almost as unique as the fact that she lays colored eggs.

Mrs. Gracey sent for three Araucanas, hoping that at least one of them would be a hen. Twice she sent for the chickens and twice they all turned out roosters.

She had given up when Harold Copeland, a neighbor, casually announced that he had a chicken that laid green eggs. He also remarked that he had to get rid of it because the multicolored, fluffy-cheeked hen was scaring the daylight out of all his laying hens.

Copeland had got his hen from a boy in Birmingham who could no longer keep the chicken but didn't want to butcher it.

Never one to pass up a chicken that lays green eggs, Mrs. Gracey took the hen, introduced it to her rooster and now hopes the introduction will blossom into a flock of baby Araucanas next spring.

The breed of chicken originated in South America, presumably Chile. Some of the eggs of the breed vary in shades of blue, green to olive green, "pink" and red eggs that actually tend to be brown.

The yolks are the same as white and brown eggs except that scientists state that the colored eggs are much higher in protein than white and brown eggs.

Raising of the chickens at the Gracey farm is a joint project for the three eldest Gracey boys.

"Donnie, 11, feeds the chickens; Keven, seven, gathers the eggs, and Charlie, four, eats them," says Mrs. Gracey.

It has even reached the point where Charlie won't eat anything but green eggs although Mrs. Gracey confessed that when there are no green eggs she slips him a white one and he doesn't know the difference.

Mrs. Gracey commented that since the rooster and the hen are from different broods, she hopes the resulting chicks will lay a different colored egg.

It's things like this that could put a lot of rabbits out of business.

From the Editor's Corner

The football season is about over. Cass City knows where it stands. There's nothing much now but the last shouting.

Except that for one Cass City team, the season's ending is its beginning.

And that's the Cass City Junior High School team which will hold its first intersquad game at the football field at 7 p.m. Thursday.

We can only urge those who can, to attend and cheer the youngsters on, giving them the thrill that is part and parcel of playing football.

We especially urge attendance by those who complain about the fact that the junior varsity has had a bad season and that the varsity took only third place.

The junior high school team started up again this fall under a renewed program to give all boys a chance to play ball, and to ground them in the fundamentals they will need when they report for junior varsity play.

And besides, it should be a fun game to watch. Young football has a lot more charm than professional "we-know-what-we're-aboutism!"

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce is concerned about the Centennial's image.

The Chamber feels that it is important that 100 per cent of the people of Cass City support this effort to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the village's founding.

Campbell Reports On United Fund

The Elkland-Novesta Township United Fund drive is still short almost 25 per cent of its goal.

Willis Campbell, drive chairman, reported Tuesday that the drive is short $1,743.82 of its $7,000 goal, with only a few days remaining.

A total of 23 contribution envelopes from solicitors have yet to be returned and added into the receipts.

The chairman has urged that these envelopes be returned to him by noon of this Saturday.

To date, this community fund drive has never failed to reach its quota, Campbell has pointed out.

Confidence Vote Strengthens Village's Centennial Project

Plans for Cass City's centennial next year hit a snag Tuesday night, faltered, and then chugged ahead, backed by a 30-7 vote of confidence.

The vote came at the end of a special meeting preceding the Chamber of Commerce's regular session in the Scout Rooms.

Ticket Driver in Village Accident

Cass City and immediate environs scraped by last week with only one minor property damage accident.

The accident occurred on Saturday morning when Shirley Ann Weber, 17, of Fairgrove, traveling west on Main Street, struck the rear of a car driven by Joan Ruth Woods, 19, of Gagetown, which had stopped for the red light on Main.

Miss Weber was ticketed by Police Chief Carl Palmateer, who investigated the accident, for failure to have her car under control.

Mrs. Vyse Breaks Wrists in Fall

Mrs. Zella Vyse, of 6769 Main Street, Cass City, slipped and fell on the evening of Nov. 4, shattering her two wrists.

She is reported to be doing well in her recovery at the Cass City Hospital.

"She is up and around," Dr. J. H. Ballard, who treated her, said of the elderly woman.

"She could be released now, but it would be difficult for her to manage with both arms in casts," the physician said.

He termed the fractures "severe."

Mrs. Vyse fell while she was returning a cake pan to a neighbor.

Group to Hear of Modern Education

James R. Johnston, principal of the Harbor Beach Community School, will speak on modern educational techniques before the Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women.

James R. Johnston

Johnston's address, titled "Education Unlimited," will highlight the association's program on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn.

The Harbor Beach Community School has visitors from all over the nation come to inspect the school's new-style educational program.

Johnston will discuss the features of this program which include team teaching, flexible scheduling and programmed instruction.

All interested and eligible women in the community have been invited to join the group. Prospective charter members have been reminded to bring dues and their diplomas if available.

Called at the request of a group of Cass City businessmen, who, as their spokesman, Fred Pinney, put it, "object to (centennial) plans as they have developed," the session featured a lively exchange of ideas and suggestions.

Chamber members contended after the meeting that the problem had been largely one of a lack of information and misunderstanding about centennial planning.

Of the 39 persons present, 30 voted in favor of continuing the centennial, as explained, and seven voted against it in a secret ballot poll. The other two persons were undecided.

Chief Concern

Chief concern of the group was the fear that the major brunt of the $13,260 budget as well as any final bills should the centennial be less than a success would be assessed to the local merchants.

They also objected to the hiring of "out of town" promotional help for the staging of the centennial at a fee of $6,650, a major portion of the budget.

Townships Call for Election Recounts

There have been several calls for recounts in last week's election from several Tuscola County townships.

Three petitions have been filed with the county's board of election canvassers, still hard at work counting ballots, calling for official tabulations.

A petition from Almer Township calls upon the canvassers to recount the vote on the township issue of liquor by the glass.

Those against serving liquor by the glass won the election by a close 10 votes.

In Juniata Township, Claud L. MacGregor, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for town clerk, has called for a recount.

While losing the election by 58 votes, MacGregor insists in his petition that some non-eligible voters were allowed to vote and that their was a shortage of ballots for eligible voters.

Likewise, in Arbel Township, the unsuccessful candidate for township treasurer also has appealed for a recount.

Kritzman prefaced the session by commenting that the meeting had been called "to bring the business community up to date on centennial happenings and to offer a chance for open discussion."

Chamber minutes concerning centennial planning, and dating back to April 16, 1963, were read by Chamber secretary Mrs. Russell Leeson to point out that the project was not hastily conceived.

Attorney Clint House, centennial cochairman, outlined the work to be done and activities planned by John B. Rogers Co., Fostoria, Ohio, promotional firm.

"Reaching Into Pockets"

Pinney, in outlining the dis-senting group's feelings, stated that they "felt that Chamber officers and promoters should be told of the opposition and if possible, helped to determine its extent."

"Businessmen, in the past few years, have constantly had someone reaching into their pockets . . . once again someone will be reaching into their pockets with little or no choice of what it is for," he contended.

"We feel people who disapprove (of the centennial) shouldn't be forced or shamed or pressured in any way to give of time or money."

Kritzman countered by pointing out that the centennial would not cost the local merchant a cent above already announced budget donations.

He also stressed that merchants and persons not wishing to contribute should not be forced or shamed or pressured in any way to give of time or money."

Council Views Forest Fashions

The Cass City Village Council held a special meeting Tuesday night to view a film on types of trees most suited for urban and suburban decoration.

The film was prepared by the Detroit Edison Company to aid communities in deciding on what types of trees to plant in the interest of safety, attractiveness and cost of upkeep.

The council is currently engaged in preparing an ordinance to regulate the species of trees which can be planted on village property.

Council Takes Chill Off Headquarters

The municipal building this winter will no longer be in the arctic zone.

Instead, those who work there will be able to shed mittens and mufflers and live like ordinary folk do on the inside during winter time.

The end to the glacial era came when the village council purchased a new heating system for the building.

Costing $2,800 odd, the new system will use gas as fuel and, for the first time all rooms in the building will have heat.

This will include the new garage addition which is now being added on to the east end of the building.

The new system is to be installed by Ryland and Gue, Inc. of Cass City, and is to be completed by mid-December, none to soon to greet January's cold Canadian air masses.

The main features of the new system include a brand new furnace, baseboard hot-water heat for the council room and village office and gas blower heat for the rear rooms.

The council went to this completely new system when it agreed that the old heating plant was totally inadequate to keep people and rooms warm.

William Schram, superintendent of public works, is one of those most happy with the new heating plant.

His workshop-truck maintenance plant on the east side of the building hasn't been heated heretofore.

Now he will be able to work in comfort. In addition, vehicles needed to maintain roads during winter can be parked overnight in the warm garages. During the night they can shed snow and frozen slush accumulated during the day, as well as be ready to roar come morning.

The heat will be delivered to the rear five rooms by blowers manted on the ceiling. They can be turned on or off as needed.

General Telephone Cable Job Done

General Telephone workmen finished laying two and a half miles of buried cable Tuesday on Mushroom Road between Lamp-ton and Cemetery roads.

The project, costing 28 cents a foot, or just over $4,000, is part of the company's 1964 rural up-grading program, according to Richard Drews, Gen-Tel district manager.

Workmen began the project Saturday. When completed, it will mean more facilities for customers in that area, Drews reported.

Hobby Club Meets With Mrs. Jackson

Mrs. Harold Jackson was hostess to the Hobby Club Monday evening, Nov. 9. Members answered roll call with "Why I Am Thankful."

Mrs. Paul Murray explained Education Week and told of the growth of the elementary school. The group also heard a tape recording by Dr. Ernest Melby, professor of education at MSU, entitled "Curriculum and How We Cope With Change."

The club voted to send a CARE package for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Mrs. Leslie Townsend, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Raymond McCullough and Mrs. Paul Murray were on the dessert committee.

to participate in the centennial work or financing, would not be forced to do so.

Also questioned was the need of forming a corporation (Cass City Centennial Corp.) to handle the centennial. It was also alleged that the corporation had been formed so the community could get out of debt by corporation dissolution in the event that the centennial went in debt.

House explained that the corporation was conceived because "it eliminates personal responsibility by the merchants" and is not a means of getting out of paying debts.

Urged Support

Centennial co-chairman James Ware urged continuation of planning with, "Every important thing we do in this town has a group against it and a group for it. I don't condemn either. We even fight about what color to paint our water tower."

"However, the publicity is out and the people in town expect it. It can be of benefit to each merchant and person in town."

"Stressing a need for 100 per cent co-operation and support by the merchants and the community in order to stage a successful centennial, Mrs. James Bauer, centennial corp. president, pleaded, "If we're not wholeheartedly behind it, then forget the centennial. . . don't draw the town apart."

"If we're going to have a centennial . . . have one and have it right. If not, forget it and get over our animosity."

Several other businessmen voiced her plea, urging complete support and expressing theirs.

Kritzman closed the special session by announcing that any person wishing to work on the centennial committees should contact either Ware or House.

Jr. Hawks Winless ...But They Tried

About all that you can say, from the angle of a sports critic, about a team that had a season's record of zero wins to seven losses is:

They tried.

But that's not enough to say about the hard-playing, hard-fighting Cass City Junior Varsity team.

The band of 22 youngsters, generally outclassed by their opponents in terms of practical football experience, did their best to beat the seven teams they met this fall.

The telling story of their efforts is that, during the season, they improved until JV Coach John Oswald feels encouraged about two things.

Next year the JV will field a more experienced team. Moreover, those members of this year's team who go on up, as Juniors, to join the varsity will be experienced replacements.

By the end of the season, the JV Hawks knew 100 per cent more than they knew when they trotted out to practice on that first football day under a mild September sky.

"We were handicapped from the beginning," Oswald said. "None of our players knew the first fundamentals of football when they came out."

They didn't know how to block. They didn't know how to tackle. They had guts, and they had the desire to play ball. The Coach had to take it from there.

After being slaughtered in their first two games - with Marlette and Caro - the team found its head.

"The last five games," Coach Oswald said, "was better football. We didn't lose by more than two touchdowns."

The Coach called the battle with Frankenmuth in mid-season the JV's best game. Although they were licked 26 to 19, the team played solid football.

"During the last five games, we moved the ball well, and we scored well. When we had the screening, I was impressed by our passing."

The team was sparked to do its best by co-captains, John Maharg at quarterback and Ron Weippert, full back. The coach said Maharg learned fast how to run a good game out of T-formation (used by the varsity) and that Weippert proved to be a good runner.

Richard McRae was cited as possibly the team's fastest, and Terry Hile was named as a promising guard, along with lineman Bernard Freiburger and ends Bill Klinkman and Eugene Nicholas.

Sophomores - some of the late joiners but quick learners - who performed solid service were Dave Asher, end, Phil Gray on defense, Dean Stine at tackle and Tom Frankowski, Rick Lorentzen and Allan Zawilinski, at half back.

Not to mention the guard job done by Rick VanVliet and Ron Cysbulski, who, with Center Steve Skippy formed a tough front to crack.

And all the others, who, like their teammates, stuck it out in face of defeat after lost game: Jack Selby, Joe Merchant, Dave Sherrard and Joe and Jim Kloc.

For Coach Oswald it was a good team of boys to work with, if not the best of seasons.

The Coach said that, with experienced boys on hand from this team, joined with those now cutting their teeth with the renewed junior high school program, the 1965 season couldn't be worse, it just has to be better.

Board Hires in Executive Session

The Cass City School Board Monday night approved the hiring of a new, part-time office worker for the school's main office.

The decision, made in executive session following the regular board meeting, was made because the office staff is presently short-handed, Donald Crouse, school superintendent, said.

make three morning and afternoon runs.

The total cost to the district was estimated at between $1,200 and $1,300 for this expedient bus. The bus, a 1954 model, will be rented from Kilbourns pending appraisal of its condition by state police.

The board reaffirmed its school bus policy restricting transportation to students living one mile from the school, or beyond, and voted to foot the tuition bill for Deford high school students, caught in the recent amalgamation with Cass City, now attending Kingston high school.

The board approved a motion to borrow upwards to $50,000 as needed until December 15 on the strength of state aid monies expected at that time.

And the board requested that Cass City teachers have chest X-rays taken the next time the County's mobile X-ray unit comes to Cass City.

By using the word "request" rather than "require," the board skirted the question of whether it has the right to change working requirements for teachers during the "one-year life" of a teacher's contract.

The superintendent also stressed the importance of spending money on education.

"Educational studies show that there is no closer relationship between quality education and anything else than the amount of money spent on it," he said. "The more you spend, the better you get."

He pointed out that, while Cass City operates with 10.5 mills, Caro and Bad Axe, two similar sized school systems, operate on greater millage.

"Our school board and teaching staff are doing a very good job with the resources available, but greater resources would enable them to do even better work with our children."

"There is no magic in Cass City. We have to think in terms of spending more money."

In his address, Bulen outlined the past and current steps that the school board has taken in picking a location for the new school.

He said he was overwhelmed and pleased by the large turnout that came to the meeting.

Ruhl discussed the current bonded indebtedness of the school system, now a total of $188,000, and said that he believes that "we can be clear of the board" by 1970.

"We would be in good shape to build a new school which we are in great need of," he said.

At the meeting, new members of the teaching staff were introduced to the gathering. Mrs. B. H. Starmann, school librarian, spoke about the display of several hundred "book fair" books that might be purchased. Refreshments were served.

In the absence of Vic Guernsey, president of the association, Dr. Marion Hostetler, vice-president, presided.

RLDS Conference Held in Sandusky

The Eastern Michigan District Semiannual Conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints was held Sunday, Nov. 8, from 9:30 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. at the Sandusky church.

Main speakers for the forenoon were High Priest James C. Phillips, regional administrator, and Bishop Jack M. Curtis.

The business session was held during the afternoon with District President Elder Gordon Grant in charge.

Attending from the Shabbona branch were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith, Bill Dorman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gregg and Ron, Mr. and Mrs. Voyie Dorman, Miss Lillian Dunlap and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman.

Legion Aux. Meets Membership Quota

The membership quota of the American Legion Auxiliary, set at 113 for 1964-65, has been met.

So reported Mrs. Edward Schwartz, membership chairman for the auxiliary, on Tuesday following a meeting of the auxiliary in the Legion Hall Monday.

Mrs. Garrison Stine presided at Monday's meeting which was attended by 29 members.

The members voted to send a $10 contribution to the Michigan Veterans Facility at Grand Rapids, where some 800 to 900 veterans make their home.

A poll, taken at the meeting by Mrs. William Anker, Americanism chairman, showed that 83 per cent of those attending voted in the election.

Player of Week

Promising to be a heavy on Cass City's first-string 1965 football team is junior Wayne Copeland, whom Coach Orlie Lemanski considers his third best offensive end this season. But that isn't why the coach named him player of the week. In a game in which the Red Hawks' defense sagged, Copeland continued to do honor, as he has in past weeks, to his post as defensive half-back, taking down Vulcans as they came his way and bushwhacking a pass. Third he might be on offense, but number one he is on defense. "He did a good job," said Coach Lemanski. (Due to heavy election pressure last Tuesday, the Chronicle did not pick up a player of the week.)

The manner in which the first TD of the game came Cass City's way shows the so-so nature of the ball played by both sides.

After almost two quarters of back and forth play with neither team coming up with fine ball, the Hawks found themselves once again churning around out in mid-field, getting nowhere.

It was third down when Quarterback Ed Retherford called for a pitchout to the left halfback. Instead, Retherford pitched to the right half who wasn't looking for the ball to come his way. The pigskin bounced off his shoulder pad and floated into the air.

Pulling out from the right side to go a-blocking on the left, as the play had been called, Guard Randy Clara found himself looking up at the air-borne ball.

His quick thinking and reactions turned the flop-play into a dance to victory.

He snatched the ball out of the air. Spotting Larry Groombridge, the left halfback who should have gotten the ball in the first place, wandering around in the back-field, Clara passed the ball to him.

Groombridge dove into the line of scrimmage, came out standing up and danced his way neatly through 42 yards of Vulcans for the TD. Mike Root's attempted extra point failed.

Groombridge's run was marked by good blocking, one of the few times the Hawks earned an "A" in this activity during the game.

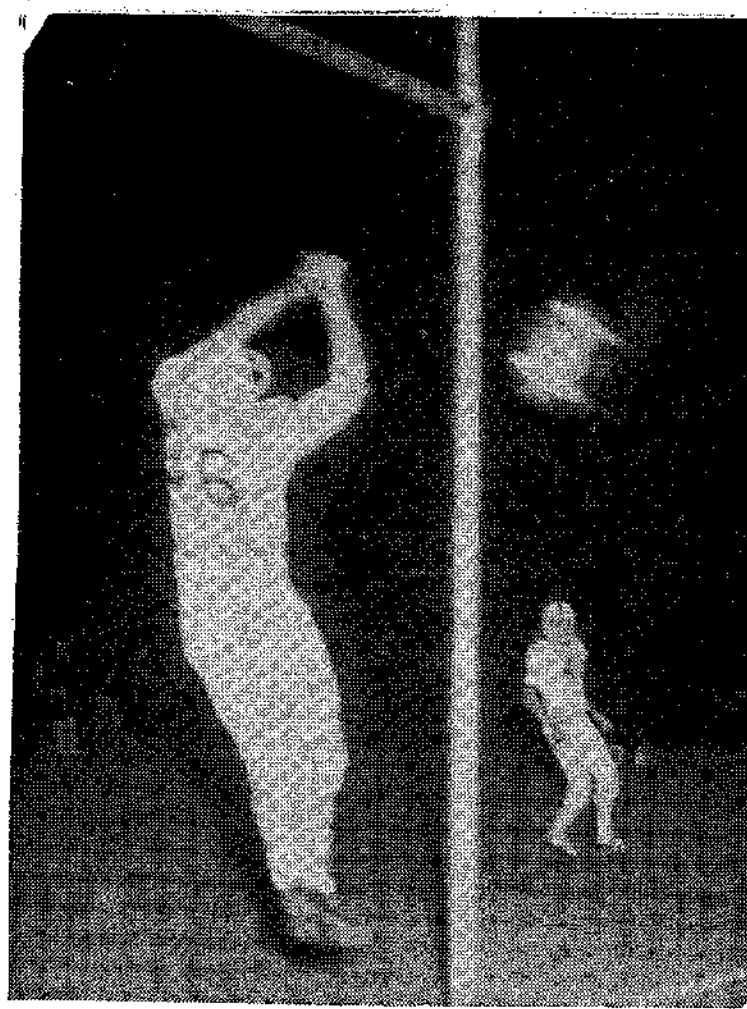

Vassar broke its streak of ball breaks, which had helped hold the team to no score, in the mid-third quarter when standing 39 yards out from the Red Hawks' goal.

Vulcan Quarterback Jerry Schluckbier pitched the ball to right half Robert Johnson, who rolled out to the right, carrying the Hawks' defense with him.

Instead of rolling all the way, Johnson tossed the ball back to Schluckbier who had circled left behind the Cass City secondary.

The Vulcan quarterback went over the goal line for the Vulcans' only score.

If Vassar hadn't foxed the Hawks this one instance, the team might never have scored as

A SPLIT SECOND after missing this pass (blur on right is football) Cass Pasieczny slammed into the unyielding steel of the Cass City goal post and for a time, it looked like the Hawks had lost one of their halfbacks to injury. The incident took place in the second quarter of the Cass City-Vassar game Friday night at the Recreation Park. Pasieczny returned in the second half and the Hawks topped the Vulcans 12-6. (Chronicle photo)

Hawks Down Vassar To Win Third Place

The tight race for third place in league standing in Thumb B football was won Friday night by the Red Hawks when they outdistanced the Vassar Vulcans by six points in a 12-6 victory.

The victory came to Cass City by way of an odd ball.

It is the first time in three seasons that the Cass City eleven have placed this high in the conference. Cass City won third spot in 1961.

Vassar went into the game as the title holders to the slot, having outpaced the Red Hawks during the season with four wins over Cass City's three.

Cass City had claimed ownership early in the season, until they met Bad Axe one disastrous Friday night.

As the game went, the Red Hawks weren't up to the usual excellence which has marked their defensive team work, and their blocking this season. The Vulcans repeatedly beat them to the punch, although their ball handling was little better.

The manner in which the first TD of the game came Cass City's way shows the so-so nature of the ball played by both sides.

After almost two quarters of back and forth play with neither team coming up with fine ball, the Hawks found themselves once again churning around out in mid-field, getting nowhere.

With the addition of the new garage and the installation of heat throughout the building, the council can now play a game of musical rooms.

Office-less people - such as Schram and Police Chief Carl Palmater - may now be able to have a home. The cramped quarters of the village office can possibly be uncramped, giving Deputy Clerk Celia House some elbow room.

And, topping these virtues, is the fact that the new system will cost the village less than was originally estimated.

Winding its way across the northern Lower Peninsula from Empire and Elberta on the west to Tawas City on the east is a new pathway to outdoor fun. Known as the shore-to-shore riding-hiking trail, it spans about 190 miles of state, federal, and private forest lands, taking in scenic areas and other points of interest along the way. Most of the trail has been marked and work is underway to develop overnight camping sites, hitchhiking areas, and other public facilities for horseback riders and hikers. Plans are also afoot to provide privately-owned accommodations—lodges and cabins—close to the main route. Horses can be rented locally. The trail is a cooperative project of the Conservation Department, U.S. Forest Service, local communities and riding clubs, and private estates and landowners. It will have its grand opening June 20-28 when the Michigan Trail Riders Association stages a cross-country trip from coast to coast.—Mich. Dept. of Conservation

BULEN TALKS Cars

Let's go into the meaning of the word "buy" which is to acquire (property) by giving a price; that it, it is a purchase. When you buy a car you most certainly buy in a hopeful frame of mind, also; and trust that the purchase will "augur" well. Why the word augur?

We mean that the auguries (or omens) are favorable. The word augur derives, ultimately, from the Latin word for bird. The augurs were Roman priests who judged, from the flight of birds, whether circumstances were favorable for public functions. To have scheduled some enterprise after an unfavorable augury would have been unthinkable. One event on which the augurs were always consulted was the installation of the chief magistrate; since an unfavorable augury would have shaken confidence in his administration, a favorable report was always handed in. This is the basis of our word inauguration.

The belief that the future can be foretold from birds flight lasted till the middle of the 19th century - and may still go on. This we can assure you, buying a car from BULEN MOTORS Augurs well for you! BULEN MOTORS' desire to please all his customers, means the auguries are favorable for you if you need a car. Make your highway trips as carefree as the flight of the birds by letting BULEN MOTORS inaugurate a new world of driving for you!

Nigg Tells BPW Cancer Symptoms

A program on cancer was the highlight of the meeting of the Business and Professional Women on Nov. 4 following dinner at the Methodist Church turkey supper that night.

Dr. H. L. Nigg of Caro was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Mrs. Leota Anthes, program chairman for personal development.

Dr. Nigg showed a film about cancer. Mrs. E. B. Schwaderer, area cancer chairman, was also a guest of the group.

A total of 21 members attended the program which was held in the new bookkeeping room of the Pinney State Bank.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Phyllis Connolly was accepted as a new member.

Name Agricultural Census Enumerators

Enumerators have been named in northern Tuscola county for the 1964 Census of Agriculture. Crew Leader Mrs. Clifton Bell has announced.

Enumerators in northern Tuscola county belong to a force of 23,000 throughout the nation employed temporarily by the U.S. Bureau of the Census for this year's Census of Agriculture.

The enumerators will be trained in a special four-day home study course designed to prepare them for the farm census, their crew leader said.

The following persons have been appointed: Mrs. Betty Haske, Mrs. Bernice Kloc, Mrs. Louise Zimmer, Mrs. Dolores Pine, Mrs. Dorothy Gainforth, Mrs. Stefana Hunter and Mrs. A. Marie Bigelow.

Question: To Ride With or Plan for Future Prosperity

Maybe they also farm on the side. Many do.

"There's a story that, from the red light here in Cass City to nine miles east of town, there are just two full time farmers left," was one comment over coffee.

What is even more significant is that this employment is not seasonal or marginal. It's full time and steady all year long.

"We have no seasonal model change over lay-offs," a company official said.

And, from the standpoint of the over 560 employees working at three of the major industries the employment picture is rosy.

At General Cable, business is as good as ever, and there is no forecast of any change for the worse, only better.

Walbro is on the verge of cashing in on its five year diversification program which led the company to branch out from the sole production of carburetors into varied fields, ending up with the acquisition of the John R. Parts Co.

The Bassett Manufacturing Company, in a quick recovery after Studebaker closed down on everybody and went to Canada last year, has got its first contract with Buick, along with many other automotive orders.

And these industries don't plan to stop here. They plan to grow. The upshot of the employment picture - from fat payrolls from the factory to nifty checks for corn and beans - is a shot in the arm to Main Street.

"Business has never been better," said one merchant.

"Yes, Cass City is prosperous," said another.

This is reflected in the fact that one used to be able to buy an acre of land on M-81 for $400. It now costs you $1,000 an acre.

It is reflected in statements of automobile dealers who found the public turning to the 1965 models - albeit some dealers have been cramped by strikes - with the same avidity as it did the 1964 models.

It is seen in bank deposits. The Cass City State Bank and the Pinney State Bank both have one million dollars more in time deposits than in 1964.

Total deposits in both banks are over two million more than ten years ago.

"People have more money," said one merchant. "They are asking for better merchandise than ever before."

Prosperity is seen in the continued increase in property value in Elkland.

Assessed valuation went up by $165,400 between 1963 and 1964.

One business observer of the Cass City world termed 1964 "A million dollar year for Cass City."

Village records show new construction - as valued by builders on building permits - this year to total at least $440,000 in the village alone.

This includes 13 new homes ranging in value from $8,500 to $20,000.

It also includes major business additions such as a $11,000 warehouse for the new American Agriculture Company's fertilizer franchise, a $150,000 Walbro extension and the building of silos.

at Frutchey Bean Company.

Prosperity is also reflected in Mrs. Jane Doe calling at the hairdressers (which have increased in number in recent years) more than once a month, in her purchase of more time-saving appliances - things she got by without before - and in her time-payment outlays for new furniture.

It is seen in the face lifting being given to many Cass City houses as owners plow back money in remodeling their homes.

As a businessman put it, people are behaving this way because of three things: they have more money, they believe the economy is strong and they believe it will last so they dare invest.

Last year Cass City put out a brochure showing itself to be in fine form.

The village is to be envied by many, even larger communities. It is one of the wealthiest communities in the Thumb. It harbors an industrial complex to be envied by communities twice or three times its size.

It is a major center of Thumb agriculture with the largest stockyard outlet in the Thumb, its own slaughterhouse and a large produce firm.

It has two banks and two hospitals while many Thumb communities have only one bank and no hospitals.

It headquarters major service units of the electric and telephone companies. It is buying itself a topnotch water system and planning a long range street improvement.

But the long range street improvement plan runs into the very thing that faces Cass City business and community leaders alike and brings their conservatism to the fore.

Most economists declare that an economy, to be sound, has to continue to grow.

At the national level the minimum figure used is an annual 3 per cent growth in gross national product if this nation is to stay in front in the cold war.

Will or should Cass City continue to grow? Or has the village reached a certain peak of prosperity at which it should level off and glide along?

There is no answer to this. Depending so much on personal outlook, answers were varied.

For one thing, businessmen no more want to upset the apple cart than the voting public. To mess around now, when everything is going so good, might do it.

"If things were to tighten up," one Main Street merchant said of prosperity, "it could change tomorrow."

Most, however, feel that the prosperity will continue. Most feel that Cass City will continue to grow.

However, the struggle that faces the village is how it should grow, how to plan for this growth.

There are those who don't want to see anymore change. There are those who feel the business district is big enough, while others feel it has room for expansion.

There are those who look for growth only through the young staying here and working in the factories and stores and not drifting off as they did before.

Others want to see an influx of people. They look for greater housing development to meet the desert conditions that exist for those who want to rent, and to meet the demands of these new residents.

There are those who feel Main Street merchants must change their rural pace to meet the pressures from shopping centers which take too many Friday pay checks from Cass City.

There are those who look forward to new industries joining those in the industrial park.

"In terms of real income, how many hours a man works for what he can buy, by this yard stick the community is prosperous, far more than a lot of others," said one business leader.

"If prosperity is to continue," stated another, "it's up to the merchants on Main Street."

Altar Society Will Hold Church Bazaar

The Rosary Altar Society of St. Pancratius Church has announced that it will hold a bazaar in the church's hall on November 28.

Mrs. William Johnston will serve as chairman of the event. The bazaar will include fancy work, "white elephants," toys and novelties, baked goods, candy and coffee.

Miss Ramona Maytoreno will supervise the "fish bowl."

The announcement of the bazaar was made at the November meeting of the society which was held Monday and during which new officers were elected.

Mrs. George Murray was elected president; Mrs. Garfield Turner, vice-president; Miss Maytoreno, secretary, and Mrs. Clarence Erla, treasurer.

During the meeting Mrs. Russell Ayres gave a report of the Deanery meeting held recently in Harbor Beach.

Other announcements of future events include a canned food shower for the Sisters of the Parish, and a Christmas party to be held at the Dec. 7 meeting.

Mrs. Louis Creguer, Mrs. Enick Rutkowski and Mrs. Cliff Demo served refreshments at Monday's meeting.

Rev. L. A. Campbell Pastor in Pa. Church

Louis A. Campbell

The Rev. Louis A. Campbell of Mishawaka, Ind., has begun duties as minister at the West Loop United Missionary Church at Holidaysburg, Pa. He replaces the Rev. George Swank, who resigned.

Born at Cass City, Mr. Campbell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Campbell of Ubyly.

He was graduated from Bad Axe High School in 1957 and from Bethel College, Ind., in 1962. He was assistant pastor of Zion United Missionary Church, Elkhart, Ind., and assistant pastor and song leader for two years at St. Mark United Missionary Church in Mishawaka, Ind.

Mr. Campbell is married to the former Mary Esther Warren of Pellston, Mich., and the couple have one daughter, Cheryl, 10 months old. Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of Kentucky Mountain Bible Institute.

One hour of hard work today is worth a whole of tomorrow.

The man who takes his own time often robs another of his.

up for existing troops in both villages and if enough interest is shown, a senior troop will be organized.

Girl Scout Committee members this year, besides Mrs. MacRae, include: Mrs. Patrick Rabideau, troop consultant; Mrs. Gerald Priekorn, troop organizer, and the following committee mothers: Mrs. Robert Benkelman, Mrs. Russell Ayres, Mrs. Lloyd Bryant, Mrs. William Johnston, Mrs. Howard Bacon, Mrs. Harold Francis and Mrs. Roy Wood.

Sponsors of the activity are: The Gavel Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Junior Woman's Club, Business and Professional Women's Club and the Deford Good Neighbors' Club.

Mrs. MacRae reports that Brownie troops are filled at present. If more girls wish to become Scouts, more leaders will have to be obtained.

There is room for additional Junior Scouts and Cadette Scouts and if enough interest is shown a Senior troop, ages 15-17, will be organized with Mrs. George Gatchel as leader.

Brownies
Brownie Scouts, open to girls in second or third grade or ages seven and eight, meet immediately after school on Tuesdays and Fridays at the Girl Scout Rooms.

Tuesday leaders are Mrs. George Elliott and Mrs. Lambert Althaver, and Friday leaders are Mrs. William Selby and Mrs. Richard Greenwood.

Deford Brownies meet at the Deford School after classes with Mrs. Harold Deering and Mrs. Dan Toner as leaders.

Junior Scouts
Junior Scouts, fourth, fifth and sixth graders or girls age nine to 11, meet Tuesdays and Thursdays after school.

30-Mile Hike Takes Scouts to Owendale

Eight Cass City scouts and their scoutmaster bike-hiked 30 miles in four hours last Saturday.

The target was from here to Owendale and back again between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Making the foray were Tom Crow, Chuck Hughes, Robbie Alexander, Joe Hillaker, Jeff Spencer, John Asher, George Martin and Joe Mark.

Jim Jezewski, scoutmaster, led the way.

Mrs. Alden Asher's group meets Tuesdays at her home and Mrs. Richard Eria and Mrs. Don Koepfgen's group meets Thursdays at the Scout rooms.

In Deford, the Junior troop meets at the school after classes with Mrs. Frank Spencer and Mrs. Duane Lester as leaders.

Cadette Scouts

Open to girls between the ages of 12 and 14, or grades seven through nine, the Cadette troop meets Wednesdays at the Scout Rooms after school.

Leaders are Mrs. Tom Dewey and Mrs. Jack Spencer.

Deputies Nab Junk Bandits, 3 Jailed

The Sheriff's Department went out of the "junk" business on Oct. 31 with an auction only to find itself right back in business Monday, Nov. 2.

It happened as a result of the arrest by Deputy Sheriffs of three men charged with staging daring raids into Tuscola's southern tier to pick up junk.

On Oct. 31, for the first time in history as far as Sheriff Marr can tell, the department auctioned off a lot of what the sheriff termed "junk" confiscated in past investigations.

The junk ran from dog-eared shotguns to worn out auto-parts. "They gobbled it up," Sheriff Marr said of the 150 to 200 persons who flocked to the auction. The county treasury is $130 richer, and Marr's garage space was clear - for the moment.

For that very afternoon, Deputies Lee Morrison and Hilton Saries received a tip that a suspicious car was seen "casing" the home of Jack Hunter on Shay Lake Road in Dayton Township.

Earlier, the Hunter home had been the victim of breaking and entering when no one was home.

The investigation of the suspicious car led to the arrest later in the day of Donald D. Haight, 23, of 4456 Maddey Street, Clifford, Perry E. McConnell, 28, of the same address and Leroy Blackmer, 17, of Caigill Road, Brown City.

The three have admitted to carrying out a series of daring thefts primarily from homes and farms in the Dayton area, of whatever they could carry away with them, deputies said.

The "boot" included refrigerators, stoves, tractor tires generators, and even two big, old furnaces picked up in a barn.

The investigation has pinned down at least seven such thefts in Tuscola County and three in Lapeer county which were carried out by this team.

Deputies set the value of the stolen goods at "well over $500." The three told the deputies that they took the items to sell as junk to get spending money.

A check of junk dealers is turning up the stolen items and the bills of sale right and left throughout the area. Sheriff's deputies expect that more will turn up as the team has been raiding since October 2.

The junk found has all been confiscated and now sits, messily stacked, in the Sheriff's garage which, for a brief moment, had gone out of the junk business.

Ladies in White Get Tired Feet, Too

When you've spent the good part of the day running around on a short-handed shift taking care of people, you've got to have a place to cool the feet.

Up to get away from it all.

And in Hills and Dales Hospital - where it's "Nurse get me this, nurse I need that," all day long - these facts of pedi-pain and need for escape are as true as anywhere.

You just have to watch one of the nurses, outwardly as crisp and fresh as her crackling, starched uniform, sink with a contented sigh into the soft cushions of the sofa in the new nurses' lounge to know it's true.

And that's why nurses and their aides say "thank you" daily under their breath to the late Walter Mann who made it possible for them to have a place to call their own.

In his will, the former manager of the old Nestles Plant in Cass City left money to the hospital, some of which was to provide the nurses with a retreat from doctors and patients alike.

In the days before the new lounge?

"We had an awful time finding a place to sit down and rest," said Nurse Mrs. Althea Krizman, as she gobbled up the sheer luxury of sitting down for a moment during her short noon hour.

"We didn't have any place to sit," agreed Nurse Mrs. Vera MacTavish, who, with Mrs. Krizman and Mrs. Vivian Mosher, had fled from the floor for a brief respite at lunch time.

All three sat like tired infants just off the line; just sitting, resting, not doing anything.

Like anywhere else in this world, even when it is their time off, they just can't plunk down anywhere they please.

Visitors would soon be commenting that the hospital staff was lax and shiftless. Some commanding general would come along and say, "Nurse, don't you have anything better to do than just sit there?"

It really wasn't planned that the nurses and their aides should have had a hard time finding a simple chair.

When the four-year-old hospital was planned, a large section of the basement hallway was slated to be walled off into a lounge for them.

But Mrs. Kathryn Gauer, director of nursing, will show you what happened to that plan.

Where the lounge was to be a double row of spare beds is now stored. Behind the beds, against the wall, Civil Defense has taken over and stored rations and water cans for 700 persons for 14 days.

So, Mrs. Gauer said, 80-odd nurses, aides, housekeepers, cooks, food servers, office workers and an X-ray girl had to share one two-chair, one-couch lounge, also on the ground floor.

"You can imagine what it was like," Mrs. Gauer said.

The new nurses' lounge - which is located in the hall you get to by not going through the outside door marked "Doctors Entrance Only," - went into active nursing service in August.

Before that, it had been the doctor's staff room and library. "We moved their books into the room in back of surgery," Mrs. Gauer said. "The doctors came and got the books they needed and took them there anyway."

The new lounge will sit eight at a time, or sit five and lie one. Some more new furnishings, such as lamps and a coffee table-foot rest, are still to be acquired.

"When we get a coffee table, it's going to have to be one we can put our feet up on," the nursing director insisted.

However for all the fixings, the room doesn't see much use. True, the hospital's auxiliaries hang their salmon-pink smocks here, and ministers, their white visiting jackets.

But the nurses get to the room only during their half-hour lunch - which happens three times a 24-hour hospital day.

After "inhaling their lunch," the nurses rush to hang their caps up, light a cigarette and relax, off their feet.

In fact, as lunch time nears, it's hard to tell which is the reason the clock is eyed expectantly: the soup and sandwich or the sit-down.

"We really are enjoying it," the nurses said Thursday.

However, good things come with strings attached. The hospital's intercom system for calling staff to duty and emergencies has been installed in the lounge.

At any moment, therefore, the tired feet may have to start out on the hot foot to a patient's side.

Coming Auctions

Thursday, Nov. 12—Roy New-some will hold a dairy auction at the place located six miles south and a half mile east of Cass City.

Saturday, Nov. 21—The Kingston High School athletic department will sponsor a general auction sale.

Michigan State University agricultural economists say an integrated urban-rural extension program would produce a complementary, rather than competitive working relationship between urban and rural groups.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1964

Bublitz Leads DHIA

The registered Brown Swiss herd-owned by Lawrence Bublitz of Fairgrove was high herd for the month with an average butterfat production of 55 pounds and an average milk production of 1485 pounds, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Tied for second place honors were the grade Holstein herd of Dan Lukasvitz of Cass City and the registered Holstein herd of Alvin Frahm of Frankenmuth, with 51 pounds each.

Other dairymen whose herds averaged 39 pounds or more butterfat for the month were: Dolan Sweeney, Uby; Roy Brown, Fostoria; Carl Bauer, Reese; Don Koepfgen, Cass City; Frank Satchell and Sons, Caro; Blaylock and Rupprecht, Vassar; Ronald Hampshire, Deford; Henry Hohman, Vassar; Werner List, Vassar; and Harland Lounsbury, Cass City.

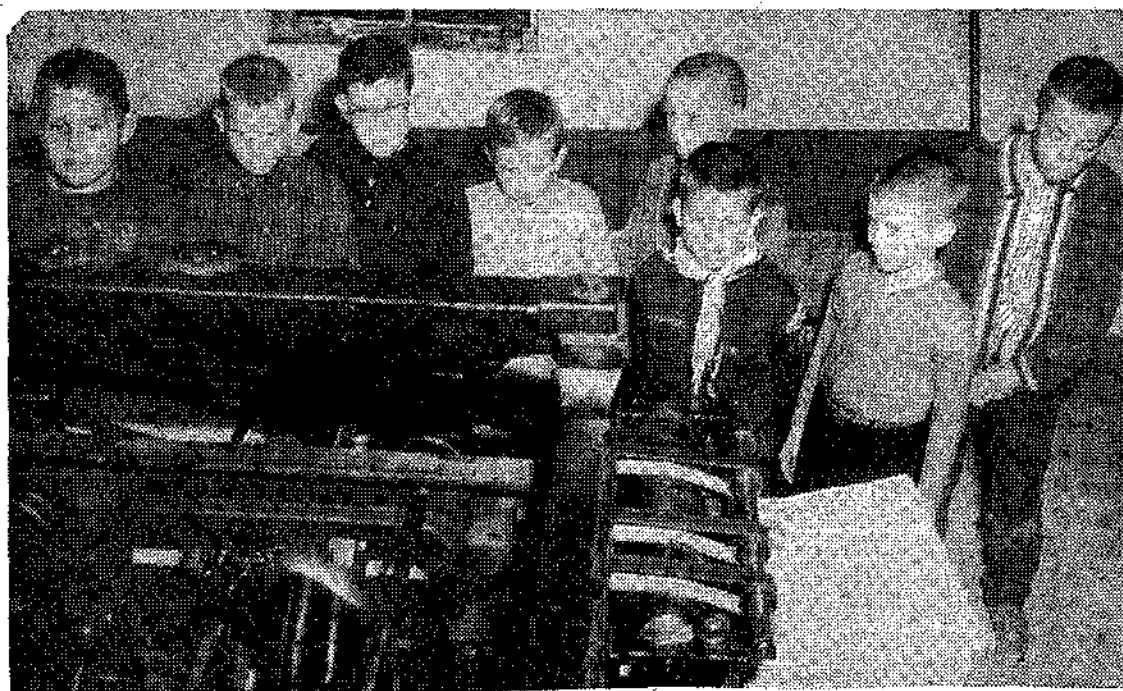

In the 70-pounds-per-cow class, a registered Ayrshire cow, Kathleen, owned by Alvin Frahm of Frankenmuth was in first place with a production of 127 pounds fat for the month of October. In second place was a registered Holstein cow, No. 9, owned by Carl Bauer of Reese with 113 pounds fat and in third place was a registered Holstein cow, No. 53, owned by Dolan Sweeney with 110 pounds fat.

Other dairymen having cows in this class which produced 95 pounds fat or more were: Howard Loomis and Sons, Gagetown; Frank Satchell and Sons, Caro; Harland Lounsbury, Cass City; Charles Crittenden, Kingston; Leonard Thompson, Cass City; Ronald Opperman, Vassar; Blaylock and Rupprecht, Vassar; and Roy Brown, Fostoria.

In the 305-day records class, a registered Holstein cow, No. 5, owned by Carl Bauer of Reese was high cow with 864 pounds fat. In second place was a registered Holstein cow, No. 26, owned by Blaylock and Rupprecht of Vassar with 789 pounds fat and in third place was Cora, a registered Holstein cow owned by Clarence Merchant of Cass City, with 722 pounds fat.

Other dairymen having cows which produced 607 pounds fat or more in this class were: Howard Loomis and Sons, Gagetown; Clayton Rohlf and Sons, Fairgrove; Henry Hohman, Vassar; Ronald Hampshire, Deford; Ronald Opperman, Vassar; Maynard McConkey, Cass City; Grover and Jack Laurie, Cass City; and Clinton K. Blackmore, Vassar.

2 To Graduate From Central University

Two Cass City students attending Central Michigan University have completed their requirements for bachelor degrees.

Curtis J. Cleland Jr. completed work for a bachelor of science degree in secondary biology and geography.

Blanche E. Stafford Milligan will receive a bachelor of arts degree for her work in English, geography and education.

Both finished their undergraduate work during the summer session at the University. Both will take part in the coming mid-year commencement exercises.

Most of the New Year's water-wagon passengers have long since used their transfers.

Don't put faith in the fellow who tells you what he would do if he was in your shoes.

A new $300,000 Beef Cattle Research Center was opened at Michigan State University this year. The center will be used to seek answers to common problems confronting cattle feeders.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Even Gen. Custer Was Part Indian

By Dave Kraft

As man grows older, he becomes wiser and all things are apparent... somebody must have said sometime before. And if somebody did, they were right, at least in some instances.

Ever since I married my wife... I think it was in the year of the great plague... she has contended that she is part Indian.

Now, there is nothing wrong with being part Indian. General Custer was part Indian just before he died. It was the part sticking out of his chest... I think they call it an... arrow.

Granted, my wife may have one or two freckles that are part Indian, but the rest of her is just plain mean... I mean just plain old Heinz 56.

Still, there is just a chance that she may be part Indian and it is this doubt that has given me my great insight. If she is part Indian, it would explain why we don't get along.

You see, I'm part Indian fighter... *

I got a letter the other day, postmarked Uby, and signed "Jess Johnson." Only I don't think there is a "Jess Johnson"...

Anyway, Jess chides me for giving up so fast on my still: "What's the matter is you all afraid of a few years rest?" (He punctuates and spells about like I do.)

He goes on to say that he saw me the other day "and if it wasn't for your big shoes I think the old wind would of had a nother hurrican Kraft Whow you sure need some home brew to put some blubber on that old frame of yours whoo what a nasty brake boy you sure ain't been living very high on the hog."

Enclosed in the letter is a clipping from the Oct. 18, 1964 issue of the "National Tattler" and it's easy to see why when they read the title "Moonshiners Kill 200 with Poison Stills!" they thought of me...

Several interesting paragraphs are marked for my benefit but they're too long to go into here.

The best part of the letter is on the back. A certain Mazy and Kate, who are probably a lot more real than Jess Johnson, say some very nice things about me but modesty forbids me to mention them.

An unidentified caller phoned the day after the election to inform me that I had received one vote for constable. It was obviously the vote of some sound thinking, intelligent, civic-minded nut.

The boys down at the Post Office suggested that I call for a re-count.

I checked with R. M. Hunter, Elkland township clerk, and found out that there were 38 write-in candidates for the office of constable.

Winners were Carl Palmateer, William McKinley, Bill Bliss and Shorty Greenleaf. This leaves 34 losers, amongst whom, I am not the least.

Now, with most of these persons, there is just the slightest chance that somebody thought his candidate was aptly suited for the post.

There is one however, whom I seriously doubt was anything but a prank. Not that Mrs. A. J. Knapp couldn't handle the job, but...

And now for this week's "Korrections by Kraft."

Last week, we left Harris-Hampshire Agency quivering in anticipation about what kind of a mistake I was going to make in their ad. I fooled them...

I made a mistake in Wood's Rexall Drug's contest story.

Big joke. I had the story reading that the annual Boys' and Girls' Contest ended Nov. 14.

Actually, Nov. 14 is the day for registration for the contest and the contest doesn't end until just before Christmas.

I think I'll start a contest of my own. To the first person finding a mistake made by me in this week's issue goes a hit in the mouth... if they are the proper size... smaller than I.

Tune in next week and see what went wrong in this week's Chronicle.

The 1965 Ford rides quieter than a Rolls-Royce!

"This ad kills me..."

"Incredible!"

"Ridiculous!"

"Far fetched!"

"Hooley!"

To the 5 out of 10 people who didn't believe this ad...

a sporting proposition

Take a no-obligation test drive in a 1965 Ford. Maybe you just couldn't believe the ad (reprinted above) which appeared in this paper a few weeks ago. After all, many consider Rolls-Royce to be one of the world's finest cars. But Ford does ride quieter. The world's leading acoustical experts (Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc.) made the tests. The U.S. Auto Club certified the results.

This year's Ford has the strongest body ever... a revolutionary new frame that "tunes out" vibrations... new ultra-soft coil-spring suspensions—all contributing to the new hushed ride. But the ride is only part of what's new.

■ New swept-back instrument panel adds five inches extra knee room. ■ Transmission tunnel is lower than in competing cars for extra foot room. ■ Trunk has more usable space than ever—holds four 2-suiters standing upright.

■ New ultra-luxurious LTD series—unmatched by any other car in Ford's class. ■ Silent-Flo ventilation (standard on 4-door hardtops) removes stale air, provides fresh air even with all windows closed. ■ Exclusive new twin-edge key—works with either side up.

■ Hot, but hushed, 289-cu. in. V-8 is standard equipment in XL and LTD models.

■ Smooth, thrifty all-new Big Six in other models—the most powerful standard Six offered by any car in Ford's class. ■ V-8 options to 425 hp.

■ All Ford automatic transmissions have 3 speeds, not 2 as in many competing cars. ■ Fully synchronized manual transmissions—you can even shift down to first without clashing gears.

If all this sounds like a lot for one car to offer... take a test drive. See why more people are buying Fords than ever before in post-war history.

PRESENTATION—Dorus W. Benkelman, (left) owner of a Centennial Farm at 4947 Schwegler Road, Elkland Township, receives a marker and congratulations from Herbert J. Ludlow, local manager in Cass City for Detroit Edison which cooperates with the Michigan Historical Commission in sponsoring the Centennial Farm program. Mr. Benkelman is the grandson of Adam Benkelman who purchased the farm in 1864.

Benkelman Century Farm to be Honored

Four Tuscola county farm families will be honored Thursday, Nov. 12, by Detroit Edison and the Michigan Historical Commission at a Centennial Farm luncheon in Caro.

The guests of honor are descendants of early settlers in the county and the present owners of farms which have remained in the same families for more than 100 years.

Centennial Farmers
The owners are Dorus W. Benkelman, a Cass City resident and owner of a farm at 4947 Schwegler Road in Elkland Township; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Benson, Gilford Township; Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Black, Wisner Township, and Mrs. Alvin B. Collins of Dayton Township.

Taking part in the Centennial Farm ceremonies Thursday will be Harry E. Richards, manager of Edison's Tuscola sales district; Alfred P. Ballweg, county extension director for Michigan State University; Arthur L. Lane, former Caro resident and manager of Southeastern Michigan sales for Edison, and Erwin J. Raven, Edison's farm sales coordinator.

Historic Facts
The Benkelman, Benson and Black farms have borne the same family names during the entire period of family ownership.

Dorus Benkelman is the owner of the Elkland Township farm purchased by his grandfather, Adam Benkelman, in 1864. A native of Boertlinger, Germany, Adam Benkelman came to the United States in 1851 and a decade later moved with his wife and their seven children to Tuscola county. The second owner of the farm was John A. Benkelman, the present owner's father.

Program Established
The Michigan Centennial Farm program was inaugurated in 1943 to honor farm families for the important contributions they and their ancestors have made to the development of agriculture in Michigan and the entire nation. Under the program, which is sponsored by the Michigan Historical Commission in cooperation with Detroit Edison and the Consumers Power Company, each owner is presented with a Centennial Farm certificate and a marker. To date 43 awards have been made in Tuscola county and nearly 2,000 throughout the state.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Outside of politics, the papers was mostly full of nothing last week. But it's the business of newspaper folks to make nothing sound powerful interesting and they do a pretty good job of it.

For instant, I was reading where a feller in New Mexico picked up four hitch hikers and they slugged him and robbed him of $300. The next night he picked up two more and they stole his car. The next two he picks up ought to take him out of circulation. A feller that dumb ain't got no business running loose amongst his fellow-men.

And I see where them English diplomats at the United Nations says we had ought to have another summit conference with Russia "at any cost." I can't see no harm in it. Uncle Sam always pays the cost anyhow. Russia won more at Yalta and them other summit meetings than we've won in all the wars we ever fought.

Then they was this feller from New York named Dr. Milo Brooks that says he has come to the end of the row in knowing where to vaccinate a girl so's it won't show when she grows up. He claims he started years ago on the arm and has now run out of territory that won't be exposed to view in these new swim suits. My advice to the good Doctor is to get 'em young, afore they start walking, and vaccinate 'em on the bottom of the foot. It's beginning to look like that was a woman's last outpost for modesty.

And some electronic company in Chicago has announced they has invented a automatic secretary machine that will answer a letter, type it, address the envelop, seal it and put a stamp on it. The piece didn't say, but I reckon it will also chew gum.

And they was a lot of talk in the papers about this feller Peron might come back to Argentina. If he makes it by Christmas he'll file his application for a loan—and git it. And if he don't make it back till March he'll still git it. Uncle Sam plays Santa Claus the year round.

And I was reading a small item where some woman in Miami killed herself and left a note saying she done it fer "no reason at all." It shows the world has strayed so far from common sense that people was going crazy, just doing anything fer "no reason at all."

But they was one encouraging item in the papers last week. They ain't moved Thanksgiving. Onct more it'll come on the last Thursday in November. Roosevelt moved it around so much a feller never knowed much in advance when he would give thanks fer his blessings. All he knowed fer shore was that come March 15 he would have to pay the Government fer 'em.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Peter McCarty Dies At Nursing Home

Funeral services for Peter McCarty, 91, Argyle, were held Tuesday morning in St. Joseph Catholic Church in Argyle.

Rev. Joseph V. Ryan, pastor of the church, officiated at the service and burial was in the church cemetery.

A well-known contractor, Mr. McCarty died Saturday, Nov. 7, in the Stevens Nursing Home in Cass City after a long illness.

A native of Canada, he came to Sanilac County with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah McCarty, as a young boy.

He married Miss Mable Peter in 1899. The couple lived in Minden before moving to Argyle.

Mr. McCarty built many structures in the Thumb area, including the Ugly Village Hall. He also built in other areas of Michigan.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Oakley W. Best, Dearborn; a sister, Mrs. Ella Landenberg, Snover; two brothers, Jeremiah McCarty, Saginaw, and William McCarty, Los Angeles, Calif.; two grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Court of Appeals Winners Have Work Cut Out for Them

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
New Courts

Nine men elected to newly-created posts in the Nov. 3 election will have their work stacked up when they take office formally at the first of the year.

Even before the election it was estimated there would be 200 cases filed for consideration by the new state Court of Appeals as a matter of right, a new appellate procedure under the 1963 Constitution.

In addition to these criminal cases granted automatic right to appeal, many more cases will come before the new court as it attempts to handle some of the heavy load now burdening and slowing the judicial process in the Supreme Court.

Each voter helped select three judges from three state districts, but the bench members will serve the state as a single unit under court rules set down by the Legislature and Supreme Court this year.

Court sessions will be held in Lansing, Grand Rapids, Marquette and Detroit with three-member panels. The central office will be in Lansing.

Holding monthly sessions nine months of the year, the new Court will handle most appeals except those dealing with the validity of legislative acts, constitutional questions or major legal principles of statewide concern, and "significant public interest" problems involving governmental units.

The Supreme Court reserved for its own deliberation those special categories as well as any appeals sought from decisions of the intermediate court.

With three separate court sessions each month, in effect, it is anticipated appeals can be handled much more rapidly than at present.

The four locations for hearings also were viewed by the Supreme Court as a means of lessening costs of court procedures to litigants.

Internal organization of the Appeals Court has been left largely to the nine judges sitting on it, but the Supreme Court retained for itself final determination in the event the case load gets too heavy for even this new unit to handle.

Flaw in Fee

Michigan motorists would be more uniformly good drivers if each met the same qualifications for licensing, according to Secretary of State James M. Hare.

This may sound like a contradiction of present law which sets standards for motorists, but Hare says other factors currently influence driver licensing.

Hare's proposed answer to the problem of licensing is to put this responsibility into the hands of a state agency.

"A substantial weakness in the system is the political involvement in driver licensing," said Hare. "We unfortunately operate on a fee system and the only way that fees are paid to local law enforcement agencies is if the applicant passes his driver test."

Hare said it appears unwise to continue a system in which the persons examining potential motorists are, in many cases, candidates for political office.

An example of central, uniform licensing procedure is seen in New York state where, Hare said, up to 40 per cent fall on their first try for a license. "Here in Michigan failures are infinitesimal," he said.

Central control over licensing was one of several recommendations made by the governor's special traffic safety commission two months ago.

Hare's office currently administers the production and distribution of driver licenses, but examinations are given and fees collected locally, frequently by politically elected officials.

"Certainly a staff of civil servants performing the same chores would be under less pressures to favor the applicant," said Hare. "In short, under our present system it is almost impossible to keep the driver licensing examinations out of the sphere of political influence."

Costly Care
If you think hospital costs have risen in the past two years in Michigan, your observation is correct.

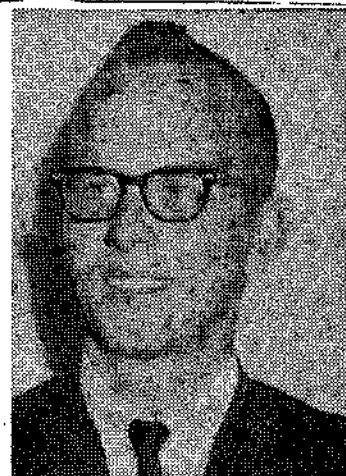

A survey by the Michigan Hospital Association showed 1963 patient care costs in state short-term community hospitals averaged $42.66 per day. This was over $8 above the national average and $2.33 more than the average daily cost in Michigan the previous year.

Rising costs were noted during 1963 in all types of Michigan hospitals, including federal, state and county institutions, the survey showed.

Total patient care expenses last year in the state were $538.2 million, a hike of $28 million over 1962.

The rising costs in the past two years were attributed largely to increased salaries, medical specialization and advanced technology. This evaluation was made by Association Executive Allan Barth.

"Many hospital specialists and technicians today are performing jobs that were unknown 10 years ago but are commonplace today," he said. "At the same time, the public has increasingly turned to hospitals for more health care, adding to the demand for larger staffs."

WSWS Studies Spanish Americans

The Martha Circle of the Woman's Society of World Service of Salem EUB church met Wednesday, Nov. 4, at the church for a Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. C. J. Striffler was honored with a birthday cake.

Mrs. Hugh Connolly gave the lesson on Spanish Americans and thank offering boxes were turned in by members.

Mary Circle Mrs. George Dillman was hostess Thursday evening to the Mary Circle of the WSWS. Mrs. Maurice Joos was cohostess. Fourteen members attended, bringing their thank offering boxes.

Miss Maxine Loney gave the lesson on Spanish Americans. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ted Morgan.

Both circles will send a gift package to the Otterbein Home in December.

IT SEEMS TO ME Armistice Day Was An Honored Holiday

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

Armistice Day was an honored holiday when I was a youngster. The trouble was that as of December 7, 1941, the armistice had not been kept. With the end of World War II there was a change in name in an attempt to be honest. But the name 'Veteran's Day' never really caught on and the parades were not organized. The speeches were few and far between, and the awesome moment of silent prayer at 11:00 a.m., with all traffic stopped, store sales ceased and school schedules calling for a halt and a prayer, has faded away. But you can't really say that even now we have peace. Ask our soldiers in Vietnam. Ask our soldiers on midnight duty listening for sounds of enemy aircraft. Ask our airmen and sailors keeping one eye on the radar as they keep lonely vigils in places they had never even heard of before they were dumped there.

If you took the time on Armistice Day this year for a moment of silence at 11:00 a.m. and prayed for peace and the groups who are paying a debt for us all, in the armed services, in the United Nations, in our great universities and churches. Perhaps this in some small way kept faith with the men who have died that we might live! Or, so it seems to me.

The 1964-65 term of the Supreme Court has begun and has on its docket a record number of cases which involve questions of religion, morals and ethics. Many have to do with civil rights of the colored peoples of our land and a Mrs. Murray, who has made a career out of being an atheist, wants the court to remove the words "under God" from our pledge of allegiance. Birth control is yet another decision asked of our highest human court.

Jim Beard, of culinary fame, was dashing to catch a plane for Paris when he realized he had no French-style small change, so he called his secretary: "Get me 20 dollars worth of francs and meet me at the airport." She showed up with quite a large package. You can buy an awful lot of hot dogs for 20 dollars!

The long-awaited merger of the Methodist and EUB churches now has a time-table outlined. From Nov. 8-17, 1966, both General Conferences will be held in Chicago. It was in that city that the Methodist Church in 1939, came into being as the result of the merger of the Methodist Church, the Methodist Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church. Chicago has become something other than headquarters for the descendants of Al Capone. Or, so it seems to me.

The Rev. Melvin Vender, this column's reference expert on the "Golden Years," recently passed on some tips for the retirement wife, which we, in turn, pass on to you, much abbreviated here:

1. She should be patient with her husband as he looks for something challenging to occupy his time.
2. She should avoid making decisions for the family; it is important that he should feel he is head of the house.
3. She should encourage any interest he may show in a new activity.
4. She should be careful not to have only her women friends around too often, but should make efforts to develop friendships with couples of their own age.

Mr. Vender has submitted a similar list for the "Golden Years" husband.

Research shows that a man shaves two square miles off his face during his life-time! He also cuts off 250 million hairs. Wonder what the figures are for bald-headed, thus intelligent, men.

Holiness Group To Meet in Deford

The Deford Methodist Church will play host to the November meeting of the Tuscola-Huron Holiness Association during which the annual election of officers will be held.

Services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Friday, Nov. 13, and again at 1 p. m., with Rev. J. D. Monti speaking at the morning service and Rev. Don Severance speaking in the afternoon.

Rev. Mrs. Gary Abke will sing at each service and a potluck dinner will be served at noon.
