

Stan Bids Bye-Bye, Rejoins Free Press

In late September, some of us were in what is called "desperate straits."

John Haire, editor of the Chronicle, was ill.

His two-man news gathering and writing team of himself and Dave Kraft was down to one harried Kraft.

This boss, too, was hurting. Having guessed wrong about how long the pressmen were going to press the Free Press-News strike issue, he was jobless - with bills piling up and little ones to feed.

The Chronicle's editor got a jim-dandy of an idea about seeing if there was some hungry reporter down in Detroit shifting about for a typewriter and a story to tell. I was.

At least I think it was a jim-dandy idea.

And I hope that the readers of the Chronicle, having been obliged to put up with the make-do arrangement for the past 10 weeks, think so too.

The strike has ended and the Free Press has put out the call that it wants this wandering laddie back down there where he can be pushed around. So I gotta go.

Newspaper men come and they go. And generally nobody breaks up about the fact if, by odd chance, they hear about it. People mostly just want to know who the replacement is.

I don't expect it to be different here.

I just wanted to say that it has been a lot of fun reporting Cass City doings for the past two months. A lot of fun in a lovely time of the year in fine country.

Which isn't a particularly good way of describing the job to give readers confidence that the facts and figures in the columns were put there by a responsible reporter and not a carefree castaway from the grim business of earning Yankee dollars.

But it's the truth. I also wanted to express my appreciation for the kindness and friendliness with which I was treated by the residents of the village.

In particular, I want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Haire for having me here as their newsmen all these weeks. The Chronicle cares about its news and it has been a good paper to work for.

And thanks, too, to the Chronicle staff for making me feel at home in the office and shop and for putting up with my lousy spelling.

And this includes the Chronicle's hounddog, too. I also want to thank Miss Nellie Bigelow for letting me lodge in her home and for her concern for my welfare these past weeks.

And thanks go to Martin's restaurant for never running out of bean soup, ham, and egg sandwiches and that never-ending second cup of coffee. And the pleasant waitresses who served me.

Now, I'm clearing the territory before the boss asks me why I didn't get the story of "Are there any shoplifters in Cass City?"

I don't believe there could be. It's a nice town. And, if there are, I don't want to know about it.

Joe Dann to Host Rotary Hootenanny

Members of the Cass City Rotary Club promise fun for the whole family when the club presents a Hootenanny at Cass City High School Saturday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m.

The program will star the Thumb's Run Abouts and feature other outstanding acts. Included will be The Cargos, Mona Donnelly and Michigan's banjo king, Billy Richmond.

The all live show will be hosted by Disk Jockey Joe Dann, who will be master of ceremonies.

Authorities pointed out that there will be no advance ticket sale and seats will be sold on a first come, first served basis.

Proceeds from the event will be used to carry on the civic activities of the club, both locally and nationally, President Bob Keating said.

School To Bid Bonds

A long range plan for an addition to the Evergreen Township Unit School moved closer to realization this week as school authorities advertised the sale of $39,000 in general obligation bonds.

The money will be used to finance two additional rooms to the modern eight-grade school. School authorities said that they would advertise for bids for the construction of the addition "as soon as practical after the sale of the bonds."

The sale of the bonds will be Friday, Dec. 18, at the school. Qualified observers say that they expect the issue will probably be sold for interest rates in the 3.5 to 4 per cent bracket.

Last week's raising of the cost of money for banks by the government could result in a higher interest rate on the bonds than would have occurred if the issue had been offered a month ago, bankers feel.

The bonds will be retired serially from 1965 through 1973.

Construction of the addition is scheduled for next summer. One of the rooms will be used immediately as a classroom and the other will be used for storage and a hedge against future expansion of the school population.

NOT EVEN ON CHRISTMAS—Cass City just might have the prettiest "No U Turn" signs in the county following the erection of street decorations Sunday in bitter cold weather. Scattered crews of firemen, Chamber of Commerce members and civic-minded citizens worked through the day to put the decorations up. House Buys Caro Law Practice

Cass City attorney Clint House announced this week that he has purchased the Caro law firm of the late Douglas Williams.

House stated that he will continue to live in Cass City and to operate his Cass City law office. He will discontinue his Sebawing practice.

The Caro office is located directly across from the County Court House. William died suddenly last month.

House will be available in Cass City during the morning hours and will be in Caro during the afternoon, although he remarked that his schedule will be flexible. House moved to Cass City last spring. His wife is village secretary and bookkeeper.

Planning Error Costs Village $500

A goof by the planners and consultant engineers of Cass City's water system will cost the village about $500, it was revealed Tuesday, Nov. 24, at the regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council.

When the new water tower was erected manual and not automatic controls were installed in the new water storage tank. As a result the automatic controls in the old tower are being used and only as much water is going into the new tank as is held in the old one.

For all practical purposes, President Lee Rabideau said, water patrons will notice no difference when the new controls are installed. They have been on order for a month.

At the present time the village is using part of the capacity of the new tank and all of the old tank.

When the new controls are installed the old tank will no longer be used. Next spring the familiar landmark will probably be dismantled, authorities said.

President Rabideau remarked that the error not only got by the village engineers, but also myriad State and Federal inspections during and after the construction.

Other Business

In other business, the council is conferring with the planning commission on six new ordinances that are expected to be fully explained before passage.

The new laws include regulation of trees and truck traffic within the village, as well as control of the traffic flow within the village.

Postal Schedule Won't Affect Town Deliveries

A flurry of local calls following last week's Chronicle story on Post Office hours prompted Assistant Postmaster Ray Lapp to issue a statement explaining that only rural carriers will be an hour late under the new winter schedule.

The story intimated that all mail would be an hour late. Lapp explained that in-town deliveries will continue on the regular schedule.

Election to Name Hospital Board

Eleven Cass City Hospital officers will be elected from a slate of 15 candidates Monday, Dec. 7, in an election slated for 8:00 p.m. at Martin's Restaurant according to Joseph Weiler, hospital administrator.

Candidates are: Alex Wheeler, Mrs. Donald Lorentzen, Leo Ware, Glenn McCloy, Orville Mallory, John Dickinson, William Patch and William O'Dell.

Also on the ballot are: Edward Rusch, Cliff Croft, Dolan Sweeney, Chester Muntz, Leonard Damm and Mrs. Stanley Kirm.

The candidates will be elected for varying terms, starting this year. Previously, board members were elected each year. Those members with the longest service record will be elected to one-year terms this year.

Weiler also explained that all doctors on the board will go off this year.

Local Catholics Hail New Mass

Most Cass City area Catholics greeted the new "vernacular" Mass at St. Pancratius Church as a progressive step forward for the church in the Saginaw Diocese and in the United States, the Rev. Father Arnold Messing, pastor, reported Monday.

English was used in both Masses in Cass City Sunday. One parishioner reported that he felt attending church was now "more rewarding" and another said the English made "me feel so much more a part of things."

Father Messing hailed the change as the beginning of a new era in the worship of God on Sundays that would create better understanding by Catholics attending Mass.

One group in the church that is sure to be pleased with the change are the altar boys who will not now be required to memorize Latin to serve in the church, Father Messing said.

At St. Pancratius, laymen now help in the service. A lector reads the epistle and a commentator helps lead in the response of the Mass.

George Somers has been training in this capacity for six months. Others who are ready at this time for the work include: Ken Maharg, John Oswald, Frank Smentek and Ron Keegan. Other men will become involved in the program at a later date, Father Messing explained.

Not all of the service is in English. Latin will continue to be used for some parts of the Mass, notably the prayers which the priest says silently at the altar during the preparation and consecration of the bread and wine.

English was used for all parts of the service Sunday which was intended for the instruction of the people, or in which the congregation participated.

The vernacular was used in Scripture readings, the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Gloria, which begins "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace to men of good will."

English was used for most of the service of the Word and for much of the Communion service as well.

In the Canon, the Sanctus Benedictus was in English and the remainder in Latin.

No Change Needed

Another change recommended by the Council was anticipated by St. Pancratius when the new church was completed. At the church the altar is placed so that Father Messing can face the congregation and he has been doing so since services started. Traditionally, the priests stood with their backs to the congregation.

Singing by the congregation also started slowly. Father Messing anticipates improved participation in the songs when members of the parish become more used to the change.

Not all of the congregation have wholeheartedly adopted the change as they find the transition difficult after a lifetime of the former Liturgy.

The many Catholics who find the changes pleasant will probably be pleased with a change in the Mass that will start the first Sunday of Lent, Mar. 7, when the Mass will be shortened.

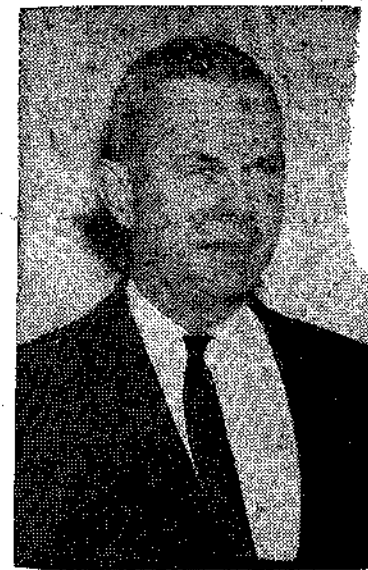

When this change becomes effective the Mass will end when the priest says, "Go, the Mass is ended."

Another change that has been adopted is the amount of fasting necessary before Communion can be received. The time has been reduced to just an hour, Father Messing explained.

Jack Esau is Michigan Week County Chairman

Jack Esau, personnel director for Walbro Corporation in Cass City, has been appointed Tuscola County Chairman for Michigan Week activities in 1965.

His appointment was announced today by Gerald O. Werle, Region 11 Chairman. The region is comprised of the entire Thumb District.

Jack Esau

The annual campaign promoting the state scheduled from May 16-22. The theme in 1965 is "Michigan - Dynamic in World Progress."

Esau is a native of the Cass City area. He served as a member of the Cass City School Board from 1960 to 1963 and was elected President of the Board of Education during the 1962-63 school year. He is a past president of the Cass City Gavel Club and has served on the Elkland Township Community Chest.

Since 1959, Mr. Esau has been affiliated with the Walbro Corporation.

Sentence Three In Circuit Court

A Vassar area woman was given a two-year probationary sentence Friday in a Circuit Court session in Caro. Two county men also appeared in court and were sentenced for probation violations.

Rita P. Hutchisson, 18, was also ordered by Circuit Judge Timothy Quinn to pay a fine of $100, costs of $100 and restitution of $40. She was further ordered to find steady employment and to refrain from drinking. She was sentenced for breaking into the John Putnam residence, Vassar, on May 11, 1964.

James Harvey, 17, Vassar, was given 60 days in jail, to be served week ends and holidays, for a probation violation. He was arrested Nov. 7 as a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. He is on probation for the Jan. 3, 1964, breaking and entry of Cobb's Mobil Service in Millington.

Six months in the county jail was the sentence handed William Churcott, 23, Vassar, for violating his probation. His probationary period, in connection with the Dec. 12, 1963, breaking and entering of the Mayville Community School, was extended six months.

Retailers Prep for Banner Year

Village Decked Out In Yule Boughs

Cass City took on its Christmas dress Sunday as members of the Chamber of Commerce, Elkland Township Fire Department and the village maintenance crew erect main street displays on a biting cold day.

Previous to the erection members of the Chamber had rewired, repainted and repaired the brackets that hold the bells and the work proceeded smoothly Sunday.

The same decorations that were first erected last year were used again this year. Workers spent most of the day Sunday putting them in place.

Christmas Hours

Meanwhile, the Chamber announced special evening store hours for Christmas. Most Cass City stores will be open Friday and Saturday evening, Dec. 4-5. They will be open again the following Friday and Saturday evenings, Dec. 11-12, and every night until Christmas Eve starting Friday, Dec. 18.

Chamber members point to the largest Christmas inventories ever seen in the village. To stimulate local shoppers to visit Cass City stores first the Chamber is offering a free Christmas bonus. A 21-inch color television is the prize.

Tickets will be given to shoppers free of extra charge and a drawing will be held at 12 noon Thursday, Dec. 24.

Free Show

The Chamber has also scheduled free shows for children for the following three Saturdays before Christmas. The first, Dec. 5, will be "Lassie's Great Adventure" in color.

DEATH CAR—George Nowak, 41, Gagetown resident of just three weeks, died instantly when his car, shown here, went out of control on an "S" curve, south of Gagetown, Thursday and turned over. Nowak was one of two persons killed in area accidents during the past week.

Local Crashes Kill Two Men

A Gagetown man and an Otisville man were killed in two Cass City area accidents during the past week and seven more persons were injured in three other area crashes.

Killed in separate accidents were George Nowak, 41, Gagetown, and William D. McGregor, 29, Otisville.

Nowak died instantly Thursday evening at 7:45 when his car left Cedar Run Road on an "S" curve two miles south of Gagetown and overturned.

Investigating officers reported that Nowak was headed south on the Cedar Run Road when he lost control on the curve. Sheriff Hugh Marr, Cass City Patrolman William McKinley and Coroner George Clark investigated.

McGregor died early Tuesday morning on M-53, about eight miles south of Cass City, when his pickup truck collided with the rear of a tractor-trailer rig and then struck a tree.

He died of a fractured skull and severe bleeding of head cuts, according to Sanilac County Coroner Gene Carman.

Sheriff Quincy Hoffman, Sanilac county, said McGregor died of injuries suffered when he hit the tree and not the tractor-trailer.

Willard Prine, Flint, driver of the rig told Hoffman he felt the impact and thought a second trailer had broken loose. He stopped to check and then turned around to find the McGregor truck smashed into a tree.

McGregor's truck traveled 300 feet after the impact. Hoffman stated the victim apparently fell asleep.

Nowak was Tuscola County's 22nd fatality of the year and McGregor was Sanilac's 16th.

Decker Driver

Alvin M. Groombridge, 53, Decker, suffered head and back injuries Monday when his car struck a bridge over the Cass River and rolled into the water.

Groombridge told Sheriff Hoffman he was on his way to work on Germania Road, about five miles northeast of Decker and was attempting to clean his windshield when he hit the bridge.

The car rolled into the river upside down but Groombridge was able to crawl out and get to shore. Concluded on page three.

From the Editor's Corner

Stan Putnam says goodbye in a short article this week written before he returned to Royal Oak and the Free Press last Wednesday afternoon.

His work here was a pleasant surprise. That he is an able writer was expected, but what was unexpected and appreciated was his willingness to tackle any job presented.

Before coming to the Chronicle, Stan had never written a sports story or a headline... he did both while here.

On press day he wrapped papers and during the election stayed up all night in an attempt to bring up-to-date local election results.

We'll miss him and I'm sure you will, too.

Incidentally we don't believe that Cass City will be as bad as Stan painted them in last week's issue of the paper. The Hawks have been a steadily improving ball club since 1962-63 when Jim Champion, Ed Retherford and Jim Knoblet all made the varsity squad as sophomores. They should and probably will be better again this year.

Then, too, we can't see any powerhouse squad in the Thumb B League this season. The title should be a toss-up and it could

150 Greet Loomis at Open House Sunday

About 150 relatives and friends of Howard Loomis attended the open house held Sunday afternoon at the Gagetown school in honor of his retirement as a rural letter carrier. He received many gifts, including a money tree from his patrons.

Nineteen persons attended a dinner in his honor at the Gagetown hotel Saturday evening, including members of the Gagetown post office department. At the dinner he was presented with luggage and various other gifts.

Postmaster Mrs. Mary Margaret Downing of Gagetown presented Mr. Loomis with an honorary certificate of recognition from the U. S. postal department and a personal letter from the Postmaster General.

POCKET REMINDER—Fr. Arnold Messing, St. Pancratius Catholic Church, ponders the mystery surrounding the disappearance of a huge church billboard as he stands in front of its twin, east of Cass City. He is offering a reward to the persons who took the sign if they will return it. The sign was formerly located at the west entry into the village. (Chronicle photo)

Catholic Times Sign Gone, Was Theft "Sign of Times?"

Of course, it just might be a "sign" of the times or perhaps someone needed a handy pocket reminder.

Nevertheless, Fr. Arnold Messing would like his billboard back. He wants it back so bad, he's even prepared to offer a reward.

About two years ago, with considerable blood, sweat and toil, Fr. Messing and some parish helpers erected two large signs, one at each the east and west end of the village, giving St. Pancratius Mass hours.

Quite by coincidence, Fr. Messing discovered the sign missing around Halloween although he discounts it as the work of pranksters because of the size of the sign.

"We had to take them out to their respective sites in a truck," he stated. "I don't see how one or two persons could have taken it."

The value of the signs, of over $100 plus the work involved in erecting them.

Reward

Although the sign is missing, Fr. Messing is sure his reputation is soaring the heights.

Water Color by Former Resident Wins at Show

A former Cass City woman won two prizes for the same work at the annual Saginaw Art Show held Sunday, Nov. 22, at the Saginaw Museum.

Mrs. James Wallace won third place in the water color classification and was also selected for the Virginia Wals Award by Saginaw Decorators as the "most suitable for incorporation in interior decor."

Mrs. Wallace's water color was entitled "Water Lily." Over 300 works by 120 artists were entered in the show. Artists' work must be of a high quality even to be entered for showing.

Also showing a painting, but not a winner was Mrs. James Wallace Cass City.

Services Held for George Nowak, 41

Funeral services for George Nowak, 41, Gagetown, were held Sunday in St. Ann's Catholic Church. Thursday, Nov. 24, in an automobile accident.

Born July 7, 1928, at Inkster, he came to Port Hope 20 years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nowak. He lived 19 years at Bad Axe and had moved to Gagetown just three weeks before the accident.

He was an Evans Products employee.

He married Mrs. Lucille Furness May 28, 1946, at Cass City.

Surviving, besides his wife and parents, are four children: Mrs. Doris Jank, Bad Axe; Mrs. Linda Furness, Whiton; Miss Norma Furness, Tappan, Minn.; and Mrs. Frances, at home; three brothers, Joseph, at Inkster, Colo., and Walter and Stanley, both of Bad Axe; and three sisters, Mrs. Ann Kozak of Cass, Mrs. Helen Latta of Bad Axe and Mrs. Irene Janowski of Gby.

Interment was in Riverside Cemetery, Inkster.

BULEN TALKS Cars

What do you expect when you buy a used car? You expect the dealer to be honest about the history of the car. You know the car is not new, but you don't want the dealer to insist that there has been only one owner when there have been many.

One man drove back to the used car lot where he had purchased a like-new automobile the day previous, and dumped cigar butts, and an empty liquor bottle and two empty beer cans on the dealer's desk.

Startled, the dealer said, "What's all this?"

"Oh," said the car owner, "I'm just returning a few of the items that little old lady left in the car when she owned it!"

At BULEN MOTORS, they do not insist that every used car on the lot was only owned and driven by one careful little old lady. He gives the facts, all the facts, on the history of the automobile you're interested in.

They know at BULEN MOTORS that a used car must be in top condition if it is to sell, and they want to keep their customers satisfied and happy. That's why they make sure that the car you drive away won't drive you away... that you will be a contented customer of BULEN MOTORS for many, many years.

Nearly 200 Bucks Killed in County

Just how many bucks were killed this year in Tuscola county will never be known, but Harold Tubbs, game biologist for Tuscola county, said this week that he estimated the kill at about 200 animals.

Eighty-four persons reported taking bucks in the county, but many were not reported. The department theorized that the kill would have been higher with more tracking snow.

All deer reported were a year and a half old, Tubbs said. They were all fat and healthy. Game men said that probably very few bucks were beyond 2½ years old.

Most reported had nice racks with four to eight points. There was a 10-pointer shot and a 14-point buck brought down. No spikehorns were seen.

Most hunting pressure was on week ends as city nimrods came to the area. Local hunters were out during the evening hours and occasional drives by groups of hunters were reported during the week.

Although up from last year, the kill was less than would have occurred with more favorable weather.

News and Notes from Gagetown

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Walter A. Sattelberg, who spent three years in France, were the guests of his father, Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Sattelberg, for a few days. They left Sunday morning for Wilber, Nebraska, to visit a few days with Mrs. Sattelberg's parents. Wednesday he will leave for Fort Steward, Georgia, for the next few years to complete his Army career.

Friday evening a dinner was held in honor of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Sattelberg at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sattelberg, Gagetown. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Dehmel of Sebewaing, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sattelberg of Unionville, the Rev. Paul Heitmann of Cass City, Dennis Sattelberg from N. Tonawanda, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. August Metzger and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dubs of Pigeon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Sattelberg spent Sunday, Nov. 29, with friends, Pastor and Mrs. William Belk at New Baltimore and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Prell of An Arborville.

SUGAR 'N' SPICE

'n' EVERYTHING NICE

By John Sommers

Every year when the Holiday Season comes, when everyone is being secretive and jolly and we're all wondering if there will be snow for Christmas, I try to bake up besides all the special cookies, pies, cakes and Christmas goodies, one very special baked food that stands out and can be enjoyed all through the season.

This year I really went all out and baked a "FESTIVE FAMILY FAVORITE" that makes cherry good eating no matter when it's served. It's HOLIDAY FRUIT STOLLEN.

Now we've had stollen every year I can remember but not HOLIDAY FRUIT STOLLEN. This one is full of eggs, butter and sugar for richness, candied fruit, raisins and pecans for flavor, lemons and oranges for tang and a light kiss of spice for zest. We're going to put it on its own serving board, ice it lightly, decorate it gaily and have it fresh and ready for you in its own gay Christmas window bag.

This HOLIDAY FRUIT STOLLEN is so good we're featuring it as our special both FRIDAY and SATURDAY. It's HOLIDAY FRUIT STOLLEN.

Close Bad Axe Hospital After 24 Years

The closing of the Bad Axe General Hospital Tuesday has added two doctors to the staff of Hills and Dales General Hospital, according to an announcement made last week by Dick Palm, administrator. One of the doctors is already on the staff at Cass City Hospital.

He is Dr. Eldred C. Holdship, D. O., with offices in Ubyly. He was admitted as a member of the active medical staff.

Joining the courtesy staff at the hospital is Dr. William Davis, D. O., of Kinde.

In a statement regarding the closing of the hospital, authorities said that they "did not think it good policy to spend the money that would be required to furnish the facilities which are now available to the public in the two fine, modern hospitals in nearby adjacent communities."

The corporation will be dissolved as soon as it is legally possible and the hospital assets will be given to deserving, charitable institutions.

During the 24 years of Bad Axe General Hospital's existence, records show that 18,000 bed patients have been admitted and treated.

Mrs. Annabelle Palm, RN, mother of Dick Palm, was the hospital administrator and I. D. McCoy, M.D., formerly of Cass City, was the Chief of Staff.

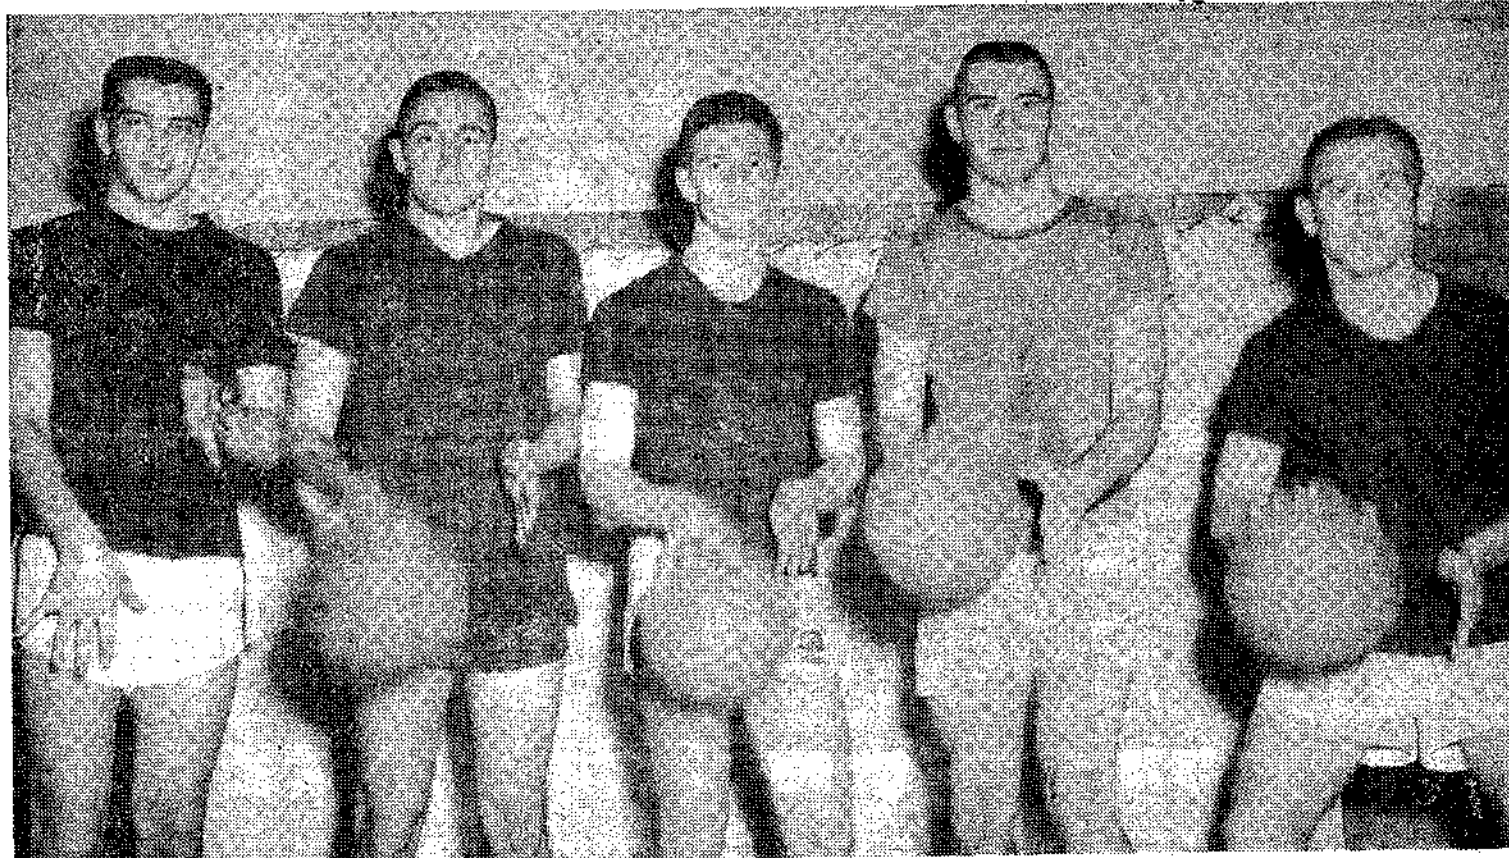

Bob Wood to Head Tyler Lodge, F&AM

Open installation of five Tyler Lodge No. 317, F&AM, officers elected Tuesday night will be held Thursday, Dec. 10, at the hall at 8:15 p.m.

Elected were: Robert Wood, worshipful master; Willard Dolbs, senior warden; Lawrence Guinther, junior warden; Chet Muntz, treasurer, and Basil Wotton, secretary.

Non-elected officers will also be installed at the session. The public is invited to attend.

Experienced men know criticism is a friend of success.

DRIBBLING YOUR way Friday night at Caro will be these five boys whom Coach John Oswald has named as his tentative starting line-up in the season's opener. Cass City's

Hawks Lift Cage Curtain at Caro

Cass City High School lifts the curtain on the 1964-65 cage season Friday at Caro with its best chance for a Thumb B Conference toga since they last annexed the league crown in 1959. The odds are that the current edition won't be as good as the one spearheaded by Bob Holcomb, but neither will the competition.

The Hawks will field a team with shooters as good or better than any in the league... the big question is can they get the ball off the backboards enough to win.

Only two boys in the tentative starting five are six feet. Pacing the rebounders will be Jim Knoblet who makes very good use of his six feet under the boards until he gets over-anxious and commits unnecessary fouls, forcing him from the game.

Coach John Oswald is working with him to overcome the fault and his year's experience on the varsity last year also should start paying dividends this year. The other rebounder is Al Wallace. Wallace is a junior who moved up to the varsity squad during the middle of last season but failed to play enough to win a letter. He shows lots of promise.

Captain Ed Retherford, a three-year veteran, is an excellent rebounder for his height (5 feet, 9 inches) and gets more than his share of rebounds considering that he competes against boys three to six inches taller. Jim Champion, also with three years of varsity experience, will be at one of the guard positions and is counted on to be a top shooter.

The final spot on the starting five goes to Wayne Copeland. Copeland, a junior, came on strong in the last half of the season with the Junior Varsity last year and continued to improve in early practices.

Guards Tested

The Caro Tigers will probably test the ball handling ability of the guards with their pressing ball hawking defense. The Tigers lost heavily by graduation and the Hawks should go into the game as slight favorites to win.

The development of the three seniors on the team is paralleled by the team's record. Two years ago the Hawks were 4-12 and last year they were 10-6.

The player that will be most sorely missed will be Walt Hempton who was a fair shooter and a great rebounder for Cass City.

If Cass City can devise a way to overcome his loss it could be a very interesting cage season for Hawk fans.

Another question mark for the team is the bench strength. The performances of such players as Rick Ruhl, Dave Schember, Larry Groombridge and George Kloc should help determine the final results for Cass City.

Novel Tells of Liberal Justice's Supreme Court

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

How many readers will remember the efforts of President Franklin D. Roosevelt to enlarge ("packing") was the term used by opponents of the attempt) the Supreme Court? Well, Andrew Tully's novel, SUPREME COURT, is the account of an up-to-date attempt to add two more justices to the court. Very readable, this novel takes its readers into the subtleties by which a President of the nation gets favorable legislation passed by the Congress.

The reader sees the tale largely through the eyes of a liberal justice by the name of Francis Copley Dalton. It may be that this novel appeals to me because of a recent visit to Washington, where I attended four years of high school and my first year of college. At any rate, if you are interested in what goes into creating the laws of our land, this novel will give you some hint of what the practicalities of public life are like in Washington.

Mr. Justice Dalton is the most recently appointed judge of the Supreme Court, having been appointed to the most significant bench in the world by President John Alden Hughes. The reader is caught up with Justice Dalton in the procedures of the Supreme Court. Several of the judges are practically strangers even after several months of serving on the Court together. One of these recognizes Justice Dalton's close friendship with President Hughes, and requests the Junior Justice to interpret his letter of resignation to the President so it will not become a political football. Francis is joined by all who know the man, in being horrified at news of an incurable cancer which will end in death in a matter of weeks.

Justice Dalton is a member of the president's team attempting to add more justices to the Supreme Court. An added pressure for the bachelor justice is his love for one of the nation's leading actresses, complicated by the scandalous threats of her soon-to-be divorced husband. The appointment of new justices is the prize offered by the president for cooperation, and is dangled by him just out of reach.

The reader does well to remember that our government is a carefully constructed system of checks and balances: the executive - made up of the president; the judicial - made up by the courts, always involved in the interpretation of the law; and the legislative - being the congress. The dialogue is very well done, both graphic and realistic. I thoroughly enjoyed reading this book and felt that I had learned some things from it.

I have deliberately not mentioned the melodramatic conclusion, one of the best climax situations I have read in years. If Andrew Tully can continue to write so skillfully (he has written CAPITOL HILL and CIA: THE INSIDE STORY) of one of our world's most exciting cities, he will become one of our nation's most popular writers. This book would make an exciting movie, one that would have popular appeal.

SUPREME COURT by Andrew Tully, Simon and Schuster, New York, 1963; available through the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library.

Knoblet Candidate For Athlete of Year Award

Jim Knoblet of Cass City, outstanding tackle-fullback for the Hawks this year, is one of the young men under consideration for an Athlete of Year award presented by the Port Huron Times Herald.

The award is given to the football player who combines the best in athletic ability, scholastic standing and leadership qualities. The contest covers the Blue Water area.

Lynn Sommerfeld of Bad Axe was the first winner of the award last year.

Besides Knoblet, others named for consideration from the Thumb B Conference are: Brian Schroppe, Sandusky High center; Oscar Chappel, Marlette High tackle, and Gary Peckham, Bad Axe back.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

A regular meeting of the Council of the Village of Cass City was held on November 24, 1964, at 7:00 o'clock p.m. at the Municipal Bldg. All members were present.

The minutes of the October regular meeting and special meeting were read and approved as read.

Pump controls needed to revise the present control system for the two well pumps to automatic operation based on the water levels in the new elevated tank have been ordered.

Mr. Robert Keating requested that Mr. Don Shagena be allowed to build a house on unsubdivided land owned by Keating within the village limits which at present is not equipped with water or sewer facilities. The council will meet with the Planning Commission on this petition.

Drafts of a tree ordinance and an ordinance regulating truck traffic within the village were presented. The truck ordinance was drawn for the purpose of eliminating truck traffic in predominantly residential areas and restricting their use to major streets. The council will meet with the Planning Commission at a later date to review these ordinances.

The committee investigating employee retirement plans reported no progress.

Chief Palmtree advised the council that the walkie-talkie ordered has been delivered on a 30-day trial period.

Chief Palmtree advised the council that there is a need for a new police car. The council requested that he look further into the matter.

President Rabideau suggested that the various committees prepare their 1965 budget.

Motion made by Seals and seconded by Freiburger that bills OK'd by the Finance Committee be paid. Yea-6. Nay-0. Motion carried.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Althaver and seconded by Root that the meeting be adjourned.

Mrs. Hurry Elected Auxiliary President

Mrs. Neil Hurry was elected president of the Hills and Dales Women's Auxiliary at a regular meeting in the hospital meeting room Monday, Nov. 23.

Also elected at that time were Mrs. Frederick B. Auten, president-elect, and Mrs. H. T. Donahue, vice-president.

An invitation to Auxiliary members from Hospital employees inviting them to a Christmas tea was read.

The tea will be held in the hospital meeting room from 2 to 4 p.m. December 11.

As is customary, there will be no meeting of the Auxiliary in December.

Plans are being made for the membership and birthday tea to be held at the hospital in January before the regular Jan. 25 meeting, featuring installation of new officers, is held.

Catholic Family Service Considers Cass City Office

Richard Beachnau, executive director of Catholic Family Service in Bad Axe, said this week that consideration is being given to the establishment of a part-time office in several Thumb communities. One of the locations suggested is Cass City. Others are Argyle, Sandusky and Caro. Authorities would visit a branch office one or two days a week, Beachnau explained.

In a recent meeting, officers were elected. They include: Clifford Moore, Caro, president; Dr. Arnold F. Hentschel, Harbor Beach, vice-president, and Mrs. Beth Decker, Deckerville, secretary.

One of the aims of the Service is the formation of a Tri-County Alcoholism Committee with the aid of the State Board of Alcoholism.

The case load for the Society continues to increase, Beachnau said. Marital problems are still numerous but parent-child relations constitute many of the new cases.

Dr. and Mrs. E. Ray Willson

A reception honoring Dr. and Mrs. E. Ray Willson will be held in the First Methodist Church, Caro, in observance of their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, Dec. 6, from two to five p.m. Plans and arrangements will be under the direction of the Priscilla Circle of the WSCS and the pastor, the Rev. Paul Cargo.

Dr. Willson was born at Cedar Springs, Ontario, and Mrs. Willson, the former Nellie Marie Burse, was born in Tuscola county. They were married by the late Rev. Conger Hathaway at Caro. Their son, Edward Lewis, died in 1928 at the age of 12.

Rev. Willson was ordained a Methodist Protestant Clergyman in 1917 and served the following churches in Tuscola and Huron counties: Wells, Gagetown-Brookfield and Sutton-Remington-Sunshine before being elected president of the Methodist Protestant Church of Michigan.

Adrian College conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity on Rev. Willson in 1936.

Dr. Willson was appointed pastor of the First Methodist Church, Caro, in 1941 and remained in Caro for five years. During that time the Sherman Street Methodist Protestant Church and the First Methodist Episcopal Church united to form the present First Methodist Church.

After leaving Caro, he served as pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, Bay City, and then for six years was superintendent of the Port Huron District of the Detroit Conference. Their last pastorate was at Mount Hope Methodist, Detroit.

Retirement finds them at their home, where they have lived so long, 1489 N. Hurds Corner Road, Cass City, and at Port Richey, Florida, in the winter.

The Willsons extend an invitation to all their friends to meet with them at the reception. A special invitation is extended to all the couples married by Dr. Willson to meet with them in a special wedding commemorative service in the church parlors at 3 p.m. Bishop Marshall R. Reed will be the chief speaker at this service.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was having one of them "Round Table" discussions, the kind that goes round in circles and was invented by politicians trying to make some-pun solid out of hot air.

Ed Doolittle said he had saw in the papers where they was already getting started fixing up things in Washington fer swearing in President Johnson on January 20. He was of the opinion they was running a little late with the preparations. Nowadays, claimed Ed, everybody keeps about six months ahead of the calendar. Per instant, he said his old lady had took down her Fourth of July flag on the mantelboard the week afore Thanksgiving and put up her Christmas decorations. Ed allowed as how them Government planners should have got started on this matter right after the Democratic convention.

Zeke Grubb reported he had saw a piece in the papers where it would cost about $215,000 to set up the grandstands and git everything right fer the inogera-tion. According to Zeke, the piece said when President Pierce was sworn in back in 1853 it didn't cost but $322 to git ready fer the ceremony. From $322 back in 1853 to $215,000 in 1965 is about par fer the Washington course and all the fellers was shore the taxpayers was anxious to keep our spending at par. I can recollect reporting when I was a boy that John Quincy Adams spent four years in the White House and didn't have but one suit of clothes and one hat all the time he was there. I reckon our modern Presidents keeps more clothes than that in their desk drawer.

The fellers was speaking their regrets about old Krushy gitting throwed out of the lodge in Moscow. Bug Hookum was lamenting it took him 10 years to learn how to per-nounce his name and just when he was gitting where he could rattle it off real good when company come, they git a feller nobody could per-nounce.

Clem Webster was of the opinion it would be a waste of time trying to git acquainted with this new feller, that he wouldn't be setting at the head table long enough fer it to be worth while.

Josh Clodhopper reported he had heard one of them commentators from Washington say on radio we might have to "stabilize" prices again pritty soon. We been "adjusting" 'em up now fer several years and I reckon they was going to "stabilize" 'em up now fer a spell. Same difference.

But the feller that runs the store come up with the saddest news of the evening. He reported he had saw in the papers where a big horseshoe Tournament in Florida was won by a woman. It was agreed by all the fellers that America has now crossed the Last Frontier.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Figures never lie, but some get snarled up in statistics.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Color of His Size Shouldn't Matter

By Dave Kraft

I was sitting in the living room the other night reciting some nursery rhymes to Sally when I was hit by the thought that so many of these things are incomplete.

There is so much unsaid about the end results... so unfinished. Here's what I mean. Remember Jack be nimble? What did he say after he jumped over the candlestick? "Excuse me, could you tell me where the fire extinguisher is?"

What did the giant say after Jack cut down the bean stalk and he fell to earth? "Boy, that smarts!"

Speaking of Jack and the Beanstalk, I've decided to discontinue telling my daughter that particular story. It could prove to be a bad influence.

It starts off all right. We have Jack and his mother living in a poverty pocket, not even knowing where their next Federal aid is coming from.

Mom sends Jack to the Michigan Livestock Exchange to dump a cow which had just been wounded by some city hunter in deer season.

Right here, we get the picture that Jack may be one brick short of a load because there's an NFO holding action on and not only do they talk him out of taking his cow into the yard, they convince him that he should trade it for a sack of beans.

Jack takes the beans home and mom flips her lid. She displays acute hypersensitivities or something equally psychotic and flings them out the window... the beans, that is.

During the night, for the sake of speeding up the story, the beans sprout and a mammoth beanstalk grows up into the cumulus (clouds).

Jack wakes up in the a. m. and, never one to leave well enough alone, he climbs up the beanstalk, right through the clouds. (cumulus).

There, on the first strata, he finds a castle... a BIG castle, in which, as we all know, lives a giant. Now, contrary to all the books, I've never heard one bad thing this particular giant did. But giants have all been painted black so he has to be the villain. Frankly, I believe that regardless of the color of his size, you should judge a person on his deeds.

But I digress. Jack walks up to the door and without so much as a by your leave, barges in. Now right here, they could get him for breaking and entering. But the worst is yet to come. The giant is contentedly counting his money, which he gets from cutting in sections the golden eggs laid by his golden egg-laying chicken. He is also listening to his scantily-clad, hi-fi stereo harp.

This is all very fatiguing and the giant falls asleep. Jack is seized by an over-whelming compulsion and he grabs up the money, the hen and the harp. The giant wakes up and we set off on a B-grade movie chase. Jack runs back to the beanstalk and slides down with the giant in hot pursuit. Jack reaches the bottom and grabs up an ax which some prop man has left handy and chops down the stalk.

Of course the giant falls and is killed. In just a few short minutes, our boy has committed a B&E, larceny and murder. Jack gets out of it by claiming self-defense and alleging that the giant had really stolen the money, hen and harp from his father a long time ago.

And who's to say different. The giant's dead, the money won't talk, the hen's a dumb cluck and the harp just keeps harping about cold hands.

Now, I ask you... is that the kind of stuff you want your kids growing up on?

Ever since they started showing movies on Saturday night, I've wanted to say this and now, with the coming of the movie, "Pajama Party," I can.

In "Pajama Party," according to recent television ballyhoo, the girls and the boys are all dressed up in their pajamas at a party. Usually, this type of party turns into a "Saturday move at the nighties."

Some people make a specialty of cultivating bad habits.

The poorest man living is one who wastes his time and neglects his opportunities.

Legislative Act Frustrates
School District Officials

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Kids Hurt
School district officials
throughout the state are frustrated that their efforts to meet local educational needs were stalemate by a 1964 legislative act.

The local property tax is no longer adequate to provide revenue for the schools along with other community services, they say, and voters vent their ire on school millage proposals because of high taxes at all levels.

This year the Legislature adopted a law declaring a moratorium on all local taxes except the city income levy.

Now, local school board members are hoping a legislative committee will recommend to the 1965 session authorization for school districts to levy excise taxes rather than relying almost totally on the property tax revenues.

The committee headed by Rep.
James N. Folks, R-Horton, has been told school districts suffer heavily in nearly every extra millage and school bonding proposition. Voters defeat such questions because they have no direct control over other taxes.

School districts now get part of the state sales tax, cigarette and liquor tax collections in addition to the local property assessments.
A number of school officials feel they now should be allowed to impose excise taxes on items such as gasoline, cigarettes, intangibles, incomes or sales.

Other education-oriented spokesmen contend additional funds for local school operations should come from a bigger cut in existing or new state revenues.

"Education in Michigan needs a great deal more money and the only adequate way to meet this need is through a state income tax, significant portion of which should go back to the schools," says Henry Linne, Grosse Pointe president of the Michigan Federation of Teachers.

With a substantial surplus in the treasury from the last fiscal year, it is certain these divergent views among school people will be strongly represented in lobbying attempts next year to get a bigger share of state funds available.

Gassy Air

Much has been heard in Michigan about the smog problems existing on the West Coast, largely blamed on Michigan-made automobiles.

Although the blame is more dispersed among several industries, some areas of Michigan also have expressed deep concern with the general problem of air pollution. Much less has been heard to date about this problem in Michigan, however.

Specific authority to control air pollution of any origin has rested solely at the local level for many years, although the State Health Department has worked with community officials on projects to eliminate air pollution.

Next year, however, Gov. George Romney has indicated he will propose to the Legislature the first state-wide regulatory legislation and appropriation for an air pollution control program.

By proposing the creation of an air pollution section within the Health Department, Romney hopes the state will qualify for some federal funds under the new Federal Clean Air Act.

Romney may attempt to get a state appropriation which would give the new working unit about $80,000 in combined state and federal monies for the initial program.

The governor said the start of the program "will be a major forward step toward assuring the people of Michigan that the air we breathe is as free from contamination as modern science and vigorous education and enforcement can make possible."

Machine Works

Voter rejection by a wide margin of the so-called Massachusetts ballot enacted by the 1964 Legislature came as a big surprise to many, including some Democrats in high position.

Democrats organized the petition drive which led to ballot placement of the controversial measure.

It appeared to be a well organized petition campaign and resulted in the filing of more signatures than ever before gathered on a referendum question.

The opposition movement then seemed to disappear. Little publicity was directed to urge a "no" vote on the state proposal.

One state elections official, a nonpartisan civil servant, said he was very surprised that the vote was so decisive. His reaction was based largely on the fact that the wording on such proposals is often unclear to many voters and rarely has such a controversial question been decided without an extensive campaign by proponents or opponents of it.

Another state officer elected on the Democratic ticket expressed similar surprise at the outcome of the Massachusetts ballot question.

"We were very lucky on this one for some reason," he said.
"Another time using as little campaign effort as was exerted after the petition drive we might not be so fortunate," he said.

Some call it luck, but it's usually the man with the most push who gets the most pull.

RLDS Women—

The RLDS Women's Department met Thursday afternoon,
Nov. 19, at the home of Mrs.
Howard Gregg, Snover, with Mrs. Maude Holcomb as co-hostess.

The November theme was
"The Everlasting Gospel is the Hope of Man" and Mrs. James Doerr was in charge of the worship service. Roll call was a Thanksgiving custom.

A special Thanksgiving lesson was presented by Mrs. Wilfred Turner. Mrs. Doerr reported on Maria Puoluhau. Piltz from "23 Women of the Restoration." The librarian reported two more books, "The Crown and the Cross" and "Stories to Remember," have been added to the reading circle library.

The newly published women's handbook will be studied in 1965.

Annual election of officers was

SAY Merry Christmas

THE MODERN WAY GIVE ELECTRICAL GIFTS...

You give more than just an attractively designed piece of shiny porcelain or gleaming metal, more than a motor or heating unit that's dependable and worry-free—you actually give comfort, greater freedom from work and routine, more time for doing the things that really matter.

Especially when you give a flameless electric clothes dryer or a cool cooking, clean and modern looking electric range.

You even give, with most electric appliances, a repair policy for use by Edison customers. Detroit Edison repairs many types of electric appliances at only the cost of parts and some for no charge at all.

See your appliance dealer and make this Christmas last for years.

Rienstras Complete Chi Sigma Pledge

Dean and Dennis Rienstra, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rienstra of Cass City, have completed the pledge program of Chi Sigma Social Fraternity of Central Michigan University and will be initiated Dec. 6 in the University Center.

During their pledging, Dean and Dennis were outstanding as starting members of Chi Sigma's basketball team. Dean was pledge class vice-president.

Nellie Maloney, 89 Succumbs Monday

Final rites were held Tuesday evening at Little's Funeral Home for Mrs. Nellie Maloney, 89, who died Monday at Stevens' Nursing Home after a lengthy illness of six years. She had been a patient for 5½ years.

Mrs. Maloney was born in Allegan county, Oct. 17, 1875, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry and Sophia Sebright. She married John M. Maloney in Kalamazoo April 24, 1899, and the couple lived at Hopkins following their marriage.

Mr. Maloney died Mar. 3, 1959.

Surviving are: two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Bishop of Cass City and Miss Celestine Maloney, Detroit; a son, James L. of Europe; a half sister, Mrs. Grace Terrio of Glen Ellyn, Ill.; a grandchild and two great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Poplar Hill Cemetery at Hopkins Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. James Braid officiated at the service in Cass City.

Aggressiveness will carry a man far in this life, but he needs common sense for ballast.

YFC to Present Christmas Fantasy

Youth for Christ presents "Christmas Fantasy" Sunday, December 6, at Marlette High School at 8:00 p.m.

Hear "White Christmas," "Silver Bells," plus a short sacred cantata, "The Manger King" by Randolph Johnson, given by the Thumb and Tuscola Teen Chorale, and the "Ensemble." Also hear the Ambassadors Quartet, the High Notes and Melody Sings from Port Huron, and the King's Messengers from Caro.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Five Years Ago

Bob Wright, pile driving half-back for the Cass City Red Hawks champion grid team, was named to the second team of class "B" all-state team as picked by the Detroit Free Press.

Mrs. Grant Glaspi announced that she plans to open a new business, to be known as Jerri's Jiffy Wash, at 2281 West Main Street, sometime prior to the holidays.

The Cass City Livestock Club will have entries in all three divisions of the Detroit Junior Livestock Show next week. The club has won more steer and lamb championships at the show than any other club or community.

Douglas Avery, Bette Lou Bond, Geraldine Sbresny and Tom Jones, all of Cass City, will be among the 100 students to play in the District III, Michigan School Band and Orchestra concert in Caro Saturday.

David Sweeney Jr., 19, of Ubyl bagged a trophy sized buck in the waning hours of the season Monday when he shot a 10-pointer south of Ubyl. Dressed, the buck weighed 200 pounds.

Speaking at a meeting of the Woman's Study Club, Mrs. E. Schwaderer gave a report on a book titled "Profiles in Courage" by Senator John F. Kennedy.

Danny Brown asked for a bowling set for Christmas.

Rev. E. J. Rossow, who has been serving as pastor of the Lutheran Church for the past two years, was honored at a farewell family night held in the Church Sunday night.

Ten Years Ago

T. Barnes Construction Company of Cass City was one of 49 highway and bridge contractors of Michigan to receive awards for outstanding safety records in 1954.

Because no Christmas trees are yet available in the village, the Chamber of Commerce announced this week that the free tree spraying program has been postponed.

Some 75 persons went to work last Sunday to set up the village's Christmas displays. The work-day opened with a breakfast at the high school.

Roger Parker was among a number of boys to receive his Bobcat Pin, the first step in cub scouting.

M. C. McLellan resigned Tuesday from the Cass City Village Council after serving the village for eight years. He said he was moving from the village.

Donald Wurm, who bagged a bear earlier in the season, returned to the woods this week and shot a four-point buck near Grayling.

John Marshall was named Elkland township captain for the annual Farm Bureau drive.

Ronnie Pringle wants a space-ray gun very badly for Christmas.

Jerry Hicks and his wife, of Deford, received minor injuries in an auto accident Monday south of Cass City on Cemetery Road.

The Cass City Council of Churches re-elected all incumbents for 1955. Officers include Audley Rawson, president; Robert Hunter, vice-president; Ann Schuckert, secretary, and Stanley Kirm, treasurer.

Miss Barbara Gross will play the part of Mary, and Mr. Weisenbaugh that of Joseph in the coming Cass City Christmas pageant.

Greenwood 4-H Club Elects Officers

The Greenwood 4-H Club met at the home of Rosemary McCallum Nov. 24. The election of officers for the coming year was held as follows: president - Joanne Ellicott, Vice-president - Rosemary McCallum, Secretary - Jackie Martin, Treasurer - Norma Ellicott, Recreation leaders - Judy Heck and Jeanne Cummings and Reporters - Kathy Martin and Kathy Olsow.

Lunch was served by the hosts. The next meeting will be held at Rosalyn Schweitzer's Dec. 8 for a Christmas party with caroling and a gift exchange.

Class to Send Missionary Gift

A Christmas party and a New Year's Eve watchnight service were discussed when the Philathea class of the Baptist church met Tuesday night, Nov. 24, at the Stan Guinther home.

Twenty-one members were present. Veron Gingrich led the devotions and Mrs. Clyde Wells directed the recreation. The group voted to send a gift of money to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evans, missionaries, for Christmas.

Members of the class will meet at the Elwyn Helwig home Dec. 22 and go caroling before the party. There will be a grab bag gift exchange and each member is to bring a grocery item to be given to a needy family.

Appointed to assist Pastor Richard Canfield in planning the New Year's Eve service were Ferris Ware, Sheldon Peck, Mrs. Dick Shaw and Mrs. Stan Guinther.

Take time to think—and above all try to reason right.

Hello Everyone,
How are all of you back in the snowflakes? It is supposed to get up in the 80's here today.
We intended to come in and have our subscription renewed before we left but there are always so many last-minute things to look after that it was overlooked.

We sure hope all of you have a very merry Christmas and are all well.
I am enclosing a check to renew the paper and want to have it sent down here until we let you know when we get home again. If you have the last week's issue there we would like to have it sent with this one. We hate to miss out on all that happens in the home town.
Sincerely
Elmer and Jane Fuerster

Slate Annual DHIA Meeting in Caro

Tuscola county dairymen, members of the County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, are invited to attend the annual meeting of the association Thursday, Dec. 10, at the 4-H Building, Fairgrounds, Caro, according to Ronald Hampshire of Deford, association president.

The meeting will start with a ham dinner served by the 4-H Mothers' Club at 12 noon.

In addition to the regular association business, an interesting program has been arranged. The meeting is open to any interested dairyman, said Hampshire.

Other officers and directors are: Lloyd Walz, Vassar, vice-president; Mrs. Harold Blaylock, secretary and treasurer, Vassar, and directors - Werner List of Vassar, Grover Laurie, Clarence Merchant and Don Koepfgen, all of Cass City, Frank Satchell of Caro, Henry Hohman of Vassar, Jim Tuckey of Cass City and Leon Keinath of Millington.

A new leaf is usually the same one given another turn.

Early morning risers usually rise above their troubles.

Final Rites Held For John Lewicki, Decker

Funeral services were held last Wednesday, Nov. 25, for John Lewicki, 78, of Decker, who died on Nov. 23 in the Cass City Hospital.

The services were held in St. Michael Catholic Church, Wilmet, with Rev. Raymond Pilarski officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Born in Poland, Mr. Lewicki came to the United States in 1912.

He was married in Detroit in 1921 and he and his wife came to Decker in 1929.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bernice Lewicki; two sons, Ed Lewicki of Kingston and Stanley Lewicki of Decker; a stepson, Joseph Hardy of Detroit, and four daughters, Mrs. Sophie Wesolowski of Decker, Mrs. Helen Piana of Madison Heights and Mrs. Wanda Schram of Detroit.

He is also survived by 27 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

As a general rule most any man is unreliable when talking about his side of the case.

People find that no search warrant is necessary in looking for trouble or finding fault.

Buck Luck

Lyle Deneen of St. Louis shot a 140-lb., 5-point buck near Turner, Mich., Nov. 29.

Ed Leboda of Cass City shot an eight-point buck Nov. 16 by Rapid River.

Green Hanging Slated Sunday by Methodist Church

All members and friends of Cass City Methodist Church and Church School are invited to share in the traditional Hanging of the Greens Sunday afternoon from 3:00-7:00.

The first two hours will be spent in decorating the church. Pat Toner, the general chairman, has made the following assignments: Sanctuary, Kouples' Klub; Lounge, Senior High MYF and Sunday School Class; Entrance and Narthex, Junior High MYF and Sunday School Class; Fellowship Hall, Woman's Society, and Sunday School classrooms, by their respective classes.

At 5:00 everyone will gather in the sanctuary for a Christmas Vesper service. There will be a carol sing, special music by the junior choir and trio consisting of Ruth Hoffman, Sue Walker and Judy Braid. The filmstrip, "Christmas With Carol and Peter," will be shown and a special "White Gift offering" will be taken for the work of Methodist Children's Village in Detroit.

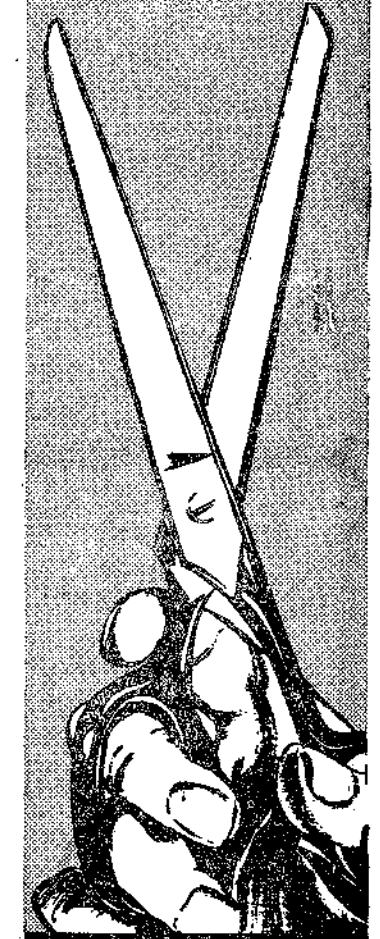

At 6:00 the families will gather in Fellowship Hall for supper.
