

NEW YEAR GREETINGS TO ALL

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 58, NUMBER 38

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1964

SIXTEEN PAGES

Name Year's Top 10 Stories

What's your opinion of the top local stories of 1964? See if you agree with the Chronicle staff who have picked the following 10 events as being of top interest to the community.

Probably the top story, in local interest, for the year was the removal of trees on Leach and West streets. What would seem to be a relatively unimportant issue assumed major proportions because:

It caused a sticker candidate for council and split the governing body.

It divided the community into factions and its effects are still being felt.

One Man, One Vote
For long term effect, undoubtedly the top story was the apportionment of the county. The one man, one vote plan split the county and gave added power to the Democrats, never before seen in Tuscola County or in Michigan.

Sign Crouse
Of top interest was the signing of Donald Crouse, superintendent of Cass City Schools. His hiring capped many months of searching and marked the first change in the top administration in over two decades.

Explosion
An explosion, still unexplained, wrecked the home owned by Mrs. Mack Little. The blast caved in the home and severely injured Donald Finkbeiner. Mrs. Little was also injured. The injuries aroused public sympathy for Finkbeiner and a campaign was launched to raise funds to help him.

Alley Program
Resurfacing of the alleys adjacent to the business district has been a point of contention in the village for several years. The project provided a continuing news story over several months. Some preliminary work has been completed and it looks as if the alleys will be prominent in the news again in 1965.

New School
A Board of Education decision to push for a much-needed new high school developed into a long hard job for the seven-member board and Supt. Don Crouse. After much discussion, Warren Holmes, Lansing architectural firm, was chosen to work on the project, and after even more discussion and special meetings, a parcel of land north of the existing school and owned by Dr. H. T. Donahue, was selected as the site for the proposed school.

Annexation and sidewalk problems developed but were alleviated. Still facing the board are plans for the proposed school and a vote sometime this coming spring.

NFO
Farmer-members of the militant National Farmers Organization (NFO) began picketing local livestock auction yards in August in an attempt to raise livestock prices.

Before the demonstrations subsided in October, tempers flared at the yards and police were called in to keep order. Demonstrators and police clashed briefly in one exchange at the Michigan Livestock Yard in Cass City and two farmers died in a Wisconsin mishap.

After it was all over, the NFO reported an increase in membership and livestock began to pour back into the yards. Meat prices were largely unaffected.

Walbro
In a special Chronicle issue in August, Walbro Corporation celebrated its 10th anniversary. From a fledgling one-unit firm, the company has grown into a five-division complex.

From its beginning in 1954, the firm set the pace for industrial development in Cass City and is currently the second largest employer in a growing industrial center.

Centennial
One of the major stories of 1964 is about an event that hasn't happened yet - the 1965 Cass City Area Centennial.

In the melting pot since May, 1963, the centennial got under way when the Centennial Committee ground into gear in October of this year by hiring the John Rogers Company of Ohio and setting a budget of over $13,000 for the July event.

Some concern cropped up over the $5,000-plus salary the Rogers Company is to receive, but a vote of confidence ratified the project and committees were named.

From the Editor's Corner

It's the time of year when it's traditional to extend best wishes for the coming 12 months. We've got a few wishes to pass along to members of the community:

To the Village Council . . . a dump site that would be easy to get to, cheap to buy, cheap to operate and pleasant to everyone.

To the Main Street merchants . . . alleys in back of their stores that are well drained, hard surfaced and big enough for some parking.

To members of the school board . . . a new school site, a new school and, most of all, new sidewalks running to the property that everybody likes.

To the Chamber of Commerce . . . a membership of 150 all working and all paying dues without urging.

To Saginaw Bay property owners . . . more rain, more water, less beach.

To area farmers . . . $2.50 wheat.

To area families . . . 10¢ bread.

To area high school graduates . . . a new Community College.

To their parents . . . money to send them.

To Coach John Oswald . . . a six foot, six inch top rebounder for his basketball team.

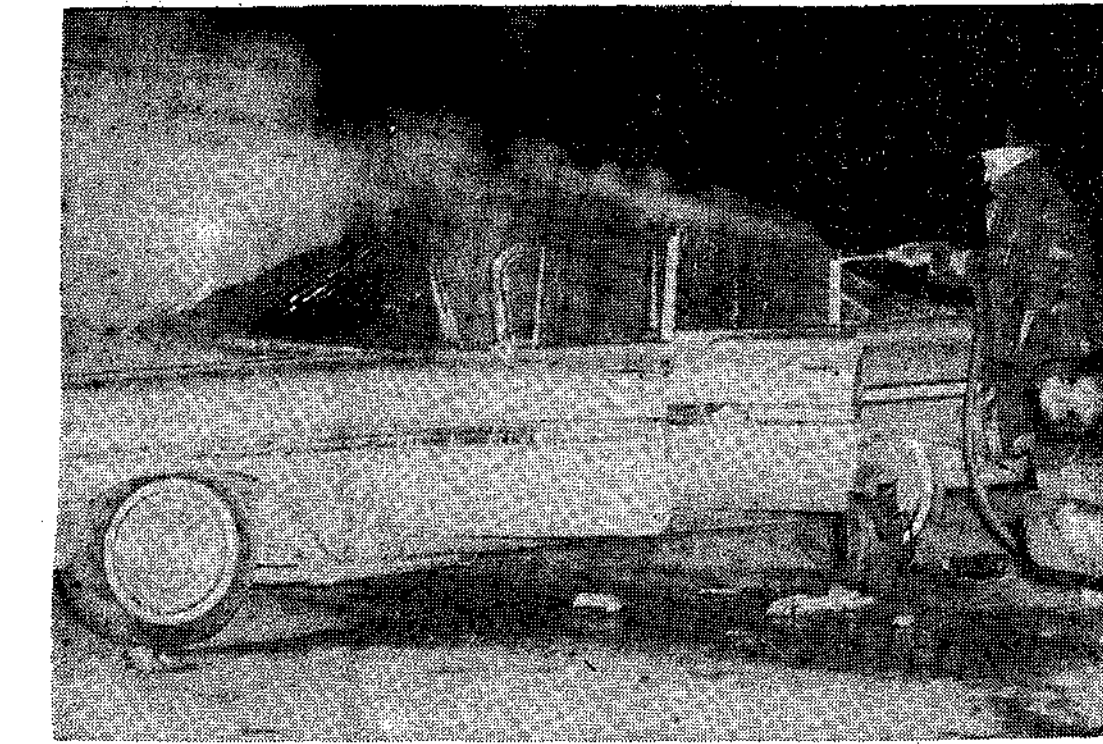

To Coach Orlie Lemanski . . . a John Unitas type quarterback and a line averaging 220 pounds.

To myself and the Chronicle staff . . . a year without any of those embarrassing errors.

Further Arnold Messing has a bunch that airplanes breaking the sonic boom are causing him trouble with his lights. In St. Pancratius Church there are several spotlights that suspend from the ceiling by brackets that are adjustable so the light can be focused as desired.

When the planes break the sound barrier the building shakes and the lights fall out of adjustment . . . necessitating a call to the electrician.

When he was telling us what happened we couldn't help wondering what the property owners in Osceola go through every day with the giant air base virtually at the city limits. Maybe they just don't have spotlights?

CAUSE UNKNOWN—Fast work by Cass City firemen doused this car fire Monday night at General Cable's parking lot but it was still a total loss. The car belonged to Ruth Jeffrey, Kingston, a factory employee. Fireman Eldon Stoutenburg sprays the rear seat to keep the fire from spreading to the car's gas tank. (Chronicle photo)

Call Caro Sheriff To Report Fire

Cass City-Elkland township Fire Chief Nelson Willy issued a reminder to area residents this week that the Sheriff's department in Caro answers the Cass City fire phone and that fire reports are made through that office.

Willy's comment came after a fire destroyed a car in the General Cable parking lot Tuesday night.

He charged that the car fire got out of control because the party calling the fire department hung up each time he reached the Sheriff's office.

Ruth Jeffrey, Kingston, a Cable employee, was the owner of the car destroyed in the blaze.

Cause of the fire was undetermined at press time.

Set Baby Contest

Some lucky area baby, the first born in 1965, will win a host of prizes offered by 13 Cass City merchants in a new "First Baby Contest."

Prizes range from cash to merchandise. For complete details, see advertisement on page four, this issue.

Minor Accidents Mar Holidays

A rash of minor accidents marred the holidays in the Cass City area but the only serious Cass City casualty was a deer which lost a battle with a passing motorist.

Tuscola county police officials investigated a total of six accidents but the only injury occurred when Ronald Heck, 17, of Elkton failed to notice the deer, and at the Muntz Road and Cemetery Road intersection, north of Cass City.

Heck suffered cuts and bruises as he left the road and crashed into a sign. His car was declared a total wreck. The accident occurred Dec. 26.

A car driven by Luke D. Yoder crashed into a Black Angus bull owned by Arlington Hoffman of Cass City at 9:30 p. m. Sunday evening.

The accident occurred on Cemetery Road, about a half mile north of Cass City Sunday, Dec. 20. The bull wandered onto the road and Yoder reported that it was very hard to see at night.

Cass City Police Chief Carl Palmateer investigated the accident. The bull was uninjured but the right front fender of the Yoder car was damaged.

Thomas K. Arnold, 27, of Cass City escaped injury Monday afternoon when he lost control of his car after a front tie rod broke off when he hit a bump in the road.

The left front of the Arnold car was damaged and the car was removed by wrecker.

Edwin James Morley, 22, of Bad Axe suffered damage to the right side of his car when a deer jumped from between two cars onto M-81, about 2 1/2 miles east of Cass City Thursday.

The conservation department was called to remove the deer.

A minor property damage accident involving a Cass City driver occurred on M-81, just east of Caro, Sunday.

Autos driven by William Fowler, 18, of Mayville and Edward A. Spencer, 26, of Cass City collided. Fowler missed his driveway and had stopped and was attempting to turn around as Spencer was attempting to pass.

The left rear fender of Fowler's car and the right door of the Spencer car were damaged.

Cars of Michael Lee Ranzel, 18, of Snover and Ward Raymond Hewitt, 50, collided Sunday at the Deckerville Road bridge in Ellington township.

Both cars were attempting to use the narrow bridge at the same time. The left side of the Ranzel car and the left front of the Hewitt car were damaged. There were no injuries.

Palmateer investigated two minor accidents Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 21-22.

Monday Howard Richmond backed from the curb on Main Street and struck the right rear fender of a car operated by Leslie Searis, 16. Searis had stopped for the red traffic signal.

Tuesday, S. C. Striffler, 83, of Cass City veered his auto into the right rear fender of a car driven by Marilyn Hanselman, 31, of Minden City who was waiting to make a left turn.

AAUW Group to Honor College Women at Tea

The Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women will honor college women of the area at a holiday tea at Martin's Restaurant from 2:00 to 4:00 on Wednesday, December 30.

While an attempt was made to contact every young woman home from school on vacation, it is possible that some may have been inadvertently missed, and Mrs. Ed Baker, chairman, extends an invitation for AAUW to all coeds, including those in schools of nursing, to attend the tea and meet their former schoolmates.

Serving with Mrs. Baker on the tea committee are: Mrs. B. H. Starnann, Mrs. Orlie Lemanski, Mrs. Ivan MacRae, Mrs. B. F. Benkelman and Mrs. Bill Wallace.

The left front of the Arnold car was damaged and the car was removed by wrecker.

Edwin James Morley, 22, of Bad Axe suffered damage to the right side of his car when a deer jumped from between two cars onto M-81, about 2 1/2 miles east of Cass City Thursday.

The conservation department was called to remove the deer.

Five Seek 3 Council Posts

A primary election Feb. 18 in Cass City was assured this week as three candidates, not previously announced, filed petitions for the office of village trustee.

Two of the candidates are political novices while the third will be taking his second swing into village politics.

The two new candidates are Mrs. Gladys Albee and Glen "Scotty" McCullough. The veteran is Warren Wood.

Other candidates for the office are Barney Freiburger, incumbent, and Lee Rabideau who is stepping down voluntarily from the presidency to try to serve again as a trustee.

Voters will be asked to select three of the five in the primary election.

Trustees are named for two-year terms. The terms of Jerome Root Jr., Freiburger and Lambert Althaver are expiring.

Root is retiring from public office and Althaver is running for president.

There will be a new clerk and treasurer after the election. Incumbent Bill Bridges has decided not to run for the offices since he retired as village secretary.

The present secretary, Mrs. Clinton House, is the lone candidate for the posts.

Also to be named will be assessor. Incumbent Mac O'Dell is the only candidate. Nominated to succeed themselves are two library board commissioners. Mrs. Avis Benkelman and Mrs. Esther McCullough.

The council has six members, three of which are elected each year. Not up for election this year are Fred Auten, Jim Seals and Dr. D. E. Rawson.

Since the village switched from the caucus to the primary system of nomination there has been much interest in the battle for positions on the council.

In the several years the new system has been operating, there has always been competition for the posts, with the exception of last year.

However, in the 1964 regular election, a slip candidate battle emerged and was successful in electing Dr. Rawson.

Chamber's Free TV Goes to Family of 9

Christmas was made a little more colorful this year for a nine-member Cass City family when Santa Claus, disguised as the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, presented them with a color television following a drawing Thursday noon at the corner of Main and Seeger streets.

Lucky winners of the TV set were the Floyd Nicholas family. Besides Nicholas and his wife, Martha, there are seven youngsters at home. They also have a married daughter.

A huge crowd of anxious prospective winners milled around the drawing box as Donna Cox, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Cox of Cass City, drew the names of five lesser-prize winners and then picked the Nicholas ticket from over 100,000 tickets.

None of the immediate Nicholas family was in the crowd, although a sister-in-law was and she rushed to notify the family.

Nicholas was at work at the Nestles plant in Uby where he is a milk weigher and knew nothing of the results until he arrived home later that afternoon.

"All I can say is that I was sure surprised," he confessed later. "We'd like to express our gratitude to the Chamber and the Retail Division for making it possible."

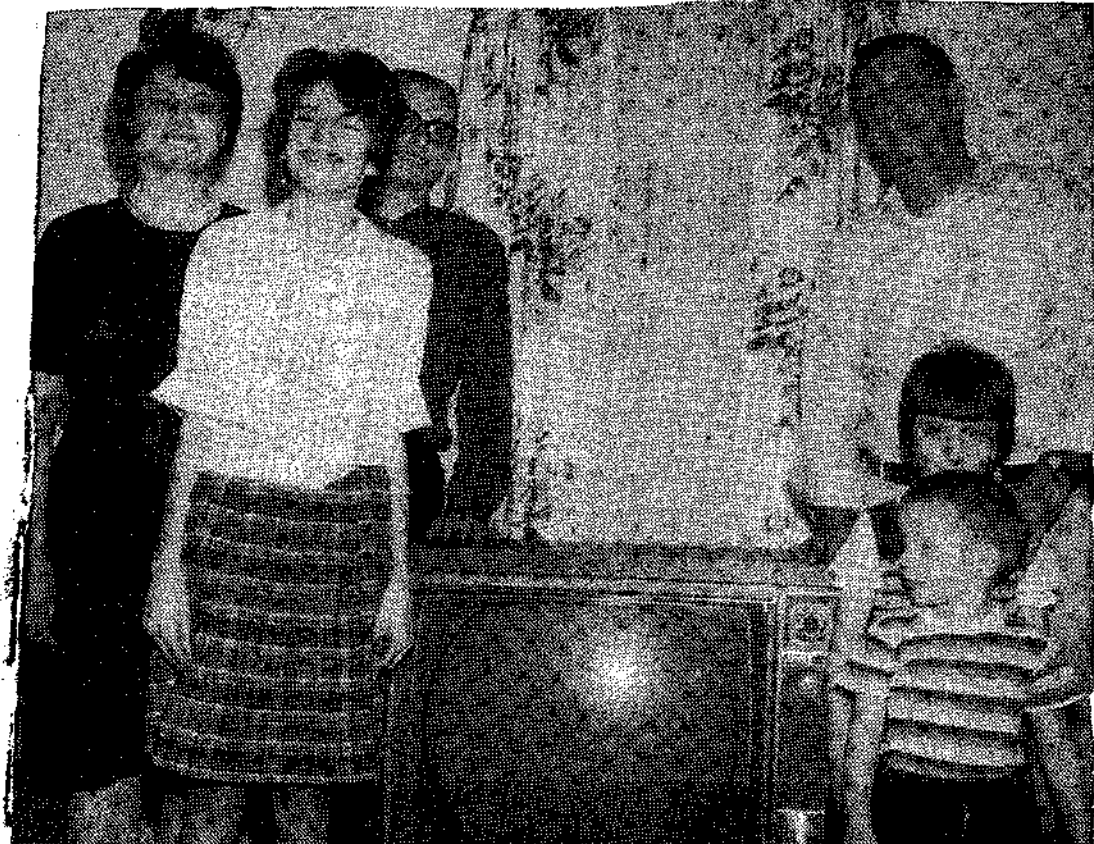

The family had a black and white TV set. Nicholas has lived in Cass City for the past 20 years.

Currently living at home are

Les, 17, Eugene, 15, Danny, 14, Mary, 13, Ken, 10, Rosie, five, and Terry, four. Another daughter Judy, is Mrs. Larry Merchant, Cass City.

Other winners in the drawing were: Charlotte Carr, Gagetown, a billfold; Barbara Bustamante, Cass City, a premium ham; William Peterson, Cass City, an electric blanket; Debbie Harbec, Cass City, a package of choice steaks, and Mrs. Ron Phillips, Deford, a basket of food and a turkey.

Develop New Red Kidney Bean

A new disease resistant variety of dark red kidney bean is gaining acceptance in Michigan. Called Charlevoix, the new variety is resistant to the bean disease, anthracnose. It is, however, susceptible to other bean diseases, including the bacterial blights and common mosaic.

Originated in 1952 at the MSU Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the USDA, the bean was tested and released to the Michigan Foundation Seed Association in 1960. By 1962 about 1,000 acres were planted in Charlevoix, Gratiot, and Montcalm Counties.

Results of a comparative canning study indicated that the variety produced a high quality canned product, comparable with the old commercial variety.

Charlevoix scored A for consistency, absence of defects and character on USDA standards for canned dried bean grades.

Both the old and new varieties look alike except Charlevoix is taller and matures as much as ten days earlier.

Due to susceptibility to other diseases, the report recommends that disease free seed be planted on land that has not grown beans for three or four years.

Further details of the reports can be found in Research Report No. 6, "Charlevoix Anthracnose-Resistant Dark Red Kidney Bean," available at county agent offices or by writing to the Bulletin Office, 10 Agricultural Hall, MSU, East Lansing, Michigan.

Lake Trout On The Rebound

Significant improvements are continuing to show up among lake trout in Lake Superior as the result of lamprey control in recent years. Records of commercial fishermen, whose catch is tightly regulated under special permits, point up an increase in the number and size of native lake trout. They also reveal improved survival among these fish, particularly the larger and older ones which are most vulnerable to lamprey attacks. Too, spawning has taken a marked turn for the better in some areas, reflecting another ray of promise for fish plantings geared to speeding recovery of lake trout in these waters. Helping to keep a pulse on latest developments are a small number of commercial operators with permits who provide fisheries officials with facts and figures about their catches.—Mich. Hawks Seek Second Straight Loop Win

Coach John Oswald hopes that his Cass City Red Hawks will take up where they left off before the holidays interrupted the cage schedule.

For after three straight losses the Hawks upset Vassar in their final pre-holiday tilt and scored more than 90 points while doing so.

Tuesday the team returns to the hardwoods with a game against Bad Axe at Cass City High School.

Last year the Hatchets were the doormats of the league, but this season they have bounced back and are playing winning ball.

On the basis of play to date the visitors have to be regarded as favorites.

It is quite likely that Oswald will stick to his big three of Jim Knoblet, Ed Retherford and Jim Champion with Les Nicholas and Wayne Copeland rounding out the starting five.

Although Oswald was pleased with the first victory that the team picked up against Vassar he still sees plenty of room for improvement.

Of primary concern are the many mistakes that the club makes. According to the way Oswald judges the performances, the team committed over 25 errors against Vassar even though they won the game.

That's entirely too many to beat most teams in the Thumb B Conference, he concluded.

The man whose character and reputation travel in opposite directions soon loses both.

A country cannot be molded into a strongly unified nation unless its people have easy means of exchanging their goods and ideas. Many great nations of the world have recognized this fact. The conquest of a new province by the Persian or Roman empire was promptly followed by the construction of highways, which made the conquest not merely one of arms but one of culture as well.

Certainly, culture in the United States has been radically affected by the advent of the motor car. The impact of the automobile as a chief means of transportation in this country is undeniably one of the great achievements of our times.

BULEN MOTORS contributes culturally, then, in the sale and servicing of automobiles. The friendly people of BULEN MOTORS are eager to serve you, anxious to please you, whether you are shopping for a good used car that can take you to work thriftily, or a luxurious new model from the CHEVROLET line. You may not be on your way to a concert or an intellectual discussion of the arts . . . we won't all be attending the events at The Lincoln Center . . . but any communication between persons is a contribution to culture and the automobile is the best means of "getting together"!!

Set Corn Project Review in Sanilac

The results of the 1964 Sanilac county corn improvement program will be announced at a Corn Day meeting January 7, at 1:30 p.m. in the courthouse, Sandusky. Thirty-three corn growers have completed records of their production practices used in 1964 and made yield checks. The data will give Sanilac farmers an opportunity to compare practices and costs in producing top corn yields.

Milton Erdmann, Extension Specialist in Farm Crops, will discuss corn production practices including the use of herbicides and insecticides. A panel of top producers will explain their formula in getting outstanding yields.

There are no awards presented. Growers participating are just interested in comparing one another's results. Everyone is invited to attend and share this information.

Participating farmers in this year's program are: Lloyd McAllister, Dan Cook, Harvey Johnston, Daniel Landberg, Clifford Powell, Wayne Brown, Wheeler Brothers, Charles Eager, Eugene and Harvey Foote, Martin Graham, Donald Caister, Edward Hoppe, Alger Krueger, Orvel Roggenbuck, Floyd Johnston, Earl Bartle, Dale Allen Turner, Charles Aldrich, Paul Murray, Don and Dave Gardner, Lee Fisher, Elden Berden, Gerald Geiger, Joe Van Dalen, Lloyd Schumacher, Keith Schmidt, Nesbit Brothers, Russell Wilson, Earl Schroeder, Floyd Campbell, Don Chard, Burton Graves and Fred Crary.

It Was All Sort of Incongruous

By Dave Kraft

I was sitting at my desk last week after the paper came out ... just gazing out the window, thinking about what Santa Claus was going to bring me ... when I saw what was probably the most incongruous sight of the day.

I saw Dick Root. Not that Dick Root is incongruous. What he was doing was ... incongruous, I mean.

Richard, one of our friendly Cass City postmen, was delivering the "Chronicle" ... to the Earl Woolners ... who live over the "Chronicle" office.

The reason, of course, is that the Woolners just moved into the apartment over the office and had a subscription to the Chronicle previously.

Still, that's pretty classy.

I just saw something else that's pretty incongruous.

Next time you stop in at Ball's Standard, ask Millard where he buys his fuel oil.

The colors may be the same, but since when do they spell

Standard with seven letters.

I got a letter from Margarita Lopez of Gagetown, currently in Venezuela. Much of the letter is printed in the "Letter to the Editor" column, this issue.

One thing about those Venezuelans, when they pay tribute to someone they really go all out.

On the envelope are two Venezuelan air mail stamps and a regular mail stamp.

The individual on both the air mail and the regular mail is one Romulo Gallegos. I don't understand too much Spanish, but I was able to decipher "Novelista de America" as "Novelist of America."

Nothing to it really.

Pity the poor Christmas tree. Struggling against the elements for 10 to 20 years, it grows to a thing of beauty and is cut down by man with a buzz saw.

After spending a fifth of a century under the most adverse conditions imaginable to become one of God's most beautiful creations, it is torn from its native soil and festooned with gay tinsel and bright lights until it is a gaudy, shoddy imitation of the thing it once was.

Even this bit of "glory" is not long lasting and within a week or no more than two, it is cast aside.

That's not much to look forward to ... to grow to your prime and be cut down for such a dubious honor.

Funny I didn't think of that when I was buying the tree ... but as I was burning it.

Letter to Editor

Oscoda, Mich.

Dec. 19, 1964

Mr. and Mrs. John Haire
Cass City, Mich.

Dear Editor:
We wish to thank you for your faithfulness in sending us the Chronicle. We sure do appreciate it and would sure miss not getting it.

We would like to add that it not only brings us news but brings us new friends. Billy and I sat reading it at the laundromat Friday when a couple came to us and said, "We see you are reading the Cass City paper. Are you by chance from Cass City?" and, we proudly answered yes. During our conversation we learned that she was a Butler girl and graduated from Cass City High School with LaDonna (Ludlow) Lessman and her husband's name is Jacques and he is from Caro. They have four children and live about two miles from us.

They said they were glad to make our acquaintance as they didn't know too many people around here. So we plan in the near future to get better acquainted.

If weather and roads are satisfactory, we are coming up there between Christmas and New Years.

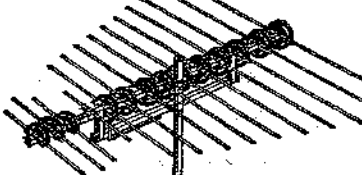

Thanks again.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Schember entertained Christmas Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schember and sons.

Correction: The name of the Snover man reported killed in a car accident last week should have been Kenneth Stauffer and not Richard Stauffer. Stauffer also had a brother, Gary, who was not listed among his survivors.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Hillman entertained for Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Heronemus and family of Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Herbst and children of Algonac. The Herbst family remained to spend a few days here.

Harry Miller, a former resident, is recovering rapidly after surgery for an ulcer which removed two-thirds of his stomach, according to a letter received from his wife, Elaine. The Millers expressed appreciation for all of the cards and remembrances they received during the illness.

Mrs. Clarence Schember and sons had as dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Cash of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Rinerd Knoblet and Mrs. Stephen Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kraft and children, Sally and Matthew, spent Christmas day in Vassar with Mrs. Kraft's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee.

The Frank Alwands write that the weather was so fine recently at their Florida home that they were forced to eat outside to escape the heat of the cooking indoors. They enclosed a clipping that showed the Tampa climate of Dec. 13, 1962, when the weather hit an all time low of 18 degrees.

Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vern McConnell were Pvt. Chuck McConnell of Fort Knox, Ky., Miss Wanda Small of Warren, Mrs. Emma Kellitz and Patricia McConnell of Caro, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Speirs and family and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Guinther and family.

Paul Schember, who attends KMBI in VanCleve, Ky., has been spending the holidays at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Rinerd Knoblet and daughter Martha entertained on Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. John Lockwood and sons and Walter Putnam of Caro, Mrs. Clarence Schember and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Knoblet and sons.

A wathnight service is scheduled for New Year's Eve at the Baptist church. It will start at 9 p.m. and will include a film, special music and refreshments. Navy Chaplain Stan Beach will give the devotional talk. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore and daughter Patty of Gagetown and Jim Moore spent Saturday in Warren with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zmierski and family and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gestrich and children when they held their family Christmas celebration. Sentence Four In Circuit Court

Three men were sentenced to a year's probation, ordered to pay costs of $100 and make restitution of $60 each in Tuscola County Circuit Court Wednesday, Dec. 23.

The three are Perry McConnell and Donald Haight, both of Clifford, and LeRoy Blackmer of Brown City.

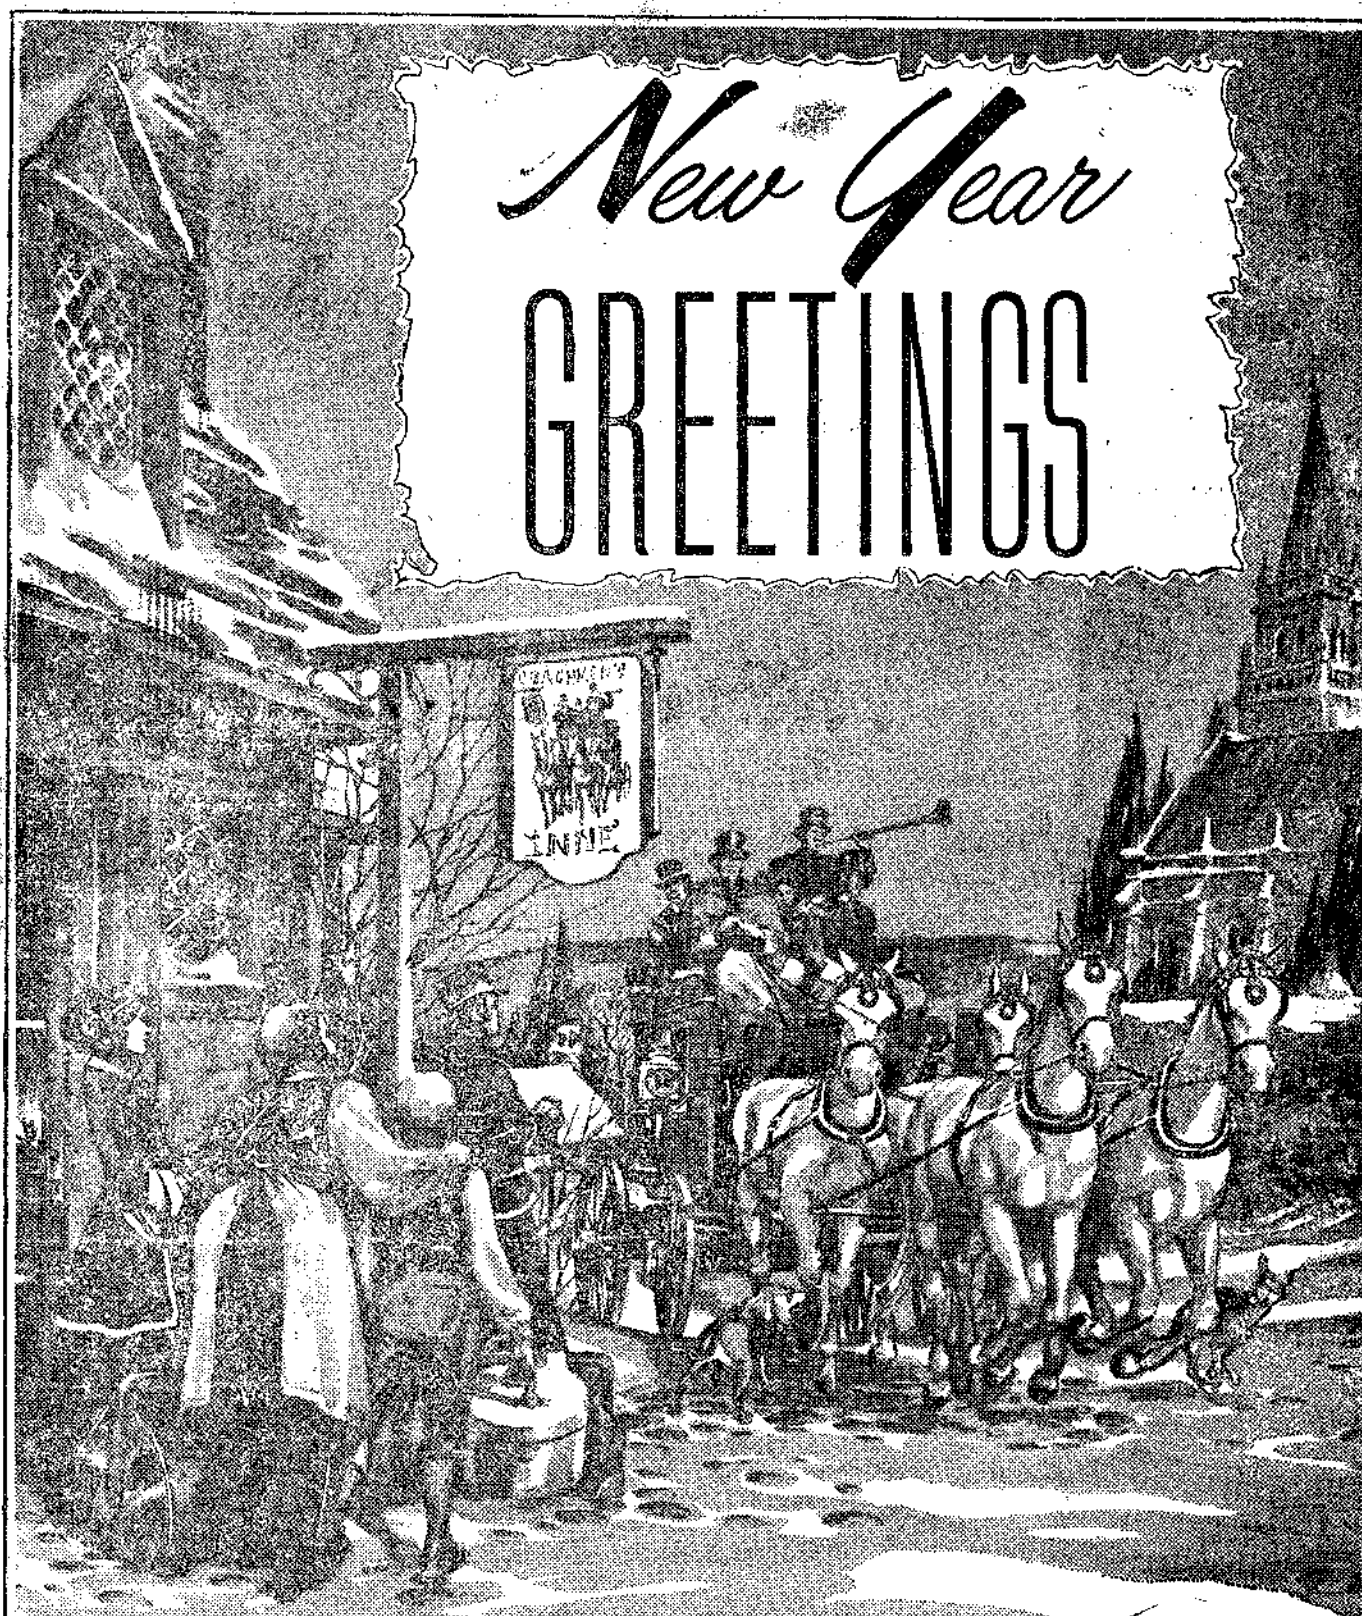

The three pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied house owned by Theresa Pagatz of Kingston Oct. 20.

The sentence was set by Judge T. C. Quinn in Caro.

In other court news, Quinn sent Wayne Maurice Hawkins of Vassar to Jackson Prison for a term of three to five years for probation violation.

Hawkins had been convicted of having narcotics in his possession in 1957.

It's not always possible to find room at the top—an attic is usually full of junk.

Between this scene of a coach and four arriving at a country inn and the marvels of the space age, there are many contrasts. As we greet our friends at the New Year, we would wish for today's world the best of both times—wholehearted acceptance of new challenges, with continued appreciation for the "old-fashioned" ways of warm cordiality. We greatly value the generous share of such cordiality we enjoy in our pleasant association with our customers, and it is a constant support to us in our endeavors. Happy New Year!

FOR THE FISHERMAN, THE HUNTER, THE RECREATION-SEEKER—anyone with a stake in Michigan's natural resources—1964 opened new horizons to more sport, more fun-filled hours in the out-of-doors. ONE OF THE YEAR'S BIGGEST BREAKTHROUGHS took shape when the Conservation Department started putting its "house" in better working order by reorganizing itself from top to bottom. Out of a series of sweeping changes emerged a streamlined structure, gearing Department programs and operations to modern-day needs and wants of outdoor users. Built into it were a flexibility and go-power which will grind out an increasing number and variety of conservation improvements in future years.

FOR FISHERMEN, THE DEPARTMENT'S LOOK-ahead styling showed its form during 1964 in a bold new management program designed to raise angling productivity in the state's waters by 15-30 percent. Briefly put, the fisheries blueprint calls for giving trout fishermen a better return from their license dollars by shifting planting emphasis to releases of smaller fish in waters where chances are best for greatest trout growth and survival. High on the new program's priority list are: Acquisition of access sites, development of state fishing lakes, expansion of sportfishing opportunities in the Great Lakes, and introduction of species new to Michigan.

BIG GAME MANAGEMENT TOOK AN IMPORTANT step forward when Michigan's first regular elk season was held in early December. Although only 300 residents were licensed to hunt, the season opened the way for future sport as a means of controlling and preserving this fast-growing elk herd for all to see and enjoy. Paralleling this was the first major antlerless deer season in southern Michigan. It, too, provided added hunting as a starter toward better management of the region's whitetail herd.

THE YEAR 1964 UNLOCKED A GIANT TREASURE chest of long-range promises for Michigan's millions of campers, picnickers, and other recreationists of the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. Starting next year, the new act will channel an estimated $2.8 million into Michigan on a matching fund basis to help underwrite purchase and development of state and local outdoor recreation facilities. Eventually, this state is expected to receive $3 million annually under the Land and Water Program which is set to run for the next 25 years.

THESE ARE BUT SOME OF THE MORE IMPORTANT cornerstones laid down in 1964 to build a stronger platform for conservation management. They are forerunners to even bigger and better benefits for sportsmen and recreationists in 1965 and the years that follow.—Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Venezuela Life Described in Letter to the Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: Margarita Lopez of Gagetown left for Quiriquire (Kitty-Kitty), Venezuela, early last fall. She is a teacher for Creole Petroleum Corp. and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Regino Lopez of Gagetown. She tells below of some of her experiences.

Creole Petroleum Corp.
Apartado 234
Quiriquire, Edo. Monagas
Venezuela
Christmas, 1964

Hola Everyone,
It seems that I have been in Venezuela a long time; however, I hope that I can give you a clear picture of my experiences so far.

I left Tri-City airport in Saginaw on Monday, August 31st and arrived in Venezuela on September 2nd. I think I was more excited about flying in an airplane than where I was going. It was a thrilling experience.

On September 16th, I began teaching eleven first graders at the Staff School here in Quiriquire Camp, Venezuela. There are fifty-seven pupils from kindergarten to eighth grade taught by four North-American teachers and two Venezuelan teachers.

There are both English and Spanish speaking children in our school since the employees of Creole are both American and Venezuelan. The children spend 75 per cent of the school day learning in their native language and 25 per cent in the second language. Five of my pupils are in the North-American program and six are in the Venezuelan program so I get a chance to practice Spanish as I had wanted. I'm afraid that my Spanish speaking children are learning more English than I am Spanish.

Of the other North-American teachers, two are from Minnesota. My roommate is from California. She has taught there plus in Japan, Hawaii, Germany and France.

We share a four bedroom house with two bathrooms. We each have one side of the house and we're separated by a living room and kitchen. The house is completely furnished.

All the camp houses are white with green trim and some are on stilts. Most of the trees are palms. There are always flowers in bloom in the yards such as bougainvillea, hibiscus and plumaria. We have a gardenia bush in our back yard.

I can't forget to include that we employ a maid who cleans the house daily, washes and irons for 120 Bolivares monthly ($24.00). We do enjoy this! Nearly everyone in camp has a maid or two.

We buy groceries at the Commissary here. It's not as well stocked as the supermarket at home but almost any canned goods can be bought there. Meats, fruits and vegetables are not as abundant in the Commissary as they are in the open market. On an occasional Saturday morning we hire a cab (not one of us has a car down here) and go into Maturin, the capital of Estado Monagas, about a 25 minute ride from here. There we can go to the open market where people sell their wares. You can buy anything from a comb to a live chicken. We can buy head lettuce, carrots, potatoes, tomatoes, oranges, etc. Among the native foods we have eaten are the guayava (a round, green, seed-filled fruit), lechosa or papaya (somewhat like melon), yuca (a local root vegetable peeled and cooked like potatoes with a similar taste.) Plantanos or plantains used for cooking purposes are huge bananas and very popular here. Bananas are very abundant. You can buy them almost anywhere along the roadside.

Most of the social activities take place at the Club here in camp. There we can eat meals; swim, bowl, see recent U.S. movies and an occasional "oldie," etc. There is also a very good golf course here. Everyone has been most helpful and friendly.

May you all have a Joyous Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Sincerely yours,
Margarita Lopez
P.S. I don't know the circumstances but there is a fellow from here studying English at the University of Michigan and somehow had the Chronicle and cut out the clipping. He sent it to his people down here. To say the least I was surprised.

I'm enjoying receiving the Chronicle very much. My roommate especially enjoys the sayings. It gets here about 3 weeks after issue date.

Thanks for everything! After Christmas, I'll write an account of our South American trip.

Sincerely yours,
Margarita Lopez

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer, Uby, will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday, Jan. 3, with an open house at the Fraser Presbyterian Church from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m.

Robert Spencer and the former Mary Britton were married in Greenleaf township Jan. 5, 1915.

They have four daughters, Mrs. Kermit (Alma) Hartwick of Cass City, Mrs. Herbert (Delores) Wasson of Pinellas Park, Fla., Mrs. Floyd (Marjorie) Underwood of Warren, and Mrs. John (Janet) Pierangelino of Plymouth, and four sons, Lynn of Uby, Gene of Cassopolis, Louis of Pontiac, and Allan of Waukesha.

The couple also have 22 grandchildren. A son, Myron, an Air Force pilot, was killed during World War II.

There Is More to Education Than Better Jobs

Yes, education does open the doors to the best job opportunities.

Yes, education does return two or three times as much as most other investments.

Yes, four years of additional formal education will add as much to your income as 20 years of on-the-job experience.

But there's more value to education than mere dollars and cents.

Let's not overlook some of the other by-products of education: improved race relations (which seems to be closely related to education), reduction of poverty, reduction of crime and improved health.

What's more, education increases the range of human choice in our dynamic society. Education permits people to be more mobile. It makes it possible for them to move into better-paying jobs. It allows them more geographic mobility. It may even allow them to hold a wider variety of jobs throughout their lifetime.

It may be true that the person who sits by the creek and fishes instead of moving to a rapidly growing city to get a job is enjoying life to its fullest, admits a North Carolina economist, Fred A. Mangum Jr., author of a study leaflet being used in the statewide discussion program, "Developing Human Resources."

But Mangum also points out that if such a person is untrained and has not been motivated to seek a higher level of living, he really has not had a choice with regard to his station in life. He must accept what is available to him.

If his aspirations and customs are changed, his education and skills improved, he can then choose either," says Mangum. "The result of improving his capacity to consume is freedom of choice, a fuller life and the greater satisfaction of his everyday wants."

Then, of course, there's the satisfaction of being literate. There's the gain in social and cultural pleasures which come from developing one's talents during the education process.

Today, you like Norman Rockwell. Tomorrow, with education, you come to enjoy Pablo Picasso as well, and life for you is that much more enriched.

We must remind ourselves that part of our education is strictly for "consumption." It's meant only to make our lives more enjoyable. We learn some things, as one college instructor put it, not because we can make use of the knowledge but simply because some things are "nice to know."

We tend to underestimate the total value of education in our society. Instead we emphasize the dollar value of education as it affects the earnings of an individual.

We overlook the fact that all other benefits, too, contribute directly or indirectly to the economic growth and well-being of our nation.

Dave Kraft Attends "Old Fashioned" Christmas Prom

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 58, NUMBER 38

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1964

THERE WAS LOTS to do at the dance. For one thing, you could sit under the bandstand with your date and discuss the relativity of Einstein's theory or other things the young are prone to discuss. Dar Williams and his combo provided dance music. Phil Decker, Cass City, and his date Wanda Atchinson, Caro, left, and Rick Hughes and his date Gretchen Diksterhouse, Caro, listened. (Chronicle photo)

ONE NICE THING about dances, if you can find somebody to dance with your wife, you might even get a chance to re-hash the recent football season. Coach Oarie Lemanski grins at a remark by Harold Guinther as Billie Wallace listens. (Chronicle photo)

NOT EVERYBODY DANCED—Cass City Police Chief Carl Palmateer dropped in to see the festivities and exchange a few words with Custodian Nick Decker. It's one of Palmateer's pleasant duties to check in every now and then at this type of function. (Chronicle photo)

ONE PLACE you can always find the chaperones is around the refreshment table. Lynn Searls, center, is kept busy serving punch to Mr. and Mrs. James Seals, Mr. and

Mrs. Bernard Frieburger, Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Billie J. Wallace. (Chronicle photo)

OF COURSE, if you don't want to dance, you can sit around and talk with your partner or your neighbor or not say anything at all, like the gentleman in the upper right. (Chronicle photo)

A Happy New Year

We're chiming in with greetings and a special "Thank you" for all our generous friends.

Harry I. McGinn, 60 Dies in Flint

Harry I. McGinn, 60, of Montrose, a native of Gagetown, died Monday, Dec. 21, at McLaren Hospital at Flint.

He was born in Gagetown Feb. 16, 1904, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McGinn. He has lived with his sister, Mrs. John Rogers, at Montrose for 12 years. Previously he was associated with his father in the hardware business at Gagetown.

Surviving are: a sister, Mrs. John Rogers; two brothers, Willis of Montrose and James of Santa Ana, Calif.; five nieces; an uncle, Patrick Kehoe Sr., and an aunt, Mrs. Lawrence Hahn.

Services were held Thursday at the Gagetown Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert Worgess of Montrose and Rev. Fred Werth, pastor of the Gagetown Methodist Church, officiated.

Burial was in Elmwood cemetery.

Adult Farmer Classes To Start Jan. 11

The first of a series of six Adult Farmer Classes will be held Monday evening, January 11, at the Caro High School in cooperation with the Vocational Agriculture Department of the Caro High School and a local advisory committee of farmers in the Caro area of Tuscola county, reports Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

The meetings will bring a program of interest to farmers and their wives and will be open to anyone from any area of Tuscola or surrounding counties. The meetings are free, with refreshments served after each session. All classes are to start promptly at 8:15 p.m. and will be completed by 10:15 p.m.

The schedule of meetings is: Monday, January 11 - "Know Your 1964-1965 Farm Income Tax Laws," presented by E. A. Nether-ton, District Extension Agent in Farm Management, and Don Keblor, County Extension Agent in Agriculture.

Monday, January 18 - "Farm Laws and Liability Responsibility."

Monday, January 25 - "Farm Crops," varieties, chemical weed controls and cultural practices, presented by Milton Erdmann, Farm Crops Specialist from Michigan State University, and crop insect controls, residues in milk and meat and animal and human health regulations, presented by Ray James, extension specialist in entomology of Michigan State University.

Monday, February 8 - "Livestock Management." Buying, feeding and marketing feeder cattle, and livestock outlook and economics of feeder systems for small operations.

Monday, February 15 - "Money Management, Credit, Estate Planning" and "Insurance."

Monday, February 22 - "Machinery -- How Much Can You Afford?"

Since 85 per cent of Michigan-produced navy beans are canned, cracked or checked seed coats may become a major problem for the state's bean industry, warns Milt Erdmann, Michigan State University crop specialist.

Tourist Industry Looks for Boom Even if Economy Lags

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Same Success

Boom times often seriously affect the success of some business, but Michigan tourist industry members see only a continuing rise in their activities despite any declines which might occur in the next few years.

Michigan's tourist industry has been experiencing a steady climb in recent years which has not appeared to be affected to any great degree by the sharp changes in general economic conditions.

In 1964, for example, the projected year-end business activity in tourism was about $800 million, an overall increase of more than 10 per cent over the previous 12-month period. This hike was just slightly higher than that recorded the past few years.

Projections for the next two years are even more optimistic, say tourist officials in the four regional promotional associations.

Some members of the industry are even forecasting that the resort trade will reach $1 billion by the end of 1966.

Much credit for the continuing rise in tourist activity goes to the added state and local promotion funds spent in new areas the last several years. Members of the State Tourist Council hope this year to add still other innovations in advertising to keep the boom in tourism in existence.

Growing Bigger

Reorganization and revitalization seem to be a continuing concern to Gov. George Romney.

His efforts in these areas in the auto industry once brought him national recognition. Now he is turning his eyes to politics in an apparent attempt to get similar attention through reorganization and revitalization.

Romney started this work several years ago when he helped organize Citizens for Michigan, a nonpartisan group designed to improve state government.

His effort suffered a setback when criticism was heaped upon him, charging he used the group as a tool to boost himself into political office. The Citizens group was largely responsible, however, for the convening of the 1961-62 Constitutional Convention.

Criticism also came to Romney in 1962 and since then he twice successfully ran for Governor with little attention to the existing Republican Party leadership and organization.

Now, active in both the national and state Party units, Romney says improvements in organization are needed in the GOP. On the state level he is viewed by most party regulars as the only effective candidate they have. Thus, his reorganization plans are likely to get full hearing.

His national stature, difficult to evaluate from within his home state, will depend largely on whether the cause he supports succeeds.

Undoubtedly his current reorganization and revitalization work will also draw charges of "self-serving" from his opponents. They know only too well that if he succeeds in his newest efforts, he will be an even more venerable candidate for public office, statewide or national.

More Protection

Michigan's regulatory agencies in the medical and related fields are in severe need of additional staff if the public is to be adequately protected, warns Attorney General Frank J. Kelley.

A study by Kelley's office, prompted by the recent disclosure of a Detroit doctor who successfully posed as a doctor for four years, showed agencies dealing with the healing arts were almost totally ineffective, where policing is concerned, because of inadequate staffs.

The study included boards dealing with chiropractors, podiatrists, pharmacists, dentists, osteopaths, optometrists, medical doctors, nurses and psychiatric attendants.

Citing the Detroit case, Kelley said, "The billions of dollars spent on training, research, drugs, equipment, hospitals and medical insurance can all be tragically meaningless to the families victimized by a hoax made possible by failure to provide the few thousand dollars required to adequately police these healing arts."

All together the eight boards involved regulate nearly 79,000 professional members and have a total of nine employees to investigate practices. Some boards have no investigators, one of which regulates 2,250 osteopaths in the state.

The State Board of Nursing, Kelley said, has regulatory powers over 46,202 licensed nurses in Michigan. This includes registered, practical and psychiatric attendant nurses. The board has one investigator.

Imperative need for improvement in the investigative area is shown not only in the Detroit case, said Kelley, but in the other fields as well.

The lone Board of Nursing investigator, for example, traveled over 2,400 miles in a three-month period last year and was able to act only on complaints because of the heavy work load. It was impossible for him to initiate any investigations.

Robert L. Taylor

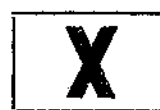

I will be a candidate for Circuit Judge of Lapeer and Tuscola counties at the special primary election Monday, Feb. 15.

I ask you to judge my qualifications: I was raised on a Lapeer County farm. I have had a quarter century in the general practice of law. I have seen public service as a Prosecutor. I have served as an attorney for schools and as a School Board member. I have seen foreign service for the U. S. government in IRO and UNRRA. I have been chairman of political organizations and fund-raising campaigns. I have served as bank and corporation attorney and on bank and corporation boards. I have invested in and shared in the operation of private business. I have served as president of the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company. I have represented labor unions, farm organizations and township and village governments.

I believe my wide experience with all phases of private and governmental life in these counties is an important qualification for the position of Circuit Judge.

"It seems odd that some landowners invest thousands of dollars in irrigation equipment to put water on the land, while others make little effort to capture and hold natural rainfall," says Russell Hill, Michigan State University conservation specialist.

BOOK REVIEW

It's A Best Seller About A Private School

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

This week's book, THE RECTOR OF JUSTIN by Louis Auchincloss, has been on the best-seller list for some time now and currently has been second on that list for several weeks; which means that some of you may own copies received on Christmas. What makes a book a best seller? It is difficult to narrow down the causes, but increasingly I have reached the conviction that the book store clerks who have been far too busy to read any books are the prime cause. How many times have you gone into a book store to get a gift list, asked the clerk for a suggestion, and bought whatever book was suggested.

This book is well-written, with a splendid vocabulary, and a plot that the reader is asked to assume is realistic. But on the best seller list -- ridiculous! Let me hasten to admit that I was never a pupil in a private school. (There are people who doubt that I was ever a pupil at all; an opinion shared, I am sure, by some of my public school teachers.)

Basically the story is primarily about the owner, founder and principal of a private school, named after St. Justin, the Martyr. Dr. Prescott is also a clergyman and above all a student. The story is told in the first-person, by Brian Aspinwall who as a new master in English is soon an admirer of the boarding school's Dr. Prescott. It is to Brian that the task falls in time to be the biographer of the headmaster, and the whole book is made up of the notes he has collected for this attempt.

First, Aspinwall recounts some visits he made on the ailing wife of Dr. Prescott, a dying woman who was as well-read as her husband. Aspinwall lets us in on his own doubts of his task as a master and his doubts as to his plan to become a clergyman. Dr. Prescott helps the beginning young man to sort out the factors that ought to rule such a choice and the younger man does ultimately enter the ministry.

As Aspinwall starts collecting the necessary material for his biography, we are treated to accounts of the men writing of their memories of the headmaster.

The dust jacket notes:

"This is a compassionate but profound analysis of a man's whole character, an analysis of his faith, his deepest personal crisis, his effect on others, his sins of omission and commission, the source of his energy, his opinion of himself..."

The book ends, as indeed it should, with Dr. Prescott's death and one lays the book down with a sense of personal loss. The tale is well-told. I assume the accounts of boarding-school life are plausible. Personally, I react against having a story fragmented as it must be if the memories of others are included as separate views on the same man.

The book might even be worthy of the best-seller listing if the story were told by just one man. Least I seem too negative let me say that it was a pleasurable experience reading this book. My words in reviewing it are meant to indicate how it might be ever more fascinating.

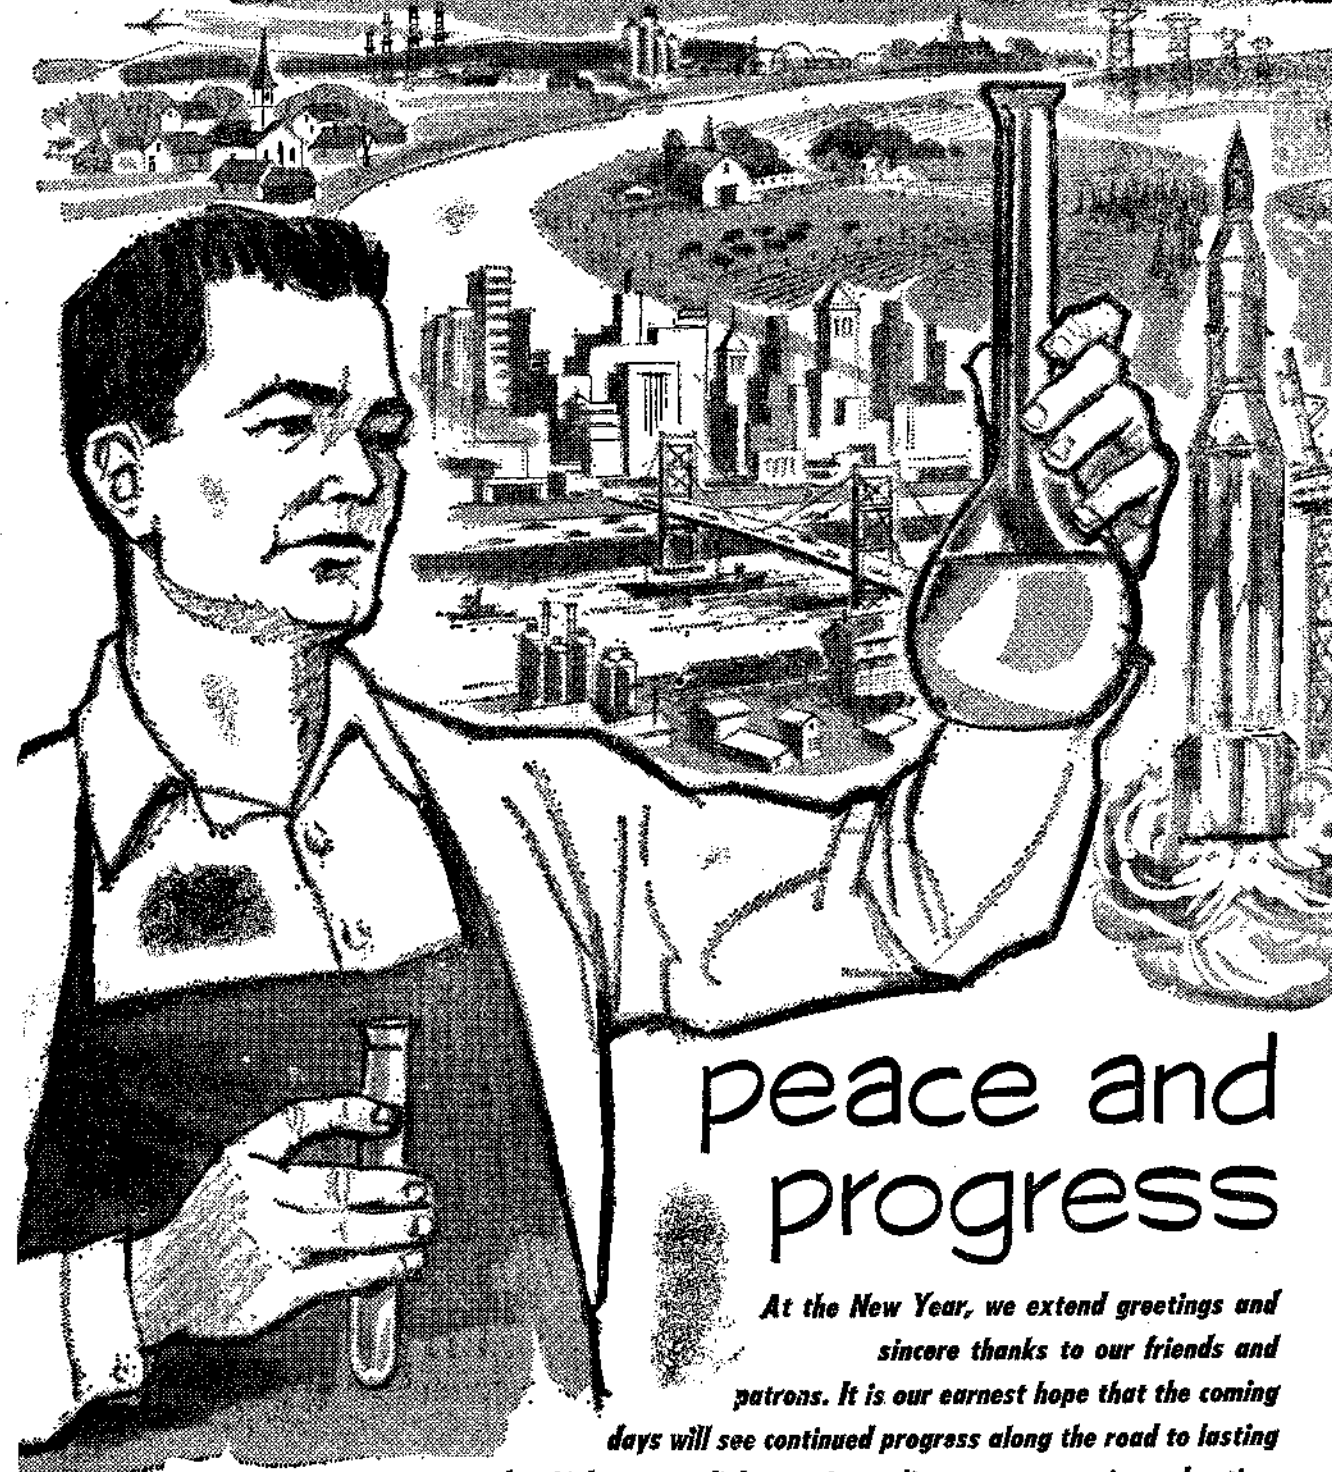

THE RECTOR OF JUSTIN by Louis Auchincloss, 340 pages, Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston 1964. Available from the Elkland Township and Cass City Library.

Time has taught us the value of your loyal friendship... thanks and best wishes.

"Foreign Policy" Meeting Slated

The special interest lesson "Foreign Policy" will be presented at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building on the Fairgrounds at Caro, Friday, Jan. 8, from 1:30-3:30 p.m., according to Barbara Henrikson, County Extension Agent in Home Economics.

Garland P. Wood, professor of agricultural economics, director of the Latin American Study Center, and director of the Latin American Study Center of the International Program, will teach this special interest lesson.

Professor Wood has just returned from a trip through the Latin American countries, and should be aware of many developments south of the border.

He will present the slide film, "Handwriting on the Wall."

Dear Mister Editor:

I was reading some figgers put out the other day by the Census Bureau that had ought to git us older folks shook up. They was announcing that 3.1 million boys and girls in this country reached the age of 17 this year and that it was around a million more than last year. Furthermore, they figger it will increase another million next year. And out of them 3.1 million gitting to be 17 this year, 268,000 was now married, and 1 out of ever three was already divorced.

And along with them figgers, the FBI announced teen-age crime was at a all time high in the nation. Fer instant, post offices was claiming ball point pens was gitting stole as fast as they could replace 'em and most of 'em was being took by teen-agers. Anybody, Mister Editor, that would steal one of them post office pens was hard up fer somepun to steal and it goes to show that kids was just stealing fer the devilment of it.

I don't reckon they was much the general public can do about teen-age marriages, divorces, and crime. This has got to be a problem fer the parents. But they was one angle to this big teen-age population explosion that has got to be met by the people.

Where was all them young'uns going to school? School houses and colleges all over the nation was already busting out at the seams and we got millions more coming on fast. As a nation it seems to me we was meeting this school problem from the hindsight position. We don't do nothing about it till the river gits out of its banks, then we patch the banks and wait till the next flood.

It makes me recollect a talk I had onct with my banker. He said that most fellers that comes in fer a loan bases his worth on what he plans to do tomorrow but the bank has to figger his worth on what he done yesterday. In this problem of gitting teachers and schools fer the millions of kids that was coming on, it looks like we was hoping too much fer tomorrow and ain't done enough yesterday.

Well, I reckon I better cut my little sermon on schools short. I might be like the politician that told the crowd he was cutting his speech short on account if he didn't some feller had sent word he was going to cut his throat.

Actual, Mister Editor, I ain't got no license to discuss school problems, and I'm serving notice right here I ain't running fer the School Board. They didn't have but five grades when I was a young'un and I had more trouble gitting through the last grade than MacArthur had gitting across the Yalu River, but I believe mighty strong we got to educate them millions of kids that is coming along if we was to have the right kind of a nation.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

There's proof that people who are everlastingly on the go seldom arrive anywhere.
