He was brought into court when he was involved in a traffic accident and made no attempt to pay a court fine or make restitution for three checks issued with insufficient funds. The checks totaled $59.67.

He was found guilty of the bad

Olympic Challenge Calls for Dedicated Work—McDermott

Members of the Cass City Gavel and Rotary clubs were privileged to have a close look at a champion Tuesday night at Martin's Restaurant.

Terry McDermott of Essexville, the only winter Olympic gold medal winner from the United States, told some 50 men what it takes to be a winner and some of the highlights of his trip and his victory.

McDermott's actual campaign for an Olympic berth started in 1958, but his speed skate training started when he was eight years old.

It was at this tender age that Terry's brother-in-law, a skating coach, took him in hand and started him racing.

"I started winning and liked it," McDermott recalled.

In 1958 I was home from college for Christmas vacation and competed in the Michigan trials. His 42.8 at this time was good enough to qualify him for the United States trials at Squaw Valley.

In the 500 meter (about 500 yards) fractions of a second make a huge difference. I finished seventh in the trials at Squaw Valley but was just a half second behind the winner, he said.

So you can see, he pointed out, "a little things make a very big difference. The condition of the ice when you skate (the best ice is a hard freeze at night, then weather that warms to about 26 degrees or so to put a glaze on the surface).

Terrific Gamble

When you skate is a terrific gamble, he pointed out. At Innsbruck the skating is done against time and the top representatives of the countries have the choice of when they want to take the ice.

The first skaters always have unmarked ice but it may not be as slick as it will be later.

If you take the third turn on the ice it may have warmed up too much and skating becomes comparatively impossible. . . . but it could be the best time of all.

At the Olympics I took the second turn on the ice and was fortunate enough to have perfect ice, McDermott recalled. His time at the Olympics was 40.1 seconds.

The Rewards

What are the rewards for taking the most coveted of all

Lions Dist. Gov. Installs Member

Cass City Lions took advantage of a special visit by Dist. Gov. Roy Lawrence, Pigeon, Monday night, to install a new member in the club's campaign to raise its membership.

Installed by Lawrence was Russell Schneberger, local TV and appliance dealer.

Lawrence preceded the installation with an outline of his work since taking over as district governor last July. He urged the club to continue its community civic work and to strive even harder for Lionism in the future.

In conjunction with the club's sight conservation program, members approved payment of $34.00 for glasses for two area children. "Farmers' Night" originally set for the February 15 meeting has been rescheduled for the March 1 meeting. Lion members are to invite farmer friends to the session.

medals? Well, I've been all over the country from coast to coast and in Canada, Terry said. One of my speaking tours resulted in a Florida vacation and the others have provided memorable experiences.

The disadvantages of winning are the time away from work. For instance, McDermott sighed, last week I worked Monday . . . and it has been nearly a year since he won the gold medal.

But the rewards far outstrip

Orientation Course Slated for Glaspie

Grant Glaspie, newly appointed Cass City postmaster, is slated to leave Monday for a week-long orientation training session at Chicago.

The main Chicago post office is the regional headquarters for this area and the location for orientation training for newly appointed postmasters.

Other new postmasters from Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan or Indiana will also be taking the program.

Glaspie was appointed Dec. 5, replacing retiring Lewis Bishop.

Lester Reports Dog Stolen from Kennel

Someone took the doggie from the kennel.

Duane Lester of Deford reported that his registered hound was taken from the kennel back of his home this week.

Tuscola County Sheriff's Department is investigating, but Tuesday the dog had not been found.

Police In Busy Year

Police Chief Carl Palmateer presented a summary of the work of the Cass City Police Department this week.

He said the department processed 1344 calls.

Doing the work of the department called for 35,580 miles of patrol and total man hours of 5,506.

Together with the report for the year was a monthly summary which showed that 53 calls were received and 3,850 miles patrolled.

The reports:

Calls Received	1344	Jan. 53
P. D. Accidents	81	2
P. I. Accidents	7
Verbal warnings	40	2
Traffic Summonses	69	3
Parking Summonses	36	6

the disadvantages, so much so that McDermott is going to compete again in the 1968 Olympics.

Training Program

To be ready for 1968, Terry plans to swing into training action again this spring.

Laymen who think that the most important part of training occurs on the ice, have a very mistaken impression. The ice work in training is the easy part and actually takes comparatively little of the total training time, Terry explained.

Much of the training is running and weight lifting. In outlining an Olympic training schedule the champion said he will spend six hours a week this spring. In the summer this will be jumped to eight hours weekly.

In the fall 10 hours will be devoted to conditioning. As soon as ice becomes available training will be seven nights weekly for a total of 14 hours. This program will last for three years.

The program is very necessary because the only break his gold medal gives him in the next Olympic competition is that he doesn't have to qualify in Michigan.

But to represent the United States he must win again in the trials, just as he did at Squaw Valley prior to the '64 games.

When listening to the young champion it is obvious that he has a great deal of pride. He said that one of the reasons he will defend his title is that "they say it takes a real champion to win and then repeat".

Although Terry skates the 500 meters, he is actually better at shorter distances. If the race were half the distance, he feels, he would be at his best.

At Innsbruck, he said, at 300 meters he was a second and a half ahead of the field, but finished only a half second ahead at the finish.

But in case you think that is extremely close for 500 meter speed skating, remember this: the half second margin is the greatest ever posted in the event in the history of the Olympics.

McDermott was persuaded to come to Cass City by Joe Weiler, a close friend. Weiler was program chairman for the Gavel meeting.

Arrest Driver on Drunk and Disorderly Charge

Thomas Schnell, 25, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol when he was arraigned before Justice Frank Rolka of Caro.

Schnell was arrested following an automobile accident Sunday, Jan. 31, when he ran into a car driven by Lyle Anker, 24, of Cass City. The accident occurred at the parking lot at Dom Polski Hall in Caro.

According to a report by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, Schnell was attempting to turn in the lot when he hit the right front fender of the Anker car.

Witnesses said that he then drove out of the lot at a high rate of speed. The car was located on the corner of Phelps Lake and Lobdell.

In Area Centennial

Consultant Urges Total Participation

"It's your centennial and the main requirement is that you be willing to work for it."

So spoke Leo Spaeth, Rogers Company consultant, Monday night at a community-wide Cass City Area Centennial meeting at the high school. Approximately 60 persons were present.

Spaeth, a 29-year-veteran with Rogers Co., outlined his company's part in the project and listed some of the highlights and special events of the week-long celebration, July 18-24.

Pageant

Stressing the importance and impact of the spectacular which will run each night of the celebration, Spaeth reported that his company will provide costumes, lights, scenery, scenario and direction for the show.

Approximately 275 persons will be cast in more than 16 episodes depicting the Cass City area history as far back as Indian times.

An hour and a half long, the production will be followed each night by a gigantic fireworks show.

The same performance will be given each night featuring both comedy and drama.

"Miss Centennial"

Spaeth gave area women a brief look at their part in the project, ranging from the "Miss Centennial" contest and ball to individual participation.

The "Miss Centennial" contest will be a popularity contest to determine "a queen for the celebration. She will be given prizes and will be honored at each pageant performance. She will take part in parades and other events with her court of runners-up.

Individual participation for the women, to be known as the "Centennial Belles," will consist of wearing and making old fashioned clothes.

Saturday will be "Old Fashioned Day" with both men and women requested to wear at least bonnets and top hats or derbies.

Further information on the women's costumes may be obtained from Mrs. Thomas Jackson.

Beards

"A proclamation will be issued later requiring all area men to 'grace their faces with hairy adornment', either whiskers, mustaches or sideburns," Spaeth outlined for the men.

He defended the men's right to wear the beards with, "Every man wants to see what he looks like . . . and this is the golden opportunity."

"It offers, also, constant publication of the centennial."

Non-beard growers may join a "Smoothies" club by purchasing a permit.

Money Projects

In a brief report on fund raising projects, Spaeth explained that "in no way will my company participate in percentages or commission basis on your fund raising projects."

His remarks on the projects were skimpy because he had not met with the fund raising chairmen and was reluctant to discuss them until the projects were definite.

Jim Ware, centennial co-chairman, introduced division chairmen who stood to be recognized.

The community meeting wound-up a full day of consultations between Spaeth and centennial divisions and committees. Consultations continued all day Tuesday.

The next consultation will be on June 19 when a Rogers Co. official will come for the five weeks before the centennial to set up final programming.

SPARKLING COLLECTION of earrings is displayed by Mrs. Fred Strauss of Gagetown who has been adding to her many creations for 15 years. (Chronicle photo)

Mrs. Strauss Sparkles with 350-Set Earring Collection

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Fred Strauss of rural Gagetown received an unusual set of earrings from her daughter and the gift created a spark that ignited the collector's instinct in the friendly housewife. Today she has 352 sets from all over the world, made from just about every conceivable raw material in designs that range from unusual to out of this world.

The pair she received from her daughter feature faces and were picked up in a dime store in Hamtramck.

From this prosaic beginning, her collection branched out through purchases and gifts. My husband limits me to $2.50 for any single pair, she said with a good-natured sigh, but my family and friends always think of earrings at gift time.

Despite the relatively low top price earrings, her collection includes many very interesting pieces.

You'll find representative work from Portugal, Spain, Mexico, Honduras, India, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Turkey, Siam and Oriental countries among the myriad sets.

It's obvious when you discuss the earrings that Mrs. Strauss gets more than her money's worth for each pair she collects.

She'll talk with satisfaction about the Oriental Damoscene set that came to her from the Orient and features a gold inlay that was cemented to its base by a process involving boiling green tea.

Or there are the pair hand-carved from ivory direct from Leopoldville in the Congo . . . the thermometers that actually register . . . the dove made of mother of pearl . . . the pair of dice.

Thinking of dressing up frontier style? Mrs. Strauss can outfit you with earrings for most every occasion.

She has Indians, holsters with guns, cowboys, cowboy hats and guns. All kinds of animals grace the collection and Mrs. Strauss is in love with all of them . . . except one.

She doesn't mind wearing earrings made of mohair representing mice, birds, snakes or most any other animal which she has. But she draws the line when it comes to spiders. "I simply refuse to wear one with spiders," she said with a mild shudder.

It is astonishing just how varied the raw materials are that are used for earrings. Here's a few picked at random from among the 352 sets. They are made of brass, silver, part gold, glass, Viennese china, mother of pearl, coral shells, cloth, wood, leather, mohair and alloys.

All but one pair of earrings are not pierced. The only pair that are Mrs. Strauss inherited from her mother.

One of the reasons the collection has grown so rapidly is her large family. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Modovan of Warren, she has three sons, all by a previous marriage. They are Robert Kasson of Mount Clemens, Gerald Kasson of McPherson, Kan., and Stanley Kasson of Burbank, Calif. Don't forget to mention that I have 21 grandchildren, Mrs. Strauss said proudly.

Mrs. Strauss moved to the Gagetown area 10 years ago when she married. People have been just wonderful to me here, she said. We got acquainted very easily through church (Gagetown Methodist) the Woman's Study Club and other organizations.

The Strausses live on 40 acres on Hoppe Road and Mr. Strauss works at Evans Products Co. in Gagetown.

BULEN TALKS Cars

There's almost nothing easier to come by than amateur medical advice.

Think back to the last time when you felt less chipper than usual. Chances are someone, wholly unqualified, but with the best intentions, told you what to do or what to take for your "run-down" condition, or "nervous state" or recurring aches and pains.

Such advice makes it appear that the practice of medicine can be a sort of "do-it-yourself" activity. Actually, self-diagnosis and self-treatment can be extremely risky.

Medicines, except for the usual household remedies, are safe only when prescribed by your family physician who knows their properties.

As it is with your body and health, so it is with your automobile and its health.

You want an expert when you buy a car, and you want an expert when your car needs service.

BULEN MOTORS can give you the expert advice you want if you are contemplating a change in cars. Their staff can give you the expert service you need if and when anything goes wrong with your automobile. Many years of experience and training qualify them to help you in every way. See BULEN MOTORS... the place with the plan!

Feed Grain Sign Up Time Approaches

Farmers will have an opportunity to sign up in the 1965 feed grain program early in February, according to Mike Singer, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The signup period will be for 7 weeks, from February 8 through March 26.

During the signup period, winter wheat producers who signed up in the wheat program last fall may change their intentions, except that in winter wheat areas growers may not over produce wheat and store it under bond unless they stated their intentions to do this at the time of the sign-up last fall.

As in previous years, the chairman explained, the feed grain program will be voluntary and each operator of farms growing one of the three feed grains covered by the program will make his own decision about whether to take part. The program is available for corn, grain sorghum and barley.

Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for diversion and price support payments, and for price-support loans on their entire 1965 production of the three grains. The price-support payments will be made to participants whether the feed grain produced in 1965 is fed on the farm, sold or placed under a price-support loan.

Varied Program at WSCS Monday

Film and slide presentations highlighted the regular meeting of the WSCS of the Methodist Church Monday evening at the church.

Mrs. Harold Guinther and Mrs. H. Rexin presented a film, "New Nations Challenge Christianity," which suggested problems Christianity must answer for these nations. It emphasized that a third of the United Nations is composed of new nations and that they play an important part in world affairs.

The 35 members attending also saw slides taken by Miss Anne Lorentzen who is in the Frontier Nursing Service. She lives at Brutus, Ky., and is visiting nurse for 240 families.

The pictures, shown by Mrs. Don

Lorentzen, depicted the extreme poverty of many of the families and the poor roads over which Miss Lorentzen travels in a Jeep. Other homes on her list can only be reached by horseback or walking.

The dinner was served by Group I with Mrs. Jerome Root Jr. and Mrs. Brown, cochairmen. Mrs. James Braid led the prayer group and Mrs. Rexin presided at the business meeting.

The executive board met following the meeting.

New Law to Give Disabled Veterans More Insurance

A new law, effective May 1, 1965, will allow all disabled veterans to buy National Service Life Insurance, according to a report from William O'Dell, American Legion Tri-County Post 507 service officer.

Eligible for the insurance are those eligible to buy National Service Life Insurance after Oct. 1, 1940, and before Jan. 1, 1967. Also eligible are those with service connected disabilities and no uninsurable non-service disabilities; non-service disabilities uninsurable by commercial companies at the highest rates; and those not having Government life insurance or less than $10,000 of such insurance.

The policy provides insurance on a permanent non-participating plan to $10,000, including any Government insurance now in effect.

Veterans must apply for the insurance on or after May 1, 1965, and not later than May 1, 1966.

Applications can be made to the Veterans Administration, 210 Gratiot, Detroit, 26, Mich.

For further information contact O'Dell.

Hospital Auxiliary Committees Appointed

President Mrs. Neil Hurry announced standing committees for the Hills and Daes Hospital Auxiliary which performs many vital services during the year for the hospital.

One of the hardest working committees last year was the sewing committee which handles extensive mending and repair work. Last year Mrs. Herbert Ludlow and Mrs. Raymond McCullough spent 190 hours at the task.

Mrs. Hurry re-appointed them to the committee. Mrs. E. C. Fritz and Mrs. Willis Campbell were placed in charge of TV and radio distribution and Mrs. Ronald Keegan will head the puppet making committee.

Mrs. Irene Stafford continues in charge of the candy and soft drink machine. Three members, Mrs. George Murray, Mrs. Richard Palm and Miss Stafford will organize the bridge marathon, one of the principal fund raising projects of the organization.

Altar Society Names Committee Heads

The monthly meeting of the Rosary Altar Society was held in the St. Pancratius Social Hall Monday, Feb. 1.

New committees for the year are as follows: board of directors Mrs. George Murray, Mrs. Garfield Turner, Miss Ramona Maytoreno, Mrs. Clarence Eria, Mrs. Richard Sugden, Mrs. Edward Hahn and Mrs. Ronald Keegan; program committee chairman, Mrs. Garfield Turner; membership committee, Mrs. Richard Eria and Mrs. J. D. Tuckey; recognition committee, Mrs. William Johnston; publicity committee, Miss Ramona Maytoreno, and finance and budget committee, Mrs. Clarence Eria.

The program was given by Father Messing. There was a demonstration on setting up a "Sick Call" set when a priest is called to administer the last rites. He also gave a brief explanation of the theology of the Sacrament, "The Anointing of the Sick." Practical suggestions were given in preparing for this Sacrament. There was a question and answer period.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alden Asher and Mrs. Russell Ayres.

Debators End in Loop Title Tie

Cass City finished in a three-way tie for first place in the Thumb Debate Conference by winning three of four debates Monday at Sandusky.

The Hawks tied with Sandusky and Reese, each with a 16-4 won-lost record. Caro was fourth with 11-9 and three other schools were tied for the fifth spot with 10-10 records.

Monday the affirmative team defeated Caro and lost to Sandusky. The negative debaters beat Owendale and won from Millington by forfeit.

Sandusky walked away with the top honors for speaker points, although the competition was very close.

C. Nichols of Sandusky was first with 21.5 points. S. Matter of Sandusky was second with 21 points. In third place was D. Orr of Caro with 20.5 points, while Bob Milligan of Cass City was fourth with 20.3 points.

Soil Erosion Serious Right Here in Tuscola County

Is wind erosion a serious threat in Tuscola county? Well, did you know that - It takes 1,000 years to make an inch of topsoil by natural processes?

Soil that blows away is 3 to 4 times as valuable as the residue that is left?

For every inch of soil taken off, there is a loss of about 200 tons per acre?

In 1963 approximately 40 per cent of all beets planted in the Caro area of Michigan Sugar Company had to be replanted due to wind damage, in some cases more than once?

Crop losses due to wind erosion in Tuscola county by conservative estimate have amounted to more than $½ million in one year?

Why the sudden emphasis on wind erosion? Hasn't it always been with us?

To answer some of these questions, a committee was recently called together by Alfred Bullweg, Tuscola County Extension Director. The committee was composed of interested farmers, representatives of various interested agencies, such as the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S.D.A., the Vocational Agriculture Departments, the A. S. C. S. Committee, the County Drain Commissioner, Michigan State University and representatives of other agencies.

Wind erosion has been a problem of Tuscola county for many years but is becoming more serious as our farming patterns are changing. Much work has been done on this problem by some of the above agencies but wind erosion is a community problem and a consolidated effort is needed to bring it under control.

The purpose was to determine the causes of increased wind erosion in recent years and come up with some methods of combatting wind erosion.

A number of changes have taken place in the county during the past several years that have increased the destructiveness of wind erosion. There has been a change from livestock to row crop farming. This change results in more soil exposure and less organic matter being returned to the soil. It also increases the damage from wind erosion.

The mighty tree that helps to tame the wind has given way to more and larger open fields, leaving large areas of farm land unprotected throughout Tuscola county.

The use of modern machinery has led to larger fields with resulting loss of fence rows and woodlots which served as windbreaks. In places tile has replaced ditches which had also served to reduce wind damage. In dry years the lack of moisture in the soil aggravates the problem.

What can be done about wind erosion? There is no one simple answer to the problem. In most cases a combination of things are necessary.

Strip cropping is an effective method of reducing wind erosion. Strips of legumes or grasses alternating with row crops are best. Small grains are also helpful as close growing crops.

Planting row crops, such as, beets and beans in north-south direction has at times been helpful.

Rough tillage of the soil will retard erosion. Trashy cultivation or stubble mulching in which stubble is not turned completely under is a help. Minimum tillage of the soil not only retards erosion but saves much valuable time. The practice of leaving the topsoil rough has gained wide acceptance by farmers over a short period of time. It has proven very effective for the sugar beet growers. Don't make a garden of your seed bed.

Cover crops such as rye, oats, barley or field broomgrass sown in the fall will protect your fields through the winter.

The use of straw at 500 pounds per acre over growing crops offers protection and it returns vital organic matter to the soil. And, of course, do not burn crop residues.

Windbreaks or shelter belts of trees are a more permanent form of protection. They will protect an area from 5 to 15 times the height of the trees with some protection offered to as much as 20 times their height. Even one row of trees provides considerable protection from wind. Some of the faster growing trees used are Jack Pine and Chinese Elm. Spruce and Red Cedar are more slow growing. Other pines will make adequate windbreaks on many soils. Evergreens, of course, will give protection throughout the year. Willow has been used but is apt to clog tile lines. Trees can be obtained from several sources at quite reasonable prices.

Wind erosion is a continuing problem that will not take care of itself.

Every citizen of Tuscola county stands to lose when our precious topsoil is lost through wind erosion.

It's not too late to do something about wind erosion and the time to start is now.

If you have any questions or need further information about some of the above practices contact any of the agencies on the committee.

Feeble Hawks Lose two More Games by Wide Margins

The Hawks were devoured by Buena Vista Tuesday night, 92-53, as the Saginaw area school proved that it takes more than two men to make a team.

Jim Knoblet scored 25 points and snagged 19 rebounds. Jim Champion hit for 17 points to account for all but 16 of the Hawks' point total.

The game was played at Buena Vista.

Cass City dropped another Thumb B Conference game Friday as Frankenmuth romped over the Hawks nearly at will, 103-72.

The Eagles' big front line easily controlled the backboards, outbounding the Hawks in every period.

Actually the game was decided in the opening quarter as the host team romped off to a 23-11 lead. Plesko was the big gun for the Eagles in the quarter and in the game. He notched 14 of his 38 points in the opening period.

After blistering the nets in the opening quarter, Frankenmuth continued to add to the margin in each of the next three periods. They posted a slight three-point advantage in the second quarter to post a comfortable 48-33 advantage at half-time.

In each of the last three quarters the Hawks scored well from the field... but the Eagles scored better.

In the second half the winners posted a 26-20 advantage and in the final quarter a 29-19 margin.

With the loss of Ed Retherford, the Hawks will be in for a battle to stay out of the league basement... a position they have never occupied in the history of the conference.

The two league games with Sandusky will decide who will occupy the league basement this year.

The Hawks have only one victory so far this season, a decision posted over Vassar in the fourth game of the year.

Reserves Lose

Most of the thrills for the Hawk fans came in the Junior Varsity game which Frankenmuth won, 68-67.

The box score:

GOP Laments Representation On Ways & Means Committee

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
The Other Foot

Dialogue remained the same, but the participants traded scripts in the early days of the 1965 legislative session.

When committee assignments were announced, this session it was the Republican members who claimed they were the victims of unequal representation.

In the past sessions, year after year, the Democrats complained they never got representation on committees proportionate to their strength in the Legislature. These were the years Republicans held majority control.

Tables turned this year and House Minority Leader Robert Waldron was given the role of chief complainant about committee assignments.

Waldron apparently didn't feel he should issue a blanket complaint. He concentrated instead on the important committees, the same ones on which Democrats had attempted to gain members in recent sessions when the partisan House division was nearly equal.

Democrats this year increased the Ways and Means Committee, most powerful in the House, to 16 members. This is three above previous sessions but the minority party still was given only four seats.

This important committee dispute was the only major complaint Waldron voiced, although in past sessions Democrats said they were also short-changed in two other areas.

Democrats long and loudly lamented that ruling Republicans refused to accept their recommendations for committee assignment of their own party membership. Waldron said he was pleased his recommendations for GOP member placements were accepted this year.

The other traditional complaint, proportionate division of committees, found Waldron straddling the fence. He said Democrats "came close to the Republican-Democratic ratio of the total House membership" but "fell short of fair" on the more important working units.

Growing Problem
Mental health must be allowed to remain an independent unit of state government, according to an advisory council serving in this area.

Being the largest government agency already, the council said, "Any further combining of the Department with other departments would interfere with its ability to deliver quality service, rather than strengthen it."

Goals of the department's new director, Robert A. Kimmich, are set high for the next few years. He says it could be possible to eliminate the waiting list of committed patients within two years and sharply decrease the waiting list of retarded persons.

These possibilities, of course, would be contingent upon full financial support from the Legislature for the department's budget requests and retention of a separate mental health unit.

If the sheer facts of size do not convince legislators this department should remain untouched, the advisory council has served notice it will further back up its argument.

"All of the more populous states, with the exception of Pennsylvania and Ohio, administer their mental health programs through separate departments of mental health or mental hygiene," council officials said, as part of their supporting argument.

School Need
Professional educators, looking to Lansing for a major boost in funds this year, point first to a continuing percentage drop in state aid during the past 15 years.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett says that since 1950-51, the state's share in aid for all purposes dropped from 52 to 41 per cent.

In operational costs alone, the head of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, notes that state aid was 58 per cent until five years ago and is now down to about 46 per cent.

Rising costs and the population explosion are heavily burdening local school districts. On this point educators fully agree.

The rash of school millage proposal defeats recently and curtailed educational programs "makes it both obvious and imperative" that local school costs are excessive and must be relieved at the state level, according to Bartlett.

An estimated 2 million students are now attending public schools in Michigan and enrollments are increasing by about 55,000 annually so educators see no effective relief except from state government.

COMMENTS BY KRAFT

Willis Really Knows How to Hurt A Guy

By Dave Kraft

I think there's a conspiracy afoot. A foul, salt-in-the-wound, rub-your-nose-in-it, "tough luck Buster" conspiracy.

It's being perpetrated by my fair-weather readers who go south in the winter and leave me up here to fend for myself.

Within a one week period or less, I received four letters from readers in the south . . . Florida, mainly.

The unkindest cut of all came from Willis Campbell. He wrote: "A little disappointed in your weather report each week in the Chronicle but look forward each week to getting the local news." Frankly, Willis, I'm a little disappointed in the weather so I didn't report it.

"Weather here at Vero Beach has been wonderful. Last two days 81 and 82 and today 80 predicted."

That Willis really knows how to hurt a guy, doesn't he? "Fish have cooperated, too, and what a variety of different specimen. Everytime we catch one, we get out the book for identification."

"Many Michigan people here in Florida." I can think of one more that isn't, that should be.

This is written on Monday and for all you defectors to the south, here's your darn weather report. I'm looking out my window and the snow is filtering down as in a scene from one of those little glass balls that you turn upside down.

We got about three knuckles worth during the night and we had about half-way to your elbow already. The snow continues and a bus load of dejected young-uns just went by hoping it will continue.

So have your fun, you baskers in the sun. I wish it were me instead of thee, but that's the way the snowball bounces.

Rev. Melvin Vender and his wife, visiting his brother in Pompano Beach to "shorten the winter" sent this little ditty from the Fort Lauderdale News.

Editor Gets Wings
An editor knocked at the pearly gate. His face was scarred and cold. He stood before the man of fate. For admission to the fold. "What have you done," St. Peter asked. "To gain admission here?" "I've been an editor, Sir," he said. "For many and many a year." The pearly gates swung open wide. St. Peter touched the bell. "Come in," he said, "and choose a harp. 'You've had your share of hell.'"

If that's the truth, then the Chronicle staff is in like sin.

We received a beautiful copy of the "Gagetown Times," Nov. 7, 1901, from Mrs. Maude B. Wilson of Tampa, Fla. She's a former Gagetown resident.

I didn't know Gagetown even had a paper. Mrs. Wilson wrote a delightfully interesting letter which I hope we can print.

George Davy and his wife also dropped me a card commenting on their Chronicle which they're receiving in St. Cloud, Fla.

One thing about those Gagetowners, when they go south, they really go south. Especially Marge Lopez.

She went, as you know, clear down to Quiriquire, Venezuela. I really do think she carried things a little far, if you know what I mean.

She dropped me a two-page mimeographed letter, outlining her experiences so far and where she's been sightseeing. Sounds like she's having a fine time.

Letter to Editor

The Chronicle welcomes letters to the editor. In most in-stances letters will be printed in full. However, the paper re-serves the right to edit letters to fit space requirements. All letters must be signed.

Dear Mr. Kraft,

I am taking the liberty of mail-ing to you herewith an issue of the Gagetown Times dated No-vember, 1901, nearly 64 years ago.

First a few lines of introduc-tion.

I was a former school teacher of Huron County. My maiden name was Maude Bailey.

While teaching the Williamson school in Grant Township, 1901-02, I met and married William Wilson Jr. who resided one mile north of Gagetown. The last 24 years we have lived in Tampa, Fla.

I understand that Cass City is planning to celebrate its centen-nial this year.

You might be interested in jotting down some items in re-gard to prices paid 64 years ago.

They would no doubt be of in-terest especially to those who complain of present day prices and wages.

I noticed the paying price of chickens, ducks and geese were five cents per pound; old roosters 15c each. Butter, 15c a pound; eggs, 16c a dozen.

As that was in November, eggs were at their peak. In the sum-mer, they sold for 10c a dozen. Beans sold by the bushel then $1.40 - $1.50 per bushel. Potatoes, 45c per bushel. Choice, hand-picked apples, 25c per bushel.

Milk delivered at the creamery sold for 75c per hundred weight and good cheese could be bought for 11c per pound.

Even though I am in my 83rd year, I have a very vivid memory. Beer could be bought at Castners Brewery of Gagetown at 10c for two quarts. Hogs and cattle were as low as three cents per pound.

Sugar Beets
Sugar beets were harvested and hauled and put in stock piles near the depot. When the factory at Sebawaing was ready for them, farmers would load them from the stock pile onto their wagons, then pitch them off into cars for 10c per ton. Finally they went on strike and were paid 15c per ton.

Teaching Job
I taught school for $25.00 per month. All grades from kinder-garden pupils up to and including the eighth grade. That was con-sidered good wages at that time. Some were paid $20.00 a month and I had one friend who taught for $2.00 a week and her board. She would board a week at each home. I got my room and board for $1.50 a week. My friends were entertained free.

Remembers Names

At the time this issue of the Times was printed, May William-son Marshall was one of my eighth grade pupils. Later she graduated from the Cass City High School. She became an Eng-lish teacher and I understand she is still teaching in Essexville.

Zuleika Wallace Stafford, who was one of Cass City's honored citizens, was also one of my eighth graders.

These names bring pleasant memories: Mr. Thomas Cosgrove was one of our first rural mail carriers out of Gagetown. He rode horse back and received a salary of $500 a year; Mr. George Waun was hostler for Dr. Wil-son Morris and received $10.00 per week. He was on call day or night.

I noticed how well the business-men of Gagetown helped to sup-port their home paper by their generous advertising.

Few are left now who would remember those merchants and businessmen.

I think Mrs. Fred Palmer who was then Ada Coon would remem-ber them and perhaps Tillie Moll Hunter as Mr. Coon had the Post Office at that time and both worked in the office.

Arthur Freeman, who now lives in Gagetown, visited us at our home here in Tampa and laugh-ingly told of coming to our home near Gagetown to a party. He brought his girl friend, Alice Kehoe, (who later became his wife). He was wearing a pair of shoes that he had borrowed from his brother.

Those were the good old days weren't they? When "a friend in need was a friend indeed."

Comments on Kraft
Through the kindness of Mrs. Amasa Anthes Sr. of Gagetown and Tampa, I have the opportuni-ty of reading and enjoying the Cass City Chronicle each week and one of the first things I read is "Comments by Kraft." I en-joy it as I still have a sense of humor.

You are really a "card" and know how to put things across. Your wife must be a jewel and also have a good sense of humor or she would have "knocked your block off" before this. Enough said.

Wonder what you will look like when you cover your pleasant face with a growth of whiskers for the centennial?

Our object in keeping this partic-ular issue of the Gagetown Times was, that on the front page was a picture of O. Judd Brown; who had been our very close neighbor and friend. He was a cousin of Cyrus King, now of Argyle, and Frank Fuller of Caro, owner and manager of the stockyard at Caro and I believe Bad Axe and Sandusky.

Their mothers were sisters and I knew them both. One of them might be interested in having or seeing the picture.

As I know of no one who would keep this issue of the Gagetown Times as long as I have, you may do what you like with it.

Like myself it has seen its best days, but I haven't had to be taped together - as yet.

My husband and I had a very happy 62 years together. He passed away July 31, last, at the age of 84, active to the last day. Just his heart wore out. He was taken to Ubyly for burial.

Congratulations to your wife and new daughter. May the good work go on.

Very sincerely and best wishes.
Maude B. Wilson

Final Services Held
For Mrs. Peters, 85

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Peters, 85, of Snover, were held in Ubyly Tuesday fol-lowing her death Saturday morn-ing at Stevens Nursing Home after a brief illness.

Born March 17, 1879, at Burn-side, she married Frank Peters May 28, 1902, at Sandusky. He died May 26, 1951.

Mrs. Peters was a member of the Ladies Altar Society at St. Joseph Catholic Church at Ar-gyle.

Surviving are: three sons, Ed-win of Decker, Harold of Em-mett, and Dolph of Port Huron; three daughters, Mrs. Mark Mc-Carty of Ubyly, Mrs. Howard Walker of Mt. Clemens and Mrs. Wallace Plevin of East Detroit; 34 grandchildren, and 51 great-grandchildren.

Rev. Joseph D. Ryan, pastor, officiated at services at St. Jos-eph's Church and interment was in the church cemetery. Rosary was recited Monday night.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

If President Johnson aims to balance the budget he'll have to get busy and turn off more lights and tell Secretary McNamara to close down a few more ship yards. The signs was pointing definite in that direction.

First off, I see by the papers where the $33,000 the Navy spent fer studying flying submarines was paying off. They was work-ing on a model now they claim might do the trick, shoot up out of the water, drop a bomb, and shoot back under the ocean. Whether it works or not, you can figger on a few million fer this project. And it ain't but one step from there to studying battle-ships that can operate under water like submarines. That'll take a few more millions.

But the big news in the pa-pers last week was where the Commissioner of the District of Columbia was planning to re-build about half the city of Washington. He has celled in a feller named R. J. Neutra that is a expert on planning and building cities and the news he got from him was all bad. He says our nation's capital looks like slums compared to the cap-itals of other big countries. He claims Washington looks so "poverty-stricken it was sapping the life" out of Government workers. Federal employees, he says, will just git "more and more irritated until they final-ly go nuts!" The Commissioner agreed with him 100 per cent and they was now working on plans to submit to the Congress to "rebuild Washington to the point where it will catch up with other world capitals."

I brung this item up at the country store Saturday night and some of the fellers was pro and some was con in the matter. Ed Doolittle was of the opinion the sap in a heap of them Govern-ment workers was already down to the danger point. Further-more, he allowed, we can't stand no more nuts in the nation's capital. He figgered we had ought to git started on this rebuilding job right away afore we started the crusade agin poverty and winning the war in Vietnam.

Clem Webster was in favor of rebuilding but he was disagreed with Ed over the timing, claimed they ain't no hurry as long as them Government agencies has got spending projects on the planning board. He allowed as how a Federal agency with a $50 million project going was as happy as burial folks with a $3,000 funeral and wasn't in no danger of the sap running down.

Zeke Grubb went along with Clem; said the situation in Wash-ington would hold up as long as the spending projects was hold-ing out. He claimed it was al-ways a bad strategy to git in front of a goat, behind a mule, or cross-ways with a Federal agency working on a spending proj-ect.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

IT SEEMS TO ME The School Board Deserves Our Praise

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

Congratulations to us! For having an alert and ready-to-move School Board. Not only are they working on the erection of a new and much-needed high school, but also are leading this area in examining the possibility of establishing a college in the upper-Thumb area. With the bumper crop of war babies reaching the college age (including a 17-year-old whose last name is the same as mine), and with college education almost a must in the increasingly complicated time in which we live, a community college would be of significant service to the entire upper Thumb. Superintendent Crouse is devoting much of his time to this and associated projects, and deserves our thanks. Incidentally, Mr. Businessman, a new college in the environs of Cass City would bring not only new customers from among the student body but from their families and from the staff of the college, too. To the School Board, Superintendent Crouse and others, our thanks. Or, so it seems to me.

We note that Lutheran Pastor Paul Heitmann has moved to other fields of service. I am sorry to see him go. It was a step of faith on the part of the leaders of the church to ask him to be the first full-time minister of that church in Cass City. In addition to wishing farewell to him, we wish as well, good fortune to the church he served as it now seeks his successor.

Which leads us to note the mobility of the ministry is also one of the handicaps of it as a way of life. As a Methodist minister I had served in four churches previous to coming to this community. Among the things we missed in the ministry was the option to choose permanent friends and to join those organizations of interest to us. Of course, there are other compensations. But blessed is the church that has had long-term ministers to fill its pulpit! Cass City is blessed right now, with ministers who wish to stay here, and with churches that are like-minded. And Cass City now is benefitting from a period of cooperation between the various denominations and their ministers. Or, so it seems to me.

Another local church is in the making in rural Cass City. The Rev. Fred Johnson is leading the congregations of the New Greenleaf and Riverside United Missionary churches to unite. They will both leave their former sites, forming a new church just west of town in back of the motel. We congratulate the people of these churches for taking this 'giant step' of faith! Or, so it seems to me.

When we think of Viet Nam, we think of the war going on in that beleaguered nation. However, Dr. Kenneth C. Frazer of Pittsburgh, vice-president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, recently returned from there and reports, among other things, that five new church buildings are now under construction there! His denomination reports many gains and that they have 383 churches with 65,000 members and 124 North American missionaries.

One of the large automobile makers expects that the homes of tomorrow will be homes on the highways. Using fuel cells for necessary home power, they envision air conditioned living quarters, frozen food storage, induction cooking with lighting and water recycling systems all in a package slightly larger than today's sedan. Among things still being researched; delivering and getting mail; church-going and school-going!

Thrifty is the feature by which the Scotch are known. An Englishman and a Scotsman found themselves on a raft after the ocean liner they were on broke up and foundered. As they drifted toward an uncharted island, the Englishman cried, "Good Lord, nothing worse than this could have happened to us!"

"Sure and yer wrong, laddie," said the Scotsman, "D'ye know, I almost bought a round-trip ticket."

Agent's Corner

By Barbara Hearikson
Tyscola County Home Economics
Extension Agent

My car made the trip to Sandusky for the teen-parent lesson with no trouble.

But on coming out, the key in the ignition brought no response. This car is my servant and servants are supposed to obey.

Scientific approach was evidently best: Shift into neutral, and the right key (once I drove a friend's car using the trunk key in the ignition and shorted the whole electrical system). The lights worked so the battery was all right. This was as far as my scientific knowledge of cars reaches.

So I used the woman's approach. Wiggle everything wiggleable, and kick it twice, then go to lunch in hopes it would be feeling better when I got back. A corned beef sandwich and glass of milk made me feel better but didn't help the car. It obviously was not being temperamental but was really sick.

A car doctor was called for. He tried everything I had, except kicking it (one really shouldn't kick a sick patient) and it still didn't work.

He lifted the hood and looked at it like he honestly knew what all those gizmos, do-jiggers and thingamabobs were. I could only watch in awe.

Poker-faced, he touched, jigged, probed and finally a light gleamed in his eye.

The starter had fallen apart. We depend completely on machines. From the moment we wake up to an alarm clock until we turn out the light at night, we are surrounded by machines: wheels and axles, levers, pulleys, inclined planes, wedges and screws. And all of the infinite, multiple variation and combinations of them that people wiser than I have been able to devise.

Not too many years ago, people used machines only in their simple forms to make a simple life easier.

I would never by choice go back to those days, yet it is not good when we depend on machines so exclusively that we ourselves cannot function without them.

There is nothing more frustrating than a machine which doesn't work. The machines which do work, research shows us, do not save time for a homemaker, they merely raise her standards.

Every woman has a hidden time clock in her brain which tells her that she should spend four hours a week on laundry, six on cleaning, etc. Just like the one in the bird's brain which tell her that four is the optimum number of eggs; if a mean old scientist keeps stealing her eggs, she'll keep on laying them for weeks. If he slips in two fakes, she'll stop after the second day.

So we bird brain homemakers keep on working our set hours, raising standards for the Joneses to keep up with.

When the machines that make the standards possible fail, we get frantic trying to keep the standards up.

Babies don't die if not bathed every day, people have slept on unironed sheets and some brave souls even walk a few blocks on occasion.

Machines are our servants, very good servants, but servants always make poor masters.

Hold Final Rites For Mrs. Mullin

Last rites were held Tuesday at the St. Agatha Church in Gagetown for Mrs. Catherine Mullin, 82, following her death Saturday, Jan. 30, in Hills and Dales General Hospital. She had been ill since October.

She married Daniel J. Mullin in Gagetown November 5, 1911, where they made their home. Mr. Mullin died in 1947.

Surviving are: two daughters, Miss Veronica Mullin and Mrs. Mary Grady, both of Gagetown; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Edward Hennessey of Florida; two sons, William Mullin of Detroit and Julian Mullin of Adrian; five grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. A daughter, two brothers and three sisters preceded her in death.

Newspaper Supports Taylor For Circuit Judge

ROBERT TAYLOR WOULD MAKE A GOOD CIRCUIT JUDGE

(From an Editorial in the Davison Index)

... The other two candidates (Taylor and Lutz) are Republicans, Taylor has been somewhat more active in the Republicans. Some years ago he was county chairman.

The Circuit Judgeship, though, is too important an office to be decided on the basis of politics. The qualifications should be legal training and the ability to make firm and fair and prompt decisions. On this basis, Robert Taylor is our man. He is some 10 years older than the other two and has that much more experience, not just in law but as a businessman and farmer and in the fields of human relations. He is still young enough at 54 to be a vigorous judge.

Robert Taylor is generally regarded as one of the top lawyers in this whole area. He is fully qualified for the job. ...
