

From the Editor's Corner

It is unfortunate that the meeting called to answer questions about the council could not have been arranged so that it could have been reported before the election.

The session was planned to quiet rumors about the operation of the village. Planners of the program report that the only time the gym was available was the Thursday that the session was set for.

It is likely that the meeting will start more rumors than it quells. Nothing gets more distorted than word of mouth reports.

We recall the time that everyone was reporting that the now late Sam Blades was dead. Not only was he reported dead, but the time, place and cause of death was common knowledge all over town.

Most of us sitting around the coffee table were astonished when he strolled in looking just about the same as always.

We doubt that over 50 persons will attend the panel session and we feel that the remainder will be more confused than ever after the meeting.

You can look for the largest vote in the history of the village when the general village election rolls around Mar. 8. Opposing forces are girding for the biggest battle that veteran observers can recall.

It will be a well organized sticker campaign against the well organized forces that nominated Mrs. Gladys Albee and Glen "Scotty" McCullough in the primaries.

There are about 625 registered voters in the village and the Chronicle predicts 80 per cent of them will cast ballots.

The candidates that sit on the council after this election will be sure that they were seated by a representative vote of the people.

Coach John Oswald says that it will cost $70 to attend the two-week basketball clinic at Caro this summer, which he figures is well worth the money even though he realizes it is too much for most of the youngsters.

He would like to see as many Cass City boys attend as possible and is open to suggestions, donations or other ideas that would help some of these boys get to the clinic this summer. Complete details of the program are explained in a story elsewhere in this issue.

Official Okay For Centennial

The Cass City Centennial received official permission to use village facilities for Cass City's 100-year celebration this July at the regular meeting of the village council Tuesday night.

Cochairman Jim Ware attended the meeting and outlined what the village could expect during the week-long proceedings.

For one full week the Happyland show will occupy a spot at the recreation park. There will be nine concessions ready to help the youngsters celebrate and collect their dimes and quarters.

The park will be the site of the pageant that runs for several nights.

The council also sanctioned the various parades and gave permission for the centennial workers to place banners and decorations along Main street during the big week.

"We still need many more items," stated Mrs. Warren Kelley after reporting that her committee has been notified of a number of centennial pieces.

Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Fred Leeson are in charge of a display committee which is organizing a card catalogue of centennial items which will be used by merchants, clubs and other organizations for window displays.

Mrs. Kelley reminded contributors not to bring the items in. All that is needed is a description of the item or items and the contributor's name, address and phone number.

She also announced that her committee will be checking with merchants in the near future to see what window space is available.

Expect Few at Budget Hearing

It is unlikely that the public hearing over the budget this year will have as much interest as the one did last year.

It was at the budget hearing that the storm over cutting trees in the community broke. Some 25 ladies stormed the council rooms to protest.

The approval of the budget took about five minutes and the discussion about the trees consumed about two hours.

This year's budget hearing will be held Friday, Feb. 26, at 8 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

5 Hurt In Area Crashes

A Caro driver was seriously injured and four area men suffered lesser injuries in a three-car crash early Saturday morning on M-81, 300 feet north of Seelye Road.

Most seriously injured in the crash was Bart White, 54, Caro, who was treated at Hills and Dales Hospital for a concussion and chest injuries.

Also injured were Richard J. Mika, 24, Decker, and William Merchant, 24, Cass City, in one car and Jerry Hursberger, 26, Kingston, and Joe Davis, 21, Caro, in another car.

Mika was traveling toward Cass City on M-81 and White's car, with only one headlight, reportedly crossed the center line into Mika's lane.

Seconds after the cars collided, a third car, driven by Hursberger, slammed into the rear of White's car, driving it into an adjacent field.

White was ticketed for reckless driving by Sheriff's deputies. Elaine Houghton, 19, Kingston, escaped injury Wednesday, Feb. 17, when she stopped for a sign on East Dayton Road and her car slid into a ditch.

Concluded on page two.

Drunk Driver Completing Five Day Sentence

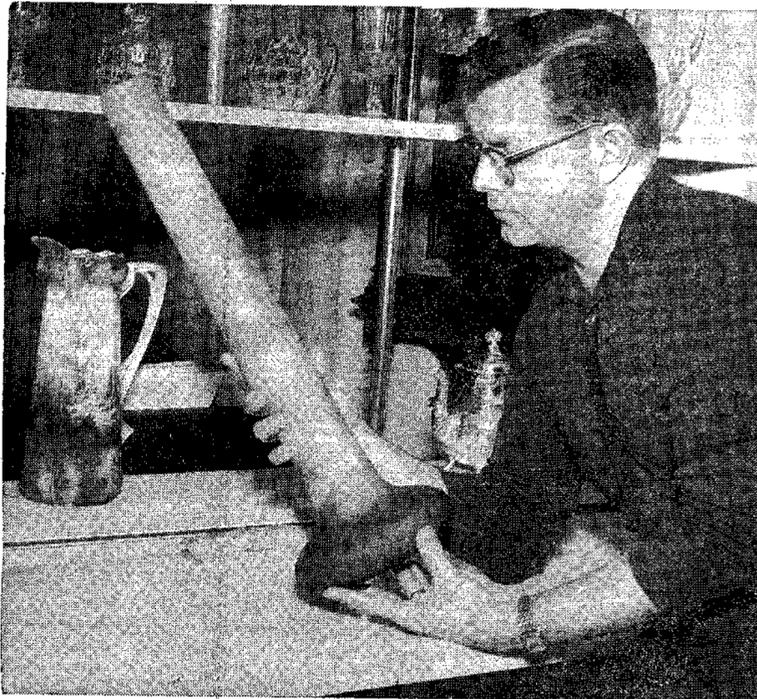

A Decker man was to have finished serving a five-day sentence Wednesday in county jail, but faces the possibility of 30 more days if he is unable to pay fines received following his arrest for driving under the influence of liquor.

Elmer J. Sherman, 62, was arrested Friday, Feb. 19, in Elmwood township by State Police. After appearing before Justice Frank Rolka, Caro, he was ordered to pay a fine of $100, costs of $6.25 plus five days in jail.

His sentence is to be extended 30 days if the fines and costs are not paid.

In other justice news, Duane E. Felton, 18, Deford, paid fine and costs of $29.30 in Cass City Justice Court Saturday, Feb. 20, after he pleaded guilty to reckless driving.

He was arrested by Patrolman William McKinley following an accident.

THE PRICE TAG on this antique "Cameo" vase quickly changes it from a vase to a "vahze." Holding the piece is Robert Barrons, who with his wife, Vera, operates Barrons Antique Shop in Wilmot. A collector since childhood, his hobby is fast developing into a lucrative business. (Chronicle photo)

Lady's Spitoons—New Fad? No, But There's A Market

Looking much like its contemporary counterparts, the vase sat in the middle of the table, surrounded by a number of other apparently nondescript items.

It was tall, about two and a half feet tall, and, except for the light jade-colored, raised etchings, was a frosted, almost white-green, color.

To the unaccustomed eye, it was not a particularly beautiful vase nor was it particularly unattractive. In short, it is just an average piece of glass ware.

Price tag: $195.

This piece and thousands of other sometimes more beautiful and sometimes less attractive items take on a new aura because the business is "antiques" and it is fast becoming a full time job for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barrons of Wilmot.

Barrons started his antique shop in the upstairs rooms adjacent to his store in Wilmot three years ago and what has been a hobby since childhood blossomed into a business.

His inventory numbers approximately 1,000 pieces, purchased for about $8,000, but with a resale value many times that.

He figures that he made between $4,000 to $5,000 last year from his hobby-business.

Mrs. Barrons, Vera, reportedly wasn't interested in antiques before she married Bob, but things have changed. "It was a case of necessity," he quipped.

Every three or four months, the Barrons bundle up their two-year-old son Gregg, and take off for two or three days in a continuing search for more antiques.

"We find most of our antiques by following leads. Sometimes it's a lot of work and other times we stumble onto some good antiques," says Bob.

"We rarely attend auctions, unless it's a complete antique auction," he explained. "Once in a while we attend a farm auction, but here you usually find a niece or nephew, or some other relative who will go way beyond the value of an article because of sentiment. We just can't spend the time involved in going to an auction without buying anything."

Barrons' prices are lower than those of most antique dealers, because "we're out in the country."

His prices are, for the most part, derived with the help of a blue book of antique prices entitled, "Antiques and Their Current Prices," by Edwin G. Warman.

"This gives an average price for an item across the whole of the United States. In different areas, different items are considered more valuable."

Another notable feature about Any Taxes Paid After the last day of February and before March 8, 1965, will have a 4 per cent fee added by law. Arthur Hartwick, Novesta township treasurer. 2-25-1

Barrons store is that it is not the usual jumbled up mess one expects of an antique store. All items are clean and displayed individually.

Barrons' customers come from all over the state, predominantly, though, from Saginaw and Bay City. The day he was interviewed, he'd just finished waiting on some customers from Bad Axe.

A partial list of serious Cass City area antique collectors, compiled by Miss Betty Agar, a collector herself, includes: Mrs. Alden Asher, Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Mrs. William McKinley, Mrs. Cameron Wallace, Mrs. Cliff Ryan, Mrs. Warren Wood, Mrs. Stuart Atwell, Mrs. Bob Keating, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wells, Mrs. Earl Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Leeson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leeson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barrons of Kingston.

What determines an antique? "Well, according to the government," says Barrons, "anything after 1832 isn't an antique. But if we followed that, we wouldn't have many antiques."

Early 1900's, with variances, depending on the item, was the era Barrons gave as a good general date for classification of antiques. Items from that period back are generally classified as antiques.

"The 1920's and thereabouts don't apply. Especially for furniture. Everything was mass produced and there is a lot of it around yet. There were a lot of copies of 15th and 16th century styles . . . a lot of veneer. Solid woods are more valuable."

How can a person tell if a certain item is an antique?

"With furniture, a lot depends on the style, how made, and materials used to put it together. Furniture was made by hand and there are a lot of irregularities in the workmanship."

"The best way, of course, is to take it to a reputable dealer and with the aid of current books and books of that era, he should be able to tell."

While Barrons' "for sale" antiques contain many outstanding pieces, his private collection contains fantastically beautiful and unusual glass ware, huge, well-built pieces of furniture and other articles of high quality.

One of two of his prize pieces of furniture is an eight-foot, three-inch high secretary (a combination desk and book case) from about 1840 which, according to Barrons, would cost about $1,000 to have duplicated by a modern man.

House Appointed

Gov. George Romney has appointed Clinton House of Cass City, Tuscola County Circuit Court Commissioner, it was announced Wednesday. It was one of three commissioner appointments made by the governor.

House will replace C. Bates Wills who resigned to take his present position as Tuscola County Judge of Probate.

Council in Fruitless Meet

It was a "lame duck" type session for the Cass City Village Council Tuesday night. With two of the councilmen facing possible loss of seats in the Mar. 8 election most business was deferred until the political picture in Cass City clears.

There was a discussion about use of the police radio, but action on this matter was tabled until the police committee spoke to Patrolman William McKinley. What caused the problem was not revealed by President Lee Rabideau as he mentioned the matter to the council.

A letter was read and passed over to probable president-elect Lambert Althover on whether to attend a meeting concerning the annual mayor's exchange. In one of the few decisions reached, the council decided to participate in the exchange this year.

Close Street
Another action that was concluded was the legal closing of Church Street in front of the former Tusco Products building. The street has been closed for years and the council's action made it official.

Obviously They Were Burning Their Bridges

One of the best ways to live up Cass City on a quiet Friday evening is to set fire to the Cass River bridge south of town.

That was apparently the reasoning behind the actions of pranksters Friday night, Feb. 19, who poured gasoline on the pavement at the south end of the bridge and ignited it.

A passing motorist, who reported the fire, told fire department officials that he saw the gas burst into flames but saw no one leaving the scene.

Firemen arrived quickly, followed by several cars which hampered traffic, and the fire was put out before any damage could be done.

Persons following fire department vehicles too closely or who in any other way, hamper fire department vehicles en route to a fire, are subject to a ticket, Fire Chief Nelson Willy warned.

Saturday night Willy was called to the rear of Fort's Store after an unidentified car hit a gas meter, causing a leak. A repairman was called and the gas was shut off.

this summer revealed that trustees had little concrete information about the program.

The thought behind the discussion was that a program could be started during the spring sports season and carry on through the summer.

However, no one knew what age group the program included and what was required if the schools should help the village start the program. A junior Olympic program died from lack of interest last year.

The discussion sparked a brief talk about the summer recreation program. It was suggested by Fred Leeson, who was in charge of the recreation program last year, that one man be made responsible for all phases of the program, including the operation of the pool.

Spray Trees
Village Engineer William Schram reported that a man had offered to spray the elm trees in the village for $1.50 each, providing that there were 50 or more trees to be sprayed.

Dr. D. E. Rawson questioned the value of a spray that was so cheap. He said that he doubted if the proper spray could be purchased for this much money. No action was taken.

Says Thanks
President Rabideau thanked the council for their assistance during his terms in office and was thanked by the council for his work in behalf of the village.

Plan Sticker Battle

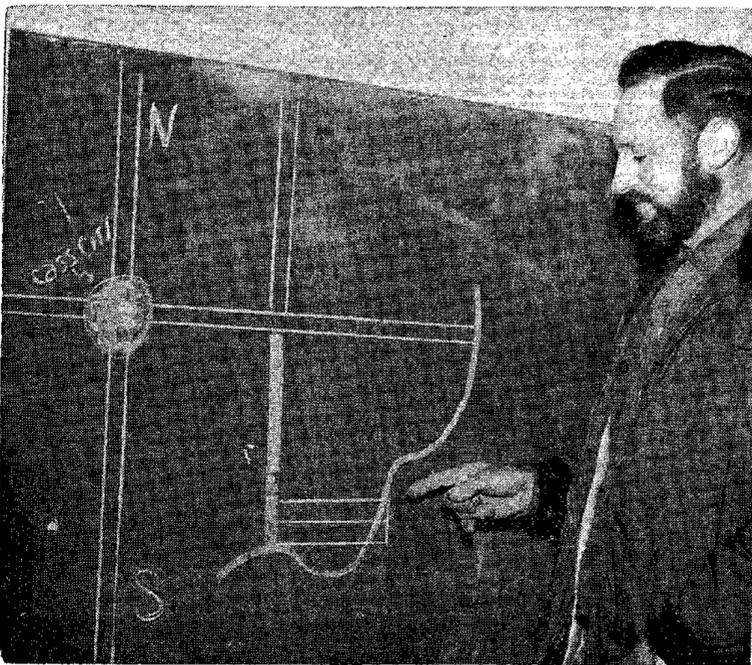

The supporters of Warren Wood and Leland Rabideau are girding for an all-out sticker campaign at the general village election Mar. 8 and staid Cass City seems to be in for a rip roaring political campaign.

A group of volunteer solicitors has been organized to work on election day and a letter will be mailed to registered voters.

Another highlight of the campaign will be a public meeting at Cass City High School Thursday, Mar. 4, at 8 p.m.

It is designed to answer questions about the coming election. Newscaster John Bowles of WKYO radio of Caro will moderate a panel discussion.

Wood and Rabideau were defeated in the primary by Mrs. Gladys Albee and Glen "Scotty" McCullough.

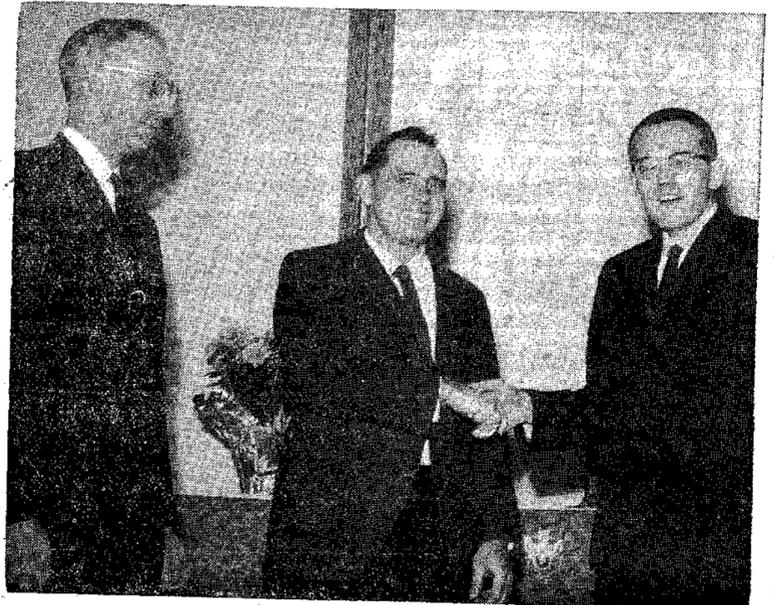

THE VILLAGE IS VERY interested in the location shown on this blackboard sketch for a new village sanitary land fill type village-township dump. There is 40 acres in the site, owned in two different parcels. The village is delaying action on acquiring the land until tests can be made showing where the water table is.

Bernard Freiburger, one of the committee in charge, points out the site on the blackboard and explained that the area is flat and suitable if tests prove okay.

The angling line on the sketch shows the Cass River. The site is one mile east and one-half mile south of Cass City. If purchased a new road would be constructed to the area from M-81.

It is anticipated that help in the cost would come from Elkland township.

sale of our new, big donuts and those delicious Butter-milk Puffs such a success this past week-end. We emphasized men above because they were as helpful in making the SALE a success as were the ladies. Speaking of men, did you notice that three men won the decorated cake three weeks in a row? This week the cake was won by the sister of the lady that won it last week. If you haven't won yet there is always next Saturday and the more your name is in the Cookie Jar the better are your chances, so glance over our specials and Good Luck to all.

While I'm just sort of rambling here let me tell you what I just this minute heard a lady say to Grace in the store. She bought the special, signed her name and put it in the Cookie Jar then asked, "which is the Kreamo Bread, oh yes, here it is. Oh! that makes the best toast!" If you haven't tried it and you're tired of "store" bread, a word to the wise should be sufficient. IT'S SOLD ONLY AT You're looking at the lowest priced sedan and station wagon that Chevrolet makes. They neither look nor act their price. They're roomy. The sedan seats six. The wagon has nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

They're good looking. Clean. Functional. You can get an economical 4-cylinder engine in the sedan or in both cars, a 120-hp Hi-Thrift Six that's quick to do everything but cost you money. As we said earlier, these are our lowest priced cars. Try one out today.

75 Families at Chemical Clinic

Approximately 75 area farmers attended a "Farm Chemical Clinic" Wednesday, Feb. 17, at the Farm Chemical Sales building in Cass City, according to Mgr. William O'Dell.

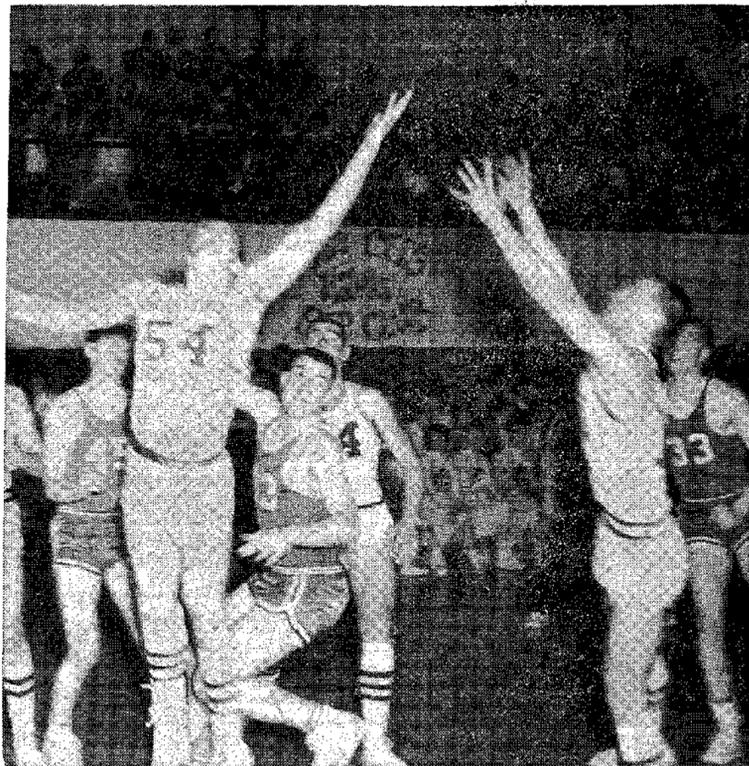

O'Dell termed the response a "good turnout." He added that other clinics may be held if there is enough demand.

Six different speakers from various companies discussed and demonstrated fertilizer, chemicals and equipment. The speakers alternated their presentations throughout the day.

A break was taken at lunch time and those present were served baked beans, potato chips and cold cuts. The beans were prepared by Mrs. Jack Spencer, Mrs. Milton Gelatt, Mrs. Leroy Kilbourn, Mrs. Harold Little and Mrs. Jack Gallagher.

Hawks Cop Key Cage Battle

THIS IS WHY Cass City dominated the rebounding in Friday's game with Sandusky. Jim Knoblet, number 54, and Wayne Copeland, right, surround the boards to capture this defensive rebound. Watching the action is L. Cork, (45), B. Schroppe (43) and C. Lee (33) for Sandusky. That's Jim Walters watching the action for the Hawks.

Cage Clinic A-Ok Says John Oswald

Coach John Oswald of Cass City will be one of the instructors at the five-week basketball clinic sponsored by the Detroit Pistons this summer and he feels that it is designed to be of maximum benefit to high school athletes.

At the clinic there will be about eight boys to every coach, he said, a ratio that is unequalled almost anywhere. The clinic is divided into sessions that will divide the boys by grades. During one session boys in the eighth and ninth will attend. In another, 10th and 11th graders will be instructed until all boys of high school age, including graduating seniors, have been given an opportunity to attend, Oswald said. Guest coaches from Michigan colleges will attend to give lectures and two members of the Pistons will be on hand throughout the clinic, Oswald explained.

It will cost boys attending $70 for the session they are eligible to attend. During their stay, the boys will live in the balcony of the Caro High School gym and eat in that school's cafeteria.

Oswald would like to have all of his Hawk cagers attend, but realizes that the cost is prohibitive for many of the boys.

BULEN TALKS Cars

"Here's the latest news from Russia," announced the American sportscaster. "A Russian made an endurance run of 100 miles in the fantastic time of 24 hours. To top it off, he ran over rough fields, through streams and through dense woodland. It was as much an obstacle run as it was an endurance run."

The audience was astounded by the news as the announcer paused for a few seconds to let the statement sink in.

"But," he resumed, "the run was made in vain. He was caught and returned to Russia!"

The people at BULEN MOTORS know as you do that we should be thankful every day that we live in this country of ours where it is possible for men to work where they want to and as they want to, and through free enterprise, build a business that is profitable and gives satisfaction. This is a country where people like BULEN MOTORS can give extra service and reap the rewards of good will. BULEN MOTORS is proud of its record of satisfied customers, proud that the business done in the sale of new cars and used cars and in servicing has proven itself in the many new customers added to the list year after year.

The American way of life is unique because we work together in a community for our common good... when we buy in our home town, our dollars benefit our own home town!! The next time you think of buying a car, make the purchase at home, at BULEN MOTORS!

BOOK REVIEW "Man" is Long But Authentic By the Rev. R. J. Searls

THE MAN, by Irving Wallace, is another in the list of recent novels about the agencies of the government, and therefore is centered in Washington, D.C. It is also one of the longest novels we have ever reviewed for you. Initially, I thought I would say, as I have in this column in the past, that a good novelist could state the thesis (or theme) of the book with lots of fewer pages. I tried to note places, as I read "The Man", where something could be eliminated at no loss to the plot of the novel; they were way too few. However, there are a few tedious paragraphs in the 766 oversized pages.

We have reviewed at least one earlier novel by this same author, "The Chapman Report," which was, like "The Man," on the list of best sellers.

In the opening pages of this book we are hastily introduced to the theme. The vice-president has died just a few months earlier. As we pick up the tale, the President and the speaker of the House of Representatives (constitutionally the next person to succeed the President, should he die) are both killed while attending an international conference. The next in line to become President in such an eventuality is the President of the Senate; in this case Douglass Dilman, who also happens to be a Negro.

Now the setting in time for all this is just one presidential term from that just marked by the recent inauguration. The elected president, just tragically killed, was very popular. He is known only as T. C. in the novel.

We become involved in the plot as the many tension spots show up and we see the President handle them. An attorney by training and by practice, Dilman is a widower and father of two - Julian, and Mindy. His wife had died, an alcoholic. Julian is a college student and becomes involved in several unsavory organizations. Mindy, being light-skinned, has chosen to "cross over," living as a white person, completely out of touch with her father, who doesn't even know where she is living.

Two problems dominate the book. The first of these is in the area of foreign relations: Namely, a communist build-up on the border of a little newly-independent nation in Africa. The dominant problem is the attempt

FIRST IN DETROIT—Mrs. Robert Bassett of Cass City reminisces with Bud Schneeberger, local RCA television dealer, about the time she sold the first 21-inch RCA color television in Metropolitan Detroit. She was awarded the trophy she is holding. Ever faithful to an old employer, the Bassetts purchased their 1965 color set in December just about 10 years after Mrs. Bassett made her award winning sale.

No Set, No Price But She Sold T.V.

A Cass City woman celebrates an unusual and distinctive anniversary this year, 10 years after she sold Detroit's first 21-inch RCA color television.

Mrs. Robert Bassett, wife of a

Cass City factory owner, has laid claim to the title and she has proof of the event in the shape of an Oscar-type statue presented her by the Detroit officials of RCA Corporation.

Mrs. Bassett admits she obtained the honor through a fluke, but adds results are what count.

She sold the set to a Catholic priest even though she had no set on display and didn't even know how much a color set sold for.

Engraved on the statuette is the citation: "Awarded to Betty C. Bassett in recognition for selling the first RCA 21-inch color TV set in the Metropolitan Detroit Area, 1955."

Mrs. Bassett was employed by Judd Electronics in Detroit as a saleswoman.

COMMENTS BY KRAFT

It Will Never Work In Cass City

By Dave Kraft

Cass Cityans! Awake!

Or should that be: Cass Cityans, awake? Never mind. The vehicle isn't important, it's the cause that counts.

I think there has been too much abuse by certain officials who have been using their power to ramrod action against a single minority group of Cass City residents.

I think we are all aware of this, but as usual, nobody speaks out. Take heart you oppressed souls, you have found a spokesman.

The situation I speak of, as you all know, is the continuous badgering of Cass City canines by the local authorities.

We should put a stop to it. Control the malfasants and fire those who don't conform. While we're at it, let's burn a cross or two.

Obviously the only way to do this is to get somebody on our side elected dog chaser.

We'll work it on the "never let the right hand know what the left is doing" and our slogan will be "Insidiously Surreptitious" (I had to use the dictionary for that one).

As a candidate for the office, I'll nominate myself, although it is customary that the candidate be someone else so no one will suspect what's up.

My personal campaign slogan will be "DK for DC" (Dave Kraft for Dog Chaser).

We'll hold a bunch of in-clan-destine, card-playing-after-dinner meetings at which we will discuss the various bad points of the culprits.

Then, after a phone campaign, we'll swish into office on the crest of a landslide vote.

And if that doesn't work, we'll try it on stickers... it's been done before.

Once I'm in office, I'll have a bone in every dog dish, straw in every dog house and a mailman for every dog to terrorize.

And the first guy that cuts down a relief station gets the boot.

How's that strike ya? You say you're fed up with this sort of thing. You say this is no place for back-knifing and pitting friend against friend and neighbor against neighbor over petty grievances that would seem comic if they happened in any town but our town.

You say we're above this sort of thing and that it would never work even if we tried it. Well...

I sympathize with the lady who reported last week to the Sheriff's office that her car had been stolen from the Hills and Dales General Hospital parking lot and then remembered to her chagrin that she'd left it home.

The same thing happens when you leave your car in a certain spot day after day after day and then park it around the corner.

I did that once. Left the office, jumped in and went three blocks before I realized that there wasn't any car there.

Fritz Neitzel called the other day to exclaim that spring is really here. Generally I take everything Fritz says with a block of salt.

This time, he says he had symbolic proof. Seems he saw a robin on his way to work.

It was sitting on a limb, all puffed out, with a "What in the world am I doing here?" look on its face.

He offered further proof that the Spirit of Spring was really tripping through the countryside with the news that Bad Axe had the first area grassfire of the season.

I'll have to have more proof than that. Something like a pretty girl strolling past my office window in a gay colored dress. Now, that's spring!

met Feb. 10 at the home of Mrs. Robert Bader. Matthew 6:1-13 was read in unison and Rev. William Burgess led in prayer. There were nine members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Lloyd Bader, Mrs. Robert Bader and Mrs. Clair Auslander are in charge of the spring rummage sale. Mrs. Robert Bader is the new member of the nominating committee.

Mr. Burgess taught the lesson, "Rekindling the Inner Life through Prayer." Lunch was served by the hostess.

The monthly Family Night of the RLDS Church was held Friday evening, Feb. 12, at the church annex. Howard Gregg and Dean Smith presented the worship service. Mrs. Bruce Kritzman was in charge of recreation.

Mrs. Charles Meredith and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance and boys were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Auslander and Dale.

The Sandy Acre Farm Bureau Group met Monday, Feb. 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loeding. Arthur Severance led the discussion on "Water." Lee Staser, insurance agent, was the guest speaker.

- (3) Money could not be added to it.

With the book account the depositor can add to or subtract from the amount deposited without disturbing the balance of the account. We know this will be more satisfactory to the depositor and will net him much more interest.

Mansion for Governor is Knotty Problem for State

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Governor's Home

Several years ago then-Gov. G. Mennen Williams suggested the state should have an executive mansion. Many states already provided a residence for their governor, he said.

He then proceeded to have a study drawn up to determine what such a mansion should include.

Serious thought and considerable time went into the Williams-initiated study. Included in the results were recommendations that it be near the Capitol, contain distinctively private as well as public areas, include a state dining room for large groups and overnight accommodations for visiting dignitaries.

Not wanting to appear selfish in his motives, Williams shelved the study recommendations until after he announced in 1960 he would not seek another term. He then brought it to the Legislature's attention but nothing was done with it. Austerity was too important at that time.

Constitutional Convention delegates in 1962 decided maybe the former governor was right. Michigan should provide its chief executive with a home.

With a provision for a governor's mansion written into the new Constitution, the mandate went to the Legislature. Last year a committee studied what such a building should include.

Lo and behold, the recommendations presented to the Legislature this year are basically the same as those of the Williams study. But now, with the change in legislative power, some say further study will be required before any formal proposal is forthcoming.

No doubt, studies of proposed legislation of such lasting import are required. It would appear, however, that the governor's mansion proposal, like a number of other matters could be studied to death.

It is difficult to decide whether legislators have an innate distrust of their predecessor's abilities or whether each group of lawmakers just wants to take full credit for accomplishments.

The mansion question seems to be one in which the lead of former Gov. Williams might have been followed with little or no complaint in later years.

Tax Break

One area of taxation is almost a certainty for action in the current legislative session. This is the often-proposed tax relief for senior citizens.

Living on relatively low, fixed incomes, many thousands of Michigan citizens over 65 years old have drawn sympathy from both parties in recent years.

All agree these citizens have contributed to Michigan's growth and they deserve special consideration. Methods proposed to demonstrate this consideration vary.

Property levies generally have been the target in the past, and again in bills presented this session, for senior citizens exemptions. Some propose eliminating property taxes to older landowners with low incomes.

Others would give tax relief on only part of the assessed value. Most plans have been proposed by Democrats.

Gov. George Romney proposed a method in 1963 but was rebuked by Democrats, whose support he needed, because his plan called for deferment of property taxes rather than a full exemption. The deferred levies he proposed he paid from the person's estate after death.

This year it appears the Governor and Democratic legislators will make a more intensive attempt to agree on a plan for providing this relief.

Angles in Poverty

State agencies are fully geared to seek a share of the Federal anti-poverty funds expected to pour out of Washington in the next few years.

All agencies were asked by the Governor last fall to become fully familiar with the program to determine how the state could benefit from it.

In addition to his broad request, a coordinating committee was created and officials in various departments were delegated with responsibility in specific areas covered by the Federal program.

Primary agencies concerned with the program include the Youth Commission, Employment Security Commission, Departments of Public Instruction, Social Welfare, Agriculture, Economic Expansion and Mental Health. But all others are keeping tabs on provisions of the Federal program.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was tuning up fer the "Great Society" campaign that was getting underway in Washington any day now.

Most of them was fer it, but some of them was lamenting a little we couldn't move into this new and better world and still save a few things that has proved so sound and solid in the old days.

Ed Doolittle, fer instant, was telling how in the old days when a young couple was fixing to git married they always called on the preacher in advance fer advice. The preacher would sum up all the trials and tribulations they was liable to encounter, and in a heap of cases they decided not to git married. Ed claimed if we had that system today it would save many a divorce and a heap of broke homes.

Clem Webster allowed as how, under all this prosperity we was going to git in the "Great Society," we would never have another President from humble beginning. It was a pity, too, said Clem, on account of some of our greatest Presidents come from log cabins.

Zeke Grubb reported the "Great Society" movement had done started at his house. His old lady went to town Thursday and bought a new washing machine. She didn't know exact what it cost, all she knowed fer shore was that she didn't have to pay fer all of it at one time. According to Zeke, this will be the theme song in the "Great Society." People ain't going to care what they have to pay fer somepun as long as it ain't all at one time.

Josh Clodhopper said he didn't have no hankering fer the past, claimed all his life, just when he figgered he was beginning to see daylight, he found it was coming from a hole in the roof. He allowed as how, if the "Great Society" would make things better tomorrow he was willing to trash yesterday in the trash can.

Personal and serious, Mister Editor, it's hard fer a feller to know what to think about these matters. All this big Government spending and going deeper in debt ever year is bad. I'm agin socialism and a welfare state, and sometimes I think we was traveling in that direction. Then I git to worrying about how cheap the dollar is getting and wondering if we ain't headed fer inflation and ruin. And while I'm thinking about all this I git to recollecting how I went through the deep depression in the early thirties and didn't have no money to buy fertilizer and couldn't borrow none, and a heap of times didn't have much food, and I get to figgering a inflated dollar is better'n no dollar at all. I'm just glad a ignorant feller like me ain't got to make the decisions.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

This is the number to call today to save money on fuel oil all winter!

Look at it this way. If you have not been using golden Superheat, you've probably been spending too much to heat your home. Superheat, alone among all the fuel oils you can buy, is "electrofined" to burn cleaner and hotter than any fuel oil ever has before. And that means you get more heat, better heat, with lower heating bills for the season. Switch to Superheat today... and you'll save money all winter!
