

From the Editor's Corner

Fox hunting in the Cass City area is a sport that is growing in popularity each year and many veteran hunters say that there are now more fox than ever on area farms.

We're all for fox hunting as a sport. But we object to paying hunters for their kill.

We don't feel a fox hunter has any more right for payment for his kill than does a trout fisherman or a deer hunter.

The argument that bounties keep predators under control has been proved false as the population is up around 25 per cent, according to the Michigan Department of Conservation.

If persons favoring the bounty as a control measure really want to kill off fox, the best way to do so is with cyanide guns, thallium or some other poison.

Neither the fox hunter nor the conservationist is in favor of this. It seems that the only sensible way to eliminate the costly, useless practice ($184,555 in 1964) would be for the legislature to kill the bounty payments.

This, of course, has been an annual cry of sportsmen's groups and the Conservation department... maybe this will be the year we get action.

When the council holds its first regular session the last Tuesday of the month it will be well if everyone at the table realizes that the election is over.

The council members who campaigned for the losers should remember that about two-thirds of the electors favored the freshmen trustees. The new village representatives and their supporters should consider that a third of the voters were behind the policies of the losers.

Realistically, we realize that perfect accord in the village is now impossible, but it should be within the capabilities of everyone on the council to initiate a genuine effort for united action with every legally elected representative of the council participating for a better Cass City.

President Walpole said good progress is being made on a 14,000 square foot addition to the main carburetor plant, which will house the engineering and development departments and the central office executive departments.

All Gagetown Siate Elected

Sixty-one persons cast ballots in the Gagetown village election Monday with village president Roy LaFave and clerk-treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Beachy taking 100 per cent of the ballots cast.

Other new officers and votes received include: Mrs. Verda Wilson, assessor, 58, and village trustees, Earl Williams, 60, Richard Burdon, 60, and Ruben Hewitt, 57.

Mrs. Beachy is the only incumbent.

SIX MONTHS AGO, Karen Ashmore, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ashmore of Cass City, underwent corrective surgery for a spine curvature and is about half way through her recovery period. She busies her bed confinement with games or television viewing. The operation was so rare that photographs were taken while it was performed.

Rare Operation Straightens Karen's "Slant" on Life

Every child, at some time or other, has wished he could take an extra six months vacation from school. One of those vacations where there's nothing to do but lie in bed, eat, watch television and play games.

Take it from eleven-year-old Karen Ashmore, it's not all it's cracked up to be, especially if the vacation is forced and preceded by much pain.

Six months ago tomorrow (Friday) Karen, on a hospital cart, was rolled down the echoing halls of St. Luke's hospital in Saginaw, to an operating room.

She entered the operating room with a 60 per cent curvature of the spine and six hours later she emerged with a normal alignment.

Recovery Long

Then began the long road to recovery that will officially take one year. A long road that will include a plaster cast covering the upper half of her body for the first six months and a support of some sort for the second six months.

Besides the pain involved, and the sometimes boredom, the operation also cost Karen one year of school. Although she is doing some work, her mother feels it will not be enough to pass.

"She's been no problem," tells Mrs. Charles Ashmore, her mother. "She's sure been good."

"Doing Well"

"Three weeks ago the doctor checked her and he said she's doing very well."

Its main but painless symptom was a gradually increasing tilt of Karen's posture with her left shoulder at the top of the tilt.

Cause Unknown

"We don't know what caused it," explains her mother, a Walbro Corp. machine operator. "The doctors called the cause 'idiopathic' or not caused by any disease."

"We noticed it last June. She never complained about any pain. The doctors said that her bike riding and swimming kept her from having any pain."

The operation involved an incision down Karen's back. The errant spine was pulled over and braced by two steel rods connected to her ribs.

Wire Stitches

Wire stitches were used to reduce scarring. The entire operation is called the Harrington procedure after the man who perfected it.

Dr. Hugh L. Sulfridge Jr., orthopedic surgeon, performed the operation, so rare that it was filmed. Dr. Sulfridge, who heads a research center headquartered in Texas, is the only doctor in the area who can perform the complicated operation.

After surgery, Karen's parents spent an anxious three weeks while she mended.

"It was quite serious. Such an operation has only a 50-50 chance of correcting the problem," Mrs. Ashmore reports. "They told us it was either the operation, though, or a brace for the rest of her life."

Pretty Sick

"She was pretty sick for awhile and she required oxygen."

Three weeks after the operation, Karen was fitted for her first cast. Looking much like the top part of an armored suit without the arms, the cast covers the top half of her torso.

Currently on her second cast, Karen is shortly to receive a new cast which will enable her to walk freely. After the six months is up, she'll wear a back support for another six months.

The youngster spends most of her day on a hospital-style bed in the Ashmore living room watching television or playing with her toys and games received at Christmas.

With four brothers and a twin sister at home, she never lacks for playmates except during school hours.

Conflicts Place Scouting at Low Ebb in Village

Competitive programs have scouting at a low ebb in Cass City. Scoutmaster Jim Jezewski charged Tuesday noon before the Cass City Rotary Club at the New Gordon Hotel.

Jezewski said that the grade basketball program had removed many of the boys from the program and at some of the meetings just three or four boys from the troop have attended.

He said that he has asked that the cage program be altered on Wednesday to allow the scouts a chance to meet.

Jezewski also said that the Scouts were meeting with the Explorers and that the different age groups were not compatible. We should have our own equipment, and not be forced to share with the older boys, he pointed out.

Rotary sponsors scouting in Cass City. Members pointed out that they felt the parents should take more of an interest in seeing that the boys attended the meeting.

The club is considering the problem and possible solutions.

Record Vote Cast

Village Sticker Fight Fails

A stirring political campaign resulted in a record Cass City village vote Monday, but failed to materially alter the results of the election which were substantially the same as recorded in the primary. A total of 496 votes was cast.

The majority of the new votes cast went to the two newly elected trustees, Mrs. Gladys Albee and Glen "Scotty" McCullough. The results of the vote for trustees were:

Bernard Freiburger	425
McCullough	313
Mrs. Albee	281
Rabideau	175
Wood	163

The remainder of the balloting was uneventful as Lambert Althaver became the new village president and Mrs. Celia House was named clerk and treasurer.

Mac O'Dell will serve again as assessor and Mrs. Esther McCullough and Mrs. Avis Benkelman were returned to the library board.

In addition to the three elected Monday, the council also will include Jim Seals, Fred Auten and Dr. D. E. Rawson.

Open Meeting

About 100 persons attended an open meeting Thursday night at the school to hear questions answered about the village.

The discussion ranged from the cutting of the trees last spring and the work of Bill Schram, village engineer, to how much money was left in village funds at the end of the year.

Newscaster John Bowles, the moderator, of WKYO said that he talked with Dr. Rawson and the candidates eventually elected and that they had said that they felt "no useful purpose could be served by attending."

At the meeting, Auten, Althaver and Rabideau explained in detail why they felt that Schram was doing a good job for the village. They pointed out that he could help in the office in an emergency and was a bargain at the salary he was paid by the village.

Judging by the results at the polls, either most of the audience were already supporters of Wood and Rabideau or they were not swayed by the explanations.

A check of the vote showed that most of the voter increase went to Mrs. Albee and McCullough. Rabideau picked up from 148 votes in the primary to 175 Monday. Wood dropped slightly, polling 163 votes as compared to 169 in the primary.

Ski Accident Injures Youth

David Bulen, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bulen of Cass City, suffered a cracked shin bone in a skiing accident Sunday at the Skyline Ski Resort south of Grayling.

According to his father, who was taking movies of the run, young Bulen was coming down the slope and the edge of his ski caught when he attempted to stop.

His right leg was injured in the resulting fall.

McCullough jumped from 250 to 313 and Mrs. Albee from 196 to 281.

Budget Hearing

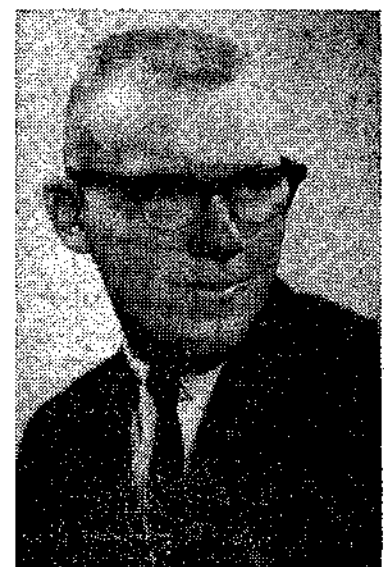

In other business affecting the council, the budget for the year was accepted at the public hearing and the tax rate set. It will remain the same as it was the previous year at 13 mills.

Could St. Johns' Free Survey Be Duplicated in Cass City?

A few years ago Cass City paid several thousand dollars for a master plan for the village to plot future growth. Since that time there has been much growth in the business district, most of it on the outskirts of the community.

If the village fathers feel that another look is needed at the downtown section of Cass City they might try to emulate St. Johns (Mich.) which plans a study estimated to cost $77,879... all at government expense.

They have an application in to the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Chicago and, according to Ed Hostels of Vilcan-Leman, the HHFA likely will approve the project study. (The firm is the same one that provided Cass City's master plan.)

According to an article in the St. Johns News, the money, in whatever amount the HHFA finally decides, will not have to be repaid even in the event the city decides to drop the project because of problems the study may show.

The project at St. Johns includes six blocks in the central business district.

Many of the problems that face the St. Johns business district are apparent in Cass City. The following information is quoted from the article in the St. Johns paper, which quoted Vilcan-Leman.

"Since the business frontage is completely built up, and the rear lots are largely developed with industrial buildings and residents, off-street parking is extremely inadequate.

"The unattractive appearance of many buildings, the lack of pedestrian conveniences, the traffic congestions... have caused many shoppers to turn to outlying shopping centers and other commercial areas with modern shopping conveniences.

"If the primary shopping area is to satisfy the needs of the community and is to grow in economic vitality, a program must be undertaken to improve the physical condition of the central business district to provide the necessary facilities to attract the shoppers."

Same Problems

Although St. Johns (population 5,629) is much larger than Cass City, most businessmen and others connected with town planning will concede that the problems are very similar.

Romney's National Political Aspirations Begin to Show

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Presidential Thoughts

National political aspirations in Michigan's second-term governor are becoming stronger, according to an increasing number of Capitol observers.

Much of the conclusion is based on a combination of factors. One is Gov. George Romney's recent position statements on national and international matters.

He avoided any such statements like the plague during his first term.

Frequency of the Governor's acceptance of bids to speak at events outside his home state is another. It still being early in the legislative session, Romney appears to have spent nearly as much time outside as in Michigan since his inauguration.

This is nearly opposite his first-term policy of accepting a minimum of invitations to speak in other states.

Still a third cause for speculation about Romney's hopes in 1968 was his recent decision to personally participate in "Operation Europe Tour."

This long-planned event will take the Governor, Secretary of State James M. Hare, legislative and business leaders on a 10-day trip abroad in an attempt to widen Michigan's business outlets.

It was reported with apparently sound foundation back in January that Lt. Gov. William Milliken would be the Governor's official representative on the trip. As heir apparent to the chief executive's chair and a leading businessman in Traverse City, Milliken was seen as a wise choice.

The spotlight covering the rather unique tour venture now will fall on Gov. Romney, increasing his national and international exposure.

Balance Needed
Michigan's new legislative auditor faces a tough job in the early months of his tenure.

Appointed strictly on a partisan basis and although he meets the Constitutional requirement of being a certified public accountant, Albert Lee must now view his work on a strictly nonpartisan basis if he is to succeed.

The Constitution gives the legislative auditor the responsibility of auditing the executive branch of government and the privilege of complete independence from the executive branch.

Less than a straightforward approach to the job could easily result in a questioning of findings by opponents.

Since part of his responsibility is job performance audit, it goes without saying that his facts must be accepted by all if his recommendations for improving program performance are to be considered for their merit.

With an eight-year term ahead of him, the new appointee may see service under both parties. Where he now has been appointed by a Democratic legislature while a Republican governor is serving, the tables could easily be turned completely during his tenure.

This makes it all-important that he drop any partisan inclinations from the start. Failure to do this could make his job much more difficult if and when any power changes occurred.

Fewer Deaths
Traffic deaths on Michigan roads during the first two months of this year were nearly 20 per cent below the horrible record set in 1964, but officials emphasize this encouraging drop should prompt more diligence.

The official 1964 death count for Michigan was 2,091 persons. This represented an increase of 13 per cent over the previous year.

The shocking toll last year prompted Gov. George Romney to make traffic safety legislation a major goal in his current program.

He has called for mandatory driver training for all ages, greater uniformity in accident reporting, stricter law enforcement, an increase in state police manpower, and a controversial change in the alcohol-test law.

These and other recommendations, culled from the views of many experts in the traffic safety field, would initially cost more than $3 million, Romney has said.

The Governor has become one of the many state officials who say, as he puts it, "The fulfillment of our public responsibility demands that we take immediate and informed action to stop Michigan's highway carnage and the 'massacre of the innocent.'"

Most who share this view contend that the action must be taken now, regardless of cost and despite the encouraging drop which has occurred in traffic deaths so far this year.

Methodists Slate Lent Family Night

The Methodist Church will hold the first of three Lenten family night dinners and programs to-night (Thursday).

A smorgasbord dinner will be served in the fellowship hall at 6:45 p.m. The program, starting at 7:45, will feature an anthem by the Chancel Choir and the showing of a film, "And On The Eighth Day." Sponsor for the evening is the membership and evangelism commission, Maynard McConkey, chairman.

The Methodist men held an Ash Wednesday Communion breakfast at Martin's restaurant last week.

Since the world began, peace has always been all dressed up with no place to go.

Play it safe—give your competitor credit for being just as smart as you are.

There's little excuse for a poor excuse when the world is full of little white lies.

Thoughtfor Lent

(Second in a series)

The Rev. Fred Johnson has written the second Lenten column. Pastor of the Mizpah and Riverside United Missionary Churches, he is now leading a church merger of significance to this area.

"MADE PERFECT THROUGH SUFFERING"

"God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son," Hebrews 1:1 and 2

God's Son is "the brightness of his glory," "the express image of his person" worshipped by the angels. A sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of his Kingdom which one day shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

Perhaps the sorrow and suffering of this present world is harder to be understood than any other thing. People ask the question again and again, "Why? Oh why?"

Let us look to Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death on the Cross, crowned with glory and honor; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man. Hebrews 2:9

It was a custom in ancient times to take the life of criminals by making them drink a cup of poison. Socrates who was adjudged to drink a cup of hemlock poison was not only innocent of every crime laid to his charge, but was the greatest benefactor to his country. Yet he seized the cup and drank of the poison with the utmost cheerfulness and alacrity.

Jesus stepped in and drank the cup of our iniquity, the poisoned cup which meant death. He tasted that death and drank the cup which otherwise we would have to drink had it not been drunk by another.

It was an act worthy of God and fitting to his divine nature in bringing many souls unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through suffering.

God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him might not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world but that the world through him might be saved.

If the captain of our salvation Jesus Christ was made a Perfect Saviour for us through suffering there may be a purpose in our suffering. Our genuine repentance and sorrow for sin brings us closer to God and through faith we look up and we see Jesus reaching down to take the cup of sorrow and spiritual death that we might have life and have it abundantly.

As we have come to the spring season and once again have entered into a time of deep meditation on the sufferings of our Lord and Saviour let us remember first of all that no amount of self discipline, or self denial, fasting, or prayers is sufficient for our salvation. One supreme sacrifice was made on Calvary for our sins when Jesus took our very own sins in His body on the cross and bore them there, paying the penalty and getting us free. In this we do rejoice. He became a perfect Saviour through suffering.

On the other hand we do enter into His sufferings that there may be a perfection accomplished in us in spiritual things; "for if we suffer with Him we shall also reign with Him."

Letter to Editor

Charlottesville, Va.
Feb. 15, 1965

Mr. John Haire
Editor, Cass City Chronicle
Dear John,

I was very interested in that portion of your editorial on Thursday, Feb. 11, 1965, re your friend Stan Putnam. You were puzzling over his being in Lansing and doing material about Orville Hubbard, Mayor of Dearborn. I thought that I might be able to help you out of this dilemma.

About a week ago, Walter Cronkite had a fairly lengthy portion of his new program devoted to Mayor Hubbard and the Mayor's conflict with the States Civil Rights Commission. It seems the Mayor has the habit of pinning up news clippings that catch his interest. These clippings have been thought by some segments of the populous to be contrary to the stereotype they wish to portray of certain racial groups. These people feel that this is having an adverse effect on the goals of civil rights progress. The Civil Rights Commission consequently obtained a court order directing the Mayor to remove his clippings and desist from his habit of pinning them up in the City Hall. At the time of the broadcast, the Mayor had not complied with the order and stated that he had no intention of doing so.

It is altogether possible that I have made the wrong connection out of this and Mr. Putnam, but at least it seems possible and feel free to correct me if I am wrong. If this is a true connection, I am surprised that you did not make it. Perhaps the news material in this area of the nation is selected to portray these issues more vividly and that the material has been suppressed in that area.

Very sincerely,
Donald L. Tuckey

P. S. You will note that I delayed mailing this in the hope that you would mention this matter again, and now, since you didn't, I feel free to mail it.

Editor's Note: The reasoning is logical, but since the story the Chronicle has seen several other by-lined stories by Putnam without the Lansing Bureau identification. Because of this, it's an odds-on bet that the line appeared in error and Stan still is working out of Detroit.

BULEN TALKS Cars

Long before man could read and write he learned that a rounded object would roll. He fashioned the turning wheel and replaced the heavy, back-breaking "drag," which he objected to, with a crude cart. From the cart evolved the chariot and the coach and, eventually, the self-powered road vehicle.

Every advance in the basic development of transportation was born of necessity. Man sought first to take burdens from his own inadequate back.

He domesticated animals to pull the "drag" and later the cart.

Eventually animals, too, proved inadequate.

The need for greater capacity and faster transportation for the individual and his necessities of life turned man's thinking to self-powered road vehicles. He built what originally were called road locomotives.

Every step of the development of the motor car has been one of evolution rather than revolution.

Years of development have made the motor car of today a thing of beauty, marvelous in its power; and years of experience in the automobile field have made BULEN MOTORS the place for you to buy and save. The inescapable fact that you must get the facts, all the facts from the dealer you can trust, make BULEN MOTORS the place with the plan for you!

Talk to the friendly salesman and you will see how their sincere desire to give every car buyer and service customer the best for less, is your guarantee of satisfaction!

Junior Craftsmen Plan Open House

The Junior Craftsmen of the Cass City Livestock Club met Saturday night, March 6, at the 4-H building for a business meeting and work session. Eighteen members and 11 visitors were present.

Plans were made for the club to have an open house achievement March 20 to display projects before they are taken to the district achievement at Kingston on March 27.

Refreshments were served by Grant Goodall and Connie DeLong.

French Club in Regular Meeting

The regular February monthly meeting of the Cass City High School French Club was held recently.

The club is sponsoring a candy sale the week of March 8-12. The sale will be held both fourth and fifth hours in the ticket booth at the school.

Refreshments were brought by Penny Dillon, Linda Calka and Becky Champion.

Diane Whittaker and Judy Ballagh are on the entertainment and refreshment committee for the March meeting.

ABOUT FACE

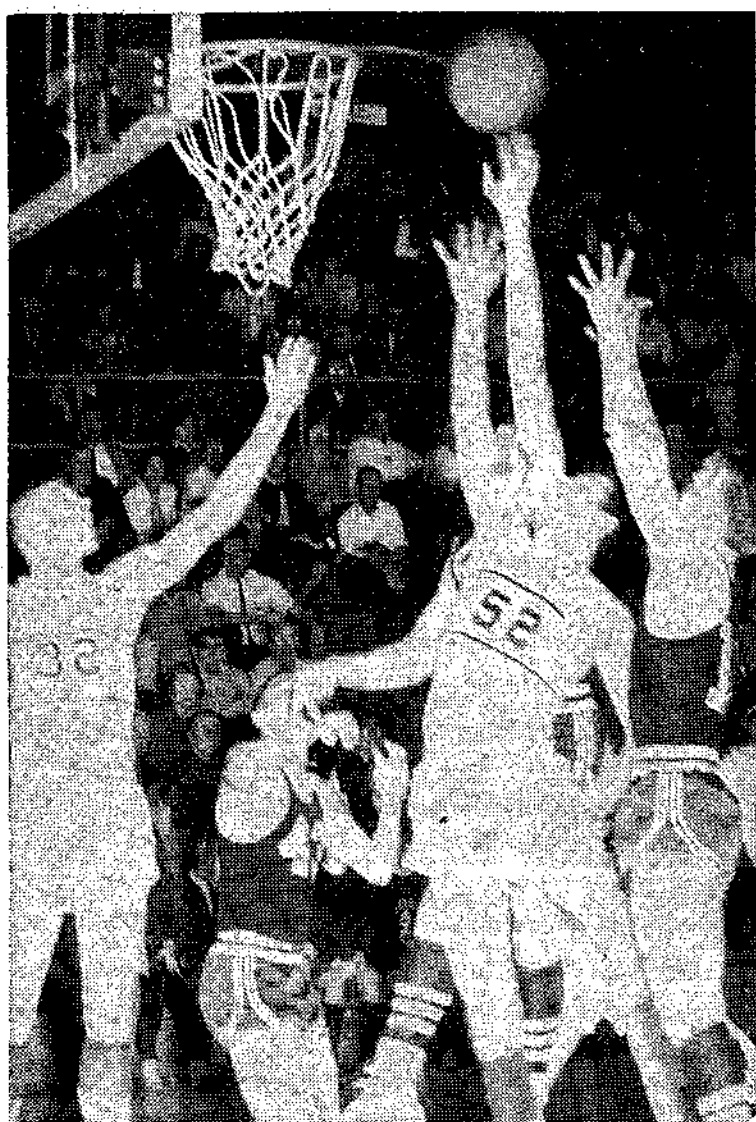

A go-getter never complains that things are not coming his way—he changes his.

A BUBBLE

Check the foundation of the ladder of fame—the risk may not warrant the climb.

FEW MAKE IT

The pinnacle of success is a lonesome place for the person who likes lots of company.

CARO CAPTURED this rebound and went on to capture the game in the district tourney at Caro. The arm reaching for the ball belongs to Jim Knoblet. In the background is Ed Retherford and at the far right is Jim Champion. All three boys ended three years of varsity competition with the game. Rebounding for Caro are Bassford (32) and Campbell (52).

Caro Ends Hawks' Basketball Season

The high school basketball careers of six players ended Friday night when Caro defeated the Hawks in the district tournament at Caro, 94-82.

Although Cass City lost, the team can look back to a maximum effort in the season's final.

The game was closer than the final score indicated. After falling behind 12-1 in the first period, Cass City fought back to remain in the game until midway into the final period when they trailed by just four points.

Hold Final Rites for Mrs. Andrews, 53

Funeral services were held Sunday in Canboro RLDS Church for Mrs. Edith Andrews, 53, of rural Elkton who died Wednesday in Mercy Hospital in Bay City.

Mrs. Andrews was born April 18, 1911, in Brookfield township, Huron county. She married Ervin Andrews Nov. 21, 1942.

Surviving are: her husband; two sons, Leslie and Larry, both at home; her mother, Mrs. May Sheuvelt, Owendale; a sister, Mrs. Iva Arnett, Owendale, and three brothers, Frank and Arthur Sheuvelt, both of Owendale, and Leslie Sheuvelt, Detroit.

Elder Jay Dickinson officiated at the final ceremonies. Burial was in Williamston cemetery.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Council of the Village of Cass City was held on Friday, February 26, 1965, at 9:00 o'clock p.m. All members were present except Mr. Seals.

The purpose of the meeting was to hear any interested persons prior to the adoption of the budget for the year 1965.

Motion made by Mr. Freiburger, seconded by Mr. Althaver, that the following budget for the year 1965 (Details of which become a part of these minutes) be adopted with the recommendation that any expansion of the water system be reflected in reduction of the water balance. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

Beginning Balance 42,117.80
Anticipated revenue 155,480.00
Anticipated balance of water project 16,500.00

214,097.80

Anticipated expenditures 201,808.00

Motion made by Dr. Rawson, seconded by Mr. Auten, that the millage for the fiscal year 1965 be set at 13 mills. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

The trustees agreed to invest the balance of funds held in the Act-51 fund from 1964 in the amount of $13,541.91 in interest-bearing certificates. Motion made by Dr. Rawson, seconded by Mr. Althaver. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

There being no further business, motion made by Dr. Rawson, seconded by Mr. Althaver, that the meeting be adjourned. Yea-5. Nay-0. Motion carried.

But a flurry of baskets by the Tigers a moment later salted the game away for the host quintet.

Caro hit for 46 per cent of its shots from the field while Cass City converted 44 per cent. The main difference in the game was the superior rebounding of the Tigers led by Jim Wyrick.

Wyrick hit for 28 points as he led his team to victory. Cass City was paced by Ed Retherford and Al Wallace with 20 points each. Wallace came off the bench to turn in his finest game of the year.

The game was the last for regulars Retherford, Jim Knoblet and Jim Champion, and George Kloc and Larry Groombridge of the bench brigade.

Caro's tourney competition was short lived as they lost in the finals to Bridgeport in a nip and tuck game.

Bridgeport now goes to Flint to compete in the regionals.

Cass City was not quite as sharp from the field as Caro, but from the free throw line they turned in their best effort of the season, hitting on 22 of 29 attempts.

The box score:

Meet Indicates Interest Low on "Released Time"

A moderately light attendance greeted speakers at a meeting called to explain the State's new "Released Time" law Sunday at the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Approximately 25 persons heard James Seals, Cass City High School assistant principal, explain the program which calls for released time during the school day for students to receive religious education at a location off school grounds.

Seals, with an assist from Principal Arthur Holmberg, outlined some of the program's limitations and possibilities.

Rev. R. E. Betts, EUB pastor, termed the meeting "more for information than for action." Another meeting, this time between local ministers, is expected sometime this spring.

Communities of Cass City's size, according to the pastor, have not done too much about setting up the released time program.

WINNERS—Cass City High School's debaters argued themselves into the Lower Thumb Debate League championship in the recently completed season and early this week received their trophy. It's been an uphill battle for the Hawk debaters. In 1963, they took third place trophy, held by Tim Knight, right. In 1964, they won the second place trophy held by Richard Hartwick, center, and this year finally copped the first place trophy held by Bob Milligan, left. Also on the squad are Bob Doerr, back row, and Mary Lou Spencer. Exchange student Reiner Jack was not present when the picture was taken. (Chronicle photo)

College, Vocational School Committees Named Thursday

Plans for a community college-vocational school study moved forward last week when superintendents from the tri-county area met in Cass City to appoint an executive committee to set study plans in motion.

Superintendent Don Crouse of Cass City, one of the committee members, reports that all of the districts, except two, in the three-county area have endorsed the study plan. In Sanilac county, Croswell-Lexington has not authorized the study and in Tuscola county, Millington school district has not agreed. Huron county is participating 100 per cent.

When the districts agreed to the study they authorized an assessment of 85c per capita of high school enrollment to pay for the work.

A total of $11,000 is needed. A study of the vocational school will cost $10,000 and of the community college, $1,000.

An application for the study on this basis has been approved by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction. Of the $10,000 needed for the vocational study, $5,000 is expected from federal tax funds.

Besides Crouse, the study committee will include another representative from Tuscola county, James Sutherland of Caro, and two each from Sanilac and Huron counties.

Representing Huron are K. William Pietscher, Bad Axe, and Robert Duhan, Uby, and from Sanilac the members are Asa Fleck, Decker, and Roy Kahler, Sandusky.

Other committees that are expected to be organized include a policy committee of all superintendents of participating schools and an advisory committee from industry, business, agriculture, labor, government and communications.

A study staff was established, including one person from each county: Huron, Jack Newton of Pigeon; Tuscola, Dr. Bruce Dunn of Reese; and Sanilac, Thomas E. Poole of Decker.

Max Smith, of Michigan State University, was named chief consultant for the study.

The executive committee was authorized to employ additional personnel as needed for the study.

HONOR STUDENTS

been a youth representative to the Council of Churches. He was elected to the National Honor Society. Next fall, he will enter Michigan State University, where he will study agriculture, specializing in dairy farming.

The Salutatorian

Salutatorian for the Class of 1965 is Ruth Ann Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Freeman, of Cass City. Miss Freeman has majored in science and mathematics and has posted a 3.94 point average to date. Her interests lie in the sciences, especially biology and medicine. She would like very much to study medicine. If she doesn't do this, she will likely find her place in some related area of work.

Ruth Ann was a member of the band for three years, and took part in solo and ensemble work. She has been a member of the French Club and was elected to the Honor Society while in junior high. Her choice of college is the University of Detroit, where she has been accepted for entrance next September.

Dismiss Suit Against Cable

A deposition by General Cable Corp. plant supt. William Leverich played a large part in the dismissal of a $150,000 law suit against the firm in a Circuit Court session in Caro Friday, Feb. 26.

Circuit Judge Arthur Bach dismissed the suit, filed by Frank Rolka, administrator for the estate of Glenn D. Hardy, after reading Leverich's deposition.

Hardy was killed in a car crash on M-58 near Cass City on December 31, 1963. The suit had charged that Ronald Brown, also killed in the crash, was intoxicated and had struck Hardy's car, causing the death.

The suit charged further that the intoxication had occurred as a result of a New Year's Eve party held at the General Cable Corp. at Cass City where Brown was employed.

Lynn Atwell

Second in Central Division Meet

Skier Lynn Atwell, 13, took second place in Slalom and second place in Downhill racing at the Central Division, United States Ski Association competition Feb. 27-28 at Marquette.

Lynn was one of an original 1,200 competitors in the Central Division. Actual competition was weeded out to 150 skiers for the Central meet.

Lynn raced against 13 skiers in her division. Central division includes Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Entrants were selected on the basis of results in regional competitions. Top division winners will go on to competition for Olympic tryouts.

One Injury in Several Minor Car Accidents

One person was injured and several cars were damaged in accidents during the week investigated by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Pamela Kay Jerome, 20, of Caro was treated for injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City for injuries suffered when she lost control of the car she was driving Wednesday, Mar. 3, on Cedar Run Road, about 200 yards from M-81.

She reported that she hit an icy spot in the road while she was accelerating after turning the corner. She lost control, left the road and turned over in a field.

Both sides and the top of the car were badly damaged.

Friday, Richard Mallory of Caro, 28, rammed a mailbox on Cass City road. It was owned by Dave Hurd. Mallory said he was starting to pass a truck when he saw a car approaching. He applied the breaks and the car skidded 210 feet into the mailbox.

Cars driven by David Lee Ware, 23, of Cass City and Earl Arnold Stock, 60, of rural Gagetown collided at the corner of Colwood and Dickerson Roads.

According to the report of the sheriff's deputy, both cars stopped at the intersection and started again at the same time.

Neither the drivers or the passengers were injured. The Ware vehicle was damaged in the left rear and the Stock car in the left front.

George Howden, 25, Cass City, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way Tuesday after he backed his car from a parking place on Maple Street and struck a car driven by Ronald Patera, 23, Deford.

Both cars were damaged.

Chapelo Receives

Fitting License

Richard Chapelo, owner of Chapelo's Shoe Repair in Cass City, has been licensed to fix orthopedic shoes after passing required tests.

Chapelo received his license Saturday after taking the test last February and is now allowed to fit prescription shoes. The test required fitting of shoe appliances, wedges and prescription fitting.

Licensing makes Chapelo a member of the National Registry of Orthopedic Shoe Servicemen, an affiliate of the Shoe Service Institute of America.

Chapelo opened his business last fall.

Census Indicates County Sales Up

Tuscola county's 497 retail establishments had $47.6 million in sales in 1963, an increase of eight per cent in five years.

The U. S. Bureau of the Census reported these figures after tabulating data was gathered from all firms in the 1963 census of business.

The last previous business census conducted by the bureau was in 1958.

Retail trade in the county meant jobs (exclusive of proprietors) for 1,245 persons and a yearly payroll of $3.6 million.

Food stores led in the business increase. The $12.9 million spent in county markets was 28 per cent greater than it was in 1958.

Other sales statistics revealed in the census were: eating and drinking places, $2.1 million; gas stations, $4.5 million; auto dealers and related retail outlets, $10.4 million; general merchandise, $1.8 million, and lumber, building, hardware and farm equipment dealers, $9.2 million.

Census reports to be issued during the next few months will give state and county figures on wholesale and service trades, manufacturing and mineral industries.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 58, NUMBER 47

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1965

Former Snover Resident Dies

James L. Barnes, 62, died unexpectedly at his home in Crosswell Monday evening, Feb. 22. Barnes was a native of the Snover area. He moved to Crosswell in 1962. The son of Elmer and Lottie Barnes, he was born May 16, 1903.

He married the former Lulu Shagena Anglebrandt in September, 1958, in Cass City.

Barnes was a farmer most of his life.

Surviving, besides his widow, are: a son, Edwin of Snover; a daughter, Mrs. Verna Miller of Marlette; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Ted Miller and Mrs. Russell Graham, both of Crosswell, and Mrs. Verne Crawford of Harrison; two brothers, Elmer Barnes of Gardendale and Archie Barnes of Port Huron; seven grandchildren; 17 step-grandchildren, and 10 stepgreat-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday at Pomeroy Funeral Home in Crosswell. The Rev. Bryce Swiler, pastor of the Lexington and Bethel Methodist churches, officiated.

Burial was in Crosswell cemetery.

Shabbona News

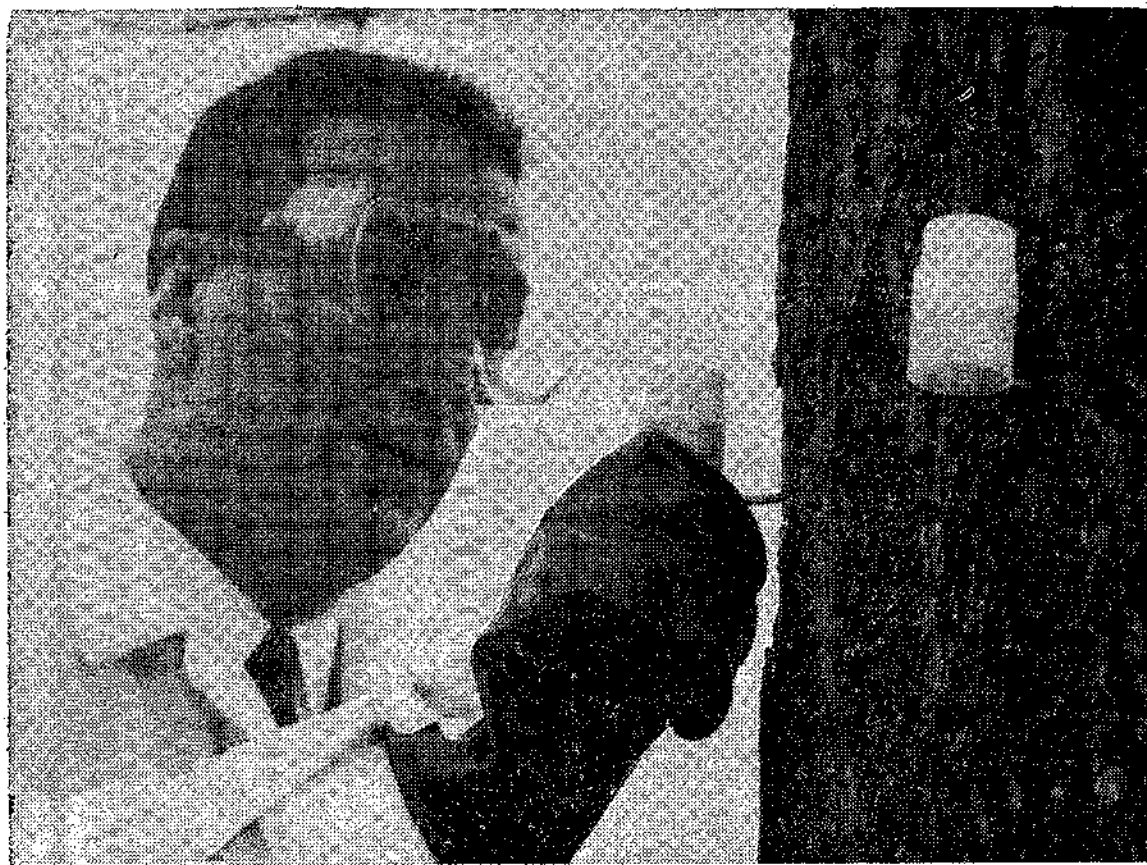

The Sanilac County Fashion Show and Tea was held Monday evening, March 8, at the Sandusky Intermediate School. Mrs. Eugene Chapin and Mrs. Clair Auslander represented the Shabbona group as models. Several from this area attended.

The Sandy Acre Farm Bureau group will meet Monday, March 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance.

A pink and blue shower was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Caister in honor of Mrs. Duane Caister. Games were played and refreshments served. Hostesses were Mrs. Eldon Beachy of Elkton, Mrs. Tom Schwannecke of Saginaw, Mrs. Herbert Pallas and Mrs. Arthur Caister of Cass City. Mrs. Edward Schwannecke was also a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Auslander and Dale and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bader spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns.

Some men would be in serious trouble if all others did the right thing by them.

THIS COULD BE USED IN CASS CITY—As the second step in the Bidrin (R) insecticide treatment the applicator places proper size leak-proof containers on the tubes and the Bidrin is released under pressure into the tree. Conducted by the sap throughout the tree it will kill any elm bark beetle, carrier of the fungus spores of the Dutch Elm Disease, as it tries to feed on the tree.

New Chemical Could Save Cass City's Majestic Elms

A new chemical called Bidrin has been released by Shell Oil Company and is claimed by company officials to be the best method yet developed to control Dutch Elm disease that is plaguing Cass City and Tuscola county.

A phone call to the agricultural division of Shell revealed that Bidrin will cost about the same as DDT and other standard tree sprays.

The Shell expert declined to reveal what the cost of application would be. "We furnish only the basic chemical much like a steel company would furnish steel for cars and would hesitate to say what the cost of application would be," he said.

However, he continued, "Milwaukee purchased a half million units of the chemical to 'vaccinate' its healthy elm trees against the fungus-carrying beetle that spreads the disease, so the cost must be fairly competitive.

Bidrin is a toxic insecticide and will not be sold to the general public. Its distribution is limited to foresters, arborists, horticulturists and tree service experts who have successfully completed Shell-supervised training programs scheduled in various parts of the country. One was to have been held Wednesday at East Lansing.

Bidrin does not cure the fungus but repels or kills the fungus-carrying beetle when it emerges from its winter breeding sites in dead or dying trees and comes to feed on healthy trees.

The beetle has already killed many elms in the village and most experts say that without treatment, all of the elms will be gone in a decade.

Bidrin injected into the trunks of elms in toxic quantities in early spring flows through the tree's circulatory system, reaching the outermost branches and twigs where 90 per cent of the bark feeding occurs.

Tested over a period of five years under the most severe disease and insect conditions, the chemical has given nearly complete protection. Up to 40 per cent of the interspersed, unprotected trees were killed.

Not Easy

Administering Bidrin is not easy. An overdose injures the tree. A proper dosage cannot be determined simply by measuring the trunk of the tree. A proper dose is calculated by a formula that involves not only the size of the trunk, but the shape of the tree's crown.

If correctly applied the chemical works its way into every twig, kills beetles on contact and does not harm the tree.

Bidrin, once injected into the tree, does not enter the food chain of birds and other wildlife.

Shell says the disease probably never will be completely eliminated because of forest trees, but there is hope that it can be stamped out in urban areas.

Dems Plan Ticket Sale in County

Melvin J. Stewart, Tuscola County Democratic Chairman, will try to sell 35 tickets for the Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Detroit to the party faithful in the county.

That's Tuscola county's quota for the tickets that cost $30 each or $40 per couple. A luncheon ticket will be offered for $1.50. The event will be at Cobo Hall May 1.

Time may be valuable, but the fellow who intends to spend nothing else on his vacation won't have much fun.

A man can't miss if he considers every day the start of a new year, and sees to it that every hour does its part.

Straw Hats to Come in Flavors?

By Dave Kraft

I came home for lunch one day last week and because the kids were napping, I was allowed to eat my lunch in the living room so I could watch television.

Sometimes my wife is very good to me.

I had just taken a bite out of a cold cut sandwich from which my wife had forgotten to take the little thin rind that comes with big boloney.

As I sat there, with a mouth full of cold cut, lettuce between my teeth, that thin rind hanging in my beard and my sandwich all askew, there came upon the television screen a commercial.

"This is a microphone," said a hidden voice. And who was to dispute the hidden voice.

"With it you can hear a human heart. You can also hear a stuffed up nasal passage."

And then they let you hear a human heart and a stuffed up nasal passage.

And then I began to turn almost as green as the lettuce sticking from between my teeth.

I can't think of them right now, but I'm sure that there must be one or two things that are a little more nauseating than listening to the magnified sounds of a stuffed up nasal passage.

After a second or two of this, the hidden voice sprays some "No Plug" decongestant up the nose with the microphone on it and you can't hear any congestion... thank heavens.

Frankly, no amount of "No Plug" sprayed up a model's nose is going to make a cold cut sandwich taste any better after that sort of demonstration.

Television is fraught with "hidden persuaders" but I think they went a little too far. The only thing I was persuaded to do, besides not eat my lunch, was to never buy such a vulgar product.

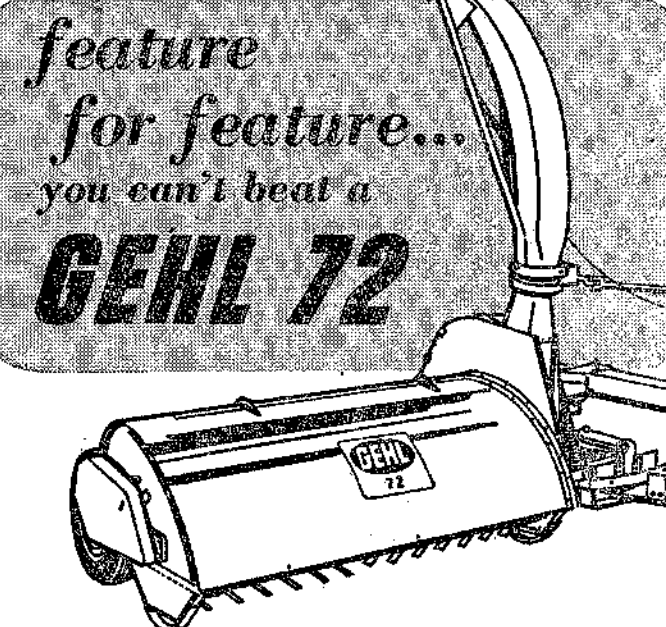

As long as we're on commercials, how about the character who says, "I told them that if they could show me a filter that doesn't make a cigarette taste like a hot tamale, I'd eat my hat."

Then we get a close up of his hat... with a bite taken out of it. I sometimes wish they'd go one step farther.

"Are you smoking, 'Lucky Spare' cigarettes now?" we'd have someone ask.

"No," answers our character, "but I'm eating more straw hats." This might start a whole new trend. It'd be great for the straw hat business.

Then some busy body would come along with a survey show-

Pull the Gehl 72 Flail Chopper along side any other make. Feature for feature—round after round—the "72" proves its right to be the leader. Here's why: Unitized fan blades and knives give exclusive cut-and-throw action. Crops don't thresh around. They're in, cut, then blown to the farthest wagon corner.

New Easy-Swing drawbar adjusts right from the tractor seat. No wrenches needed. Just pull the rope control to change chopper pulling positions for easy maneuvering in tight places.

Flails are reversible... give full 6-ft. cut. The 39 interchangeable flails are mounted in gangs and easy to switch. They're double-edged for double chopping life.

Powered double chopping. After the crop is flail-cut, it's augered directly to the unitized fan and knives. Here forage is cut again against an adjustable shear bar. Lets you cut as fast and short as needed.

These features—and many more—make the Gehl 72 the best flail chopper you can buy.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

The boys at the country store Saturday night was discussing hogs and farmers. The storekeeper claimed we was discussing 'em in the proper order, hogs and farmers, and allowed as how hogs and farmers fitted together pretty good. But as a general rule, us fellers don't pay no attention to the storekeeper. He never did git across the New Frontier and he thinks the Great Society is a branch of the U.S. Welfare Department.

Anyhow, Ed Doolittle reported he had saw a piece in the papers where a couple of hog experts was claiming the left ham of the hog was twice as good eating as the right ham. First off, they said a hog raises his right hind foot to scratch his right side and this exercise makes muscles in the right ham. But when he scratches his left side he always rubs it agin a tree or fence post. Furthermore, they claimed, when a hog takes his rest he always lays on his right side, making that ham tougher.

The fellers at the store was pro and con on the subject. Ed said if it turned out them two experts was right, he aimed to start charging about 10 cent a pound more fer left-handed hams. It was voted to write to our Congressman and see if he can't git the U. S. Department of Agriculture to make one of them science surveys they make on everything from work production load of ants to the family life of mosquitos and settle this hog matter. The fellers figured the Agriculture Department could do this job fer around $10,000 and this was about $2,000 less than they spent studying the love life of the Peruvian toad frogs.

Moving over from hogs to farmers, Clem Webster reported he was mighty confused and a little upset about how they was going to help the pore farmers in the Great Society.

He had took note, he said, where the Economic Opportunity Act planned to aid 5,333,000 pore farmers, but the latest farm census took by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed they ain't but 3,481,000 farms, rich or pore, in the country. According to Clem, if they ain't changed the rules fer adding and subtracting in the Great Society, this leaves 1,852,000 farmers that was going to git helped from Washington when they ain't got no farms to be pore on.

Clem reckoned they might just give them 1,852,000 pore farmers that ain't farmers 50 acres and a mule and start 'em off to farming and git took into the Great Society in style.

If you can throw any light on this pore farmer business, Mister Editor, the fellers at the store would shore appreciate it.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Agent's Corner

Barbara Henrikson

OK, everybody. Take all your troubles and throw them in one neat pile. You've been griping about them long enough. Get rid of them.

There's one little catch, it says here in fine print. In order to throw your troubles away, you have to take someone else's.

Let's take a look at Marilyn's. She is a lovely woman, a real lady. Her doctor-husband makes a mint, and she has a 14-room house, 4 bright, happy children. Her troubles? An invalid mother, a husband who is never home, (especially when the children are sick), that monstrous house to keep up, an education that never got finished, social obligations, telephone calls at all hours, no time to call their own, vacations with the children and an income tax higher than their income.

There's Betty. A perfect figure even after five children, lovely blond hair, an interesting job, an adoring husband, and no housework. Betty was raised by relatives, and has never been convinced that anyone loves her. Her husband is getting fed up with the recital of how many men are after her, her children prefer it when she is gone. Her friends resent the needle she uses to build her own ego.

Meredith has a job that pays more than most men get. She has traveled over the world, worked across the United States. She's noted for her ability to set up an office, get it going properly and moving on. Her car is the latest model, her clothes are high style. Day after day, people tell her their problems. She listens and helps them work on the problems. At night she goes to her empty apartment, maybe calls her only relatives, a niece in New York. Or works at the church. Or sits.

Ann married for love in high school. Her husband got his diploma, his degree, finally his doctorate. She has 3 nice boys, an easy home. Her husband is affectionate, thoughtful, successful.

She can't talk to him about anything but the children, the neighbors, their health. His friends are not her friends as they have nothing in common. She feels her mother-in-law dislikes her and she may be right.

A pattern starts to show. Look again at the things these women are proudest of. Aren't they the same things that cause the problems? The very successful husband means loneliness. The perfect physical features bring jealousy, the outstanding executive ability foreshadows not making close ties, the early and very real love match meant losing a chance for growth.

Those problems of yours now. Your mother-in-law is less than ideal? She raised that nice husband of yours.

Your health is poor? Look how the children came to help. Your budget is slim? But your husband is around a lot of the time.

Your husband doesn't like the way you handle the children? Since you married him, his values can't be too bad. It might not hurt to try some of his methods.

Your troubles are usually by-products of your virtues. Every freedom carries a resulting obligation, every right a responsibility.

Look at your troubles again. Each one you give away also gives away a virtue, a right, a freedom.

Want to trade? Find somebody else. I'll keep my own troubles, thank you.

Make good on all your promises—don't be a trust buster.

Feed Grain Program Similar to 1964

Mike Singer, chairman of the Tuscola ASC county committee, explains that the 1965 feed grain program in general is similar to that for 1964. Growers may participate by diverting at least 20 per cent of their feed grain base acreage and devoting it to conserving use. In return, they become eligible for acreage diversion payments, price-support payments, and loans on their entire 1965 production of corn, grain sorghum and barley.

This year, for the first time, eligible feed grain and wheat cropland acreage may be substituted provided producers sign up and participate in both programs. In historic malting barley States, including Michigan, eligible producers may also elect to plant USDA-listed varieties of malting barley on an acreage up to 110 per cent of the barley base.

While it is not necessary for farmers to indicate at sign-up whether they plan to use the substitution provision, it is suggested that interested producers discuss details with ASCS county office personnel, since the use of substitution provisions can materially affect the levels of payment.

Traffic conditions sometimes improve when reckless drivers are awakened by a pinch.

BOOK REVIEW

No Message, But A Cracking Good Novel

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

If there are any messages concerning our nation's posture in regard to any of the great social problems of the day in which we live, in HURRICANE COMING! they are so buried in the debris of the hurricane as to be undetectable. Thomas Helm has written a cracking good novel with suspense and drama throughout. I can't remember when I have read a good novel with a plot that absorbs the reader as this one does.

There are many plots within the principle plot. Simply, the unifying theme in this book is a study of how many different people face up to one great fact of existence, an approaching hurricane.

As we are introduced to new situations we are, at the same time, kept advised as to the previous situations about which we know enough to be anxious. First, we are taken along on a weather plane whose job it is to report endless data concerning hurricane Clementine. The flight becomes more exciting than the 'graveyard run' anticipated when a propeller runs loose, threatening the lives of all those on board.

We are taken, too, on a picnic. A girl and a boy set out for an island to spend a leisurely day. Sole resident of the island is Seth Barker who lives the life of the isolated eccentric. Although realizing what the storm might become, the young couple lose their boat to the swift-running current, and when they turn to the completion of Seth's nearly finished new home, they find Seth pinned beneath a huge log and momentarily paralyzed.

At the same time, two convicts escape from a work gang. They have been in prison so long that they do not fully appreciate the desperate fury of the hurricane. Favoring them was the preoccupation of all law enforcement officers on evacuating citizens ahead of the hurricane. None the less, they murder a store keeper, terrorizing his entire family, as well as an old man and his wife. One of the escapees dies when a state policeman is forced to shoot him. The other convict loses his life to quicksand as he is running away in the swamps.

Two boats, one a commercial fishing boat, the other a small passenger vessel, are also out in the storm. The fishing boat comes to the aid of the passenger ship rescuing all persons possible, but missing many who are swept away by the gigantic waves. And, also at the same time, a little boy who has been bitten by a racoon while his father takes the animal's body to have it checked for rabies. The power company truck which is driven by the father somehow manages to navigate roads that are impassable and the boy is saved by Pasteur treatments.

Finally the hurricane is over, its fury spent, and the village of Trayville has been wiped out. Life has to begin again for many who should not have to start a new life at their advanced age. But even as hurricane Clementine is dying, another is being born.

I recommend this book to all who have time to read it and who like some excitement. (I stopped to watch the storm; it existed only in the book.) Mr. Helm has the rare gift of being able to make you be a character in his plot. I only hope that you enjoy this fiction story as much as I did.
