

If Growth Continues

Hospital Faces 1st Expansion

An expansion program is looming just over the horizon for Hills and Dales General Hospital, Administrator Richard Palm told voting members at the annual meeting of the facility Monday evening.

A sparse gathering of some 20 persons heard Palm explain that in the last fiscal year, from Mar. 31 to Mar. 31, the hospital had experienced a 10 per cent gain in patient load.

Our projection for 1965-66 is for another 10 per cent increase in patient load, he explained, and if we reach this figure, we will be operating at the 80 per cent capacity that is considered the maximum for any institution. I might add, he reported, that the first two months of this year the increase exceeded this estimate. Palm went on to say that in addition to these normal growth patterns, two special situations concerning the hospital could mushroom the number of patients needing care.

The first, he claimed, is Medicare. Of course, no one knows what bill will be reported and passed by Congress, but it looks today as if Medicare will be able to be processed by an accredited hospital. Hills and Dales is the only hospital that qualifies in the county, he said, and we might find ourselves in the business of caring for the chronically ill.

Another development that could take an additional 10 beds is a psychiatric unit for the Thumb. It would need to be erected in a central location and would require some 10 additional beds.

If all of these eventualities come to pass, Palm said, we would need a hospital with about 126 beds. Presently the hospital has 57 beds.

Funds Available

In anticipation of the future needs for expansion, the hospital has been putting money in certificates of deposit as a building fund. Currently, this fund has $60,000 drawing four and four and one-half per cent interest.

The hospital averaged slightly over 38 patients per day during the last fiscal year. Average cost per patient-day was $35.67.

Elected Board Members

Three members of the board of directors were re-elected for three-year terms. Named without opposition were Mrs. Sherwood Rice Jr., Alex Ross and Archie McLachlan.

Members Reveal New Lutheran Pastor Due Here

Alvin Avery, president, announced this week that the Rev. Richard C. Eyer has accepted a call to become the pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City.

Eyer will be serving his first duties as pastor of a church since his graduation from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., May 28. His first sermon here will be Sunday, July 4, at 9:30 a.m. He will be installed in special ceremonies Sunday, July 11, at 2:30 p.m.

Eyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eyer of Fair Lawn, N. J. He is the first member of the Our Savior Lutheran Church in Fair Lawn to enter the ministry. He was ordained Sunday in Fair Lawn.

Eyer has been a member of the Junior and Senior Walther Leagues and sang in the teenage and senior choirs. During the summer months he assisted in Sunday worship services and as a teacher at the church's vacation Bible school.

Second Pastor

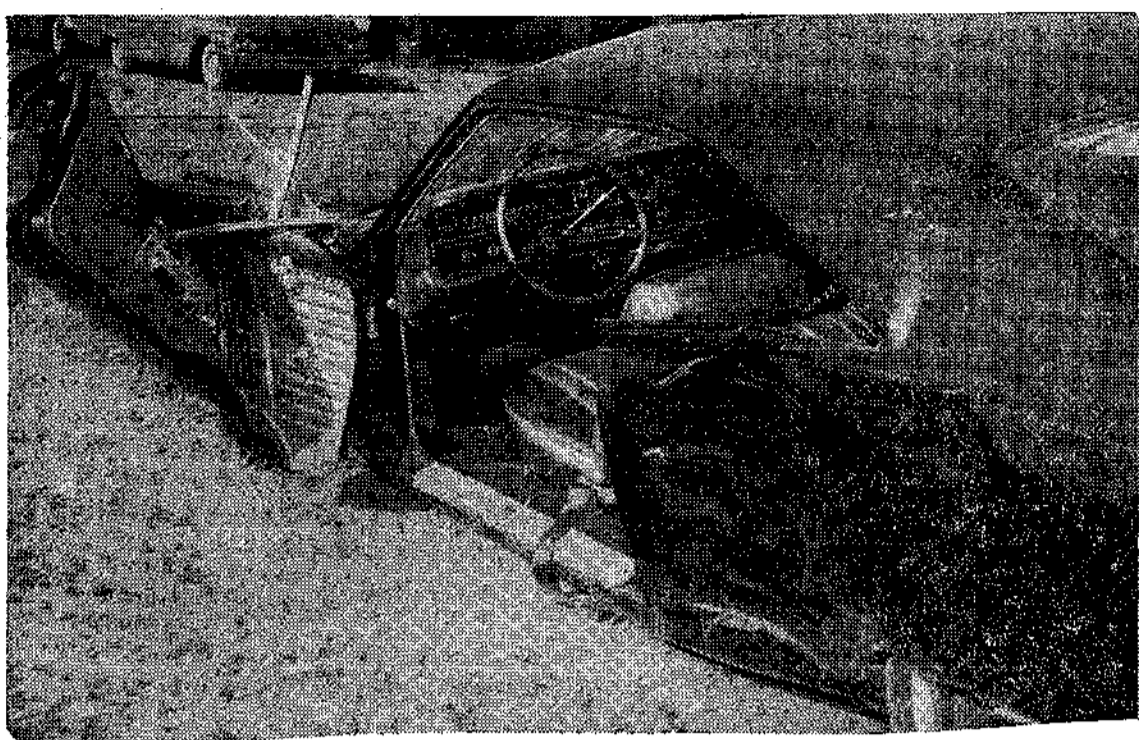

Eyer will be the second resident pastor to serve the Cass City church. He succeeds the Rev. Paul Heitmann, who accepted a call to a Nebraska church in November.

Besides the two residents, the Good Shepherd church has been served by three circuit pastors. The first was the Rev. Otto Nuchterlein, then of Caro, who organized the Cass City church.

He was followed by the Rev. Edwin Rossow of Fairgrove. Since the resignation of Heitmann, the pulpit has been filled by the Rev. John Boerger of Caro.

Church authorities said that the new pastor would be facing many challenges as he steps into his first post.

Church members are in the first stages of planning a new church.

NARROW ESCAPE—Three Cass City men escaped serious injury Sunday morning when this car, owned by Ronald Patera, 23, of Deford and driven by Donald Anker, 28, of Cass City, rolled over three times on M-81, near Spence Road. Anker required 12 stitches for a head injury and Patera and Ronald Rutkowski, 21, another passenger, were treated for lacerations. (Chronicle photo)

Car Demolished, Youths Escape with Minor Injuries

Three persons were injured in an accident Sunday morning at 3 a.m. when a car driven by Donald Lee Anker, 28, swerved out of control on M-81, about a half mile from Spence road.

The injured were taken to Hills and Dales Hospital. Anker, the driver, required 12 stitches and Ronald Rutkowski, 21, of Cass City and Ronald Patera, 23, of Deford were treated for lacerations and released.

According to the report issued by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, Anker said that he was going east on M-81 when he lost control because of power steering. Skid marks showed, the police said, that the car was on the wrong side of the road when it started to skid and skidded 225 feet, left the pavement and travelled 60 feet farther before hitting the edge of a driveway across a roadside ditch and rolling over several times.

The car was completely demolished.

Deer Killed

Jerome Robert Cottrell, 25, of Deford reported that he killed a deer with his car Sunday morning on Mushroom road, about a half mile east of Kingston road.

Cottrell said that the deer jumped from a ditch into the path of his car. He was given the deer to take home, under the recently enacted law permitting motorists who kill deer with cars to keep them.

Cass City Accidents

Mrs. Onita G. Carb of Deford was ticketed for leaving the scene of a property damage accident at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday when she struck a car owned by Winifred Short of Cass City, which was parked on Seeger Street. Police officer William McKinley investigated.

The left rear fender of a car, parked at the curb by Mrs. James Bauer of Cass City, was struck Thursday, June 10, by a vehicle driven by Michael Holik, 21, of Cass City as he was backing from the curb on Main street. Chief Carl Palmateer investigated.

Minor property damage resulted in a two-car collision Friday at the intersection of Leach and Pine streets. Palmateer reported that the cars were driven by Albert William Curtis, 22, of Jackson and Alton Mark, 73, of Cass City.

Plans Race Forward After Voter Approval

Slate Completed High School by Fall of 1967

Cass City's students will be entering a spanking new $1.6 million high school when school starts in the fall of 1967 because district voters Monday decisively okayed the tax money necessary for its construction.

Proposition I, authorizing additional operating millage, passed

578 to 283 with seven spoiled ballots.

Proposition II, authorizing the issuance of the bonds, passed 545 to 283 with three spoiled ballots.

Supt. Don Crouse said that the next step is to get approval of the bond issue from the State Finance Commission. This normally takes from two to three months, he explained.

The Commission acts on a first come, first served basis. To avoid any unnecessary delays, Crouse said, we had the applications here in advance so that they could be immediately processed if the issues passed. In two or three days the papers will be winging towards the Finance Commission, according to Crouse.

School authorities hope to be able to submit plans for bids in January or February of 1966 and have construction begin on the site at the north village limits the following spring.

Naturally, Crouse and the entire school board were elated with the results. Spearheaded by Crouse, the board had attended innumerable meetings trying to get across their message of the necessity of a new school.

The first salvo in the campaign was fired over a year ago and the board moved slowly with plans for several months. It was not until July that members started considering architects for the school.

From this start, activities gradually accelerated until the final week in which most of the discussion centered around the proposed school.

Elected Board Members

Also named by the electors were two members of the school board for four-year terms. Incumbent members Horace Bolen and Donald Koepfgen were easy victors over Don DeLong, the only other candidate. The results were: Koepfgen, 652 votes; Bolen, 571 votes, and Don DeLong, 378 votes.

Why New School Passed

Why did Cass City voters pass a $1.6 million bond issue and an increase of five mills in taxes when the majority of school districts were turning down requests for funds?

According to authorities, there were a number of reasons.

One reason, experts feel, is that the bond issue was presented at a time when prosperity and employment are at a peak. Most voters are earning enough money and have enough confidence in the future to feel that they can pay the tax bill.

Voters probably also took into consideration that the total tax bill (18.5) for the district, even including the new school, compared very favorably with the amounts being paid by neighboring districts.

Cass City was the last of the schools in the Thumb B Conference to embark on a building program. Voters could look at any of the neighboring villages and see spanking new facilities. Community pride helped local educators.

Last, but by no means least, was the careful planning and work of school authorities to convince voters that the school as suggested was actually needed and contained no useless frills to be paid for at the taxpayer's expense.

All of these favorable factors were probably necessary when the results of neighboring school elections are considered. Sebewaing turned down a new high school. Reese, Harbor Beach and Caro turned down requests for additional operating millage. Only Bad Axe was successful in a request for funds. They maintained an extra five-mill levy for operation.

Name Two in Owengage Election

The annual Owengage-Gagetown school board election was held Monday. Elected to the board were Thomas Laurie, 238 votes, and Eldon Dietzel, 211 votes.

They were challenged for a seat on the board by Mrs. Ben Hobart, who received 135 votes.

Set Load Limit on Cass River Bridge

The Tuscola County Road Commission last week established a six-ton load limit on the Cass River Bridge on Cemetery road.

The new regulations go into effect Monday, June 21, according to Robert J. Wellington, county highway engineer.

Confiscate Gun, Other Weapons to Avert Teen Fight

Sanilac county sheriff's deputies averted what might have developed into a full-scale teenage rumble Sunday when they arrested five Cass City area youths near Port Austin and confiscated a minor arsenal.

Three of the boys, William J. Crane, James R. Kile, both of Cass City, and Larry S. Smith, Decker, waived examination Monday before Justice John P. Guza to carrying concealed weapons. All three are 18.

All three were held at Huron County Circuit Court and released after furnishing $500 bond each.

Two other boys, 15 and 16, from Cass City and Snover, were released to their parents and will face charges in Tuscola and Sanilac juvenile courts.

The boys reportedly had a sawed-off .22 caliber revolver, a bayonet, rubber hoses, chains, spiked brass knuckles and a club in their possession.

They were first spotted by Port Austin police as they were leaving a service station after the proprietor asked them to leave for causing a disturbance, officers said.

As they drove away, they spotted the police car and apparently panicked, throwing the weapons from their car.

After they were arrested, the boys told officers they were carrying the weapons "for protection." A witness, however, told police that the boys had asked him "to meet them in the country for a fight."

Girl Jumps from Horse and Lands in Hospital Bed

A jump from a racing horse put a Cass City girl in a Saginaw hospital Sunday with a serious head injury.

Ann Turner, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turner of Cass City, is recovering at St. Mary's Hospital after surgery Sunday night to correct a skull fracture.

Ann was racing with her sister and jumped from her horse when she thought it was going to run under a tree. She struck her head on a wagon hub in the grass.

The accident occurred at the Turner home.

Fortune Turns Back on Mrs. Hazel Jones

The next time things go "wrong" or you feel that you were born under an unlucky star, you might consider the cruel twists of fortune that Mrs. Hazel Jones has been forced to endure.

The first in a series of tragic accidents started in 1960 when her husband, Ben, was killed in a tractor accident, leaving her a widow with four young daughters.

Then June 1, this year, her brother, Lee Corkins, died in an auto crash. Monday, June 14, her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Jones of Shabbona, died; Tuesday, her brother, Gene Corkins, died from injuries suffered in the auto crash, and early Sunday morning her house caught fire while she was sleeping.

Rev. Richard C. Eyer Ernest Eyer of Fair Lawn, N. J. He is the first member of the Our Savior Lutheran Church in Fair Lawn to enter the ministry. He was ordained Sunday in Fair Lawn.

From the Editor's Corner

If readers of this column have gathered that I am excited about the prospects for a community college to serve the Thumb, they are right.

The steadily increasing pressure for space in today's schools is, of course, one reason for its need. Another is the reduction in costs. Sylvia Porter, well-known syndicated business writer, recently wrote about the reduced costs of community colleges. The statistics are impressive.

Because of the savings in room and board, she reports that attending a community college is less than half of the cost of a public institution and over six times cheaper than attending a private college.

Per year, the cost of education at the three types of institutions are:

Private college $3,315
Public college $1,555
Community college $390

Building and operating a community college at a cost, locally, of just $1.00 per $1,000 of State equalized assessed valuation looks to me like about as big a bargain as you'll ever get for your money.

I noticed that since the school election is over, Supt. Donald Crouse has started to observe other activities around him. How did I arrive at this conclusion?

Monday he started to grow a Centennial beard . . . it's black and

A year from now, Jack Wallace, 25, of Cass City may be walking without the aid of his crutches, wheel chair or braces . . . or he may not.

If he is walking, it will be the winner's pot in a game of chance he played last March 16 when he underwent a rare, eight-hour operation to correct a childhood ailment that has kept him a cripple most of his life.

The operation, to lengthen his hamstrings, was the second such operation performed by doctors at University Hospital at Ann Arbor and is still essentially in the experimental stage.

Considered Success

So far, it is considered a success and doctors have told Jack that within a year, he should be able to walk without any support.

"I sure hope so," says Jack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wallace of rural Cass City. "I'm coming real good . . . better than I thought."

When he was two years old, Jack was stricken with what was then thought to be infantile paralysis. Doctors now term the affliction as spastic paraplegia.

The symptoms were twisted legs bent at the knee, and though he could move them some, he had no balance. "I had a lot of spasms from time to time in my legs, especially at night," he says.

Because the operation was so experimental and because there was always the possibility that he might never walk again, the choice was a difficult one to make.

Hard Decision

"It was a hard decision," Jack recalls. "I had to think about it for a long time. The day before the operation, I just about backed out."

If the operation failed, there would have been little hope that he would ever correct the problem because there is no other operation for the disease.

The operation involved cutting the hamstrings on the underside of his leg, right behind the knee and retying the hamstrings in such a way as to lengthen them. Recovery included weekly trips to Ann Arbor for check-ups.

One Problem

One small problem has developed, however. When Jack awoke from the operation, he discovered his legs enclosed in casts. After the casts were removed, the doctors found that they had straightened Jack's legs too much, pinching the

Mrs. David W. Cole

Margaret Ann Ross and David W. Cole exchanged nuptial vows Saturday morning in St. Columbkille Catholic Church, Sheridan.

The Rev. Fr. Leo Lynch officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex H. Ross of Ubyly and the son of the Orvis D. Coles of Grand Rapids.

The bride approached the altar in a gown of silk organza designed with bell shaped, floor-length skirt and a scoop neckline and short lace sleeves trimmed with seed pearls. Complementing the gown was a Chantilly lace capelet, with seed pearls on the neckline, which fell from the shoulders into a chapel train.

Her pillbox crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls held her bouffant illusion veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Ross, sister of the bride, of Ypsilanti, was maid of honor and the Misses Shirley Ross, a cousin of the bride, of Detroit, and Audrey Ross, a sister of the bride, of Ubyly, were bridesmaids.

They wore floor-length copen blue dresses with bell skirts and scoop necklines. One blue rose held their bouffant veils and they carried nosegays of cornflowers and pink carnations.

Richard Cole, brother of the groom, of Grand Rapids, was best man, assisted by John Ceechini of Grand Rapids and Tom Klasko of Big Rapids. Guests were seated by Ralph Elsner of Big Rapids.

The newlyweds greeted guests at a reception and dinner at the Pigeon VFW Hall immediately following the ceremony. Three hundred guests were present.

After they return from a trip through eastern Canada, the newlyweds will reside in Grand Rapids. The bridegroom is a pharmacist and she is a teacher.

Legislators Bent on Making Michigan Leading Spender

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
First and Most

Michigan legislators appear bent on making the state No. 1 in many areas.

Last year the lawmaking body put Michigan on top of the legislative pay scale across the country. Another effort was attempted this year to boost salaries for their successors.

The move to raise legislative salaries to $15,000 was stalled pending a study of state officials' salary standards, an apparent move to quell some of the criticism which followed House approval of the 50 per cent boost.

Top level will be held by Michigan in another area this fall when the new workmen's compensation law takes effect, boosting benefits to injured workers by half or better depending on the family size.

This change will be more gradual, however, with a scale spread over the next three years. Somewhat surprisingly, some employers who will pay for the increase say it is a reasonable rate.

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, strong supporter of this legislation, termed the boost an evidence of "the new legislature's program of vigorous, responsible modernization of Michigan's law."

Still a third evolution is occurring in the legislature which will make it unique among lawmaking bodies.

Senate leaders recently made it official they will not adjourn the session this summer as scheduled. Rather they will keep it open and return this fall to work on unsettled matters such as fiscal reform.

As short as 10 years ago, legislators could count on about five or six months of session in the odd year and four to five months work time in the even election campaign year.

Change from this pattern started in 1959, the cash crisis year when the session ran through Christmas week. Prior to that time a "special session" lived up to its name.

Since 1959, however, leaders have set hopeful deadlines for scheduled sessions of the 1959-era type. But observers could easily see very early in the session that deadlines would go by the boards in favor of an extension such as is occurring this year. In other years special sessions became almost common.

It doesn't necessarily follow that more work is being done just because more time is being used. More time is being spent on substantive bills, but much time is wasted in the early weeks of these long sessions and on bills which are of little consequence or doomed to the wastebasket.

Annual sessions in itself put Michigan in a special class. Many states still have only biennial sessions unless special matters require attention in the off-year.

Very few states, if any, come close to the amount of time in session Michigan legislators have spent in the past six years.

Neighboring Ohio calls its lawmaking body into session only once in the two-year term. Budgets and all other matters are written to cover two years at a minimum.

Needing Love
A rare opportunity exists for citizens to assist in the treatment of retarded children at eight state institutions.

Of the more than 10,000 retarded, many are known as forgotten children.

Their parents or other relatives are no longer around or choose to ignore them.

Like all children, the retarded need love and attention. To fill this need at one institution the Lapeer Parents Association was formed a number of years ago.

Similar groups established at the other seven similar institutions now operate within the framework of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children.

The program is similar to a foster parent plan. Volunteers are given basic information about a child. His age, mental ability, interests and favorite gifts may be included.

A foster parent is encouraged to write the child frequently and remember him especially on holidays and his birthday. Visits can be arranged if desired.

A stigma still attached to retarded discourages some from attempting active careers or even active volunteer work in this area of mental health, but the foster parent plan can be painlessly enlightening.

Information cards may show a child to be in his 30's or older and his interests to be gardening or weaving. It may seem incongruous to have a letter request shaving equipment and cigarettes when the handwriting and sentiment is distinctly the scrawl and "I love you much much" of a first grader.

Chronological age has little meaning in the retarded housed at Lapeer, Coldwater, Mount Pleasant, Fort Custer, Caro, Plymouth, Howell and Gaylord.

The term children applied to all is accurate. The forgotten children devour any expression of kindness or affection which comes their way.

EMPLOYEES HONORED—W. E. Walpole, Walbro Corporation president, extreme left, presented these 32 Walbro employees and supervisors with watches in honor of 10 years of service with the company. All were hired in 1954, the year the firm went into operation in Cass City. Walpole made the presentation at the annual company picnic on the factory grounds Thursday, June 10.

Old Settlers Slate 55th Annual Meet Saturday at Deford

A group of Caro old timers are slated to provide music at the 55th annual Deford Old Settlers' Reunion Saturday, June 19, at the Deford Community School, according to Bill O'Dell, Cass City, president.

Festivities will get under way at 10:00 a. m. and, because of the centennial, those attending are asked to come in centennial dress.

O'Dell reminds members of the reunion to bring antiques, pictures, hobby projects or interesting materials along to be exhibited.

Members of the reunion committee, besides O'Dell, include Rinerd Knoblet, Jason Kitchen, Lois Binder and Mable K. Obiet.

O'Dell stressed the importance of attendance by all that can come in order to make the event as big a success as in the past.

Honor 33 for Ten-Year Service At Walbro Corp.

Thirty-three Walbro employees and officials were honored Thursday, June 10, for 10 years of service to the company. The event took place at the annual picnic on the company lawn.

W. E. Walpole, company president, presented each of the 10-year employees with engraved wristwatches. All were hired in 1954, the year the company was formed in Cass City.

Honored were Edna Linderman, Verma Linderman, Bessie Muntz, Marie O'Neil, Shirley Zinnecker, Mildred Kain, Beverly Vahovick, Olga Aleksink, Thelma Gaydos, Elaine Crane, Rosemary Patera, Geraldine Brown, Carol Krizman, Florence Leslie, Bertha Cook, Marie Jones, Kathryn Hudson, Jackie Weiden, Patricia Sherman and Leona Curtis.

Hourly rated men employees honored included: Andy Kozan, Clark Auslander, Don Cummings, John McBurney, Robert Groth and Wilbert Neiman.

St. Pancratius to Organize "Belles"

Mrs. John Oswald's appointment as secretary of St. Pancratius Altar Society to fill the unexpired term of Miss R. Maytoreno, was announced at the June 7 meeting.

Since January, $500 has been paid on the sanctuary carpeting, Mrs. Clarence Erla, treasurer, reported.

A chapter of the Centennial Belles has been formed under the direction of Mrs. Donald Erla. She will inform members of the meeting date to decide the name and activity of this chapter.

Mrs. George Murray, president, reported briefly on the Alpena convention of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, which is comprised of the four Deaneries of the Saginaw Diocese.

The next meeting will be held in September.

As a general rule very few things that are worth having can be had for the asking.

First Caravan Tour Slated Friday Eve

Cass City will become a ghost town Friday night, if Cass City Area Centennial officials have their way in staging the first of several car caravans to area towns.

The caravans will form at 8:30 p. m. at the Recreation Park and officials are asking that all interested persons attend.

Vassar, Caro, Kingston and Deford will be hit in this first caravan, according to Charles Auten, caravan organizer. A village official will greet the caravans at Vassar and Caro and a 20-minute stop will be made in those two towns for square dancing and ceremonies.

Those taking part are asked to come in costume, however, it is not necessary to dress up to participate.

Auten stressed the importance of a huge attendance in creating interest and enthusiasm in those towns visited.

Similar caravans will be held on June 26 and July 10.

Centennial Belles

A special meeting of all Centennial Belles chairmen is to be held tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 at the Cultural Center, according to Mrs. Thomas Jackson, women's participation chairman.

College Meet Thursday

The first meeting of the citizens advisory committee, school administrators, executive committee and study staff for the proposed Tri-county Community College is slated at Cass City High School Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of the 50-page tentative study report by Dr. Max S. Smith, director of study, MSU. Also scheduled to speak will be Borland and Wolf, MSU assistants, who will talk about parent-student aspirations.

The vocational-technical aspects of the program will be presented by Harlan Heglar, MSU assistant director, with help from Bruce Dunn, Thomas Poole and Jack Newton.

The next steps for the work will also be discussed.

Price of Leading Is High

One hundred and six young men and women became alumni of Cass City High School Thursday evening when they were handed their diplomas as they left the stage following the graduation exercises. In awarding the diplomas, Superintendent Donald Crouse told the graduates that he was representing their teachers, their parents, and the entire community, all of whom had a part in making their education possible.

Earlier in the program, Ronald J. Jursa, assistant director of admissions at Michigan State University, spoke to the graduates about "The Penalty of Leadership." Calling their attention to the rapid progress in the fields of science and technology today, he emphasized that the need for leaders has never been greater. "There is, however," he cautioned, "a penalty for leadership." "Only those who are willing to pay the price, in training, in dedication and in effort, can qualify as leaders."

James Seals, assistant high school principal, recognized the honor graduates and presented scholarships to 14 members of the class. He called attention to the fact that more than 40 of the graduates were scheduled to continue their education beyond the high school diploma.

Beverly Guinther, class president, introduced the speakers. Salutatorian Ruth Ann Freeman opened the program by welcoming the parents and friends who had come to honor the graduates. Robert Milligan used his valedictory to urge all the graduates to make full use of their privileges as citizens.

A new feature of the program was the singing of the Alma Mater by the entire class. In other musical portions, Robert Spencer provided a trombone solo and Rosemary Deering sang "The Lord's Prayer," as a benediction, after the class had left the stage, diplomas in hand, at the close of the service.

2nd Annual Rogers Reunion Held Sunday

The second annual reunion of the Timothy Rogers family was held Sunday, June 13, at the roadside park between Imlay City and Lapeer. Thirty-nine were present for a potluck dinner.

Games were played by the youngsters under the direction of Mrs. James Karr of Deford and Glenn Wright of Imlay City.

Next year's officers were elected. Russell Rogers of Royal Oak is president and his wife Grace is secretary-treasurer. Glenn Wright is vice-president and Irl Wright, chairman of the grounds committee.

The oldest Rogers descendant present was Mrs. Samuel Lowe of Snover and the youngest was Tammy Annette Wright of Imlay City.

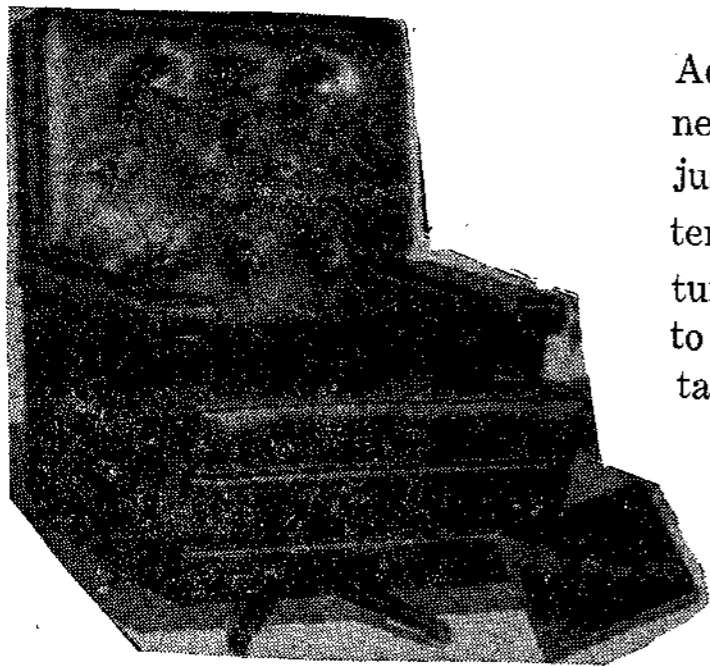

The reunion will be held again next year at the same park on the second Sunday in June.

His chances were particularly slim because his age was against him. He had almost reached the point where doctors would have ruled out an operation.
School Next
Next step for Jack, as soon as he is back on his feet, will be a trade school of some sort, also financed by the rehabilitation program. Just what type of school, Jack hasn't decided.
A 1968 graduate of Cass City High School, Jack never let his affliction keep him on the sidelines. An avid sports enthusiast, Jack plays a mean game of pool and took second place in a ping pong tourney in high school.
"I enjoy hunting, particularly fox hunting," he confided, squinting down the barrel of his favorite double barreled shotgun.
"I keep myself busy doing whatever comes to mind," Jack concluded. A year from now, he may have new interests.

Braid Blasts Hole-in-one at Caro Course

Somebody up there apparently likes a Cass City golfer who slammed a 177-yard drive on the fifth hole of the Caro Golf Course for a hole-in-one.
Rev. James Braid, Cass City Methodist pastor, made the hole-in-one Wednesday, June 9, while playing a round of golf with William Ruhl, local pharmacist.
"I did lousy on the first four," Braid recalls. "On the fifth, I took my three wood and hit a nice drive that landed on the green and rolled into the cup."
It was Braid's first hole-in-one. He finished the game with a 49.

Cass City MEA in Final Meet of Year

A luncheon was served by Cass City Schools cooks to the Cass City Chapter of the MEA Wednesday, June 9. This was the teachers' final "get-together" of the 1964-65 school year.
Robert Stickle, retiring president, called the meeting to order and the new president, Lyle Clarke, presided.
President Clarke introduced the officers for the coming year: Mrs. Orion Cardew, president-elect; Mrs. Brewster Shaw, vice-president; Mrs. Bernard Phipps, secretary, and Mrs. Albert Quick, treasurer.
Mrs. Billie Wallace, retiring vice-president, presented gifts to Robert Gray and Mrs. Donald Leigh, who will teach elsewhere next year, and to Mrs. Clem Schott and Mrs. George Dillman, who will retire from teaching. Also Mr. Stickle, who is assuming the principalship at Deford this fall, received a gift.
Mrs. Lewis Tibbitts and Mrs. James Seals were appointed to the flower committee and Mrs. Ervin Binder was appointed reporter.

Check Charge Brings 3 Years Probation

A Cass City man was put on three years probation and fined heavily Wednesday, June 9, when he appeared before Circuit Court Judge James Churchill in Caro on a charge of falsely endorsing a check for $339.42 last December.
Morey Dadacki was given the probation term and ordered to pay a fine of $200 plus costs of $100 and restitution of $479.78 at a rate of $25.00 monthly.
Joseph Y. Davis of Caro, arrested on May 7 on four counts of driving on suspended or revoked driver's licenses, was sentenced to one year in the county jail.
Gary Briggs, 21, Mayville, on probation for the December 13, 1963, breaking and entering of the Mayville Community School, had his probation amended and may drive farm tractors and machinery on public highways in connection with farm operations only. He broke his probation by driving a car involved in an accident.
Reymundo Cantu, Birch Run, was arraigned on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a nine-year-old girl and his case was adjourned one week to June 16. Bond of $5,000 was continued.
Ernest J. C. Blackmer of Vassar, arraigned on a check writing charge, was continued on $100 bond and his case adjourned to June 30.

Centennial Queen Nominee List Grows

Twenty-seven new names have been added to the ever-increasing list of area women nominated for the once in a lifetime chance of becoming queen of the Cass City Area Centennial.
The new list, released this week by Mrs. Lloyd Bryant, queen committee chairman, brings the total nominees to 67 women. More names are expected.
On this week's list were: Marilyn Summers of Gagetown, Jeanne Fisher of Ubyly, Pam Dillon of Unionville, Janice Morell of Ubyly, and Eileen Hicks of Deford.
Cass City women included: Linda Russell, Carol Tracy, Ruth Ann Severance, Brenda Seeley, Pat Rogers, Rona Rayl, Eileen Smith, Gloria Spencer, Mary Kloe, Joan Aglig, Margaret MacTae, Peggy McConnell, Jonell Miller, Jeanette Hoppe and Delores Hoppe.
Others named were: Arlene Kilbourn, Sue Kelley, Joyce Irer, Kathy Holm, Gail Hoffman, Bev Harbec and Kathy Herhalt.
Nomination blank with complete information may be found in the second section of this issue of the Chronicle.

Announce Summer Recreation Program

Park Director Dave Binder said that plans for the summer recreation program at the Cass City Recreation Park are about complete.
One of the first items on the agenda, Binder said, will be the formation of a bloop ball league. Persons wishing to join should call Binder at his home (872-2322), he explained.
Arts and Crafts
Meanwhile, Mrs. Robert Tuckey announced that the arts and crafts program at the Cass City Elementary School will start Monday, June 28, from 9 to 11:45 a.m.
As usual, the first special event will be the annual "On Wheels" parade, she said. The new director said that the program is designed for all children of school age and not preschool youngsters.
Pool Opening
The definite date for the pool opening has not yet been set. Weather permitting, the pool will open this week end under the direction of Roger Parrish. Otherwise, it will open the following week, Binder reported.

To Invite Alumni To Centennial

Want to invite someone to attend Cass City's Centennial the easy way? If so, just call Mrs. Cameron Wallace or Willis Campbell and a letter will be sent promptly.
Besides extending an invitation to guests, the letter lists the events and dates of Centennial week.
In addition to sending the letters to names submitted, the committee is also sending invitations to former graduates whose addresses are on file at Cass City High School.
The committee expects to send freshmen following the core about 1,000 letters, but Campbell said that they would send as many as necessary to contact everyone. Decker, Kingston, Caro, Elkton, whose names and addresses are Ubyly, Bad Axe, Harbor Beach, gathered from school records or Caro, Gagetown, Owendale and Cass City.

AT LEAST ONCE a year, the Chronicle can expect Brent Galloway, 17, to appear with a Cass River whopper of some sort. This year it was an 18-inch, three-pound smallmouthed bass caught Saturday off the Cass River bridge south of the village with night crawlers. Brent is so proud of this battle scarred veteran that he may have it mounted. (Chronicle photo)

Undeclared Indians Lead Little Minors

The Indians are perched atop the Little Minor League this week with three wins in as many tries. Three games were played by the loop teams.
Indians-Angels
Tuesday, June 8, the Indians pounded out a 11-7 decision over the second place Angels. David Zawilinski and Jerry Toner were on the mound. Toner was the hitting star, as well as the winning pitcher. He slammed a double, triple and home run.
Angels-Dodgers
Tim Williams was credited with the victory in a slugfest Wednesday, June 9, as the Angels topped the Dodgers, 21-16. Jeffery Tuckey was on the mound for the losers.
Hitting stars were Ricky Baker, with three for four, and John Brewton with three hits in four tries, including a home run.
Indians-White Sox
The Indians won their second game of the week with a one-sided victory over the White Sox, 16-3. Mike Rutkowski and Scott Gohsman were on the mound. Jerry

County to Start Picturing Local Drivers Tuesday

Tuscola County Sheriff Hugh Marr reported this week that full color photography will come to the county's drivers' licensing bureau Tuesday.
The county will be one of the later ones to receive the camera equipment to comply with the new state law requiring pictures on every license. Lapeer county has been photographing drivers for nearly a month, Marr said.
Despite the change, Marr said, it is not anticipated that there will be a lengthening of the time it takes to receive licenses. "We will mail the week's pictures to Lansing every Friday and the remainder of the processing will be completed there," he explained.
Monday, Marr said, two of my deputies will go to school in Port Huron and learn how to operate the equipment. It will take three years before everyone driving will have a picture on his license, he concluded.

Helwig's Toe Must Recover

By Dave Kraft

Knowing how much you readers were looking forward to that foot race between Elwyn Helwig and myself makes it hard for me to have to announce this, but it's all off. At least until Helwig's toe recovers.

He broke it... his toe, that is. Or was it his instep... something. He gave me some garbled story about falling under a runaway elephant or some such thing. I didn't dispute it.

Does seem to me that he went to extremes. If he really didn't want to run the race, why didn't he just say so. No need to break a perfectly good foot.

Of course, that's better than cutting off a leg, I guess.

I remember hearing about guys cutting off their trigger fingers during World War II to avoid the draft. Another extreme. The best way to avoid the draft is close the window.

He really did hurt his foot. You can tell by the pained expression on his face when you step on it... his foot.

Lucky thing for me Elwyn has a sense of humor or two or three inches of this column would be blank space. You'll have to admit that just before a big race is a rather inopportune time to break a foot. Better his foot than mine, though. He can break his foot and get away with it. Who'd believe I broke mine, short of a cast?

Newspaper people are notorious for their ulcers. They're notorious for a lot of things, I know, but ulcers is a leader.

I don't have an ulcer, but I do have the next best thing... an easily aroused pituitary gland.

The last few weeks it has been aroused by various things to the point that I had to go to the doctor.

He examined me, gave me a prescription and told me not to worry.

Ever since then, I've been worrying about what it was he didn't want me to worry about.

Somewhere in this issue is a story about Rev. Jim Braid's hole-in-one at the Caro golf course the other day. That shouldn't count. You know who he's got on his side.

A lady called up the other day to ask me whether all the beards being brandished about town are tucked under the covers at night or over the covers, presuming you can tuck something "over" something else.

I told her I didn't know in my case because I was usually asleep. This didn't seem to satisfy her so if someone would care to volunteer an answer, I'd be happy to pass it on. This is certainly something we should all be concerned about... I think. If we shouldn't be concerned about it, I'd like to know why she wants to know.

Memo to the Walbro personnel who received 10-year awards last Thursday: My profoundest apologies. Not a blessed one of those pictures I took of the event turned out. I know it's futile to say it was the fault of the camera but it was. You gotta believe me. You don't? Maybe if I'd gotten a watch like the rest of you, I'd have done better, but that's the way it goes.

Deadline Near for Wheat Allotments

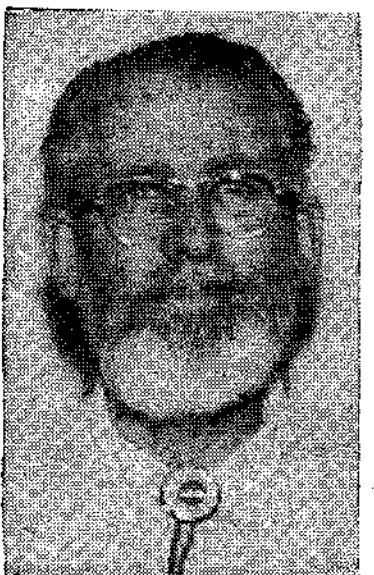

Mike Singer of the Tuscola County ASC Committee announced today that applications for 1966 new farm wheat allotments must be filed with the county office not later than June 30.

Producers on farms with no 1966 wheat allotment and who are interested in obtaining price support for wheat next year may request that an allotment be established for their farm. Application forms are available in the Tuscola County office for this purpose.

Ken White First to Identify Alex Tyo's Beard

Ken White was the first to call Wednesday afternoon and identify Alex Tyo as the man behind the beard. His free subscription is on the way.

Among the others to call the correct answer were Mrs. Nelson Gremel, Mrs. Roger Deering, Ellwood Eastman and Mrs. Leonard Copeland.

Despite the wide variety of persons pictured, the Chronicle has yet to publish a beard that has not been identified.

The men behind the beards were photographed early and not even the person pictured knows when (if at all) his picture will appear. Here's the next in the series. Who is he?

PLANNING
First steps are always the most costly, but worth the price if it's in the right direction.

Rev. S. R. Wurtz Retires This Month

A farewell dinner for Rev. Samuel R. Wurtz, pastor of the Gilford Evangelical United Brethren Church and former pastor of the Cass City EUB Church, was held Sunday by members of his congregation.

Rev. Wurtz, pastor at Gilford for the past two years, is slated to retire from the ministry this month, ending 41 years of service.

His retirement was announced at the annual conference of the church and will become effective June 20 when he will preach his farewell sermon.

A native of Huron county, he was born near Pigeon, in Winsor township. He attended North Central Academy at Naperville, Ill.

Before coming to Cass City, he served churches at Brown City, Snover, Ewart and Gladwin.

His new summer address will be 157 Tanview, Oxford, and his winter address will be 212 Sunny Grove, Clearwater, Fla., 33515.

No man can travel the straight and narrow path unless he's willing to pay the toll.

The flowers that grow along the primrose path today have a heavy scent of gasoline.

Strive to be a winner and you'll never find fault with the referee's decisions.

Giants Move to Top with Pair of Little League Wins

The Giants stamped themselves as the team to beat in the Cass City Little League last week as they continued to win and now boast a one-game lead over the second-place Pirates with an undefeated 4-0 record.

The first five games would indicate that the league this year is composed of the haves and the have nots. The Pirates boast a 3-1 record and the remainder of the teams in the league have each won just once, as compared to three defeats.

Tiger's-Pirates
In the opening game of the week Monday, June 7, the Pirates stamped the Tigers, 2-7. Wayne McNeil was the pitcher and picked up an easy victory. He was helped by Kim Hopper with a grand slam home run and Gary Zellar, who clouted one over the fence with a mate aboard. Tim Knoblet, Wayne McNeil and Gene Hopper slammed out two hits in three tries.

Giants-Yankees
Duncan Wallace pitched the Giants to a victory over the Yankees Tuesday, June 8, as he hurled shutout ball in a game shortened by rain. The score was 13-0. Wallace helped himself at the plate with two for three. Robbie Alexander also collected a pair of hits in three trips for the winners.

Tigers-Cubs
The Tigers played what was described as their best game of the year to come up with their first victory. They topped the Cub, 6-5, in a tight game played Wednesday, June 9. Randy Kozan was the winning pitcher.

Giants-Pirates
In a battle for first place the Giants edged the Pirates 15-3, behind the tight pitching of Alexander and the lusty hitting of Wallace. Alexander allowed only three hits while Wallace supplied most of the batting punch, driving in two of the three Giant runs with a home run.

Clinton Warner started on the mound for the Pirates and was relieved by Kim Hopper in the fourth. Warner was charged with the defeat. Errors set up the winning runs by the Giants.

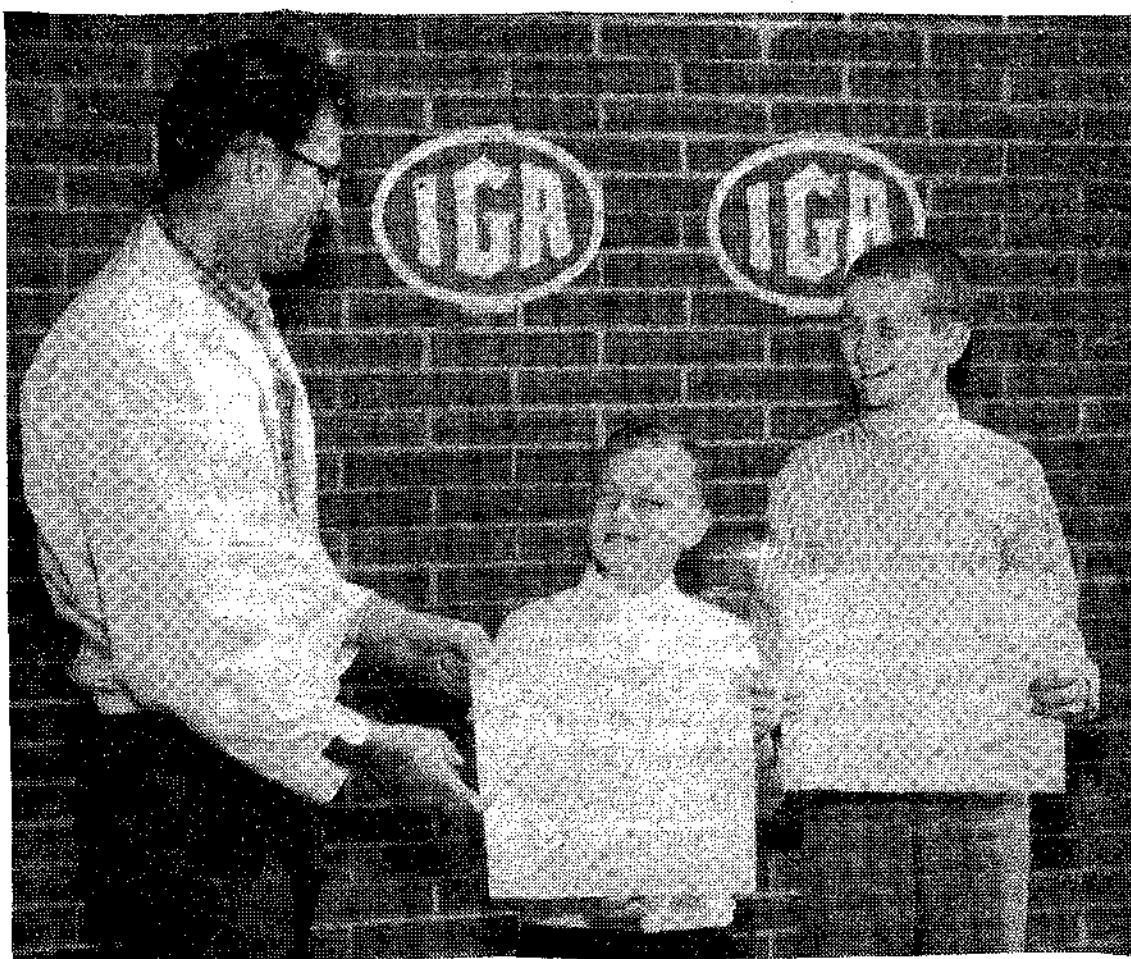

Yankees-Cubs
The Cubs notched their first victory of the season with an exciting 9-8 decision over the Yankees. The Cubs were in front, 9-1, at the end of the fourth. The Yankees bounced back in the fifth and sixth to score seven times, but fell one run short of tying the game. Ryland and Lee Taylor were on the mound for the winners. Dan Calister took the loss. Scott Hartel had two for two and Dennis Little a pair of safeties to lead the hitters.

The standings:

Team	W	L	GB
Giants	4	0	-
Pirates	3	1	1
Yankees	1	3	3
Tigers	1	3	3
Cubs	1	3	3

Bean Growers to Hold Three Meetings

A series of three meetings is scheduled to explain to Tuscola county bean growers the organization and operation of the Michigan Bean Growers Marketing Cooperative, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Assisting with the educational program will be Quentin R. Osterlander, district marketing agent for the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, and Roy Northrup of Gratiot county, in charge of the organizational campaign for the cooperative.

A group of Tuscola county bean growers and several local elevator agents met recently at the 4-H Club Building to have the program explained to them. It was the sentiment of this group that additional educational meetings should be held to explain the program to all Tuscola county bean growers.

Assisting in setting up the meetings are the present directors of the bean marketing cooperative, including Paul Nagy, Juniata township farmer who represents the Tuscola county bean growing area.

All meetings will begin at 8:30 p.m. and are scheduled to be held as follows: Monday, June 21, at the Akron School gymnasium; Tuesday, June 22, at the Richville school hall, and Wednesday, June 23, at the Gagetown school.

Growers are encouraged to talk these meetings up with their neighbors so that each grower may attend at least one of the three educational meetings, said Ballweg.

BOOK REVIEW

For Stories of the Orient, It's Pearl Buck

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

An American by parentage, Pearl Buck was the daughter of missionaries serving in the Orient. Her more than 100 books, written with the Orient as the setting, probably have done as much as any other single factor to acquaint the American reader with that part of the world. THE LIVING REED is placed in Korea just before our nation became involved in the war there.

Mrs. Buck always has a strong story theme running through her novels, and her readers are given (in the descriptive setting for the novel) much incidental information about the Orient and its people. For example, it has been less than 25 years, I think, since heating experts offered radiant heating for American homes and business buildings. (This consists of putting hot water heat into floors and letting it radiate naturally.) Mrs. Buck describes what she calls an "ondul floor," in which heat flues perform the heating function - and this "modern" way of heating dates back for many more than 25 years in the Orient.

In writing of strange and chaotic days in Korean history, the author can be forgiven some sections of the book which move slowly, in which she takes time to acquaint the reader with the causes of the strange and chaotic period. The framework of the tale is built around the noble (and notable) Kim family. The first member of this remarkable family with whom we are made acquainted is Kim Il-han, a wealthy scholar whose wisdom is appreciated by the royal family, especially the Queen. He does such things as travel incognito, with only one servant, through the Korean countryside, that his advice be based on knowledge rather than mere hearsay. Later he leads a royal mission to far-away America, and urges closer alliance with our great Western nation.

Sonia, his wife, is typical of the Oriental woman, living only for her family. Her knowledge is broader than is that of most Korean women, as Kim Il-han tutors her, preparing her for the role of advisor to the Queen. The entire family becomes passionately embroiled in the battle for the independence of Korea. The older son joins the exiled revolutionaries following the Japanese occupation of Korea, and his exploits make him almost a legend in his day, known as "The Living Reed."

The younger son marries a Christian, and we are able to see the magnitude of the problems involved in switching faiths. He is martyred, as are his wife and countless others. Each of Kim's sons leave a son, and the conclusion is left to the reader.

ing portion of the book hinges on them.

I have given you only an outline, in barest detail, of the plot of the book. The reader who plows carefully through the nearly 500 pages of this book will be rewarded by a first-rate story and also by the incidental history that is woven into this tale.

This is a book filled with insights of Korean people, many of whom feel that they are given only token friendship by the major powers of the world. For example, how much did you know about Korea before American GIs were sent there to fight and die? How well read are you about Korea in 1965?

I could subject this book to our usual standards of judgment and say that the book could have been shortened considerably without loss of anything vital. But, then, who am I to criticize one of the great ladies engaged in writing novels, novels with relevant themes and unique insights. Why not read it yourself?

THE LIVING REED by Pearl S. Buck. John Day, New York, 1963. Available from Elkland Township and Cass City Public Library.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:
The fellers at the country store Saturday night was about half agreed you can't build a Great Society in a country where nobody can tell what time it is.

Zeke Grubb claimed his favorite television programs was operating on about four different time systems, depending on what city and state he had tuned in for the moment. He was of the opinion half the country was saving a little daylight while the other half was losing half its mind. He allowed as how it has even got his chickens confused, reported his rooster had took to crowing at 3 o'clock in the morning and some of his hens was saving daylight by laying hantam eggs.

Isaac Cornfodder reported the situation wasn't bothering him none, said they was a crack in the east wall of his bedroom and he just waited till the sun come through the crack afore he got up in the morning. Furthermore, Isaac said he didn't work by the clock nohow, just worked till he got tired, which was about noon on a heap of days.

Ed Doolittle, that blames ever-thing from the Seven Deadly Sins to the high price of potatoes, on politics, claimed all this scandal about the time of day got started back under the New Deal when Franklin Roosevelt was trying to put a chicken in ever pot. He allowed as how Franklin figured the earlier he got the chickens up the quicker he could get 'em in the pot.

Personal, Mister Editor, I knowed daylight saving time got started back during World War I by Woodrow Wilson when they was trying to save fuel, but I didn't want to spoil Ed's misery, so I just stayed quiet. Anyhow, Woodrow was a Democrat and Ed would have took it from there and come on down to Lyndon Johnson.

Furthermore, I think a heap of the fellers at the store enjoys being miserable. They ain't never happier than when they was miserable about somepin. Of course, we got some that gets more miserable than others. For instance, when Bug Hookum is miserable he is miserable all over, but when Ed gets miserable it's only when he's thinking about Lyndon, the Democrats and the Great Society.

I reckon, Mister Editor, most folks is like that, editors fer instant. Sometimes I think you fellers was miserable all the time, judging from the editorial you write. And all wimmen was mostly miserable, and when wimmen git miserable they git miserable all over. It's like the toothache with 'em, when one tooth aches they all aches. My old lady, fer instant, got up this morning mighty miserable because I ain't mowed the lawn in a month. When I git it mowed next month she'll be miserable about somepin else. A happy feller can't win.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Seed Growers Slate Barbecue at Akron

Tuscola county certified seed growers, wives and friends of the certified seed industry will gather at the Akron school gym Thursday, June 24, for a chicken barbecue and meeting, according to Harold Metcalf of Fairgrove, president of the county association of certified seed growers. The Tuscola association is now in its ninth year as an organized group.

The association was one of the first to organize in Michigan and has taken an active part in promoting the best interests of the growers in this county. The board of directors feel that through their county association they are able to keep in closer touch with the over-all problems of the certified seed growing business and also help to carry on an educational program which we hope will result in a better understanding on the part of our Tuscola county growers, said Metcalf.

Some 5,000 acres of certified seeds were grown in Tuscola county in 1964.

During 1964 the following varieties were grown by the regular certified seed growers. This does not include the contract growers: Genesee wheat, 1,140 acres; Avon wheat, 163 acres; Seaway beans, 99 acres; Gratiot beans, 1,231 acres; Sanilac beans, 1,208 acres; Garry oats, 277 acres; Au Sable oats, 124 acres; Rodney oats, 101 acres; Coachman oats, 77 acres; Clintland 60 oats, 33 acres; Moore barley, 32 acres; corn, 538 acres, and potatoes, 164 acres.

The program speaker will be Thomas K. Cowden, dean of the school of agriculture, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

Agent's Corner

Barbara Henriksen

Rural girls have hit the spotlight. Everyone else has been studied and now they have made the grade.

Some interesting points have come out. Rural girls marry younger, but they have fewer divorces. It isn't just that they stay unhappily married either. They rate significantly higher on nearly all the marital adjustment and marital happiness scales.

Most rural girls don't expect to stay on the farm. They want out, and migrate to urban areas earlier than the rural boys do.

They are less reluctant to assume responsibilities than urban girls are. They tend to be more trustworthy, more independent.

Employers like these qualities so they find jobs more easily and hold them longer than their city cousins do.

They do have some problems, though. Many rural girls are shy in social situations, and often they haven't been taught the value of education.

They are less likely to join organizations and clubs, less likely to listen to radio and TV. For these reasons they may be lonely when they get to the city.

They are more likely to find a husband, though, than their city cousins. Liking children, they have slightly larger families.

They have more homemaking skills and are better at money management. No wonder they make good wives.

I like rural girls.

Homemakers' Class For Heart Patients

Homemakers of Tuscola County will have the opportunity to learn how to live and work with heart disease or stroke, in classes to be held on June 22 and June 29.

Labor-saving classes, sponsored by the county Farm Bureau Women and the Michigan Heart Association, will be conducted at the Farm Bureau building in Caro, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Anyone with an ailment of the heart or blood vessels is particularly invited to the free Heart-of-the-Home classes.

The two-hour sessions of instruction and demonstration will be conducted by Mrs. Eppie, Detroit, heart association consultant in homemaker rehabilitation.

She will demonstrate the most efficient way to do everyday household chores, the energy saving way to accomplish the things necessary to keep a home running.
