

From the Editor's Corner

Perhaps you read somewhere that the record set 13 years ago by Harold Crawford of Cass City for the State's largest brown trout was cracked twice in recent weeks..... once by John Foter of Quincy, Ill., with a 17-pound, eight-ounce trout, and again by Jerry Benzo of Felch, Mich., with a 23-pound trout measuring 38 inches.

Crawford's 17-pound, five-ounce fish doesn't seem big by comparison.

But to me, as a trout fisherman, and to many other anglers, Crawford's feat still stands by itself. Both of the record-busters caught this week were caught in lakes where the feed makes them grow fast and big.

Crawford's monster was caught in tiny Houghton Creek and if I hadn't seen the trout, I still would not believe it!

As a 15-year veteran of the Cass City news scene, we know of course, that over the years the Cass City Gavel Club has spent a good deal of money at the Recreational Park.

But as we were checking the club's history for our Centennial edition coming your way Centennial week, we were still surprised at the amount of money members have invested at the park.

What's your guess? $5,000-$10,000-$20,000?

You are wrong. The club has $30,000 invested in the park, not counting thousands of free man-hours of labor.

Do you think that sports are over-emphasized in Cass City? You wouldn't, if you came from St. Johns. We read in the newspaper there that all of the football candidates were called out for an annual summer clinic recently.

Some 150 boys and their dads were told what was expected of the candidates to train in condition during the summer months.

With a program like this, St. Johns should turn out outstanding teams.

Cass City Hospital Test Prevents PKU in Babies

Joseph Weiler, Cass City Hospital administrator, announced this week the adoption of a new testing procedure which helps prevent development of mental retardation in newborn babies.

The test, called the Guthrie test, is used to identify babies suffering from Phenylketonuria or PKU, an inherited metabolic disorder caused by the lack of a liver enzyme necessary in the digestion of milk and other proteins.

The test is performed on babies just before they leave the hospital and involves taking a drop of blood from the child's heel on a special type of filter paper which is then sent into state laboratories for testing.

Weiler explained that phenylalanine, an essential amino acid, can build up in the blood.

New Men's, Boys' Wear Shop Slated

Cliff Ryan, long-time Cass City businessman, has announced the purchase of the former M & M Plumbing building on Main Street where he will open a men's and boys' ready-to-wear clothing store. Ryan purchased the store last week and expects to have the new business in operation by the first of November. Work is to begin immediately.

Ryan will operate the business himself. He is currently plant manager at Agricola in Cass City.

Fred Leeson's Buy Leeson Wallpaper

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Leeson of Leeson's Wallpaper & Paint ended 17 years of business this week with the announcement of the sale of their business to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leeson.

The younger Leesons officially took charge today (Thursday). Both of the elder Leesons will remain associated with the store in a limited capacity.

Fred has been a member of the store staff off and on for a number of years. He is a December, 1964, graduate of Michigan State University where he received his B. S. degree.

Linda Leeson took a two-year course in marketing and retailing at Flint Junior College and Ferris State College. For the past two years she has managed the Trade Winds clothing store in Cass City. She is a 1961 Cass City High School graduate and he was graduated in 1959.

Seek Third Officer

To Expand Police Force

It is now definite that Cass City will have a three-man police force and almost around-the-clock police protection, following a decision by trustees to hire another officer at the regular meeting of the village council Tuesday evening at the Municipal building.

Under a schedule provided by Police Chief Carl Palmateer, both he and the new man would work six days and then be off two days. On a rotating basis, the officers would be on call for 12 hours each.

Bill McKinley, the present part-time officer, would work the same number of hours as he presently does as relief man.

The action stemmed from the desire of trustees to reduce the number of hours (80) that Palmateer has been working and to expand protection for the community.

The council will advertise next week for a man to add to the department.

Palmateer said, and the council agreed, that the new man would be hired on a six months' probationary period so that he could see if police work is what he thought it might be and so the chief could see if he meets the job's requirements.

Other Problems

Three other major problems of the Village are proving more difficult to solve. The first is the settling of a village-township fire protection program. Two months of a six months' lease has expired on the former H. O. Paul building and each month the option runs the price increases to the village. The building is scheduled to be used as a new fire hall.

A concentrated effort is to be made, President Lambert Althaver said, to come up with a solution before the next regular meeting. The stumbling block has been a meeting and agreement with township officials.

Another problem is the dump site. Trustees are still looking wistfully at the location southeast of the village. They are going to test the water table again to see if it has receded and whether the property still could be used if a drainage ditch were constructed.

The third problem is a retirement plan. After hearing a presentation about insurance at a special meeting, the council decided to hire an actuary at a cost of $110. The man will be needed before any program can be devised.

Other Business

In other action, the council voted to buy green sealer for the tennis courts, recently resurfaced. The sealer is expected to smooth out rough spots and protect the surface.

Cost of the work on the courts was $1,869 for the blacktop and an additional $260 for the sealer... well under the estimated $2,500.

The council voted to purchase a used roller to compact streets at a cost of $1,000. It will first be used on West and Leach Streets so that the road can be surfaced around the first of July when the black-topping firm has promised to return to Cass City.

Vote Kills School Merger

"Right now we have no plans for the future," a crestfallen Duncan Crawford, superintendent of Unionville High School reported Tuesday morning after the proposed merger of Unionville and Owengate School districts was defeated by Unionville voters.

The two propositions carried by a substantial margin in Owengate and were defeated by an equally decisive margin in Unionville. To pass, both districts needed to approve the merger.

The vote in Owengate district was: Proposition I, yes, 487; no, 190. Proposition II, yes 431; no 203. The vote in Unionville was: Proposition I, yes, 255; no, 531. Proposition II, yes, 263; no 462.

Proposition I would have enabled the two districts to merge and Proposition II would have allowed the new district to assume the debt of the Unionville district.

The vote capped two years of study and planning for school officials. "We could have offered an outstanding curriculum with the enlarged school and the $24 million vacation," Crawford said. "Right now, we'll just have to go along as we were."

All of our efforts and plans were aimed at this merger and right now we have no plans for any future action, Crawford said.

WET WARRIORS—Despite the fact that they've been hauled through a torrent of cold water, these "Unbeatables" Brothers of the Brush could still smile Friday night at a tug-of-war between their group and the Walbrush chapter. Seconds after this picture, the hose got away from firemen and drenched several spectators. Later the Unbeatables turned in their rope for paint brushes and, as the losers of the tug-of-war, turned out to paint the Kangaroo Court Jail. (Chronicle photo)

Walbrush Beats Unbeatables; Spectators and Losers Suffer

Screaming crowds demanded justice, hulking cops wrote tickets en masse, the guilty were punished, innocent bystanders suffered and the "Unbeatables" were beaten.

For one short hour Friday night, June 25, time became a mixture of the old and new as Cass Cityans were given a preview of a gloriously hectic Cass City area centennial.

Festivities started with a 100-person promenade through the business district and ended with a laugh-filled Kangaroo Court session at the Cultural Center.

Entire families and individuals, all in costume, mingled with their more modernly dressed counterparts, giving village streets the look of a movie casting lot.

One of two main events of the evening was the much publicized tug-of-war between the Walbrush Brothers of the Brush chapter and the "Unbeatables".

Walbrush, using a three-stance pattern of pulling, dragged the Unbeatables into a firehose stream of water trained across Seeger Street. While trying to give the Walbrush group a taste of their own medicine, firemen lost control of the hose and several spectators were accidentally doused.

After the tug-of-war, it was back to the Cultural Center where the still-wet Unbeatables, before a crowd of sidewalk supervisors, painted the Kangaroo Court Jail white.

While the jail was being painted, across the street Kangaroo Court Judge Meredith Auten, with the aid of four burly Keystone Cops, passed sentence on centennial violators for charges ranging from lack of centennial dress to "crumbs in the beard."

Penalties ranged from a plate of foam in the face to a water balloon over the head. Most, however, were given short sentences in the newly painted jail.

Similar festivities, including a tug-of-war between Walbrush and a group from General Cable Co., and another Kangaroo Court session, will be held this Friday night, July 2, commencing at 7:30 with a promenade which will form at the Cultural Center.

On other centennial promotion fronts, a group of EUB Belles Centennial Belles chapter members took

George Pattullo of Deckerville, prospective Tuscola county 4-H club agent, was interviewed by representatives of the County Board

Pattullo received his B. S. degree from Michigan State University in June, 1961, and his M. S. in June, 1965. He spent four years as a vocational agriculture teacher at Almont Community School.

A farm-reared boy, Pattullo grew up on a farm near Deckerville in Sanilac county. He also had previous experience as an actual 4-H Club member and comes to Tuscola county very highly recommended, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

He is married and has two children.

Program Revised Again

Village to Pay For Alley Pave

The Cass City Village Council reversed its position on the method of paying for the hard surfacing of alleys adjacent to the business district from Maple to West Streets at their regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal building.

The new regulations, which passed by a 5-1 majority, stipulate that the village will pay for all of the work for the 30-foot wide road provided that 80 per cent of the lineal footage adjacent to the work is completed at the business property owner's expense. There is no provision for charging owners who abut on the alley in residential property.

The action was a reversal of the Council's action in the May session when a 5-1 vote authorized the work if the adjacent business property owners would pay one-third of the cost of surfacing.

Switching their vote Tuesday were Mrs. Gladys Albee, Glenn McCullough, Jim Seals and Barney Freiberger.

The question of the alley work has been a Council and Village hot potato for at least a half dozen years. Just about every imaginable method of paying for the work has been suggested at one time or another.

Planning Recommendation

The Cass City Planning Commission has proposed two different plans in as many months and the final Council action is different than either of them.

When the Council approved the two-thirds, one-third plan in May, it was acting on the Planning Commission's recommendation. At that time, McCullough, Mrs. Albee and Freiberger had doubts about the program.

At Tuesday's meeting, the Commission submitted a revised plan where both business and residential property owners would be assessed a half of one-third of the cost.

Siding with Planning in the discussion were Fred Auten and Jim Seals. Auten said that a precedent was being set and that he felt that a charge should be made.

Seals reported that he felt that enough money had been spent near the business district on West and Leach Streets and that it was time to turn some of the attention to residential streets.

When new street work is completed in the residential section and new sidewalk is needed, the property owner is charged, he pointed out. When the vote was cast, Seals reluctantly cast his vote with the majority and Auten went on record as against the latest decision reached by the Council.

Total cost for surfacing of a block of an alley has been estimated at $1,200. The provision for 80 per cent of the lineal footage adjacent to the business property owner was set so that the village's work would be protected. There is no provision for protecting the edge of the street on the residential side of the alley where it is projected that one-way parking will be established.

According to the resolution, the work will be done on a regular yearly basis with the two blocks west of Seeger on the north side of Main, the first to receive attention.

Tree Law Set

An ordinance spelling out the responsibility of property owners and the Village in relation to trees and shrubbery in the village is ready for adoption.

The comprehensive five-page long document gives in detail nearly every conceivable contingency connected with trees.

One of the major provisions tells when and how trees can be cut. Dead or diseased trees on public or private land can be cut and destroyed by the village when authorized by the village council.

Living trees on the public right-of-way can be removed after abutting property owners are given 30 days' written notice. The trees can also be removed at the request of the property owner.

The village can plant trees and charge the cost to the adjacent property owner, according to the new ordinance. This provision was primarily injected if work is desired in a new subdivision, Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson explained.

Under the new ordinance, the type of trees that can be planted is strictly regulated and a list will be available at the Municipal building.

Other restrictions include the distance that is required for planting from the curb or the sidewalk so that roots will not damage the structures.

The ordinance also tells the size trees that can be planted. It explains the use of sprays and requires a written permit from the Superintendent of Public Works for the removal of any shrubs or trees on village-owned property.

The ordinance is completed and ready to be adopted now. However, trustees decided to wait a full month so that interested persons could examine the ordinance before its adoption and register any protests that they may have.

For this reason, a copy of the proposed legislation is on file at the Municipal building and is available to anyone who wants to study it.

If no protests are filed, it is the Council's intention to adopt the ordinance at its next regular session July 27.

Bulen to Head School Board Again

Horace Bulen, Cass City businessman, was re-elected to a third term as Cass City Board of Education president Monday night at a special re-organization meeting at the high school.

Also re-elected were Elwyn Helwig, secretary, and William Ruhl, treasurer. Bulen has been on the board for the past four years, three of which he has served as president.

Preceding the election was a brief business meeting at which the main topic was zoning of the area around the site of the new high school.

Three property owners in the immediate area have given verbal approval of re-zoning of the area to either agricultural or residential.

Board members have been advised, however, that the three parcels may not be zoned without zoning the entire township. Further study is to be made.

MacAlpine Associates, insurance appraisers for the high school and elementary building, were approved as appraisers for Deford Community School at an initial fee of $150 plus yearly up-dating fees of $22.50.

The company appraises the buildings for fire insurance. A request to use high school facilities for a centennial-connected activity was approved while a similar request was turned down.

Approved was a request to use the gymnasium for walk-on centennial pageant practice.

The gym may be used without charge for the building but custodial fees must be paid. Individual groups wishing to use the gym will have to pay both custodial and building fees.

Turned down was a request to use shop facilities to build a float. Chief problem in the matter was a lack of adequate supervision.

A meeting between Cass City and Kingston school officials to discuss "disputed" boundaries was turned down because Cass City members felt there would be "no advantage" to such a meeting.

The disputed land is a hump shaped parcel which Kingston, Cass City board members contend, wants straightened out to Kingston's advantage.

Continued membership in the Michigan Association of School Board at a cost of $120 per year was approved.

In closing the meeting, Bulen expressed gratitude to all those persons who had worked on the promotion of the recent election.

Kritzman New President of Cass City Rotary

William Kritzman accepted the gavel as the new president of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

He replaces Bob Keating who was given his past president's pin and thanked for his work during the previous year.

Besides Kritzman, other officers include: Gerald Prieskorn, vice-president; Tom Proctor, secretary, and Art Atwell, treasurer.

The remainder of the meeting was highlighted by a talk by Mel Eckerstrom, Rogers Co. representative who is directing the Centennial.

"Never have I been in a community where the cooperation has been as good as it is here," he said. "All of the various phases of the operation are progressing nicely and are on or ahead of schedule," he stated.

We can use more men for the spectacular stage production and any man can help by coming along at the Cultural Center, he explained.

Eckerstrom concluded by saying that his facilities at the Cultural Center were among the best that he has ever been privileged to use.

Wheat Crop Needs Rain to Succeed

Success or failure of Cass City area wheat, bean and corn crops hung in the balance this week as local farmers waited for much needed rain.

It is the general consensus of village elevator operators that unless rain comes soon, all three crops will show a marked loss in production. Local operators were interviewed Wednesday morning.

Barney Hoffman at Frutchey Bean Company was most concerned about the condition of area wheat and oats crops. "If we don't get some rain right away, we'll have shrunken grain. The grains are heading out and if there is no moisture, the heads won't fill or hold firm."

"As far as the beans are concerned they certainly will be damaged in the long run if rain doesn't come soon," Hoffman agreed. "Right now, though, they look very good even though growth is pretty much at a standstill."

"Late beans, of course, aren't doing well because they haven't had any moisture at all," he stated.

Local operators disagreed on the corn crop, some commenting that it was either on schedule or ahead of schedule. Others, however, contended that most of it would not reach the "knee high by the fourth of July" mark.

Apparently the only crop benefited by the long dry spell is hay. Farmers started haying the middle of the month and the lack of rain has made for ideal haying weather.

New Fish Planting Guideline

Once tied to the philosophy that the bigger the plantings the better, the Conservation Department's fish stocking program is being re-gear'd to the potential of waters for supporting fish. In the case of trout, the goal is to keep angling returns on hatchery fish at the present level in spite of planting cutbacks. This is to be done by concentrating plantings as shown here in waters where trout growth and survival is the greatest. Trout lakes are to come in for increased attention under the new plan. Taking a cue from the "single-species" idea of trout-only lakes, fish managers are moving ahead in the same direction with walleyes. Because they often fail to take hold where other species are present, walleye fry are being planted to establish "walleye-only" lakes in waters which have had their fish populations removed by chemical treatment. For northern pike, the Department is preserving and improving spawning areas to increase these fish through natural reproduction instead of plantings. Pioneering research is being continued in a bid to make muskellunge stocking pay its way.--Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Deford Men Better At Lapeer Hospital

Four area men injured in a tragic crash north of Lapeer that took the lives of two youths a week ago Monday, are still patients at Lapeer County General Hospital.

Listed as "doing very well" are Henry Sherman and Louis Sabo Jr., both of Deford, and Eugene Markle and George Waiter, both of Clifford.

The men were injured when a high performance sports car crossed the center lane in front of them and was struck broadside by their car.

Killed in the crash were a 19-year-old Flint youth and a 21-year-old Ann Arbor man.

Sabo, owner and driver of the car, had been driving from Deford to Flint for 13 years, without being involved in an accident.

Markle received a fractured back and internal injuries and, according to hospital personnel, was to be fitted with a chest cast sometime Wednesday.

The other victims suffered leg and other injuries.

A Kingston woman was injured in one of two backing accidents investigated by area police during the past week.

Flossie McCool was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital Sunday after cars driven by William McCool, 35, and William Dawson collided on Cemetery Road. Dawson was backing into the road when the accident occurred.

Neither drivers nor McCool's four sons were injured.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer investigated a minor accident caused Friday when a car driven by Sherman Eye of Cass City backed into the side of a car driven by Mrs. Hazel Whitfield of Cass City, which had stopped for a traffic light.

A 14-year-old Cass City boy was injured and a deer was killed in two separate accidents Sunday in a two-mile stretch of Dodge road southwest of Cass City.

David Sherrard, 14, was injured when the car in which he was riding, driven by his father, Leland, went into a ditch on Dodge Road, a quarter mile south of Severance Road.

Neither the elder Sherrard nor two other passengers, Delores Sherrard, eight, and Mary E. Sherrard, 46, were injured.

Kendall pointed out the importance of the ham radio in a national crisis by relating that during the 1953 Flint tornado the only link between Flint and Washington, D.C., and between the Red Cross and hospitals throughout the area were portable transmitter-receivers.

More recently, during last year's Alaskan earthquake, hundreds of messages from worried continental United States persons to friends and relatives in snatched Alaskan towns were received by amateur operators.

Customers of General Telephone in the Cass City district will be introduced to a modern, computer-processed billing format with the July billing, R. W. Drews, district manager, announced.

The Cass City district includes the Caseville, Cass City, Clifford, Deckerville, Elkton, Harbor Beach, Kingston, Minden City and North Branch exchanges.

"With the recent addition of our new computer at Owosso, we can now offer more complete and more informative billing for our customers," Drews said.

Customer information, such as long distance call data, will be included on a single bill form rather than on several supplementary sheets, he said.

Plans now call for the introduction of the new billing process to all customers in the 463 Michigan communities served by General Telephone.

Giants Still Tops In Little League

Standings: W L home run among his three for six. Robbie Alexander had five for six and Dennis Francis hit safely four of his six times up to pace the hitting for the rampaging Giants.

Freddie Harbec garnered the win although he needed relief help from Scott Guernsey in the third inning.

Thursday night, with the ball game tied five-all in the sixth inning, Giant pitcher Robbie Alexander unloaded a grand slam circuit clout to win his own ball game.

In the hard played contest, Alexander had a perfect night, going three for three. Duncan Wallace, three for four, Dennis Francis, two for three, and Craig Guernsey, two for four, paced the Giant hitting spree.

In addition to Alexander's grand slammer, Duncan Wallace hit a round tripper.

Alexander went the distance to post his third win and keep his record perfect at 3-0.

Friday night Danny Caister won the pitching duel for the Yankees in their 10-6 win over the Cubs.

In other games, the Pirates beat the Tigers Monday night and the Cubs won over the Tigers Wednesday night.

The Pirates shut out the Tigers 14-0 Monday, June 21, on the combined hurling efforts of Clinton Warner and Gary Zellar.

Warner did not allow a hit in three innings and Zellar allowed only two in his three-frame stint. This was the fifth win of the season for the Cubs.

In scoring their victory the Pirates got seven safeties but had no long-ball hitting.

Clinton Warner, Tim Knoblet and Gene Hopper hit safely twice and Wayne McNeil, once, to account for the Buc hitting attack.

Tim Knoblet and Pete Mulrath accounted for the Tiger bingles.

The Beermen banged out six runs in the first inning on three singles, two errors, a walk and a home run.

In the second they picked up another one on errors and a mis-played strikeout. Things were pretty quiet until the fifth inning when they erupted for three more runs with two home runs, a solo shot and a two-run circuit smash scoring the tallies. Final runs were scored in the seventh on a double and a bases clearing four-bagger.

The Foodmen scored in the first on a walk, a single by Dave Wilson and an error. Three runs came in the second when Eugene Kloc and Jerry Hillaker drew passes and Jim Johnson brought them home with a three-run four-bagger. A single by Dick Creason and a two-bagger by Jim Knoblet brought home the final two runs in the fourth stanza.

Eugene Kloc with two walks and a double, a home run by Jim Johnson and Jim Knoblet's double were the big blows in Erla's attack.

Computer Billing at General Telephone

General Telephone customers in the Cass City district will be introduced to a modern, computer-processed billing format with the July billing, R. W. Drews, district manager, announced.

The Cass City district includes the Caseville, Cass City, Clifford, Deckerville, Elkton, Harbor Beach, Kingston, Minden City and North Branch exchanges.

"With the recent addition of our new computer at Owosso, we can now offer more complete and more informative billing for our customers," Drews said.

Customer information, such as long distance call data, will be included on a single bill form rather than on several supplementary sheets, he said.

Plans now call for the introduction of the new billing process to all customers in the 463 Michigan communities served by General Telephone.

The Indians with a perfect 5-0 record, are the team to beat at the half way mark of the Little Minor's season.

Tied for second are the Braves and the Dodgers with 3-2 records, two games off the pace. The Angels with a 2-3 mark are three games out and the winless White Sox are five games away in last place.

The Braves picked up some ground on the Indians by taking advantage of the wildness in the White Sox infield, winning an error filled marathon, 17-14.

Although no home runs were hit, Steve Wells, Randy Damm and Jerry Hunt hit well in a losing cause.

Dave Hillaker was the starting pitcher and Randy Damm took the loss in a two inning relief stint.

The Indians rolled by the Braves, 18-9, Wednesday night and the Dodgers beat the Braves Friday night.

Suggest Mushroom Crop as Ideal for Upper Peninsula

By Elmer E. White
A new and profitable industry for the Upper Peninsula was suggested by John Stout, MSU food science freshman, in a term paper for one of his classes. He urges that market and food researchers check details to be sure if his plan is practical.

The Upper Peninsula has everything needed to grow mushrooms profitably, according to Mr. Stout, who has done preliminary investigation.

It has the special advantage of unused mines. Temperature and humidity, important factors to control in quality mushroom production, are ideally available there. Installation of ventilating equipment would be relatively inexpensive. Compost needed for good growth, long associated with horse stables, can now be manufactured economically without horses. This would create a little more economic advantage for the Upper Peninsula because its components are available there.

Canning operation would bring about still more economic activity. There is no big mushroom market in the U. P., but it is practical to can a large part of the potential year-round crop and easy to ship fresh or canned to Chicago, Detroit and other consumer areas.

This is not the first time mushrooms have been suggested as a way for the Upper Peninsula to improve itself economically. Dr. Sigmond H. Schanderl, MSU food scientist who has had experience with mushroom industries in other places, has been pushing the idea for more than a year. So far, no one has been convinced or stimulated enough to develop the lead.

It would make a very interesting story if a study done by an undergraduate college student would create the spark which would encourage leaders in the Upper Peninsula to help their own area with a new industry.

Different Maps
Two official maps of Michigan are now in use widely by travelers and state boosters.

The first has been in publication for several years by the State Highway Department. In full color, this is designated the "official highway map."

New to the scene this year is one published jointly by the Michigan Historical Commission and the State Tourist Council. It is dubbed "A guide to Michigan's historical attractions." Both are free for the asking while supplies last.

Designed to inform visitors about the state's historic sites, the latter publication was started relatively modestly in just three colors.

Listings and locations of more than 200 historic sites and markers, some 40-odd historic buildings and another 53 museums are included. Detail maps of Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island, Detroit and the downriver Detroit area are inset for their historic significance.

The reverse side contains printed matter including a brief history of the state, description of the buildings and landmarks numbered on the map side, and pertinent facts about Michigan such as the motto, bird, flag and population data.

Land Battles
Frequently over a period of years the same old fights are renewed, some of great magnitude and others of little or no significance.

Verbal fights regarding the state's land area have been among the periodic battles fought in the legislature in the past 10 years or so. Some proposals would remove the Upper Peninsula from Michigan either to make it a separate state or join it with Wisconsin.

Usually these discussions have been on the semi-serious side. Some legislators even proposed to give the U. P. back to the Indians, almost successful attempts at proposal, however, usually has very serious overtones. This is the one which has been renewed this year originating in Ohio.

It involves a small area in the southeast corner of the state known as the lost peninsula. Some Michigan lawmakers are seeking to keep the dispute on a light note to avoid a bitter wrangle but Ohio proponents of this year's plan appear serious.

An Ohio legislator has seriously proposed a conference with Michigan officials to negotiate annexation of the lost peninsula to Ohio. It is not accessible to the rest of Michigan except by water or over Ohio roads. Federal action would be required even if both states agreed to a redistribution of the land to Ohio.

State lawmaker Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, in whose district the area lies has taken somewhat of a tongue-in-cheek attitude and counter-proposed that Michigan take all of Toledo to go along with the lost peninsula rather than give the southern mile nine Township to our southern neighbor.

Kehres acknowledges he opposes the Ohio bid. He semi-seriously discusses asking Congress to let the people on the peninsula vote on the question of annexing to Ohio.

He might be wise to consider the Ohio proposal in the tenor in which it was made. The 130 voters might surprise him if he pursues it lightly.

Only One Correct Guess Last Week In Beard Contest

It was the hardest beard in the entire series to identify. We had many guesses, but only one was correct. Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Velda Simmons of Kingston called and told us it was Marvin Innes of Decker. She wins the free subscription.

A good many persons thought that the beard belonged to Don DeLong. Even his daughter dropped in to say, "That's my dad you have pictured there." The Chronicle didn't feel that last week's man-behind-the-beard was too difficult and it proved to be, so no predictions this week.... If you know, call us...you could be first.

Agent's Corner

Barbara Henrikson

Dreams, like babies, need food and sleep and love.

In our teen years, we all had rosy-pink dreams. We would get through school, marry a handsome, rich personality boy. There would be trips all over the world. He would provide an enormous house with the latest furniture. It would remain spotless with a minimum of care, which we could handle in pretty dresses and high heels. The children would be physically perfect, socially correct, mentally unmatched and would never misbehave.

When diapers, burnt chicken, normal kids and budget books have crashed some of these dreams down around our knees, we often reach a point where we forget to dream.

In order for a dream to be born, a certain amount of love is necessary: love of new experiences, of security, of recognition, of response. Usually the dreams we have are of the one of these we experienced least in childhood.

The child in a financially unsecure home becomes the man who dreams of piling up money, the girl who was highly protected dreams of travel and meeting new people, the child who was unlabeled becomes the adult who wants a happy marriage with six children.

To have the dream is not enough. Thomas Edison once said that creative work was 1 per cent inspiration, 99 per cent perspiration.

For the dream to come true, it needs sleep, long periods when you seldom think of it consciously, but deep down the idea is growing, collecting information, getting bigger.

One day it comes back to mind and you wonder how you could have "forgotten" it. You hadn't. It was getting some much needed sleep.

Now the dream is ready for some food. The food may be travel folders, or new dresses, or time planning, or money. Dreams consume the strangest things.

Maybe you're already working on your dream, or maybe it's resting. But don't let it die. Keep it alive with love and food and sleep.

Spraying is Hose Of Different Color

By Dave Kraft

I tell ya, put a fire hose in a man's hands and you can tell in a minute or two if he's a friend of yours.

I found out just how friendly Milt Connolly and Nelson "Moose" Willy can get Friday night at the Walbrush-Unbeatable tug-of-war.

Those two jokers were on the hose that was to douse the losers of the contest and were doing an admirable job until they decided to share the water with the winners, too.

Fritz Neitzel and I were standing on the winner's side, by the Walbrush crew, and were trying to get a picture of the changing expressions on Jack Hartwick's face as he got closer and was finally dragged into the torrent of water as lead man for the Unbeatables.

I got one shot but the camera didn't sound right so I tried for another. Suddenly, I felt a sprinkling of water. Could it be raining? Hardly.

Then it dawned on me. The boys were just having some fun. Just spraying a little water on us for atmosphere.

Suddenly the atmosphere changed and I was standing under Niagara Falls... without a barrel.

I turned to get away from it but it was all around me. Covering me. Drenching me. Suffocating me. It was terrible.

Then it stopped and except for the water pouring off my camera, there was no sound but the muttered curses of Neitzel as he shook droplets of dew from his whiskers.

I looked down at my pants and watched the permanent crease slowly dissolve into permanent bagginess. I looked around at the crowd which was waiting to see how I'd react. I looked at my wife, who was carrying my film holders and who was just a little less wet than I.

I smiled. That's show biz, so they say. Occupational hazard, I told myself. And then I laughed... but on the inside I was crying.

Later Willy explained that he meant to whip the water over to the Walbrush side and Connolly thought the hose was getting away. The net result was that the stream of water started for the high line and immediate electrocution for us all.

Willy shut the water off, causing the stream to fall to the ground and us innocent bystanders.

At least that's what Willy told me when he apologized. You say you don't believe him either?

If you remember, I predicted the outcome of the tug-of-war earlier. The method used is a three-step procedure with the last step in a sitting position... which explains why that Walbrush bunch are so good at it.

As I understand it, Walbrush will meet the Cable Splicers from General Cable this Friday. Wear your

HEART DISEASE AND SURGERY

Q. Five years ago I had a heart attack. Since then I have developed a hernia. Would it be wise to have surgery? I have just reached 70.
A. A specific answer to your question would have to come from your doctor. Generally speaking, when a condition is present which may at some future date require emergency surgery, it is better to "take the bull by the horns" before such an emergency arises. With adequate time to prepare the patient for surgery, with modern anesthesia, improved surgical techniques, and the means to provide intensive postoperative care, little justification exists for avoiding surgery on almost anybody who needs an operation.

PILLS AND DOUCHES

Q. Would the taking of birth control pills and douches harm the baby if the woman should become pregnant?
A. Assuming that both were discontinued when pregnancy was recognized—the answer is "no."

Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

We maintain full stocks of prescription drugs... have the professional skill to dispense them promptly... and the reputation to do so at reasonable prices.

The Rev. Fr. Arnold Messing officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mathews of Deford and the son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Widmeyer of Goshen, Indiana. Three hundred guests were present to witness the ceremony.

Given by her father in a double-ring ceremony, the bride approached the altar in a gown of imported, pure white, Irish linen designed with a scoop neck, sleeveless fitted bodice and complimented by an overlay of Venice lace which extended into elbow-length sleeves. Her floor length, A-line skirt carried a detachable chapel length train which was appliqued with Venice lace medallions.

Her pillbox hat fashioned of Venice lace held her fingertip illusion veil.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were Mrs. Ann Zozzo, maid of honor, of Elkhart, Ind., Miss Kate Rutkowski, bridesmaid, of Cass City, and Mrs. Lynda Guin-ther, bridesmaid, also of Cass City. They wore identically styled floor length gowns of daffodil yellow, imported Irish linen designed with high, rounded necklines and sleeveless, fitted bodices. The waistlines were accented with a large, self-fabric bow which completed their ensembles. Identical pillbox headpieces of matching linen trimmed with a single bow held their nose veils.

Refreshments were served and the Hendricks received many gifts. Preceding the open house, dinner was served to 72 members of the family.

Mr. Hendrick was born Sept. 3, 1892, in Ellington township. Mrs. Hendrick is the former Effie B. Brown and was born in Evergreen township June 24, 1896.

They attend the Sutton Methodist church and are members of local and county granges. Mrs. Hendrick is a member of the Elmwood Missionary Circle.

Guests attended the open house from Wyoming, Dearborn, Hts., Metamora, Glennie, Marysville, Midland, Lansing, Utica, New Boston, Grand Rapids, Taylor, Caseville, Mayville, Hastings, Marlette, Romulus, Jackson, Detroit, Southfield, Ypsilanti, Pontiac, Fenton, Denver, Palatine, Ill., and the local area.

Mrs. Ronald E. Nicholas

The Deford Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage ceremony Saturday, June 26, when Sandra Retherford of Deford and Ronald E. Nicholas of Gageton exchanged nuptial vows.

Vases of white gladioli and pom-pom mums formed the floral background for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles Strawn, pastor. Miss Sue Kelley of Cass City was soloist and Eileen Hicks of Deford was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlean Retherford of Deford. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Earl Nicholas of Gageton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a Chantilly lace and pearl de sole gown fashioned by Mrs. Allan Hartwick of Deford. The gown featured a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a floor-length bell skirt which flared into a chapel train. A flower of lace adorned the back.

Her fingertip veil was attached to a small crown of pearls and she wore a diamond pendant, a gift from the groom. White daisies with streamers formed her bouquet.

Alice Marie Phillips of Deford, the bride's friend, was maid of honor. She wore a white taffeta floor-length sheath gown and her headpiece was fashioned as calla lilies with an orchid veil. She carried an arrangement of orchid daisies with orchid ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Linda Rehn, friend of the bride, and Jean Nicholas and Joyce Nicholas, sisters of the groom. Their gowns were identical to Miss Phillips', but in colors of aqua, pink and blue, respectively. Their headpieces and daisy bouquets matched their gowns.

Terry Nicholas, niece of the groom, was flower girl and she wore a short white dress with a double skirt. A lemon yellow headpiece complemented her ensemble and she carried a basket of yellow daisies.

Ringbearer was Johnny McQuarrie of Marlette, a cousin of the bride.

Paul Woods was best man. Groomsmen were Roland Nicholas and Lloyd Nicholas, brothers of the groom, and Larry Retherford, brother of the bride.

George Ferguson and Ed Retherford of Cass City seated the guests. The bride's mother's gown was blue lace. She chose white accessories and a corsage of golden-rod roses completed her outfit. The groom's mother chose a two-piece beige knit with beige accessories. She also wore a corsage of golden-rod roses.

The newlyweds greeted 250 guests at a reception held in the Deford school auditorium. Out-of-town guests came from Wilmore, Ky., Kalamazoo, Spring Arbor and Flint.

After they return from a Northern Michigan wedding trip, they will reside three miles east of Deford.

Salem EUB Members Form Prayer Cells

Summer Prayer Cells for July and August have been formed to meet once a week by the members of Salem EUB Church. Differing from the regular midweek prayer service, which does not meet for the summer, the prayer cells are informal and will convene in members' homes.

Two cells are being started Thursday, July 1. One meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. S. P. Kim Sr. and the other the same day at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Seeley.

The unique feature of these cells, which are open to all interested youth and adults, is that they are primarily discussion and sharing groups.

Present plans are for the cells to continue for six weeks, meeting each Thursday.

Many people try, but few make a success of being good on the installment plan.

Theories that don't allow for friction will get a hard rub.

80,000 pounds of beans left Gagetown June 24, destined for the Dominican Republic, according to Russell M. Hartzler, Michigan CROP director.

The beans were purchased with part of the funds contributed by Tuscola county people in the 1964 CROP campaign. Most of the funds, according to Hartzler, were collected by Tuscola county FFA boys under the direction of their Vocational Agriculture teachers. Coordinator of the county's program was C. Richard Karelse, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Caro.

The beans were purchased from and prepared for shipment by the Wallace and Morley Company of Gagetown and trucked by Church World Service trucks to the Detroit Harbor Terminal where they are to be loaded on board the Bordabear, a ship owned by the Great Lakes Transcaribbean Shipping Co.

They will be distributed in the Dominican Republic under supervision of the Rev. James Cavin, a Presbyterian minister and Director of Church World Service in that country.

Hartzler said that the Dominican Republic has much chronic poverty, is frequently ravaged by natural disasters, such as Hurricane Flora two years ago and problems are frequently further aggravated by man's inhumanity to man, as in the present political crisis. The victims, he declared are usually those least responsible—the children and women.

Through a new approach called SHARE A LOAF, Michigan CROP is attempting a greatly-expanded program this year in order to provide more Michigan beans and milk for overseas relief of people in dire need.

Farmers Aware of Crop Irregularities

In my travels around the county last week, it became quite evident the farmers are showing a real awareness to crop irregularities, relates Don Kebler, county extension agent in agriculture.

Requested visits to come out and identify these crop irregularities showed these findings. In the Reese and Vassar areas, two farmers had "Bill Beetle" injury on their field corn as identified by the holes chewed in the leaves. Another farmer had a field of sugar beets showing the blister-like areas on the leaves which is caused by the small grub-like leaf miner. He also had beets showing the effects of earlier sand blasting where the crowns finely separated from the root at ground level.

At another farm stop a field of navy beans showed what appeared to be the effects of improper adjustment of the planter as two of the same planter rows throughout the field had reduced stands and poor bean emergence.

One call was to look at some insects on some oats. Both the operator and I were very relieved to find these insects to be aphids or plant lice, and not the cereal leaf beetle, Kebler said.

Two requests were answered in the Unionville area. One field of beans had a small area where the beans were infected with Root Rot. At the other farm the navy bean stand reduction was due to planting the beans too deep.

One other call west of Fairgrove showed where a field of late planted sugar beets were being cut off by cutworms. The cutworms were found by digging around the newly cut-off sugar beet plants. This field was an old sod and brush area two years ago and this is an ideal place for cutworms to live.

Not one call resulted in the finding of either the Mexican bean beetle or the Green Clover worm which hit us hard last year. Even though none have been observed by me on my visits, our farmers should be on the alert for both of these bean insects, Kebler warned.

"I am glad to see the farmers observing these crop irregularities and contacting the County Extension Office promptly to identify the problem and suggest a remedy or solution," remarked Kebler.

BOOK REVIEW

Easy to Read Historical Novel

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

I read NEVER NO MORE, by Shirley Seifert, in odds and ends of time, and enjoyed myself while reading it even under that handicap. The story is easy to read, being historical in nature. The author has limited herself to giving us one year in the frontier family of Daniel and Rebecca Boone.

I realized while I read, that I was visualizing the Boone family as it appears on television: Rebecca Boone as a blond, efficient woman; Daniel as a brunette, overly tactful, sometime head of his family when not too busy helping someone else; Isaac, the youngest member of the family and, like his mother, blond, and Jimmie, a teen-ager, growing up into responsible womanhood. That is the Boone family as television viewers know it.

Miss Seifert, however, tells us that there were many more children of Daniel and Rebecca Boone. Her story is a fictional account of their lives for one year, starting with October, 1773, when, with other settlers, they are on the way to Kentucky to start a new life. Their 16-year-old son, James, is killed by hostile Indians. Most of the settlers turn around and abandon their plans, returning to their old homes.

Not so the Boones. Here we are allowed to see a facet of the Boone family that I had not run across elsewhere. Our early American hero was a better frontiersman than he was a businessman, and the Boones had no home to return to. Daniel was paying back loaned money most of his adult life, having become bankrupt very early in life.

A friend loans them a cabin he had built but did not live in. As we winter with Rebecca Boone and her children, we are allowed to share her innermost thoughts. Daniel takes part in the Indian war, reaching the rank of Captain. At one point, his family is forced to go to one of the nearby forts when Indians come within striking range. Rebecca, not having adjusted easily to the death of Jim, keeps an eye on the remaining of her children.

They get through the winter safely and grow crops on their borrowed land. The next October finds Daniel again leading a train of pioneers across the Cumberland and into Kentucky. When the book ends, it bears promise to happier days ahead for Rebecca Boone.

Shirley Seifert has written several novels previously, but this is the first I have read. Easy to read, she writes novels that are readable as history. NEVER NO MORE by Shirley Seifert. J. B. Lippincott Co., New York, 1964. Available from The Elkhart Twp. and Cass City Library.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows at the country store Saturday night was advocating a strange new philosophy that might get 'em investigated for treason by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Ed Doolittle, that ain't exact in tune with the Great Society, allowed as how ever community had ought to get rid of all clubs and organizations that was boosting things. He was of the opinion that, with all this federal money ter places that was run down and in a state of poverty, boosters was doing the community a heap of harm.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, claimed ever patriotic citizen should now be lamenting about how pore and decayed the community was, and how they wasn't much hope for survival unless the Great Society stepped in with a heap of that Appalachia money and saved the situation. Some Government official, claimed Zeke, might overhear the President of the Chamber of Commerce bragging about how good things was in the community and cost the place hundreds of thousands of dollars in Federal handouts.

Bug Hookum didn't go all the way with Ed and Zeke, claimed it might not hurt matters fer the boosters to say a good word fer the community now and then if they scater kept their voice low and done it in a confidential manner. But he was agreed that as a general policy it was better in these times to knock instead of boost. Furthermore, Mister Editor, Bug allowed as how your newspaper might git into the hands of one of them Appalachia doctors in Washington and Bug said you had ought to be mighty careful not to put this project, that these matters too much frosting on the cake in civic matters.

And while the fellows was on the subject of community poverty and handouts, Clem Webster brung up the point that in all wars it was customary to put veterans in the key positions. He claimed we got too many rookies at the wheel on this project, that these matters should be in the hands of the veterans that fought in this war in the early thirties. Fer instant, reported Clem, he recollected back in 1932 when things got so bad some feller in Chicago was wearing socks with leather heels, claimed one pair would last a lifetime. Clem was of the opinion President Johnson had ought to locate this feller and put him in charge of Division Headquarters.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think they was going to be a certain amount of tax money wasted in this poverty project either way, no matter who was in charge. I'm like the old timer that was listening to two candidates argue the issues. He said, "he was mighty thankful only one of 'em could git elected."

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim
