

From the Editor's Corner

The big boom in employment and the prosperous economy could possibly boomerang this winter when the Cass City School board advertises for bids for its proposed new $1.6 million school.

The reason is the sharp increase in costs of construction. According to an article in the Detroit News, the shortage of labor that makes premium pay for carpenters, etc., necessary and the abundance of work available has shot many bids out of sight. In some instances the bids have been 100 per cent over the architect's estimate.

It would be a huge disappointment to all school supporters if, after the big hurdle of securing funds from taxpayers had been surmounted, our new school founded from causes over which no one has any control.

Coach John Bifoss is enthusiastic about his team's chances in the upcoming grid season . . . but he is not sure just why.

We asked him if his team would be heavy this year and he paused a moment and said no . . . in fact it will be kind of light. Are you depending on speed, we inquired? Again the pause before the answer . . . no, in fact we will have only average speed and no outstandingly fast backs.

Doesn't sound too encouraging, Bifoss said, I shouldn't be pleased with a team that is slow and light, should I?

But I am, he said with a grin.

According to persons who should know, crowds along the shore over the Labor Day week end were less than expected.

Many observers contributed the decline to the wild rumors of an impending race riot slated for Caseville over the week end.

A delegation of Negroes, estimated at anywhere from 50 to 5,000, were expected to invade the area. The rumors were so strong that the phone company emptied all of the coin boxes a day or so before the holiday.

But the holiday is over and all the gossip accomplished was to hurt the business of merchants in Caseville and vicinity.

Accidents Light Over Holidays

Despite heavy traffic in and around Cass City over the Labor Day week end, only two minor accidents were investigated by village police during the holiday which statistically began Friday.

A car driven by Gary A. Spencer, 17, Deford, struck the rear of a car driven by Donald G. Ball, 19, Cass City, when Ball stopped for a light at the intersection of Main and Seeger streets. Riding with Ball was David Schember, 17, Cass City.

Spencer was ticketed for failure to have his car under control, according to investigating officer, Robert Pawlowski.

Later that same day, a car parked in the Erie Food Center parking lot by Judy Palmer, 25, Cass City, was hit by an unknown car. The Palmer car suffered right rear corner and bumper damage. Police Chief Carl Palmsteele investigated.

THIS IS PROBABLY the last drain notice that Free-lan Sugden, county drain commissioner, will post due to a change in the law. It was a senseless requirement carried over from the horse and buggy days, Sugden feels. (Chronicle Photo)

Cheap Dirt Removal

County Gets Break On Drain Costs

In his 15 years as Tuscola County Drain Commissioner Free-lan Sugden has posted an estimated 150 drain notices as required by law, but he feels that he probably tacked his final one to a country post Friday.

The veteran county employee has no idea of retiring, a recent change in the law will make posting no longer necessary. It's a good thing, too, Sugden said. In this day and age posting on a rural road makes no sense at all.

I probably wouldn't have to post this one, but I haven't officially heard that it no longer is necessary and until I do I'll keep tacking these up.

Many Changes

In the 15 years there have been many changes in the building of drains. Costs are going up, but not the way you might imagine, Sugden said.

The cost of steel, pipe and other materials you buy has increased three to four times, according to the commissioner, but the cost of moving dirt is not much more than it was 15 years ago.

Why? Keen competition, says the drain boss man. Today the buckets are much larger than they were 15 years ago and the increased efficiency has been passed on to the county because of the number of bidders for each job.

Sugden can see some problems ahead for the business. Most of the drag line operators in the county, he says, are getting older and not many young fellows are learning the trade.

The young men who would normally learn are going into the plants . . . and you can't blame them, he feels. Running a drag line is hard work and the money isn't any better, or perhaps not as good, as the same fellows can start with in the factories.

Although there will be no posting of drain notices in the future, interested persons will still have plenty of notification, Sugden said. We mail copies of the notices to every affected property owner, he explained, and then publish the notices in the paper in the area.

Traffic Accidents Up in August, Down for Year

Tuscola County accidents, for the month of August, were up four over the same period in 1964, according to a monthly report given county supervisors Wednesday morning by Sheriff Hugh Marr.

Accidents over the first eight months of 1965 are down in most categories, Marr's report showed.

Total accidents for August were 61, as compared to 57 a year ago. Fatalities were up two with three persons dying on county roads as compared to one person a year ago.

On the over-all picture, however, accidents were down 49, going from 426 in 1964 to 377 this year. Traffic deaths for the year matched last year's figure of 14.

Marr's report showed that sheriff's cars drove a total of 21,465 miles in August and consumed 1,456 gallons of gasoline.

During the month 66 prisoners were received with 55 released, leaving a total of 11 at the end of the month. The prisoners were served 1,182 meals at a cost of $650.10.

Duties and other staff worked a total of 2,092 hours during the month. Eighty-two traffic violations were issued during August. August also saw the county's first drowning of the year which happened at Cat Lake.

town. Harold Walker of Vassar was sentenced to 31 days in the county jail with credit for time already served for driving with a revoked license, second offense. He was originally ticketed in February in Vassar.

Jail Term

Richard Shaw, Caro, charged with probation violation, was given a continuation of probation with the next three months to be spent in jail. He was on probation for forgery and uttering and publishing an $85.00 check last January in Mayville.

Arraigned on an indecent liberties charge, Patrick Sapien, 29, Kingston, was remanded to the magistrate and bond was continued. He is charged with taking indecent liberties with a 13-year-old girl last August.

Adjourned

Samuel Trisch, Caro, was arraigned on a breaking and entry charge which was adjourned to Sept. 14, in order for the defendant to obtain an attorney. He is charged with breaking into the Bruno Mazur home in Kingston on August 22.

In other court news, breaking and entering charges were filed Tuesday against John Kralik, Wayne Stevens and James Johnson, all of Vassar, in connection with a disturbance at the Henry Wagner Jr. residence, Juniata township, August 16.

In the divorce suit of June L. Spencer of Cass City against her husband, Clinton, Judge Churchill ordered temporary support of $7.50 per child per week or $15. The couple's two oldest children are to go with the father and the two youngest are to go to the mother. The couple were married in 1947 in Cass City.

Two Cass City Men Sentenced To Jackson Prison

Two Cass City men were among three county persons to be sentenced to Jackson State Prison Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge James Churchill.

Sentenced were Cornelius Michels and Walton Palmer, both of Cass City, and Ernest J. C. Blackmer of Vassar.

Michels was sentenced to Jackson for two to five years with a recommendation for vocational training. He had been on probation for the October, 1963, theft of over $100 in tools from Robert Fox in Freemont township but had violated his probation.

Palmer was given a two to 10-year sentence also with a recommendation for vocational training. He was originally arrested for the May, 1965, breaking and entering of a rural Cass City house owned by Ervin Bolick.

Blackmer received a one to two year sentence for writing a no account check for $35.00 on the First National Bank of Lapeer last February.

DESTITUTE—Mrs. Barbara McCreary and her children, Chester, four, and Julie, one, stand at the door of the burned out hulk that was once their trailer home. The family lost all their clothes and furnishings in a fire that destroyed the trailer Tuesday, Aug. 31. (Chronicle photo)

No House, No Husband But Mrs. McCreary Still Has Hope

Mrs. Barbara McCreary is a housewife . . . without a house or a husband, but not entirely without hope.

The expectant red-haired mother of two lost all the family's belongings when a fire turned her house trailer into a burned out hulk Tuesday, August 31.

Since then, things have improved only slightly through the services of the Veterans Administration office in Caro.

Because an insurance adjuster has failed to appear to appraise the damage, the three-member family has been unable to purchase new clothes or food. Since the fire all three have been staying with Mrs. McCreary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Palmer on whose property the trailer was setting.

Tuesday the family were outfitted with clothing at the VA office but some items are still needed. "It's hard to find clothes in Chester's size," she explained, referring to her four-year-old son. "Boys have a habit of wearing their clothes out."

"I still need a few items for the new baby. They told us to come back Thursday and get some baby clothes," Julie, her one-year-old daughter, was completely outfitted.

On Friday, Sept. 3, the VA office gave the family about $5.00 worth of food, but aside from that, all food has had to come from her parents.

Mrs. McCreary and her two children were all at her parents when the fire started, cleaning a farm goose that had made the mistake of attacking a passing car.

Lions Broom Sale Scheduled

Cass City Lions will hold their annual Broom Sale Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 15-16, according to President Lloyd Bryant.

The club will be selling household and push brooms, wash cloths, mops and mop handles and door mats. All proceeds are used for state-wide sight conservation projects.

The sale will begin Wednesday night at 7:30 and will continue Thursday night until the entire village is canvassed.

A short business meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 p.m. at Martin's Restaurant to set up work crews and canvassing areas.

The club's first regular meeting of the year will be held Monday, Sept. 20, at Martin's.

"I always make it a habit to take my children with me, even when leaving the house for a few minutes."

It's difficult to say when things started to sour for Mrs. McCreary. Perhaps it was three months ago, when her husband, Phil, left her and the children.

"Actually, it's been more than three months. That's the last time he was here. I don't know where he is. I have a warrant out for non-support and I intend to file for separate maintenance."

Perhaps things started to go bad with the loss of her unborn children. This is her sixth pregnancy. Only one other child, a girl, was born alive and she died a few days after birth.

What about the future? As has been noted, the family has been staying with her parents. Her father was crippled in a hunting accident four years ago and he has a difficult time finding work. Things are not good with them, either.

Still, the two families manage. "I haven't had any money and can't get any, says Mrs. McCreary. "I don't know what I'd have done without my parents' help."

Also staying with the parents are a son and a daughter.

Mrs. McCreary is optimistic. "I want to get a job after the baby is born. Something secretarial. That pays better."

She has no high school diploma, although she says she has applied to Delta College for one and no secretarial background.

Still she's optimistic.

Sweeney-Tschirhart Vows Said in Ruth

Kathryn Tschirhart and James A. Sweeney exchanged nuptial vows Saturday, Aug. 28, in St. Peter & Paul Catholic Church, Ruth, at a 10:00 a.m. double-ring ceremony.

White gladioli decorated the church when the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frank Kaufman read the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tschirhart of Mt. Clemens and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Sweeney of Uby.

The bride chose a floor-length white silk organza over taffeta gown styled with an A-line skirt, Empire bodice, scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The gown's detachable train was accented with pearls and iridescent sequins. A princess style crown, adorned with sequins and pearls, held her bouffant illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of Eucharist lilies and English ivy. Her father gave her in marriage.

Katherine Susalla of Detroit was maid of honor. Mrs. Richard Tschirhart of Berkeley and Mrs. James Booms of Harbor Beach were bridesmaids.

They wore floor-length, sleeveless gowns of silk organza over taffeta designed with a scoop neckline and a cummerbund accented with a beaded back panel. Their rose headpieces held circular veils.

The maid of honor's flowers were a basket of Frenched white carnations and pink sweetheart roses. The bridesmaids' flowers were Frenched pink carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Two nieces of the groom, Suzanne and Joan Booms of Harbor Beach, were flower girls. They wore white organza over taffeta dresses and carried baskets of Picardy pink carnations.

Best man was the groom's brother, Kenneth Sweeney of Uby. Groomsmen included Richard Tschirhart of Berkeley, brother of the bride, and James Booms, the groom's brother-in-law.

Mrs. Sweeney chose a blue metallic sheath dress with white accessories and Mrs. Tschirhart wore a turquoise crepe over taffeta sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore pink sweetheart rose corsages.

The wedding dinner and reception were held at the Ruth K of C Hall. About 250 families were present.

The couple went to Northern Michigan on their wedding trip and are making their home near Uby.

Mrs. Roger Allan Karr

Carol Ann Fritz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Fritz of Cass City, became the bride of Roger Allan Karr Saturday, August 28, in St. Pancratius Church, Cass City.

The bride chose a silk organza gown fashioned with elbow-length sleeves, a bateau neckline with Alencon lace on a fitted bodice and full floor-length skirt which fell to a chapel train. Fertilizer Can Help Yule Trees

The proper use of fertilizer and weed control measures can improve Christmas tree quality and grade and bring the trees to market sooner. Proper weed control and fertilization will result in shorter rotations, better quality trees and higher returns.

Choice and application of fertilizers is very important, since even trace amounts of elements found in field crop fertilizers may be toxic to evergreens. High concentrations of liquid fertilizers may also be used but only at certain growth stages.

"Fertilization and Weed Control on Christmas Tree Farms" is the title of a booklet prepared by Donald P. White, Michigan State University Forestry Specialist. The publication of the MSU Extension Service describes the newest methods for controlling weeds without costly soil preparation. Amounts and types of fertilizers used to improve appearance, hardness and grade are also covered in detail.

Copies of the bulletin can be obtained free of charge from the Tuscola County Extension Service office, said Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Just ask for Extension Bulletin number 505, "Fertilization and Weed Control on Christmas Tree Farms."

Sen. Bob Kennedy Welcomes Swedish Miss to Cass City

Inger Hansson, 17, Swedish exchange student, received a special welcome to Cass City this week when she received a telephone call from New York Senator Robert Kennedy's secretary.

Miss Hansson is also to receive a letter from Kennedy, confirming the welcome.

The Swedish miss is staying with the Emerson Kennedy family and is in America under the Youth for Understanding program. She started school Tuesday at Cass City High School.

The phone call and the letter are particularly important to Miss Hansson, according to her hosts, because she is an avid Kennedy fan.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Kennedy and LuAnn and Mrs. B. Starmann and Barbara met Miss Hansson at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Wednesday.

County Thefts Are Give, Take

While some thieves were taking things in the Cass City area Monday night, others were leaving their spoils as unsolicited gifts.

Nick Decker Sr., rural Cass City, reported to the sheriff's office in Caro Tuesday morning that his mailbox, post and all, had been stolen during the night from its location at the intersection of Phillips and Elmwood Road.

Clinton Law, also of rural Cass City, on the other hand, reported to sheriff's deputies that someone had left some road signs in his yard during the night.

Both reports are being investigated.

IT SEEMS TO ME Church Headquarters Center in D. C.

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

With an agency of eight major Baptist Church offices moving to Capitol Hill in Washington, D. C., I think that the time has come to tell you that many denominations and agencies are located in that strategic location. Along 2nd St., N. E., are located the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice and the Friends' Committee on National Legislation (sharing the same building), and the VFW Building which houses the newly-relocated Baptist offices. On Maryland Ave., is located, just across the street from the Capitol grounds, the Methodist Building, housing two of the denomination's national headquarters. Next door are the National Council of Churches, the United Church of Christ Council for Christian Social Action, the United Presbyterian Office of Church and Society, and the National Office of the Church of the Brethren. Going next door again (again east) is The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and beyond that the General Commission on Chaplains.

Last fall the children and I, you may recall, took a trip to Washington to help celebrate my parents' golden wedding anniversary, and while there we went to Church in the Methodist Building. It is the oldest of the above and is toying with the idea of leaving the hill to locate near American University where a new Methodist complex is proposed. The Churches' increasing interest in making sure that the Congress knows of their stand on many phases of legislation is all to the good! Or, at least, so IT SEEMS TO ME.

I discovered this somewhere, recently, and suggest that if you don't get it the first time, you try, again! "Don't invest all your money in one or two stocks — diversify them! I know a man who put all his money in just two stocks — a paper towel company and a revolving door outfit. He was wiped out before he could turn around."

New York State recently outlawed capital punishment (with two exceptions) amid the plaudits of religious and other groups. Warden Wilfred Denno reported that in death row at Sing Sing, when the radio bulletin interrupted a ball game telling that capital punishment was no longer a legal punishment, little reaction was noticed. Denno is quoted as saying that most of the men preferred death to life imprisonment. New York is the thirteenth state (including Michigan) to abolish the death penalty. Which will be the fourteenth? Or, even better, which will be the fiftieth? I know of no criminologist who believes that the death penalty deters major crime. And so IT SEEMS TO ME.

This is that dept.: One of the toughest decisions to make, even for Astronauts, is when to discard a toothbrush. . . . most small boys are washable, though they have an inclination to shrink from it. . . . Washington Cathedral (Episcopalian) is starting on a $20,000,000 building program aimed now at the completion of construction by 1965. It has been under a step-by-step construction plan for more than 50 years, already. . . . Horse sense, naturally, dwells in a stable mind. . . . If you want to get back on your feet, just skip a couple of car payments. . . . Salesgirl: "These are very strong shirts, sir. Why, they laugh at the laundry." Bachelor customer: "I know. I had some that came back with their sides split."

Episcopal Bishop Gerald Francis Burrill of Chicago proposes that Holy Communion in his Church be opened to all validly baptized Christians in good standing in their own Churches. The Bishops in the House of Bishops rightly used the correct phrase: the Holy Communion is the Lord's Table. Advocated is open communion rather than the closed communion practiced by many Episcopal and other Churches. Such a step would be one more barrier hurdled in any attempts at Church union, or, so IT SEEMS TO ME.

WORKING HARD TO BE ready for the opening game of the new grid season are these members of the Cass City High School grid squad. The season opens Sept. 17 against Port Huron Catholic and the boys have been working out daily to prepare for the new season.

Hawk Squad Ready to Lift Lid on New Grid Season

After two weeks of practice Coach John Bifoss reports that the 1965 edition of the Cass City Red Hawks grid squad has the potential of being a fair team.

We could even be a good team if every player goes all out in practice and in the game, he continued.

Bifoss said that he was disappointed in the relatively small number of boys reporting for practice. Twenty-two reported for the varsity and 23 for the Junior Varsity. With only a few minor exceptions, Bifoss said, the desire and enthusiasm have been tremendous.

The boys who show a desire to play and get the job done will get the starting nod, he continued.

Bifoss has a nucleus of a good team back from last year with 14 lettermen returning from last year's team. The 1964 squad came on strong and finished in third place in the league with a four won, four lost and one tie record. Graduation took nine lettermen. Biggest holes in the squad were left by Jim Knoblet, the hustling tackle, and Ed Retherford, the three-year veteran in the backfield. Other lettermen who graduated included Don Ball, Bob Bilss, Cass Pesieczny, Mel Laming, Greg Thompson, Gary Tracy and Larry Groombridge.

Balancing the loss are the 14 boys who will be starting the season with experience. Bifoss has lettermen at nearly every position. He is especially strong at ends with Senior Veterans Wayne Copeland and Al Wallace backed by Jim Tuckey, a junior.

Tackles include Bernard Freiburger and Grant Goodall, juniors, and Jim Crane, Dean Hulien and Dave MacRae, seniors.

The guards are headed by Co-captain Rick Turner. Seniors Randy Clara and Dave Van Allen, along with Juniors Rick Van Vliet and Duane DeLong, are also listed at the position.

At center Larry King, a junior, and seniors Mike Root and Les Searls will fight for the starting nod. Root is a veteran from last year.

Quarterback is another spot with experience. Jerry Knoblet and Dave Schember, both seniors, are listed at the position.

The halfbacks are another high spot for the Hawks. Bob Rabideau, a senior, is the co-captain, ready to take over where he left off last year. Other talented runners include Jim Walters, a junior, and Ron Weippert, a sophomore.

At fullback, Bifoss can choose between Karl Weippert or Alan Zawilinski, both juniors.

Not Outstanding

The team is not outstandingly fast or heavy. The biggest man on the squad weighs only about 182 pounds. The team does not have an exceptionally fast man. Balancing these negative factors are the number of lettermen returning and the desire shown by the boys reporting for practice.

Bifoss should have a better line on his players after Friday night when a scrimmage game against North Branch has been carded. The following Friday, the season starts for real when tough Port Huron Catholic Central hosts the Red Hawks.

Sanilac 4-H'ers Place High in State

Area 4-H'ers who live in Sanilac county were active at the 50th annual state 4-H show held at Michigan State University Aug. 30-Sept. 2.

Many of them won top awards at the show. Kenneth Kennedy, Cass City, a member of the Evergreen Guys 'n' Gals 4-H Club, received a trip to the National Junior Horticultural Association Annual Convention Dec. 5-9 at Cincinnati as the individual winner of Horticulture Production Demonstration. His demonstration was titled "How Much I Didn't Know."

While at MSU, he participated in an all-day tour of truck garden locations in western Michigan. Kennedy visited celery farms near Kalamazoo, flower producers in Zeeland and Holland, the Heinz plant and Kroger packaging plant near Grand Rapids.

Mary Sue Burns was one of the representatives of the county in the Senior Miss Clothing and Dress Revue.

Patty Rogers, Decker, and Carol Fischer, Snoover, were among nine girls participating in the Foods & Nutrition Action Exhibits.

Bonnie Kennedy, Cass City, and Patricia Patterson, Marlette, were hostesses in the Management for You in Your Family section. In the judging and identification contest Miss Kennedy was fifth.

Lu Ann Kennedy and Tamara Vatters won blue honor awards for their vegetable exhibits.

Fire Damage Slight in Area

Slight damage was caused by three fires caused by Cass City firemen during the past week.

Tuesday night, at about 7:30, firemen were called to the end of Elizabeth Street to extinguish a fire that turned a garbage pit into an inferno that could be seen for several blocks. Damage was confined to the pit, which is adjacent to the old Gross and Maier slaughter house. Cause was unknown.

Saturday evening a sawdust pile fire at Peters Saw Mill, northeast of Cass City, was put out although it was not out of control. The mill was burning with a burning permit and firemen believe the alarm was called in by a passerby.

Six acres of grass were burned off on the Clare Root farm Sunday before firemen brought a grass fire under control. The farm is four and a half miles south of Cass City and one and a half west. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Mixed League Bowling to Start

Jack and Jill League bowling will begin Tuesday, Sept. 14, at Cass Lanes at 9:00 p.m.

Other leagues have already started at the Cass City bowling alley.

Farm Ladies Hear About Communism

Communism — what it is, its meaning and how it functions was discussed in a panel presentation at the regular meeting of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women, on Friday afternoon, September 3.

At the Farm Bureau building in Caro, Karen Stiefer of Vassar, Virginia Henry and Kathy Satchell, both of Caro, led in the discussion of moral and political standards of Communism.

The girls attended the Young People's Citizenship Seminar at Camp Kett during the summer, and were sponsored by the County Farm Bureau Women's group and the Young People's Committee. They will be sharing information during the next year with civic groups and organizations throughout the county.

The group made plans for the District 6 Fall Camp scheduled for Sept. 28-29, at Camp Kett. It was voted to pay half of the camp fee for all Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women who attend. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Cass City, by September 17.

The county annual banquet slated October 19 at the Caro School cafeteria, will be headed by Mrs. Earl Hecht of Vassar and Mrs. Stanley Lagos, Cass City.

It was announced that the retiring chairman of the Women's group, Mrs. Carpenter, will be a candidate for vice-chairman of the Michigan Farm Bureau Women's Committee at the state election to be held Nov. 9 at Michigan State University.

GAGETOWN

A-3C Richard Emmons of Chanute Air Field in Illinois spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Emmons, and family.

Correction: a story in last week's Chronicle listing Central Michigan University summer graduates should have listed Mrs. Leslie Munro of Gagetown, and not Miss Mildred Munro.

Commercial Arts Adult Classes

An organizational meeting for adult education classes will be held Monday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 32, Cass City High School.

Tentative subjects for the classes, to be taught by Richard Carroll, commercial arts, are bookkeeping and typing.

Two similar sessions were conducted during the 1964-65 school year.

Don't expect things to come your way without the right bait.

A Picture Is Not Worth 1,000 Words

By Dave Kraft

I was watching one of my favorite re-runs, the Andy Williams Show, the other night and one of his guests was the very funny Bill Dana (Jose Jimenez).

Dana did a series of "Jose as" skits and one of them was Jose as a wild animal trainer.

Williams asked him what the most important piece of equipment was in training lions and Dana replied "track shoes."

Williams: "Track shoes. Yes, I can see they'd be important."

Dana: "You might not believe this but once I made it from the center of the ring to the cage door in 9.5."

Williams: "9.5! That must be some sort of a record." Dana: "No, the lion made it in 9.4."

Dana: "He caught me right by the threshold."

Plagiarized from the September

Lions International Magazine: "A Western visitor to the Moscow Zoo was amazed to see a cage labeled 'Coexistence,' containing a lion and some lambs."

"How in the world do you do it?" he asked the zoo keeper.

"Nothing to it," replied the Russian. "You just add a fresh lamb now and then."

..... Gives you something to think about, doesn't it?

..... I was talking with someone about the pool the other day and I came up with an interesting item that I'm sure few of you know about.

Seems the lifeguards, Les Searls and Kathy Herhall, were in friendly competition, seeing who could save the most persons during the season.

Les saved six and Kathy saved five.

Not that many persons got themselves into trouble but, as I understand it, on slow days, Les and Kathy used to take the little kids down to the deep end and throw them in, just to have somebody to save.

Not really. As a matter of fact, lifeguards are the sun tanned but unsung heroes of the swim set.

I think we should give them a big hand . . . either into or out of the pool, it's up to you.

..... It has been said that a picture is worth 1,000 words. Don't you believe it. I got to thinking about that the other day so I measure off a space in the locals three columns wide by five inches deep, the size of most of our pictures. This comes to 15 column inches.

Then I counted the number of words in one inch. In Chronicle type it came to 43 words. Multiplying the 43 by the 15, I got the answer.

A picture, in the Chronicle, is worth 645 words.

It's hardly worthwhile for any man to stop and think unless he expects to act.

It is never too late to learn, but too many people never learn that until it is too late.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

OLYMPIANS NEED NOT BE AMAZONIANS

Q. Does strenuous physical training tend to make women "masculine?"
A. If women medal winners in the recent Olympic Games are any criterion, no lack of essential feminine appeal could be seen as a consequence of their having followed strength-development training methods normally used by men. An experiment in Australia showed that women using such methods could exercise with relatively enormous loads without harmful effects. An interesting finding in this experiment was that colds could be predicted by a drop in exercise efficiency two or three days before symptoms developed.

TICKLISHNESS

Q. I am very ticklish. Does this have any medical significance?
A. According to a research team that conducted "tickie tests" at a large hospital, if you are very ticklish you are also very emotional. By the way, most children don't develop ticklishness until they are three or four years old.

WALT HEMPTON—who graduated from Cass City High School in 1963 has become a key griddier for Central Michigan University and is a likely starter in the opening game Saturday.

Hempton May Start On CMU Grid Team

A pleasant surprise to Central Michigan University football coach Bill Kelly this fall has been the first-week work of former Cass City High great Walt Hempton.

The 6-foot, 180-pound sophomore has been impressive with his running and receiving from the slot-back spot in Kelly's revamped Flanker-T formation. So much so, that Hempton has been installed as a likely starter for Saturday's 14th annual Red Feather Game in Saginaw at 8 p.m. against Wisconsin State University.

Hempton missed most of the 1964 freshman team's season because of a leg injury and went to baseball this spring, causing CMU coaches to be just a little cautious in assessing his talents for this fall.

But his work in the first four drills has brought praise from former Cass City High coach Kelly and his staff. "He's probably the best we have over a 100-yard haul," asserts Kelly. "He has natural talent for blocking and tackling as well as his running and receiving and we'll put him to use," continued the voluble mentor.

The play of this sophomore is one reason why Kelly has shown few qualms so far at going into the '65 season with a sophomore-dotted backfield and team.

Michigan Forges Ahead in 2 Phases of Mental Health

Leading Program

Two areas of emphasis in mental health work are placing Michigan in the spotlight across the nation. Most other states have just scratched the surface in these areas or are still thinking about entering them.

One is the community mental health center program, a concept still relatively new even in Michigan but one in which great strides are being made even more rapidly than the most optimistic estimates. The second is the effort to train some of the mentally retarded for jobs and then find the positions in which to place these individuals, some of whom have spent years in institutions because they had no other place to go.

The latter program is being hastened by a federal grant of nearly $500,000 from the Labor Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training.

With emphasis on job exposure, job development, on-the-job training and actual placement, Mental Health Department Director Dr. Robert A. Kimmich predicts the new program will result in a significant reduction in institutional waiting lists during the next few years.

"By reducing the number of persons now institutionalized simply because of lack of employable skills and job opportunities, we can accommodate those who do need residential care when they need it," he said.

Other states have entered this field previously but only on a very small scale or pilot project basis. Michigan officials estimate their program will benefit more than 3,000 mentally retarded persons. This is the number of hospital patients already identified as employment potentials.

"We will provide these people with a variety of job skills and then, with the cooperation of other agencies, find appropriate jobs," says Dr. V. A. Stehman, director of services for the mentally retarded.

Initially the project will involve the state hospitals at Lapeer, Fort Custer, Mount Pleasant and Coldwater, where 82 per cent of Michigan's retarded are housed.

"We hope to empty our institutions of those who are capable of leading productive lives outside, of those who can attain some degree of economic and social self-sufficiency in the community," said Stehman.

Change Strain

The Constitutional requirement to reduce the number of state agencies from 130-plus to not more than 20 has been met officially but it will likely be several years before the revision is a reality.

Even then it appears the change will be most evident in the state telephone directory rather than in practice. The smaller state agencies which now exist will then be listed as divisions of the major unit to which their function has been assigned.

Creation of 19 departments under the 1965 government reorganization law is slated to be implemented early next year by action of the governor on recommendations from the various department heads.

The legislature will also have a part in this implementation project because many old laws will have to be reworked to dovetail with the new alignments in various agency functions and authorities. From all appearances, reorganization will be a continuing process over the next several years. Even in the 1965 session there were several new boards and commissions created which were not put into the new plan for a compact state government.

You can't acquire others' confidence by continually knocking.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

If you don't believe we was living in a new generation, I got the proof in a piece I was reading in the papers. This big grocery store chain was selling loaf bread for years with a slogan "The Bread Just Like Mother Used To Make." Sales on this item was falling off and they made a investigation. They found the average young housewife of today never heard tell of her mother baking a loaf of bread in her life, didn't know what the slogan was talking about.

I was discussing this matter at the country store Saturday night and most of the fellers was agreed we was in a new generation, and some of them was of the opinion things had took a turn for the worse. For instance, Ed Doolittle was complaining that some of his wife's knifolks from across the state had been visiting at his house all week. Ed allowed as how, afore they got all these superhighways and high speed cars, it was a pleasure to have distant relatives. You swapped Christmas cards once a year and that was it. They was just distant relatives and stayed distant. But now, reported Ed, ever time you look out the window a distant relative is driving up.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, claimed the worst thing about this new generation was we got too many experts on how to run it. For instance, he said he was reading a piece in one of his old lady's magazines by a syktivist feller that was supposed to be an expert on the new youth. This feller said the great trouble with the younguns of today was, at the age of 18, they figger they know everything and don't know nothing. And, reported Zeke, the piece stopped there. The feller diagnosed the disease but didn't prescribe no cure.

Bug Hookum was of the opinion modern gadgets was having a heap to do with the ruination of our youth. For example, he allowed, no youngun was going to be wild and lazy if he had to get up at daylight and make a fire in the cook stove, chop stove wood for a couple hours ever day and tote it in the house.

Clem Webster was disagreed with Ed, Zeke and Bug. He claimed they wasn't nothing wrong with the younguns of today that a few years of making a living for a wife and kids wouldn't cure. Clem said he recollected where Mark Twain once said that when he was 15 year old he thought he was as smart as his Pa. But when he got to be 21 he had took note that his Pa had learned a lot in them six year.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't give up on the younguns of today. They ain't nothing wrong with this younger generation that the next younger generation won't cure. The worst thing about the kids of today is they ain't got good manners, and I figger this is on account of they don't see none.

Explain Wheat's Winter Hardiness

A good number of Tuscola county farmers are asking the question, "Are our present wheat varieties, such as Genesee and Avon, still winter hardy? Or are not Yorkwin and Cornell 595 more winter hardy? Questions such as these have been raised by wheat growers because during the past several years, and especially this past year much of the wheat crop was damaged from winter injury, said Alfred Ballweg.

In a recent communication on this problem with Dr. Everett Everson, professor and wheat plant breeder at MSU, the following comments were made, according to Ballweg:

"I can appreciate your concern regarding the winter killing with wheat in your area during the past several years. This has concerned me a great deal too. I am quite sure that winter killing has been intensified these past few years due to what appears to be a weather cycle and that the extreme kill of last winter was not due to varieties alone. In all of our tests, Genesee and Avon appear to be as hardy as Yorkwin and Cornell 595. Avon and Genesee are quite similar in all characteristics.

"For five years now Dr. Robert Olien, USDA plant physiologist on winter hardiness, and I have been concentrating on winter hardiness in wheat. In my estimation this is one of our most important program objectives. We must raise the level of hardiness to a new plateau and we will!

"Rust was especially heavy in the 'Thumb' area and the southeastern section of Michigan this year. The most damage was done by stem rust. Michigan usually escapes stem rust as our crop matures before the organism has a chance to build up to epidemic levels. Not so this year! Winter killing thinned our stands so many late tillers appeared and the crop in general matured late. This coupled with ideal rust weather and good spore showers from the south central states set up ideal conditions for a rust epidemic. It can happen again but shouldn't more than once in 10-15 years. This doesn't mean we are ignoring the stem rust and leaf rust problems. These too are major objectives in our program as are winter hardiness, quality, short plant height, resistance to sprouting, Hessian fly, cereal leaf beetle, mildew, etc.

"Breeding programs are long time projects requiring much parent building in the beginning. Within the next several years we will be releasing the first Michigan varieties in many decades. These will carry single characteristic improvements in the beginning followed by varieties carrying combinations of many of the characteristics listed above."

COMING TO THE Cass Theatre Sept. 16-19 will be the Beatles in "Help", the new technicolor picture which will be highlighted by free records and theater passes on opening night.
