

From the Editor's Corner

At all important Cass City football games, you'll never hear Coach John Bross holler from the sidelines after the first quarter.

It's not that he loses interest so quickly, but simply that he has the type of voice that becomes so hoarse after a little shouting that he simply can't speak above a whisper.

The biggest individual donation for Mrs. Barbara McCreary (whose trailer home burned to the ground several weeks ago) was the last to arrive before the Chronicle's drive was concluded.

It was for $25 and came from a well-known benefactor of the community who has been gone for many, many years. Sorry, he won't let us reveal his name or Kalamazoo address.

Who pays the freight to run Cass City's Schools? We all do, of course. But we were surprised to learn last week who the top 10 in the district are on the basis of state equalized valuation.

The spread between the largest and the smallest in the top 10 represents a spread of over a half million dollars. Leading the list is General Insulated Wire. Others in order are: Detroit Edison, Frutchey Bean Co. elevators, Walbro Corporation, Southeastern Michigan Gas Co., Anrod Screen Cylinder Co., Bulen Motors, Croft-Clara Lumber Co., Cass City Packing Co. and Cass Inc. (milk processing).

It is interesting to note that industry and utilities comprise seven of the top 10 taxpayers.

As important a part as these firms play in the local tax picture, the common man with the small valuation is still the backbone of the school's tax base. Cass City's four largest plants constitute less than five per cent of the total valuation of the district.

All of this information was compiled for a brochure so that investors could have a picture of the district when they bid on the $1.6 million bonds to be sold Oct. 21.

Sentence Smith On Concealed Weapons Charge

Larry S. Smith, 18, Decker, was placed on two-year probation for carrying concealed weapons when he appeared for sentencing before Circuit Judge Arthur M. Bach in Bad Axe Thursday, Oct. 14.

Smith was also ordered to pay fine and costs of $250.

The youth pleaded guilty to the charge during a court session in September and was released on $500 bond.

Two companions had been previously sentenced on the charge. The three, and some younger companions, were arrested last spring for carrying an arsenal of clubs, chains and a knife in their car.

Saggy, Baggy Hose Needed to Stuff Mild Animals

Snag that pair of nylons fighting off a cougar in a berry patch? No? Well, then did they get torn while pulling them over your face just before pulling that last robbery?

Whatever the cause, before throwing them into the ash can, reconsider. The Cass City Hospital Auxiliary would like to take them off your hands, so to speak, to use as stuffing for small animals being made for children patients at the hospital.

According to Mrs. Don Finkbeiner, auxiliary official, the nylon stuffings make the toys more washable.

The toys, to become a continuing project, will be started at the auxiliary's next meeting and may possibly become a home project for some members.

Persons wishing to donate clean, usable nylons and other materials may drop them in a box at the Bigelow Hardware.

First State Aid Monies Received

Cass City Public Schools received $57,150 in State Aid monies this week in the first payment of the school year.

County Clerk Archie Hicks forwarded the first payments to county schools after receiving the monies Tuesday.

Elkland's Tax Bill Is $287,482.31

Elkland township's tax bill for 1965 jumped $50,559 over the 1964 figure, Tuscola County supervisors learned late last week as they wound up their week-long October session.

The increase was consistent with the growth of the county as the bill for operating county government rose from $3,389,796.62 to $3,589,853.18, an increase of $190,056.56.

Chief reason for Elkland's increase, going from $236,832.44 to $287,482.31, is the new high school approved last June by township voters.

The voted five-mill increase for the new school brought the township's voted school debt up from $29,282 to $71,253.05.

Most area townships also reflected increases, with the exception of Elmwood township whose tax bill was decreased about $10,000 over last year.

Elmwood's taxes for 1965 are $108,263.65 as compared to $118,208.01 in 1964. Ellington's tax bill rose $7,920.04 from $54,136.02 to $62,056.06. Novesta's taxes for the year rose from $58,093.08 to $63,683.85, a jump of $7,590.77.

In other business during the week-long session, a recommendation by the Building and Grounds committee that 35 fluorescent lights be installed in those courthouse offices that don't have them was approved. Cost of the lights is not to exceed $1,500 and they will be installed by courthouse maintenance men.

Purchase of a 16mm projector and screen, cost not to exceed $550, was granted. Half of the purchase

Kingston Rallies To Aid Stricken Accident Victim

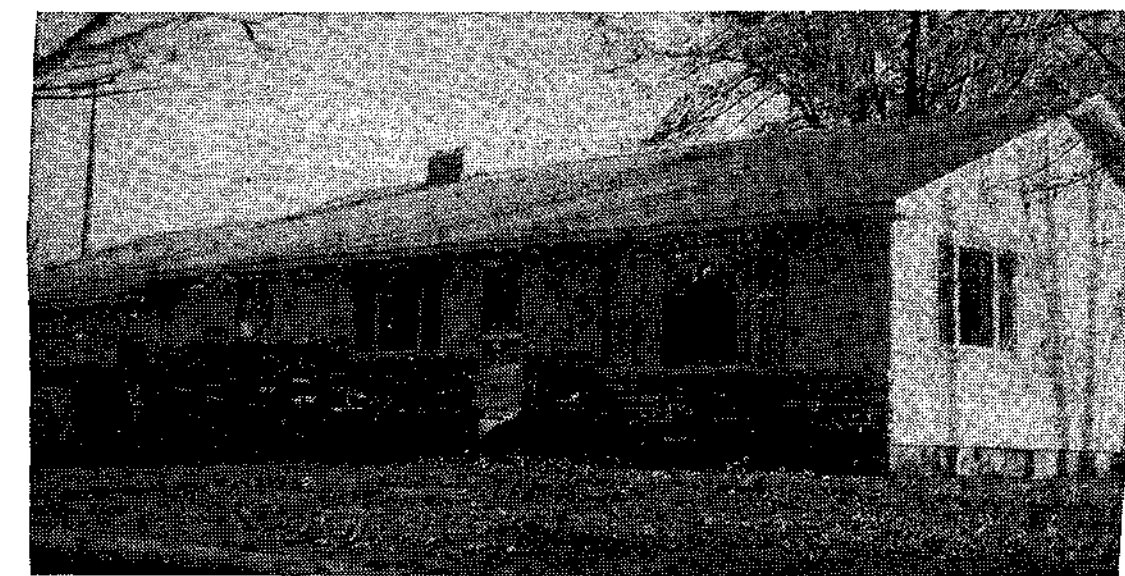

Residents of Kingston have rallied, around the McCool family in an attempt to give a helping hand to Richard McCool, 17, who is suffering from paralysis resulting from a diving accident Aug. 3.

The youth is paralyzed from the chest down and can move only his arms at this time. He was recently transferred to a rehabilitation hospital in Flint for further treatment.

Meanwhile, he has been receiving help from Kingston friends. The Lions Club purchased a collar needed for his affliction.

Last week the Kingston Enterprise sponsored a bake sale for the Dick McCool fund. There have been a benefit ball game and a pair of car washes with the money going to the fund. Church groups have also come to his aid.

Some of the money went to purchase a private television set and a tape recorder for the stricken youth. Dick will be able to use the recorder to study. The lessons are taped and then played back for him.

Nazarenes to Dedicate New Parsonage with Open House

Dedication services for the new $20,000 Church of the Nazarene parsonage will be held Sunday, Oct. 24, followed by an open house, according to Rev. Richard Spencer, pastor. Dedication services will be at 3:00 p.m. with open house following until 5:00 p.m.

The new three-bedroom parsonage was started a little over a year ago and replaces an original structure that was close to 100 years old. The building contains a study, living room, dinette, kitchen, two-car garage, full basement, one bath upstairs and two bathrooms downstairs.

Some work is yet to be done in the basement, Spencer reports, but when finished, it will support full church activities.

The bulk of the construction on the new parsonage was done by house, church officials and village dignitaries will take part in the ceremonies, according to Rev. Richard Spencer, pastor. (Chronicle photo)

Spencer and Lawrence Cox. Spencer built the parsonage at the Sandusky Church and finished work on the church just before coming to Cass City two years ago this December.

CANDY PUPPET—When all the candy is out of the bag held by Mrs. Lloyd Fredericks of Snover, it becomes a puppet. Mrs. Fredericks, one-time victim of a kidney disorder, is selling the candy for the Michigan Kidney Foundation which uses the proceeds for research and drug banks. She is also selling the candy to publicize the little-known foundation. (Chronicle photo)

Halloween Candies Help Woman Repay Kindness

"I'm selling candy for the Michigan Kidney Foundation."

Chances are, between now and Halloween, there will come a knock at the door and you'll hear these words from an energetic and enthusiastic lady who would rather be doing anything else in the world than selling candy door to door.

The lady is Mrs. Lloyd Fredericks, a rural Snover housewife and mother, who is out to repay a kindness. She's also determined that Cass City area residents know more about the Michigan Kidney Foundation and its work, even if they don't buy her candy.

Her product is a top quality hard candy that comes in a pound and a half bag that doubles as a hand puppet. Hence the name, "3 in 1 Trick or Treat Puppet Candy Pak."

At $1.00 per package, it's more treat than trick and besides, all profit goes to the foundation to help support its drug banks and research.

Mrs. Fredericks knows the importance of the foundation and its work because she is one of the many state persons who has received assistance from the organization.

A year ago last March, Mrs. Fredericks noticed that she felt tired all the time and that her legs were swelling. She and her husband had been working night and day, putting up a new barn destroyed in a fire earlier in the year and she assumed she was just tired out.

The condition worsened and when other medical help failed, she went to Henry Ford Hospital where doctors told her she had nephrosis. The disease, in her case caused by strep throat, attacks and kills the layers of the kidneys, halting their purification processes. Both kidneys were affected.

Mrs. Fredericks caught strep throat from her husband a year before the kidney disorder. He, however, has apparently suffered no ill effects from the disease.

Nine days after entering Ford Hospital she was released.

"I was pretty thrilled with the help. Doctors told me before I went to Ford that I wouldn't be able to do anything. . . never eat salt, do housework, gardening, mow the lawn or even open a cupboard door," she says.

Not only that, I was to spend 90 per cent of the time in bed, resting."

Now, although she tires easily, she has returned to a relatively normal home life, caring for her husband and four children.

She learned of the foundation while recuperating at the home of a sister in Detroit. She had asked her sister to see what, if any, financial aid was available, and the foundation contacted her.

We needed help then because of the fire and all but we don't now," she explained.

It was while recuperating that she learned that one of the main sources of financial aid for the foundation was through the sale of the Halloween candy. Considerable support also comes through United Fund.

Candy sales support the drug bank which allows persons suffering from kidney disorders to purchase medicine at reduced prices.

For instance a two-month supply of pills may be purchased from the bank for $6.00. This is done by sending the money to the foundation which in turn sends back a receipt. The user then takes the receipt to Ford Hospital and receives the medicine.

Mrs. Fredericks estimates she saves about $1.20 on her medicine. She explained, however, that some persons who would ordinarily pay $50 to $100 for their medicine pay only the $6.00 for all the medication they need.

She was too weak to do anything about the candy program the first Halloween but she thought about it during the year and finally made up her mind that this year she was going to do it.

"I didn't want to do it," she tells. "The day I ordered the candy I almost decided not to. I'd never done anything like this before."

"I want it understood that I'm selling the candy to support the foundation. It's my way of thanking the foundation and of helping further research. I don't want anyone to think it's for me," she stressed.

For her first order, she took 20 cases or 240 packages of candy. She received the candy Monday, Oct. 11, and four days later had sold about 144 packages. Since the interview, she has ordered more. Besides the candy, the puppet contains a brochure explaining the foundation and its work. Also in the bag are small paper sacks into which the candy is to be placed for passing out at Halloween.

The foundation was started in 1955 by seven parents whose children had died from kidney disorders. Members now include over 500 persons who either have had kidney disorders or who are interested in kidney disease research.

Because she tires so easily, Mrs. Fredericks is looking for volunteers to sell the candy. "If I could get 10 or 12 children to sell in their neighborhoods, even one bag a piece, it would help."

She's also looking for a business place which would be willing to display and sell the candy.

A number of friends and neighbors have already pitched in to help Mrs. Fredericks with her campaign. Her children attend Evergreen Township School and school officials sent home letters that the candies were to be on display and for sale at Parent-Teacher conferences today (Thursday) and yesterday at the school.

Marshall Mishap Highlights Crashes

An elderly Cass City woman was hospitalized and two other Cass City persons suffered bruises when cars driven by John W. Marshall, 50, and David C. Ashmore, 50, collided at the intersection of Gage-town and Rescue Roads, two miles southeast of Owendale.

Hospitalized was Mrs. Mary Marshall, 92, Marshall's mother. Marshall and Ashmore both suffered bruises but required no treatment. No injuries were reported for Mrs. John Marshall.

The drivers told state police they didn't see each other until too late because of a corn field at the intersection. Both cars suffered extensive damage and had to be pulled from the scene.

A Deford youth escaped injury when he ignored a stop light and

School Board Jubilant

Top Rating for Bond Issue

The Cass City School District's $1.6 million bond issue has been awarded an "A" rating, the best available, Supt. Don Crouse reported this week. The rating could mean savings in interest of $40,000 over the 30 years the bonds will be issued for.

School bonds in Cass City's category are always given one of two ratings. . . an A or BAA rating. An examination of interest charges shows that there is always a spread of .2 of one per cent between the top rating and the BAA rating for the bonds.

A three-man committee of William Ruhl, Crouse and H. M. Buien went to New York to show the rating firms the details of Cass City's school financial structure.

The committee reported that it was evident that the school would have received an A rating from Standard and Poor's without the trip.

The rating from Moody's is not automatic and the committee reported that the representative from this concern was very interested in learning the facts about Cass City School.

I would like to emphasize, Crouse said, that we did not receive $40,000 in cash in New York. The savings to the taxpayers will be in interest charges that come from the A rating.

Civil Defense Warning System To Aid Schools

Civil Defense Director Frank Kroswek, Caro, announced this week that CD warning systems will be made available to all county schools which wish to participate in the program.

The system would consist of a radio receiver which would be located in offices of participating schools and which could be activated only by pushing a button in the sheriff's office.

For example, Kroswek explained that in the event of a weather warning, a deputy would push the button and all schools in the county would receive the information at the same time. Such a system would speed up notification and eliminate telephone calls.

Kroswek put the matter before county superintendents at a meeting Wednesday, Oct. 13, and the superintendents are to bring it before their respective school boards.

The cost of each set would be $234.50 with the Federal Government paying half. Kroswek stated the program would get underway as soon as feasible, possibly by the first of the year.

The sets would be ideal for broadcasting storm and road conditions, he explained.

Award $3,022 in Accident Suit

A Vassar couple received $2,500 and an insurance company $522.28 in an automobile negligence jury trial Friday, Oct. 15, in Circuit Court in Caro.

The jury gave Mrs. Michael Lutz $1,500 and her husband was awarded $1,000. An insurance company representing the Lutzes received the other amount.

The Lutzes originally asked for $225,000 in a suit filed against James Ackley, owner of a truck which slammed into the rear of Mrs. Lutz' car June 29, 1962, at an intersection in Vassar. Mrs. Lutz had stopped for a light when Ackley's tractor and semi-trailer driven by Freeman Carver, struck her car.

NOW! A WHOLE NEW SERIES OF ULTRA-LUXURIOUS CHEVROLETS

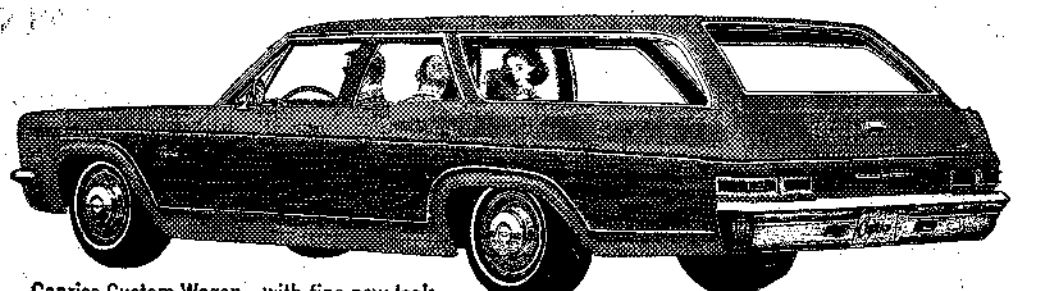

'66 CAPRICE BY CHEVROLET

Caprice Custom Coupe—with exclusive formal roof line that comes on no other Chevrolet.

Caprice Custom Sedan—with superb new Body by Fisher elegance inside and out.

Caprice Custom Wagon—with fine new look of hardwood paneling on sides and tailgate.

Everything it takes to create a distinguished luxury car has gone into these new Caprices.

Beneath the formal styling elegance that sets the Custom Coupe apart, for instance, you'll find thick wall-to-wall carpeting, comfort-contoured seats and the look of hand-rubbed walnut on the instrument panel, glove compartment and inside door panels. You can order a finely instrumented console, together with new Strato-bucket front seats.

In the Custom Sedan, a new Strato-back front seat is available with bucket-type contours separated by a fold-down armrest. And in the equally opulent Custom Wagons, even ordered in 2- or 3-seat models, you can often order carpeting for the cargo area.

Each model rides super Jet-smooth. And for incomparably smooth power, you can specify Chevrolet's advanced Turbo-Jet V8 in either a 396- or 427-cubic-inch version.

The price of it all? Somewhat more than you're used to paying for a Chevrolet. But less, as your dealer will happily confirm—than the select class of fine cars these new Caprices invite comparison with in every detail.

IT SEEMS TO ME Thumb Fire First Red Cross Disaster

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

I've just been rereading the history of our fair hamlet and noticed with some excitement that, when one of two devastating fires pretty well wiped out the country around these parts, Clara Barton and her Red Cross got their baptism of fire. This was the very first disaster of the new disaster unit. As far as I can remember, this important bit of history was ignored in our recent centennial celebration. Maybe the High School band can prepare a half-time show around this: How about it, Mr. Walker? Have you noticed the attractive new lighted sign of the local Nazarene Church? This dignified and easily-read sign is placed right for ease in reading from east or west. Other churches will follow the leader, "It Seems To Me."

German-born Dr. Werner Von Braun, recognized leader in our space explorations, said after viewing the pictures of Mars that, "science and religion are not antagonists." "As scientists have spearheaded man's reach into the universe," he said, "they have increasingly discovered the validity and need for religion."

He might have added that we need the best minds of our leaders recruiting still more scientists and ministers. Or, so "It Seems To Me."

Not too long ago the entire nation concentrated attention on the high cost of funerals. Now two of the most influential organizations made up of Funeral Directors have adopted codes of ethics. While it is not known, at this time, whether the code will result in more reasonable costs, it is believed that the code will help get the unethical in-line; or, so "It Seems To Me."

The John Birch society, widely known far rightest organization headed by Robert Welch, is now collecting funds to repeal the Civic Rights Act of 1964. According to the Christian Century, an ecumenical journal, "In this venture the John Birch Society confesses what we have long surmised. Its objective is not to destroy Communism--which the society knows is a feeble movement in the United States--but to thwart all social progress and especially progress in the racial field." Its enemy? "A sane, progressive, just social order. And the society's whole program has one aim--sufficient power to control the destiny of the United States. Unfortunately there are a great many Americans who have been waiting for such an opportunity to adorn their racial hatred with an anticommunist slogan and wrap up their oppression of the Negro in the American flag." We, who by accident live in an all-white community, can and should prepare to resist the blandishments and half-true statements of The John Birch Society. Or so, "It Seems To Me."

Frequent naps will keep you from getting old--especially if taken while driving!

Do American spacemen go to church? This column has reported their church affiliations as soon as that information was given out. Gordon Cooper (the only spaceman yet to take two trips in space) is a member of the Seabrook Methodist Church where he has filled the pulpit many times. Charles Conrad (Cooper's spacemate in the most recent flight) is a Sunday School teacher and member of the Episcopal Church. Edward White is a Methodist, while James McDivitt is the first Roman Catholic to travel in space.

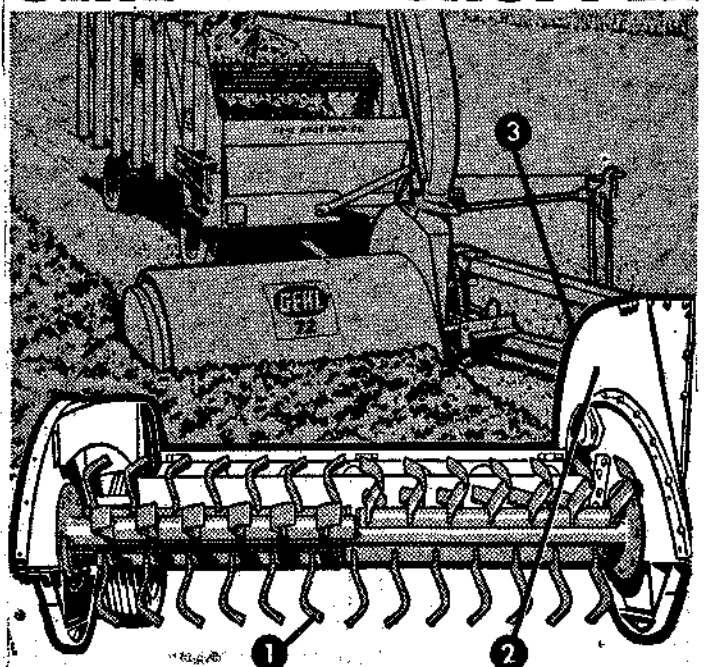

In my reading recently, I ran across an item that stirred some long gone memories. My first church to which I was appointed was a "student charge," meaning that I was still going to seminary. I lived in the parsonage week ends and it was quite warm as long as the first-floor was rented and heated. One week end I arrived to learn that the renter had moved and the parsonage was cold, something like 10 degrees and a plumber had thoughtfully turned off the water. I drove down to the town's only hotel, run by a parishioner. Primarily, the other residents in the hotel were school-teachers. When I returned to school on Monday I very carefully pocketed the key. The following Friday night, I went up to my room and was met by the Hotel's proprietor, who lectured me quietly that in this town no one ever locked their door. From that time, every time I lock my doors, I pause a moment, thinking how wonderful it would be if we had no reason to lock our doors. Or, so "It Seems To Me."

Character is true mirror of life--reputation is merely the reflection from it.

This is the number to call today to save money on fuel oil all winter!

Look at it this way. If you have not been using golden Superheat, you've probably been spending too much to heat your home. Superheat, alone among all the fuel oils you can buy, is "electrofined" to burn cleaner and hotter than any fuel oil ever has before. And that means you get more heat, better heat, with lower heating bills for the season. Switch to Superheat today...and you'll save money all winter!

Explorer Scout Sponsor Duties Told to Lions

Explorer Scouting and sponsorship duties were explained to the Cass City Lions Monday night at their regular meeting at Martin's Restaurant.

Outlining the program were Charles and Carl Reed, Explorer Scout leaders. The pair explained the duties of the Lions as a sponsoring group and asked for help on camping projects and at regular Wednesday night meetings.

In conjunction with the program, the club voted to requisition the Community Chest for $300 for the Explorer's budget. Previously the club worked with no budget except dues.

Treasurer Ronald Keegan reported that broom sale receipts total about $1151.00. Brooms may still be purchased from any Lion member.

Glasses were purchased for two area youngsters in conjunction with the club's continuing sight conservation program.

B. A. Calka was named to head a committee which will check into surgery and financial assistance for an area girl who it was previously reported the club was buying glasses for. Glasses were approved but it was later discovered that medical attention is necessary.

The Elkhon Lions are to be invited to the Nov. 15 meeting, along with their zone chairman, during the visitation of Dep. Dist. Gov. Ed St. Onge.

In a board meeting that followed the regular session, the directors approved a motion to hold board meetings on the last Thursday of each month.

Professional Scouting Returns To Tuscola-Huron Counties

Scouting in Tuscola and Huron counties will be under professional guidance for the first time since 1959 with the arrival in Cass City of Bob Koenemann, 31, district executive.

Three years ago for four or five months there was a representative in the area, but he wasn't assigned here long enough to establish a program, according to the new executive.

What are the problems facing the new Scout boss? Membership and finance, says Koenemann.

Our program in Tuscola county is probably a little more active than the one in Huron. One of my jobs will be to work with key persons in the entire district to get Scouting rolling everywhere, Koenemann said.

The new executive should know what Scouting is all about. He came up through the ranks. He attended High School at Evansville, Ind., and received his BS degree in recreation from Indiana University.

While a youngster he worked his way through the entire scout program, earning the rank of Eagle. He comes to Cass City from Allenton where he served for 2½ years as a Scoutmaster.

He is a veteran of 5½ years in the Navy and the Marine Corps. Koenemann is a husky, good looking man with an obvious enthusiasm for his work and the community he works in.

He is especially interested in the proposed Community College for the Thumb area. I found many willing part-time workers for Scouting when I worked near a college campus, he explained.

I plan to work closely with all the schools and hope to become rapidly acquainted in the district, Koenemann said.

Of course, I already know a good many of the local persons connected with Scouting through my two years as director at Camp Rotary (near Clare), he explained.

Koenemann has moved to Cass

Felonious Driving Charge Brought In Area Circuit

An 18-year-old Detroit youth has posted $500 bond pending his appearance in Sanilac County Circuit Court on a felonious driving charge in connection with an accident last July in which a Decker man was injured.

Joseph E. Mahon, 18, was bound over to Circuit Court Friday, Oct. 15, at an examination before justice Harry Balhoff.

Mahon is accused of attempting to outrun a Sandusky State Police car in a chase during which speeds reached more than 100 miles an hour. His car slammed into the rear of another car driven by Edward J. Mahaffy, 63, Decker, at the intersection of M-53 and Moriarty Road. Mahaffy was injured.

Arguments start many fights, but never seem to finish one.

THE SENIOR CLASS of Cass City High School won the annual battle of the floats Friday night at the Laker football game. Originally scheduled for Home-ing with Caro, the event was postponed because of rain. The victory by the Seniors was old stuff for the class. They annexed the top prize as Juniors last year.

Tough Eagles Next For Hawk Gridders

The Hawks will invade the fair of the league-leading Frankenthuth Eagles Friday and Cass City will need a peak effort to keep from being severely clawed by the toughest team in the loop.

In most games so far this season, the defense has been tough enough to give Cass City some narrow victories or at least a tie, but the offense has been spotty.

The team looks good in spots and then seems to sag just when it appears that everything is going to go in high gear.

Against the Lakers, the Hawks took advantage of a break to move in for their only score. They moved well with the opening kickoff and moved into Laker territory before being forced to punt.

A charging defense shoved the Lakers back to their own five-yard line from where they attempted to punt. The kick travelled only to the 15-yard line.

From here, the Hawks moved in to score. Sticking on the ground, they moved to the three-yard line from where Jim Walters dived over for the marker. Mike Root's kick for point was good and turned out to be the decisive play in the game.

The Lakers threatened to get back in the ball game early in the second quarter. They blocked a Cass City punt and took over on the Hawks' 29. They completed a pass for a first down on the 15, but then the Hawks' defense stiffened.

The threat ended when Dave Schember intercepted a pass and ran it back to the 20-yard line.

With time running out in the second quarter, Cass City posed a mild threat, as two long passes, one to Al Wallace and the other to Wayne Copeland, produced a first down on the 17-yard line. But this was as deep as Cass City could penetrate as the half ended.

Neither team scored in the third quarter. The visitors turned a fumble recovery into a touchdown. Taking over on the Cass City 35, they moved in to score with Dave Clabuesch going the final yard for the marker.

The Cass City defense made a big stop when they halted a run for the try for point and the victory.

Coach Bifoss called the defense tough... especially on the big third down plays. He pointed out the obvious flaws in the offense, saying it looked good in spots but lacked consistency.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor,
The story about Becky was very well written.

You made two slight errors. This is her first year as mascot and she did not need blood because she came through so well. Not because of the type of operation. Dr. Jones said we should get as many pints of blood as we could.

I hope her story will ease the worry of other parents.

County 4-H's in Jr. Livestock Show

A group of Tuscola county 4-H livestock showmen will be among the more than 400 members who will take part in the 38th Annual Detroit Junior Livestock Show. The show will be held at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit Nov. 2-5.

The 4-H's will be competing for fame and fortune as well as an educational experience as their carefully prepared animals are led before the judges. A total of 13 4-H Club members have entered from Tuscola county in marketing and carcass classes.

George R. Pattullo, Extension 4-H Youth Agent, explains that the show is a first hand opportunity for "learning by doing". Steer exhibitors will put 600 pounds of gain or more on their animals to produce top quality beef.

Entries will begin arriving at the Detroit Show late Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 2. The on-foot judging of lamb and beef carcasses will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday will provide a full day of judging market steers and lambs, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Judging will be completed Thursday morning with an awards banquet to be held at noon. The Detroit Junior Livestock Sale will be held in the afternoon, when the prize animals go on the auction block. Sale of top animals will be a feature of a championship rodeo Thursday evening.

The show is sponsored by the 4-H Club Department of the Cooperative Extension Service and the Detroit Junior Livestock Society. The society is a group of businessmen interested in promoting efficient livestock production among Michigan's young stockmen.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle and Clem Webster practical took over the session at the country store Saturday night.

Ed started at the top by announcing the U.S. Supreme Court had made a bad mistake when they came out here a little while back with that ruling the states have got to set up legislatures on the one-man and one-vote plan.

Ed reported he had give that item a heap of thought for a couple of months and was decided it was going to git too complicated and cost a heap of money.

First off, said Ed, in the Great Society it wasn't but one step from there to voting the tombstones in the family cemetery plot. A heap of them that was dead and gone, claimed Ed, was better qualified to vote than some we got now, and it would be logic in the Great Society for kin folks to honor the memory of them that has gone by casting a vote for 'em. He figured the Supreme Court would then come out with a ruling along the lines of one family and five tombstones. Furthermore, allowed Ed, when we got this new ruling it wouldn't be more'n a couple months till the Government would furnish perpetual care for all voting graveyards. The Great Society, said Ed, give special attention to anything that could vote.

He was of the opinion that now, since we was taking care of everybody from birth to the funeral home, it made good sense to extend it to the graveyard and on into the hereafter. Furthermore, claimed Ed, the Democrats has fixed it so's you can't take it with you on account of it is gone afore you are, therefore the graveyards was due extra consideration.

Clem was defending the Great Society and this new ruling by the Court. He reported he was always reading in the papers during ever election where some rural counties and places like Chicago was already gitting a big tombstone vote. He said he could recollect reading a few year ago where they was a election in a county in North Carolina and 46 per cent of the total vote checked off on the registration books was names took off of tombstones. He figured it would help keep elections honest if the Supreme Court would just go ahead and make it legal.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think Ed, that gits the stumick ache ever time he thinks about the Great Society, was just trying to git a argument out of Clem. I don't know nothing about dividing up our state legislatures in the proper portions and don't believe Ed does. I always figured, arguing over politics was a heap like drinking liquor. They was a few men that can do it in moderation but the big majority don't know when to quit.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

AFTERMATH OF TANNING

Q. For the past several summers I have acquired a good tan. Most of it fades during the winter but this year the "y" of my neck remained red, and freckle-like dark spots have appeared. Can these be bleached?

A. Over-exposure to sunlight can cause harmful skin changes. Our advice is to consult a skin specialist (dermatologist).

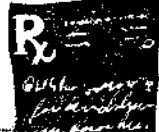

LIE DETECTOR TEST

Q. How reliable is the "lie detector test"?

A. A precise answer to this question can't be given because various factors are involved. First, the instrument used must be of satisfactory quality. Secondly, the examiner must be a person who has had good basic training in psychology, physiology, and general police work. If these standards are met, the test is highly reliable. Some subjects are not suitable for this type of interrogation, but a qualified examiner has little difficulty in determining this. While it is true that even a very competent examiner may make mistakes, the errors are generally in favor of the subject rather than against him.

COMMENTS BY KRAFT

It's The American Way But Oh Those Checks

By Dave Kraft

There is an ad on television which comes up with the startling news that the person who finishes high school earns over $40,000 more in his lifetime than the high school drop out.

The cap in my bottle of milk extolls the virtues of finishing high school.

A radio spot urges the high school drop out to reconsider. You know it's right and I know it's right to finish high school. Not only that, it's the American way to go to college. Learn more . . . earn more.

How do we justify then, the fact that a certain 19-year-old high school drop out who quit in the 10th grade, is working at a factory and brings home twice as much money as a hard working reporter I know.

I've given this considerable thought and the only consolation I have is that some day his job will be done by a fellow pushing a button. Even this thought doesn't console very long because just as sure as sin and taxes, the joker who pushes his button will be paid twice as much as the guy that ends up pushing the button that takes my place.

..... This is from the current Farmer's Almanac, I believe. My source was not too clear on just where it came from. The author is unknown so I think I can use it here without fear of reprisals.

How To Bake A Cake This recipe for any cake will be appreciated by all mothers.

"Light oven, get out bowl, spoons, and ingredients. Grease pan, crack nuts. Remove 18 blocks and 7 toy autos from kitchen table.

"Measure 2 cups of flour; remove Johnny's hands from flour; wash flour off him. Measure one more cup of flour to replace flour on floor.

"Put flour, baking powder, and salt in sifter. Get dustpan and brush up pieces of bowl which Johnny knocked on floor. Get another bowl. Answer doorbell.

"Return to kitchen. Remove Johnny's hands from bowl. Wash Johnny. Get out egg. Answer phone. Return. Take out greased pan. Remove 1/4 inch salt from pan. Look for Johnny. Get another pan and grease it. Answer telephone.

"Return to kitchen and find Johnny; remove his hands from bowl; wash shortening, etc., etc., off him. Take up greased pan and find 1/4 inch layer of nutshells in it. Head for Johnny, who flees knocking bowl off table.

"Wash kitchen floor. Wash table. Wash walls. Wash dishes. Call the baker. Lie down."

..... My friend, the "Constant Reader," has seen fit to strike again. You remember him. He's the joker who told us all that the male antelope was really an "uncle-lope."

He writes this week: Your quotation to the effect that the female crocodile lays 3,000 eggs a year reminded me about a fish story:

The codfish lays a million eggs, And the lowly hen but one, But the codfish never cackles To show what she has done. And so we praise the lowly hen, And the codfish we despise, Which only goes to show how much

It Pays to Advertise! Or is that a fowl story?

Mrs. K. Ivan MacRae will serve as chairman of the 1965 UNICEF "Trick or Treat" door to door drive to be held Thursday, Oct. 28.

A parent has to teach the basic values he wishes the child to have as an adult. This teaching is done less through formal teaching than through example and consistency.

A baby doesn't know what words you are using. He's happy when told "You stupid little slob" in a gentle voice, and cries when a grim voice says "I love you".

A child reacts in a similar manner when Dad tells him to be honest in all things, then furnishes him with school pencils by stealing them from the office. Or when Mother curses all morning while getting the family ready for church.

Children do as you do, not as you say. Families are alike, not as much from inheritance as from learning. Parents are their heroes, and they act as their heroes do. This is particularly true on the abstract value such as honesty, faithfulness, honor, and responsibility.

It is up to you as a parent to form your child's basic values.

It is also up to you to help him learn to be self-reliant, self-confident enough to trust his own opinions.

His choice of occupation, religion, political party and mate have little or nothing to do with you. These are his expressions of his individuality, his separateness from you.

A parent will often complain that he doesn't know what happened to Johnny. He used to be such a sensible kid, but now he's turned Democrat, or Catholic, or he's decided to be a typewriter repairman instead of an engineer.

Good for Johnny. And good for his parents. Johnny knows what is right for him. It's because his parents raised him with a good set of basic values and courage to believe in himself.

Halting speech is the tell-tale result of a lame excuse.

Bonnie Kennedy Wins 4-H Trip To Chicago

Bonnie Kennedy was one of three Evergreen Township youngsters honored at the Annual Fall Achievement Program at Sandusky Wednesday, Oct. 13, when she was awarded a trip to Club Congress in Chicago.

Other awards were also presented to Patty Rogers and Ken Kennedy.

Miss Kennedy was one of four seniors from Sanilac to receive the award. In seven years of 4-H work, she has completed 65 projects, won three county medals, 13 state show awards and was awarded trips to Club Week and Camp Kett.

Miss Rogers was given the 4-H Key Club Award for outstanding service in Junior Leadership to the State 4-H Club. Also a veteran of seven years of 4-H work, Patty has attended Club Week, Camp Kett and has won three county medals and five State Show awards.

Previously, he won a trip to the Horticulture Convention in Cincinnati. With 25 projects completed, Ken has attended Club Week, won three State Show awards and three county medals. He belongs to both the Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club and the Cass City Livestock Club.

School Enrollment Forecasts Proving Too Conservative

Growth Opportunity
Forecasts for higher education enrollments in the 1963-70 period were startling when they were first issued early in the decade.

Now that the predicted period is well under way, the forecast is still startling, particularly because it has turned out to be a very conservative estimate. Experts said as early as 1961 that enrollments in Michigan's public colleges and universities would be boosted as much as 10,000 students a year in the 1963-70 period.

This year the increase hit just under the 20,000 mark!

Predicting even a year ahead is becoming more and more difficult. Last year the 12 schools getting state support estimated they would have 147,312 students this fall. The actual enrollment was nearly 2,900 above this estimate.

Largest of the state universities, Michigan State, came close to its prediction of 35,571 students. Only nine more were enrolled last month on the East Lansing campus.

Only Grand Valley State College undershot its estimate. The forecast enrollment was 1,200 but student numbers are 1,170. This still represents a sharp boost from the 530 students enrolled last fall. The newest state college is now leaping toward its long-range size projection.

New Big Job

Much new responsibility was placed with Michigan's Department of Administration under the 1965 government reorganization law.

The department previously included seven divisions. The two best known responsibilities were accounting and budget. Others were building engineering, property management, purchasing, motor transport and office services.

Added by the new law, taking effect next year, were jurisdictions over the state building commission, building authority and veterans trust fund board.

Retirement systems for various lower court judges; municipal, state, and public school employees, and the State Police also will come under the reorganized department.

Headed by a controller appointed by and serving at the pleasure of the Governor, the department of administration prepares the state budget requests for the various agencies. The controller then works out the final budget which goes to the legislature after consultation with the Governor.

This department has been in the news more than usual the past two years because it has been largely responsible for getting under way the giant capitol development project now becoming a reality.

Maintenance of all state office facilities, purchase of materials and equipment, disposal of surplus and salvage, acquisition and operation of the state motor pool also come under control and supervision of the Department of Administration.

Tax Death

Public reaction to the controversial state income tax question could prove fatal to incumbent legislators if an independent survey is any indication.

Legislators are more aware of this than probably anyone else, as evidenced by their reluctance to conduct the proposed referendum which would allow eventual consideration of a graduated income tax. Some lawmakers remember the public was told they would not face an income tax if they would approve the 4 per cent sales tax.

The recent poll did not actually propose an income tax. It only sought to measure if respondents favored a change in the constitution which would permit a graduated income tax. But researchers feel responses showed that the public wants no part of any kind of income tax.

The statewide survey by the Michigan Taxpayers Association got an average return rate on a mailing. The results of the return reflect essentially what many lawmakers have been saying for years, and now say is the reason a referendum is unnecessary.

Nine out of 10 respondents oppose a state income tax, and the same number said they would vote against legislators who enacted one. Many felt the annual discussions of tax reform are just a disguise for more new taxes, another point which has been heard quite frequently in the state Capitol in recent weeks.

A FAMILIAR figure to most Cass City residents is Frank Hunt of Caro. He is the meter reader for Detroit Edison in the area. Starting with his last visit, he has been easy to identify because he wears uniforms provided by the company. Harry Richards, manager of the Tuscola District, looks over the new apparel with Hunt.

Describe Area Farm of Future

What's in store for Michigan farms in 1980?

This is a good question, but project '80 believes it has some pretty good ideas, relates Don Kebler, Extension Agricultural Agent.

What is project '80? It is a study of past and present agricultural happenings and trends. It is this study combined with projections into the future as based from these trends. Project '80 is developed by Michigan State University Professors and Specialists.

What does Project '80 comment on their projections?

There will be a continued reduction in farm numbers, land in farms and cropland in the state. There will be a faster increase in the size of farms than seen before in the past.

The farm operator who remains will be operating larger units more efficiently, with less proportionate labor, more technology and better management. They will be receiving about the same average prices for all farm products while competing with a greater cost-price squeeze.

These farms will be further specialized with a change in the relative importance of the various types. Project '80 envisions a 60 per cent decrease in dairy operations, 80 per cent in poultry, 25 per cent decrease in both other livestock and cash-crop operations.

To operate, expand and consolidate these remaining operations, there must be a markedly greater capital and credit need per farm. The estimated average investment per farm could increase 2½ times the 1959 average to a record of $84,000. This would be on the basis of 190-acre average farm size. Today this is 132-acre average farm size.

Commercial farms, with an average size per farm of 175 acres, will expand to 270 average acres. This investment will nearly triple to a value of $131,000 average.

To operate such farms, and most of them will still be family farms, the operator will have to keep on his toes to stay in business. He will come to rely on farm records and business analysis system at least as good as is available to them now under the Telfarm system. In a good many cases it will be the early use of today's Telfarm system which enabled these operators to survive and build operations for the '80's. And the farm operator tomorrow will be using a record keeping business analysis system as a necessary must for his operational survival.
