

Teachers Form MEA Union to Bargain with School Board

Unionism for Cass City's 58 teachers became a reality Monday night as the Cass City School Board recognized the Cass City Teachers' Club as the official "exclusive representative" of the teachers in all future bargaining on "wages, hours, and other items and conditions of public employment."

The request, while something of a surprise for most of the board members, was granted in accordance with the newly passed Act 379, Public Acts of 1965, which requires school districts to negotiate with representatives of their employees concerning the above items.

Representing the teachers at the session were Orion Cardew, negotiations chairman, and Lyle Clarke, president of the Teachers' Club, a chapter of the Michigan Education Association.

Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn and Donald Reid were named to represent the school board in negotiations which will begin November 22. It is expected at this session that a negotiations agreement, which will define areas of negotiations, will be drafted.

Hit Snag

Recognition of the club stalled for a time when Board President Horace Bulen asked for a list of the members to prove that the club really represented 90 per cent of the teaching staff as it claimed.

Neither Clarke nor Cardew would consent to releasing the list, because, as Clarke explained, "some of the members have expressed a desire that their names not be printed or otherwise be made public."

"I anticipated this question," Clarke explained, "and put it before the club. Some were quite positive that their names be not revealed. . . I don't know what they fear. It was a condition we had to grant in order to be allowed to represent them."

Clarke suggested having a third person, a notary public, examine the membership list to see if over 90 per cent of the teachers had agreed to representation by the club.

It was finally agreed that a list of names would not be necessary. One other organization, the American Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, is actively trying to organize Michigan teachers. This group, however, is concentrating on larger systems.

Earlier in the question, Superintendent Donald Crouse remarked, "I think the board of education and the teachers are looking at this as more of a change than I think there will be. I don't expect too much difficulty here, where we have been meeting with the teachers all along."

"I get the feeling that you are all looking at this as the beginning of a small war and actually, I hope it isn't."

After recognition had been given to the group, Bulen commented that he and the board "hope, as Don has said, it will be a friendly relation . . . as in the past."

No Trainable Rooms

The board approved a letter to William A. Scott, Intermediate School District superintendent, stating that Cass City was unable to furnish two rooms for trainable retarded children, thereby opening the way for the county board to regulate the Darby School program.

Darby School, operated by the Tuscola County Association for Retarded Children, handles youngsters capable of being trained but not educated. The school was previously operated on its own but is apparently seeking county help.

A letter from each school system in the county stating that they are unable or unwilling to furnish the rooms is necessary before the county can take over.

Policy Changes

Three revised policy changes dealing with full-time and part-time help, padding of students and increment, were approved.

In the future, full-time teachers will be used whenever possible and part-time teaching pools will be consolidated whenever feasible. Increment will be given in the future in accordance with the amount of time spent teaching. If a teacher teaches for two hours a day, she will receive two-sevenths of the increment.

The policy of padding or students was "liberalized" with approval of a new clause which allows padding of students only after obtaining approval of the administration.

The old policy allowed no padding at all. "Some teachers," said Crouse, "felt this was just like waving a red flag in front of a bull."

Don Koepfgen reported to the board that he had contacted several persons involved in a proposed storm water drainage project just north of the new school site but indicated that no agreement had been worked out yet. Some favored tile drainage and others advocated open ditch drainage.

The drain would receive all run off from the new school. The board approved exercising of the option to purchase the Donahue property for the new school. The first payment of $10,000 will be made next month with the remaining $29,000 to be paid in December, 1966.

Radiant ceiling heat, as opposed to unit radiators, was approved as heat for the new school when it was learned that the ceiling units could be purchased and installed for about $3,000 less than the conventional radiators.

For Use in County

Service Agency Seeks Fed. Funds

Members of the press, social workers and civic leaders were presented details of a project designed to secure $95,805.50 under the Economic Opportunity Act (war on poverty) from the Federal Government at a meeting held Thursday noon at Gagetown.

Devised under the sponsorship of the Catholic Family Service which now services Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer counties, the plan calls for the establishment of a Tuscola County Family Counseling Center with headquarters in Caro.

If the grant is approved Catholic Family Services would contribute 10 per cent of the operating funds ($10,900) as the sponsoring organization.

Explaining the present work of Catholic Family Service and details of the new program were Robert Benko, Caro, director of Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission; John Porterfield, Caro, assistant director, and Richard L. Beachnau, executive director of Catholic Family Service of Bad Axe.

If the money becomes available the staff for the county will include 12 direct service personnel and seven counselors.

Services from counselors for low income families would include legal aid, psychiatric and psychological consultation, medical and dental care and accounting.

The project will require approval by the regional office at Chicago and the Federal office at Washington, as well as Gov. George Romney, before it can be placed in operation.

It was explained that the Catholic Family Service case load is now 40 per cent Protestant and that the Federal regulations prohibit discrimination, political activity and religious training in the program.

These points were made after the right for Federal funds for a secular organization was questioned by the Rev. Paul Cargo, Methodist minister from Caro.

Pepsi Warehouse Leaves Cass City

Pepsi Cola will move its warehousing operation from the former H. O. Paul building in Cass City to Saginaw, it was announced this week by company authorities.

Pepsi moved into Cass City less than a year ago to attempt to service the Thumb from Cass City. However, company officials decided it was more economical to service the area from Saginaw than to try to maintain a separate service outlet here.

File $25,000 Damage Suit in Circuit Court

A Flint man, Charles H. Vance, has filed a suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court against Larry Clarence Gugel of Vassar for $25,000 for the injury and death of his wife in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Vance, 64, was killed in a car crash on the corner of M-15 and M-46 May 6, 1965.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband.

She was thrown from the car by the impact and died from injuries received in the collision.

Vance lists ambulance and burial expenses at $1,209.70 and asks punitive damages of $25,000 in addition to court costs.

The suit was filed Nov. 3.

Camper Easily Sold Says John Palmer

There is a market for almost everything these days, as evidenced by the unsolicited results reported by users of Chronicle liners.

Last week Mrs. Vern Watson reported the sale of $15 worth of coal; this week John Palmer of Cass City reported that he had no trouble selling his camper.

It was gone the Thursday night the paper came out, he said.

SYMBOLIC—Thursday is Veterans' Day and across the nation, Americans who have served in the defense of their country in war or peace will pause briefly in remembrance of this service. Symbolic of these servicemen are Ed Buehly, right,

World War I veteran, holding the flag; Garrison Stine, World War II vet, and Cass Bartnik, World War II and Korean Conflict veteran, all of Cass City. (Chronicle photo)

Youngster in Farm Accident; Mangles Foot

Rodney Deering, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deering of rural Cass City, is recovering at home from injuries suffered early last week when his foot became caught in the gears of a self-unloading wagon.

The youngster suffered a broken bone in his foot when it became caught in the gears. His mother reports that the family is not too sure just how he became entangled in the machine.

The accident tore his pant leg off, along with his tennis shoe and sock and broke the skin of his foot to the bone.

"We took a look at that machine and you just don't know how lucky we were," reports Mrs. Deering. "If he'd had leather shoes on it would have been much worse."

The boy is not expected to be able to use his foot for at least five weeks and will be required to use crutches.

Deadline for Yule Parcel Overseas Nears

Your serviceman overseas or the relative in another country may not get that Christmas present in time this year, says Cass City Postmaster Grant Glaspie.

"Chances are pretty slim that packages mailed after Nov. 15th will reach their overseas destinations in time for Christmas," he explained. "This applies to Christmas and surface parcels."

"Air mail parcels may be mailed up to Dec. 10 and still arrive in time."

Glaspie explained further that the reason for the early deadlines was because the department is expecting "the largest volume of mail of any year." Last year the local post office handled 110,000 pieces of first class mail and about 650 packages.

He suggested that all domestic mail to distant states be mailed no later than Dec. 5 and that all parcels to nearby areas be sent before Dec. 14.

Glaspie also announced the annual Christmas Seal sale. Concluded on page three.

SHOWING A PERUVIAN PONCHO is Mr. and Mrs. Robert Freeman of Cass City. He just returned from Peru after spending 21 months there with the Peace Corps.

While abroad he married this comely Peruvian girl and she returned to the States with him. They would both like to return to Peru.

Wants to Return

Peru-Land of Opportunity Says Freeman after Tour

You have just completed 21 months working for $75 a month in the small Peruvian town of Huallanca at the end of the rail line some 80 miles from the coast and the center of civilization.

As a Peace Corps volunteer you've more than lived up to your obligation to your country and as a civil engineer, you have jobs galore waiting for you so that you can pick and choose.

So what do you do? If you are like Bob Freeman, you look for a way to go back and keep on serving.

I feel that there are many business opportunities in Peru and that there is a great need in the country for people with my type training, he explained. "I can see of service in Peru," he said.

The catch to going back is that the young man wants a job that pays enough money so that he will be able to get back and visit the relatives occasionally and he is angling for a post that will do this for him.

When he talks about coming back to visit the relatives, he means his, not his wife's. If he goes back to South America, he shouldn't ever be too far from his in-laws.

For while he was away, he met a very attractive Peruvian girl at a wedding and 11 months later he married her.

She still cannot speak English, but her husband claims that she likes all of the conveniences that she finds in the United States. Her flashing smile helps to overcome the language barrier.

Hard To Learn Although the new couple obviously has no trouble communicating, Freeman says that his Spanish is not of the best. I took a course in it, but when I arrived I still couldn't understand a word that was said.

Even my teacher had trouble, he laughed. Although he understands easily today, he still retains his North American accent.

Freeman's Job Freeman's job at Peru was to give technical assistance to the isolated areas of the country. He made topography maps, surveys, general maps, and road plans as part of his regular duties.

There is much work to be done, he explained. The tremendous mountains in the interior keep back progress and will be a difficult barrier to progress, he thinks.

On the coast, however, the picture changes, and modern civilization is apparent everywhere. Lima is as modern as any town, anywhere, Freeman explained.

Although there are many Indians in Peru, there is no race discrimination, Freeman said, and our race problems are hurting our image in South America, he thinks.

Livestock Club Near Top at Detroit

Although members of the Cass City Livestock Club did not win any grand championships at the annual Junior Livestock Show and Sale at Detroit last week, the five local entries placed well in the keen competition.

In the beef division, David Little exhibited the 2nd and 3rd place summer yearling Shorthorn steers. He was sixth in showmanship.

Dennis Little exhibited the second place senior calf in the junior division.

In the swine competition, Janet Jickling showed the second place lightweight pen and the fourth place individual.

She won the trophy as the champion in the showmanship competition.

Kathy Jickling showed the 1st lightweight individual and had the reserve champion lightweight in the show. She placed fourth with a pen of heavyweights and also had the sixth heavyweight individual hog. She was fourth in showmanship.

The girls exhibited in the senior division.

In the junior division, Torn Jickling had the first lightweight pen; third light individual and fourth carcass pig. He was fourth in showmanship.

All exhibitors were guests of the National Championship Rodeo

From the Editor's Corner

The facts are that in Peru this poncho is hardly ever worn except in the large American-like cities on the coast.

Bob Freeman reports that the poncho is big in Florida. . . but not in South America.

Actually, ponchos are worn extensively by the Indians, but they are not the same as the one pictured, the Freemans report.

Another unusual quirk is that only the Peruvian women wear ponchos, never the men. However, among the Indians the men wear ponchos extensively, while the local Indian women never don this particular garb.

I wouldn't be surprised if some of the members of the Michigan Education Association object to its bargaining committee referred to as a union in the story this week about the teachers agreeing to a bargaining committee.

The MEA likes to say that they do not hold the threat of a strike over the heads of school officials and will not walk off the job and that they are not a union.

If the worst comes to worst, they say, the teachers would refuse to sign new contracts for the next school year.

This would be their right, of course, and might well be justified in certain instances. . . but in our opinion it is a tactic of a union and I support Dave Kraft when he terms the organization a Union in his news story.

If Cass City voters approve of purchasing the former H. O. Paul building on Main Street in Cass City Dec. 20, the village should enter the fire protection business all the way.

Currently, Elkland Township furnishes the equipment and the village pays for housing it. The volunteer fire fighters come from the village.

Service to surrounding townships has been adjusted so that charges are on a sound financial basis.

If the number of fires were about the same as in the previous year, the collections would about equal the township's operating expense.

Since members of the village pay township taxes, any future equipment costs would be equally shared by villagers and in addition, they will be charged for buying the fire hall and maintaining it.

It is the opinion of this paper that the only fair way remaining, if the township does not want to take over the running of the department entirely, is for the village to do so and charge the township for protection the same way that other townships are now charged by Elkland.

Local Teachers at Special Conferences

Members of the Cass City High School teaching staff were involved in a number of special conferences and out-of-school activities this week.

Lyle Clarke, Vocational Agriculture teacher, took 24 junior and senior students to the Michigan Elevator Exchange at Carleton Tuesday, where they were to observe the process of grain grading and marketing.

Mrs. Lucy Starman, high school librarian, attended the fall Regional Conference of the Association of School Librarians, at Algonac, Wednesday. Miss Mary Kramer, extern teacher assisting in the elementary library, accompanied her, together with eight student librarians. The conference included lectures, discussion groups, and a variety of displays dealing with school library problems.

This week end, Principal Arthur Holmberg and science teachers, Dexter Johnson and Robert Hirn, will go to the Conservation Training School at Higgins Lake to take part in the fall Workshop of the East-Central College Agreement Association. The theme of the Workshop will be "Trends in Science Education." Speakers will include some nationally known authorities in science teaching, as well as resource people from several Michigan high schools and universities.

Disorderly Charge Brings Heavy Fine

Raymond A. Root, 24, Caro, formerly of Gagetown, was fined $100 when he appeared before Justice Frank Rolka Friday, Nov. 5, on a disorderly person charge.

Root was arrested by Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies early Friday morning at the intersection of M-24 and Snover Road. He was released the same day after paying his fine and costs of $6.25.

Don't bet that he won't.

Still Study Area Health Clinic

Stricter health and sanitation regulations for Cass City and the area would be a by-product of a four-county health department under consideration by an eight-man committee which recently named J. Arthur Haley of Vassar as chairman.

Haley, in an interview with the Chronicle late last week, outlined some of the areas covered by such a health department which is demanded by the Mandatory Health Department Bill passed by the Legislature this summer.

"This, of course, comes under the field of public health, which covers a multitude of categories," Haley explained.

"For example, though," he continued, "such a department would enforce sanitation regulations, such as investigation of well digging and capabilities of well diggers."

Other areas include migrant housing, milk producing conditions, and public health nursing, which for instance would handle tuberculosis control and tuberculosis patients, pre-natal programs and eye and ear testing.

Just an enforcement of sanitation or health regulations and control of disease would be affected, he concluded.

New Law

The new law requires that each county have a health department or share in the formation of one with other counties. The four counties of Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, and Lapeer formed the study committee in September to find a solution to meet the State requirements.

Huron and Tuscola counties currently have public health nurses offices while Lapeer county has a public health nurse in one field only. Sanilac county, on the other hand, is the only county with a health department run by a director.

Haley explained that these existing units would be incorporated into any over-all program set up.

No Comment

A possible division of the four-county department into two two-county units was discussed at a meeting held Friday, Oct. 29, in Caro, but Haley declined to release the committee's findings until he had reported to the Tuscola county board of supervisors at its next meeting.

An earlier report by Haley to the supervisors indicated that it would cost the four counties from $137,000 to $167,000 annually for the operation of a single department which would service the four counties.

If two separate departments were established, the cost would amount to about $70,000 a year for each department.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisholm Jr.

Miss Petra Frances Lopez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Regino Lopez of Gagetown, became the bride of A-1C Robert Chisholm Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisholm of Owendale, Saturday morning, Oct. 23, at 11 a. m. in St. Agatha's church, Gagetown. Rev. Arnold Messing of Cass City solemnized the double-ring rite; before an altar of lighted candles and bouquets of white mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a lace floor-length gown with a detachable chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a crystal crown. She carried a bouquet of white mums and red roses and wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Joan Lopez, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Chisholm, Miss Raimel Chisholm and Miss Carol Fritz of Owendale. Dawn Wallace of Port Austin and Karen Chesher were gowns of royal blue chiffon with satin floor-length skirts fashioned with chiffon red-tinge overskirts. They wore matching headresses and carried white chrysanthemums.

Larry Winchester of rural Cass City was assisted by Larry Hughes of Cass City, James Doran of Saginaw and Alex Lopez, brother of the bride, as the groom's attendants. Brian Chesher of Grand Rapids was ring bearer. Mrs.

Lopez, the bride's mother, was attired in a rose colored lace dress and Mrs. Chisholm wore a light blue suit. Both mothers wore corsages of white mums and red roses.

The couple greeted guests at a dinner and evening reception at the VFW hall in Elkton. Around 400 guests attended the reception. The newlyweds will reside at the Kincheloe Air Force Base where the bridegroom is stationed.

Women wanting to hear the talk, but not attend the dinner, are welcome, Zontians said.

TSK! TSK! TSK!—In what might be the beginning of the sports scandal of the year, these two Cass City Lions cheerleaders were caught fraternizing with two Rotary football players shortly after a practice session this week. It is believed that the two Lion lovelies were trying to obtain classified information on the Rotary strategy for Thursday night's touch football game between the two clubs. Whatever the reason, readers will agree that the foursome were caught in a shocking display of indiscretion. More of the same and worse is expected to take place at the game slated for 7:30 at the Recreation Park. Pictured are Cheerleader Alice "Happy Time" Freiburger, Attila Atwell, better known as: "The Hun", M. B. (Muscle Bound) Auten and Cheerleader Harriett "Boom Boom" Little. (Chronicle photo)

Hawks Scalped by Redskins; Face Owls

The Cass City Red Hawks will complete a grueling schedule Friday when they take to the road to play a strong Oscoda team which has been defeated only once this year.

The Owls will rank as heavy favorites to add a second victory over Cass City. Last year Oscoda won the game played at Cass City, 28-7. The Owls were ranked fourth in the State in 1964.

Although the team is not ranked quite as well this year, it is still one of the strongest eleven in the northern lower peninsula in Class B.

The game Friday could be a runaway if Cass City does not play better than they did in last week's 13-0 loss to Sandusky.

The Hawks were unable to come up with the big play to win. Time after time they moved into potential scoring territory only to be thwarted when they had a chance to put some points on the board.

Coach John Bifoss said that the offense made too many mistakes and the interior line failed to play its usual tough game on defense.

The end of the game was marred by a fight involving Rick Turner as tempers flared briefly in the dying moments of the game when it was evident that the Redskins had the victory good for fourth place in the Thumb B Conference.

The final home game was also the final conference game of the year. Cass City finished with a 2-4-1 record to tie for fifth with three other schools.

The visitors scored the marker that was good enough for victory in the opening quarter. They drove 75 yards in the TD march that was capped by a scoring toss from Rob Elsholtz to Bob Schuitz that covered 15 yards.

The play ended the scoring until

Unknown Factor

"The biggest unknown factor involved in the establishment of a health department," commented Haley, "is the impact of the medicare bill. Medicare will undoubtedly enlarge the scope of the program, but to what extent, we don't know."

The board of supervisors for Tuscola county estimates that a health department program would cost twice as much as the present nursing program or about $35,000 to $40,000 a year.

So far the Legislature has attached no penalty for those counties which have failed to formulate a health department or share in one within a reasonable length of time.

However, stressed Haley, if the public demanded the establishment of a health department by petition, a taxpayer's suit could be filed against the board of supervisors for the inaction of a department to service the county.

Walters First Junior Named Player-of-Week

Jim Walters became the first player other than Seniors to be singled out for outstanding grid work by Coach John Bifoss this week.

The 185-pound Junior was outstanding on both offense and defense in Cass City's 13-0 loss to Sandusky.

He caught seven passes for 99 yards and carried the ball once for seven yards. His play at defensive end was characterized as "good" by Bifoss.

Walters is a two-sport man. As a sophomore he earned letters in both football and basketball. He may be an even better hardcourt prospect than he is on the gridiron.

Walters is taking a college prep course in high school and hopes to continue his education after high school.

I don't know where I want to go yet, he said.

MAIL SERVICE

ual extension of counter service. The post office will be open all day Saturday on Dec. 11 and 18, instead of just a half day.

Postal hours during the week will be expanded from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. instead of 8:30 to 5:00.

Despite the anticipated increase in volume, Glaspie doesn't foresee the addition of more help. "We don't anticipate adding any help to handle the increase. We prefer to use existing help."

He advised that all mail, regardless of destination, be mailed early in the day during the Yule season because volume builds up in the afternoon.

For persons anticipating a large amount of mail, labels for "in town" and "out of town" mail will be sent to village homes around the first of December. The labels will be available in the post office lobby by Nov. 15.

Glaspie also announced that a new Christmas stamp, featuring the angel Gabriel and his horn, is now on sale. The design is based on a water color rendering of an early weather vane by Lucille Gloria Chabot.

Cancel All Thumb Burning Permits

With the burning index for the Thumb at a critical stage, Conservation Department officials cancelled all burning permits late last week, according to Elkland Township Fire Chief Nelson Willy.

The cancellation will hold until the first hard rain.

As if giving additional warning, a grass fire started early Thursday morning, Nov. 4, at the garage of the late Gene Corkins, at the west village limits, when a tree branch fell across an electric fence and short circuited it. Damage was slight.

Later that same day a car fire was reported at the Bob Neiman residence, west of the village. Damage in that fire was also minor.

In other fire news, Willy reported that the Cass City department will host the monthly Tuscola County Fire Association meet Thursday, Nov. 11. The association is comprised of fire departments throughout the county.

Two Church-State Separation Tests Arise in Legislature

Two Tests
Church-state separation questions arose twice in the 1965 legislative session.

One involved Michigan's Amish community which wants to educate its children with its own teachers, who necessarily lack the requirements for state certification. Since Amish believe in no more than an eighth grade education, their teachers do not meet state standards.

The legislature took no action on this but left the matter to the State Board of Education, which said the religiously-oriented people must send their children to a proper school.

The second question brought the lawmakers in more deeply. A law was passed, called the school auxiliary services law, which apparently will now go through a full court test on the question of constitutionality.

At issue is the provision of state funds to local school districts which furnish a number of non-instructional services to private schools. Among these services might be street crossing guards, bus service, or special counselors for handicapped children.

The question of constitutionality was raised even while the bill was in the early debate stage, but proponents urged this be left to the courts to decide.

Legislators on both sides of the question thought they could satisfy all by specifying that their intent was to assist children as citizens rather than give public aid to religious groups which operate schools.

By requiring school districts to supply these non-instructional services to private institutions if they are provided to public schools, many toes were stepped on.

A court test on constitutional grounds could easily put this bill aside for a long time.

Tighter Traffic Law

The better part of the mountain of laws enacted this year will not become effective until some time next March, some 90 days after the session is formally adjourned in December.

Headline-getting legislation was just a small percentage of laws, most of which took effect immediately upon signature by the Governor.

Previous to the next session, some attention will be given to the other measures such as an important change in the motor vehicle code.

Reckless driving has long been a serious charge under the law and will remain so. In many cases it was difficult to prove and enforcement officers held back except in instances of serious injury accidents or repeated law violations.

This year the Legislature decided to carve a mid-step in the traffic code to provide an offense to be known as careless driving. It will describe violations essentially similar to reckless driving but of lesser degree of severity.

In the law careless driving is defined as operating a vehicle on a highway or other public place, including parking lots, "in a careless or negligent manner or without the use of ordinary caution and prudence."

reckless driving is defined as driving "in willful or wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property."

Whether the definitions will ease the difficulty of proof is very questionable, but lawmakers saw the change as a means of meeting more situations with greater equity.

A reckless driving conviction carries a mandatory minimum-maximum jail or fine sentence of 5-90 days or $25-$100. The maximums set under the careless driving section are the same, but no minimum penalties are set.

Cold Cash

It happens every year and this is no exception. Michigan skiers again will have more winter resorts to choose from than ever before.

This year some 37 winter sports centers open will keep Michigan high on the state rankings in terms of ski area numbers.

Estimates are that the number of persons using the facilities for skiing, ice fishing, skating, tobogganing and sledding will also reach a new record.

Pre-season count last year was 35 winter sports areas in Michigan. This year the list shows three new centers, two of which will be in their first full season, and two others are opening after being closed for several years.

Most areas of long standing seem to be increasing in business volume, as evidenced by several major expansion projects to add slopes, instruction programs, convenience equipment, eating facilities and lodging places.

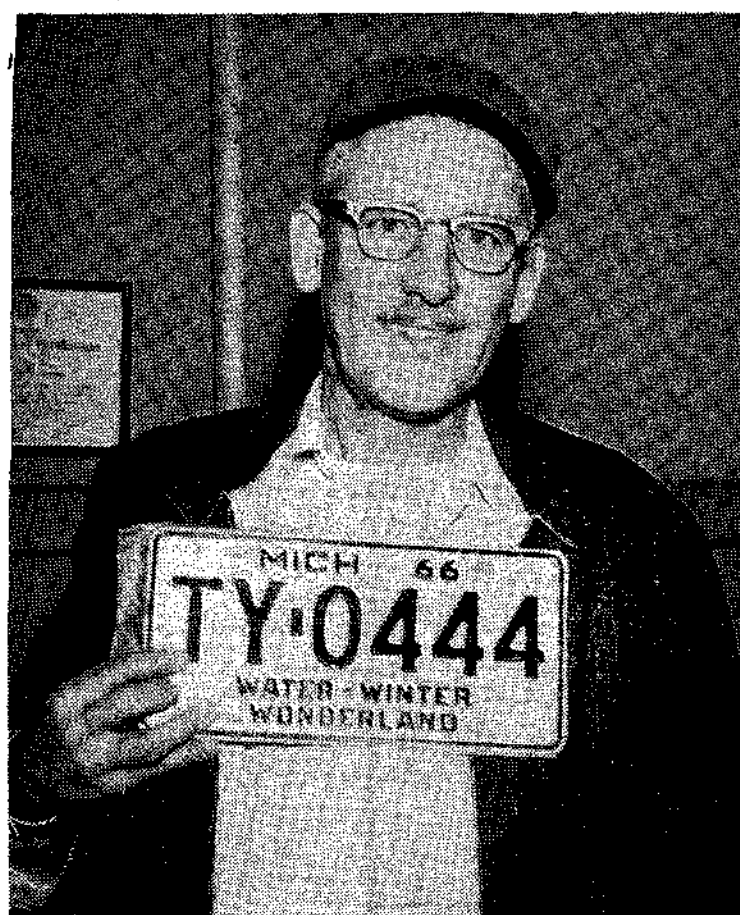

Going into the 1965 season, 50 of the centers will be open daily; 42 will feature night skiing; 38 have snow-making equipment; and nearly all have some type of eating facilities. The lure to learn is also great. Equipment can be rented at 65 centers and 61 offer expert instruction.

The expansion of this business has been statewide. There are now 16 winter sports centers in the Upper Peninsula, 39 in Western Michigan, 20 in the Eastern portion and 12 in the highly populated Southeast corner.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Coincidence Strikes In Papers, Too

By Dave Kraft

Sometimes the most unique happenstances are those things that happen purely by chance and with no design. Take last week, for instance.

The Strand Theatre in Caro ran an ad on the movie "The Bedford Incident." Right under it ran a personal property auction. Owner? John Bedford.

I don't think John's selling out because of "The Bedford Incident," nor do I think that "The Bedford Incident" is a film version of John's auction—but you gotta admit it was quite a coincidence.

The week before we had Harvey Slated for Cass City Nov. 5" as a head for an item. In the next column, right beside the above, was another headline which read, "Harvey Next for Thumb Players, Tryouts Slated."

The first Harvey referred to the congressman and the second Harvey was the non-existent rabbit. I and I won't comment any further on that.

I got a fat envelope the other day with 10 cents postage due. Inside was a copy of "Nation's Agriculture," Nov. '65 issue. The magazine was open to a classified ad section and circled right between "Asthma" and "Artificial Eyes (Human)," was the following item.

"Beer, like bread, is better homemade. New Homebrew Kit makes it for two cents a bottle." The item went on to tell what you got and then casually mentioned that the recipe costs $3.00.

I thought about starting another fund, but after giving it some considerable consideration, I voted against the idea. I haven't had a lot of luck with those campaigns, you know.

Still, two cents a bottle is quite a savings. I thought the ad was located in a proper position. Sorta gives you a choice. You can get glassy-eyed from the home brew or you can buy some imitation ones.

Say, how about those new quarters? It's a nickel sandwich with a copper filling... and it's a Bar-num and Bailey world, just as phony as it can be.

It just goes to show you that all things are relative. If you and I made funny money out of nickel and copper, the government would get us. The government does it and we still get it.

Warren Wood commented the other day that a while back some characters in one of the western states were making counterfeit quarters but the government caught 'em and made them desist. Seems the counterfeit quarters had more silver in them than the real ones.

The new quarters are not too different in appearance from the old ones and about the only way you can tell them apart, aside from the date, is by the copper ring around the outside and the obvious difference in the sound when dropped.

It proves, I think, a success philosophy of our time. The old quarter is 100 and some years old. It has been very successful. An imitation will be just as successful.

I wonder where in Japan the coins are being minted.

Bill Zimicker, Cass City's Jolly Blue Giant, has a lot of trouble with dogs and cats and other animal things on his mail route. The other day I noticed him limping and I asked him what had happened.

Seems he was delivering the mail to a certain house in town and a dog bit him on the leg. I asked, "Did you put anything on it?"

"No," he replied, "He seemed to like it just the way it was."

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Pallas and girls were Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Calster and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schwannecke and Cindy of Saginaw.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was overflowing with wisdom on matters local and world wide. The feller that runs the store was so impressed he allowed as how he aimed to change the name of his store to "The Supermarket Of Knowledge." Furthermore, he said he was going to put a big sign up on the roof saying "Solomon Slept Here."

First off, Ed Doolittle reported he had saw in the papers where the U. S. Mint, now that they was making coins out of stove bolts, was going to show a profit of about a billion dollars a year. According to Ed, this piece said they was now making $100 worth of dimes fer about $6 worth of metal and would show a profit of about $90 million a year on dimes alone.

Ed, that polished up his Goldwater button afore he come to the meeting Saturday night, explained this had brung up a serious problem in the Congress, one they might have to hold over to the next session. The Congress, claimed Ed, ain't used to handling situations where the Government was breaking even, and when they come up with one that shows a profit they was about to panic. Fer instant, said Ed, Congressman William Widnall of New Jersey and some of his Republican buddies claimed this profit might balance the budget and that the Democrats would git the credit fer the coin bill the Republicans helped pass and use it in the 1966 elections. Congressman Widnall, reported Ed, was in favor of spending this profit immediate, and Ed allowed as how the Democrats, being such good spenders, would probable make it unanimous.

Zeke Grubb reported he had saw where scientists at one of them big universities was working on a pill that would make a feller smarter with one dose a day. Zeke said this piece in the papers called it "project smart pill." All the fellers, Mister Editor, was agin this smart pill. Clem Webster claimed if they come up with a smart pill it wouldn't be long afore they would git a dumb pill and this would complicate matters. If he was on a horse trade, fer instant, said Clem, he couldn't never tell if the other feller has slipped a dumb pill in his coffee. And Bug Hookum was lamenting if we got them smart and dumb pills, the wimmen would corner the market on both, take the smart pills themselves and hide the dumb pills in their old man's sausage.

I tell you, Mister Editor, they ain't much going on in this world that gits by unbeknownst to the fellers at the store.

About the only local item to come up Saturday night was Josh Clodhopper reporting his preacher had told the congregation Sunday that him and the janitor would hold their weekly prayer meeting Wednesday night as usual.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Beckett

Katherine Elizabeth Nolan and Patrick Beckett were married Aug. 28 at St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church, North Branch.

The new Mrs. Beckett is the daughter of Mrs. John J. Nolan Sr. of North Branch and the late Mr. Nolan. The bridegroom's parents are the Charles Becketts of Cass City.

Mr. John Haire, Editor, and Mr. Dave Kraft, Columnist
The Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear Sirs,

I write regarding the "Comments by Kraft" column of the November 4, 1965 edition of "The Chronicle."

The "Tigers" and "Halloween" portions of the column were clever and funny and as such were enjoyable. The facetiousness of the middle portion concerning parallel parking directly and "marches, protests and demonstrations" indirectly was out of keeping with informed good taste.

I believe that "fun" at the expense of these serious movements speaks badly for the commentator and for the paper. If comment, straight comment, pro or con were to appear in "The Chronicle," I'm sure no one would take exception but when it comes out in the form of humor one wonders if the writer is aware of the depth of that of which he is making light.

To dismiss Miller, the man who burned his draft card with humor is to insult a serious and sincere effort to have his stand on a matter of conscience publicly and dramatically heard. That his position is one of personal freedom which he believes congress has no right to encroach by forced armed service, that his position is one of his abhorrence of murder which he sincerely believes war to be, that he is willing to suffer probable unjust punishment out of keeping with the offence is all to be then, laughed away and compared with our own petty and provincial difference with the state because we can't back a car into a parking space in order to have coffee.

It seems that more of us should be willing to sacrifice something of ourselves for the rights of men or at least to have an informed opinion on the subject, and "The Chronicle" could go a long way toward shaping that opinion.

Sincerely,
John S. Sommers
and Jan Sommers

Dear Editor:

We of the Cass City Gavel Club feel that there is about to be a great injustice done to the wonderful people of our community. That they must be subjected to an "athletic" contest between the "Limping Lions" (led by their seeing eye dogs) and the "Rotary Rascals" (who are certainly more renown for their acting in Womanless Weddings than actual physical combat on the football field of honor) this Thursday at the park is a farce beyond the realm of our imagination. We want the townspeople to go out and see this Donnybrook with the knowledge that there are better things to come! We feel it is our civic duty to a community who remembers the Golden Era's of Paddy and Yednak to issue this challenge in good faith and due respect to the members of the Lion and Rotary clubs. The Gavel Club will challenge the winner, both clubs, or an All Star team from both clubs to a like contest to decide which club should be actually the true champion of the First Annual Charity Bowl. We realize it must have been a slight oversight that The Gavel Club was not challenged by those "Rascals" and we just want to correct the error. Once again, we beg our townspeople to attend this teaparty-it's a very worthy cause-and hope that there will be a few brave souls from our colleagues still physically able to pick up our challenge.

Sincerely,
Dick Wallace
Gavel Club

Democracy will be democracy only so long as public opinion is its guiding force.

Children are supposed to go through phases. When a child is in a phase of lying, bathroom talk, shouting, - the experts say to endure it. It will soon disappear.

Have you ever felt like having a good night and held back on it until you finally got home? You couldn't fight with the clerk at the store, or the chairman of your club. But husbands are there to be fought with. So when you saw your husband, you tried to start a fight and he wasn't interested. He had his mind all wrapped up in his own little world - Viet Nam, the stock market, the price of beans, scientific advances in fertilizers - just his own little world. He wouldn't fight with you and there is nothing more frustrating.

Kids feel the same way when they are in a phase. Their lying is a stretch of imagination and they want it recognized. Dirty language, bathroom talk is a reaching for the adult world, a sign of sophistication, an imitation of those they admire. Most of the words have no meaning to them. They don't realize why this specific word gets the reaction it does, but get a reaction it does, and he likes a reaction.

Just as you enjoy a good battle with your husband, your child enjoys occasionally shocking you to see what reaction he will get. At three, it may be climbing from a chair to the cupboard to the refrigerator top to get a cookie that was forbidden. At four, it's probably bathroom talk. At twelve, it's likely to be a sexy remark. He knows better. He just feels like a good battle.

According to the experts, you should ignore him. But just think how disappointed you were when your husband wouldn't fight with you. A good firm answer, even a chance to battle, makes a person feel better than being ignored.

Studies done on school children show that they like most the teacher who listens to them. Next, surprisingly, they prefer the teacher who is very firm and authoritarian. They dislike the teacher who allows them to get away with everything. Their reason: Kind or firm, a child prefers someone who cares. Their interpretation of permissiveness is that the teacher doesn't care.

The child in a phase wants you to care and each phase is another way of finding out how much you care. Talk it out with him if he is old enough and you're in the mood.

Give him a good solid swat on that nicely padded area known as the bottom if he's too young to understand reasoning, or if it makes you feel better. It'll probably make him feel better, too.

He'll know where you stand, where he stands. He may even outgrow the phase quicker.

Crime never pays, but we all have to pay heavily for it.

Continuous Sunday from 3:00BOOK REVIEW*Another Good Novel
By Renown Author

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

The author of the book being reviewed this week, Frances Parkinson Keyes, has written nearly half a hundred novels since the first one, published in 1918. A resident of Washington, D.C., for the period when her late husband was in the Senate — she still considers it home. She has visited the country of Peru five times and has written articles and non-fiction books about that nation. In "The Explorer" she has used her knowledge of Peru as a major setting for her theme. (We should also mention Mrs. Keyes' vast contribution to the Catholic Church in non-fiction.)

This rather lengthy novel (433 pp.) is divided into three parts. In the first, we are introduced to Margaret Porterfield, a lovely and aristocratic young woman. A tottering 28 years of age, she has become almost a recluse living with one servant at Hills End, the family mansion near Washington, D.C., in Virginia. Finances (or, more truthfully, the lack of finances), have allowed both the house and the grounds to start on their way to ruin.

Margaret does attend the wedding of a friend, and there meets a man known at an early age, an explorer, Nicolas Hale. Nicolas has remained a single man, but his desire for a son drives him to Hills End where he proposes to Margaret. Long one of his admirers, she accepts and agrees to a hasty marriage five days before his departure to Peru. But what a five days! There are family members to be notified, a trousseau to be assembled and made to fit, more servants to be hired, wedding rehearsals and times for long chats between the two about to be married. Under Nick's directions, the grounds are once more properly cared for and the mansion up-dated and repaired. Nick has been honest with Margaret, telling her that he is not in love with her but looks on her as the mother of his yet-to-be-conceived son. He also makes her realize that, contrary to her desires, she cannot be a part of his adventures.

One thing that Nick accomplishes is the restoration of Margaret's self-confidence, so her social life once more begins to become a major activity, with Nick gone. The child is born — a girl! Nick discovers that he still feels a compulsive need for a son, and their second child is born — another girl!

Meanwhile, Nick continues the search for a lost city which he glimpses from a helicopter just prior to its disappearance following a land-slide. The following months are occupied in pumping away the mud, and in trips home to obtain further financing.

The second and longest section of the three is primarily concerned with Nicolas and his exploration difficulties. If you like such tales (and who doesn't), you will read this section with real appreciation.

The third section of the book deals with the French horse trainer who becomes a near-resident, and is a widower with a son. Gradually, a romance between Jacques and Margaret blooms. Just as it enters the stage where she is almost ready to divorce Nicolas, he suddenly appears on the scene! What to do? Read it and see!

Mrs. Keyes had written another good novel, as singularly free of trite situations as it is of trite dialogue.

"The Explorer," by Frances Parkinson Keyes, McGraw-Hill, New York, 1964. Available from the Cass City and Elkland Township Library.

Production records are now kept on 3,000,000 dairy cows in 70,000 dairy herds across the nation. The records are used to improve production and efficiency. Cows on Ohio test in Michigan averaged 3,000 pounds more milk than the average dairy cow.

Michigan has adopted the U.S. Public Health Service recommendation for the production of Grade A milk. The new law will become effective July 1, 1966. A Michigan State University specialist said the USPH recommendations have recently been revised and provide the most up-to-date standard in the United States.

Start New Dairy Herd Test Program

A new type of production dairy herd testing program is being tried in three central Michigan counties, reports Paul A. Wilkes, field dairyman for the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

The research project in Barry, Ionia and Kent counties is designed to get dairy herd testing for more herds.

At present, 25 per cent of Michigan's dairy cows are in some type of Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program. Cows in testing programs produced 3,500 pounds more milk a year than the average Michigan dairy cow. The new program is being tried to encourage owners of the other 75 per cent of Michigan's herds to participate.

Under this new system the farmer does much of the sampling and weighing but under the supervision of a regular DHIA supervisor.

Barry, Ionia and Kent counties were selected because of their geographical location. All are close to Michigan State University, which conducts the testing programs. These counties also have a good record of cooperation in other dairy testing programs.

The basic program is a quarterly owner sampler type, operated through the local DHIA supervisor. Several options will be offered and the expense to the herd owner will be very small in the experimental program. The MSU dairy department and the Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Assn., Inc. have provided research funds to cover the cost of data processing.

MSU officials say that after the experimental program, the experience may tell them whether or not it should be offered on a statewide basis.
