

At Meeting in Cass City

College Study Groups Slate Reports Dec. 14

The next meeting of the Huron-Sanilac-Tuscola citizens' committee organized to determine the feasibility of a tri-county community college district, will be held at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 14, at Cass City High School, according to Dr. Max S. Smith, of Michigan State University, director of the study.

At that time, the 75-member citizens' group will receive reports of studies being made to determine the extent of present educational facilities and the needs of high school graduates in the three county area.

The Huron-Sanilac-Tuscola study is more comprehensive than most feasibility studies conducted by M. S. U.'s Office of Community College Cooperation, Dr. Smith explains, because it also includes an area vocational needs study. Finances for the investigation are being provided on a matching basis by the three intermediate school districts and the Michigan Department of Public Instruction. "Occupational preparation opportunities should be provided in 15 to 20 major occupational areas and be available to all youths and adults," Dr. Smith said. To be effective, vocational-technical programs should be cooperatively developed for both high school and post-high school students.

The final citizens' report, expected to be ready sometime after the first of the year, will include recommendations for both a community college and an area vocational-technical education program. Sub-committees have been formed to investigate four principal areas: needs, finance, location, and legal. Members of the Needs Committee have made arrangements to visit Port Huron Junior College and Ferris State College Nov. 18 and 19 respectively.

Among information included in the final report, will be a demographic study conducted by Dr. J. F. Thaden, of M. S. U.'s Institute for Community Development. Dr. Thaden's data will provide information about the three county area's population distribution, composition, trends, and potentialities.

Dr. Smith says this information will be valuable to the college board of trustees, if and when it is elected, as it attempts to determine a logical site location.

No Welfare Stamp Plan for County

Several heavily populated counties in Michigan have initiated a "stamp plan" for distribution of dried surplus foods, but the plan is not slated in Tuscola County.

Welfare Director Don Peterhans said that the stamps are not contemplated here for two reasons. . . economy and convenience.

We can distribute the surplus foods for about half the cost of the stamp plan, Peterhans explained and can also give speedier service.

The county has 14 basic surplus commodities on hand now for distribution, he said.

Counties that have endorsed the plan say that it has a built in incentive. . . the more stamps purchased, the bigger stamp bonus received, they said.

It will be possible for the participants to receive a wider diet with the stamps, proponents say.

The stamps will purchase any foods grown in the country plus tea, coffee and bananas, but no tobacco or alcoholic beverages.

The United States Department of Agriculture supplies the foods and will be responsible for policing participating stores.

Panel to Discuss Water Problems

A special panel discussion about water pollution and water problems, featuring three members of the governor's task force on water, will be held at the 4-H Club building in Caro Thursday, Dec. 2, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

The panel will probe such critical water topics as water cycle, legislation, problems at the local level and what can be expected in the future.

The panel included Gerald Reimus, manager of the Detroit Department of Water Supply, which provides pure water for 40 per cent of Michigan's population; Raleigh Barlowe, chairman of resource development, Michigan State University, and Freeland Sugden, Tuscola County Drain Commissioner, known state-wide for his local work.

Completing the panel will be George P. Graff, assistant secretary, Michigan State Soil Conservation, and Ron Johnston, Culligan Corporation.

The five men cover the field from theory to grass roots production, sponsors of the event said.

Vandals Hit 2 Cass City Area Homes in Week

Two reports of malicious destruction of property brought Tuscola County deputies into the Cass City area during the past week but a lack of clues made it impossible for law officers to make any arrests.

Richard Pomeroy of Cass City reported Sunday that someone had broken a window in the front of his home and had blocked his driveway with a 40-foot television evening.

Investigating officers found two partially empty beer bottles in the yard but no other clues as to the identity of the vandals. Pomeroy named two men he suspected of the vandalism and the investigation is continuing.

Earlier in the week, on Monday, Nov. 8, Evangeline Coronado, Merchant Road, Cass City, reported that someone had entered her house while she was gone and had cut two of her dresses with a knife. The vandal also threw lard all over her floors and had gone through her personal papers.

No tracks could be found. The woman had no idea who might have committed the act.

Subpar Area Corn Crop Yield Is Down One-third

Final returns of the area's corn crop indicate that the yields will be down about a third, George Fisher, manager of Frutney Bean Co. of Cass City reported this week.

We have received about a third less corn at the elevator this year. I wouldn't like to hazard a guess as to the average yield per acre. There have been wide variations in the reports from various farmers, Fisher continued.

Combined with the poor yield has been a poor quality crop. Excessive moisture is cutting the price to farmers.

Unlike the bean crop, where higher prices are helping to ease the blow of substandard yields, the corn prices are about the same.

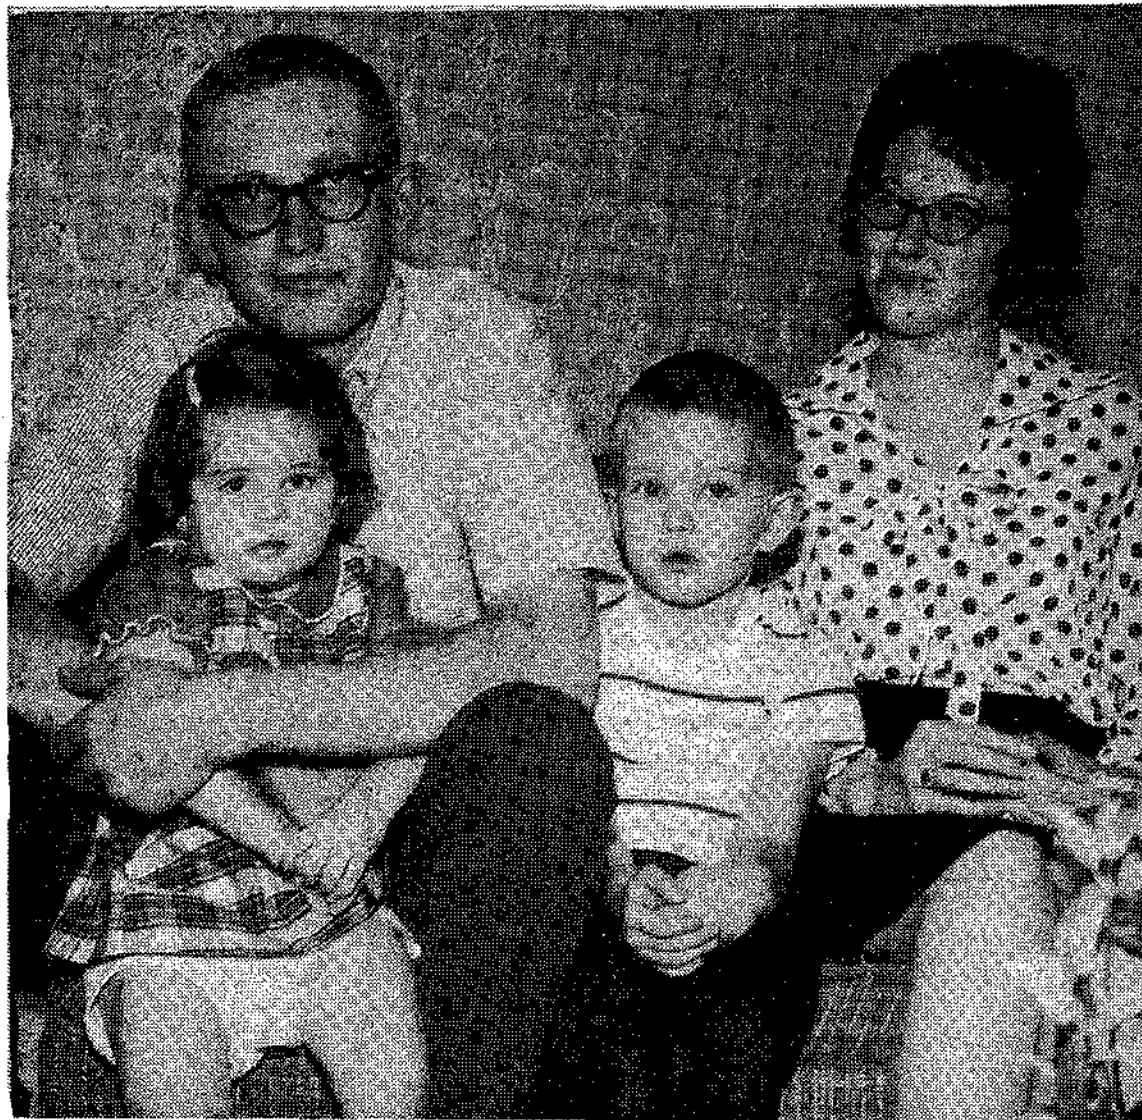

One of the few crops that have been up to standard this year is beans where yields have been good and sugar content better than last year.

Meanwhile, winter wheat is off to a good start. Warm weather has helped and there has been enough moisture to keep the crop growing.

FARMER STUDENT—John Laurie, Cass City, is one of 30 young Michigan farmers slated to take part in a University of Michigan program designed to create a hard core of new agricultural leaders. The three-year program, which starts in December, is to be financed through a $432,225 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. Pictured with Laurie is his wife, Betty, and their two children, Dana, two, and Douglas, four. (Chronicle photo)

Grant to Finance Program

Laurie First from Area to Receive Ag Leader Training

Those school bells are breaking up that John Laurie family and Mrs. Laurie thinks it's "marvelous." As a matter of fact, she thinks it's "the opportunity of a lifetime."

The "opportunity" she refers to is the chance for her husband to become one of the first 30 young Michigan farm leaders to enroll in the unique "Kellogg Farmers' Study Program" which will start this December at the University of Michigan.

The intensive program, made possible through a $432,225 grant by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, is designed to train potential rural leaders and to help them make sound decisions with the guidance of well-informed farm leaders.

Laurie, a 25-year-old Cass City farmer, applied for the grant early in August after he had been contacted by a representative of the Michigan Farm Bureau. Two weeks ago, he and 57 of the original 170 applicants were called to Lansing for a two-day get-acquainted session and to take tests.

Thirty of the 58 were picked for the first of three groups which will take part in the program over the next three years.

The first group represents 26 counties and consists of dairymen, cash crop producers, fruit growers and livestock farmers.

Laurie, who with his father, Grover Laurie, operates a 316-acre farm five miles northwest of Cass City, explains his enthusiasm for the program.

"Learn and Tell" "I am interested in the future of agriculture and I think this is a chance to better acquaint myself with the problems that face the business. It's a chance to learn and tell."

"This is where agriculture is falling, in public relations and I feel if we can lick this problem, we will go a long way to solving many of our other problems. I feel this program is an important step in that direction."

Expenses Paid

John's first session, a four-day stint, starts Dec. 6. During this session and all extended stays, he will live on campus. The grant, which amounts to close to $5,000 for each enrollee, pays for housing, books and other expenses pertaining to the courses he will take. His chief expense will be the cost of travel from home to school.

Who takes care of the farm while he's gone? "All of the time away from home, except the last year, will be during the winter months, which will work out pretty well." He explained further that the farm work load is lighter during the winter and that his father and a hired man can handle the work without too much trouble.

"The last year I will be away during the summer on an international trip to Latin America, Europe or Asia as an observer. At that time, I will probably have to hire someone to help."

The longest time away from home, aside from the international trip will be for five days at a stretch. What does his wife Betty think of this?

"It's marvelous. It bothers me, of course, that he'll be away but I think it's well worthwhile. I only wish I could take part in the program. . . especially the international trip."

Dean T. K. Cowden, of MSU's College of Agriculture, commented on the wife's part in the program in a news release announcing the program.

"Wives, too, will have an important part in the study program. A number of sessions are planned to include them during the course of the three-year effort. One of the qualities I've observed in successful farm leaders," he concluded, "is that wives and families must be willing to make some sacrifices. . . one of the prices of real leadership."

Extensive Courses The young farmers will consider a wide range of topics, from political science and economics to sociology and communications and from history to education.

During the first year, the group will hold a week-long travel seminar of Michigan. A two-week tour to study American agriculture will be included in the second year.

Already Leader

Laurie already has a head start on becoming a leader of the agricultural community. He is a director of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau and a director of the Tuscola Dairy Herd Improvement Association. He is also a director of the Tuscola Animal Breeders Association.

He teaches Sunday School and is secretary of the Gagetown Methodist Church's official board. John is a 1958 graduate of Cass City High School and received his degree in agricultural economics from Michigan State University in 1962.

He and his wife, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Morell of Cass City, have lived on the farm since 1962. They have a boy, Douglas, four, and a girl, Dana, two.

Laurie and his father have 120 head of livestock, including 55 dairy cows. Chief cash crops for the pair are beans and wheat.

To Communicate

John summed up the coming program with "Agriculture is governed by a large number of organizations. . . policies are affected by these organizations."

"It is common knowledge that the average farmer isn't as well educated as other businessmen and we have to figure him as a businessman. This is a chance to better acquaint some farmers with the problems they will be facing in the future."

"After we have finished the program we are expected to communicate. . . to make other people in the farm community aware of these problems and to tell them what we've learned. If we fail to do this, we have failed the whole program."

Area Drivers in Unusual Accidents

It was a week for Cass City area drivers to be involved in unusual accidents, according to reports filed by Tuscola County Sheriff Hugh Marr's office which listed eight persons injured in several crashes.

Two Cass City persons suffered minor injuries Tuesday in a case of mistaken identity when a car driven by H. L. Bridges, 44, Cass City, was struck in the rear by a car driven by Norman Williams, 23, of Flint on M-46 at Hurds Corner Road.

Bridges was part of a funeral procession headed for a Kingston area cemetery. A caretaker at a second cemetery, waiting for a procession from Caro, mistook the Bridges caravan for his procession and waved them into the cemetery.

The Bridges procession had been traveling at about 40 miles an hour, according to Sheriff Marr, who investigated, and when Bridges stopped behind the hearse to enter the cemetery, he was struck in the rear by the Williams vehicle.

Bridges' wife, Margaret, 41, and a son, Robert, 14, suffered minor injuries. Bridges and another son, Richard, 11, were uninjured.

Three Injured

In another unusual accident, Robert Woodward, 18, rural Cass City, on his way to another accident involving his sister-in-law, was injured slightly when his car and a car driven by Newell S. Wightman, 54, Pigeon, collided at the intersection of Shabbona and Lampton roads Saturday.

Woodward, who was ticketed for driving without an operator's license, required several stitches in a chin cut. Wightman and his wife, Ruth, 56, suffered severe injuries and were taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment.

Injuries Slight

In the other accident, involving Woodward's sister-in-law, Mrs. Delbert Woodward, 19, Deford, Mrs. Woodward and a sister, Marsha Geister, 13, Decker, suffered cuts and bruises when her car turned over on M-31, a half mile east of Cemetery Road.

Mrs. Woodward told investigating officers that she had looked down to unbuckle her baby's coat and had run off the road. The car came back across the road, went off the road and rolled over, landing upright in a ditch.

Mrs. Woodward's two children, Teresa, nine months, and Brian, two and a half, miraculously escaped with no injuries.

John W. Bifoss Sr. of rural Cass City escaped injury Friday, Nov. 12, when his pickup van slipped off the road on Crane Road, 100 yards south of M-31, and tipped over. Bifoss reported that he had pulled over to let a school bus pass and his right front wheel dropped over the bank, causing the truck to tip over.

Robert E. Cook, 18, Cass City, suffered severe injuries Thursday night, Nov. 11, when the car in which he was riding went out to control and struck a tree on a curve on Kelly Road, a quarter-mile west of Lampton Road.

Driver of the car was William J. Knowlton, 20, Kingston.

Deer Accidents

A car driven by Agnes H. Meininger, 24, Gagetown, was damaged on the front Thursday, Nov. 11, when it struck a deer on M-81. Mrs. Meininger escaped injury.

Ellis Karr of Cass City received damages to his car Friday when he hit an eight-point buck. Damages were estimated at about $400. The Conservation Department gave approval to Mr. Karr to keep the deer.

Mrs. Lucille Sommers, 58, Cass City, received possible neck, right shoulder and right arm injuries Tuesday evening when her car and a second car, driven by Raymond LeGault, 42, Harbor Beach, collided at the intersection of Cedar Run Road and M-81.

LeGault, traveling east on M-81, told Bad Axe State Police that he saw the Sommers vehicle approach the intersection and appear to stop. The car then pulled out in front of him, he stated.

The State Police have been unable as of press time to talk to Mrs. Sommers but will do so to obtain her version. Mrs. Sommers was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital. LeGault was uninjured.

Police Check Leads In New Car Theft

Cass City police are checking out several leads in an attempt to apprehend the person or persons who stole a 1966 automobile from the General Cable Corp. parking lot sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Paul Richmond of Cass City reported the car stolen early Saturday. It was found abandoned in a field two and a half miles north of Cass City. The car had apparently just been taken for a joy ride and was undamaged.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer reported that the theft was the third in as many week ends. All three cars were recovered.

Chamber to Give Cash for Best Yule Displays

In an effort to bring back some of the Christmas pageantry that Cass City was once famous for, Cass City Chamber of Commerce board members have decided to hold a residential Christmas display contest, complete with cash prizes.

Prizes will include $25.00 for first place, $15 for second place and $10 for third place, according to Chamber President James Ware.

Out of town judges will judge the displays the week before Christmas. The contest was set up at the board's meeting Tuesday night, Nov. 9, at Konrad's Bakery. Village parking problems, heightened by the state's demand that Cass City shift to horizontal parking, were discussed and the board agreed that a Chamber-wide meeting should be held sometime after the first of the year.

Ware reported that the meeting will consider the possibility of parking meters and parking lots.

Debaters Take 3 At Caro Meet

Cass City's Red Hawk debate squad took three out of four places Monday night in a local debate schedule session at Caro.

The squad's negative team won over Frankmuth and Owen-Gage and the affirmative squad beat Harbor Beach. The affirmative team lost one round to Akron-Fairgrove.

Monday's showing gave the team a 3-5 record on the local schedule. The first state schedule meet with Akron-Fairgrove on Monday, Nov. 8, went to Akron-Fairgrove.

Debate Coach Ed Doerr reports no dissatisfaction with the squad's showing so far. "This isn't too bad, considering most of the squad is Concluded on page six."

Charles Bugbee New Church of Nazarene Pastor

The Rev. Charles L. Bugbee is the new pastor at the Gagetown Church of the Nazarene. He succeeds the Rev. Gary Abke who now serves a church in Nebraska. The former pastor served in Gagetown for about a year.

Mr. Bugbee has been active in church work since he was nine. In his middle teens he was in much demand as a youth evangelist and supply preacher for pastors ill or vacationing.

When 24 years old he began mission work on Flint's east side. He worked there until he joined the West Flint Church of the Nazarene in June of this year.

The new preacher was called by the Gagetown congregation and preached his first sermon as resident pastor Oct. 31.

He was issued a call after the congregation heard him speak as a guest pastor at an earlier service.

The pastor and his wife have three children.

Corn silage actually increases in feeding value as the corn plant matures and increases in dry matter. As the dry matter content increases from 20 to 30 per cent, the proportion of ear corn in the silage increases from 27 to over 50 per cent. And, say Michigan State University scientists, the more grain you have in silage, the higher will be the energy value of that silage.

Call Three Vetoes Power Play By State's Chief Executive

Fighting Words

Three vetoes made public by Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken while Gov. George Romney was on his Tokyo-Viet Nam tour in October appear as a kind of power play by the chief executive.

Previous vetoes from Romney indicate he has gained political skill during his years in the governor's chair. He used the veto power consistently to kill several strictly Democratic Party measures and he was effective a couple times in just using it as a threat to get changes in measures before they reached him.

The three which provoked majority Democrats to attempt an override in December were the last of several in which he used the veto to display his disgust with the lack of fiscal reform action.

In question on these three measures were funds to help senior citizens who rent homes, disabled veterans, and seven state colleges. An estimated $10 million a year was involved in the first two bills, while the third was a one-shot reimbursement of $1.2 million promised to schools which enrolled more students than expected.

Democratic legislative leaders gave Romney the run-around most of the summer on whether they might agree to even give a full hearing to any proposed fiscal reform program, his or one they might put together.

Many veteran observers in both political camps predicted from the start that the majority chiefs were just being polite to listen to the governor's pleas at all. The leadership didn't want to get involved in such a basic issue this year, they said.

Michigan's surplus funds which will still provide a cushion in the next fiscal year will again discourage any change in the tax pattern which might cost votes at the polls next fall.

The vetoes put the spotlight on Milliken, the state GOP's rising star. Romney made it clear he was in agreement with all action to be announced during his absence.

The three vetoes were his own language, used often. Although the surplus was now $136 million, this would be gone within two years and to spend more without adding revenue would be "unconscionable."

Many said the political dangers of the first two vetoes were great. In the end, however, Romney likely will wind up looking like the great protector of public funds even to the renting senior citizens and disabled veterans who will get no change in tax status.

Know Medicare

An important message is going out to Michigan's senior citizens which apparently cannot be repeated and emphasized strongly enough.

This is the word from both federal and state authorities to keep present hospital or medical insurance plans in effect for the time being.

State Insurance Commissioner Allen Mayerson reminds persons over 65 that the Federal Medicare program enacted this year to dovetail with the Social Security plan will not be effective until next July 1.

Even closer to the July effective date, personal study is encouraged of the new federal plan versus present individual or group insurance programs.

Some doctors and any insurance man whose firm sells hospital-medical policies are very willing to advise whether the Medicare plan is likely to meet an individual's potential needs.

Brochures available from many federal government agencies detail exactly what is and what is not covered under the new program. Some kind of professional advice as to individual needs is strongly advised.

In several cases senior citizens have been advised to seriously weigh the higher cost of private insurance against the relative benefits of the two plans.

Who's Biggest?

Size and scope of Michigan's government agencies frequently are a big surprise to the average citizen.

Perhaps one of the best examples is Michigan's largest department in terms of employment. The State Mental Health Department last year employed about 11,000 people.

Operating with one director and six assistants for various divisions, the department is concerned with services for the mentally retarded, mentally ill, community facilities, planning and research, and of course, its own internal administration.

The picture of this department is still not quite in focus until you see the numbers and kinds of services provided in the state by its units.

As of a fall rundown, the department's jurisdiction covered 33 separate agencies. Child guidance clinics numbering 21 was the largest group.

State hospitals, 17 in all, were next. These provide services for the mentally ill, criminal insane, mentally retarded and epileptic.

The full range of mental and psychiatric problems are attempted to be served in the various other branch clinics, adult clinics, all-purpose clinics, aftercare consultation centers, and day care centers for the retarded or emotionally disturbed.

Sewer Trouble Closes Gagetown Elementary School

Gagetown Elementary School's 151 students received an unscheduled vacation Monday when sewer trouble forced closing of the school for a half-day, according to Charles Ellis, Owen-Gage principal.

School was dismissed at 12:45 Monday and resumed at its regular time Tuesday.

The question this year deals with compulsory arbitration as opposed to the status quo or collective bargaining.

Members of the varsity team are Mary Lou Spencer and Eric Essau, affirmative, and Tim Knight and Bill Spencer, negative.

Junior varsity squads split their sessions 2-2 Monday night, with the negative team winning over Sandusky and Akron-Fairgrove. The affirmative squad lost to Frankenthum and Reese.

Members of the J.V. teams include: Ellen Morgan, Tom Kolb, Gary Chambers, Richard Ross and Mary Ayres. Pam Dobbs is time keeper.

Next on the local schedule will be a meet with Frankenthum, there, on Monday, Nov. 29. A state schedule meet will be held tonight (Thursday) at Akron-Fairgrove.

LIONS CLUB

ber, Grant Glaspie, was unable to attend. James Williams, transfer member, was also welcomed to the club.

Before installing the new members, St. Onge outlined the club's activities over the past year to give an idea of the work involved in belonging to the organization. He also stressed the importance of upholding the name of Lionism.

Treasurer Ron Keegan reported that following the payment of the last bills, the net profit of the recent broom sale was $503.60. The funds will be used for various community and state projects.

A date for the club's annual Christmas Ladies Night will be selected at a board of directors' meeting tonight (Thursday) at the home of Dave Kraft at 8:00 p.m. The last meeting of December will be dispensed with.

A $25.00 donation to the Michigan Eye Collection Center was approved. The center obtains eye material for cornea transplants and other sight saving operations. The contribution, made in conjunction with the club's sight conservation program, is the first made by the local club to the center.

In Reply to Your Letter...

By Dave Kraft

Mr. and Mrs. John Sommers St. Francis Farm Cass City, Michigan.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Sommers, I am writing in regard to your letter of Nov. 5, in which you criticize this column and its writer for making fun at the expense of a serious movement, namely the burning of draft cards as an expression of disapproval of the United States' involvement in the Viet Nam situation.

First, let me say that I commend you for your obvious defense of free expression and I'm sure that you are sincere in your attitude regarding the motives behind Mr. Miller's actions.

I don't intend to argue the right or wrong of our involvement in Viet Nam. I must, however, make my position clear. "Patriotism" is an important word to me, not to be followed by a snicker and an embarrassed glance. It is a word that stirs my emotions. Therefore, when my country asks my support, I give it, physically or verbally.

Next, if you'll excuse my idealism, I place dying for my country just behind dying in the protection of my family.

That's why I make fun of Mr. Miller and his smoldering draft card. Because by his action, he has mocked some of the most important precepts of my convictions.

Mr. Miller, I believe, is a hallmark of a segment of our generation whose philosophy is to defy authority and oppose generally accepted concepts because this is the best way to draw attention to yourself.

I don't think Mr. Miller burned his draft card to show his disapproval of forced armed service or our involvement in Viet Nam. He burned it because he was told not to burn it. If the government had issued a regulation that it is illegal to "spindle, bend, burn or otherwise mutilate" your underwear, Mr. Miller would probably have climbed to the stage with his Jockey shorts in his hand.

I also believe that if someone had burned his draft card the day ahead of Mr. Miller's exhibition, Mr. Miller would have gone back to his expresso house to dream up a more attention-getting shenanigan.

You concluded your letter by remarking that "It seems that more of us should be willing to sacrifice something of ourselves for the rights of men or at least to have an informed opinion on the subject."

I imagine there are several thousand American soldiers in Viet Nam who were not drafted. True, they probably didn't pick their spot, but it was a chance they knew existed when they joined the service. I can't testify to their motives for joining, but that they did join in a time of crisis is in their favor.

Mr. Miller sacrificed nothing but his draft card. If he is imprisoned, he sacrifices nothing but some time. He sacrificed his good name by the childishness of his act, but even that sacrifice is minute because the notoriety he sought and achieved is forgotten and his act, like his name, is little remembered.

A child dies in Viet Nam at the hands of Viet Cong terrorists. Brutally. Senselessly. What greater sacrifice can any man give than his life so that child can even hear of, much less comprehend, the rights of man?

What man wouldn't commit the "murder" of war to keep that innocent from suffering?

Mr. Miller wouldn't. Mr. Miller would rather burn his draft card.

As long as I'm answering letters to the editor, I might as well comment on Dick Wallace's Gavel Club challenge to the Rotary and the Lions.

Dick stated that the only real method of picking a winner of the First Annual Charity Bowl is for the victor of Thursday's Rotary-Lions game or a team of all-stars from both clubs to take on the Gavel Club.

I discussed this with Pat Martin of Martin's Restaurant the other day and Pat and I agree that if we are going to expend our energies, we're going to make it worthwhile.

So, on behalf of the Cass City Lions, the Rotary Club and the Gavel Club, if they so desire, I hereby challenge the American Association of University Women to a game of touch football.

And we don't even care if we lose.

I must compliment the Cass City Board of Education on its policy change on the spanking of students. Last week they approved a change which permits spanking only with the approval of the administration.

Previously, spanking was not allowed under any circumstances. This new regulation, however, has caused some comment.

A doting mother phoned in answer to a complaint that her son needed discipline. "Please don't slap my son Clyde. He's very sensitive. Hit the boy next to him. That will scare Clyde."

Talk about conveniences and customer satisfaction, I understand Brooks Fleming, maitre de at the New Gordon Hotel, has announced that he is installing a small addition to the hotel which will consist of a room with chairs and the latest in reading material.

As soon as a diner finishes eating, he can go into the room, pick a plush chair and a good book and relax. It'll be sort of a "reader's digest" room.

Well, enough of this nonsense. I have to hurry and leave now. I just heard that the price of sugar went up and every time it does, Brooks puts water in the sugar bowl so it doesn't pour so good.

Decker OES Meets

The Decker OES Chapter No. 438 held their regular meeting Nov. 2 with 35 present. Worthy Matron Mrs. Lola Chippie conducted the business meeting and was assisted by Worthy Patron Harold Mittlestat.

Mrs. Blythe Park, Grand Associate Matron of the Grand Chapter, will conduct a school of instruction at the Decker Masonic Hall Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. for Deckerville and Kingston Chapters. Star point officers are to serve the lunch.

A Christmas party will follow the December meeting with a gift exchange.

Lunch was served in the dining room by Frances Krause, Violet Phetteplace and Mrs. Chippie.

People never seem to learn money won't buy everything.

Name Winners of Muscular Dystrophy Bowling Contest

Six Cass City keglers won trophies in the annual Muscular Dystrophy bowling contest which ended Nov. 7, according to Cass Lanes owner Ray Schweikart.

Tops in the women's division were Marge Bridges, first with 649; Phyllis Little, second with 625, and Mayme Guild, third with 623.

First in the men's division was Bruce Thompson with 665. Ed Lebiada was second with 653 and A. D. Frederick was third with 643. The above scores are with handicaps.

Schweikart reported that 203 area bowlers participated in the week-long contest which is sponsored by the Saginaw Fire Fighters Association No. 422.

Medical Mirror

SEPTICEMIA

Q. What causes septicemia?

A. Septicemia is another term for "blood poisoning." Usually when an infection occurs the body acts to wall off the infected area. At the same time the white blood cells actively attack the germs which cause the infection. Septicemia means that the germs have broken through the protective body defenses and have reached the bloodstream.

SWIMMING AND BODY CONDITIONING

Q. Does swimming soften the muscles and thus interfere with conditioning for nonwater sports?

A. No. A well-rounded training program for any sport gives attention to the development of strength, endurance, and agility. To this end, there is widespread acceptance by coaches and trainers that swimming supports other methods of conditioning.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
I see by the papers where U. S. Senator Robertson of Virginia is working on a new plan for training the unemployed that is unemployed. He has come up with some official figgers on them job-training projects in his state. He says in one town in Virginia they was training 35 disemployed kitchen helpers at a cost of $33,601. And in a town named Crewe near Richmond they was operating three projects. They was training 60 disemployed folk to be nurses aides at a cost of $78,390. And in the same town 18 disemployed was learning to lay brick at a cost of $70,578. The third project at Crewe was the training of 20 men that was out of work to be mechanics at a cost of $106,847.

They also got a fourth project going in his state where they was training 18 disemployed to git to be plumbers helpers at a cost of $98,946. Senator Robertson says these figgers is official and was the cost of teaching plus the allowances they give to the folks gitting trained.

Senator Robertson allows as how he loves the state of Virginia and everybody in it, and he was mighty glad to learn a total of 152 of his good constituents was gitting these benefits from the Great Society. But he has brung up one point for consideration. When it costs a total of $338,365 to train 152 people, how come it wouldn't be cheaper for the taxpayers to send all our disemployed to Harvard?

I don't know nothing, Mister Editor, about Harvard, and it could be the costs for going to school there runs pritty high. But you might look into this matter and if it comes out cheaper that way, write to your Congressman and indorse this new "Harvard Plan" by Senator Robertson.

Actual, if things at Harvard was a little out of line in prices, they was two ways to handle it. Lyndon could threaten to cut off their Federal aid and if that didn't work we could send 'em to some other college and call it the "Michigan Plan" or whatever state give us the best deal.

Personal, I would be in favor of shopping around a little afore we made a final decision in this matter. Farthermore, I have took note in the last 20 year that Harvard ain't been doing too good in football and that could be a bad "image" for our disemployed graduates.

I ain't never been a feller to stand in the way of progress. I can recollect onct my Pa said a vote agin a public bond issue was a vote agin progress, and fer that reason I ain't voted agin one, even if I did have to hold my nose to vote for a few of them. But I can't figger out where and how this money spending was going to end up. If you know, Mister Editor, phone me collect.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

IT SEEMS TO ME Are Pupils Stealing their Way Through College?

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

According to Time magazine: Five years ago a Norwegian statistician set a computer to work counting history's wars. The machine quickly, competently and a bit contemptuously announced that in 5,590 years of recorded human history there have been 14,531 wars, or . . . 2.6135 a year . . . Life magazine recently featured a "Back to College" issue. One feature story bore the title, "Stealing Their Way Through College." The college book store, the neighborhood supermarket, drugstores, and many others know that students steal and that they steal persistently and in large numbers. . . . One of this nation's major problems is to prove to older folks their worth to the rest of us. One of the pleasing aspects of this has been the opening of many foster homes for those in this age level. According to literature sent to me by the Rev. Melvin Vender, groups interested in providing foster homes for these persons can write for further information to: Herman M. Melitzer, Office for the Aging, Department of Public Welfare, Harrisburg, Pa., or to: Mrs. Robert Shoemaker, Adult Foster Home Program, 900 E. King St., Lancaster, Pa.

Did you see a picture of Mr. John Safran in the papers just before the September elections in Detroit? Mr. Safran was a candidate for Wayne County Circuit Judge. He attended seminary with me, and was granted a B.D. degree from Garrett Seminary. He was pastor of the Cass City Methodist Church for several years. In 1958 he returned to law, and in 1961 withdrew from the Methodist ministry at his own request.

This is the period that we examine the new television offerings for the new year. It's up to the viewer just what kind of shows enter his home each day. We are told that TV executives pay much attention to viewer's letters. At its peak of popularity, (when it reached 47 million viewers) Gunsmoke averaged only 25 letters a program — about .0000531 percent of the viewing audience. A few years ago, another program was put off the air for several weeks because of "public indignation." This turned out to be 300 letters. Your letters should go to (1) the network, (2) the local station, (3) the sponsor, (4) the local owner, (5) the Federal Communications Commission. Our complaints are more effective when good programming is praised, too. Or, So It Seems to Me.

Have You Heard This One? A factory manager's assistant, a bright young fellow, was selected by "the boys" to buy a wedding present for the boss. So the assistant visited all the 2,000 employees, collecting a quarter from each. With the $500 he bought 2,000 packs of cigarettes, the kind with a gift coupon with each pack. He traded in the coupons for a silver coffee service and gave that to the boss as a wedding gift. Then he gave each employee a pack of cigarettes.

When the firm's president heard about these goings on, he was so intrigued by the young man's ingenuity that he ordered him to report at once. "I can use a young man like that in management," he explained. But he had to wait two weeks before the interview took place. With the 5,000 trading stamps the ingenious one had collected when he bought the cigarettes, he got himself a complete fishing outfit and left on a vacation.

THIS 'NTHAT!
A practicing psychiatrist reported that ministers are better counselors than their earlier counterparts . . . gold and silver coins totalling $43.44 were found in the cornerstone when the 77-year-old Philadelphia Methodist Hospital was razed recently. The old coins have been sold for $3,500, which has been added to the building fund for a new hospital. . . . The Rev. Jack Smith recently baptized a baby with probably the longest name in Christendom: Patriciajane Neipuninankalahikivlakalani.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

November 3, 1965
A special meeting of the Village Council of the Village of Cass City was held on Tuesday, November 2, 1965, at 7:00 p.m. in the Municipal Bldg.

All trustees were present except Trustee Seals and Trustee Freiburger.

School Superintendent Crouse and School Board Pres. Bulen presented the utility requirements for the new high school and considerable discussion followed on questions of storm sewer, sanitary sewer, water and sidewalks and the possibilities of annexation. While nothing was resolved the council was made aware of the school's needs and the school board representatives were invited to be in attendance at the next regular council meeting to discuss them further with the village's consulting engineers.

It was moved by Dr. Rawson and seconded by Trustee McCullough that a resolution be adopted placing before the electors of the Village the proposition that the Village borrow $52,000 to be repaid by the issuance of G.O. bonds to purchase and remodel the H. O. Paul Bldg. for fire hall, library and other municipal use. Yea-4. Nay-0. Motion carried.

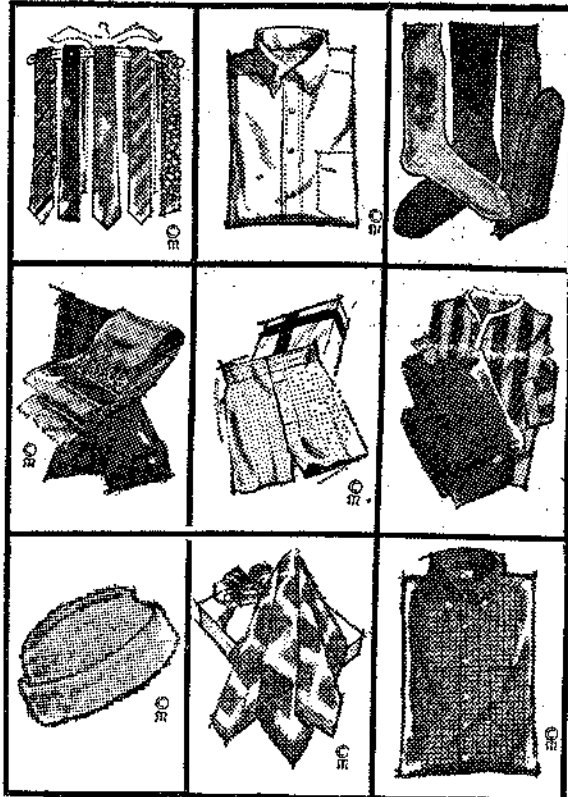

It was the consensus of opinion of the members of the council present that an increase of one (1) mill in the tax rate levied by the village would be necessary starting in the next fiscal year to cover the retirement of the above mentioned bond issue. It was stated during the discussion that the need for the fire hall-library facility was very great both in the fire hall and library areas and that the location under consideration was an ideal one being very near the center of the village. It was further indicated that the cost of the proposed building would be considerably less than that for building a new facility of similar size.

It was moved by Trustee Auten and seconded by Trustee Rawson that the bid of the Oak Ridge Water Tank Service in the amount of $3,795.00 for the removal of the old water tower be accepted subject to all the requirements of the specifications except for the bid bond or certified check. Yea-4. Nay-0. Carried.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee McCullough and seconded by Trustee Auten that the meeting be adjourned.

L. E. Althaver,
Village President

Today's family consists of a father, mother, 2 1/2 children and a host of electrical servants.

The recent blackout affecting one-fifth of the families in the United States has raised all kinds of questions in our minds. How well is your family equipped to face an emergency? How about our community?

We depend on our electrical servants to do a lot of our work for us. They should be considered luxuries, not necessities.

Heat was the first question in my mind. Our fuel oil furnace has an electric pilot. The oven is electric, as is the drier, and the space heater.

One friend had this one solved. "I'd just crawl under the blanket and stay in bed." "Blanket?" I asked. "Yes, our elec - tric - blanket," she finished.

Only the more luxurious homes have fireplaces today and only the poor homes hand stoked coal or wood stoves.

How many families could manage without refrigeration, cooking facilities, water in the tap (it's pumped to the tank, you know) TV, lights.

The fall-out shelter is met with a laugh and the comment "I'd rather be dead than live in a world like that." The sad part is they mean it. They haven't the emotional strength and ingenuity to live in a world without electric servants.

The fall-out shelter is a poor name for this convenience in my estimation. Emergency center is better. A place to get food when Cousin Harry and his 12 kids drop in - "Surprise." Necessities if the electricity goes off. With a little planning, a den for Dad to escape for some peace and quiet. Or Mother.

Why set aside a room for only fall-out? It can be made a comfortable room with emergency supplies for escape from the disaster of a bomb, or the equally shattering meeting of Mothers Club.

It doesn't need luxury. An absence of electrical servants can be a relief. A camp lantern provides enough light for close work. Candle-light can be soothing for meditation.

Electricity, like fire, is an excellent servant but a poor master.

Most live wires would be dead without good connections.

You can count on it—men without enemies have no friends.

Down Memory Lane
