

Survey Indicates Close Election for Fire Hall Bond Issue

If Cass City were voting today on whether or not to accept the village's proposal for a new fire hall and library, the chances are that it would pass in a close vote.

This is the conclusion from a random sampling of 20 persons who live within the village limits Tuesday.

The persons were asked the following question: If the vote for the proposed new fire hall and library were held today, how would you vote?

The results were:

In favor	7
Against	3
Undecided	10

At first glance it would seem that the measure would carry by a substantial majority. However, as calls were made it became apparent that persons in favor of the $52,000 bond issue were never hesitant about voicing opinions.

Those who were against the issue were nearly always wary about saying so until assured that their opinion would be kept in confidence and they would not be quoted.

For this reason, it is a safe assumption that a good many of the undecided will be "no" votes when election day comes. The big question is how many?

Another factor that could substantially change the results of the poll is that the Chronicle made no attempt to ascertain if the person asked was eligible to vote. Only property owners can vote Dec. 20.

One lady volunteered that she would be ineligible to vote, but favored the bond proposal. Her vote was counted in the seven "yes" votes. There may have been others.

The Reasons

The reasons for voting for or against the issue were many and varied.

From Oak street a responder said, "I have serious reservations about this building . . . spending that money for an architect was wasted. We could have had people in town do the same job. I just don't know how I'll vote Dec. 20."

"I think the firemen do a beautiful job and they need a place and so does the library. I'm hardly in favor of passing the tax levy."

From a man on Houghton street . . . "Well, we're going to have to have something and I guess this is pretty reasonable . . . I'm for it."

"I just got my taxes and I'm pretty sore about it . . . no, I won't vote another penny in taxes."

One of the objections heard frequently by persons who were undecided or against the issue seemed to be the thought expressed by a home owner on Main Street. This was repeated several times with variations.

"We can build what we want cheaper and have a better building. It will cost more than planned . . . you just wait and see."

Meeting Planned

Many of the persons said they were undecided because they just didn't know enough about the issue. I have never been in the building, one said. I'm just starting to consider the whole matter, another reported.

All of these people could learn the complete details of the proposed plan for a fire hall and library by attending a special meeting Tuesday, Dec. 14, at the Cultural Center.

At this time representatives of the council will be present to explain the plans and answer any questions of interested residents.

Accidents Injure Several Drivers

Three Cass City persons and two area residents were injured in four of six automobile accidents in the Cass City vicinity during the past week.

A Cass City couple were hospitalized Sunday in Marlette with severe injuries suffered when their car skidded into the path of a second car on M-53, north of Marlette.

Beatrice M. Groth, 39, Cass City, the driver of one car, suffered head and face cuts and her passenger, Glenn E. Groth, 53, suffered a broken left arm and right hand and head cuts, according to Sandusky State Police.

Joseph R. Watson, 19, Marlette, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Police reported that the Groth car skidded on slippery pavement into the path of the Watson car. The accident is still under investigation, police reported Wednesday morning.

In another accident Sunday, Helen Koepf, 17, of Cass City suffered cuts and bruises when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a car driven by a Deckerville man at the intersection of M-81 and Dodge Road, three miles east of Cass City.

Also injured with cuts and bruises was Mrs. Violet Mosher, 46, an occupant of the second car. The injured were treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City.

The accident reportedly occurred when the Koepf car, driven by Clemens R. Koepf, 16, Cass City, attempted to make a left turn and collided with a car driven by Dewey Parrott, 64.

Riding with Koepf were Miss Koepf, Floyd Spencer, 17, Deford, and Larry Rutkowski, 16, Cass City. In the Parrott car were the driver's wife, Mrs. Alma Parrott, 63, and Mrs. Mosher's husband, Walter, 48.

Bad Axe State Police charged

Koepf with defective brakes and making an improper left turn.

Marie E. Vanderpool, 44, Kingston suffered minor injuries Friday morning, Dec. 3, when her car struck a bridge abutment on Dodge Road, a quarter-mile north of Deckerville Road, as she attempted to make room for an oncoming car. Mrs. Vanderpool pulled to the side of the road and accidentally stepped on the gas instead of the brake. She lost control.

To Demonstrate New Fire Truck

Fire Chief Nelson Willy has announced that a new fire truck being considered by the Cass City-Elkland township department will be put through its paces in the vicinity of the swimming pool.

The truck, made by the Bean Fire Truck Company of Lansing, will be put through its paces in the vicinity of the swimming pool.

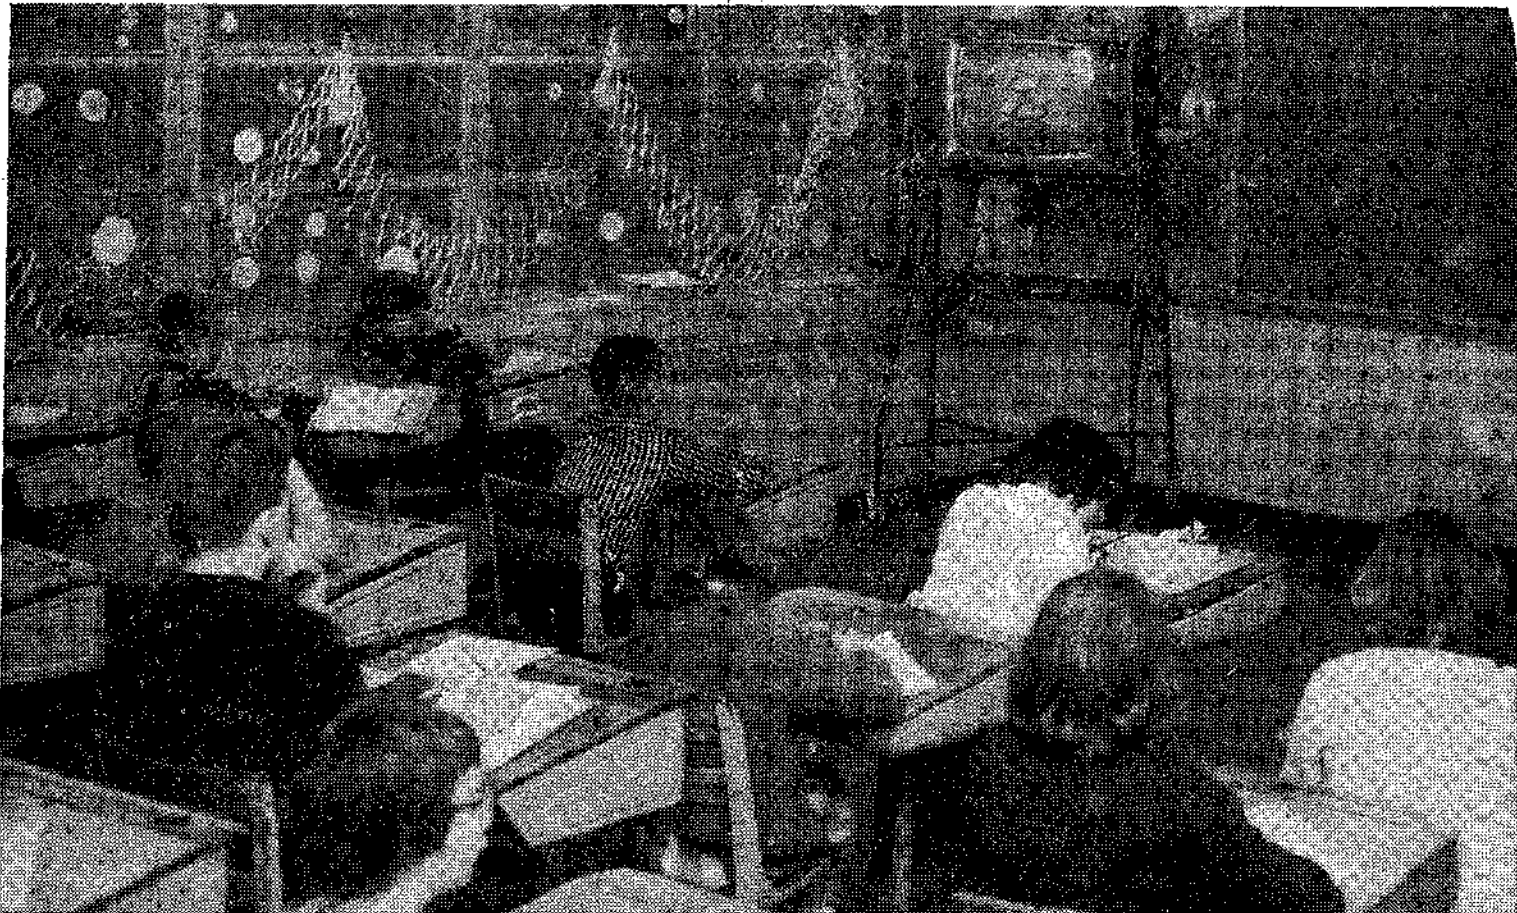

The combination of a hot electrical wire and snow caused considerable steam but no damage in a fire call received by the department Tuesday morning.

Willy reported the wire was down at a spot three miles west, five south and two and a half west of Cass City.

A plugged chimney caused considerable smoke, but little damage when a furnace was lit Friday morning at the former McArthur IGA store on Main Street.

The fire had been lighted to heat the unoccupied building for a bazaar.

The call was indirectly responsible for a minor automobile accident caused when the fire truck rolled ahead, after stopping in front of the store, and struck a parked car. Damage was slight.

Set Frutchey Loss at $161,833

Insurance adjusters have set the damage of the Frutchey Bean elevator fire, early in October, at $161,833. Fire Chief Nelson Willy reported early this week.

Willy stated that he had received notification of the amount of the damage from Toplis and Harding, Inc., an adjusting and surveying firm assigned to the fire.

Just what caused the inferno which completely destroyed the 65-year-old wooden and sheet metal elevator was not determined. Willy reported. Lost in the blaze were large quantities of loose and bagged stored grain and equipment.

But Station to Abandon Program

Educational TV Challenges Teachers, Pupils at Deford

The fifth and sixth grades at Deford were electronically whisked to ancient Greece Friday where they climbed Acropolis and visited the Parthenon; attended the Olympics; talked about Plato, and heard about the plays of Euripides. It's an every day occurrence for them.

The students were learning through educational television as part of an experimental study that includes all grades, one through eight, at the Deford School.

Presented is a variety of subjects including the basics, art and music. During the full history lesson observed by this reporter, it appeared that the big tube was successful in capturing the attention of the pupils. . . especially during the action scenes as contrasted with the discussion type learning. Even so, this might be the last year for educational TV in the Cass City district because of station difficulties.

The subject matter wasn't easy. Was it a little advanced for fifth and sixth grade pupils? Under the careful guidance of Mrs. Margaret Brown, the students showed they had assimilated a good deal of rapidly presented information.

Acropolis is a hill, Kip Hopper reported in answer to the teacher's query. Plato is a cultural writer, Sue Nichol said, while Pam Kilbourn led the class in finding a definition for philosophy in one of the school dictionaries.

Despite some of its obvious merits, the question facing the Deford teachers and ultimately the entire Cass City School District is: Is educational television worth what it costs?

There has been no formal evaluation of the program, but teachers already have noted some of the big tube's strengths and flaws. Its big advantage, in the opinion of Principal Robert Stickle and Mrs. Brown, is that it broadens the scope for the children because of the teaching aids available.

Science comes from the most modern laboratories and extensive field trips; art views the old masters, and history comes alive.

On the other hand, Stickle believes, teaching is harder for the TV professor. He has to extend his personality to the class without knowing the students' reaction to what he is saying.

And there is a big difference in the teaching quality. In one course under Stickle's direction, he feels that the professor is so poor that they are considering discarding this section of the TV instruction.

Even if the local program gets TV work is also a challenge for the classroom teacher, Stickle feels. It stimulates the children and the teacher must work harder to keep abreast.

Because the program is in the Cass City School District on an experimental basis, the cost to the district is only about $1.00 per pupil at Deford or about $240 for the year.

Mystery Odor Plagues Area

A strong, hard-to-identify odor is plaguing residents of Pine street, between West and Brooker, and Wednesday morning officials from four agencies had been unsuccessful in tracking down its cause.

According to the State Fire Marshall, the odor is not caused by an explosive gas. Tests conducted have shown a very low rate of combustibility.

The State Health Department has investigated and placed the matter in the hands of its engineers.

Haley Hailed for Service after Quitting Board

Vassar City Clerk J. Arthur Haley was issued a resolution of commendation Tuesday by Tuscola County supervisors following his announcement that he resigned his duties as clerk-treasurer and therefore as supervisor for the City of Vassar.

Haley had held the post for over 10 years. His letter of resignation stated he had accepted a higher salaried post with a Vassar firm.

City Manager Wesley Mathews reported to the board that no replacement had been named yet.

Bulen Motors of Cass City was low bidder on the sale of three cars to the Tuscola County Sheriff's department. Bulen's bid was $3,949. Other bids included Wilsie-Kelly of Caro, $4,150, and Burton-Moore of Caro, $4,179.

Burton-Moore, with a bid of $1,752, was low bidder on a three-quarter ton truck to be used by the dog warden. Other bidders were Rabideau Motors of Cass City, Bulen, Wilsie-Kelly and Elber Ford of Reese.

Mrs. Irene Schwaderer, Kingston, was hired as assistant county health nurse to aid Mrs. Lucy Miller, county health nurse. Salary was set at $4,800 with increases each six months until the maximum of $5,200 is reached.

A plan for retirement benefits, made to the board by Caro insurance man, Max Lawrence, was referred to the Wages and Salaries Committee.

The board also heard a report on an equalization office for taxing purposes, which under state law must be set up by January, 1967. No action was taken.

The board will next convene on Monday, Jan. 10.

Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. was to have made its third visit to the area Wednesday. This time officials were planning to dig up the alley in the affected area to double check for any gas leaks.

Already Kenneth Cumper had been authorized to dig several test holes 12 to 14 feet deep and each of these tests has proved negative in supplying a clue to the origin of the smell.

Meanwhile, the odor continues as strong as ever. In some of the homes it has become so bad that residents have been forced from their homes. Others have managed to stay only by opening their homes to the outside air during the chill of winter.

One Theory

One theory advanced by investigators is that there has been a leak in the sanitary sewer for a long period of time.

With the recent rains the water table has risen enough so that the odor has been released from the ground and wafted into the affected homes.

Although the odor is strong, no one has been able to tell just what it smells like, although scores of persons can attest that the unpleasant odor is present. One resident became nauseated while trying to determine just what the smell was. . . but still was unable to describe it after he recovered.

Support Dispute Erupts in Fight Outside Court

A fist-fight erupted in the crowded halls outside Circuit Court Chambers Tuesday between the husband and former husband of a Clio woman in an argument over support payments for the woman's three children.

Evert R. Scruggs, according to witnesses, suffered a cut on his forehead and a bloody nose in an exchange of blows with his former wife's husband, a man identified only as Luder.

C. H. Hamilton, friend of the court, and Bailiff Ernest Kidder separated the pair, but not before Scruggs was injured.

The fight started after Circuit Court Judge James Churchill ordered Scruggs to pay $5.00 support a week for each of his three children or a total of $15.00 a week.

Luder reportedly took exception to the support sum because he was paying the same amount for support for a child of his by a previous marriage. He confronted Scruggs in the packed halls outside the chambers after the court session and the fight ensued.

Scruggs' payments will increase in six months to $8.00 per child. He was given the low support payments, according to officials, because he had just been released from Jackson Prison where he had served five years on an armed robbery charge.

MTU-Soo Seeks Cass City Students

Blair Coutant, administrative assistant at Michigan Technological University, Sault Branch, will be visiting at high schools in Bay City and in Tuscola county Thursday. He will be meeting with guidance counselors and principals to pass on information about MTU-Soo for prospective students. This university is rapidly becoming known throughout the state for its academic excellence and its promising growth and development program.

Coutant will be visiting at Bay City Handy High, Vassar High and Cass City High schools.

A FREE TELEVISION set for the kitchen was won by Mr. and Mrs. Kazimierz Andrysiak in the first free drawing

Winners Enjoy Free TV

The only other thing I ever won was some sausage from Eria Food Market, Mrs. Kazimierz Andrysiak said Monday as she looked at the new portable television won in the first drawing sponsored by the Retail Division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

The Andrysiaks live in a spick and span retirement home on the River Road, a mile south and a mile west of Cass City, and are using the new TV as a second set in their kitchen.

The couple moved to Cass City from Detroit 11 years ago when

Mr. Andrysiak retired after 32 years at the Dodge plant in the Motor City.

Although the couple has been well satisfied with their home here, they are trying to move. "We have two children that live in the Detroit area and we would like to get a little closer to them if we can sell our house," they explained.

Other Winners

Besides the portable TV, $25 savings bonds were given away to Phil Brack and Millie Monk, both of Cass City. For these prizes, it was not necessary to be present. For the third and final bond, the winner had to be at the drawing to collect his prize, Chamber members explained.

Since the winner was not present, the money will be added to the third bond given Saturday, increasing it from $25 to $50.

The drawing will coincide with the ending of the free show and start at about 4:30 p.m. Merchants should deliver tickets to the theatre before the drawing, authorities said.

Given in marriage by her brother

David, the bride chose a floor-length taffeta gown with scoop neckline, wrist-point sleeves, fitted bodice, soft pleats, lace appliques and seed pearl trim. Lace appliques adorned the Watton panel back of the gown. A matching lace and pearl crown held her bouffant veil and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, white roses with white velvet leaves.

Miss Linda Woods of Sebawaing, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Veronica Rutkowski of Detroit and Marlene Brady of Cass City.

The bridal attendants were identically gowned in frocks with Burgundy velvet bodices and pink crepe floor-length skirts. Matching petal headpieces with butterfly veils completed their ensembles. They carried pink pompon mums with Burgundy velvet leaves.

Wendy Haag of Sebawaing was flower girl. She is a niece of the bride. The ring bearer was David Whittaker of Cass City, a nephew of the groom.

Best man for his brother was William Merchant of Cass City and groomsmen were Ronald Patera and Ronald Rutkowski, both of Cass City. Ushers were Allen Merchant of Cass City and Norbert Haag of Sebawaing.

A reception for 400 guests was held at the American Legion Hall, Unionville, following the ceremony.

The couple are making their home in Cass City following their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the southeastern states.

Shirley Neal was soloist and Marilyn Summers was organist for the services.

Yule Symbols Told At WSCS Meeting

The WSCS of the Methodist Church learned of the symbols of Christmas in a program presented by Mrs. Grant Hutchinson and Mrs. Nancy Shagena.

Mrs. Hutchinson used slides to tell of the symbols. The Rose is emblematic of Mary, the mother of Jesus; of Jesus, as the Rose of Sharon, and of the love of Christ.

Purple is the color of humility and penance and is the color of the altar cloths for December. The two candles signify the divinity and humanity of Christ. Mrs. Hutchinson also showed slides of paintings of the Madonna and Child, copies of the world's great artists. Mrs. Shagena led group singing of carols and sang a solo.

Mrs. James Braid led the 6:15 prayer service.

President Mrs. Howard Rexin presided at the meeting. Group V with Mrs. Homer Muntz and Mrs. Roy Chisholm, co-chairmen, served the dinner for about 45 members.

Mrs. Britt Dies After Long Illness

Funeral services for Mrs. Mayme Britt will be held Thursday (today) at Little's Funeral home at 1:30 p.m. following her death Tuesday morning at Cass City Hospital. She had been in ill health for the past several years.

Born in Northville, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. August Oldenburg. The family moved to the Cass City area while she was still a child.

She married Charles Britt in Owendale December 3, 1913, and they made their home in Grand township where she lived until her death. He died November 29, 1961.

She was a member of the Grant Methodist Church.

Surviving are: two daughters, Mrs. Earl Schenk and Mrs. Hubert Hundsmarck, both of Bad Axe, and two sons, James of Pontiac and Howard of Cass City. Also surviving are 15 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. Two brothers, three sisters and a daughter preceded her in death.

Mrs. Britt may be seen at the funeral home until the time of the service. Rev. A. Carmithel of Elkton will officiate and interment will be in the family lot in Wilkerson Cemetery.

Cass City Chronicle
Dear Editor:

The board members of the Cass City and Elkhart Township Public Library are very happy to have been chosen to occupy part of the proposed new fire-hall building.

The Library has a present volume of books in excess of 5,000. Fifty periodicals are received and available to the public.

The average monthly circulation thus far in 1965 is 855 and for the first time in the history of the Library we may see a circulation for the current year of 10,000 or more.

Our greatest concern is lack of space. In our present crowded quarters we are unable to properly display and catalogue our books and magazines.

We lack for space in seven areas: for fiction, nonfiction, reference and study, periodicals, youth books, children's books and reading space.

We are very concerned about our children's department because this is where good reading habits are established.

In our present crowded quarters, there is no room for filing of periodicals and reference material.

A good library is one of the prime requisites of any town and it is our hope that larger quarters for the library may become a reality to give Cass City and area a library to which the residents can point with pride.

A June wedding is planned.

Records Can Help Keep Herd Healthy

Preventive medicine with livestock is more economical and satisfactory than "last ditch" efforts to save hopeless, dying animals, according to Dr. Clifford C. Beck, veterinarian for Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service.

Farmers who keep good health records in a file or notebook where they are readily accessible, find it takes less time and prevents more errors than any other method.

There are many good herd record systems for all types of livestock. Dr. Beck says the important thing is to have some system and make use of it.

"It takes no longer to do it now than later. Chances are it will be more accurate if the information is entered when something happens or the farmer first thinks of it rather than waiting until 'you have time,'" Dr. Beck contends.

Record keeping becomes a habit. The successful farmer and livestock man in the future will find health records as well as all records more and more important. Alfred Ballweg, county Extension agricultural agent, believes. He advises that more information on farm records is available from the Extension Service in Courthouse, Caro.

57 Attend WSWS Christmas Meeting

Fifty-seven women attended a Christmas meeting of the Woman's Society of World Service held Monday evening in Salem EUB church. The group included women of the church and guests.

A six-thirty dinner was enjoyed in a festive setting with guests seated at small tables decorated for Christmas. Grace was given by Mrs. Stanley P. Kinn Sr.

Following the dinner, the president, Mrs. Charles Tuckey, welcomed the guests and an offering was taken for mission work, which amounted to $63.00.

The program was a demonstration by Mrs. Warren Kelley on the making of Christmas decorations.

An arrangement made by Mrs. Kelley that was given as a door prize went to Mrs. Eldon Stottnerburg.

The benediction was given by Mrs. R. E. Betts.

Hawks Bombed by Lakers; Face Caro in Home Opener

An inexperienced Cass City Red Hawk cage squad was soundly beaten by Elkhart-Pigeon-Bay Port in the opening Thumb B Conference game for both schools at the Lakers spacious gym. The score was 89-51.

Coach John Oswald pointed to superior Laker rebounding and poor shooting by Cass City as the key reasons for the one-sided defeat.

Set School K-12 District Lines In Tuscola County

Cass City Public School district will vary little from its original boundaries under the K-12 reorganizational act if a plan to be considered by the state committee Friday is approved.

The plan was submitted by William A. Scott, Intermediate School District superintendent, in October and according to Scott during an interview Tuesday, "leaves Cass City about the same as it was in the limits of Tuscola county."

K-12 bill provides that all primary school districts must be set into high school districts.

About the only change for Cass City under the proposed plan will be the loss of a small portion of Kingston No. 1 which was previously serviced by Cass City.

"In Sanilac township," Scott explained, "the township unit of Evergreen will be voting with the Tuscola Intermediate District to become part of the Cass City district. Cass City will also obtain the Stone District in Greenleaf township under the plan."

"This adds about $2½ million in valuation to the Cass City District if it materializes," he speculated.

He predicted no drastic changes for any district. "There are 16 primary school districts being divided up. All are being divided nearly as they were being serviced by the major school district before reorganization was called for."

The state committee, headed by George Schutt, head of administration, Department of Education, will examine the plan along with others submitted by various districts throughout the state.

"The committee can either approve the plan as drawn, send it back for revision or wait and consider it with Huron county's plan," Scott stated.

He stated that the plan may be considered with Huron's because discussion is going on between Unionville, in Tuscola county, and Sebawing, in Huron county, on a possible consolidation.

The deadline for the state-wide reorganization is December 30.

The Lakers of Coach Ed Wolford exhibited its usual strong zone defense and forced Cass City to take most of its shots from outcourt. This, combined with first game jitters, resulted in a sickly 28 per cent shooting average for Cass City. The Lakers shot 47 per cent as they took many shots from close-in.

Many of the winners' points came on the fast break as the Lakers dominated the backboards. They picked the ball off the boards after a single Hawk shot and beat the Hawk defense on the break.

It was a sloppily played game. Coach Oswald's game chart showed that Cass City was guilty of losing the ball 20 times through bad passes or other errors and the Lakers were guilty 19 times.

I thought we moved the ball well, Oswald said, but we were weak on the boards. They out-rebounded us by two to one and that spelled the difference in the game.

Cass City was actually in the game for just the opening period. With Jim Walters hitting 10 of his 12 points in the period, the Hawks staged their best offensive surge of the night with 17 points.

Despite adequate point production, Cass City trailed at the end of the opening canto, 17-22.

In the next quarter, the roof fell in on Cass City. With Thiel and Alexander showing the way the Lakers bombed the nets for 24 points while Cass City netted just four field goals. At the half, the issue was decided and the Lakers led, 46-25.

The Lakers dominated the game in the last two quarters as both coaches went to their benches to get a line on personnel for the season ahead.

The Lakers posted a 20-14 advantage in the third period and a 22-12 margin in the final quarter.

Veteran Al Wallace whipped in 23 points and led the team in rebounds in the opener. Walters netted 12 points. They were the only Hawks to score more than four points.

The Lakers had five men in double figures and 12 players figured in the scoring. Alexander netted 19 points, while Ackerman and Thiel each chipped in 17 points.

First Home Game

The Hawks will play their home opener Friday against Caro. The Tigers were ranked right behind Frankenmuth in pre-season estimates and it promises to be a long night for Cass City fans.

The Cass City Junior Varsity was also no match for the Laker JV's, dropping a 74-54 decision to the host team.

No one will ever be able to say positively how much the closing of South Cemetery Road, because of the Cass River bridge, has hurt the Christmas business in Cass City.

Most merchants say that it's bound to hurt, although business in general has never been better in the village.

It's human nature to feel that with better access from the south, today's booming business would be even greater.

It looks like a long season for the Cass City Red Hawks basketball team. With a green squad and very little height, Coach John Oswald has problems ahead.

We can remember back to the glory days in Cass City's cage fortunes when seats were at a premium and everyone was a fan. There is apt to be plenty of room in Cass City as the season progresses. It wouldn't hurt morale if a way were found to fill them.

Today's basketball troubles didn't start this year, last year or the year before. It started when no program was established in the grades to teach basketball.

The local school competes with schools that have organized basketball from about the fifth grade on. Basketball requires skills built over a period of years and it is the truly exceptional athlete that can start in the eighth or ninth grade and compete.

The Hawks don't have it this year.

Fraternity Pledges Arraigned for Taking 2 Cars

Two Eastern Michigan University fraternity pledges were arraigned in Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday on charges of unlawful driving away of an automobile and both entered pleas of guilty.

Robert Kutscher, Grosse Pointe, and Raymond Mittino, Allen Park, were released on bond pending a pre-sentence investigation set for January 4.

The pair are charged with taking a car belonging to Raymond Baur in Colwood township on Nov. 30. They also took a second car.

They told sheriff's deputies after their arrest that they had been taken blindfolded from the university in Ypsilanti as an initiation prank and had been dropped off near Unionville. As it got dark, the pair became worried and decided to steal the cars to get back to school.

Manslaughtering John Wilczak, Caro, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff under $1,000 bond following his arraignment Tuesday before Judge James P. Churchill on a manslaughter charge.

Wilczak is charged with manslaughter in the death of his wife June 29, 1960, who allegedly died following a fall down a flight of stairs during a fight with her husband.

Wilczak, according to a brief filed at the time, had a history of violent temper and on several previous occasions had done bodily injury to his wife.

The October after his wife's death he was diagnosed by a psychiatrist to be "emotionally unstable" and was sent to Lonia State Hospital where he has been for the past five years. He was declared competent last month.

David N. Andrychuk, Vassar attorney, was appointed by the court to defend Wilczak.

In other court news, Priscilla A. Smith of Cass City was granted support of $10.00 a week for each of her four children in a divorce action against her husband, Jack Smith, also of Cass City. The couple were married in 1958 in Grayling.

Scholarships Open From Farm Group

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women's Committee is reminding members that applications are now available for a $200 Practical Nurses' scholarship, awarded each year by the Michigan Farm Bureau Women.

Requirements for the scholarship are: (1) the applicant must be a resident of Michigan and a member of Farm Bureau, (2) must show proof of having been accepted by a school of Practical Nursing, (3) be willing to show financial need and (4) submit a written application and be personally interviewed by the Scholarship Committee.

Application blanks may be obtained from Miss Helen Atwood, Michigan Farm Bureau, 4000 N. Grand River Ave., Lansing, Michigan.

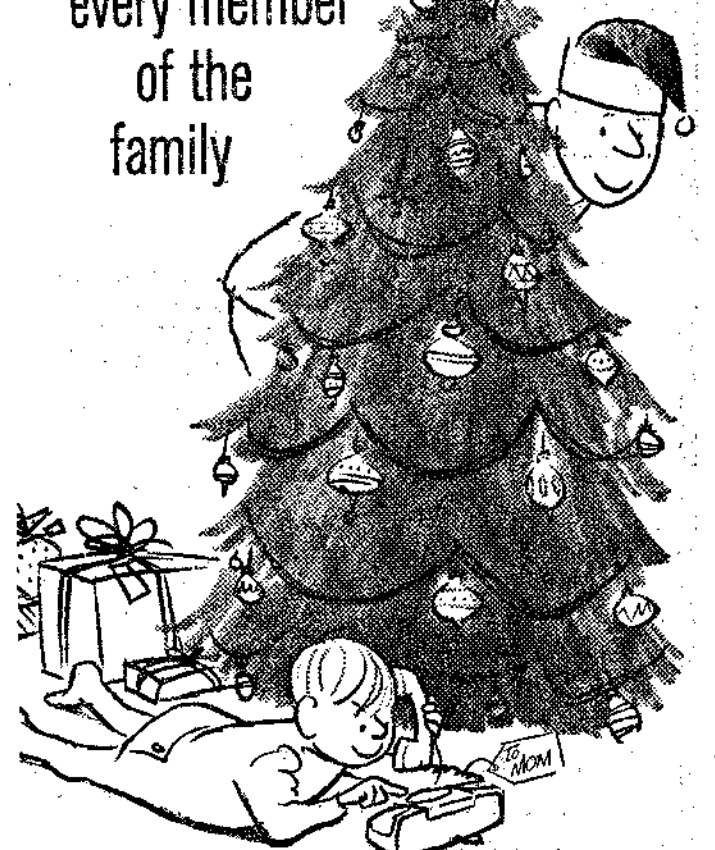

The Practical Nurses' scholarship is one of three awarded each year by the Michigan Farm Bureau Women. A Michigan State University scholarship in the amount of $324, and a cooperative Elevator and Farm Supply scholarship for $100 are also available through the efforts of the County Farm Bureau Women's Committees.

Don't let the habit of fault-finding become an avocation.

Agent's Corner

Barbara Henriksen

Christmas shopping in most people's minds is separated from "peace on earth, good will to man."

We get into the mood before leaving home. Father comes home for lunch and mother greets him at the door with the familiar three little words — "Where's the money?"

He says it isn't necessary to spend so much and she knows that the kind of gifts he wants to give will cost more than she has said.

He comments that she's a poor manager, and she indicates that his financial knowledge is several decades behind.

After this loving exchange, he drops her off down-town where she proceeds to take out her feelings on the clerks, pushes the other customers and elbows ahead of a little kid who is spending 15 cents on his favorite person — himself.

During the process, she has worked up some lovely self-pity (all I got one Christmas was an orange and 2 new pencils), disressing hatred of her mother-in-law (the only reason she gave me the heirloom necklace last year was because it didn't cost her anything and now we're required to buy her something fancy) and superior feelings toward the people who commercialize Christmas (while she stashes frantically about spending wads of money).

Most of her feelings are due to the fact that she feels pressured into buying expensive presents. From every side comes the growing pressure — window signs, street decorations and worst of all the invasion of the home by news papers, radio and TV. All insisting that unless father gets cologne, mother furs, the pre-schooler an over-sexed doll, and the teenager a transistor TV, Christmas won't be worth living.

Gifts at the first Christmas were given, not demanded. The value was less in the item than in the endless willing journey. The purpose was love.

IT'S THE SAME OLD STORY of parents who would rather send their children to church while they stay home and rationalize their non-attendance. How the problem, represented by Jeanette Putman and Gary Summers, seated, both of Owendale, is resolved by Sunday School Teacher Jessica

Romney's 2 Appointees Draw Criticism from Democrats

The second of two administrative heads appointed by Gov. George Romney continues under heavy fire from democratic legislators. The first finally got tired of the badgering and resigned his post.

In the first case, Labor Commissioner Roy W. Johns, the early criticism was mild. One or two legislators commented he must not be doing his job because industrial accidents were on the rise.

It wound up as a full-scale investigation of the Labor Department, primarily from the standpoint of Johns' administrative directives and decisions. He had been in the post less than two years when the first barbs were thrown.

Even before Johns came under fire, Democratic lawmakers were talking at least privately about the Republican appointee heading the Insurance Department, Allen Mayerson.

His previous connections with various insurance companies were the sensitive target they chose. Some of these firms did and others did not operate in Michigan.

Major point in the continuing attack against Mayerson is that he continued to do some consulting work after he was appointed to the state post.

It is not to be decided here whether either Johns or Mayerson was or is doing the assigned job properly.

Because of the very nature of the jobs, appointees are more than likely to have many outside connections. If they didn't they probably would not be considered for appointment. And who is to say whether one or two years is even long enough for a top administrator to work into a job and do it effectively?

What should be noted, as evidenced in the labor commissioner case, is that enough badgering by the opposing party could probably lead even the best public servant to decide it wasn't worth the fight.

Michigan motorists have been doing relatively well this year in cutting down the highway deaths, at least as compared with the record high 1964 fatality count.

With the two year-end holidays falling on weekends, however, the traveling public is expected to be bigger than usual. Families whose breadwinner would have to return to work the day after a mid-week holiday will be more likely to be making weekend trips to spend time with relatives.

Since the temptation is great to travel too far for a holiday and stay a few hours later than usual, thus necessitating a hurried trip homeward, the likelihood for careless driving is increased sharply.

Year-end holidays traditionally run high on road accidents, injuries and deaths. Uncertain weather is another of many factors involved.

Sabo Seeks $50,000

Louis Sabo of Detroit and Eugene P. Markie of Calford have filed separate damage suits asking $50,000 each for injuries received in an accident June 21, 1965, on M-24, about six miles north of Lapeer.

The suits charge that Richard Dell drove his car into the path of an auto driven by Sabo who was one of four persons in the car injured in the crash.

The suits were filed against the estates of Burkert Kinzli and Richard Dell, both killed in the crash.

The suit charges that Dell drove his auto in a "reckless, careless and negligent manner and in willful and wanton disregard of the plaintiff and others and at a high and unreasonable rate of speed" of upwards of 120 miles per hour.

Besides Sabo, Henry Sherman of Detroit was one of the men injured in the crash. He is not involved in either of the suits now in Genesee Circuit Court.

Passengers in the Sabo car were on their way to factory jobs when the accident occurred.

The car was owned by Kinzli, according to the suit.

The police reported that the youths were being chased by patrolmen when the crash occurred.

While the number of motorist fatalities dropped considerably in the first three-quarters of the year, state officials have called for renewed consciousness of traffic safety during the remaining weeks.

As he has every holiday since he took office, Gov. George Romney will again be calling for an "enlightened motorist" on the roads. The periodic "Lights on for Safety" campaign will again be in effect, hoping that each motorist who drives with auto headlights on both day and night will remind another driver to be careful.

"Even at the maximum effectiveness of traffic safety measures, the most indispensable element in traffic safety is the moral responsibility of the driver," the governor has said. This should be remembered if gay, holiday trips are to maintain that atmosphere.

Michigan is generally thought of as an industrial state, but agriculture claims second place in income production.

State Agriculture Department officials boast about Michigan's weather. Because Michigan is cooler in summer and warmer in winter than most northern states, they say, farmers can raise a great number of different crops in large quantities.

For example, winds coming off Lake Michigan temper the climate of the western lower peninsula to create a rich agricultural belt running from the southern border northward almost to the tip of the lower peninsula. The result is seen in tremendous fruit and vegetable crops.

EUB Church Sets Yuletide Activities

Several special events have been planned for the period preceding Christmas at Salem EUB Church, according to Rev. R. E. Betts, pastor.

On Sunday, December 12, the colorful "Hanging of the greens" in the church sanctuary and all of the classrooms will be done by the various Sunday school classes, at 4 p.m.

The children's department will present a Christmas program that evening at 5:30, to be followed by a fellowship lunch. Instead of the children receiving gifts from the church, every family is being asked to bring a "white gift" to be sent to midwest benevolent homes.

The Youth Fellowship and Progressive Class will go caroling on Thursday evening, December 16.

Christmas Sunday, December 19, will see the message of the Saviour's birth shared in lesson and sermon during the Sunday School hour at 10:00 a.m. and the morning worship at 11:00. In the evening, at 8:00, "The Greatest Story Ever Told," will be presented. Salem's senior choir will participate and the life of Christ in slides will be narrated by the pastor, R. E. Betts.

A spiritual climax to the Advent plans at Salem will be the Christmas Candlelight Communion service on Wednesday, December 22, between the hours of 7:00 and 9:00 p.m.

Families and individuals are invited to come and spend a time in prayer and meditation, after which they may come forward to the altar where the pastor will serve them Holy Communion.

All of these special services and activities at Salem EUB Church are open to the public, according to Mr. Betts.

VOLUME 59, NUMBER 34

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1965

Many Heart Deaths in County

Tuscola County ranked above the statewide average of cardiovascular deaths in Michigan last year, Dr. James B. Blodgett, president of the Michigan Heart Association, announced today.

In Tuscola County: 60.0 percent of all deaths were caused by cardiovascular ailments, the statewide average was 55.2. Percentages are based on the 1964 statistics of the State Department of Health.

Lowest percentage in the state was Macomb County's 49.4; highest was Oscoda County with 69.2.

Analysis of the figures, while emphasizing the magnitude of the problem of cardiovascular disseases, generally showed that with some exceptions, the highly industrialized southern counties with younger populations have lower percentages than do the quiet rural counties with older populations.

Of adjoining counties, Huron had 57.1 percent; Sanilac, 57.8; Lapeer, 52.9; Genesee, 53.5; Saginaw, 54.6; and Bay, 54.0.

Wayne County had 53.7 percent; Oakland, 53.6; and Kent County, whose seat is Grand Rapids, 55.5. The Upper Peninsula counties averaged 59.64 percent.

The Heart Association is a Michigan United Fund agency.

Officers Elected At Baptist Church

Members of the Baptist church elected officers at a business meeting Wednesday evening, Dec. 1. Deacons elected were: Clarence Ewald and Stan Guinther. Elwyn Helwig was named trustee.

Others elected were: deaconess, Mrs. Ferris Ware; treasurer, Cecil Brown; clerk, Mrs. Vera Bearse; Sunday school superintendent, Ferris Ware; children's superintendent, Mrs. Ruth Finkbeiner.

Sunday school secretary is Elwyn Helwig; church pianist, Mrs. Stanley McArthur; church organist, Don Greenleaf; Sunday school pianist, Mrs. Harold Greenleaf; cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. Veron Gingrich; church hostess, Mrs. Ferris Ware, and head usher, Bill Ewald.

Committee chairmen, elected were: flower committee, Mrs. Cecil Brown; missionary committee, Mack MacAlpine, and music committee, Mrs. Stan Guinther.

The church also voted at the meeting to accept six new members.

FOR THE LAST two years Stan Edzik has driven to Colorado to hunt for deer on the Mesas in the mountains. You have to work for your game, but it's worth it, Edzik said. Each of the two years he has hunted in the west he returned with his limit (two) of trophy sized bucks. This year his bag included bucks of 185 and 200 pounds, field dressed. (Chronicle photo)

Name Prize Winners At Floral Shop

Sunday—A Wild Day in A Pick-up

By Dave Kraft

Ever have one of those days when you felt like doing something really wild? Something with complete abandon?

What do I mean, exactly? You know. Like taking a roll of toilet tissue and seeing how long it is.

Or like rattling the door of the sewing room when your wife is busy trying to sew, just to see how long it'll take her to get up, yank the door open and scream at you because she thinks it's one of the kids. Stuff like that.

I had one of those days Sunday. I had a chance to get some fireplace wood from Lawrence Strace and he suggested I get a pickup truck because you can't get too much wood in the rear of a station wagon.

So I did. And that is when I had my fling with "wild abandon." I borrowed a certain red pick-up from Cliff Ferguson at Cass City Oil & Gas.

Now this red pick-up is not like most red pick-ups. Outside it looks like most red pick-ups, but inside is a world from The Brothers Grimm.

You notice something different when you first climb in. And it's quite a climb. All the way to the top of two Model A bucket seats. The seats are so high that you sit about a half-inch from the top of the cab. This gives you a feeling of being in the gun turret of one of those World War II fighter bombers.

Not only that, the driver's vision is somewhat obscured by the portion of the cab into which his head fits. The truck is therefore best suited for night driving when the lights of the oncoming vehicles are reflected from the hood into the driver's eyes.

Then there's the heating (and I use the term loosely) unit. There is a button with a rather large "H" on it. One would surmise that this is for "heater" but I can tell you without fear of contradiction that it doesn't stand for heat. I can now think of one other word that it might refer to, but that place also deals in heat and definitely doesn't apply.

Complementing the heating unit are some small holes in the floor through which, if you can get the pick-up going fast enough, cold air flows. I haven't decided whether these are to let the exhaust in so you won't suffocate.

These holes and the driver's proximity to the motor make for a lot of noise. Like sitting in the mouth of a cannon. When you arrive at your destination, you find

CRITICAL PERIODS OF LEARNING

Q. When should a baby be given foods that need chewing?

A. This is a frequently asked question. Animals (including the human variety) go through periods during which certain behavior patterns are best learned. For example, ducks will learn during the first day after hatching, but never thereafter, to follow a moving object as if it were their mother. Lambs isolated from their dams for 10 days after birth will never afterwards follow the flock. Insofar as babies are concerned, the time to start solid food is when the child first makes chewing movements, usually between 6 and 9 months of age. If the opportunity is missed at that time the baby may have difficulty later in chewing or may refuse solid food.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

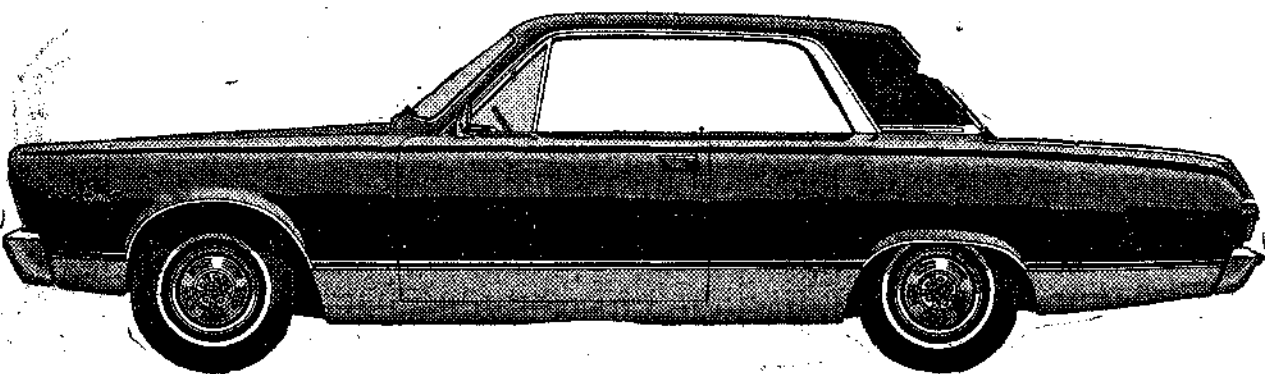

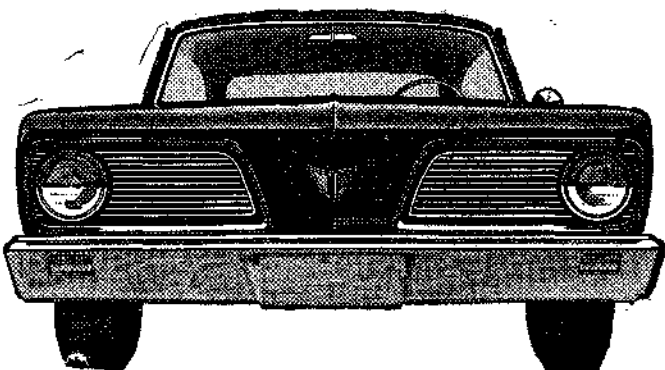

The true measure of the worth of prescribed medicine lies not in dollars and cents, but in the faster relief from pain and speedier recovery it provides.

The Shabbona Extension Group met Monday evening, Dec. 6, at the community hall.

A short business meeting was conducted by Chairman Mrs. Clark Auslander. Guest speaker for the evening was Inger Hansson of Sweden, a delegate of Youth for Understanding. She was accompanied by her host sister, Bonnie

Mr. and Mrs. John Edwin Knoph

Judith Carolyn Muntz and John Edwin Knoph exchanged nuptial vows Saturday, Nov. 27, in St. Pancratius Church, Cass City. The Rev. Arnold Messing officiated at the 10:30 a.m. rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Muntz of Cass City are the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Knoph of Asbury Park, Detroit, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Two fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli decorated the church's altar for the ceremony.

The bride approached the altar wearing a winter white wool suit complemented with cocoa brown accessories. Her short white veil was held secure by satin roses and she carried an arrangement of brown cymbidium orchids.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Jerry Vandemark of Deford, was matron of honor. She wore a gold wool knit suit with fawn colored accessories and carried a corsage of autumn gold cymbidium orchids.

The groom's brother, Gregory Knoph of Asbury Park, was groomsman.

Services Held for Omar Glaspie, 79

Funeral services for Omar Glaspie, 79, Cass City, were held Sunday from Little's Funeral Home following his death Thursday, Dec. 2, at Cass City Hospital where he had been a patient for one day.

Born in Novesta township September 8, 1886, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Glaspie. He married Miss Retia Francis in Caro December 4, 1908. The couple made their home in Novesta township following their marriage and moved to Cass City in 1920. Mrs. Glaspie died May 11, 1950.

He married Mrs. Carrie Francis on April 26, 1952, in Caro.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: two daughters, Mrs. Courtney (Ella Mae) Clara of Rochester, and Mrs. Nicholas Prutchick of Flint, and two sons, George of Pontiac and Grant of Cass City. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two stepsons, Ray Francis of Reese and Harold Francis of Deford, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Roland Eastman and Mrs. Julius Gyonmory, both of Detroit.

Rev. George Getchel, Novesta Church of Christ pastor, officiated and interment was in the family lot at Novesta Cemetery.

Taxes on Increase in Most States Across the Nation

No New Tax Yet
Greener pastures do not always lie in the other farmer's field, notes Robert E. Smith with authority.

Smith is the associate legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, which regularly keeps its members informed of government matters of interest.

"We as citizens of a county or state such as Michigan often think that we are the only ones plagued with constantly increasing taxes or with governmental fiscal problems," relates Smith.

The fallacy in this thinking was brought to Smith's attention by the Michigan Revenue Department, frequently the brunt of verbal blows from the citizenry.

Officials report that nearly two-thirds of the 50 states either adopted new state taxes or increased existing tax rates this year.

Tobacco taxation was increased in 22 states; nine states raised gasoline taxes; sales and use tax changes were enacted in eight states, and two states passed new sales levies. Income tax boosts were passed in nine states and six instances of hiked alcoholic beverage taxes were recorded.

Income tax activity, of course, has been of serious concern to Michigan residents in recent years because of legislative consideration of this method of taxation.

The Revenue Department notes that 36 states now have individual state income taxes. Some 24 of these also have a sales tax in effect.

One state enacted an income tax this year, but the Nebraska law is "presently subject to further action" at this time, reports the state department.

Michigan may be arriving at a point where the legislature cannot reasonably enact a state income tax, the Department statistics indicate.

In other states, such as Ohio, the lawmaking bodies have learned that a statewide income tax levy is impractical when many cities use this form of revenue raising. In Ohio about 100 cities have an income tax.

Presently in Michigan, the cities of Detroit, Flint and Hamtramck have collected income taxes. The cities of Warren and Highland Park expect to collect on personal income next year, barring any public referendum. Saginaw also has been authorized to collect an income tax.

Several other cities are considering this form of taxation. The legislature may find itself pre-empted from this form by its own lack of action if other large cities follow suit.

Better Transition

Long an advocate of the liberal school of correction methods, State Corrections Director Gus Harrison will start a new program next year to help prison inmates adjust more quickly to normal life after release.

Harrison recently announced a plan whereby model prisoners in all state institutions under his jurisdiction might be allowed the opportunity to be part-time members of society.

The plan calls initially for placing a small group of model prisoners who are near the end of their terms in jobs on the outside during the day.

Emphasis in Harrison's announcement of the program was on the fact that these would be model prisoners, only those men believed to be good social risks.

"Any inmate who has not established a good institutional record or who has a poor attitude, or is deviated in any way will not be considered," he said.

This, no doubt, is designed to assure members of communities near prison institutions that there will be no danger to them or their families caused by the day-work plan.

In order to be effective, of course, Harrison also must find employers with jobs available close to the various institutions who are willing to start the model prisoners on the road back to responsible living. The emphasis on the type of men to be used in the program should not be lost to the businessmen experiencing labor shortages.

Michigan ranks as one of the nation's largest producers of Christmas trees, a Michigan State University forestry scientist says. The state accounts for nearly 10 per cent of the total U.S. output. By 1980 the state's production should double to about 6.2 million trees per year.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was thrown into a state of panic when Zeke Grubb came in and announced he was junking his 1930 pickup truck and gitting hisself a new 1966 model.

Ed Doolittle allowed as how Zeke was a good example of how come pore folks stays pore, always gitting in hock to the banker to git somepun new ever time it come out. Furthermore, Ed was of the opinion Zeke was just trying to git more status in the community and didn't need no new truck at this time.

Clem Webster of the Great Society was defending Zeke, said it was folks buying things they didn't need that was keeping the economy of the country at a high level. He recollected how President Johnson had took some tax off'n automobiles and advised the people to spend this savings immediate so's to keep the money flow going steady.

Josh Clodhopper was agreed with Clem, said if a feller wanted to keep his status he had to git a new car and a new wife about ever two year. And Josh claimed, if a feller couldn't afford both, it was better to git the car on account of the new safety gadgets they was putting on 'em. They wasn't much safety in a new wife, allowed Josh, but they got cars nowadays that'll tell you how much air you got in your tires and if the law was behind.

But Ed, incidental, that has started blaming his roommattism and pore eye sight on the Democrats, wouldn't give up. He said Lady Bird was trying to git rid of all the junkyards and here was Zeke messing up the scenery with junking his old truck. Ed claimed that, actual, what they was doing was paying folks to git 'em back off the highway and the Government was paying fer trees and bushes to set out along the road so's people couldn't see 'em. And he claimed the tax Lyndon took off'n cars didn't amount to nothing on account of taxes in the Great Society was like moleholes. When one gits stomped down in the front yard two more pop up in the back yard.

Personal, Mister Editor, I would have to vote fer Zeke gitting his new truck. The national economy is now geared to the merry-go-round system and we got to keep it going round and round to keep the roof from falling down.

I was reading in the papers last week where the Republicans had made a survey and found where a $10,000 life insurance policy was losing about $50 worth of buying power ever month. But if the Democrats would make the same survey they would come up with a different set of figgers. They would show we was going to live a heap longer in the Great Society and didn't need no insurance. A feller just pays his taxes, Mister Editor, and hopes fer the best.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BOOK REVIEW

Kieran—A Man Of Varied Talents

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

If you were one of the millions who listened regularly to the broadcasts of Information Please in the heyday of radio broadcasting, you will be interested in this autobiography of one of the regular panelists. John Kieran is revealed to us in "Not Under Oath" as a man of various abilities and accomplishments, not the least of which is that of writer. To his credit are various wild-life books and books concerned with the world of sports.

His first job was that of timekeeper for a contractor who built large sewer lines for the city of New York. The first responsibility that was his each day was to go down "the hole" each morning, just before the crews took over, and start the huge electric fans which cleared the air. His predecessor at this delightful job was in the hospital, the victim of an electrical short that ignited the accumulated gas the day before John Kieran took over the job. However, there were no accidental explosions while he was on the job. Among other duties, the young man went to the bank each Saturday morning with the paymaster; kept in contact with the many utility companies which already had pipes of one sort or another running beneath the street.

Preceding this job was an effort (following graduation from Fordham University) to farm, teach and raise apples simultaneously.

Following the sewer construction episode, he entered the first of his careers - as a newspaper reporter.

Almost by accident he became one of the then almost non-existent breed known as sports reporter. The person who is sports-minded will enjoy reading this section of the book which is replete with accounts of the men who made sports news in the days of World War I. Newspapers being what they are, reporters (especially one qualified in more or less of a "specialty") drifted from paper to paper in New York. He writes of Babe Ruth and other sports figures from the view point of personal acquaintance, casually writing that "Before the 1922 season was over, I knew every regular on all 16 major league teams..."

Kieran became something of a poet, in his writing, more of the type of the beloved Eddie Guest than Keats.

As he rose in the newspaper game, he became more of a wild-life writer. He became friends with others who were as captivated by the flora and fauna as he was, and there began some regular Saturday morning strolls where they discovered and recorded many plants and wild animals. Thus Kieran was something of an expert in wild life and in sports.

Dan Golenpaal was the founder and producer of Information Please, and began to ask Kieran to become a panelist on the show. After saying "No" many times he accepted, and a whole new world opened to him. In addition to their regular radio show, the panel did shows for our troops overseas during World War II. In the early days of television, Information Please was filmed, making the panelists' appearances known as they never were in radio. One woman, passing him on the sidewalk, commented, "That was John Kieran - and he looks just like his picture." "Shucks," writes Kieran, "It's easy once you know how."

When retirement was imminent, the Kierans decided to move out of New York City, where both had been born, because of its growing congestion. They chose, with great deliberation, Rockport, Mass., as their retirement home; close enough to New York that they can go back for such events as they wish to attend; far enough away to face few interruptions.

Rockport is granite country, and Kieran, watching one block of this hard stone being quarried, estimates its weight at more than 16 tons, and comments, "Oh, oh, (I say to myself,) come Resurrection Day, he'll never get out from under that!"

I believe that you will like this autobiography; I know that I did.

Not Under Oath, by John Kieran, Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston, 1964. Available at the Elkland Township & Cass City Library.

The value of shipments of Michigan fruits, vegetables and potatoes from Michigan in 1964 was well over $200 million. Specialists at Michigan State University, however, predict that the expected value of shipments in 1965 should be around $300 million.

Good Records Vital for Dairy Profits

"Are you keeping dairy cows or are dairy cows keeping you?" Alfred Ballweg, county Extension agricultural agent, believes every dairyman should find an answer to this question.

Annual production figures for herds in Michigan's Dairy Herd Improvement Association show that the top herds averaged $450 income per cow above feed cost while the low-producing herds averaged only $150 per cow over the cost of feed. That's a difference of $300 per cow and Ballweg thinks this figure tells the difference in whether the dairyman is "keeping cows" or the cows are "keeping the dairyman."

It costs more to feed a high-producing cow. Feed costs averaged about $250 a cow compared with $150 for low-producing herds. But the milk sold from the high-producing herds was $700 per cow compared with $300 for low producers.

Records are a necessary tool to assist farmers in building a top producing herd. Michigan State University offers assistance through its Cooperative Extension Services in several ways. One is through the Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) program open to all dairymen. Another is a low-cost Owner-Sampler DHIA plan which provides a testing service in which the owner does more of the work and pays a smaller fee.

Both of these programs work effectively with the MSU Telfarm program which is now enrolling members for 1966. If you consider the value of the services, the costs are very low, Ballweg believes.

Yule Party for Farm Bureau Women

Christmas carols, games, prizes and exchange of gifts climaxed the day which began with a potluck dinner at noon.

John Porterfield, assistant director of the Economic Opportunity Commission, appeared before the group seeking volunteers to assist in a program of the commission.

Porterfield explained a proposed program to aid homemakers, from low-income families, through training sessions. He reviewed the various segments, personnel needed to carry out the plans and what is hoped to be gained from the project.

The group voted to make another contribution to the educational fee for their Korean student who is attending college in Korea.

Barbara Henriksen, Extension Agent in Home Economics for Tuscola County, is slated to speak on "Extension the Last 10 Years", at the January 7 meeting of the Farm Bureau Women.

H. E. Kettlewell, 57 Dies in Croswell

Harold E. Kettlewell, 57, of Croswell died at his home Monday, Nov. 29.

He was born Oct. 8, 1908, at Melvin, the son of the late Robert and Emma Kettlewell. He moved to Croswell with his parents in 1929.

He married the former Dorthy Fulmer Feb. 23, 1929, in Croswell. He farmed for several years and later operated a new and used furniture store in Croswell. For the last 12 years he had been a fieldman for a pickle company in Croswell.

Surviving are his widow; five sons, Arnold, Robert, Ralph, James and Thomas Kettlewell, all of Croswell; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Lou Webster of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Joan Filbeck of Lexington and Miss Carol Kettlewell of Croswell; three brothers, Arthur Kettlewell of Cass City, Cecil Kettlewell of Riverside, Calif., and Ted Kettlewell of Yale; a sister, Mrs. William Nelson of Port Huron, and nine grandchildren.

Services were held Thursday at the funeral home in Croswell with Rev. Grant Noland, pastor of Croswell Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Burial was in Croswell Cemetery.

Cass City Group Hears D. E. Rawson

The Cass City Home Demonstration Group met at the home of Mrs. E. L. Schwaderer for a seven o'clock dinner.

Dr. D. E. Rawson spoke to the ladies about the Village's need to buy the Paul building for a new firehall.

Mrs. Roy Chisholm gave the lesson on "Descent and Distribution of Property."

The next meeting will be a Christmas party at the Crossroads Dec. 10, at 6:30 p.m. There will be a gift exchange.

Michigan State University scientists said recently that research will make it possible to produce agricultural products even more efficiently. Consumers may spend only 10 per cent of the family income for food by 1980.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Hugh Milligan of Cass City won state beef breeding honors in the 4-H program.

The first 13 persons to pay taxes this year are: Alex Paladi Jr., Clare Root, John Zebinski, Frank Little, Mrs. Mona Phillips, William Henning, Frank McCaslin, Earl Anderson, Mrs. Althea Krizman, Leo Ware, John Gordon, Mrs. Cora Singland and Louis Molnar.

Harry Little announced this week that the grand opening of the newly remodeled Little's Funeral Home will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Movies and colored slides of Cass City's Christmas town and pictures of the pageant will highlight the first meeting of the area senior citizens Sunday at the New Gordon Hotel.

Mary Lou Jones, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Jones of Decker and a sophomore of Cass City High School, has been awarded a trip to Colorado Springs, Colorado, for placing first in the Sanilac County 4-H judging contest.

Frank Butler waited until the last day of the season to fill his deer license. Hunting on the Elmer Butler farm, northwest of Cass City, he shot a large eight-pointer Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Kathleen E. Zinnecker, a sophomore at Albion and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinnecker of Cass City, will sing in the alto section of the Albion College Choral society when it performs Handel's "Messiah."

Stanley Kinn was re-elected president of the Cass City Council of Churches when they met at the Presbyterian church Tuesday.

TEN YEARS AGO

R. L. Bassett, manager of Cass City Manufacturing Company, has announced that the plant will open Monday.

Leaseholders Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mosack of Gagetown announced this week that land they have leased to National Drillers of Lansing and O.K. West of Detroit has produced oil at three narrow spaced levels in Ogemaw County. Jack Perry of Cass City exhibited the Grand Champion lamb, a Southdown, at the Detroit Junior Livestock Show Wednesday to bring top honors in the show to the Cass City Livestock Club for the 15th time in 26 years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Carey and daughter of Detroit were guests of Mrs. Cella Palmateer from Friday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sinclair of Pontiac were week-end guests of Mrs. Sinclair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. William Heller of Bad Axe left Wednesday morning to spend the winter with their son, Carl Heller, in California.

Mrs. Frank Dillman spent the first of the week in Detroit, packing her household goods and arranging to have them moved to Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ritter entertained the members of the Mafem Club and their husbands Tuesday. Gifts were exchanged.

Misses Evelyn Schmidt and Velma O'Dell, students at Junior College for Nurses in Port Huron, spent Saturday and Sunday at their parental homes here.

Marlene Dietrich was born in Germany.

Conestoga wagons were made in Pennsylvania.

Members of the parish of St. Agatha Church in Gagetown will attend Mass in the main church auditorium Sunday for the first time since May 15, because of remodeling. Rev. Father Glenn W. Cronkite announced this week.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The grand champion steer exhibited by Leslie Smith at the Junior Livestock show at Detroit sold for $1.65 a pound yesterday (Thursday) morning. The animal weighed 860 pounds. This is the second highest pound price ever paid for a grand champion steer in the history of the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Thompson were installed as worthy matron and worthy patron of the Gifford Chapter No. 369, Order of the Eastern Star Tuesday evening, Dec. 10, in Gagetown.

Members of the Woman's Study Club and other friends of Mrs. Samuel G. Benkelman remembered her with a birthday card shower in observance of her 60th birthday.

Stanley Sharrard is at his home south of town with a broken leg near the ankle, which he received Friday afternoon when a team of mules which he was driving, ran away. The mules were hitched to a sleigh, and while being driven west on Main Street to deliver a load of coal, one of the mules was hit by a snowball, causing them to become frightened. With Mr. Sharrard was Harold Spencer, and both were thrown from the sled but Mr. Spencer was uninjured.

Fifty years of banking in Gagetown will be marked December 19 by J. L. Purdy, president of the State Savings Bank, who with his father founded the institution on December 23, 1890.

M. D. Hartt, who until recent years conducted a grocery store in the Lamont Block, Cass City, expects to open a grocery store in Uby tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Hartt will continue to reside on their farm in Elkland township for the present.

While attempting to put chains on the wheels of a truck Friday, Frank McComb broke three bones in his right hand. A wrench he was using slipped and he struck his hand on the rim of the wheel.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Considerable excitement reigned in Deford Wednesday morning when the school building was discovered on fire at 4:00 a.m. Hocking automobile horns aroused the town's citizens and a bucket brigade, fighting valiantly, put out the blaze which started in the two story. Damage was estimated at $150.

Thomas Colwell, living one and a half miles west of Cass City says that he does not expect to be in the market to buy honey for some time. Monday Mr. Colwell took 125 pounds of honey from the gable end of the upright at the north side of his home. He still has swarms in the south side of the house and one in the east side.

Eight seniors were listed on the honor roll for this marking period. They are: Aletha Morrison, Elizabeth Knight, Janet Allured, Lucille Amfies, Audree Bliss, Blanch Stafford, Emily Tanner and Alex Tvo.

E. W. Keating spent the week end with his son, Harley Keating, and daughter, Miss Caroline Keating, in Detroit.

It is Ordered that on December 22nd, 1965, at 9:30 a.m., in the Probate Courtroom in the Village of Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of Albert Angus MacPhail for probate of a purported will, for granting of administration to the executor named, or some other suitable person, and for a determination of heirs.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule. Dated: November 22, 1965. Schwenker, Wright and Salim by John M. Wright Attorney for petitioner 307 E. Court St. Flint, Michigan. C. Bates Wells, Judge of Probate. A true copy. Beatrice P. Berry, Register of Probate. 12-2-3

Services Monday for Former Resident

James Stuart, 82, of Bad Axe retired farmer and resident for more than 70 years of Huron county, died Thursday night in Hubbard Memorial Hospital after a brief illness. He was a former Holbrook area resident.

Born March 7, 1883, at Grand Bend, Ont., he came when nine years old to Huron county. He and Anna McGilivray were married Nov. 16, 1904, at Bad Axe. They observed their 61st wedding anniversary last month.

Mr. Stuart is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Thelma McIntyre of Warren, Mrs. Edwyna Beason of St. Clair Shores and Mrs. Arzell Mills of Southfield; two sons, Gerald Stuart of Pontiac and Richard Stuart of St. Clair Shores; 21 grandchildren; 32 great-grandchildren; a brother, Joseph Stuart of Harrison, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Keeley in California.

Funeral services were held in a Bad Axe funeral home at 2 p.m. Monday.

Rev. Homer Bassett, pastor of United Missionary Church, officiated. Burial was in Colfax cemetery.

For many pioneers who traveled the Oregon Trail, Oregon City was the last stop.
