Michigan State Highway maps are available only from the Michigan State Highway Department this year. To secure a copy it's necessary to write the map division of the department at Lansing and reserve it. The maps are free on a limited basis and will be mailed early this spring. The Chronicle will not have a supply to distribute.

Because of recent robberies at least one area store is considering attaching a phone alarm system. It works with an electric eye and places a recorded call with the sheriff's department.

It really works, says Gen-Tel Manager Dick Drews. After we install the system, police almost always catch the store owner who forgets about the alarm when in the store after hours.

Something new has been added in basketball at Cass City High School. Friday night will be parents' night. All parents of varsity basketball players will be admitted free. . . and there will be a lovely corsage for mom.

As a small town, Cass City sometimes has trouble providing the variety that customers have become accustomed to and demand. But in the farm fertilizer business the community must rank at or near the top. In the immediate Cass City area there are six firms specializing in farm fertilizers and chemicals.

Plan Two-county Health Clinic

Plans for a four-county health department were torpedoes Tuesday at a joint meeting among representatives from Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer counties in Sandusky.

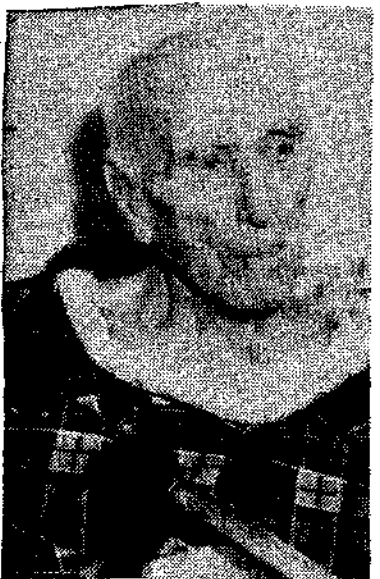

Instead of the single unit, two of the counties formed a joint department and the other two agreed to an associate department.

Tuscola and Lapeer counties will form the joint department to be known as a district health department and Sanilac and Huron counties are to merge as associate departments, according to Tuscola County Clerk Archie Hicks.

Sanilac county originally had its own health department.

Drivers Not Injured

Ticket Two In Accidents

Two persons were ticketed in two of six accidents investigated by Cass City and area police during the past week.

Vernon R. Nureberg, 17, Port Sanilac, was ticketed for passing on the right after his car struck a second car driven by Larry S. Smith, 18, Decker, Tuesday at the corner of Main and Seeger streets.

Riding with Nureberg was his brother, Paul, 18, and also in the Smith car was Thomas Dewey, 16.

Bernice Costello, 58, Bad Axe, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way Thursday, Feb. 10, after she backed from an alley next to the Cass City Hospital and into the path of a car driven by Marlene Navarro, 26, Snover.

Riding in the Navarro vehicle were Anna Smith and Micheline Malisti, both of Decker.

Tires Come Off

No injuries were reported in an unusual accident Saturday morning when a Tuckey Concrete and Block truck, driven by Leo Russell, 44, Owendale, lost two wheels from the left rear tandem at the intersection of Main and Seeger streets.

One tire and wheel slammed into a parked car owned by Arthur Kettlewell, Cass City, in front of the Gamble Store. The second tire and wheel rolled into the right rear fender of a pickup truck which had just turned onto Main, driven by Ray Schweikart, Cass City.

Passing Accident

A passing accident at the intersection of M-81 and M-53 was investigated Friday, Feb. 11, when a car driven by Michael A. Kelly, 17, Lake Orion, attempted to pass a Frutchey Bean Co. truck driven by Donald Root, 28, Cass City, as Root was making a turn.

No injuries were reported and no tickets were issued. Kelly claimed he didn't see Root's turn signals. Sanilac Deputy Don Trowhill and Cass City Patrolman William McKinley investigated.

Mud Blamed

Mud in the parking lot of Stasia's Beauty Shop pulled a car driven by Christine Gunther, 16, Cass City, into the left front fender of a parked car owned by Lyle Richardson, Cass City, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 10. Earlier in the week a second car owned by Richardson was hit while parked at a restaurant.

Backing Accident

A car parked at Hills and Dales General Hospital's entrance Tuesday by Dean Hulien, 18, Cass City, was struck when a second vehicle, driven by James Haney, 64, Caro, was being backed from in front of the entrance. Haney was attempting to leave the parking spot when the accident occurred.

Late Report

A late report from the Sanilac County Sheriff's office reported that Peter Kritzman, 26, Decker, is under investigation for no operator's license on his person following an accident Feb. 6 at the intersection of Cass City and Wheeler roads.

Kritzman's car piled into the rear of the Cass City Police car, driven by Patrolman William McKinley, when the police car stopped for a road sign. McKinley was assisting Sanilac and Huron county police who were chasing another car.

Council Gives Up; Slates Re-bid for Tower Removal

Cass City's plan to have the water tower removed received a temporary setback this week as trustees finally gave up in disgust with the Oak Ridge Water Tank Service Company which had originally received the contract.

The village had been negotiating with the company since the last of October. The firm's bid of $3,795 was about half of the second bidder's price, so the council bent over backwards trying to have them do the work.

But trustees were unable to secure a performance bond or job insurance from Oak Ridge, despite repeated promises of compliance by the company.

Finally, last week, the council washed its hands of the whole affair and this week is again advertising for bids.

The bids will be opened Mar. 7 at 5 p. m. at the Municipal Building.

To Dedicate Gift At Presbyterian Church Sunday

A system of hearing aids given as a memorial to Mrs. Lyle Koepfen will be dedicated in the Presbyterian Church at 11 a. m. Sunday. It was manufactured by the Schulmerich Company, and installed by Robert Fischer and James Golding.

Each hearing aid has its own volume control device, reports the pastor, Dr. Marion Hostetler, "so if the sermon is unacceptable the hearer can turn it off, and still pretend to be listening."

PHOTOGRAPHER AT WORK—When Robert Tavernier isn't painting or remodeling his rural Cass City home, his job as photographer for Jam Handy of Detroit sends him around the world, gives him some close calls and otherwise makes life interesting. Originally from Belgium, the commercial artist turned photographer has been in the movie making business with Jam Handy for 25 years. Here he uses a palette knife while showing his oil painting technique. (Chronicle photo)

Artist Turned Photographer Finds Excitement in Films

Ever wonder what the inside of a cow's stomach looks like in operation?

Robert Tavernier, newcomer to Cass City, knows what the inside of a cow's stomach looks like in operation because he's taken pictures of it.

He also knows what it's like to be in an open cockpit of a smoking plane over the ocean with no life jacket while a Jap Zero is making a shooting run on his craft.

He knows about survival on the African desert and he knows about making movies, a la Hollywood. Tavernier knows about these things because he has experienced them in his 25 years with Jam Handy, Detroit, largest producer of educational and training films in the country.

The photographer and his wife moved to Cass City two months ago. Their base of operations is a compact, 80-acre farm on Lamp-ton Road, about a half-mile south of Kelly Road.

When on assignment, he and his wife rise and shine early in the morning and, leaving Cass City at about 6:30, make the long run into Detroit. When work is done, it's back into the Volkswagen and home by 7:30 p. m.

Tavernier migrated to the United States from Belgium with his sister in 1919 when he was 15. The pair had been separated from their parents, who were already in America, by the start of World War I.

"They came over here just before the war," Tavernier explains. "We were going to follow them but war broke out and put a stop to that."

Career an Accident

Tavernier's film-making career was an accident, he claims.

"I started out as a commercial artist in the early 1920's. I was working in the studio art department in Chicago and they needed somebody to take some pictures so they picked on me. This happened more and more regularly until I finally stayed with it."

Desert Survival

The camera-man's assignments have taken him to Africa's Sahara Desert where he made a desert survival film for the Air Force.

"Essentially the film boiled down to three things," says Tavernier. "Stay put, don't walk and stay in the shade." When asked how he survived, he smiled, been done."

Cow's Stomach

One of his most unusual assignments also gave him a first in the camera world. He was assigned to film the "Rumen Story" for a major feed company and, with the aid of experimental animals at Michigan State University, was the first person to take moving pictures of a cow's stomach in action.

"The cows have windows in their stomachs and with the aid of lights and so forth, I photographed the action as the cows ate and drank. They told me then that it was the first time it had ever

He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of $6.25. In addition he will spend three days in jail. An additional 10 days will be served if fine and costs are not paid.

James Leonard Emmons, 17, of rural Gagetown was arrested twice within a week. Arrested originally by Patrolman Robert Pawlowski of Cass City he paid a fine of $75 and costs of $4.30. His operator's license was suspended for six months.

Friday Emmons was back in Justice Court again. This time he appeared before Justice Downing of Gagetown. He was charged with driving on a revoked operator's license.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was also fined $100 and costs of $24.95. If payment is not made, he will spend an additional 30 days in jail.

Jury Upholds Justice Verdict

A Snover man, appealing a verdict from justice court in an assault and battery case, was found guilty by a six-woman, six-man jury Thursday, Feb. 10, in a Circuit Court session in Caro.

The jury deliberated 37 minutes before rendering the guilty verdict against Michael E. DeBeau of Snover. Circuit Judge James Churchill is expected to reaffirm the justice court verdict.

DeBeau was found guilty in justice court in December, 1964, for the Oct. 18, 1964, assault and battery of Steve Skippy in Gagetown. At that time he was ordered to pay a fine of $100, costs of $12.85 and make restitution for hospital and doctor expenses and loss of wages to Skippy in the sum of $138.07, or spend 90 days in jail.

DeBeau appealed the sentence, claiming he was innocent of the charge; had not been advised of his rights and that restitution was a matter of a civil nature and not within the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace in a criminal complaint.

Members of the jury were: Helen Kelley, Don Harris, Mrs. E. Hodges, Jay Ward, Robert Ewald, Virginia Kirk, Mrs. Charles Witkowski, George Atkins, Marie Thompson, Eleanor Hackey, Howard Buchinger and Paul Nagy.

Tuesday Session
In other court news, Raymond Mittino and Robert Kutscher, college students charged with the theft of a car last November in an attempt to get back to school after being left near Unionville as a fraternity pledge prank, will not be sentenced until June 14. Judge Churchill gave the decision at a court session Tuesday.

A motion to cancel support arrearage in the divorce case of June and Clinton Spencer of Cass City was approved. The couple were married in 1947 and have four children. Mrs. Spencer, charging extreme cruelty, filed for divorce in August, 1965.

Frank G. Chippi of Cass City was found in contempt of court for nonsupport and was ordered to pay his former wife, Catherine, $45.00 a week for the first four weeks and $50.00 per week thereafter.

The couple were married in 1960 in Cass City and have two children. Mrs. Chippi charged extreme cruelty in the suit originally filed in December, 1964. According to the court file, Chippi was over $1,200 in arrears in support payments in November.

Two divorce cases affecting Cass City area persons were filed in County Clerk Archie Hicks' office within the past week.

Judy A. McPhail, charging extreme cruelty, is seeking a divorce from her husband, Robert. The couple were married October 2, 1965. The suit was filed Feb. 9.

Geraldine D. Skripick, Akron, also charged extreme cruelty in her suit against her husband, Frank, Deford. The couple were married in October, 1966, in Wisner and have a son.

Stricken Cass City Soldier on Road to Recovery

The worst is over, said Mrs. Nick Decker Tuesday. Just how long he will be in the hospital we don't know, but he has been improving every day.

Philip Lee Decker, 19, was one of seven soldiers at Lackland Air Force Base who contracted spinal meningitis. Two of the soldiers died of the disease, the other five are in the hospital.

Decker was taking basic training at the base. Officials at the installation shifted operations to another base 500 miles away and the 1,600 men in the two squadrons in which the victims were assigned were isolated from the rest of the personnel.

Decker graduated from Cass City High School in June. He enlisted in the Air Force Jan. 10.

His address is: AB Philip Lee Decker AF 16048786, Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Hold Services for Victim of Burns

Funeral services for Ausey Smithson, 32, burn victim, were held Friday following his death Wednesday morning, Feb. 9, at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City.

Smithson suffered second and third degree burns over 75 per cent of his body when he fell asleep in a chair in his home early Wednesday morning after lighting a cigarette.

A son, Ernest, who was discharged Monday from Hills and Dales, suffered second degree burns on his hands when he tried to beat out the flames after being aroused by his father's screams. The victim was completely engulfed in flames which also ignited curtains in the kitchen.

He was rushed to the hospital for emergency treatment but died about seven hours later from the injuries.

The younger Smithson told officers that his father was often in the habit of getting up in the middle of the night to smoke a cigarette before going back to sleep. Born in Elkland township June 9, 1893, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Smithson. He married Miss Elsie Winger in Cass City in 1905 where they made their home following their marriage.

Mr. Smithson was in the used furniture business for a number of years before retiring.

Surviving, besides his wife, are: four daughters, Mrs. Clarence Ewald of Cass City, Mrs. Carl Vader of Flint, Mrs. Bernard O'Dell of Detroit and Mrs. Joy Smith of Thousand Oaks, Calif., and three sons, William, Roy and Ernest, all of Cass City. Twenty-one grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren also survive. Two brothers preceded him in death.

Rev. Richard Canfield, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated and interment was in Elkland Cemetery. Arrangements were by Little Funeral Home.

FROM THE TOP of the surcharge the sink hole looks something like a freshly plowed field. But looks are deceiv-

ONE OF THE MEN on the top of the pile always watches the action of the bubbling muck to get the right "action" from the tremendous pressure of the pile of dirt.

Road Crew Fighting Bubbling Quagmire for Last Time

Ever since the first corduroy road was built east of Kingston back when Tuscola County was in its infancy, the "sink hole" about a mile from the village has given builders, travelers and area residents headaches.

For this big sea of muck that stretches for 1,000 feet and at places is 22 feet deep has mired cattle, horses, cars, tractors and occasionally given a hunter or passer-by some anxious moments.

Bruce Ruggles who has lived near the treacherous area for 60 years says that he has pulled cattle from the area with only their head showing. When you put a rope around their neck the neck actually stretches before the cozing mud releases its hold, he said.

We had a team of horses mired once when they were fixing the road and my son was hunting a couple of years ago and said that he almost became trapped in the quagmire, Ruggles recalled.

Road Problem

Road builders have known of the problem since the first road sank out of sight...but up to now have been unable to cope with it.

"You'll find three culverts, piled one on top of each other out there", Ruggles said, "and maybe more...there are three that I can remember."

And not only culverts have been lost in the muck. Huge timbers, rocks and pieces of former roads have sunk into the bubbling ooze. Ed Greenleaf of Cass City, the inspector on the job, said that this time the problem is going to be solved...but it's an expensive and time consuming project.

One Way

There is only one way to build a sound road in a situation like this, Greenleaf said, and we are doing it. The muck hole is costing taxpayers a lot of money. The estimated $3½ million that this job costs makes it the largest contract ever let in the Thumb, Greenleaf said, and one of the reasons for it is this quagmire.

It takes a lot of know-how, patience and equipment to make a solid roadbed with the conditions at Kingston.

First you build a huge mound of dirt some 50 feet high and stretch it entirely across the roadway. Station two huge draglines at the edge of the muck and you are ready to begin.

The dirt pile is called a surcharge and its object is to force the muck out of its present position so that a roadbed can be built.

It takes pressure, plenty of it, to do the job properly. Engineers on the job computed that there are four tons of pressure per square foot applied with the surcharge. The pile is constantly bulldozed to maintain the proper crest...for it is the crest breaking away into the hole below that is the key to a proper job. It takes 13 trucks and two loaders working to keep the sand at the right height. Each truck travels about a mile and a quarter with its load.

Done Right

Greenleaf and the crew of the L. W. Edison Co. are convinced that the job is being done right. How do they tell? One way is by what the pressure does to the hole. Like a giant witch's brew, the four tons pressure is forcing huge boulders, rocks, trees, concrete, roadbeds and other items to the surface to be removed with the muck by the two draglines.

At best this is a slow process. One day, Greenleaf said, the crew worked all day and only moved about 10 feet down the road. But it's the only way the road can be built to last, he explained.

Moves Muck

Like death and taxes, it is likely that the muck will always be with us. The road builders aren't removing the muck...just moving it aside.

Trying to move this muck is like trying to seine water with a sieve...as fast as you pick it up it runs right back again.

When the big buckets on the dragline swing the ooze into adjacent fields it promptly sinks back into the earth...but because of the pressure of the surcharge it doesn't run back under the roadbed but forces solid ground to buckle as it starts to sink. There is a ridge about four feet high all along the roadway forced up by the descending muck.

Road Closed

The muck has also been a hardship for residents east of Kingston and the merchants in the village. Because of the huge pile of surcharge, it has been necessary to establish a four-mile detour, even for persons who live along the road.

As soon as we get back to solid ground, Greenleaf said, we'll establish a temporary route for people living on the road.

Another Problem

Greenleaf said that another problem faces the area. Although not connected with this job, he said, the village of Kingston will have a wider road and right smack in the middle of town there is another smaller sink hole.

It's right at the railroad tracks, he explained, and I just don't know how it will be handled, but it will have to be removed if we're going to have a good road, he concluded.

2nd Michelangelo TV Show Slated Feb. 23

The concluding half of the Gas Industry's "Michelangelo, The Last Giant" will be shown February 23, 9-10 p.m., in color, over NBC television.

Part two resumes Michelangelo's life after his work on the Sistine Chapel and ends with his death, shortly before his 38th birthday.

The dialogue by Peter Ustinov, Jose Ferrer's narration and the music of Laurence Rosenthal were hailed in a number of reviews, on previously seen part one of this TV special.

The opinion-makers lauded producer-writer Lou Hazam and director Tom Priestley for the production's photography, special effects, and dramatic script.

The program is a comprehensive portrait of the work and life of the renowned Renaissance master. The two segments were in production for more than a year, and present all known sculpture of the artist. Major filming was accomplished in Italy, primarily in Rome and Florence, where Michelangelo spent his life.

The program is sponsored by the Southeastern Michigan Gas Company as a service to its customers, shareholders and the residents of this area.

Research at the Michigan State University soils experiment station shows that Michigan farmers should be using twice as much lime as they are presently using.

The 1964 USDA census figures will show that of the nation's 3,000,000 farms, ten per cent produce more than half of the nation's produce. Less than fifty per cent of these farms account for 90 per cent of all farm product sales.

More people are employed in the forest industry in the region than in any other segment of the economy.

Dairy herd specialists at Michigan State University are currently experimenting with a longer lactation period. Experiments are based on a 14-month calving cycle and a 365 day lactation period. About 40 heifers are involved in the study.

Hawk Cagers Split Two Games

Cass City's basketball team seems determined to assume the role of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in Thumb B Conference cage games.

Tuesday night was the club's turn to be Mr. Hyde. . . they did everything well to soundly trounce Vassar at Cass City High School, 81-55. Friday night they took the role of Dr. Jekyll and did just about everything wrong in a one-sided loss to Marlette.

Cass City trailed only in the first five minutes of the first quarter. They rallied by the end of the period and then went ahead to stay in the second quarter.

By the end of the third quarter, the Hawks had tucked the game out of reach. Key to the victory was the comparatively easy breaking of Vassar's zone press that resulted in many cheap baskets for the Hawks.

Bob Wallace paced the attack with 28 points as he was free on the side much of the evening against the Vulcans' zone defense.

The Junior Varsity made it a clean sweep in a comparatively easy victory, 96-64.

A hot shooting Marlette Red Raider cage squad scuttled the Cass City Red Hawks Friday night at the Marlette gym, 32-68, and ruined Cass City's bid to move up in the Thumb B Conference standings.

The Raiders exhibited strong rebounding to go with their top shooting to forge in front early in the game and win going away.

Marlette whipped in 30 of 65 tries from the field for a 46 per cent average while Cass City was notching 28 of 75 attempts for 36 per cent.

In an effort to check the good shooting Raiders, Coach John Oswald had his charges checking the Raiders closely. As a result, Cass City was charged with 20 personal fouls, as compared to 14 for Marlette.

The Raiders hit on 22 of 32 attempts from the charity lane. Cass City converted 12 of 19 foul shot tries.

The game was close for the first quarter. Cass City showed balanced scoring to take a narrow 14-12 lead at the end of the first period.

But the Hawks faded in the second quarter and Marlette went in front to stay. With Dale Hager burning the nets for 13 points and Mickey Plummer chipping in nine more, the Raiders racked up a 26-point period while holding Cass City to 18. At the intermission Marlette was in front 23-22.

Neither team was able to exhibit much of an offense in the third period. Dave Schember provided most of Cass City's offense with three field goals for six of the Hawks' 11 points in the period. Marlette countered with 13 points on balanced scoring.

In the early moments of the final period, the Raiders spurred to move the game out of reach. Ross Donley and Al Kitchen paced the attack that netted 30 points. Cass City countered with 23 points. In the final quarter both coaches made liberal use of their bench. Al Wallace, moved into a starting role for the game, led all Cass City scorers with 20 points. Dave Schember, 10 points, was the only other Hawk in double figures.

Hager and Donley both netted 22 points to lead the Raiders.

JV's Win

The Cass City JV's bounced back after losing a heartbreaker the previous week to Frankenthuth to nip the Raiders in the preliminary, 86-64.

Jr. Hawks Win, Lose

Cass City's eighth grade won and lost in games during the week, while the seventh grade team bowed in their only contest.

The eighth graders defeated Deford 36-31. Deford jumped into an 11-6 first quarter lead, but Cass City posted margins in the next three quarters to post the victory. Bruce LaValley led Deford with 17 points while John Smentek hit for 18 for Cass City. Dave Milligan added 11.

In the other game of the week, Marlette bombed Cass City twice.

The seventh grade was outclassed, 47-20. Marlette has a tall team with good ball handlers and shooters. Coach John Bifoss said that the team looked better and made fewer mistakes than it did in the previous game between the two clubs.

Rob Alexander scored 10 points for Cass City. Jerry Smith netted 18 for Marlette.

A big first half was too much for Cass City to overcome and the eighth grade dropped a 41-31 decision. Rebounding and defense weren't as good as it should have been, Bifoss said. Dale Ashmore had 12 points, and Bob King, 10, for Cass City. Ken Harding netted 12 for Marlette.

Junior Hawks Draw Bad Axe in Tourney

The Thumb Junior High Basketball tournament has been slated at Caro Monday, Thursday and Saturday. Eight teams are entered. Cass City will play Bad Axe at 7 p.m.

Other teams in the tourney are: Vassar, Cros-Lex, Lakers, Marlette, Sandusky and Caro. On the basis of the season's play, the Laker team will be favored to cop the event.

Losers of opening games will be pitted against each other Thursday and a consolation champion will be determined along with the tournament champion.

Kingston Township

Resident Succumbs

William E. Shoemaker, 75, of Deford, died in Hills and Dales Hospital Sunday after a short illness.

He was born in Kingston township, Tuscola county, Aug. 17, 1890. He married Zelpha Harrington in 1910 at Caro. She died in 1950.

In 1953, he married Eva Massoli. Mr. Shoemaker served as township supervisor for six years and was retired township treasurer.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge No. 430, F & AM and Puritan Chapter No. 456, OES.

Surviving are his widow; four daughters, Mrs. Ethel Myrdren of Mansfield, O.; Mrs. Margaret Clark of Pontiac; Mrs. Marian Baumunk and Mrs. Betty Schobert, both of Rochester; a son, Richard Shoemaker of Oxford; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Eleanor Smith of Bay City; Mrs. Donna Cotton of Huntington Beach, Calif.; and Mrs. Jean Williams of Corpus Christi, Tex.; a stepson, Gordon Massoli of Fairgrove; a brother, Marshall Shoemaker of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Myrtle McVean of Pontiac; 29 grandchildren, and 23 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the funeral home in Kingston, at 2 p. m. Tuesday, with Rev. Wilbur Traver officiating.

Burial was in Moshier Cemetery.

Hold Final Rites

For John Grimski

Funeral services were conducted at 9 a. m. Wednesday in St. Mary's Catholic Church at Parisville for John Grimski, 70, retired Minden township farmer.

Mr. Grimski was found dead on a couch in his trailer home by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parfaka, who own the property where the trailer was parked.

A pet dog was found dead in the trailer, apparently suffocated by lack of oxygen when food Mr. Grimski had been cooking burned in a pan.

Sanilac Coroner Dr. A. G. Lambert ruled that the victim died of a heart attack.

Mr. Grimski is survived by two brothers, Roman Grimski, Detroit, and Clarence Grimski, Warren, and eight sisters, Mrs. Peter J. Zurek, Mr. Albert Peruski, Mrs. Martha Bezemek and Mrs. Edward Kulish, all of Uby; Mrs. Evans Skoner and Mrs. Howard Pore, both of Detroit; Mrs. George Miller, Cass City, and Mrs. Mary Karlinski, Warren.

Burial was in the St. Mary's Church cemetery. The Rev. Ignatius Woloszyk officiated at final rites.

An idea isn't worth much until a man is found who has the energy and ability to make it work.

Most deer normally lose weight in winter even if they have plenty to eat.

Few events begin on time and none ends on time, except via radio and television.

Your own success is pleasing, and the success of those who are close to you is equally gratifying.

Nick Deckers Set Grand Opening

A former Cass City area couple have announced the grand opening of their furniture store with an ad in this week's issue of the Chronicle.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Decker Jr., owners of the Caro Surplus Store, have announced the event for Friday and Saturday, Feb. 18-19.

Three door prizes have been offered and refreshments will be served throughout the grand opening.

New Secretary For County NFO

A large crowd attended the beef and ham supper sponsored by the National Farmers' Organization Saturday evening at Akron-Fairgrove High School.

In a monthly NFO meeting held at Sacred Heart School in Caro, a new county secretary was elected. Bertram Partlo of Akron is replacing Mrs. William Mott of Unionville.

Top Average for Davis Holstein Herd

A new annual herd production average for milk and butterfat has been announced for the Registered Holstein herd owned by Gilbert Davis, Sandusky.

As reported by Holstein-Friesian Association of America, the herd has completed its latest testing year with an official per-cow average of 14,490 pounds of milk and 539 pounds of butterfat, based on 41 completed lactations.

This herd's performance level compares favorably to the average U. S. cow's annual output of 7,800 pounds of milk and 285 pounds of butterfat. Production averages are calculated on the commonly employed, two milkings per day, 305-day, mature equivalent basis to provide a comparison standard.

About 25 per cent of all the soil samples taken in the state are tested at the soil laboratory at Michigan State University. As part of the nation's first computerized soil testing program, complete analysis of a soil's nutrient needs may be computed in a matter of minutes. To handle the 20,000 annual requests by conventional methods would take about 250 days. The computers do the job in a matter of hours.

Coins made this year will be dated 1965 and carry no mint marks.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

It's A Flagrant Case of Plagiarism

By Dave Kraft

It's reached a point where virtually nothing is sacred anymore. At least that's the impression I get from Lynn Searls whose father shares column writing duties with me here at the Chronicle.

Lynn is at Albion College and it was while doing one of her assignments that she ran across the flagrant cases of plagiarism I've ever seen. I'll let Lynn tell you.

"Dear Mr. Kraft, Having just received the Chronicle today, I have just read my father's 'So It Seems to Me.' When I had fully absorbed the contents of our renowned periodical, I reluctantly put it aside and began to do my English assignment which is The Odyssey. After reading for a time I came across something that truly astounded me. Homer stole from my father!"

At this stage in Lynn's letter, my first inclination was to stop and ask, "Who's Homer?" So I did and was politely informed that Homer was a historian of sorts who wrote about the travels of one Odysseus in returning home after the siege of Troy.

My next question was "Who's Troy?" I was politely informed that he is an actor named "Donahue" who was once married to Susan Pleshette. My next question was, "...well, you know what my next question was."

I felt this sort of thing could go on indefinitely so I decided to read further to see what it was Homer stole from Robert.

Lynn inserted an excerpt from the "Odyssey," which reads in part: "Father!" he cried. "What is this marvel that I see? The walls of the hall, the panels, the pine-wood beams and the soaring pillars all stand out as though there were a blazing fire; or so it seems to me!"

There we have it! "Or so it seems to me." That's just like somebody else spelling "Kommments" - "Kommments."

Of course, this problem is not entirely new to me. I've run into a lot of my stuff in copy by Shakespeare, Keats, Ian Fleming and Mickey Spillane.

To all our fair weather friends in Florida, let me rub a little salt in the wound. The weather here last week was out of this world. Light jackets, beautiful sunshine, the whole ball of wax. Temperatures in the high 40's and low 50's.

Make you drool? Forget it. As of Monday, winter came back from his vacation and we have snow about a knuckle and a half deep outside.

Ah, well, count your blessings. It isn't often that you get a preview in February of the spring that is still two months away.

Got a Valentine card from the Adolph Sattelbergs vacationing in North Tonawanda, N.Y. The Sattelbergs are warm weather residents of Gagetown.

The sentiment in the card really got to me. It read: "I was just settin' and whittlin' and spittin' and watching the old hound dog scratch a flea when I think of you. 'I don't know if it was the whittlin', spittin' or scratching that made me think of you... but anyway, it's the thought that counts.'"

Sattelbergs... ya've touched me deeply.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION URGED

Q. Does the passing of black tar-like stool, indicate trouble?

A. It could. Normally, the color of the stool is determined pretty much by what we eat. Certain drugs, notably iron preparations (which may be used to correct anemia), affect stool color. The discoloration of the stool due to the presence of blood, however, may denote a serious situation. When there is bleeding into the stomach or upper intestine, the digestive processes convert the blood to a black, sticky, tar-like substance. Passage of such material calls for an immediate examination by a physician.

THE ADOPTED CHILD

Q. You have said that the adopted child should be told. OK, but how?

A. Ideally, the process of telling the child should be gradual as the child grows, and should begin when he first asks questions about the matter. Many parents of adopted children need professional help in overcoming their own emotional resistance to making the disclosure. Without such help their anxiety may cause them to make the revelation in a way that creates needless distress in the child. The family physician is often able to assist in lessening the emotional stress.

Feeling below par? See your doctor. Have a prescription? See us for prompt dispensing service.

Mrs. Gary C. Hutchinson

Joanne E. Miljure became the bride of Gary C. Hutchinson Saturday evening, Feb. 5, in the Methodist Church which had been decorated with white pompons and gladioli.

The Rev. James Braid and the Rev. Carmichael officiated at the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Miljure and the son of Orval Hutchinson.

The bride, chose a silk organza floor-length sheath gown with scoop neckline and long wrist-length sleeves. The Empire waistline and cathedral train were outlined with lace. Her forehead headpiece of organza roses held her bouffant veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with velvet leaf trim.

Mrs. Bob Hunter, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Wallace and Miss Susan VanVleet.

All wore sheath floor-length, ruby velvet gowns fashioned with elbow length sleeves and an Empire waist outlined in satin. A butterfly held by satin bows featured their matching bandeaux and they carried bouquets of white pompons and pink roses with velvet leaf trim similar to the bride's.

Lyle Erlenbeck of Saginaw was best man and Art Randall and Bob Hutchinson were groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a reception for 300 guests was held in the Fellowship Hall at the church.

After returning from their wedding trip to Chicago, the young couple will make their home in Saginaw where both are employed.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellows at the country store Saturday night was general agreed that the world of today was hurting in any one place. You don't get deep thinking like this, Mister Editor, from our State Department, and it ain't often you get such grass roots philosophy from the Congress.

What brings this matter up was one of the fellows—and I ain't calling his name at this time—reported he was taking next Tuesday for a holiday on account of it being George Washington's birthday. He allowed as how that was one day out of 365 ever year when he took off complete. Personal, I never heard tell of him hitting a lick at a blacksnake on the other 364 but I didn't say nothing.

But this got Ed Dooittle to wondering what Washington would think if he could take a quick look today at the country he was the father of. Ed, that has took to crutches since the Great Society got in full swing, was of the opinion ole George would ask the Lord to forgive him for ever starting this mess.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, claimed we was going round in circles and getting no place fast. For instant, said Zeke, we got machines that can take ocean water and make it fitten to drink, but we was poisoning our rivers with all kinds of chemicals faster than we can treat the water back like it was. And we got pills for everything that can get wrong with us, pills to slow us down, speed us up, make us sleepy, keep us awake, and just about everything that keeps us from feeling natural. Furthermore allowed Zeke, they was putting more safety gadgets on cars but was making 'em bigger and faster and ever year we set a new record for folks getting killed on fancy highways. We was getting telephones, reported Zeke, that show you who you was talking to, but we live so fast in them big cities a feller don't even know his next door neighbor.

This was a pretty long speech for Zeke and some of the fellows give him a round of applause. Bug Hookum was agreed with Ed and Zeke, said he had saw a piece in the papers where we got more television sets in this country than we got inside toilets. Bug reported he didn't have neither and he figured ole George would be on his side. We was better off, claimed Bug, in George's time when all we knowed about science was that when you thumped a watermelon and it went "plunk" it was ripe, and if it went "plink" it was green. I admit, Mister Editor, they was two sides to this matter, that maybe we ain't making the best of things, but I'd rather be here now than in George's time, even if they was calling garbage collectors "garbologists" in Washington.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

County Irrigation Meeting Planned

A meeting to discuss the development of irrigation in Tuscola County is being planned for Monday, Feb. 21, at 1:30 p. m. in the Supervisors' Room in the Courthouse, Caro.

Attending the meeting will be Jerry Hull, small fruit specialist from Michigan State University, and James Lincoln, district extension horticultural agent from Pontiac.

It is believed that with available water and the development of small irrigation units, many of our rural families can supplement their income from the production of vegetables, small fruits and other crops.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

BOOK REVIEW Pitfalls in Travel To Russia Told

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

Mrs. Little thought that we need to have a change in pace, and selected an account of travel behind the Iron Curtain! However, Caviar For Breakfast is not just a travelogue. It tells of the (true) experiences of Mrs. Corsini, a Russian-born citizen of the United States. Ray never learned to speak Russian, which was undoubtedly part of her parents' total rejection of everything Russian. Mrs. Corsini as an adult had to learn to speak her native tongue to gain the maximum from a proposed trip there.

One of the things that kept cropping up, as she made her plans to visit Russia, was the number of bureaucrats that one has to see to travel anywhere at all in Russia. She had planned, for example, to make her return trip by plane to Paris. However she found it more attractive to go to Budapest via train, which threw the Russian travel experts into a "tizzy". Fortunately, Mrs. Corsini did not give up easily, and found some truly kind officials who not only could, but did pull the right strings, and she left Russia most impressed with the Russian people.

She was assigned a lady interpreter for her stay in her homeland, who would be at the hotel early in the morning, and who would not leave until late afternoon. She found her interpreters very helpful persons, anxious to help her in every way.

To parrot a reviewer about a different piece of writing, "The book told me more about the subject than I wanted to know." Her journalist's eye noticed things that were superfluous, but which she recorded in endless paragraphs. However, the further one reads the more interesting the book became.

The chapter on the Russian theater, for example, seemed to me to move along. The stage plays that were presented always played to "standing room only" theaters. One difference in the Russian theater bears pointing out. The foundation to their theater is in having many repertory companies -- the same actors presenting the differing plays.

A nation that has produced such mountains of literature as authors Tolstoy and Dostoyevsky can be counted on to produce more significant writers, Mrs. Corsini says. We hope that her judgment is justified.

What can be said after reading this book about Russia? The author found the Russian people industrious and courteous. It would appear that from officials she talked with, war with the U.S.A. is not desired.

Night schools began in the U.S. by private enterprises as a result of a requirement that apprentices were to be given an education by their masters. The masters started evening classes so as not to interfere with day work.

Services Held for Mrs. Iris Hicks, 71

Funeral services for Mrs. Iris Hicks, 71, were held Sunday from Little's Funeral Home following her death Thursday, Feb. 10, at Hills and Dales General Hospital where she had been a patient for six weeks. She had been in ill health for six months.

Born in Evergreen township, Sanilac county, June 3, 1894, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bartlette. She married William E. Hicks in Cass City on April 16, 1919, and the couple made their home in the Cass City area.

Mr. Hicks died Oct. 5, 1956. Surviving are: a daughter, Miss Greta Hicks of Roseville, and a son, Russell Hicks of Waterford. Rev. George Harmon, Novesta Baptist Church pastor, officiated. Interment was in the family lot in Novesta Cemetery.

Liz Taylor and Richard Burton will do an opera this summer. Too bad Gilbert and Sullivan aren't around to write it.

Once upon a time a child used to ask his Dad, arriving home, if he brought him something. Today he asks for a dollar so he can go get it himself.

Cow Vaccination Lag Dangerous Says County Agent

Tuscola County dairymen should be concerned that the number of brucellosis vaccinations for dairy calves fell off sharply during 1965, warns Alfred Ballweg, county extension agricultural agent.

Much of the decline can be attributed to a drop in cow numbers, but there are indications that many additional heifers should have been vaccinated.

Ballweg points out that a "little arithmetic" will quickly indicate that our county is falling short of the number of calves we should have vaccinated for normal herd replacements. He says about 25 per cent of the milking herd is culled each year for various reasons. If our county had 10,000 milk cows, 2,500 heifers would be needed for herd replacements. The county with only 1,500 heifers vaccinated would be falling short of normal needs.

"An individual dairyman should vaccinate all his heifer calves unless he knows they will be sold for slaughter," contends Ballweg. "This would assure him a supply of vaccinated heifers for his own herd replacements or additions and would give him the opportunity of selling the surplus animals for dairy or breeding purposes."

State's Universities Complain: Funds Fail to Meet Needs

Just Like Home

Never enough money to do the things desired or necessary: that is the problem of state government as well as most families in Michigan.

Despite a proposal to increase Michigan's spending by $125 million, many complaints have already been heard that some members of the state family will still be forced to live beneath their needs.

Lowest complaints to date have come from the institutions of higher education.

One of the unhappy college spokesmen is University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher. He termed the Governor's budget recommendations "very disappointing" because they "fall far short of meeting the full need."

Higher education is not alone in its demand for greater funds to complete plans for new or expanded programs, build new physical facilities, and hire additional staff.

Whether it be higher education, agriculture, civil rights, mental health, or whatever, a vicious circle develops similar to one common in a private family situation.

Extra income encourages the family to move into a bigger, perhaps newer home. This requires some new furniture and perhaps allows the family members to broaden their activities. There may be room, for example, for a Ping-pong table. This may call for special lighting fixtures, and so the story goes.

The expenditures for equipment all too often get even larger than the extra income which permitted the initial change in the family's life.

Where does it end? Only common sense can keep living costs within the budget, whether it be in a five-member family or among the several units of state government.

Gov. Romney proposes to dip into the fat surplus of revenues for over $88 million in the coming fiscal year spending.

A survey of each agency as it sees its forthcoming needs would, no doubt, show every penny of the current $136 million surplus could be spent and still leave someone crying for more.

Teacher's Looks

Some crises never seem to be resolved. The critical problems of local school districts fall in this category, and particularly the teacher shortage.

As far as memory goes back, it seems school teachers have always been in demand. This year apparently will be no exception. Michigan State University officials report that despite a new high in enrollments of elementary and secondary education students, the supply is still falling short of the demand for teachers at these levels.

Statistics show Michigan State, with 1,600 potential teachers graduated last year, leading the nation in training educators.

Still, Donald F. Harden, MSU placement officer, says the graduates from East Lansing can essentially handpick the area in which to work. This is especially true for elementary school teachers, since greater numbers of students select the secondary level.

Dr. Leland W. Dean, director of MSU's School of Teacher Education, notes that the shortage of elementary schools teachers has been present since World War II. Educators are hesitant to predict when, or even if, the supply will catch up with the demand.

New Look

Reorganization of state government is formally in effect now. A more accurate term for the process might be reshuffling.

HOW DO YOU FEEL . . . ABOUT CHRIST?

Should one hundred persons happen to read this pointed question how delighted I should be if some would really dare reply.

Perhaps you think it no problem for a minister to pose such a question, and yet in the many rounds of parish visitation the conversation generally assumes a much lighter vein - e. g. the weather, state of health, local news, mutual acquaintances, etc., etc. . . . while the question that burns on my heart is: how do you feel about Christ? For, you see, it is my conviction that this is man's most pivotal consideration. Everything meaningful in time and eternity hinges on our relationship to Christ.

But let us be candid! Many in response to this question will say, "Who cares?", others might venture in all honesty, "I seldom think about it." Another would confess, "He is my Lord and Saviour"; while still another might parry with, "Now my philosophy is . . ."

If you have never really thought about your personal stance to this question maybe it's time you did! In fact, why not discuss it with your pastor, your neighbor, or even with your family?

Interior Decoration Extension Topic

Some rooms seem cold, others warm. One room may always appear cluttered, another may look like the furniture is lost in it.

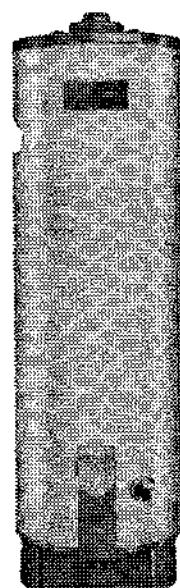

Color and accessories may be part of the answer to these problems. Two lessons will be presented by the Co-operative Extension Service to help homemakers.

Interior Decoration, with emphasis on color, will be taught by Barbara Henrikson at the 4-H Building in Caro at 1:30 - 3:30 on Thursday, Feb. 24.

'Art in the Home' will be taught Monday, Feb. 28, from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. in the 4-H Building by Gertrude Nygren, MSU. This lesson discusses a wide variety of art objects and accessories. The public is invited to attend.
