

From the Editor's Corner

A couple of weeks ago the Chronicle deliberately failed to fill an order for the paper. It was left with us by Mrs. Ella Croft, now vacationing in Europe.

Mrs. Croft wanted to get her paper as soon as possible so she ordered airmail delivery.

But the Chronicle arbitrarily decided Mrs. Croft would have to wait and receive her mail through regular channels.

When we took the paper to the post office we were informed that the postage would be $1.65 and we were afraid that would tax anybody's desire for "instant" news.

There is always someone who can say it better. Over the years we have tried to explain our philosophy about the news, regrettably, without too much success. Bill Vaughan, associate editor of the Kansas City Star, puts it this way:

"Newspapers could be produced more cheaply if they didn't care about the quality of their product, if they printed only those stories which, in the standard line, are what 'sells' newspapers. They might even sell more newspapers, but by and large the newspapers which have tried it have found that any advantages are brief in nature."

"If stories that deal with the real issues of concern to people are not what sell newspapers, in the same sense of having them snatched off the newsstands, they are the kind that build a newspaper over the years, that create a relationship of trust between a newspaper and its readers."

Articles about schools and bond issues and sewers and parks... have a cumulative effect in establishing a newspaper as a factor which is intimately and thoughtfully involved in the affairs of its community.

"There are other businesses, of course, which have found that integrity and quality will, over the long haul, outsell the shoddy product."

"But in another regard, I think the newspaper is unique among businesses. It must, as a matter of course and of deliberate policy, believe that the customer is not always right."

"Our customers are our readers and advertisers. Yet, the newspaper, if it is to keep its self-respect, must at times take political stands which it knows will offend many of its readers and print news stories which it knows will displease an advertiser."

"The result may be a dropped subscription or a canceled ad, but the newspaper has no choice. Or, rather, it does have a choice, but if it compromises, if it lets itself be edited by pressures of whatever kind, then it is through, because eventually this lack of courage and honesty will catch up with it."

"Kin Hubbard, the Hoosier humorist, had a paragraph once which should be inscribed on the stone over the entrance of every school of journalism."

"Tilford Moots was over to the poor farm to see an old friend who published a newspaper to please everybody."

Petition Deadline Nearing for School Board Candidates

Deadline for filing petitions for candidates for the Cass City School Board is Saturday, May 14. Supt. Donald Crouse reminded district electors this week.

This year the term of Elwyn Helwig is expiring. Petitions to re-elect Helwig to the board are being circulated.

To become a candidate on the ballot, a petition with the signatures of at least 25 qualified electors is suggested.

Petition forms are available at the school and should be filed with William Ruhl before the deadline.

Expansion to Aid Phone Service

R. W. Drews, district manager of the General Telephone Company, has announced that a new switching equipment addition was completed in the Cass City dial office Friday.

This equipment cost an estimated $17,500 and adds 200 lines and 100 terminals to the existing facilities. This equipment will be utilized to provide additional urban service and aid the rural upgrading program.

The addition is expected to help in the company's program to reduce all rural party lines from 10-party to four-party, Drews explained, and to make available more one-party lines in the village.

Okay Payment Plan For Parking Lots

Two businessmen appeared before the Cass City Village Council Tuesday night in connection with the upcoming installation of parking meters and the off-street parking program.

Arian Hartwick, owner of Hartwick's Grocery at the corner of Leach and Main Streets, protested the placing of parking meters on the side streets. I estimate that in my business, he said, parking meters on Leach will cost me 10 to 20 per cent of my business.

The council listened without comment with the exception of a remark by Mrs. Gladys Albee who suggested that the new parking lot leased by the village should help the store's business, not hinder it. The second visitor was James Gross, owner of Gross & Maier Meat Market.

Gross has been a pioneer in off-street parking in Cass City. He owns a parking lot midway between Oak and Seever streets facing the alley immediately south of Main Street.

He has donated the use of this lot for parking for several years. The village has leased it free, foregoing only the taxes, for many years.

During this time, upkeep of the alley has been nominal, Gross said, and cars have been abandoned there. One car has been in the lot for a year without a license on it, he added.

Since the village is going into the leasing business, I would like to hear the plans for all parking in the village.

A discussion followed and it was decided that lots would be paid for on the basis of the number of cars they would park.

The per car amount is expected to be computed by counting the number of cars the Jackson lot will hold and dividing it into the payment authorized for this lot.

For Local Banks

Assets

Pass $12 Million

Reflecting the general prosperity of the nation and the area, the reports of condition of Cass City's two banks showed a spectacular increase in savings and total assets.

For the first time the total assets of the two banks has passed the $12 million mark and savings deposits have also swelled.

In January five years ago, the assets of the two banks totaled just under $8 1/2 million and as recently as January 1965 the statements of condition showed that the combined assets were only slightly over $10 1/2 million.

In 15 months the assets have jumped about $1 1/2 million.

A complete statement of condition for both the Pinney State Bank and the Cass City State Bank is printed in this issue.

($95 per month.)

Just when the payment for the Gross lot will be authorized was not discussed. Trustees talked about finding enough money for the project and said that they would like to find some off-street parking in every block.

Inch Forward

Another project that has been under motion for two years inched forward, it was revealed at the meeting. The petitions for paving the alleys adjacent to Main Street are ready for signatures.

According to trustees, an estimate of 25 cents per square foot for the work has been received. This will include grading and two-inch thick blacktopping, but not any gravel needed to bring the area up to proper height.

Little Denise Osentoski Due Home Healthy

Five-year-old Denise Osentoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Osentoski Jr. of New Greenleaf, will be coming home this week end on the rapid road to recovery from a heart defect.

The good news was reported by the child's mother after the results of heart surgery at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit were definitely determined to be successful.

Little Denise was born with a hole in the wall of her heart the size of a pencil, Mrs. Osentoski said, and surgeons sewed the hole in an operation that took three hours.

Doctors have been watching the defect since it was discovered at birth, hoping that it might cure itself. The defect stabilized recently and the decision to operate was made, Mrs. Osentoski explained.

After the youngster returns home her activities will be partially restricted for four weeks.

After this, it is anticipated that she will be completely recovered.

Village Dump to Be Open Longer

Because several village trustees have been requested to lengthen the hours the village dump is open on Saturday, steps have been taken to lengthen the open hours during the critical spring clean-up period.

Village President Lambert Althaver said that steps would be taken to have the dump open all day Saturday for at least a few weeks.

Year-around Fun for Wallaces

Need Strength, Skill, Stamina For Bike Racing at 24 mph

If you have been seeing more and more of those men in black leather jackets and black leather boots scooting up and down the highway on motorcycles recently, don't worry.

For these are not members of those widely publicized hoodlum gangs, but proud family men who hold down responsible positions and ride their bikes as a hobby.

Instead of nine holes of golf, or baseball or fishing, these fellows get their kicks from participating in the many events designed for fun on a motorcycle.

Typical of the growing breed is Richard Wallace, 27, Cass City, who has been riding and tinkering with bikes since he was 14 years old.

Wallace will casually tell you where he works (Chevrolet in Bay City), explain about his army service (Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.) and discuss other aspects of his life without much emotion, but when he talks about the Jackpine, the biggest race in the Midwest and one of the greatest in the nation, his eyes light up and you know this is his consuming interest. He's like a little boy in a candy store.

For him, this fun and excitement stretches back to boyhood days and is a trait he inherited from his dad, even though his father never rode a bike.

When my dad was a boy, Wallace explained, he wanted a bike real bad and his dad never would let him have one. So when I got the bug at 14, dad made sure I wasn't going to be frustrated like he was and he let me have my first bike.

Year Around

While you naturally do more bike riding in summer than in winter, riding is a year around avocation for a dedicated rider like Wallace.

The Wallaces live on M-53, about four miles east and three miles south of Cass City, and about a half mile from the South Branch of the Cass River.

It's nothing for Wallace to slip down with a half dozen of the local bike fans for a Sunday of racing on the river ice. It's not dangerous, Wallace said casually, we put a third wheel on the side of the bike.

...but you still don't have real good control when you try to race. It's not like a land event.

But all of the winter bike repairing and the ice racing are just a prelude to the summer season that was slated to open in earnest last week end.

A big race that Wallace and the family were to have attended was at Acherville, Ind., and is called the Burr Oak.

Lifesaving Microbe May Lurk in Your Backyard

There may be a lifesaving drug in the dirt in your back yard, Tom Proctor told members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

For the antibiotic drugs that are saving lives every day, Proctor said, are living organisms found in the dirt around the world.

Since penicillin was discovered in 1928, scientists have been on the lookout for other drugs useful in medicine, Proctor explained, and many have been found.

Starting with the sulfas in 1935, new drugs are constantly being discovered that prolong or save lives, Proctor said.

The guest speaker traced the history of the drugs, included some so new that they are not yet in general usage.

Proctor also said that persons buying drugs in the Thumb and in Cass City are buying at a bargain. He explained that as a whole many staples are rapidly increasing in price, he pointed out, if you use 100 as the normal price index, drugs are now selling at an index figure of 90. In addition to this, he said, drugs in Cass City are selling for less than the national average.

The race is an Enduro event 175 miles long. . . one of five or six different kinds of races designed for motorcyclists and the event that Wallace specializes in. In the Enduro the object is not to beat the next fellow, but to race your bike over near impossible terrain. . . hills, dales, rivers, bogs. . . and to average exactly 24 miles per hour when you finish the race. If you finish over an hour behind schedule you are automatically disqualified.

And it's a lot harder than you think, Wallace explained. In the Jackpine, there are 400 or more bikes entered and only 30 or 40 ever finish. I've entered twice. Wallace continued, and never finished. One time I lasted 25 miles and the second, 100 miles. The first time I got stuck in the mud and couldn't get out in time and the second, my bike broke.

Rigorous Grind

Wallace, a lanky, black-haired youth who obviously is in good physical condition, said that he didn't even care to think about his chances in Indiana. Racing is grueling and after you've handled a bike around a tough course for 100 miles or more, every bone in your body feels it, he said. The first race of the season you aren't in very good shape for the grind.

Besides the Enduro races and the ice races, there are the flat track events, where racers compete one against the other in the conventional way of all races; scrambles, which is a race on short courses, and races where the winners are decided by luck rather than racing skill.

"We might go out on a Sunday afternoon, follow the arrows and ever so often pick up a piece of paper with a number on it and then return back to base", Wallace explained. Each number has a certain value and the riders lucky enough to get the best score get Concluded on page three.

Need $250,000 More

Builders to Start School

With the opening of the electrical bids Tuesday for the new Cass City High School, complete figures on the cost of construction reveal that the district's bond issue of 1.6 million will be $250,000 short of providing a quality school for the pupils in the area.

The lower of the two electrical bids was $17,000 over estimates. Low bid was submitted by Wagner-Patten of Sandusky for $157,735. A bid by Southeastern Electric totaled $169,900.

The money shortage placed the board in a dilemma. The normal procedure would be to ask for more money before starting construction.

However, conferences with architects and builders revealed that the odds were great that any delay in building would only result in another boost in the price of construction.

Five Injured In One of Several Accidents

Adrian Leslie Hutchinson, 32, of Cass City and four passengers were injured Wednesday, April 20, when Hutchinson was unable to stop at a dead end road and skidded 165 feet into a ditch.

The accident occurred at 8:30 p. m. when Hutchinson travelling south on Lee Hill Road, skidded 165 feet into a ditch bank at the intersection of M-46.

Injured were Grace Hutchinson, 24, and three children, David, 2, Lori Boumerette, 4, and Steve Boumerette, 7.

All received cuts and bruises and were treated at Caro Community Hospital.

According to the report to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, there were no signs indicating a stop or a dead end where the crash occurred.

Treated for injuries at Hills and Dales Community Hospital in another area accident Thursday was Anna M. Smith, 27, of Decker. She suffered facial lacerations and cuts on her leg and right side.

The accident occurred on Bevons Road, about 300 feet from Clotheir Road in Kingston township. Mrs. Smith reported that a car blocked the road when she attempted to turn from M-53 to go home on Decker Road. She turned on Bevons road and the car followed her. She became frightened and lost control of the car, hitting a wood sign. The car was declared a total wreck.

Two other drivers were involved in non-injury mishaps, according to the police report.

John Kostanko, 17, lost control of his car Saturday on Cedar Road in Elmwood township. A passenger in the car, Lee Severen, was injured. The car was declared a total wreck. Kostanko lost control on a curve, went into an adjacent field and rolled over two times, police said.

The left rear fender of a truck owned by James McDonald of Cass City was damaged in the parking lot of Ed and Ann's Cafe, Caro, Tuesday, April 19. A car driven by John Sheridan, 63, backed into the McDonald truck. The car was not damaged.

Meanwhile, just one accident was reported within the Cass City village limits. Otto Lemke, 71, of Cass City backed from a driveway across Doerr Road into a house trailer parked at the Nelson Gremel property.

The crash smashed a hole in the front and damaged the side of the house trailer. The car was undamaged.

To Air Fire Problems

Plan Twp. Meeting

Look for a good old-fashioned town meeting in the near future to decide what will be done to improve the Elkland Township Fire Department.

Supervisor Ed Golding said that a town meeting had been discussed informally at a meeting Thursday attended by Village President Lambert Althaver.

We want to find out what the people want us to do, Golding said, and this meeting should help us determine it.

Some of the questions expected to be up for consideration will be whether or not to purchase the former H. O. Paul building, if available, and whether or not the village should pay extra for having a fire truck always in the village.

It was pointed out at the informal discussion that the village pumper was purchased by contributions from the rural area, excluding the village.

Golding explained that the township could buy any building for fire protection purposes on a land contract and payment stretched out over a period of years.

Several schools caught with insufficient funds went back to the voters for more money, only to find that increased costs made the second grant inadequate for the building when new bids were received, building authorities explained.

The alternative to waiting for the results of a new bond issue is to start construction and trust that the voters will approve the money necessary to complete the school.

The board Tuesday decided to award the bids and start construction as the lesser of the two evils. We cannot complete the school with the money we now have, Supt. Donald Crouse said. The board plans to ask for additional funds at the regular school election in June.

Just what the additional tax will be had not been computed at press time, Crouse said.

It will definitely be under one mill ($1.00 per $1,000 of state's equalized valuation), the superintendent explained.

Last week the estimate was that the school would be $185,000 short of the funds necessary to build.

The $65,000 additional shortage can be traced to several factors, Crouse said. First, of course, the bid was $17,000 higher for the electrical work.

Second, the board had an option of placing lights on the parking field and blacktopping the driveway and parking lot. This work adds another estimated $34,000 to the school costs.

Allowing $13,000 for contingencies, the amount needed to finish the school is $250,000.

For the money available the school will be able to build the shell of the building, but not equip it so that it can be used for instruction.

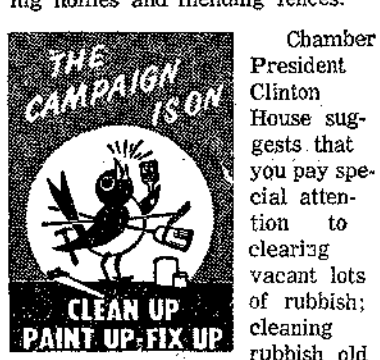

The board is gambling that the taxpayers will see the project through to a successful conclusion.

Urge All Out Drive in Annual Village Clean-up

The annual paint-up, fix-up and clean-up drive in Cass City opens Monday and members of the village council and Chamber of Commerce are asking for an all-out drive to beautify Cass City. The drive ends Saturday night.

To stimulate the event, the village has ordered free pickup Thursday, Friday and Saturday of all refuse collected by home owners.

Suggested projects include: cleaning all rubbish from back and front yards; planting new grass on bare spots; trimming hedges; painting homes and mending fences.

papers and other debris from basements, attics and garages and repairing sidewalks.

Persons wishing to take advantage of the free pick-up service should have the accumulated debris placed in front of their home, authorities said.

House pointed out that cleaning up is one easy and comparatively inexpensive way of placing Cass City's best foot forward when out-of-town visitors and prospective residents visit the community.

Lots of Help for Police Department

Most persons in business and industry would like to have their jobs as attractive to workers as police work evidently is. The announcement that a third man was needed in the village brought 16 applicants.

The committee in charge screened the 16 down to six and the council discussed the remaining six after the regular meeting Tuesday night.

The man will be selected after personal interviews Thursday, May 5.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by H. M. Bulen

Here's an interesting point to think about . . . Whenever a father . . . or anyone . . . teaches a youngster how to hit a baseball, they always say to put your hands together on the bat . . . Yet, did you know that two of the greatest hitters in the history of baseball used a different way of hitting? . . . Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner batted with their hands separated on the bat . . . They each had one hand spaced apart a few inches from the other on the handle of the bat . . . Isn't it strange that no one tries to bat that way today? . . . Cobb had the highest lifetime batting average of all time, .367 and Wagner's was .329.

And speaking of odd batting positions, one of the strangest belonged to Al Simmons who played in the majors for 20 years between 1924 and 1944 . . . He always stepped away from the plate with his left, or front, foot while hitting, or, as it's known in baseball slang, he "stepped in the bucket" . . . If any batter does that today, he's instructed not to . . . You aren't supposed to be able to hit that way . . . Yet, Simmons who did it all of his career is in the Hall of Fame, and wound up with a lifetime batting average of .334!

Band Takes Two Rating at State

For the first time in five years, the Cass City High School Senior Band was eligible to compete in the State Band and Orchestra Festival at Grand Blanc.

The band earned the right to compete Saturday when it received a Division I rating at a recent district festival.

In the state festival the band was awarded a Division II rating and most members expressed satisfaction with the next-to-top rating. Bands are rated on performances on a numerical basis, one through five.

The band plays three numbers, including a march, a required number and a concert selection. The band selects the march and concert piece and the required number is selected by band directors of the State. All bands in each class play the same selection.

In addition, the band sight reads a march and concert selection for a judge. Saturday the judging was by three prominent band directors, Leonard Falcone, Jack McKindley and Charles S. Peters.

Among the comments was one by Falcone who said, "usually this band plays well together and cleanly, and at times it produces quite a nice tone".

The judges suggested that individual members practice more scales, work for clean attacks and watch the director. In the last three years, under the direction of Ronald Walker, the band has shown steady improvement, climbing from a Division III to a Division I rating.

For finishing second at the State the band received a plaque.

MOTORCYCLE RACER

A prize. That way anyone can win and it helps the inexperienced rider share in the fun", he concluded.

Whole Family
And not only the riders share the fun. With the Wallaces, the whole family gets into the act. Most of the time, daughter, Karen, 3, and Mrs. Wallace go along to the events.

When they do they meet a lot of old friends. Many of our friends are families of other bike riders and when we get together socially, you'll always find the men off in a corner discussing motorcycles and racing. Mrs. Wallace said ruefully.

Growing Sport
Riding bikes the way Wallace does is a fast growing sport. So many are located in the Thumb that a club has been founded. Called the Lucky Thumb, the riders meet once a month. There are some 20 active members now and already the club has purchased 40 acres, two miles west of Hemans as a club grounds.

Among these members you'll undoubtedly find all three classes of bikes. For racing they are divided into flyweight, lightweight and heavyweight classes, all determined by the power of the engine.

Regardless of the size of the bike, the riders rarely go faster than 65 miles per hour and fatal injuries are very infrequent. But in events like the Jackpine, Wallace said, the hospitals in Northern Michigan (the event ends at West Branch) are sometimes crowded with riders suffering from cuts, bruises, sprains and assorted other relatively minor injuries.

Changes Bikes
Last year Wallace had a lightweight bike, but this year he graduated into a heavyweight bike.

Although he has some $1,150 invested in this bike, the cost of equipment for his hobby has been comparatively small. The bike he sold last year brought Wallace about as many dollars as he had invested in it. . . not counting the hours he spent repairing and re-vamping it.

And how could you figure the labor was worth anything?

It was a labor of love.

A highbrow is a person who can stand boredom without complaining.

New Era Dems

IT'S NOT A BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWO but it will carry a couple in a pinch, says Mrs. Keith McConkey, as she mounts her unusual three-wheeler for the Chronicle cameraman. Despite the evidence of this picture, most of the time husband Keith rides his own bike, just visible in the background. Mrs. McConkey never learned to ride a bike as a child and the three-wheeler is the only way that she is able to participate in the activity that has proved to be "lots of fun for both of us."

Letter to Editor

Dear Sir:

The matter of parking in Cass City will bring many problems. It should be given the utmost consideration and thought, because it affects the life of out-community and downtown Cass City.

I read with great interest the editorial and comments by John Haire and concur with him concerning the actions of our trustees. This is a matter of importance, not only to the business places, but to the people of Cass City and the surrounding community. Any issue of this magnitude should be given more careful thought and not settled at closed meetings. What would be the consensus of opinion if this were brought to a vote by the people that are affected?

The issue of free parking on side streets surely does not make for sound judgment. The main concern at this time is for free, adequate parking. So does it make good and sound reasoning to place parking meters on side streets and then lease a lot for the same purpose? The issue of benefiting some merchants more than others is not justified. Will the proposed parking lot benefit every one equally? Free parking on the side streets would accommodate far more cars than all the parking lots that could be created in Cass City and we will, as merchants and citizens, receive a measure of benefit from them.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge Better Living, Better Morals Go Together?

Marion Hostetler

A couple of weeks ago I suggested that we might all chip in some money to drill a well in the village in Bolivia where Jim Ross is stationed as a Peace Corps volunteer. Several folks have said they would like to help out.

"One thing I like about it," said Curt Hunt, "is that we would know where our money was going."

This points up one problem with the foreign aid of the federal government and the general mission programs of churches: the average citizen doesn't know what becomes of his money. And from time to time we do hear reports or rumors about gifts that have gone astray.

Once I was talking with a young Korean student who was studying in this country. He told me that our government had built modest cement block houses for Koreans whose homes had been destroyed in the Korean conflict. The houses were to be sold to the peasants, as I recall his story, for a down payment of $100 and a small monthly rental. But hardly anyone had even $100, so the local money-lender anted up the $100 for each family, and took a mortgage on all the houses. Before long he owned all the houses, and the poor people whom the program was designed to help were either paying higher rent or were out in the cold.

Of course it isn't possible to have someone personally known to us in every spot on the globe in which there is human need and suffering. So as a general rule we do our giving anonymously. This is not necessarily bad.

A few years ago when coated lenses for cameras first became popular, someone wondered whether he could send in the lens from his favorite camera and have it coated with the one-atom-thick coating that reduces reflection and improves the efficiency of the lens. The answer was that the lens-makers don't like to take in somebody else's lens, because something might happen to it. "If we are coating a thousand new lenses and one of them chips or breaks we can throw it into the scrap bin and nobody worries about it. But when we are coating a particular lens, if it chips we have a problem on our hands."

The alternative to "personal attention" is "mass production." Even if we can't know exactly what happens to our charitable dollars, and even though some of them (like the chipped lens) may come to no good end, we can still be reasonably sure that most of them will help somebody who needs help.

"Before we really do anything about a well for Jim," suggested Art Holmberg, we ought to find out what the Peace Corps thinks about it. The original thought behind the Peace Corps was to help people help themselves. We might be defeating the purpose if we tie it in with 'foreign aid'."

"I remember reading that there are tin mines in Bolivia," said Orion Cardew. "If there are tin mines, there are mountains. If Jim is living in the mountains, it might be quite a project to get through the rock to reach water." Here was another matter that had to be explored.

Theft is another problem to think about. Jim Ross handed forty Christmas cards to a truck driver to mail for him at a post office several miles away. The cards were never delivered in this country, so presumably the truck driver removed the air mail stamps and sold them. Maybe he sold the cards, too.

People like that might steal a pump handle if they could think of something to do with it. "Perhaps we should be trying to improve their moral standards, instead of improving their water supply," I thought. But then I remembered that many people here in Cass City who would say "It is wrong to steal," would say no to the question, "Is it wrong for a father to steal a loaf of bread if his children are starving?" And if the average family income in Bolivia is $2 or $3 a week, stealing a stamp or a pump is not much different from stealing a loaf of bread. Better living conditions and better moral standards may go together.

Annual Breakfast At Wilmot May 8

LOTS OF GODS

Rev. R. E. Betts, Salem EUB Church

The Greeks of Paul's day had lots of gods, in fact so many that one statue was in honor of "the unknown god" just in case they had missed one. A good many of us in America will profess to be Christian, but who would know it?

The god of pleasure will garner more worshippers than Christ on any given Sunday. "While people believe in God they are not concerned with God," writes Erich Fromm. Just watch the gamblers, golfers, boaters and swimmers ride by the church more bent on fun than fellowship with God.

The gods of sexualism and sensuality are also having their heyday. Tons of filth pour off the presses to be devoured by the foolish. Girlie movies, sexy glossies and downright perverted paperbacks are to be found right around home and few persons object. In spite of the adamant Biblical code we moderns prefer to exercise a "new morality."

But old "two-face" is our favorite god! We believe in church only never bother to attend and support it. Honesty is the best policy, but cheating is more profitable. Drunkenness is shameful, but there is nothing wrong with the social drink. Every man ought to have a faith, only don't take it too seriously. Religion is good, just never let it interfere with business or pleasure.

In the wake of such idolatry spawn the seeds of our own destruction. Listen to God's Word: "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that will he also reap. For he who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption; but he who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life." Gal. 6:7, 8.

Let us honestly face the issue! Am I part of the problem or part of the solution?

Deluge of Last Minute Bills Creates Legislative Log Jam

Swamped

Despite a much heavier work load in the early weeks of the 1966 session, legislators are again faced with the same log jam as in previous years.

There had been hopes that the carry-over provision of the Constitution, which allowed last year's unfinished proposals to be considered this session, would have averted the annual downpour when the various deadlines occurred.

When the deadline for reporting bills from committee arrived, several hundred measures were placed on the calendar in each house where they could live for only three weeks. The next deadline was preceded by nearly marathons daily meetings.

One veteran lawmaker accurately described the situation facing him and his colleagues: "We have the vehicles here to do just about anything we want to do."

In other words, enough bills had been introduced and given tentative committee approval to enable amendment of almost any given portion of Michigan's many laws. All the legislature needs to change a certain law is to have a portion of it before them in printed form. Unbelievable as it may sound to those totally unfamiliar with the legislative process, committees did cut about 1,000 bills before the reporting deadline occurred.

Procedural changes are being considered which might avert this shotgun approach to lawmaking in the future.

Legislative spokesmen say beefing up the staff of the Legislative Service Bureau, which writes the bills on request, and reactivation of an advisory council for the bureau can help to avoid duplication of bills introduced.

This in itself would eliminate a good number of the original count, since some legislators will request a bill, even knowing it has already been introduced, simply to be able to report to constituents that they introduced it.

There is considerable room for improvement in this and other facets of the process if the Michigan legislature is to come up to its intended image as a 20th Century operation.

Progress

New facilities, improved methods and added staff have combined in the past few years to put the Michigan Mental Health Department in a relatively good position regarding patient care in all but one area of concern.

One of the biggest laments heard in recent years was that waiting lists for commitment to mental hospitals are out of hand. At several times there were reported to be as many as 1,500 people awaiting care, including mentally ill children, adults and court-committed criminals.

The most recent report available from the department now indicates the waiting list of mentally ill children has been cut down to 250. This is still a seemingly interminable wait if you know someone on the list, but it represents real progress. Comparable adult figures stand at around 225, as of early this year.

Coupled with these sharp cuts in the formal waiting lists is word from the department that emergencies can be met now.

There have been times when judges were pounding on the Governor's door seeking help to get committed criminals into mental hospitals. They cannot be kept in many local detention facilities because of the lack of segregated facilities required.

The department says three of the mental hospitals serving adults have no waiting lists and all are able to admit emergency cases without delay.

Care for retarded children is a different and discouraging story. Despite a sharp increase in the number of people served in this area, the waiting list remains high.

Waiting list for retarded, with the opening of new buildings and the addition of more than 300 beds during the 1964-65 fiscal year, decreased 12 per cent. This lowered it from 1,782 to 1,577.

Feed Quality, Price Concern of Farmer

"What does it cost?" and "what am I getting?" should be the two first questions the farmer asks when he buys seed, according to Alfred Baltweg, county extension agricultural agent.

"There's more than price when it comes to buying seed for your field crops," advised the county Extension agent in pointing out that germination, freedom from noxious weed seeds, varietal purity and other factors are important.

"Read the attached labels," is further advice given by the agricultural authority. Law requires that an analysis tag be attached to each shipment of seeds. It must tell something about the percentage of seed that will germinate, how pure it is and give other facts.

Farmers who try to save money on buying "seed bargains" sometimes end up with a poor crop. The agent says records show that the cost of labor and fertilizer, use of the land and other factors make up the greatest cost of growing a crop. Seed alone is a very minor cost.

This is why he advises that farmers read and compare the information on the tag attached to the seed bags or containers. Often the lowest priced seed is not the best buy.

Charles Gretz, 39

Dies in Farm Home

Charles Clarence Gretz, 39, of Decker was found dead Wednesday morning, April 20, at his farm home on West Mushroom Road by a neighbor.

Mr. Gretz was born Aug. 27, 1926, in Windber, Pa., son of the late George and Verna Gretz. He came to this area with his parents, residing in Crosswell and on the farm where he died.

He attended Fox School. He was a farmer and operated a gravel truck.

Mr. Gretz never married. He attended St. Pancratius Catholic Church, Cass City.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Daniel Papp of Cass City, and six brothers, Andrew of Dearborn, Gaze of Rockville, Md., George and James, both of Decker, Joseph of Detroit and Michael of Bad Axe.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning, April 23, at St. Pancratius Catholic Church and burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Perhaps because of increased consciousness of various problems of the retarded, the waiting list cut didn't last. By the first part of this year the waiting list had climbed again to almost 1,700.

Try Again

It almost sounded like a revival of old phonograph records, or a television re-run.

Although making a little less public noise about it, Gov. George Romney was enlisted again to help a group of Detroit citizens make a pitch for the 1972 Olympic Games.

Much ado surrounded the bid made to get the Games in 1968, but Mexico City got the decision. The legislature passed a pair of bills to help the Motor City build a big stadium and improve the state fairgrounds to accommodate various competitive events.

Once again the bid is being made, this time in competition with Munich, Germany, and Montreal, Canada.

Infant Dies in Marlette Hospital

Scott Allen Miller, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Miller of Sandusky, died Saturday, April 23, in Marlette Hospital.

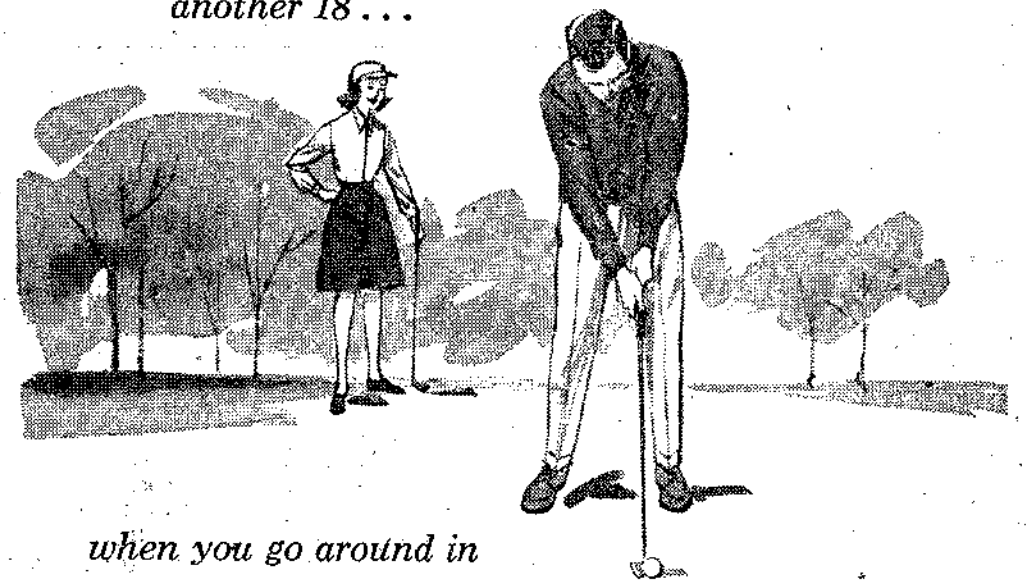

He is survived by his parents, four brothers, Dale, James, Kent and Michael; four sisters, Candy, Pamela, Sheila and Vicky; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of Sandusky and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Watson of Decker.

Funeral services were held Monday in the chapel at Greenwood cemetery.

The Rev. Robert Fallgatter, pastor of the Juhl Lutheran Church, officiated.

Need Credit to Aid Farmers--Kebler

We all remember this adage, "for the loss of a nail the shoe was lost, for the loss of the shoe the horse was lost, for the loss of the horse the battle was lost, and for the loss of the battle a kingdom was lost".

We may change this adage to say, "for the loss of credit the farm was lost, for the loss of the farm a family local economy was lost and with the loss of local economy the community was lost".

This is a lengthy saying but there is more truth than fiction in this one, remarks Don R. Kebler, extension agricultural agent.

As we look around us we see potentially sound farming operations for lack of youth to take over the reins. To make this more impressive look at your neighbors on the farms and ask yourself, will he be retiring in another 10 to 15 years like myself? There are a large number in this early pre-retirement position.

Many believe our decreasing individual farm number is due to high costs and low returns. Others blame it on food surpluses or something else. They are correct in part but one of the biggest causes is lack of farm credit promotion by local lending agencies.

In many rural community areas the long established lending agencies have forgotten where their business got its start and growth. They have forgotten what it was to share the worries, concerns or happiness of success with their farmer friend customers. Some of the same lending agencies have now allowed old age, over precaution and declining knowledge of farming business economics to close their doors to potential sound farm business operations and operators. They have taken the easy way out. They are financing on lesser risk items as movable goods, automobiles, furniture, etc. But is this less risk financing less risky?

If agriculture is allowed to die on the vine due to lack of development and growth promoting loans, these local lending agencies will wither on the vine as the community dies also. Heavy goods which bring money into a community stimulate that community's growth. Movable goods take money from the community. Agricultural goods bring money into an area from all over the state, nation and world.

A farmer receives this outside money for his goods and spends it locally so the non-farm business shares proportionately.

Reduce the number of farm families or individual farm operations and we reduce the number of earners and spenders of outside capital in the community. The only way to replace this loss in farmer income and spending is to allow heavy industry into the area.

Farming is not a business worthy of turning one's financial aid back upon. How many 100,000 dollar businesses exist in an agricultural community besides farming operations? In many agricultural communities at least 1,000 such investment size operations or larger are present. The operating expenses of these farm businesses support local businesses, the owners of which buy automobiles, furniture, clothing and other needs for life.

And if these farming businesses were not sound, they never would have accrued this investment size.

Strong Democrats Avoid Romney

The Other Foot
Cycles of activity can be seen in several facets of state government. The ups and downs of economic activity have produced fairly regular peaks and dips in the state's financial stability over the past 20 years or so.
A new cycle may now be recurring in the field of political activity. G. Mennen Williams started one cyclical change in 1948 when he was elected governor against tremendous odds.
As the terms he served added up, Republicans began to have difficulty finding people to place on the ticket against this seemingly unbeatable incumbent. Now the Democrats have to attempt to change the cycle but they are encountering the same difficulty in finding a winner.
When Williams decided not to run in 1960 the GOP had great hopes of changing the cycle, but Williams' popularity helped his protege, John B. Swainson, get elected.
Two years later, Swainson had time to make a few mistakes on his own. All during that term the Republican master-minds were searching for a candidate to go against Swainson on his own record. Forward came present Gov. George Romney, a winner in his every effort, it seemed.
Now going into the end of his second term, Romney looms as unbeatable as Williams during his long tenure.
So the Democrats have been searching for a giant-killer. Unfortunately for the Democrats, there are few party vote-getters who view Romney as beatable as the Republicans appraised Swainson in 1962. There has not been a winner willing to come forward.

Publicly, each of the popular, known office-holders have said Romney can be defeated. They just are happy with their present posts and wish to remain there.
Privately, most of those who became dropouts will admit Romney is still too popular for them to risk defeat.
The only one apparently willing to try, Party Chairman Zolton A. Ferency, met with little enthusiasm for his candidacy back last summer when he first made his interest known in small circles.
As the party's official hatchet man, the chairmanship usually doesn't lend itself to candidacy. When the proven vote getters started backing out, however, more and more party people started looking to Ferency as a man who has had some successes in chipping away at the golden image of the present chief executive.

Many Jobs
High school and college graduates going into the labor force this year should find many good opportunities awaiting them.
One indicator, state civil service employment, will have the welcome mat out for these newcomers even more unusual. This area of job potential has traditionally been viewed as a fertile field for youth just completing school.
The good times which have opened new jobs in private industry have proved somewhat of a headache to the state civil service operation. It has been considerably harder to fill even the normal amount of vacancies occurring in a given year.
This problem has been magnified considerably because many state employees left the service in the past year for other jobs in private enterprise. Turnover in 1965 reached 16.3 per cent as compared to about 10 per cent each of the past several years.
The 1965 figure represents more than 5,500 people. Of course this includes some losses for retirements, deaths and other causes for leaving the labor force.
The greatest portion of the loss, however, was to other job opportunities despite an average six per cent pay hike due state workers this July.
Almost all the familiar names are on the ballot this fall in the nonpartisan judicial races because of a change in the Constitution.
The 1963 Constitution provides that incumbent judges can gain ballot placement simply by filing a form indicating the desire. Previously a judge was required to file petitions each time he sought a new term.
With the filing deadline still some time away, all the judges in the state circuits whose terms expire this year and are legally eligible to run are doing so. Some are ineligible because they will reach the mandatory retirement age of 70 this year.
Non-incumbents must still get on the ballot via nominating petitions or a filing fee so most of these candidates will not be known until closer to the deadline.
The change in the nominating procedure for incumbent judges was seen mainly as a way to keep judges out of partisan political activity after they were once nominated and elected.
The man who discovered the telegraph in 1847, Samuel Finley Breeze Morse, was a world famous painter.
Discovery of the means of applying rotary motion to machines is considered to be one of the greatest inventions in all history.
U. S. oil companies give away about 150,000,000 road maps each year at a cost of about $15,000,000.
Seventy-one per cent of the persons who read a newspaper read it page by page; twenty-seven per cent read by scanning.

CASS CITY IGA FOODLINER

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The session at the country store Saturday night was what them Pentagon boys would call "Operation Explosion."

Zeke Grubb reported he had saw a piece in the papers where our population would hit the 200 million mark by November and he would add 30 million more by 1975.

The storekeeper butted in to say the price of meat had gone up another notch, and that's when the explosion started.

Ed Doolittle, that claims we can't never recollect a single good crop under the Democrats, said he longed for them good old days when he was a boy and folks was complaining with that ditty: "10 cent cotton, 30 cent meat, how in the world can a pore man eat?"

Ed said it looked like the more people we git and the more food we need the less people we can find to work the farms in this country. He allowed as how the Congress even passed a law to arrest Mexicans that was trying to sneak into this country and earn a few dollars working in the fields. We was giving money away by the boatload, said Ed, but we won't let a pore man come in and work for it.

Even Clem Webster, that is general strong for the Great Society, said it looked to him like hiring Mexicans to harvest crops was a better deal than letting fruit and vegetables rot in the fields. Clem admitted it looked odd fer us to spend $400 million gitting them folks from Cuba over here, gitting them homes and jobs, but we arrested 50,000 Mexicans last year fer trying to come across the border to trade labor fer spending money.

The fellers was agreed they had never heard Clem say such harsh words about the Great Society.

Ed admitted they was some problems in Washington that was hard to handle, and that was as close as Ed ever has come to saying anything nice about the Democrats.

Bug Hookum, that had ought to know all about work on account of he spends more time looking at it than doing it, said he had saw a piece in his pamphlet from the Department of Agriculture where they wasn't much surpluses left in this country now except tobacco, and cotton. Nobody wants the cotton, said Bug, and you can't eat tobacco, so it looks like we'll have to take them farms out of the soil bank and git back to work.

Them Government experts, Mister Editor, was like the feller taking long steps to save soles on his $30 shoes and hasting out the seat of his $40 pants.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Boost Forage with Proper Plantings

Many dairymen and beef cattle feeders are facing limited forage supplies because of the dry weather or last summer. Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent, suggests planting of Sudan-grass or sorghum-sudangrass hybrids for early harvest for green chop or silage.

Farm Bureau Forms New Clearing House

Michigan Farm Bureau, the state's largest farm organization, has become "parent" to another affiliate service company, the "Michigan Agricultural Service Association."

The new association will serve the labor needs of members as a recruiting and clearing-house in procuring and placing farm workers for "production, harvesting, processing and transportation of agricultural commodities."

Named Operation Manager of the organization is M. J. Buschlen, Lansing. In making the announcement, Clarence Prentice, Secretary-Manager of both the Michigan Farm Bureau and the new association, reported that Buschlen has nearly 20 years of experience within the state in dealing with temporary farm labor and the growers who employ them.

A native of Michigan's Thumb area, he is a graduate of Michigan State University's School of Agriculture, and most recently has been director of retail sales with Farm Bureau Services, Inc., another Farm Bureau affiliate company.

In commenting on the appointment, Michigan Farm Bureau president, Elton Smith, said, "We are pleased to find a man within our own organization with the experience and ability to handle this job." He cited Buschlen's Spanish speaking ability as an added advantage in the labor placement business.

The farm labor problem in Michigan, which apparently will cost the state its "number one" spot among cucumber growing areas of the nation, and caused millions of dollars in fruit and vegetable crop losses, prompted the Farm Bureau to form the new association, which Smith called "the most important break-through" in farm labor management in many years."

Farm Bureau officials feel that the shortage of farm labor will present problems of growing intensity for years to come, and that growers will come to depend upon the Michigan Agricultural Services Association for a dependable supply of qualified workers.

Five Slated for Annual Dairy Tour

Nearly 70 of the state's top 4-H Club dairy project members-including five representatives from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties-will participate in the up-coming annual 4-H Milk Marketing Tour in Detroit.

The annual tour, sponsored by the Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) in conjunction with the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 29-30. Purpose of the annual tour is to provide 4-H Club dairy members with information on the complex milk marketing business, says George Patullo, Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

Delegates include: Huron county: Bob Gregory, Sebawaing; Tuscola county: Duane DeLong, Cass City; Sanilac county: Byron Williams, Brown City, and Alen Greening, Carsonville.

Delegates on the tour will visit the MMPA headquarters, tour a modern milk plant, hear discussions of milk marketing. At the close of the session they will be tested on their knowledge of milk marketing technique.

Tour participants will also form a number of smaller groups, each representing the board of directors of a milk marketing cooperative. After electing officers, each board will consider a particular milk marketing problem. Their final solution will later be reported to the entire delegation.

The youth will also attend a Detroit-Baltimore baseball game April 29.

The delegates will be competing for the opportunity to become one of seven Michigan 4-H Club dairy members to represent Michigan at next December's National 4-H Dairy Conference in Chicago, Illinois. MMPA, which is observing its 50th anniversary year, sponsors the trip to the National Dairy Conference for these delegates.

It's That Time Again

Come April 30, a special kind of magic will pleasantly grip thousands of Michigan sportsmen. On this day, the opener of another trout season, the pulse of anglers will be quickened by the anticipation of that first catch. By the same token, the spell of the new season will deal the minds of these fishermen to doctor bills, house mages, and other day-to-day worries. It's a time of "unlaxing" and enjoying a fresh new pace of action; a time for getting a mental lift. This season as always, there's no limit on the amount of pure sport and simple pleasure that the trout fisherman can "creel" from his favorite stream. —Mich. Dept. of Conservation

BOOK REVIEW

Murdoch's Novel is Long, Dreary and Dull

By the Rev. R. J. Searls

Iris Murdoch is relatively unknown to the book-reading people of America; and if The Red and The Green is a fair display of her talents, it is easy to explain the reason why. I had read nearly one-half of the book before it began to arouse in me sufficient interest to finish the book. It seemed that page after dreary page went by without any real dialogue to break the solid pages and endless paragraphs. Looking back on reading this book (and it seems incredible to report that this is a book club edition) I find it extremely difficult to tell the story of any one character in the novel.

Iris Murdoch is an English writer having quite a few novels to her credit, not to forget the short story which became a stage play with J. B. Priestley as co-writer. The picture of Miss Murdoch, which appears on the dust jacket, was taken by one Anthony Armstrong-Jones, now of the royal court of England. It shows us a "mannish" author, almost unseen from the cloud of smoke arising from the cigarette dangling from her mouth.

Now to the story! It is built around the Irish rebellion roughly at the turn of the century. Most of the myriads of people described for us, are related or are about to be. The most interesting parts of the novel, I called the "comedies of errors." The first of these is the "surprise" battle waged for the town. Only about 20,000 people knew about it in advance, so it was postponed (did you ever try to postpone anything involving 20,000 persons?) A few days later, with notice to the rebels relying on a hastily constructed horse network, only a corporal's guard gathered downtown and fought the war. Police cordoned off the street and the citizens watched the battle.

The second was a bedroom farce. Millie was the family shame: she lived alone and (what was worse) she smoked! She offered her rather shop-worn favors to quite a handful of men; all relatives of one another; and one or two of them relatives of hers. Of course, she never expected them to take up their claims. But one night each one, for his own reasons, came to collect her favors. As each arrived on his bicycle he took note of the already-parked bicycles there. The closing scene of this little drama is a sad one; Millie realizes that she has alienated forever the man to whom she would like to be married.

And so, without any victor in the war, and without any victory for any of those whose lives are so mixed up, this dreary novel grinds to an uneventful end.

I don't recommend this book, except to "replace a sleeping pill." "The Red and the Green" by Iris Murdoch, the Viking Press, 1965; available from the Elkhart Township and Cass City Library.

Northwood Speaker At AAUW Meet

J. Grant Chapline, Development officer for Northwood Institute, was the speaker for the April meeting of the Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women.
They met with Mrs. D. W. Rawson and Mrs. H. T. Donahue as cohostess.
Chapline spoke on "Northwood's Past, Present and Future" and illustrated his remarks with slides of the Midland campus as well as those of the Institute's extension branches in Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador.
The branch made its annual grant to the Association Fellowship Program which enables outstanding women scholars to study in the United States and abroad. According to Mrs. K. I. MacRae, fellowships chairman, Michigan leads the nation in the amount contributed to this program.
