It Was Different in 1901

Beaches and Barbecues Pull Holiday Throngs as Cass City Enjoys Quiet 4th

"A great crowd congregated in Cass City for the giant Fourth of July celebration. All business places were profusely decorated with evergreens, the streets were gay with bunting and 'Old Glory' met the eye at every turn.

"There were 100 guns at sunrise, Gollmar and Schuman's circus parade, four good bands and fireworks at the corner of Seeger and Main."

It was a great crowd and a great day. . . July 4, 1901.

And not before or since has there been an Independence Day that came close to equaling that first Fourth celebration of the new century.

Certainly, in recent years the accent has shifted from baseball to barbecues and from the Main Street parade to the beach parade. In the Cass City area, only one celebration was planned and the fact that it was the Fourth of July was probably only incidental to the homecoming plans at Argyle.

But in 1901, weeks of planning were culminated when residents flocked to town to line Seeger street by 10 a. m. when the Caledonian games started.

A circus came to town and received dull reviews, as the Chronicle reported "No Barnum. . . . The show consisted chiefly of bad bareback riding and stale jokes by witless clowns."

But the crowd was pleased by two or three tame-looking animals, gaudily-painted circus wagons and two innocent-looking elephants that passed through the streets to the lively strains of brass band music.

It was a gala affair . . . the first and last in the twentieth century at Cass City.

Deford came up with a big day on the Fourth in 1919, when Caledonia games and a parade featured the day. "For a small town," read the Chronicle, "she puts up plenty of amusements and gets large-sized crowds."

Deford still had her celebration in 1920, but by then the really big Fourth festivities were at Bay Port.

It was the year of the stunt flyers. "Ed Wisniller, daredevil aviator, will demonstrate his disdain of danger by crawling out on the wings of his plane, hanging by his toes, hands and knees from the wings of his plane and finally by standing straight up on top of the plane while it is speeding through the air at 90 miles per hour."

The daredevil evidently lived to perform another day, but the giant show was marred, the Chronicle said, by the death of a balloon descent artist whose balloon fell apart 100 feet above the ground.

The great depression of the 1930's evidently halted Fourth of July celebrations and they never recovered. From 1930 until the present, there have been no major celebrations in the Thumb commemorating the nation's independence.

In Cass City Monday morning, not a flag was flying on Main Street and the streets were deserted.

The beach and the backyard had taken over.

A car driven by Eugene Weber then hit the Adam car.

Treated for lacerations at Mercy Hospital in Bay City and released were: Paul Richmond, Robert Richmond, 2, Carol Richmond, 23, Randy Richmond, 4, all of Cass City, and Paula Copeland, 16, of Decker.

Police ticketed Adam for failure to stop and Weber for defective brakes.

While the Richmonds were injured in a Bay City accident, a Bay City man was injured in an accident near Cass City.

James Sutton, 17, was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital for severe leg injury when a supply of fireworks exploded in the car in which he was riding.

The mishap occurred on M-81, about five miles northeast of Caro.

The accident was said to have occurred when one of the three youths in the car attempted to toss a lighted firecracker out the window and it fell back into the car and ignited a supply of cherry bombs and firecrackers in the car.

The blast shattered the windshield and rear window of the car. Police had been alerted to watch for three youths in a car matching the description of one the youths were riding in.

A Cass City woman said that a firecracker thrown from the car started a grass fire south of Bay City-Forestville Road on M-53.

In the car, besides Sutton, were David Louis Grove, 17, and Mike Elmer Gerish, both of Bay City.

The three youths were arrested for illegal possession of fireworks.

Man Injured

An Owendale man was injured July 1 when he swerved his car to avoid hitting a tractor and ran into a ditch on Cedar Run Road.

Walter Floyd Howard Jr., 24, was treated for cuts and bruises at Hills and Dales Hospital and released following his accident Friday.

According to the report given by Sheriff's deputies, Howard was traveling north on Cedar Run Road when he rounded a curve and saw a tractor pulling out of a driveway on the east side of the road.

He was going to pass the tractor but pulled across the road and into the ditch.

A violation was indicated for speeding, but no tickets were issued.

For Fire Department

Legal Snag Halts Progress

The proposed plan for new housing for the Elkland Township Fire Department has been stalled while authorities check the legality of paying for a building from general fund receipts over a period of years.

Elkland Supervisor Ed Golding reported Monday that under the new constitution it was clear that the township could pay for new equipment from the general fund, but not whether a new building or an existing building could be purchased on a time payment plan.

Actually, with the valuation of the township today, the cost of a new building could be paid for within three years, Golding said.

At the present time the township has $10,000 in a fund for fire-fighting equipment or housing. Township officials are digging $5,000 yearly from the general fund for expansion of the department.

$25,000 Bond for

Milton Shields

Bond has been set at $25,000 for Milton Shields, an ex-convict, accused of raping and stabbing Diane Jabor of Bay City at Quancee near Vanderbilt Park June 24.

Shields waived examination on charges of criminal assault and intent to commit murder and will be tried in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Miss Jabor was released last week from a Bay City hospital where she was treated after being found nude and bleeding in a thicket near Vanderbilt Park.

Shields had been originally charged with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, but the charge was later changed to the more severe charge.

Shields had met the victim at a Citizens Band radio picnic after they had talked over the radio.

Gas Stolen

Arthur Brown, Cass City, reported to State Police the gasoline tank of his well digging rig on the site of a house under construction, near Gagetown, was emptied by thieves. He said a tank of fuel gas and 15 feet of hose also were stolen.

Teachers Still Reject School Board Offers

Review Bids for School

Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn said that she believed that the purchasing system used by Cass City School was chaotic Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the board.

The statement came after a review of buying procedures was sparked by the right way to buy gas and oil at the school.

The board in recent years has let the contract on the basis of low bids and Board President Horace Bulen and Mrs. Prieskorn felt that if the difference between the low bidder and a local bidder was so small as to be nearly insignificant, that the contract should be awarded locally.

Others on the board felt that it should go to the low bidder, regardless. The discussion then ranged into other items purchased by the school.

Village vehicles are bought on the basis of 10 per cent over cost on a rotating basis among Cass City dealers.

Supt. Don Crouse said that the reason for this is that the school needs service on the buses, sometimes at once, and that it is available on an emergency basis because the cars are bought locally.

Mrs. Prieskorn then pointed out that baked goods are purchased at two different prices and meat is also purchased differently. It was then that she called purchasing chaotic.

Meanwhile, a committee will go over bids received for gas and oil. No decision was reached on how the contracts would be awarded.

Other Business

The board authorized a jump in pay for two men who lease buses to the school. Driver Bill Martus was given $100 yearly and Harold Kilbourn, $150 yearly. The difference in the rate boost was granted because Kilbourn has a longer

First Aid Quest Fizzles; Village Seeks Another

Cass City's efforts to receive money for the expansion of its recreation park under the Federal "Greenspan" program have proved fruitless, Village President Lambert Althaver revealed last week.

Investigation has revealed that the amount of money that the village would be eligible for under the program would be negligible and not worth applying for, Althaver continued.

However, all hope has not been abandoned. While "Greenspan" is no good, another of the myriad Federal programs could result in substantial benefits.

This one is called Urban Open Land and pays 50 per cent of the cost of earth moving, planting of trees and shrubs and similar activities.

The Cass City Village Council is investigating.

The Council was spurred by the recent activities of the Gavel Club which announced that some 22 acres belonging to Mort Orr, adjacent to the park, was for sale for about $25,000 and appointed a committee to investigate. The Gavel Club then approached the Lions and Rotary for assistance in securing the land.

Stan Asher Completes 40 Profitable Years

Stanley Asher completed 40 years with Thumb Appliance Center, Inc., and Cass City Oil and Gas Co. last week and during the years he has controlled the company it never missed paying a dividend.

Cass City Oil and Gas was the original corporation which served the community through the years. It was divided when Cliff Ferguson purchased the gas station and related business while the corporation retained the appliance sales and service.

In recent years, Asher has been sharing the responsibility for the company's progress with his son, Harold.

Reveal Facts in Salary Dispute

After months of fruitless negotiations authorities at Cass City School have released the facts concerning the salary dispute between the teachers and the board.

The board and the teachers have been holding bargaining sessions for several months and have reached an impasse, according to Supt. Don Crouse.

Standing in the way of settlement is $10 to $100 per year in each of the various pay grades for teachers with BA degrees and from $15 to $150 per year for teachers with master's degrees.

The school has offered a starting salary of $5,400 with increases of $150 a year for 10 years to a maximum of $8,900 for teachers with a BA degree. Teachers with an MA have been offered $300 more per year.

Cass City offers terminal pay of one-half of accumulated sick leave. If the teachers waive this benefit they would be offered another $100 per year, authorities said.

Counteroffer

Teachers are demanding that the increment pay be $180 per year ($10 higher) over the 10-year period for teachers with a BA, that terminal pay be retained and the starting salary remain at $5,400. Teachers with a master's want the same terms with the exception that they are asking for $15 per year instead of $10.

Top salary under the teachers' plan would be $7,000 for BA degree teachers and $7350 for MA degree teachers.

Last School

Cass City is the only school in the Thumb area not yet with a signed master contract. And, of course, without a master contract none of the MEA union teachers will sign individual contracts.

Compared

How does Cass City compare with other area schools? The school pays less than Caro and Bad Axe and over the amounts paid to Lakerville, Sandusky, Marlette, Mayville and Owosso.

Akron-Fairgrove starting teachers receive less money than Cass City, but hefty increment raises place the top salaries higher than that offered at Cass City.

In a survey of six Thumb schools, the starting salary range went from $5150 to $5500 while the maximum salary varied from $8,600 to $7,300.

Cass City's school's offer broken down year by year:

Family Involved In Second Fatal Accident

Tragedy struck for the second time Tuesday, June 20, in the family of Louis C. Sattelberg, 72, of Caseville, when he was the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident on Caseville road, a half mile south of Caseville.

The car driven by Sattelberg struck and killed Mrs. Helen Farakas, 45, of Southgate who was walking on the road.

Sattelberg said that he was "meeting a car" and didn't see anything on the road.

Several years ago when the Sattelbergs lived in the rural Cass City area, a young daughter was killed by an auto accident while she was on her way to school.

Donate to Gauer Memorial Friday

Residents are reminded that the donations to the Ralph Gauer Memorial Blood Bank can be made Friday, July 8, at Hills and Dales General Hospital, members of the special committee said this week.

The blood will be used strictly for cancer patients from the Cass City area.

Persons not able to give blood can give cash contributions to the fund at any time.

WHEN THESE TWO CHILDREN came to visit in the country, they saw something on their grandmother's farm that not many farm dwellers have ever seen, a dog raising two kittens. Leon Leszczynski, 10, of Detroit and Teresa Otulakowski, 7, of St. Clair Shores, grandchildren of Mrs. Lillian Otulakowski, Cass City, will have a quite unusual and fascinating story to tell their friends when they return to the city.

Crazy Canine Adopts Felines

While most dogs and cats are bitter enemies, Mrs. Lillian Otulakowski, Cass City, owns a dog that is raising two kittens.

According to Mrs. Otulakowski, her four-year-old dog, Penny, had pups and they died. The dog then found the kittens in the basement of the barn and adopted them. "At first, the mother cat would take her kittens back from Penny. But then the dog just went down to the basement and carried them away again. Now the mother cat doesn't bother the dog anymore."

The dog, part Fox Terrier and Doberman, is a good mother, said Mrs. Otulakowski. She has taught other dogs to protect the kittens, losing an eye in one battle. The kittens, now five weeks old, are as healthy and happy as any other kittens and quite inseparable from the only mother they know.

Rob Alexander started for the Giants and was relieved in the sixth by Joe Zawilinski. The leading hitters in the Giant attack were Fred Harbec, 3 for 4 and Paul Freiburger, also 3 for 4. Rob Alexander had the only home run. The final score was 18-0.

Giants vs Tigers

tack were Paul Freiburger, 2 for 2; Fred Harbec, 2 for 4, and Rob Alexander, 3 for 3.

Fred Harbec went the distance on the mound for the Giants. Jeff Profit and Billy Chippi shared the pitching duties for the Tigers.

Pirates vs Cubs

Erila's ran their undefeated streak in the Ugly Recreation League to four games last week when they posted a pair of victories. Tuesday, June 28, the Foodmen topped Nugent's, 9-3, and Friday shutout Ugly Motor Sales, 3-0.

Dan Erila notched his first win in his first start of the year against Nugent's. He was backed by a lusty 16-hit attack by his teammates.

Erila struck out five and allowed eight hits as he went the distance. Erila's salted away the victory in the second inning as they scored three times to take a 4-1 lead and were never behind.

Dean Hoag slapped out three hits in four tries and Walt Hempton also collected three safeties including the game's only home run.

Friday's game was a much closer affair. Elwyn Helwig was at his best on the mound and he needed to be as neither team was able to score for the first five innings.

The Foodmen were held hitless until the sixth when they exploded for five hits and all three of their runs.

Dan Erila opened with a safety and Hoag, Jerry Hillaker, Hempton and Pete Martin followed with hits that netted the three runs and the victory.

College Week For Women Slated at MSU

July brings Independence Day, picnics, swimming, vacations and College Week for women at Michigan State University.

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by H. M. Bulea

Of all the boxers in history, which one holds the record for knocking out the most men? The answer, rather surprisingly, is not any of the old-timers, but a modern fighter - Archie Moore. . . Archie set the record by scoring a total of 137 knockouts in his career.

Here's one I bet you didn't know. . . Baseballs used in big league games have not always been white! . . . In the late 1930s, an experiment was tried with yellow baseballs in a game between Pittsburgh and Brooklyn. . . It was thought spectators might be able to follow the ball better if it were colored yellow. . . But, the idea never caught on. . . It would seem strange today seeing a game with yellow baseballs, wouldn't it?

Here's a rather interesting fact about left-handers in sports. First of all, authorities say that about 10 per cent of the people in the U.S. are left-handed. . . Yet, did you know that some 30 per cent of all pro baseball players are lefties, so baseball attracts left-handers way out of proportion to the general population. . . On the other hand, golf gets the smallest rate of lefties. . . Of all the pro golfers today, less than 1 per cent are left-handed!

"HAVE A NICE VACATION," says General Cable Corporation general foreman, Stanley Gunther as he hands a vacation pack to plant employee, Mrs. Rachel Hohman. Employees of General Cable should have a safe vacation, too, as they were given safety packs filled with items such as burn ointment, poison antidotes and aspirin. (Chronicle photo)

Free Vacation Packs Presented Cable Employees

It's safety first as the employees of Cass City's General Cable plant started on a week's summer vacation Monday.

Friday, the 600 employees of General Cable were given vacation packs as they completed their shifts.

This was the first year that General Cable has given out these packs, consisting of burn ointment, bandages, hair shampoo, poison antidote and medicines for minor aches and pains.

According to Allan Torpie, personnel manager, the packs are being handed out in all of General Cable's 45 plants and, "they are being sent to those employees who are either ill or absent for other reasons."

Clean Water on The Way

Pledges have been made and plans mobilized to clean up pollution in Michigan waters of the Detroit River and Lake Erie. Under a massive program spearheaded by the Water Resources Commission (WRC), 36 Detroit area municipalities, industries, and governmental units have agreed to meet strict new water quality standards. As a result, an all-out effort estimated to cost $200-$300 million or more will be well underway by 1970 to wipe out and prevent ugly scenes of water pollution like the ones pictured here. Under firm guidelines drawn up by the WRC, a new wing of the Conservation Department, waste loads in the Detroit River-Lake Erie complex will be cut 95 per cent. An 80 per cent reduction has been set for phosphates, key factor in the stepped-up aging of Lake Erie.—Mich. Dept. of Conservation

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

The Remuneration Was More than the Pay

By Marion Hostetler

I see Cliff Ferguson has a cradle at his service station. Not that he has added a baby sitting service; it's the sort of cradle the pioneers used for harvesting grain. I'm told he picked it up at an auction.

And, as usual, that reminds me . . . about the time I myself used a cradle to harvest grain. It was one summer while attending graduate school in Pittsburgh that I got a job on a farm in western Pennsylvania.

I rose early every morning to clean out the chicken house with a hoe. I learned to plow behind a team. I helped make hay. I even painted the house. But the reason I used a cradle was that the place was so hilly.

In fact it was so hilly that Jim and Nettie Powell had soft running water on both floors of their house without needing a pump or a water softener. The barn was on a hill higher than the house, and Jim had built a cistern beside it. The rainwater from the barn roof ran into the cistern, and was piped to the house, flowing there by gravity.

In addition to having free water, they had a little oil well on that farm that had been pumping for many years. This wasn't exactly the same as free fuel, but once a week a tank truck came and carried away the accumulated oil, and I suppose the royalty from it may have paid their fuel bill.

But even with that extra income, and although they had only themselves to support, Jim had to work every angle to make a living on the farm. So he planted wheat between the trees in an old orchard, and that was where I had the fun of using a cradle to cut grain. I have never been very athletic or very graceful, but there was something about the way the fingers of the cradle caught the stalks of grain as they were cut and then let them drop to the ground on the backward stroke that made me feel as light as a ballet dancer. Pausing occasionally to whisk the sweat from my brow and to whet the blade with a scythe stone, I felt as close to the forces of nature as I ever have. And it seemed as if I were taking my place in a long line of farmers that stretched back to the earliest times.

Those were the days of the Great Depression, and I was glad to be able to earn my room and board. Nothing had been said about any pay, and as the day drew near when I must go back to school I wondered how much Jim would think I had been worth that summer. On the morning on which my parents came to take me home, Jim drew me aside and said, "Here's a little something to help you along life's way," and dropped four half-dollars into my hand!

That was one of the summers when the remuneration was more than the pay.

Our daughter Margaret (the married one from Baltimore) suggested "Marion's Meanderings" and "Hostetler's Horizons" as names for this column. I could see that the contents of the column made her think of "meandering," but what did "horizons" have to do with the subject?

"Oh," she explained with feminine logic, "whenever I think of 'meandering' I think of 'horizon,' because you taught us both of those words the same day."

My mind flashed back to a lazy long-ago August afternoon when we were on vacation in the Colorado Rockies and had stopped at a wide place in the highway to look down at the green and gold tapestry of a mountain meadow spread out in the valley below us.

"Why does that little river down there wiggle and twist like a jigsaw puzzle?" somebody asked. I explained that a stream of water in a level place (always seeking the easiest course) can be diverted by any obstruction, such as a large rock or the roots of a tree. Swirling over to the opposite bank, it begins to eat away at the soil on the other side, and another loop develops in the watercourse. This we call meandering, from a river by that name which used to wind through Asia Minor.

Later the same day, leaving the mountains behind, we began to cross the eastern Colorado prairie, and there we noticed that the earth and sky seemed to meet in a long level line . . . a horizontal line . . . the horizon.

It's memories like this and daughters like that which make a man's life worthwhile, even if he never did get to be captain of the Queen Mary.

AFTER SEVERAL WEEKS of work there is little to see above ground at the site of the new Cass City

High School. The start of the project was delayed about two weeks by a carpenter's strike.

New High School Building Highlights Construction in Cass City Area

New construction in the Cass City area this year was highlighted by the start of the $1.85 million Cass City High School building just north of the village limits.

The new building was the only major construction started as a check of the building permits revealed that total permits issued was less than booming 1965.

One building started last year, the United Missionary Church, was also opened to the public this year. It is located outside the village limits. Plans for the building of a new Lutheran church at the east village limits has also been announced.

From July, 1965, to July, 1966, Cass City issued 44 permits with a total declared value of $140,200 . . . significantly less than the $325,450 value of the previous year's permits.

One reason for the decline is probably a lack of experienced builders. Since the last building issue of the Chronicle, two contractors have quit business in Cass City and carpenters, plumbers and electricians who are left are loaded with work.

Reflecting a trend across the nation, new home starts in Cass City are also down slightly. Six new home permits were issued as compared to 12 in the previous July to July period.

Cass City residents continued to add to and improve their homes in the past year.

Twelve permits were issued for carports and garages with a total value of $15,000. Nine homes were granted permission for remodeling or additions.

Seven permits were issued for construction of extra buildings to existing property with a declared value of $15,000 while one permit was issued for a car wash at a value of $7,000.

Cass City Miss Attends Girl's State

Over 462 Michigan girls attended the 26th session of Girls' State held at the University of Michigan June 14-21. Attending from Cass City was Linda Calka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Calka. She was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary of Cass City.

During the week the girls spent at the U of M, they operated mock governments on the local, county and state levels. They made their own traffic regulations, carried on trials, campaigns and elections.

"Everyone had a lot of enthusiasm for what we were doing," said Miss Calka. "We all worked hard. We learned what good government operation should be like and the importance of good citizenship."

Elwyn Helwig presided at the business meeting and Rev. Richard Canfield presented devotions. The next party will be held July 26, when the class will meet at the Dean Hoag home for a bicycle ride.

Tell 5 Tests for Combination Doors

One home improvement that adds considerably to both living comfort and the sales potential of a house is the installation of self-storing combination storm-and-screen windows and doors.

Since aluminum storm - and - screen windows and doors should be capable of withstanding all kinds of weather for many years with little or no maintenance, they should be chosen with care. The Insect Wire Screen Bureau suggests that home owners use the following checklist when choosing storms - and - screens.

1. Examine cutaway sections of the frames in the dealer's showroom to be sure construction is sturdy.

2. Look out for poor fits, open mitres and dirt-catching corners. Glass in storm panels should seal tightly all around and should be heavy, with no distorting flaws.

3. Since the screening must stand up for years in all kinds of weather, choose it carefully. Aluminum screening doesn't rust, rot, fade or sag and is made under U. S. Commerce Department standards.

4. Choose a design and color that blends well with the exterior of the house.

5. Test display models to make sure self-storing panels open and close easily.

Low Cost

One of the least expensive of all wall surfaces is wood paneling, which is easily obtained in sawn wood boards, generally tongue and groove fashioned. Once finished it will last for many years without further care.

Aid to Housekeepers

Servicemen and meter-readers will be able to go to the basement without carrying dirt and mud onto your upstairs carpets if you have a direct entrance to your basement from the yard.

PUBLIC SALE

To settle the Estate of Gene L. Corkins, the business place known as "Corkins Auto Body Shop" located at 6128 East Cass City Road will be offered for sale on July 12th. Bids will be accepted on the premises at 1:30 p.m. Successful bidder to deposit 10% of bid price at close of sale.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Valuable Tips in Special Section

This is the eleventh year that the Chronicle has been bringing its readers a special section devoted to stories about area building, remodeling and repairing.

It features local stories about building conditions in Cass City and you'll find tips about the home as well.

Equally as valuable are the many special building and home supply materials and services listed in the advertisements in the section.

All of the concerns advertising are from the area and residents using their services can be sure that materials will be as represented.

There is no need to worry about "whitewash" paint, inferior materials or shoddy workmanship when these area merchants are consulted.

Each of them depends on your good will and future business to survive.

Why not keep this special section around the home for easy reference?

... for year-'round home comfort

Southeastern Michigan Gas Company
GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE . . . COSTS LESS TOO!

Animal Skins-No Longer Just A Home Decoration Luxury for the Very Rich

What's new for your home? A very old product.

Long before primitive man discovered the refinements of furnishing a home, he found that an animal skin did wonders for a cold floor.

Nomadic tribes wove coarse fabrics and carried their comfort with them in the form of rugs, as protection against the rigors of outdoor life.

Skilled craftsmen of the earliest civilizations wove pictures into their rugs, and suitans and princes were greeted with carpets unrolled before them.

Does it sound familiar? Homemakers today still believe in protecting their family's comfort and well-being . . . and cover cold floors with carpets and rugs.

Active families are making outdoor life more comfortable, with carpets designed for safety and beauty around pools and on patios.

Modern rugs and carpets are made by craftsmen, with patterns and textures skillfully designed for today's homes. And the red carpet is still unrolled as the traditional sign of welcome, whether for visiting dignitaries or astronauts aboard a recovery ship.

There are a few changes, however . . . some very important ones.

For one thing, carpets are no longer just a luxury for the wealthy. Modern technology has brought them within the reach of everyone.

For another thing, carpets and rugs are no longer reserved for special occasions, or restricted to the "front parlor." They're very much a part of everyday living . . . all over the house, and outside, too.

Because there are more uses for carpets and rugs than ever before, there are more varieties now available.

There are heavy-duty carpets designed for maximum traffic in public buildings, less expensive qualities for less demanding use in the home. There are elegant styles for the most formal settings, carpets with built-in practically for kitchens and family rooms.

Carpets and rugs are now made from both natural and synthetic fibers, permitting greater flexibility in design and price. With a variety of raw materials at their disposal, manufacturers can produce more diversified products for individual consumer demands.

High-speed production methods now make it possible to produce hundreds of yards of carpeting in a fraction of the time formerly required. The result is the ability to supply carpets and rugs to meet an ever-growing demand with savings passed along to the consumer.

With new equipment, manufacturers can now offer a broader variety of styles, many of them formerly produced only by costly and tedious methods.

The expanding use of carpets is shown by a quick look at industry figures over the past decade. In 1955, broadloom carpet production in the United States amounted to 98 million square yards. In 1965, production totaled an amazing 300 million square yards.

Carpets and rugs have a long history . . . and some of the best reasons for using them are ancient.

But if you haven't looked at carpets and rugs lately, try it . . . and discover how new something old can be.

Kingsize: That's Trend in Bedding

Kingsize. Queensize. Supersize. That's the trend in bedding, as evidenced by the fact that one third of all mattresses sold last year were "supersize."

As a result, other bedroom furniture now is scaled to match these larger beds.

The chest-on-chest becomes the armoire-wardrobe, with a top section that has cabinet doors instead of drawers, and enough space inside to hang jackets. Dressers are longer, exceeding even triple dresser dimensions, and have wider, coordinated mirrors.

48 YEARS

Consider Resale as You Improve Home

While the first aim of improving the home is to increase its beauty and livability for present and future enjoyment, adding to the resale value of the property must also be a practical consideration.

Inexpensive touches can add considerably to house value, a recent survey shows.

Alliance Manufacturing Co., makers of "Genie" automatic garage door operators, surveyed real estate brokers to determine how much installation of their product might enhance home resale value. In addition, they asked about "other items" that might serve to increase resale price . . . with these results:

In the kitchen, a new refrigerator - freezer that makes ice cubes, costing little more than one that doesn't, is sure to impress.

Cracked concrete sections near the front door? Replace them. They immediately depress value on first impression.

Because home-buying prospects look out windows at the view, blinds ought to be fresh-looking and sills and frames in attractive condition.

Large patios heighten the impression of luxury living. In most cases, they should add more to house value than they cost.

More Things

Wood does more things well than any other substance. It is the door of the house, the heat of the hearth, the board of the table, the frame of the bed and the wood of the cradle, to mention only a few uses.

Final Services for Wm. A. Schenk, 85

William A. Schenk, 85, of Ubyly, a resident 75 years of the Thumb, died Saturday, July 2, in Hubbard Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after a long illness.

Born Aug. 11, 1880, at Aylton, Ont., Mr. Schenk came to Sanilac county with his parents when 10 years old.

He and Miss Gertrude Meredith were married Feb. 3, 1906, at Argyle.

He and Mrs. Schenk lived in Sheridan township until they retired from farming in November of 1965 and moved to Ubyly.

Mr. Schenk is survived by his widow; two sons, Earl and Joseph Schenk, both of Bad Axe; three daughters, Mrs. Norman Fahs Sr. of Sandusky and Mrs. Harry Palmer and Mrs. Virgil Champagne, both of Ubyly; 24 grandchildren; 27 great-grandchildren; three brothers, August Schenk of Gagetown, John Schenk of Sandusky and Edgar Schenk of Vassar, and six sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Teets of North Branch, Mrs. Charles Bixby of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Minnie Byc of Snover, Mrs. John Baird of Peck, Mrs. Edward Wagner of Desererville and Mrs. William Dudley of Sandusky.

Funeral services were held at a funeral home in Ubyly Tuesday. Rev. Milton Gelatt, pastor of Holbrook Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

BOOK REVIEW Written for Ministers; Laymen Like It, too

"How To Become A Bishop Without Being Religious," by Charles Merrill Smith, was written primarily for ministers. However, it has been a popular book with laymen, too. I had held off reading it because my usual source (the library) did not possess a copy. Finally, John Sommers bought a copy of the book and loaned it to the Rev. James Braid with instructions that I be given a go at it. Church publications, with a few very minor exceptions, gave the book 'rave' reviews. Having now read the book I have to admit that I would like to be counted in the 'rave' category.

Occasional laymen might have to trust a Methodist neighbor to explain some minor point in order not to miss a single guffaw. Most youth and adults can figure out the point of an account.

Dr. Smith writes with an indigenous humor of the details necessary to gaining election of a Methodist minister to the episcopacy -- the 'inside' term meaning Bishop. This humor is natural, writes Dr. Smith, as it was to his late minister-father and by him was passed on to his two sons, both of whom entered the ministry.

I had the feeling that in some parts of this book, the author was crying for the church and hiding his despair under very fine humor. I suppose that every Methodist clergyman has at times succumbed to the dream of becoming a Bishop. According to Dr. Smith, it is wise counsel to start campaigning when the minister is only a few weeks out of seminary. (It is well to keep in mind that the author is not a Bishop!)

Every aspect of the ministry should be examined as to how it can contribute to the goal of the minister to become bishop. The Church School should be left alone as far as the minister is concerned, even when it is being conducted as a competing church within a church. The same thing is true of the women's organization.

Even though he knows better, the clergyman should not insist on planning the worship service as if the people in attendance actually wish to worship! Above all, always use the congregation's favorite hymns, even if they include offensive theology. The minister early in his ministry should learn that only a few fanatics actually come to worship! Give them three familiar hymns, a Scripture lesson and a sermon (an adroit preacher can preach the same sermon by changing only the illustrations!) and by weeping on occasion, and the people are satisfied.

Weddings, funerals and other such ceremonies, if smoothly handled, can become a stepping-stone on the way to higher things.

The minister's choice of wife, taking an entire chapter in the book, is like the balance of the book both high humor and sharp truth. "Getting into the major leagues" details with a tight-handed touch, the politics of getting in the right church at the right time.

I had many laughs, and some well-hidden tears, on reading the chapter entitled "Alternative Routes to the Top." It recognizes that the average minister just isn't known by many delegates who are faced with the task of electing a new bishop. Examined in great detail are two routes designed to put your name before the voters: becoming one of the many Board secretaries who travel widely, and seldom preaching to the same congregation get a great deal of mileage from one sermon by just making certain to change the illustrations!

The alternative route often taken by a would-be-Bishop is to become the president of a denominational college. This way is a little more demanding than the other, but with any administrative ability at all can become a major step to become a Bishop.

Dr. Smith does not explain just why anyone would want to become a bishop! He shoves this and many ideas aside with the note that, if the demand becomes great enough, he'll just have to write another book. I hope it does - and he will.

Be Sure Ceiling Products Comply With Fire Codes

Mineral ceiling products, once available only through special contractors, can now be purchased by homeowners from their local lumber dealers.

The principal feature of mineral ceilings is that they are incombustible and comply with building codes when such products are required in hazardous occupancies or exitways.

In appearance, mineral ceilings have distinctive beauty that has made them a favorite for years in prestige office buildings, schools, hospitals, as well as homes. Surfaces are satin-smooth. Patterns, such as fissured design, are sharp and rich-looking.

Carpet Glossary

BROADLOOM is a designation of carpet width. It does not describe any special quality, style or construction. The term refers to any carpet made in seamless widths of 6 feet and over.

PILE YARNS, sometimes called "face yarns," are the tufts of yarn seen on the surface of the carpet.

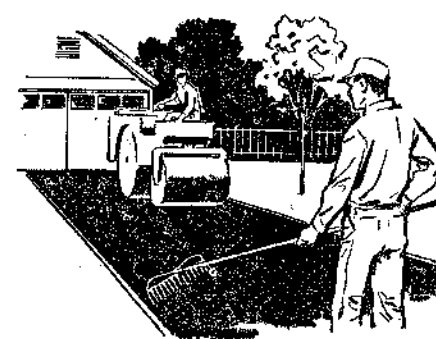

BACKING YARNS are the materials that form the carpet back or foundation, to which pile yarns are anchored. A second backing fabric may be laminated to the primary backing, and the backing may be coated with latex.

PLY is a layer of thickness of yarns used in carpet. If the pile yarn is described as "3-ply," it means that each tuft is made of 3 strands of yarn spun together. Ply affects texture; it does not necessarily improve quality.

WILTON, AXMINSTER and VELVET are types of looms on which woven carpet is made. Carpet woven on these looms is also described by these terms, such as "a Wilton carpet," "a velvet carpet," or "an Axminster."

TUFTING is a construction process in which pile yarns are attached to a pre-constructed backing by wide multiple-needled machines. This process is used for the majority of carpet produced today.

Garden Gives Tip In Use of Color

One of the most fascinating aspects of the home garden is the education in color that it offers to those who observe its ever-changing hues. The range of color on a well-planted piece of property out-does, the most extensive color chart, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

There are many hues of flower petals, roses, and flowering shrubs that change with the degree of sunlight and with their age. The bark and foliage of trees may be white, green, reddish, brown, gray and other shades. Leaves may be gray, yellow, red, green, bronze, with hundreds of intermediate tints, changing with the seasons.

A garden in flower is never the same from one day to the next. Once you see it, you or anybody else will never see it exactly like that again.

"Educate your eyes to observe the range of colors in your home garden," advises the association. "In that way you not only will more greatly appreciate the garden, but your mind will dwell on the wonderful mysteries of a beneficent Nature. Teach the observation of colors in Nature to your children. It will be one of the most satisfying gifts of their lives."

Laws Without Teeth Are A Waste of Time and Money

Laws which duplicate others or cannot be enforced seem a waste of time and money.

One enacted this year involves an edict to school districts to review their textbook purchases to ensure fair treatment of the races. It tells the local districts, in effect, to be sure that the teaching tools they use do not reflect badly on minority groups such as Negroes, Jews and Indians. It empowers the State Board of Education to check periodically to be sure the local boards are following the law.

Missing, however, is any power for the State Board or any other governmental unit to punish school units which choose to stick with old books which, for example, never picture a Negro or Indian child in a group picture.

While this is not a duplication of any law, a formal policy statement to this effect was issued some years back, however, by then Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett.

In addition to being sent to the various school districts in the state, it was brought to the attention of the textbook publishers and distributors which serve Michigan districts.

Presumably in the three or four years since this policy was circulated, most schools have purchased new textbooks, incorporating the policy.

For all purposes, the new law will not likely mean any change in practice. Any school districts which have not followed the policy handed down by Bartlett will feel little pressure to change now since the 1966 law has no enforcement provision in it.

Labor Shortage

A seemingly ironic problem is reported by the State Corrections Department: Michigan's prison administrators are having a difficult time finding necessary labor to keep the prison industries operating well.

The problem arises partly because of changes in the frequency of paroles and shorter sentences being given criminals. Another factor is the type of criminals housed in the prisons, which operate 14 separate industries.

Today's inmate is much younger than previously. In many cases he has little education and has done little or no work during his lifetime. He is frequently hostile and unwilling to accept discipline. He is not inclined to be a good worker.

Prison industries are operated at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, Michigan Reformatory at Ionia, and the State House of Corrections at Marquette.

Other corrections facilities, mental institutions, and some other state government units in the past depended greatly on the prison industries for cloth, work clothing and shoes, office furniture, road signs, cleaning supplies, and canned goods produced from prison farm goods.

Most familiar prison industry by far is the auto license plate business.

The most necessary and meaningful change being attempted to correct the labor problem is an effort to find ways to get the youthful, "difficult" inmates to work.

As one department spokesman said, "Since work is a part of living on the outside, suitable work should be instilled in the inmates while they are inside."

Final Services for Mrs. Hazel Dewey

Mrs. Hazel Dewey, lifelong resident of this area, died Sunday, July 3, at the Tuscola County Nursing Home, where she had been a patient for two years.

She was born Nov. 26, 1892, in Cass City, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bird. She was married to Lewis Dewey in 1910. He died April 26, 1946.

Mrs. Dewey is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John (Eula) Gruber of Cass City; four sons, Arthur (Tom), Forrest, Wayne and Carl, all of Cass City; 12 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; six step-grandchildren; 14 step-great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Silver of Bay City and Mrs. Ora McDonald of Detroit.

Funeral services were held at Little's Funeral Home at 2 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. James Braid officiated. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

highway accidents. It likely is one of the most expensive traffic safety moves which could be undertaken, but it could be effective.

Involved in the new program to enforce driving laws are three air planes based at Lansing, Traverse City and Marquette.

Carrying from two to four men, planes are equipped with speed-time charts which translate stop-watch fractions of a second into vehicle miles per hour.

Working in conjunction with the highway department, 20 sections of roadway which were frequent accident scenes were selected for special markings. These consisted of painted lines measuring a 660-foot strip of road.

By timing a car traveling the 660 feet, a stop-watch held by a policeman in the plane marks the exact speed of the vehicle on the ground.

If the speed is over that allowed by law, word is relayed to a patrol car not far from the marked strip. The motorist is stopped and ticketed or warned.

Cost of operating planes is great. State Police decided to give the air spotting system, used in several other states, a try in an attempt to discourage speeding and other violations, such as improper passing and following too closely.

Air spotting could prove to be very effective. As one of the first men stopped noted, "I guess you guys really did me a favor." He was traveling over 90 on a freeway, where the legal maximum is 70 miles per hour.

Master's Degree for R. L. PreFontaine

Ronald L. PreFontaine, Cass City, was among the 3,487 persons who received degrees from Michigan State University in commencement exercises June 12.

Working for the Tuscola County Intermediate School District as a school psychologist in the program for the mentally handicapped, PreFontaine received his master of arts degree from MSU in guidance and personnel.

He received his bachelor of science degree from Ferris State College in 1959. He then attended Western Michigan University where he earned his master of arts degree in school administration in 1963.

As a school psychologist, PreFontaine works with all area schools in diagnosing what children might be in need of special care.

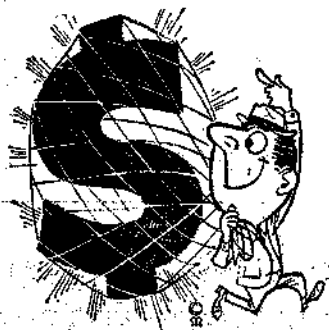

He is married and has four children.

What you can't say in a few words hasn't been well thought out.

One of the best things about matrimony is that it keeps the men humble.

Everything comes out about as expected except the family budget, which always seems to be over-spent.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle reported to the fellers at the country store Saturday night that him and his old lady was having domestic troubles. This is a real switch for Ed on account of his troubles was usual political.

Ed said his old lady reminded him their golden wedding anniversary was coming up soon and she was expecting him to do something fitten for the occasion. Anything fitten for a golden anniversary, allowed Ed, would involve gold and everybody knowed the Democrats outlawed gold thirty year ago. Furthermore, said Ed, you can't even substitute silver since the Great Society put all the silver into the poverty program and started making money out of petrified mud and putty.

All the fellers, Mister Editor, including Clem Webster of the Great Society, was expressing sympathy for Ed in his hour of great misery. Clem said Ed was lucky and didn't know it. At his house, reported Clem, it was mighty lonely for him on account of he was growing old all alone. He reported his old lady ain't had a birthday in eight year.

Zeke Grubb said him and Clem was in about the same fix, that his old lady was at 62 and holding. Furthermore, he said, she had been holding ever since she got her Social Security seven year ago.

Bug Hookum was in favor of putting a stop to celebrating wedding dates anyhow. He claimed wimmen didn't put no great store by a wedding anniversary like they did in the old days. Bug said it used to be a woman saved her wedding dress for her daughter, but now the daughter was saving her own wedding dress for her next wedding.

Personal, Mister Editor, Bug is a little odd in several matters. First off, he ain't never told nobody how old he was. All the other fellers will mention it when they get another birthday but Bug ain't had a birthday since the store opened during World War I. But he must be getting along in years. Ed told me confidentially onct that him and Bug set down in a cafe and he noted Bug looked over the menu afore he looked over the waitress. He must be a little older than I was thinking.

Josh Clodhopper said the way fer Ed to solve the problem was to let his old lady set on the creek bank and watch a golden sunset. But Josh ain't got much sentiment about wimmen. He reminds me of the feller that didn't want to smash his finger, so he held the hammer with both hands and let his old lady hold the nail.

If you have any answer fer Ed's problem, Mister Editor, let us hear from you.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim
