

Four Injured in Area Auto Crashes

Three Cass City area youths were taken to Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, with multiple cuts and bruises after their pickup went out of control, skidded sideways and flipped over at the east village limits of Cass City.

Driver of the truck involved in the Sunday accident was Robert Bruce Doerr, 17, of Cass City. Passengers in the pickup were Edward Daniel Adams, 15, also of Cass City, and Gary Allen Spencer, 18, of Deford.

According to Cass City Patrolman James Jezewski, Doerr was traveling west on M-81 at approximately 30 miles per hour when he lost control of the truck. The vehicle left the shoulder, was brought back onto the road, skidded sideways and then flipped over. A road sign was damaged. Doerr was issued a ticket for failure to have his vehicle under control.

The truck was removed by wrecker.

Bicycle Mishap

No injuries were reported in another Sunday mishap when Tommy Whittaker, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whittaker, Cass City, rode his bicycle into the side of a car driven by Walter Peter Balozy, 57, of Detroit.

Investigating officer James Jezewski reported the boy to be riding on the south side of Maple Street when he started to cross the street. Balozy stopped his car and Whittaker ran into it.

One Injured

A Warren woman was hospitalized and another required no treatment when the sports car in which they were riding went out of control on M-53, skidded 100 feet into a ditch and landed on its top.

Injured in the Thursday, July 28, accident was Beverly Flynn, 23, of Warren. She was listed in satisfactory condition in Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, and was later transferred to a hospital in Warren.

The driver of the car, Maria Yolanda Runk, 25, of Warren, was also taken to Hills and Dales Hospital, but according to hospital officials required no treatment.

Mrs. Runk told Sanilac County Sheriff's Deputies she was northbound on M-53 when she turned her head to talk to her passenger, Mrs. Flynn. When she turned back the car was over the center line. When trying to bring the car back deputies report she turned the wheel too sharply, causing the vehicle to go out of control.

The car was demolished. Gary Zafoe, 17, of Mayville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Zafoe and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Zafoe of Cass City, suffered a fractured pelvis and other injuries July 25. He was injured as a passenger in a car involved in a two-car accident. He is a patient in Caro Community Hospital.

Hold Last Rites For Automobile Crash Victim

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Pigeon for Clare B. Diefenbach, 48, of Sebawaing who was fatally injured Sunday when he lost control of his car and crashed into a ditch near Caro. Mr. Diefenbach died in Caro Community Hospital a half-hour after he was admitted.

Tuscola County Deputies Ronald Iseler and John Horwath investigated.

It was the seventeenth traffic death in 1966 in the county. Concluded on page four.

Schuckert Starts New Career at 42

Bob Schuckert, 42, didn't need to use psychology on his daughter, Susan, to get her to enroll at Alma College this fall, but if he needed to, he would have been prepared.

Saturday, Aug. 13, Schuckert, who left Cass City with his wife and four children six years ago, will receive his doctorate in psychology from Florida State University.

When the degree is conferred on Schuckert the final chapter in a truly unusual story will have been written.

Following World War II, Schuckert was seemingly well established in a business career, a family man with a rather cut and dried future ahead of him.

The genial Bob, a resident of the Thumb all his life, was busy managing the family theaters, including the Cass Theatre, and had just finished building a fine home on Hunt Street in the village. But the advent of television pushed the theatre business almost to the wall and Schuckert found himself needing a better paying job.

He went to work in industry for a short while before suddenly surprising the entire community by announcing that he was going back to school... not in Michigan but in Florida.

The decision taxed the resources of the family, as wife, Ann, went to work while her husband went to school and the family scrimped to make ends meet.

When he decided on education, Schuckert had only two years at Michigan State.

While working as much as possible, Schuckert spent the next six years at school earning in rapid order his bachelor's, master's and now his doctor's degree in psychology from Florida State University.

He has been an assistant professor at Florida State while working for his doctorate.

Next year he will be working at the University of Tennessee where his job calls for 50 per cent teaching and 50 per cent research work.

Susan Schuckert

Some of dad's aptitude for education must have rubbed off on his daughter, Susan. She graduated from Lincoln High School in Tallahassee, Fla., with a 3.5 average in a class with 549 pupils.

Her academic efforts have enabled her to receive a scholarship to Alma College and, perhaps, started another Schuckert on the way towards a doctor's degree.

It's a good bet that it won't take her as long as it did her dad.

Abke, a resident of Unionville for the past 12 years and a teacher in Tuscola county schools since World War II, has accepted the position of superintendent of the Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools. The vacancy was created by the recent resignation of superintendent Dale Abke.

Abke, a resident of Unionville for the past 12 years and a teacher in Tuscola county schools since World War II, has accepted the position of superintendent of the Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools. The vacancy was created by the recent resignation of superintendent Dale Abke.

Abke is a graduate of Tuscola County Normal. He has his bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University and his master of arts degree from the University of Michigan's School of Administration. He is married and the father of two sons.

Primary Election Brings No Surprises in County

In Elkland

O'Dell, Buehrly Win

One incumbent won and another lost in contested races in Elkland township Tuesday.

Mac B. O'Dell was named township GOP treasurer nominee over John V. McCormick by a 220-126 margin. Donald Buehrly, incumbent trustee, scored a narrow victory over Lester Ross, 194-158, in the GOP race for this nomination.

All other township offices were unopposed in the primary. Robert M. Hunter led the ticket with 336 votes for clerk. Supervisor Ed Gouding Sr. received 310 votes.

Also nominated on the Republican ticket were James Jezewski and Harland Lounsbury, for constable.

Kostanko Pleased With Speedway Opening Sunday

Thomas Kostanko reported this week that he was well satisfied with the opening of his Thunder Road Speedway Sunday as an estimated 1,500 fans came to watch 17 cars in action.

Included were two super stocks from Detroit. Kostanko is confident that the event will grow as more drivers become acquainted with the facilities at the track.

We had few opening day troubles, Kostanko said. It was dusty, but the wind was blowing the right way to keep it from the spectators and we'll have the condition corrected this week.

Kostanko said that $585 was distributed to drivers as well as many beautiful trophies.

In the racing, Gordon Peters was a local winner with a third in the first heat and a third in the feature. Jim Brown placed third in the second heat and in the jalopy feature.

Good Makes Strong Showing in County

There were few upsets in Tuesday's balloting as strongly Republican Tuscola county cast 63 per cent of its votes for nominees on the GOP ticket while following the general trend of the primary in the State.

Although Incumbent Senator Frank D. Beadle won by a comfortable margin over Edmund Good for the GOP nomination for State Senator from 28th district, in Tuscola county he trailed Good by a narrow margin, 1,303-1,381.

Over the entire district his margin was approaching two to one. With 161 of 164 precincts reported, Beadle had 11,262 votes while Good polled 6,482.

The major state-wide interest centered around the Democratic race for U. S. Senator. Former Governor G. Mennen Williams won as expected over Jerome P. Cavanagh. With 5,130 of the state's 5,315 precincts reported, Williams was ahead 422,953 votes to 289,678 votes for Cavanagh.

Senator Robert Griffin made a surprisingly strong showing as he polled 361,858 votes in the uncontested GOP nominee for U. S. Senator.

County-wide the voting trends followed similar patterns. Williams edged Cavanagh on the Democratic ballot, while Griffin was rolling up a large GOP endorsement.

While the over-all election results indicated that there was not much difference in the percentage of GOP and Democratic votes cast from previous elections, the Democrats showed strength in the western edge of the county.

The combined votes for Cavanagh and Williams exceeded the vote for Griffin in Wisner, Wells, Watertown townships, Vassar city and township and in Millington township.

Gov. Romney exhibited his strength by losing just one precinct in the county... Wisner township.

The total unofficial county vote for each of the candidates follows. A precinct by precinct tally of contested offices is listed elsewhere in this issue.

Set Cost of Field at $14,000

Work on the $14,000 project to erect lights on the Owendale-Gagetown athletic field began immediately following ground-breaking ceremonies held on the field, 1 p. m., Thursday, July 28.

Breaking ground for the project scheduled for an early fall completion was the president of the Owendale-Gagetown Athletic Association, Harry Lenda. It is hoped that the field will be ready for the first game of the Owendale-Gagetown football season which opens against Kinde-North Huron on Sept. 24.

Ed Good Jr., co-chairman of the Athletic Association, states that the lights are not an Owendale project alone, but accomplished only through the cooperation and efforts of the entire school district.

Funds for lighting the field were gathered through pledged donations from the school district residents by the Owendale-Gagetown Athletic Association. At the time of the ground-breaking, $12,000 of the total amount had been collected.

The completed project will include seven poles housing 120 lights and a concession stand. Use of the lights will not be limited to school-connected activities. Little league and softball teams plus community night activities will share the facilities.

Tiling of the area began after the ceremony to prepare the field for the lights themselves. The work and time for tiling the field is being donated to the Owendale-Gagetown Athletic Association by Jamieson Bros. of Owendale.

SEVERAL YOUNGSTERS are probably happy that Mrs. Leo Miller of Cass City was able to visit Europe. For she returned with several souvenir dolls purchased in England and she plans to give them to children of her friends. (Chronicle photo)

Austria Improves But Home is Here

World War II was the turning point for the country of Austria, says a Cass City resident who was born and raised there and has witnessed the change.

Mrs. Leo M. Miller of Cass City returned to her homeland after an absence of 19 years to find a transition had taken place, not only in the country itself, but also in its people.

Rebuilding after the war was not limited to structures alone, explained Mrs. Miller, the people changed too.

The war resulted in the first mixing of the people of Austria with the peoples and ideas of the rest of the world. From this, says Mrs. Miller, came improvement.

Today, unlike when Mrs. Miller left Austria, everyone is working. "All the modern conveniences are available to buy and the people can buy what they want." The only drawback is that prices are extremely high. "Hitler froze all the banks just before the war," recalled the lady, "... and the Austrian people were unable to reach their savings, their money was useless. It has been just recently that the banks were opened again, but the people were given back only one third of their money. This is one of the reasons for the high prices, although there are many other reasons.

Mrs. Miller feels that the Austrians have a much better life today than before the war and it is still improving. The education of a youngster in the primary and secondary grades of an Austrian school seems to be on a higher level than that of their American counterparts, something that was untrue before the war, says Mrs. Miller. Education is good and the children are very ambitious to learn. There are no school-connected sports as in American schools and the children have more homework. "The Austrian school child is working hard throughout his school years where the American youngster doesn't buckle down until he reaches the university," states Mrs. Miller. Austrian teachers are well paid and they do a good job. Education is the only field of the Austrian life in which the government is involved and the results seem worthwhile, continued the woman.

The type of life the Austrians are leading will someday be similar to that of the Americans, feels Mrs. Miller, but progress is slow. "Right now, we have an easy and happy-go-lucky life compared to Austrians."

Mrs. Miller left New York June 24 on a BOAC jet bound for England. She had lived in London for 12 years after leaving Austria. After a stay with friends she flew on to Kapfenberg, Austria, where Mrs. Miller has aunts and cousins.

The Cass City woman is not a newcomer to the world of travel. From London, Mrs. Miller went to Toronto and then to Bermuda in 1950, where she met her husband who was stationed there with the United States Air Force. Before settling in Cass City, she had lived in Massachusetts, Arizona and Texas. Miller, a 20-year-old in the Air Force, is retired and now works with Tuckey's in Cass City. When asked if she would like to return to Austria to live, Mrs. Miller just answered, "This is my home."

Farmers Can Work Together—Kebler

By Don R. Kebler

Whenever the subject of farmers working together for common goals comes up the inevitable reply is you cannot get farmers to join ranks together. This statement plus "farmers are too independent to pull together" comes from the farmers themselves.

Both these statements have been made as far back as dad and grandpa's time, remarks Don R. Kebler, extension agricultural agent. But let's look at other reasons why farmers are not pulling together as greatly as they could.

In a recently published survey made by MSU Agricultural Economics Department staff relative to Michigan's general farm organizations, 804 Michigan farmers in 22 counties were interviewed with these results:

(1) This survey showed slightly over one-half of the interviewed were current members of one or more of four farmer organizations. (2) One-third of those interviewed are farm organization "drop-outs".

(3) Of the total interviewed, over one-fourth have never attended even one local meeting of any farm organization.

(4) About 16 per cent of one organization's membership reports as never attending any of the meetings.

(5) About one-third of all farmer organization members have attended about half of last year's local meetings.

Another question asked was "Why do these farmer organization members join?" The prime reasons were found to be social, insurance, legislative, political, farm commodity prices and farmer bargaining.

Loss of interest appears to be the major reason for membership drop-outs followed by dissatisfaction.

In general, farmers seemed to demonstrate a "have your cake and eat it" attitude toward organized action by farmers. The necessity of organized action was recognized but few indicated a willingness to relinquish individual autonomy in decision-making or action to organizations.

Farmers to Decide What's the answer to farmers working together for common goals? One step is for all farmers to belong, attend, participate and support the farmer organizations of their choice. Another step will occur when all farmers stop believing they can eat their cake and have it too. Partialities, prejudices, harmful competition and hard feelings among individuals will need to cease also.

What will be the eventual outcome? The farmers will decide this for themselves.

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by H. M. Bulen

Here's a true story about what happened one day to the great golfer Bobby Jones - and, this is a story that illustrates the real meaning of the word "sportsmanship". Jones was playing in the National Open of 1925 at Worcester. His ball went into the rough, and then accidentally moved very slightly when Jones's club touched a nearby blade of grass. Reporters later said that NOBODY saw the ball move. Jones, however, asked that he be penalized a stroke. Everyone tried to talk him out of taking the penalty because no one saw the ball move. But Jones insisted and as it turned out, that stroke cost him the title that year. Someone later asked Jones why he'd done it. He said, "That's the only way to play the game." Is there a better definition of sportsmanship than that?

What was the longest fight on record? Most boxing records show that the longest glove fight ever was between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke in New Orleans in 1893. Their bout lasted 110 rounds, or 7 hours and 19 minutes. It ended as a draw when neither man could continue.

To Establish Regional Center For Detention of Errant Minors

Second Chance

Handling of juvenile delinquents is constantly undergoing change as the philosophy turns from punishment to rehabilitation and, hopefully, prevention.

A juvenile convicted of a felony 10 years ago would probably serve a prison term, frequently amidst adult criminals. Today he might be involved in a training school, conservation camp or half-way house program.

Starting next year, still other choices will be available to juvenile authorities in dealing with delinquents.

Laws enacted this year provide for the courts to designate errant youngsters as "youthful trainees" before trial on a criminal charge, and permit the establishment of regional detention facilities for juveniles.

Under the first program, the state corrections department would have jurisdiction over the trainees for up to three years. Deviation from the training program established by the department could send the youth back to the court for trial on the criminal charge.

Gus Harrison, acting department director, said the trainee program would probably be used primarily with first offenders. The hope is that the youths would be encouraged to cooperate in their rehabilitation with the knowledge they would not have the stigma of a felony conviction on their record.

Creation of regional detention centers will be part of the long range goal of keeping juveniles away from adult prisoners at all stages of incarceration.

AUTO CRASH VICTIMS

Surviving are: his mother, Mary Dietenbach, Pigeon; three sons, James, in the United States Army at Panama, Daniel and Robert, both of Cass City; three daughters, Mrs. Ronald Howe, Decker; Pauline and Mary, both of Cass City; two grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Blanchard of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Elmo Muhlitter, Highland Park.

Burial was in Grandlawn cemetery, Pigeon.

These will be operated by the state social services department. Construction of three facilities is planned initially, with the locations to be decided on the basis of need.

While it has long been deemed desirable to have entirely separate facilities for young prisoners, many Michigan counties are financially unable to provide them and the juveniles are put in jail. Under this new program, the committing counties will pay half the cost of the short-term care provided at the regional centers.

Hold New Court

Part of the major revision of the 1963 Constitution was the creation of a state Court of Appeals.

It was designed to relieve the State Supreme Court of part of its work load. Its primary purpose was to handle a mass of criminal appeals which arose because the new Constitution also guaranteed the right of appeal to anyone convicted of a crime.

The nine-member tribunal was elected on the non-partisan ballot in 1964 in three state districts.

Main offices of the state's No. 2 court are in Lansing but cases are also heard in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Marquette.

Although elected from specific districts, the judges on the Appellate Court bench rotate from month to month among the three divisions. Three judges hear each case which comes before the court.

Decisions of this court may be challenged in the Supreme Court only on approval of an application for rehearing.

Simple Signs Work

Michigan, which led the states in construction of high speed, limited access, toll-free highways, reverted to an ancient system to guide the traveler on these roadways.

Almost three years ago, the highway department started the creation of mileposts on its freeways to give drivers a point of reference. The freeways have few distinctive landmarks otherwise.

The milepost, history shows, was used to guide travelers in biblical times and railroads have used them for many years. They were used on many rural roads in America until the 1920's, when highway maps became popular and other forms of route markings replaced the mile markers.

Initially the mileposts were erected along Interstate 94, I-96 and I-75 only. Later the interchanges on I-94 were numbered according to the mile system, and mileposts were added to the other freeway routes in the state.

Few Remain to See Final Election Tally Posted

Groups of people gathered here and there, discussing the favorite election night topic, politics. Bets were made and collected, upsets scored, speculations discounted and winners congratulated.

It was a normal election night at the Tuscola County Courthouse in Caro.

County officials, interested citizens and an assortment of newsmen began gathering at nine o. m. and chairs were set in the courthouse lobby. Beneath a sign which read, "Refreshments furnished by the Tuscola County Republican Officers" a table of assorted donuts and two large coffee pots were visible.

First election action came at 10:27 p. m. when Koylton township officials brought returns to the clerk's office.

Columbia township, the last of the county's 34 precincts to report arrived at 2:32 a. m. Wednesday. . . four hours, 60 cups of coffee, 50 donuts and approximately 20 cigars later.

A little more than average interest centered around Indianfields township which for the first time used all voting machines to cast ballots. The three precincts were numbers 16-17-18 to report. Elkland's precincts were number 22 and 23 to report.

County Clerk Archie Hicks said that returns flowed in faster Tuesday night than in many previous elections. At the last previous election Hicks waited until 2 p. m. the following day for returns.

There was very little difficulty with the mechanics of the election. Tuscola township officials forgot a record book and an official hurried back for it to break an almost monotonous pattern of vote tallying.

Fine Seven in Cass City Justice Court

Seven persons were brought before Cass City Justice of the Peace, Hugh Connolly, recently. Three were ticketed by State Police, two by Sheriff's Deputies and two by Cass City Policemen, James Jezewski.

Mary Evelyn Smithers, 23, of Cass City, paid a fine and costs of $14.30 after being ticketed by State Police for exceeding the speed limit by 19 miles per hour. Ticketed by Patrolman Jezewski for excessive noise with tires was Larry Preston Goodall, 23, of Flint. He paid a fine of $25 and costs of $9.30.

Also ticketed by Jezewski was Robert Bruce Doerr, 17, of Cass City. He paid a fine and costs of $15 for failure to have his car under control causing a property damage accident.

David Alfred Osentoski, 17, of Cass City, was ticketed by State Police for excessive muffler noise. He paid a fine and costs of $15.

Deputy Sheriff Hilton Saries ticketed James Alfonso Bryant, 24, of Cass City, for careless driving. Bryant paid a $25 fine and costs of $13.70.

Larry Alan Hill, 17, of Caro, was also ticketed by Deputy Saries for speeding 70 miles per hour at night. Hill paid a fine and costs of $15.

Paul Anthony Cuzenza, 17, of Davison, paid a fine and costs of $20 for exceeding the speed limit by 15 miles per hour. He was ticketed by State Police.

Romney Signs Law Affecting Delegates

Regardless of the results of Tuesday's election, control of Tuscola County Democratic party will remain unchanged at least until after the general election Nov. 8.

Gov. George Romney recently signed into law Public Act 233 that postpones the time for selection of members of the executive committee of the county committee until after the general election Nov. 8.

In Tuscola county, New Era Democrats have been filing for positions as delegates to county convention in an attempt to gain control of the county Democratic committee.

Tell Winners of Black & White Show

The annual Tuscola County Black and White Show was dominated by Fairgrove farmers as the Rohlf family swept top honors in the event held in Caro.

David Rohlf won the trophy for the grand champion cow and he also won the 4-H and FFA grand champion female class trophy.

The grand champion bull was shown by Clayton Rohlf and Sons. Ronald Opperman of Vassar won the reserve championship with a two-year-old cow. His aged bull won the reserve champion bull award.

Robert DeLong was the only trophy winner from the Cass City area. He annexed the 4-H and FFA junior champion female trophy and the trophy for the best 4-H and FFA heifer calf. He was also judged top in junior judging.

Judge for the show was Jack Budd of Belleville.

Among the sponsors were: Rabideau Motors, Damm Implement and Marshall Implement Co., all of Cass City.

Caro Conservation Officer Transferred

Transfers of two veteran Conservation Field Men in Region III have been completed. Bernard H. Simon, a long time game area manager, has moved from the Wildfowl Bay Wildlife Area on Saginaw Bay to Western Michigan where he will handle game management activities on the Muskegon, Grand Haven and Rogue River State Game Areas.

Simon will be headquartered in the Muskegon Field Office of the Conservation Department and will live at Ravenna, Michigan.

The simultaneous transfer of Thomas E. Bower, veteran Fire Officer at Caro, to Game Area Manager of the Wildfowl Bay Wildlife Area is announced by Warren W. Shapton, Regional Manager. Bower will continue working out of the Caro Field Office in his new job and resides in Caro.

Seeds and Wildlife

Spencer has long been associated with school aid legislation. The latest, he feels, is a good bill. Schools must raise 15 mills in local taxes to get the full $405 per student in State Aid. However, he said that the provisions take effect too soon and some schools may not be able to vote the necessary qualifying millage in time to qualify for the aid. Millington district must pass a millage vote in the first try or lose State Aid, Spencer concluded.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE—THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1966

Lutheran Auxiliary Elects Officers

The Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary, West Thumb Chapter held their July meeting at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Linkville.

After the ladies sang a hymn, the Rev. Paul Waschilewski spoke on a Bible verse.

Miss Susan Ewald played the organ.

Mrs. Clarence Kirm presided over the business meeting with 12 members and four guests in attendance.

Treasurer Mrs. Norman Ewald reported a balance of $157.80.

For a money-making project, the ladies will have a silent auction at the next meeting.

Election of officers was held and they are: president, Mrs. Clarence Kern of Bay Port; vice-president, Mrs. Art Haag of Pigeon; recording secretary, Mrs. Alex Kovach of Owendale; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Butler of Cass City; and treasurer, Mrs. Paul Roemer of Sebawing.

The state convention will be held

Oct. 14 at Grand Rapids. Mrs. Kern was elected delegate and Mrs. Henry Blasi, alternate.

The ladies will hold a baby shower when they meet at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Cass City Oct. 10.

Mrs. Art Haag introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ray Woodward of Elkton. She spoke on the special education program in Huron county. Mrs. Woodward showed slides that were taken when the school was in Kilmanagh and of the children that go to the school in Filion.

At the close of the meeting Rev. Waschilewski installed the new officers.

KING GEORGE V of England couldn't have been any prouder of the car when he owned it than Gordon E. Smith is today. The 1911 Rolls Royce runs beautifully and is very valuable, the owner says.

The Old Rolls Is Still Fit for A King

All things come to him who waits and Cass City is no exception. Although George Washington never slept here, a bit of another great George was in Cass City Monday when a 1911 Rolls Royce, once the personal car of King George V of England, rolled into town.

The car, now owned by Gordon E. Smith of Orillia, Ont., was one of 29 old cars to pass through Cass City on the first leg of a week-long trip which would take the drivers to Sault Ste. Marie and back through Canada to London, Ont.

Sponsored by the Historical Automobile Society of Canada, the Ninth Annual Normoska Tour is made up of families who spend their vacation touring the country in their old cars. The tour began in Sarnia, Ont., Monday morning. Plans called for spending the night in Midland.

Smith's Rolls Royce was the oldest car in the tour, dated at 1911. There is one other 1911 car in the club, said Smith, a 1911 Buick.

The hand-made Rolls Royce boasts a touring speed of 45 to 50 miles per hour, can seat seven passengers and has 29-inch wheels. But even a hand-made Rolls Royce built in 1911 needs a little incentive to get moving. In this case it was provided by Smith's son at the crank. "We have to meet the rest of the club in Midland tonight, but until then we are on our own," said Smith. And with a crank, a chug and a cough, they were on their way.

Live Steam Show Slated at Caro

The Saginaw Valley Live Steam Show will be staged at the Caro Fairgrounds Aug. 12-14, it was announced this week by show spokesmen.

Featured will be a parade of steam engines each day, as well as demonstrations of threshing, log sawing, hay baling and other activities.

Hostetter's Hodgepodge

It Was A Very Interesting Lecture

By Marion Hostetter

One of the things I have in common with James Gross is that his parents and mine were enthusiastic participants in the camping craze of the 1920's . . . which developed into today's enthusiasm for outdoor living. At that time many cities had municipal camp grounds in which families could pitch a tent for a night for fifty cents or even for nothing. I recall my father said people spoke of us as "tin can tourists," but I'm not sure whether the reference was to our food containers or our vehicles. (The Model T Ford was jokingly known as a "tin Lizzie.")

Our family's tent was a sort of lean-to that attached to the side of our Model T touring car. One or two children would sleep in the car, and the rest of the family on cots in the tent. Jim's mother tells me that Grosses had an umbrella tent with room for four or five cots on the floor. She made a mosquito netting enclosure that hooked to the flap in front of the tent, so the family could dine without insect guests.

I wonder whether the Grosses might have been tenting in the old campground near Washington, D. C. one summer when a man was there who claimed to be pushing a wheelbarrow around the world? Every night after the day's sightseeing, and after our supper dishes were washed, I would walk over to hear this adventurer give his spiel.

He said he was on the last lap of a walking competition which began, I believe, in Boston, and which was to end there. The reason he gave for staying so long in that campground in Washington was that the official pedometer which had to register every step he took was back at the factory for repairs.

"Now you may wonder whether I walk across the oceans," he would say. "No, I have heard of only one person who could walk on water, and that was Jesus of Nazareth. Instead of that, I cross the oceans by ship, but while I am on the ship I walk up and down the deck eight hours a day to make up for the distance travelled."

He had a sheaf of letters signed by mayors of cities across the country, certifying that he had indeed passed through their bailiwicks on foot. One of the rules of the competition, he said, was that in order to qualify for the awards a hiker had to return with at least some original part of the wheelbarrow with which he had started on the trek. My hero had worn out several wheels and broken a few handles, but the central part of his wheelbarrow was still intact. It was shaped like a one-room school, and had compartments for cooking utensils, a change of clothing, and other gear.

Working up to his climax with the remark, "You can see I am not a young man," he would take off his hat so we could see his gray hair, then crease the hat and place it upside down on the gable roof of the wheelbarrow.

"People sometimes inquire whether I am permitted to ask for food. According to the rules of the competition, we are not allowed to ask for anything except a drink of water or the use of a telephone in an emergency. However, we are permitted to accept free-will gifts that anyone may give to help pay for food and our modest expenses along the way." . . . and he would make a slight gesture toward the upturned hat in which the free-will gifts might be deposited.

At the close of his talk he would always ask genteelly whether anyone had any questions. I don't remember, after all these years, what the questions were, perhaps because I heard each question only once. . . . while I heard the main lecture at least twice a day for three or four days. I thought it was a very interesting lecture, and I was always glad when somebody else put money into the hat to help take care of my friend's modest expenses.

Summer before last I painted a picture while on vacation. But when we came home I found it wasn't the right size to fit any of the ready-made frames in the dime store. Since it certainly wasn't valuable enough to rate a custom-made frame, I never displayed it publicly.

This year for Father's Day David made a frame to fit it. So I took it to Lesson's Paint Store and asked whether I could put it up with the other pictures that are exhibited from time to time just inside the front door. They didn't charge me anything to put it up, and they'd better not charge you anything to look at it! It isn't worth paying to see, I assure you.

If we do not use our abilities, ideas, and convictions, they "go dead," just as a battery in an unused car.

To amuse a pre-school child, cut out letters and numbers from cereal and cracker boxes and the like. Place them in a box and let the child separate them by color, shape, and size, and paste them on a sheet of paper.

STILL SPORTING ITS original English license plates is the 1911 Rolls Royce, Silver Ghost, that made a brief stop on Main Street in Cass City Monday. Sleek and polished, the car has been restored to the original luster that it must have had back in the days of King George V. (Chronicle photo)

Letter to Editor

Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan
Mr. John Haire, Editor
Dear Sir,

In regards to the letter printed in your paper in Letters to the Editor of my father's hobby of raising game chickens. I asked him if he was going to answer the letter. He said, "Any opinion that a person has that they won't sign their name to it isn't worth answering." So I will write my opinion since it concerns my sisters and I. I doubt very much that my father's hobby will in any way affect our respect for law and decency. I have heard my father say that he has at some time been to a cockfight. But I know for a fact he has never talked down any man for what he does in his leisure time. And of the two I would just as soon him to be at a cockfight. I have helped him raise the chickens which have mostly been sent to the Philippines where it is legal and I find it is quite an interesting hobby. A stag that I raised personally made quite a name for himself in the pits there. And as far as raising them there is no law against it.

I don't know which neighbors this person is referring to since all the ones that have come here to see the birds as a result of the write-up have expressed quite an interest to the hobby of raising game chickens.

One man got two birds from my father for his son to raise as a hobby.

Another thing that amazed me was this person's opinion that you should not print anything you don't personally believe in. In that case we would no longer have freedom of the press.

To remove decals from a wall or furniture, dip a cotton ball in boiling hot vinegar and sponge the decal with it. Sponge until the decal is thoroughly soaked, then wash it away.

For very effective, unusual stationery, use the decorative stitches of your zigzag sewing machine to add interesting borders or designs to solid color paper. Just thread the machine as usual. The thread stitches beautifully on paper.

So I remain still an admirer of the game chicken.

BOOK REVIEW "Dragon Seed" Is An Exciting Novel

By the Rev. R. C. Sears

A few short months ago, I made reference to Pearl Buck's prolific turnout of stories. The daughter of missionaries to China, Miss Buck has become the major person in literature when it comes to interpreting the Chinese person to the white people. Unlike 99 per cent of the books we review, this one did not come to me from the library. Without a doubt you can borrow it there, but I purchased my copy from a local dealer in paperback books. It was a good choice to read while we vacationed. The title of the book is "Dragon Seed".

The center of the story is Ling Tan, a Chinese farmer who, following Chinese traditions is not only father and grandfather, but while yet a farmer is also absolute ruler over his family and household. He farms in precisely the same manner as have his father, grandfather and their ancestors before him. Rice is the main crop.

In the year the story takes place, a trickle of frightened people come to their village, telling of the invasion of China by both traditional means and by the use of huge birds that fly and drop destructive eggs, which kill many people and ruin crops and buildings.

The elders of the families decide, in accord with Tan's proposal, to (1) Provide as much food as possible to the poor refugees who constantly, in rapidly increasing numbers, pass by their village. (2) To farm their marshy land as long as possible. (3) To accept the new regime as the new rulers of China. After all, said Tan's neighbors, China's history is fairly dotted with wars; very seldom had these wars had any real effect on the average person, so why expect this war to be different?

Each succeeding day, the explosion of large cannon grows louder and the stream of refugees grows thicker and the tales told about the 'enemy' grow worse. Ling Tan's second son and wife join the refugees, seeking to find and enroll in the famed university of China, now located in caves near the western portion of China. Farming, family decisions, etc., go on through the days that the enemy draws nearer. (The 'enemy' is never identified in the book, but the reader discovers many clues that this is World War II, with the Japanese as the enemy.)

Finally, comes the day when the enemy soldiers will surely come. Looking their gates, the elders gather at the village limits to greet the soldiers according to plan. But there are no soldiers!

The women and children come out of their hiding places and resume 'normal' activities.

Soon after noon the soldiers finally arrive, ignore the welcoming ceremonies of the elders, base themselves at the local tavern and demand the presence of the local women to entertain and serve them. The local welcoming committee, seeing that they had planned unrealistically, returned to their homes, hid their women and children. Then, taking up whatever arms their warring ancestors had left around the compound, prepared to fight in defense of their homes and families. The drunken soldiers tore down the gates, in general acting much as would be expected.

Starting to consider the enemy much more realistically, the younger men of the village, basing their operations on a nearby hill, begin commando-type attacks. Tan had dug a tunnel to hide members of his household; now it became an arsenal for the underground.

And this is only a small portion of the exciting novel!

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

A heap of folks might not know about it but we got serious hamburger trouble in Washington. Congressman George Andrews of Alabama let the cat out of the bag the other day when he called a fellow named Kermit Cowan, manager of the House restaurants, on the carpet about the hamburger situation.

Congressman Andrews is head of a committee that does out the taxpayers money for them Government eating places around the Capitol. He reported them eating places did a little over a million dollars worth of business during the 1965 fiscal year and showed a loss of $144,000. And he announced that things was getting worse, that the more business they done the more they lost, and it was going to run around $180,000 loss for this fiscal year. Furthermore, he allowed as how the 70 cent they was charging for hamburgers was too high, claimed he had partook of bigger and better hamburgers for 25 cent.

When manager Cowan said the 70 cent included potato chips, the Congressman reminded him he had counted them potato chips on several occasions, and they come to about 2 cent per hamburger. This Washington column writer that was telling about the matter was of the opinion they might be a cut in the price of hamburgers on account of the Congressman's complaints.

I bring this hamburger item up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb figured Congressman Andrews was using the wrong philosophy in this matter. He said they had ought to hike the price to $2 per hamburger, add another 2 cents worth of potato chips and come out all even at the end of the fiscal year.

Ed Doolittle was disagreed with Zeke, claimed that anything in Government that come out even in the Great Society would be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Furthermore, allowed Ed, Congressmen that eats at them Government cafes ain't on the poverty program and can't afford no $2 for a hamburger.

Clem Webster was of the opinion Zeke and Ed was both wrong, that it was a simple problem in arithmetic. If the more they sell the bigger the loss for the taxpayers, they had ought to ration hamburgers to about one a week for each Congressman and cut down on the volume. It was the volume, claimed Clem, that was causing the damage.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't expecting no change in the hamburger situation on Capitol hill. Hamburgers at $2 or $10 would still show a loss in Washington. It would be nice if them Congressmen could solve the taxpayers problems like we solve theirs.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim
