Homecoming at Reese Sept. 3-5

Bigger and better than ever, that's the way authorities describe the annual Reese Homecoming slated for three big days Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 3-4-5.

The big event kicks off Saturday night at 6 p. m. when crowds will start to gather at the homecoming site, a mile north of M-81 on the county line road.

One of the annual highlights of the homecoming is the huge parade that starts at 12:30 p. m. both Sunday and Monday.

Floats from Reese merchants and neighboring communities will be accompanied by several bands from area communities.

The evening shows will be highlighted by a talent show that starts at 7 p. m. both Sunday and Monday. Many fine acts have signed and an outstanding program is in prospect each night, persons in charge said

Another highlight of the event will be the teen-age dances. There will be a dance all three nights. Saturday and Sunday, Ted LaFave will be the disc jockey from 8:30 to 12:30 a. m. and Monday E, J. and the Echoes will host the show. A glittering midway will operate during the entire homecoming. featuring rides, concessions and Food tents for the convenience of visitors will also be available.

Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Caro was the scene of the Aug. 13 ceremony that united Shirley M: LaPratt and Casimer T. Lubaczewski Jr. in the sacrament of Holy Matrimony.

Rev. Fr. I. J. Mikulski officiated at the 11:00 o'clock Nuptial Mass before an altar decorated with a basket of white gladioli and pink carnations.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alex LaPratt of Caro and Mr. and Mrs. Casimer T. Lubaczewski Sr. of Cass City.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta, featuring a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and wrist-point sleeves. The full floor-length skirt fell into a chapel train, while a white satin bow accented the back waist. A wedding cake crown of lace, pearls and sequins held the bouffant bridal illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of red roses. white carnations and bridal ivy.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was Delores Lubaczewski, sister-in-law of the groom, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Joanne Lubaczewski, sister of the groom. Marilyn Surayne, niece of the bride, Luana Roach, friend of the bride, and Rosemary Rich, sister of the bride.

The bridal attendants chose summer brocade and bridal satin and Niagara Falls, the new Mr. gowns in pastel shades of pink, orchid, mint green, yellow and baby blue, respectively. They featured round necklines, fitted bodices, floor-length skirts and were sleeveless. Miniature crowns of seed pearls secured their bouffant veils. They carried baskets of pastel car-signed similar to the bride's. A queen's crown of seed pearls secured her bouffant veil. She carried a miniature cascade arrangement of red roses, white carnations and bridal ivy, identical to that of the bride.

Leonard Lubaczewski served as his brother's best man, while Gary and Larry LaPratt, twin brothers of the bride, Gerry Dziengowski, cousin of the groom, and Theron Roach, friend of the groom, served as the groom's attendants.

Kenny Sprouse was ringbearer and carried a white satin heartshaped pillow, made by the bride. Ushers were Dennis and Ron La-

Pratt, brothers of the bride. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. LaPratt wore a pink lace dress with black pattina accessories. Mrs. Lubaczewski chose a baby blue dacron dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

The bride's sister, Rosemary Rich of Otisville, made all the gowns worn by the bridal party. A breakfast for the immediate families was held at the Dom Polski Hall in Caro following the wedding Mass.

A buffet supper and reception were held in the evening at the Dom Polski Hall for approximately 400 guests.

brother, was best man. Groomsman was Barry Ziehm, cousin of the groom. Roger Andrews and Clarence Palmer seated the guests. The bride's mother wore a pale blue flowered silk dress. She wore an apricot rose corsage. The grandmothers, Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews and Mrs. Mary Sheufelt, wore rose corsages.

Mrs. Florence Sheufelt sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Robert Osborn.

At the reception in church parlors, the bride's table was centered by a three-tiered cake.

Mrs. Iva Arnott hosted a shower for the bride, assisted by Mrs. James Gimmel and Mrs. Donald Gimmel and Mrs. William Ashmore of Gagetown.

They are making their home at Walled Lake.

Needles-Kettles 4-H Elects Officers

The Needles and Kettles 4-H Club held their August meeting at the Cass City park. Roll call was answered with a food cooked outoi-doors.

New officers were elected for next year. They are: president, Becky Loomis; vice-president, Dianna Fisher; secretary, Paula Karr; recreation leader. Connie DeLong; treasurer, Debra Loomis, and reporter, Ruthann Cummins.

Plans were made for the annual achievement party to be held Sept. 19 in the home of Ruthann Cummins.

1966 grid season.

From this relatively small squad, Coach John Bifoss will try to weld a winning combination to carry the school through a grueling nine-game schedule.

It promises to be a rough task. Last year Cass City won two, lost four and tied one in the Thumb B Conference and also dropped a non-league affair to Oscoda, the team that they will open the season against this year.

Fourteen seniors left the squad last year including All-Conference Guard Rick Turner and End Al Wallace. Also graduated is Bob Rabideau, cocaptain of the team with Turner in 1965. The boys have been getting into condition by themselves for two weeks by working out prior to the start of the season at the park.

Although there are gaping holes to be filled in both the line and the backfield, Bifoss can turn to six letter winners, back from last year. Among them are Jim Walters and Karl Weippert, who won their second major award in foothall last season and will be aiming for a third. Weippert was on the All-Conference second team last season

At a Thursday meeting, Jim Walters and Alan Zawilinski were elected cocaptains of this year's edition of the Hawks.

Regular practice started Monday and, as usual, will be held twice a day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. until school starts next week. When classes begin, it will be one practice a day.

A number of first team reserves are capable of moving into the starting line-up, Bifoss feels, and some boys up from the JV squad are expected to push for a starting

Erla's Install

Alarm System

Dick Erla, co-owner of Erla Food Center, this week demonstrated a new alarm system at his store. The unwary thief that enters the store will trip an unseen beam that will activate the alarm.

The warning includes a whistle inside the store that approximates the volume of the village fire whistle and a bell alarm outside the store that can be heard throughout most of the community. Erla's installed the system after suffering several break-ins.

Sunday at Bennett Field in Owosso. Jim Conklin pitched Owosso to a 10-0 victory in the first game, and then turned around and pitched the second game to steer his team into the finals with a 2-1 victory.

Conklin was undoubtedly helped by the results of the first game. Because Owosso went 10 runs ahead, the game was called at the end of the fifth inning, allowing Conklin to hurl the second game comparatively fresh.

The first game wasn't any kind of a contest. Leroy Winams of Owosso cracked out a home run in the second inning and the rout

By the end of the fifth, Owosso had 10 runs and 10 hits. Cass City had no runs and no hits. The only Cass City man to reach base was Dean Hoag who received a life on an error.

Second Game

In the second game, that decided the championship, it was a different story. Al Bosch was on the mound for Erla's and the game was not decided until the final out. Dan Erla lost a ball in the lights in the first inning to give Owosso an unearned run

In the fifth, a bunt single and Jim Haskins' double netted what proved to be the winning run. It was the only solid blow off Bosch in the entire game.

The plucky pitcher tried to win his own game in the last of the seventh as he smashed a home run with two out, but Dan Erla was an easy out to end the game.

SPORTS FANS! Did you know that a man can be the winning pitcher in a baseball game even though he never threw a pitch to a batter! . . How is this possible? . . . This actually happened once in a minor league game . . A relief hurler came into the game with two out in the top of the 9th . . Before throwing a pitch to the plate, he picked the runner off first base retiring the side . . . Then, his team scored the winning run in the last of the 9th, and he was the winning Here's an oddity from golf that shows you don't have to win tournaments to win a lot of money . . . Last year, golf pro Tommy Aaron won over $44,000 I in tournament play without ever winning a tourney, and in his five years on the pro tour up to and including the end of 1965, he won over $100,000 without ever winning a tournament! . . . He finished second a few times and wound up farther down the list in the rest of the tourneys, yet was able to amass all that money.

Here's an oddity . . . Football is always referred to as the "pigskin sport," and the football itself is often called the "pigskin" . . . But, did you know that footballs aren't made from pigskin anymore! . . . Most footballs today are made from cowhide.

Salvation Army Needs United Fund

series about agencies served by the Tuscola County United Fund. The Salvation Army --- To a hungry man, it is a hot meal, refuge, and a job; To a distressed woman, shelter and comfort; To elderly people, happy places to find companionship and useful avocations. For 70 years the Army has been serving the people of Michigan. It is not possible to describe all of the services here, but a brief description of a few will help us to understand why the Salvation Army means so much to so many Tuscola county families. The Salvation Army operates two hospitals for unmarried mothers in the State of Michigan and one in Milwaukee for the Upper Peninsula, A good percentage of the clients come from rural communities. At these hospitals the best of medical care is provided as well as good counseling to help the girl face the future. Where adoption of infants is indicated, arrangements are made through licensed child-placing agencies.

For more than 60 years the Salvation Army has conducted a prison and parole program. Inside the prison the program includes religious and advertional activities for irrector. Outside the prison it works with prisoners' families, giver memision to the parolees, and side them in finding employ-

Because it works constantly in the courts, prisons, hospitals, orphanages, and along Skid Row, the Salvation Army is in a unique position to assist in locating mis-

Two summer camps are operated in Michigan. More mothers and children of slums and poor housing districts spend a week of vacation getting out of the smoke, dust, and grime of the city outside into God's great outdoors with plenty of good, wholesome food and planned programs which makes this wonderland a veritable heaven for the mothers and their children. Youth camps are also operated every year as well as a camp period for the "Golden Agers.

The Veteran's Cheer Program is largely a program of personal services conducted by the Salvation Army League of Mercy. The program includes concerts, entertainments, and religious services. In addition, there is the distribution of personal necessities such as toilet articles, writing materials, etc., candy, and fruit. Special programs are conducted at Easter and Christmas time.

At Christmas time the Salvation Army endeavors to bring an extra bit of cheer to the less fortunate. The holiday needs of many families are individualized; checks or baskets of groceries are sent to merge with the relief of the yearround situation. Parties are arranged at which toys, candy, and fruit are distributed to underprivileged children. The entire program aims to symbolize the spiritual basis of Christmas.

Eye examinations and glasses are provided for those unable to provide for this care. Dental care of the needy is provided, especially in rural areas upon the recommendation of Rural Service Unit Committee.

Tonsillectomies and other minor surgical care are provided in rural and urban areas to those who would be unable to secure this type of service.

One of the most remembered services is aid during an emergency or disaster. The Salvation Army does not regard itself as a major disaster agency, but the general public anticipates the Salvation Army worker at the scene of a disaster, and it has become a tradition that cannot be overlooked. Two canteens are available to serve eastern Michigan, and a telephone call will bring one to the scene of a disaster in a matter of a couple of hours.

The Salvation Army is one of the many participating United Fund agencies.

Need Recruits for Farm Power Class

The third successive class in Farm Power Equipment Mechanic Training has been authorized under the Manpower Development and Training Act. It was slated to start in Bay City Monday.

Previous courses have been hailed by persons in charge as among the most successful held under the Act in the State of Michigan, but there have been few visible effects of the program in the Thumb area, a Chronicle survey revealed last week.

Although most of the implement dealers are in favor of any program that will help alleviate the critical trained labor shortage, there is no one working in the area trained under the program. John Marshall, at Marshall's John Deere, says that he knows of only one person who has taken the course. The man works for an implement dealer in Caro. Marshall reported that he received no letter about this year's course. Dale Damm, at Damm's Implement, says that he hasn't paid too much attention to the program. Wayne Rabideau said that he would like to see an area man take the course. . . I feel it is an excellent opportunity for anyone interested in farm equipment mechanic training. The intensive training program includes eight hours of training daily for 48 weeks. Persons accepted receive a weekly training allowance, subsistence for themselves and dependents and a travel allowance if they live outside Bay Men 18 years old or over with a minimum eighth grade education should apply at the Michigan Employment Security Commission office at 228 Washington Avenue. Bay City, or any other employment office in the State.

Plant Wheat After Sept. 15

Seeding wheat early is a good practice, but farmers are advised to wait until after the "fly free date" before planting in September. Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent, says the day in Tuscola county is Sept. 15. This date is set by entomologists on the basis of years of obsian fly in the area. The county extension agent believes this is a year farmers should consider planting certified seed. With the price prospects higher, good germination should result in better yields and harvest time next summer. He believes most farm-servation of the fall brood of Hesers will more than get their extra costs back with additional yields, to say nothing of the better quality grain at harvest time.

Wheat seed should be treated before planting as bunt or smut is always a danger. Elevators and seed dealers have full information and materials for treating seed wheat. Information is also available from the Tuscola County Extension Office.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

An Elegant Park Costs 25c More

By Marion Hostetler

By the time this appears in print we should be home again, but I am writing it at Tappan Lake Park in eastern Ohio. A dozen years ago, several dams were built to prevent flood damage and soil erosion in the Muskingum River valley. The reservoirs they created proved to be ideal locations for camping, swimming, and boating. I can't say as much for the fishing. Even the publicity brochures indicate that Ohio is noted for "relaxed fishing." They have no limits or seasons; whenever you can eatch anything, you may keep it. And they might have added that you can relax a long time before you have to rebait

Facilities in the parks range from primitive to elegant. Tappan Lake is one of the most rustic. Our experience in several states has been that the overnight fee is $1.50 or $1.75 where sanitary facilities are primitive, and about $2.00 where modern toilets and showers are provided. (This additional 25 cents per night helps defray the cost of the expensive facilities at Port Crescent Park which I mentioned last week.)

In some Michigan camps electricity is available at each camp site for another 25 cents. Supposing that electricity could be found in the park, I took along my electric shaver, and no other razor. But a quick survey of Tappan Lake Park showed that electric outlets were even scarcer than fish. There were lights in the toilets, but each bulb was enclosed in a steel cage to prevent people from snitching bulbs . . . or shaving. There were electric vending machines that dispensed cold cans of pop, but they had no outlets for dispensing electricity. The refreshment stand at the bathing beach had an electric rotisserie for hot dogs and an electric spinner for cotton candy, but no outlet for shavers.

So each time we went to town for groceries I shaved in a filling station, and the rest of the time I pretended it was centennial week.

The first Saturday evening we were in the park the student chaplain showed free movies ("Fish Cookery" and "Hoover Dam"). The next morning several dozen people in their camping clothes gathered at the same spot at 8:00 for a Sunday worship service which was sponsored by the Council of Churches of a nearby town, who provided an electric organ for the occasion.

There were no movies on our second Saturday night, as that proved to be the day of the chaplain's own wedding. On our second Sunday a visiting chaplain conducted the service. As the organist was preparing to leave, I noticed that he disconnected his organ from an electric outlet on a post at the side of the clearing. I had sat through two movies and two church services without realizing that they were dependent on alternating current! After that I shaved regularly, and as unobtrusively as possible, through the courtesy of the Cadiz Council of Churches.

The moral of this story is: "If you go to church once and don't find a solution for your problem, go again."

One of our reasons for staying at Tappan Lake Park was that pets are permitted in the Muskingum Conservancy District, but not in any state park in Ohio, Pennsylvania, or Maryland. Having failed to find a place to leave our cat, we had taken Toby along. The sinking feeling I had when I drove up to a metel or a park and saw the sign, "No pets," gave me a slight, indication of what it is like. to be a victim of segregation.)

I myself am no great cat lover, but since I seem to get more comments from readers about cat items than about any other kind, I'll bring you up to date on Toby's waning life expectancy.

Our constant readers will remember that Toby lost the first of his nine lives when he was scared to death by a pair of angry blue jays the first time he climbed a tree, and that he lost the second when I accidentally trampled on his head,

After deciding we'd have to bring him along on the trip, we thought he should be broken to the leash, so we tied him to the tetherball pole in the center of the back yard one sunny morning. It didn't occur to us that a cat needs shade, until Betsy found him panting there as if his lungs would burst.

So life three is charged up to sun-

Dear Mister Editor:

aviation fundamentals.

I'm writing my little piece afore the final tabulations fer Labor Day is in, but we set a new record ever holiday fer people gitting killed on the highways and I'm guessing Monday will be another record fer death and destruction up and down the roads of America.

I think this Judge in Indiana has come up with the best plan I have saw fer highway safety. He makes the wild drivers that comes into his court write out their own death notice and funeral story fer the paper. Then he makes them go to the funeral home, pick out the coffin they'd like to be buried in, and discuss their funeral plans, like who they would like to have fer pallbearers, with the burial felks. If they don't want to do all this, they can pay a heavy fine and spend some time in jail. The piece I was reading said none of them was taking the jail plan. we was discussing ans matter at the country store Saturday night and bug Hookum claimed they wasn't no cure ter the situation. He said he had done give up on the whole human race the minute they got behind a steering wheel. He was of the opinion that at his age they was three things that would still be here when he was dead and gone, increased taxes, slaughter on the highways, and the war in Viet Nam. Zeke Grubb was disagreed with Bug, claimed the car manufacturers was going to make cars a heap safer, and with all them twolane Federal highways we was building, things would git better. But personal, Mister Editor, Zeke was the kind of feller that does a heap of wishful thinking.

He still hopes he'll live to see the day when we will have 1966 wages, 1922 costs, and 1911 taxes. A feller with that filosophy had ought to go see his doctor because he's bad

Ed Doolittle allowed as how they was one great hope fer safety on the highways and he was of the opinion it was coming faster than most folks thought. He said he was convinced in another 10 year most American taxpayers would be riding a mule and he ain't never heard tell of two mules having a head-on collision.

Ed had a newspaper clipping to prove his point. This piece reported the interest on our new national debt fer the next fiskal year would run $22,000 a minute, showing it took 22 people paying $1,000 income tax this year to pay the interest fer one minute. The storekeeper did a little figgering on Ed's item and announced it was taking 11.563,200 taxpayers paying $1,000 income tax this year to pay the annual interest on what we

Avoid Short Cuts in Freezing Foods

If you're home freezing foods this summer, don't be tempted to take short cuts and eliminate blanching the food before you freeze it, warns Mrs. Ann Ross. Extension Home Economist for Huron, Sanilac; and Tuscola coun-

Blanching or heat treating foods improves keeping quality of the product during the time it is in cold storage. During blanching, many of the enzymes in food are inactivated. If these enzymes were allowed to remain active they would contribute to the deterioration of the product during storage. This would result in foods with off flavors, off odors, and poor eating

The blanching process also removes extraneous substances from raw food which otherwise contribute to development of off flavors in the frozen product. It also kills micro-organisms that might cause spoilage.

"Color set" is another term sometimes applied to the heat treatment, since the process prolongs natural color of food. According to Mrs. Ross, every fresh vegetable except green pepper maintains better quality in frozen storage if heated before packing. The heat treatment also wilts or softens vegetables and makes them easier to pack.

When blanching, use one gallon of water for each one pound of prepared vegetables. Bring the water to a boil before lowering vegetables into it. Put the lid on and start counting the time immediately. Don't wait for the water to come back to a boil but keep the heat high during the entire time vegetables are being blanched. Times needed for different vegetables vary. Check your freezing directions.

When the time is up, cool vegetables quickly and thoroughly. This can be done by plunging the basket holding vegetables immediately into a large quantity of cold water-60 degrees F. or below. Change the water frequently or use cold running water or iced water. It will take about as long to cool the food as it did to heat it. After cooling, drain the food quickly. Then pack and freeze. Mrs. Ross suggests the following experiment to show the difference between blanched and unblanched frozen food, Select a choice ear of fresh sweet corn-break it in halfblanch one half according to directions-- cooling promptly and freezing properly. Simply place the other half ear in the freezer properly wrapped but not blanched. Six or eight months later remove both ears from the freezer, cook, serve and compare quality. The unblauched ear will be less sweet in taste, and will have a musty odor. The blanched sample will be sweet and good. The longer the corn is stored, the more apparent the difference will be.

BOOK REVIEW

A Crackin' Good Story ... and Mystery

Airs Above Ground by Mary Stewart is at once a crackin' good tale and a first class mystery novalthough I'm not sure Mrs. Stewart would admit to being a whodunit author. Seasoned author that she is, this is not her first book to receive plaudits from this column. Eight titles are listed as coming from her pen, and you may recall the novel later made into a television drama, The Moon-Spinners. Mrs. Little may rest assured that any books by Mary Stewart will receive a warm welcome here.

The story is told through the 'voice' of Vanessa, a veterinarian by training, and a newly-wed (to Lewis, espionage agent for several European nations.) March is their last name, and also serves as an apt description to the plot of the story.

As the book opens, Vanessa is still rationalizing her part in a lover's quarrel. Lewis had agreed to take time for an often postponed honeymoon, only to abandon his plans to accept another secret assignment. She attends a party hosted by a 'catty' friend, who lets drop that she had seen Lewis on a news program from Switzerland. Denying the possibility, Vanessa visits a local theater and witnesses for herself a newsreel of her husband, and an attractive acquaintance; in spite of a letter she had received from Lewis postmarked Stockholm the same day. he was pictured as helping a small circus recover from a fire.

Vanessa, agreeing to take the son of a friend to Vienna to visit his estranged father, flew to Vienna. The 'boy' turned out to be a knowledgeable, and resourceful companion who had actually not been in correspondence at all with his father, telling that falsehood to escape from his mother's domination all summer. However, in Vienna, he did locate his none-toopleased father, who was involved with romantic pursuits of his own. He most willingly gave Tim sufficient funds to maintain him for the entire summer.

Tim was able to use his high school German just enough to discover where the ill-fated circus was presently located. Vanessa hired a car and taking Tim along (since he had no definite plans and expressed desire to go along,) drove to the little village of Oberhausen, where they located themselves in a quaint little hotel. Quite by accident they saw the blond girl who had been Lewis's companion in the newsreel. Tim, irrepressible and always energetic, wandered off ahead of supper, returning with the young lady, introducing her as the circus owner's daughter, Annalisa Wagner, who became very friendly with the two travelling English people.

Allow me to skip much that is fascinating; asking you to believe that through subterfuge, what had been thought to be a useless old nag, actually turned out to be a stolen Lipizzaner. (A very expensive breed of Spanish stock, made famous in the U.S. A. by Walt. Disney, who has told their story repeatedly on his television show.) The fascinating and true story of the fabulous Lipizzaner show horses is told in full in the book, and the plot is woven around them.

This book is packed with mystery, and action galore! There is a night time chase along a castle roof, which would do credit to Boston Blackie, a road chase at high speeds along mountainous e curves, a dramatic cumax and confrontation in a ski lodge, followed by the recovery of drugs (at the root of all the evil) with Tim getting his foot jammed in a railroad track, and getting saved at the last possible moment

However, as every reader of novels knows, "all's well that ends well," and this novel does end

Mrs. Mary Graves Dies in Bradenton

Mrs. Mary Graves, 82, retired Highland Park Ford High School Home Economics teacher, died Friday, Aug. 26, at the Glen Ridge Nursing Home in Bradenton, Florida, where she had been a patient since 1962.

Mrs. Graves, daughter of James and Mary Sommerville, was born April 3, 1884, in Cass City. She attended Cass City Schools, Ferris Institute and Wayne State University from which she received her BS degree.

She married Charles Graves in Bad Axe in January of 1906. He operated a jewelry store in Cass City until he was killed in a hunting accident in 1908.

Mrs. Graves taught kindergarten in Caro and Cass City and home economics at Ford High School, Highland Park, from 1917 te 1945.

She was a member of the Park Corinthian Chapter of Eastern Star, Highland Park.

Mrs. Graves is survived by a grandson, Russell Graves of Central Lake, Mich., five great-grandchildren and two cousins, Miss Alma Henderson of Royal Oak and Mrs. Charles Steeleof of Lewiston, Montana.

The funeral was held in Albion. Mich, and graveside services at the Elkland Township Cemetery

The Youth Advisory Council, 65 young people brought together by the Michigan Youth Commission, hopes to reverse this unfortunate trend through wide distribution and use of its "Creed for the Youth of Michigan."

Written at the request of Gov. George Romney, the seven-paragraph creed poetically describes the highest of ideals in the various areas of daily life. As Romney noted, it provides "adults as well a set of guiding principles worthy of study, discussion and action."

Touching on moral obligations, family relations, teen-adult contacts, educational values, government responsibilities, religious tolerance, and equal opportunity, the creed was written by a small committee of the Youth Advisory Council, studied, and rewritten over nearly two years by the entire

The committee which presented the creed to the Governor emphasized it might need adjustment in luture years but is designed to "help the youth of today" and be adaptable to meet the changing needs of tomorrow's youth.

:::::: Tax Reduction?

Good news for the many motorists who balked at paying $1 extra when they registered autos this year may come in 1967.

Secretary of State James M. Hare says the uninsured motorist accident claims fund is in good financial condition with the money collected this year. He will recommend the legislature require contribution to the fund only by the uninsured drivers in the future,

Any change in the law eliminating the $1 fee to insured drivers suance of 1968 license plates.

:::::: Sound reserves established in the fund this year are expected to hold up against the number of claims anticipated in the next several years, Hare reports. The Secretary also will recommend a raise in the limit now imposed on each claim.

Motorists who fail to carry insurance on their vehicles would still pay the $35 fee per registration, continuing to bolster the fund until they buy their own insurance and reimbursing the fund if claims are filed against them.

Insured motorists poured some $3,723,017 into the fund at $1 each while more than 160,000 drivers without insurance contributed over $5.6 million into it.

Hare estimates there are about 200,000 uninsured drivers in the state, most of whom will be found by the end of the current registration year.

"We might not catch up to all of the uninsureds, but every day some are apprehended in other infractions and their slight of the $35 uninsured fee comes to light." he said.

place on the ballot automatically. Prohibition Party officials instituted a challenge to this law and nominated candidates to be ready in the event of success. This party, formerly a regular on the ballot, also fell short for the 1964 election.

The law regarding minor party qualification has not always kept the ballot short.

In 1960 five minor parties qualified to give Michigan voters the widest choice since 1938 when six groups joined Democrats and Republicans on the ballot.

Votes drawn by the minority groups have never been a real threat to the major party candidates, however. In 1960 the five guhernatorial candidates together nicked un only 10 202 votes among more than 3.2 million votes cast in the election.

Mrs. Ross makes the following suggestions for making each day more enjoyable for small children: Make it easy for children to help themselves. A sturdy stool or steps in the bathroom and a low rod for their towel and wash cloth lets them help themselves while freeing you to do other things. Also select clothes that are easy for children to manage themselves. But most important, remember to help children only when they seem to need it. Small children also can help you with some small tasks throughout the day. Through helping, children learn what work is like and what adults are like as they work.

A mid-morning snack helps children relax if they have become too excited. It also gives you a chance to sit down and relax with them. Children will probably make less demands on you at other times if they have the firm feeling that you have given them some of your Encourage your children to play by themselves some of the time. This helps them to become imaginative. Young children need supervision in their play but not interference or constant direction.
