30 Years of Bus Driving No Drudgery for Mrs. Martus

After 250,000 miles behind the wheel of a school bus in a career that spans 30 years, Mrs. Martus

From the Editor's Corner

Everyone agrees that the village street crew and the extra hired help did a magnificent job getting the snow away from Main Street. The work becomes even more impressive when compared with the results in other communities. Sunday afternoon the streets of Bay City had been scarcely touched and Caro was still snow clogged Monday afternoon. All of the snow had been removed from the downtown area by noon Monday.

Remember back about 10 days ago when we were experiencing that unusually mild weather? Harry Kurtz, who works for the Chronicle and is active in the Cass City United Missionary Church, was praying for snow so he could take a church youth group tobogganing Saturday.

Most folks think that the snowstorm will give newspapers plenty of news for the week. Actually, exactly the opposite is true. When people can't leave their homes, the usual sources of news dries up. There are very few automobile accidents . . . no cars on the road. Court cases are cancelled because witnesses or principals cannot make it to the courthouse. General "local" news is practically nonexistent because social events are cancelled.

Farm news that comes from the Extension office doesn't get written because the Extension staff is mired in snow far from their office and the police beat shows little activity because potential troublemakers can't get out and policemen are unable to work on any but emergency cases.

Dave Kraft, former editor at the Chronicle, whose column, "Comments by Kraft," was widely read when he wrote it here has carried on the good work at Vassar.

In recent state-wide competition among weeklies in the State, it won third place. Dave says he is not sure just which one of three won the award, but if it is determined we will try to inveigle it from him and reprint it for the benefit of his host of friends in the area.

Martus still likes her job. "I never dreaded getting up in the morning and going to work," she said, "and I still don't."

Possibly the reason is that she has gotten along well with the children. "In my 30 years I have only had to put one boy off the bus for disciplinary reasons," she recalled. "Most of the time the kids do as they are told."

It goes without saying that she knows just about every family on her route and some of the relationships go back a long way. Six children currently are the second generation of riders on buses driven by Mrs. Martus. In each case the father is the former student rider.

Driving of buses has been a career for the Martus family since 1937. Ever since Bill Martus and former Superintendent Ivan Niergarth set up the Colwood route, there has been a Martus at the wheel of a Martus-owned bus.

For under a fairly unique setup, the Martuses buy their own buses and then are paid for driving and the use of the bus. At one time they ran three buses for the district, but back in 1942 during the early years of World War II help became nonexistent and they dropped two buses and since that time have operated just one.

Because of rules established by the school district, it is likely to be the last year the Martus family leases to the school, but not the last year of driving for Mrs. Martus.

She said that she would probably drive next year, if everything works out.

The elimination of leased buses is another in a continuing revolution in bus driving.

When the Colwood route was first established, the parents of the children paid for having their children transported. At this time there were only three buses driving to the school. Today there are 14.

Mrs. Martus will not be able to drive her own bus next year because it is a year older than the oldest bus that will be operated. The school's policy is that no leased bus can be a year older than the oldest school-owned bus for reasons of child safety.

There are many persons, including school board members, who will tell you that despite its age, the Martus-owned bus is better than many newer buses now in use.

Extra care is the reason. Bill Martus, an able mechanic, takes over the route twice a month or so and listens for any strange knocks or noises and fixes them before trouble develops.

Her long driving career didn't stop the Martuses from successfully raising a family. They have three children. The oldest, Bill, 31, is an auto engineer in the Chicago area. Mary Jean, 30, is a teacher at Battle Creek, and Bob, 28, is a coach-teacher in the Flint area.

Not Much Change

There hasn't been much change in the Winton district route that Mrs. Martus services. "I travel only three more miles today than when I started," Mrs. Martus explained.

Better roads and better buses have decreased the time on the road over the years. It takes about 50 minutes to get around the 24-mile route today.

But even though the time is reduced, the school district gets more for its money. Today there are 62 children on the route and when the line was first organized there were just 30.

Over the years, Mrs. Martus has been stuck just twice in the snow . . . but never to such a degree that her passengers failed to return home from school after being picked up.

Possibly, the most important statistic concerning her driving career is that not once has she been involved in even a minor accident. The record must be a source of satisfaction to Mrs. Martus and is undoubtedly reassuring to the parents of the kids that are entrusted to her five days a week.

The Social Security representative will be at the Municipal Building in Cass City Friday, Feb. 10, from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m.

Ask for Radar Unit

The machine age is rapidly coming to Cass City. Last year the council placed parking meters on village streets and this year is considering purchasing radar for use in the village.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer said that a unit that clocks motorists and punches a ticket at the speed he is driving can be purchased for $1,310 with 10 per cent down and payments of $50 per month.

The salesman said that in a village the size of Cass City, Palmateer continued, the unit would pay for itself in extra fines collected. Although the revenue from tickets would jump, Palmateer said, the primary purpose of the unit would be for better traffic control and a safer community.

I am finding it impossible to catch speeders entering the village and with a new school on the hill. I am afraid someone may be killed as cars come zooming over the hill, the chief explained to the council.

I think we can have public acceptance of this control device if it's handled right. And without the backing of the people it cannot be a success, he concluded.

The council seemed to be favorably impressed with the request and will probably take action at the next meeting.

Owengage School Bond Issue Vote Set for Monday

Voters in Owengage-Gagetown School district will decide whether or not to build additions to the grade schools at Owengage and Gagetown at a special election Monday, Feb. 6.

Plans call for construction of five rooms at Owengage and seven rooms at Gagetown.

School officials estimated that the issue can be retired by an average levy of 2.71 mills on the State Equalized Valuation for 20 years or less.

Ask Council's Aid With Yule Work

The village council which this year took over the erection of the Main Street Christmas displays, was asked Tuesday night by Chamber President Clinton House for more aid.

House asked the council to consider placing in its budget some money to help purchase permanent displays for the village.

The request was taken under advisement.

Village Police Work Told for Year

Chief Carl Palmateer reported the activities of his department for 1966 and for the month to the village council Tuesday night.

The yearly report showed a sharp increase in work. Total calls received for the year went from 1678 to 1947, while accident investigations were up slightly from a total of 94 to 99.

Since the parking meters were installed this fall, 400 summonses were issued, the report indicated.

With the addition of a third man, total hours worked went from 6,194 to 7,960 and miles patrolled went from 167,800 to 194,700.

Concluded on page four.

Demands Cut; Wage Boost Still to Cost Village $6,000

Hourly employees of the village of Cass City received a seven per cent wage increase and department heads were boosted 10 per cent Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the council at the municipal building. Both boosts are retroactive to Jan. 1. Cost of the entire package was estimated at $6,000 per year.

The increase is a little less than half of what had formally been requested in a letter to the council in January for hourly men and two-thirds of the amount requested for supervisors.

Before the raise, wages for hourly rated employees ranged from $1.85 to $2.02 an hour and for salaried employees from $105.77 to $144 per week. Fringe benefits add about 10 per cent to the cost.

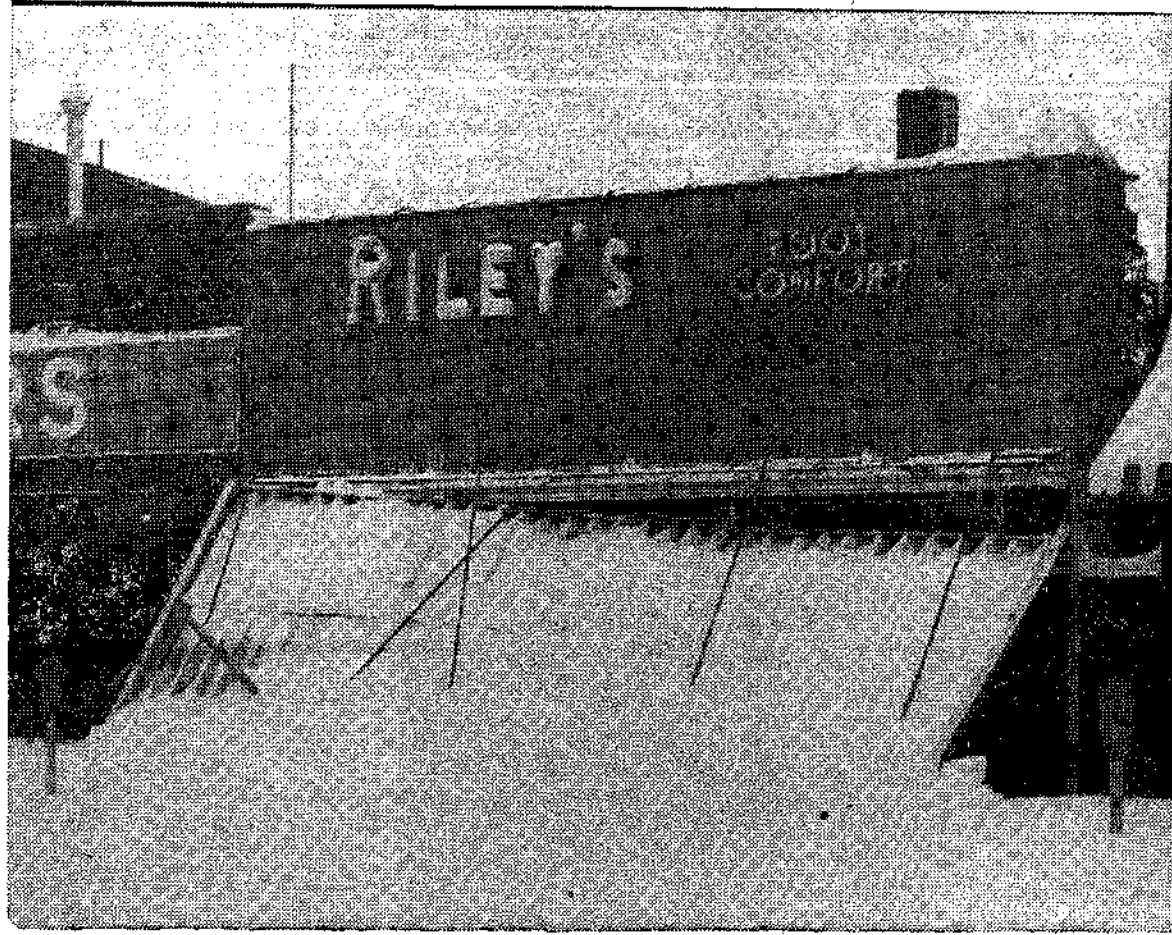

Even with the healthy wage boost it is possible that the village will lose two men each with over 10 years experience with the village.

Supt. Bill Schram told the council that he knew that the men who are considering leaving have had offers that were better than they would receive even if the full raise had been granted.

These are good men and I would hate to lose them, Schram said. Most of the councilmen entered the meeting with fairly definite guidelines about how much of a pay increase should be granted.

Trustee William Selby said that he felt that a five per cent increase would be in line for the men. His opinion was echoed by George Dillman and Glen McCulloch.

Snowstorm Losses High; Village Quickly Digs Out

WORST HIT BY THE storm was Riley's Foot Comfort. Even though the large display window in the front was broken, there was very little storm damage on the inside due to the fast work by volunteer helpers. (More storm pictures on inside pages.)

Shields Returned To Jackson for Life Sentence

Milton Shields, 31, of Bay City was sentenced to life imprisonment on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder and for 8 to 10 years on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape Monday before Judge James Churchill.

While sentencing Shields, Judge Churchill called the crime one of the worst that he had ever been called on to sentence while serving as a judge in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

The two sentences will run concurrently. Shields was found guilty after two days of testimony was heard and the victim of the assault, a Bay City woman, testified how she had been beaten and slashed some 32 times. The only witness for Shields was his wife. Shields has returned to Jackson where he was on parole from a 1½ to five-year sentence for larceny from a car in Bay City.

In another criminal sentencing Monday, Judge Churchill sent Melvin Wagner Jr. of Crystal to Jackson Prison for a period of 2½ to 10 years for breaking and entering a gas station owned by John Lynce in Mayville. Wagner pleaded guilty when arraigned.

In the final criminal matter heard Monday, Henry Peace of Saginaw pleaded guilty to indecent liberties with a nine-year-old girl in Arbel township.

Judge Churchill accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Sentence will be passed Feb. 20.

Tax Jump Seen Sure In Budget Review

The Cass City Village Council wrestled with the budget Tuesday night at the municipal building and one significant fact emerged: expenses will be over revenues and a tax increase is in the wind for village residents.

Although no figures are finalized, a preliminary look at the budget indicated that the village will be at least $20,000 short of meeting its needs in 1967.

Already trustees are eyeing another boost in water and sewer rates. Trustee D. E. Rawson said that the cost of running the water and sewer department is exceeding revenue now.

One of the reasons for this is the cost of paying for the new water tank and the sewage disposal plant which amounts to $14,500 of the estimated $50,000 spent for the services.

The deficit comes despite a substantial boost in tap-in rates and other water and sewer service charges last year and a general raise of rates in recent years.

To Let Road Work In Huron County

Work on M-142 from M-25 east to Pigeon in Huron county will be among $9.1 million in highway construction projects to be let in Lansing Feb. 8.

Estimated cost of the job is $50,000 and completion date has been set for Aug. 31.

While sewer and water costs are expected to increase, the biggest boost will probably be in taxes. No one on the council has yet mentioned how much should be requested.

However, a sharp boost in valuation of property within the village in 1967 will allow the council to establish a hefty boost and still lower the mill-rate.

Minor Crashes In Area, Three Injuries Reported

One person was injured in a two-car crash Sunday morning at the corner of Hadley and Argyle roads in Sanilac county. According to Bad Axe State Police, David Mathews, 75, of Decker received bruises and lacerations in the crash.

Mathews was turning left onto Argyle road when his car and a vehicle driven by Larry T. Strace, 18, of Decker collided. The intersection is about 11 miles south-east of Cass City.

Two persons received lacerations in a two-car crash on M-81, about a mile east of Cass City, Tuesday afternoon. Receiving treatment in Sandusky for lacerations were Julie Rosa Laur of Applegate and Iletta Deadmon of Kentucky.

According to Deputy Paul Barry of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, the accident occurred when Mrs. Laur, traveling east, and Joseph H. Wolschlag of Uby, going west, collided in a narrow spot in the road caused by snowbanks.

Village Accidents

Two accidents were reported in Cass City during the week. Patrolman Jim Jzewski investigated an accident Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, at Garfield and Vulcan Streets.

The car driven by Charles Ralph Parker, 40, of Cass City stopped and started across Garfield. Vision was obscured by a snowbank and he collided with a car driven by Nancy Jane Hunter, 23, of Cass City.

The front end of the Hunter car and the left side and front of the Parker car were damaged. Both vehicles were removed by wreckers.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer investigated an accident at Church and Sherman streets Monday, Jan. 30. The accident occurred at an open intersection.

The car driven by Norman Heronemus, 53, of Decker was hit in the left side at the rear axle when it collided with the car driven by Gary Warren Kelley, 21, of Cass City. The Kelley car was damaged in the front end and was removed by a tractor loader. No injuries were reported.

Cass City finished digging out early this week after surviving a snowstorm Thursday and Friday that has been termed the worst in a half century.

The cost of the storm will run into uncounted thousands of dollars. Most Cass City stores were closed all day Friday and a majority were also closed Saturday.

Dairy farmers also experienced heavy losses. With roads impassable, bulk milk trucks were unable to make their rounds and many farmers were forced to dump milk. Especially hard hit were farms who were scheduled to be picked up Friday morning on the everyday-day schedule that is followed by bulk haulers.

While most stores did little or no business, smaller grocery stores within walking distance reported brisk business.

One downtown store owner reported Friday as one of his best days of the month.

Storm Damage

Besides the loss in business, storm damage to many buildings was evident. The roof of a machinery shed owned by C. R. Hunt Construction buckled, as did a portion of the roof at Auten Motor Sales.

Biggest loss in the community was probably suffered by J. V. Riley.

The awning in front of his store buckled under the weight of the heavy snow and crashed into the front of his large display window.

Damage to the interior was slight due to prompt action by volunteer helpers. Clarence Miller, Cass City, and other helpers secured lumber from the lumber company and boarded the window shut for Riley, who was marooned at his home on M-53 east of Cass City.

His assistance was typical of the general help-your-neighbor attitude prevalent throughout the storm. At the New Gordon Hotel, the Al Porritt family was caught at their home in Bad Axe and the former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Fleming, ran the restaurant for a day and a half to help out.

Many of the nurses at the local hospitals worked as many as 36 hours without relief while hospital people were being dug out from their homes.

Dave Ware and Leo Ware spent Friday shutting people to the hospitals.

Road Crew

Most residents were applauding the efforts of the village road crew and the emergency help. Friday and Saturday the crews were kept busy plowing to keep local streets open, working nearly around the clock. Village Engineer William Schram said that Jim Jzewski and William McKinley, of the police department, and Nelson Willy, from the disposal plant, pitched in and drove trucks.

No effort was made to remove snow from the parking areas on Main street until after the wind died down late Saturday. Full scale work started Sunday morning and five trucks worked day and night to give the community a snow-free Main Street.

Storms Compared

Most folks were saying that the storm was bad but not as disastrous as the one in 1947. According to the Chronicle of March 2, 1947, the results of the storm were probably worse in 1947, but more snow fell in a short period last week than did in 1947's deluge.

The storm in '47 came when there was already a lot of snow on the ground and was accompanied by very high winds. There were 32 cars stranded on M-81 east of Caro and motorists found shelter in homes along the way, the paper reported. Business was at a standstill.

Another factor that probably influenced the local remembrance of the storm was that the equipment 20 years ago couldn't compare with today's machinery.

The paper reported that farmers shoveled the roads and many came to town on horses and bobsleighs. Last week's transportation was handled by tractors and ski-does even the remotest farms were accessible by Monday afternoon.

One record that the storm set was at the post office. For the first time in history the Cass City Post Office was closed, officials reported.

Slate 3 Public Policy Meets

The first of a series of three "Public Policy meetings" will get under way Tuesday, Feb. 7, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension agricultural agent. A number of similar meetings were held several years ago with unusual interest shown by those who participated.

Topics for this series should be of equal interest or even more challenging, said Ballweg.

Feb. 7, "Michigan Land Use Change".

Feb. 14, "From Triple A To Triple F".

Feb. 21, "County Government - Evolution or Revolution?"

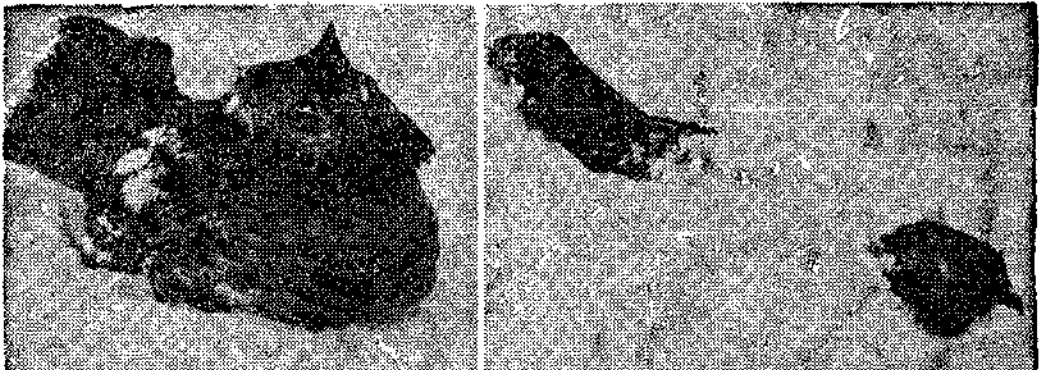

All meetings are scheduled 10:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. on Tuesdays. Conducting the Feb. 7 workshop on Michigan Land Use Change will be George Graff and William J. Kimball, extension specialists in resource development at MSU.

Art Mauch, extension specialist in agriculture economics, will conduct the Feb. 14 workshop, "From Triple A to Triple F". Mauch writes the column for Michigan Farmer, "Straight From The Shoulder".

The last in the series is Feb. 21, "County Government - Evolution or Revolution?" by Alvin House, specialist in agricultural economics. What effect will reapportionment of county boards of supervisors have on the form and function of your county government?

All meetings will be held in the Civil Defense Center of the new County Jail building in Caro. Workshops are open to farmers, businessmen and labor representatives. Women are also invited to take part.

Escape in The Snow

Curious are the ways of wildlife in their struggle for survival. This sequence of pictures, taken by Conservation Department game biologist Tom Pradzik, shows one of them. The story told here is of a ruffed grouse which seemingly had lost all fear of man in face of its near capture by a hawk. With a Cooper's hawk in hot pursuit, the grouse dove-bombed into 12 inches of powdery snow eight feet in front of Pradzik, and completely buried itself. Having scared the hawk off, the game man was surprised no end when the grouse let him dig it out of the snow and remained motionless in his hands. Since there seemed to be nothing physically wrong with the bird, Pradzik threw it into the air several times, but it would not fly away. As these pictures show, the grouse dropped to the snow and immediately began to bury itself again by wriggling its body from side to side. Once becoming completely covered, it remained still. After clicking his camera to get this rare bit of wildlife drama, Pradzik left his feathered friend in its snowy hideaway. Returning to the scene next morning, he found the bird had flown out of its roost, apparently reassured that it had escaped the threat of its winged enemy, the hawk. —Mich. Dept. of Conservation.

Kathy McNeill 1st in Contest at Owen-Gage School

Kathy McNeill, by finishing first in a written homemaking knowledge and attitude examination for senior girls Dec. 6, became Owen-Gage Area School's 1967 Betty Crocker Homemaking of Tomorrow.

A state Homemaking of Tomorrow runner-up will be selected from the winners of all schools in the state, with the former receiving a $1,500 college scholarship. Her school will be given a complete set of Encyclopaedia Britannica. The runner-up will be awarded a $500 educational grant.

The Betty Crocker Homemaking of Tomorrow from Michigan, together with those from all other states and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor, will join in an expense paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D. C., next spring.

SPORTS FANS!
BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
by H. M. Bulen

Has any basketball player ever scored all his team's points in one game? ... This amazing feat once happened in a high school game in Alabama ... A player named Walter Garrett scored 97 points in one game a few seasons ago, and the final score in that game was 97-54! Here's a boxing oddity ... Did you know there was one period in boxing history when there was a new heavyweight champ every year for 5 straight years! ... The heavyweight champion of the world in 1931 was Max Schmeling ... In 1932 Schmeling lost the title to Jack Sharkey ... In 1933 Sharkey lost it to Primo Carnera ... In 1934 Carnera lost it to Max Baer ... And in 1935 Baer lost it to Jim Braddock!

Here's one that seems hard to believe but it's true ... Did you know that outside of the Yankees, no team in the American League has been able to win the pennant two straight seasons for more than 30 years! ... Last team other than the Yanks to win two straight pennants was Detroit way back in 1934 and 1935.

Lakers Too Strong For Little Hawks

Cass City's eighth and ninth grade teams played the potent Lakers Thursday and were decisively beaten.

The eighth grade team bowed, 51-19, as the winners exhibited good height and shooting. The outcome of the game was practically assured at the end of the first period when the Lakers swept into a 15-3 lead.

Scott Guernsey led Cass City with six points. John Zawilinski and Ralph Retherford each scored four points. Torres had 16 and Yackle 10 for the Lakers.

The ninth grade lost a 59-39 decision. Coach John Bifoss said that the freshmen were out-rebounded and out-hustled. At the end of the first half, the score was 30-10.

Dale Ashmore collected 12 points and Tony Davis chipped in seven for the locals. Galen Ebert netted 14 and Howard Keim 10 for the Lakers.

Heavy Penalty for Ruining Mailboxes

Mailboxes are protected by Federal law, and pranksters or vandals who damage or destroy the boxes and their contents may be in for a heavy fine or imprisonment, Postmaster Grant Glaspie warned today.

The postmaster noted that some 25,000 mail receptacles were damaged or destroyed in the past year. It was also noted that 2,641 persons were arrested in the year up to June 30 for damaging or destroying mail receptacles.

Glaspie quoted from the law: "Whoever willfully or maliciously injures, tears down or destroys any letterbox or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail on any mail route, or breaks open the same or willfully or maliciously injures, defaces or destroys any mail deposited therein, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than three years."

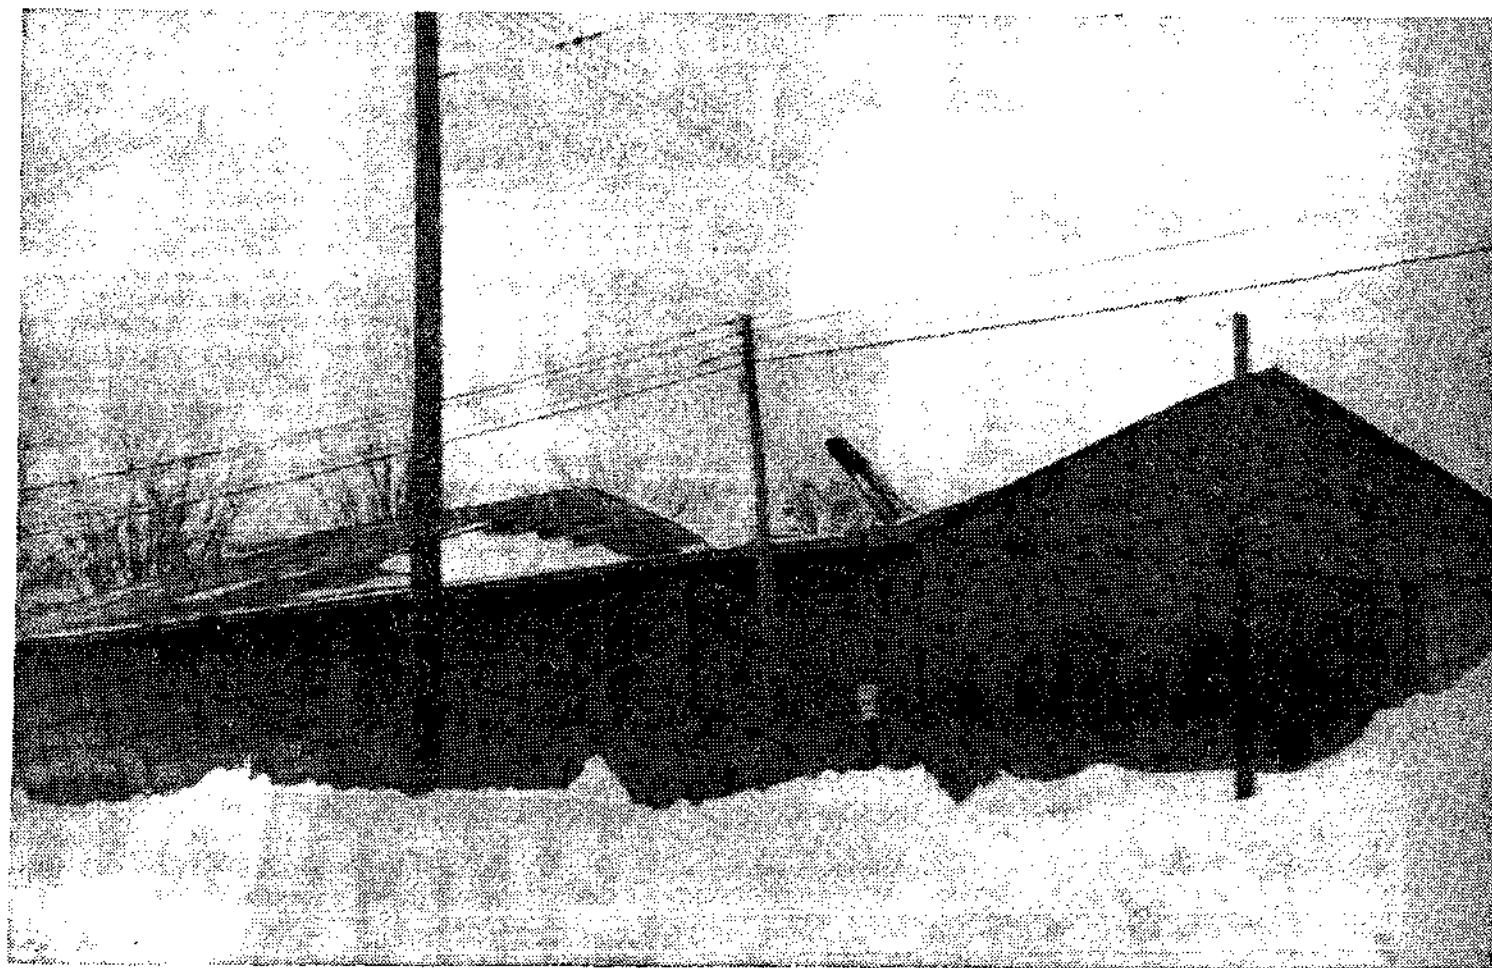

This applies to all mail receptacles and the mail in them, even though the boxes are bought by citizens and are their personal property, he emphasized.

"Pranksters - and especially children who do not know any better - should be made to realize the seriousness of their actions," the postmaster said. "A $1,000 fine or a term in jail is enough to take the humor out of any prank."

In Overtime with Lakers

Hawks Drop Heartbreaker

Cass City lost a heartbreaking overtime decision to the Lakers Tuesday night, 64-60, after coming from far behind in the first half to almost snatch a victory from what seemed to be sure defeat.

The Hawks were off to a dismal start in the opening two quarters as the Lakers used a fast break effectively to jump into a 23-11 margin at the end of the first quarter.

The pattern of the game continued in the second quarter as the host team posted a 16-11 margin to go in from 17 points at the intermission.

But Cass City came to life in the third quarter. Paced by John Maharg, who scored 10 of his 12 points in the period before leaving the game on fouls, the Hawks bombed the nets for 19 points while the Lakers scored just five points. Cass City whittled 14 of the 17-point margin away by the start of the final period.

The Hawks kept flying in the final quarter to tie the game at the end of regulation time. But the Lakers posted an eight to four margin in the overtime to post their second win of the year over Cass City.

Coach John Oswald said that Jim Walters played the finest game of his career. He scored 19 points and picked up eight rebounds. Others for Cass City in double figures were Maharg with 12 points, Dave Asher with 10 points, and Rick Kaufman, who came off the bench to score 10 points.

Cass City out-shot the Lakers from the field connecting on 28 of 61 shots for 35 per cent as compared to 23 field goals and a 34 per cent average for the winners.

It was at the free throw line that the game was decided. Cass City had just 10 chances from the charity circle and made only four of them. The Lakers hit 17 of 27 gift heaves for 61 per cent and the eventual victory.

The rebounding of the two teams was nearly even. The Lakers gathered in 35 and the Hawks 36.

The Laker JV squad had little trouble with the Cass City Junior Varsity and posted an 82-43 decision.

This Friday Cass City will attempt to upset Caro, the league leaders, at Cass City High School. The first game between the two schools was very close and an upset could be possible, although the visitors will be heavily favored to win.

Hostetter's Hodgepodge

My Memory Just Isn't That Good

By Marlon Hostetter

Every once in a while somebody says something like this to me: "I'd be afraid to tell you anything, for fear it would show up in the Chronicle next week." I really try not to write anything that would embarrass anyone, and if in doubt I may show the manuscript to the person involved before I turn my copy in at the office.

There may be a considerable delay after I hear an interesting item before it appears in print. After I wrote a paragraph about a toy trailer that Mac McLellan made for a little friend in Florida, Elta McLellan remarked about what an excellent memory I had. Here is what really happened. After Mac told me about the trailer I went right home and wrote it down. But then it didn't seem to fit into the column for a few weeks, and by the time I got around to using it in the paper, I suppose Mac had almost forgotten that he told me about it. So my memory seemed more remarkable than it really was.

Several of us were wishing one day that more doctors would go into general practice, although we could see that with the rapid advances in all branches of medicine, specialization is becoming increasingly attractive to young physicians.

Mary McIntyre said that during the many weeks she was in Ford Hospital convalescing from her auto accident, she discovered that whenever she mentioned a new ache or symptom, in would follow a ganglion of neurologists to diagnose and prescribe for it, quite oblivious of her two shattered legs. "I soon learned not to say anything about minor discomforts," she reported, "for the specialists paid more attention to my troubles than I was paying to them myself."

"One time I asked a bone specialist (no relative) why he chose orthopedics as his specialty. He said it was because when he was a general practitioner he got so tired of all the people who kept coming to him who actually had nothing wrong with them. A patient either has a broken bone or he hasn't, and there can't be any doubt about whether he came to the doctor because he is sick, or because he is lonely, or merely because he likes to take pills."

Here are a couple of western animal stories and a local insect tale.

"There are more cattle than people in Nevada. And the cows are smarter . . . they don't play the slot machines."

The telephone company has a lot of trouble with the bears in Yellowstone Park tearing down telephone poles.

It seems that the telephone wires make a buzzing sound, and to the bears it sounds like the hum of bees. And when a bear thinks of bees, he thinks of honey. So the bears rip the poles apart, looking for the honey.

Archie Storton's parents were among the pioneer settlers north of Cass City, and like other pioneers they subsisted on hard work and plain fare. (In those days there was no such thing as plane fare.) So whenever they happened to find a bee tree, they were happy to risk a few stings in order to carry home a tubful of wild honey.

Not satisfied with finding bee trees by chance, Archie's father devised a method of prospecting for honey scientifically. He would catch a bee and put it into a glass jar. Since the bee's native instinct would cause it to head toward home, Mr. Storton would begin to walk in the direction in which the bee was headed . . . and if he kept walking long enough, Archie assured me, he would arrive at the bee tree.

Another method was to heat two large flat stones, place them some distance apart, and pour a little honey on each. Bees would be attracted by the odor, and after they had filled their reservoirs the hunter would notice the direction in which the majority of them departed. By marking the line of flight from each of the two stones, the honey hunter could estimate (by triangulation) the general direction and distance of the nearest bee tree.

A great many Cass City people don't seem to know that there is a street in town named M Street. It's one block long, between the southern extremities of Maple and Sherman streets. The thing that bugs me is how did it get its name? Is it somebody's initial, or what? As far as I can determine, it's the only "lettered" street in town.

Keep your tape measure neat by winding it on an empty adhesive tape spool and using the cover as a cap.

William Stapleton suffered a heart attack while shoveling snow at his home Saturday. He was taken to Hills and Dales Hospital.

Langlois Funeral— Mrs. Renee (Cecile) Langlois, 72, died Friday in Hurley Hospital, Flint, and was brought to the Hunter Funeral Home, Gagetown, Wednesday.

Funeral services were held in St. Agatha's church Thursday morning at 11 a. m. with Rev. Frank McLaughlin officiating. Mrs. Langlois was a sister-in-law of Alfred Langlois, Mrs. Ed Proulx, Mrs. Aura Beaudon and Mrs. Viola Murchison.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Rocheleau have a new granddaughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. George LaRocha of Bay City Jan. 24 at Bay City General Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds, two ounces and they named her Marti Jo. The Brownie Girl Scout Troop 641 met Tuesday, Jan. 24, in the public school. The girls spent most of the time making no-bake bar cake.

One-half cup of ammonia added to a tub of hot soapy water will help remove hard-to-wash stains from table linens.

The next time you have grapefruit, wash off the seeds and plant them in shallow bowls for some household greenery.

Catherine Freeman Rites Held Monday

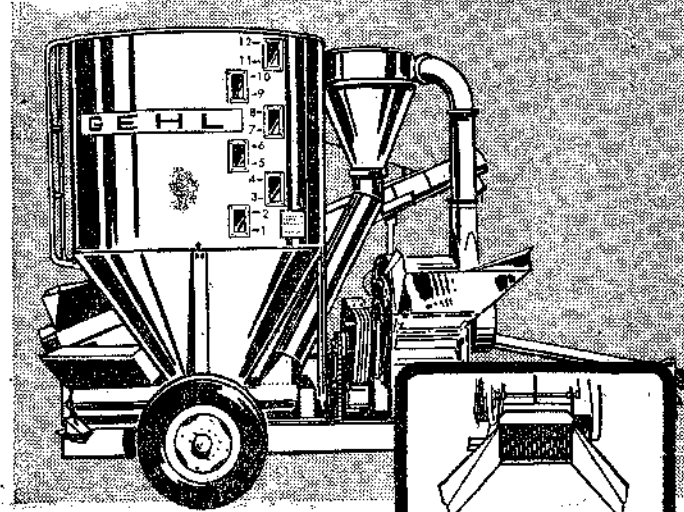

Miss Catherine E. Freeman, 52, of Gagetown died Thursday, Jan. 26, at her home following an illness of several months. Funeral services were held Monday at St. Agatha Church, Gagetown, with the Rev. Fr. Frank McLaughlin officiating at the final service.

Miss Freeman was born Oct. 22, 1914, in Gagetown and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Freeman of Gagetown.

Besides her parents, she is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Harry Comment of Gagetown, Mrs. Bert Bain of Drayton Plains, Mrs. Murray Pennock of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Elmer Krauss of St. Petersburg, Fla. Two brothers, Lawrence of Cass City and Francis of Gagetown, and five nephews and two nieces are among the survivors.

Burial was in St. Agatha cemetery and the Hunter Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

GEHL MIX-ALL

Grinds! Mixes! Delivers!

The Gehl Mix-All, with economy plain feeder and exclusive crusher-feeder attachment, grinds, mixes and delivers the most uniform on-the-farm feed.

Here's proof: Samples of feed grains, ground by Gehl and competitive mills, were compared in a "sieve-shaker" analysis (a grinding uniformity test used also by commercial feed manufacturers). In test after test, Gehl samples were the most uniformly ground. And, the more uniform the grind, the better the mix!

In the Mix-All hammermill, 66 thin, alloy-steel hammers cut . . . not pound ingredients on a big grinding surface for faster feed flow with reduced "fines." Come on in for a close-up look at all the Mix-All features, including the swinging auger-feeder.

Highway Department Seeking Boosts in Gas, Road Taxes

Growing Pains
While Michigan legislators are being asked to consider tax reform, including the reduction of some present state levies, Highway Department officials are seeking a hike in two revenue sources which affect their operations.

One is the state gasoline tax, which now stands at 6 cents per gallon. The other is the vehicle registration fee, more commonly regarded as the price of license plates. The latter fee is now imposed on the basis of 35 cents per hundred pounds weight of the vehicle.

A one-cent increase in the gas tax is being sought. Officials say they need only a "moderate" increase in the license plate fee but that both sources of additional revenue are urgently needed.

"Until about a year ago, we had the funds necessary to keep pace with our minimum highway needs," Highway Director Howard E. Hill notes. "We are no longer in this favorable situation."

Michigan's rate of growth and the corresponding increase in the number of vehicles traveling the roadways are "radically outstripping" the ability of state, county and city highway units to provide and maintain adequate highways, contends Hill.

Without the proposed increases in both taxes, of which the bulk of the income goes back into highway construction and maintenance, Hill says many road building projects already planned will have to be delayed. As part of its push for increased revenue to maintain Michigan's leadership in the field of highway construction and modernization, the department has taken to the use of slogans.

Most news releases emanating from the department now end with a good saying such as, "It costs more to use bad roads than to build good roads," or "Better living through better roads."

"No" Voters
Many thousands of Michigan residents stand in danger of losing their voting rights this year if they do not take a minute of their time. Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose office administers the election law, estimates 10 per cent or better of Michigan's registered voters have not exercised the franchise in the past two years. State law now requires local clerks to go through the voting rolls and remove the names of those who have not voted in the two previous years.

Another provision of the law requires the clerk to notify those being purged from the voting roll and supply a return card with which the resident can indicate his desire to remain registered.

Thus, any resident who wants to remain on the roll books can do so just by returning the card to the local election office. Failure to do this results in removal of the registration and the resident must sign up anew, in person, to get back on the list in the future.

BOOK REVIEW

The Authors of These Books are Unusual

By Rev. R. J. Searls

Before getting into the books I plan to review this week, let me comment on a book I've already reviewed in this column, "The Edge of the Ghetto" by John Fish, a former pastor of the Cass City Presbyterian church, and others. In the January 11, 1967, issue of the "Christian Century" (read by more protestant ministers than any of the other professional journals published anywhere) reviewed "The Edge of the Ghetto," giving it an unprecedented four column review, in the course of which six other books were reviewed by comparing them unfavorably with "The Edge of the Ghetto."

With this kind of notice, the book ought to sell many copies, and help make the edge of Chicago's ghetto just a little better place in which to live and work, with its constant change in population. If you didn't read it yet, Mr. Hostetter donated his copy to the library, just so you could get a copy easily.

Now, I'm going to review two books, one of which is written by the controversial Episcopalian Priest, Malcolm Boyd, and the second volume is edited by Fr. Boyd. You probably saw him on television, where he was seated in a night club on a stool, fielding questions from the audience. This is just one mode of communication he uses to reach the unchurched. He was, at the time he wrote "The Hunger, The Thirst" in charge of the Episcopal Student Center at Detroit's Wayne University. He attracts good crowds of students at his frequent appearances before college audiences. As an illustration of this let me point out that he appeared before college audiences this year at the two colleges at which my two college youth attend, one of which is Methodist in origin, the other a state university. They report excellent crowds of students, and continuing discussion after he left.

Malcolm Boyd entered adulthood a non-believer. When he began to suspect that he was wrong, he undertook an unrelenting study of the Bible, and talked to respected scholars, reading the books that they recommended. In this period of "agonizing re-appraisal," he had a wife and child to support. He emerged from this experience with the conviction that he should become a priest. He went back to school and on into the priesthood of the Episcopalian church in which he has been most controversial.

In "The Hunger, The Thirst" we see ourselves in one of the nightclubs where the people are asking him questions. His answers are most enlightening because they are the same questions that are heard by the teachers in adult classes of our Church Schools. But frequently, the answers are radically different!

"Does Christianity have anything positive to say about sex?" is one student question, as is "How can a person be so alive and feel so dead and disconnected at the same time?" As a "freedom walker" Boyd has quite a bit to say about what Christ has to say to the racial revolution now taking place in America.

In "On the Battle Lines" we read what many Christian thinkers feel are the social issues of today, and what the church must be doing about them. If it is to have any part to play in the current revolution now in process in people's minds.

Boyd is an author of six books, the editor of one, and the writer of half-a-dozen plays.

The Hunger, The Thirst, by Malcolm Boyd, Morehouse-Barlow Co., New York, 1964 (Paperback) 128 pp. Available at the Cass City and Elkland Township Library.

On The Battle Lines, Malcolm Boyd, ed. Morehouse-Barlow Co., N. Y., 1964, 259 pp.

Quite a lot of wreckage results from bursts of confidence.

Letter to Editor

Cass City, Michigan
Jan. 30, 1967

Mr. John Haire
Cass City, Mich.

Dear Sir:

In regard to your statement "ice skating on an artificial rink in Cass City is a losing proposition" which appeared a couple of weeks ago in the Cass City Chronicle - We would like to comment that we have considerable footage of movie film taken over past years to prove this was not "a losing proposition". Some of the films we remember were taken in sub-zero weather and in snow but the youngsters are enjoying the rink. All it takes is proper weather condition, the help of a few adults, and the ever helpful firemen. Let us not say anything is a "losing proposition" for our young folks. We no longer have a "skater," "little league" player and "ardent sportsman" at home to participate in all local activities but we are ever grateful for what was done in the past and are certainly interested in what is done for those youngsters coming up now.

Yours truly,

Harold & Evelyn Wells

Modernizing?

New Heating System?

Decisions. Decisions. Decisions.

(May we help you with an important one?)

Your choice of a heating system is one you'll live with for a long time. So, naturally, you'll want to make sure you get a system that won't cost too much to own. That's where our new electric heat guarantee comes in.

Here's how it works: We'll see that you get a written estimate of heating costs—before you buy. Then, your monthly bills may be less, but they won't be one cent higher than the estimate. We guarantee it.

If the installation needs adjustments to meet the guaranteed cost figure, we'll see that it's done. And if at the end of three complete, consecutive heating seasons the system is still not operating within our estimate, we'll remove it and refund your money.

Before you make any more important modernizing decisions, get the facts on modern electric heat. You can't lose!

One for the Road

It Took Four Hours For This Meal...

By Dan Marlowe

Partly as a result of a column on the subject of food which appeared in this space, I found myself launched recently upon a once-in-a-lifetime gastronomic experience which now permits me to classify myself as both a gourmet and a gourmand.

This happy circumstance came about when Chuck Muer, the enterprising young restaurant manager of the new Pontchartrain Hotel in Detroit, invited me to join a group at the hotel's La Mediterranee Restaurant for a noble experiment in the art of elaborate dining out, the Diamond Jim Brady Holiday Feast.

Deford News

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Griffin and son Morley were dinner guests Sunday at the Grant Pringle home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bilicki and family of Wilmet called on Mr. and Mrs. John Kapala Sunday.

Mrs. Ronald Phillips and boys were dinner guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Tye of Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Field were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Field and family of Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Churchill were dinner guests Sunday at the William Kitchen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rock and daughter Gail of Marlette called Sunday on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rock Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kelley and family of Cass City and John Taylor of Kingston were Sunday evening dinner guests at the Louis Babich home.

Mrs. Robert Bush of Caro and Mrs. Stanley Lagos were Thursday visitors in Saginaw.

Miss Debbie Harbec of Cass City was a week-end visitor at the Douglas Hunter home.

Miss Christine Field, a patient at Saginaw General Hospital for the past three weeks, is slowly improving following major surgery.

Mrs. Joseph Babich of Manton was a Wednesday overnight and Thursday guest at the Louis Babich home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Edwards called Tuesday evening on Sherman Copeland of Bad Axe at Hubbard Memorial Hospital, where he has been a patient for the past three weeks.

The Feast was an actual reproduction of a dinner served in 1893 at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, recreated by the magazine, ESQUIRE, and made available at the Pontchartrain by special arrangement with the magazine. "Although grandiose by today's standards, the dinner was not ordered for a special occasion," the menu stated. "Rather, it was a typical meal of the period, featuring a mere eight-course dinner."

"Mere" is the menu's adjective, not mine.

We sat down to dinner at 7:00 p. m. and staggered from the table at 11:15, and not once did the food and wine lag in their delightful pursuit of each other. The "mere" eight-course menu:

Blue Point Oysters, on Half Shell

Clear Turtle Soup, Sherry Wine

Fresh Striped Bass Aigillettes

Saute Sweetbreads, Madeira

Pile Pique, Sauce Bearnaise

Lime Sorbet, Kirsch

Roast Quail, Flambe Grand Mar-

niere

Belgian Endive, Vinaigrette

Select Imported Cheeses

Fresh Fruit and Coffee

When to this is added a parade of the names of France's most famous vineyards, including Puligny Montrachet, Chateau Haut-Briion, Chateau Margaux, Chambertin, and Champagne Rose, Charles Heidsieck, the effect can only be imagined. The sum total of the meal certainly testified eloquently to the dining habits of the '90s, for despite the appearance of fish, beef, and fowl on the same table, this was an "ordinary" meal.

Both dinner and service were impeccable in all aspects, and while I will hardly be tempted to become an acolyte in the Confrerie de la Chaine des Rotisseurs, the gourmet society of which Michigan maintains an active chapter, and whom the Pontchartrain served their annual dinner recently, I'm certainly indebted for a unique dining experience the like of which I don't expect to encounter again in the foreseeable future. Vive Diamond Jim Brady!

Slate Free Medical Self-Help Lessons

Residents of Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties will have an opportunity to attend a series of six free lessons covering medical aid procedures. The movie film lessons and demonstrations will be taught by the Civil Defense Directors of the respective counties. They are Bill Gill in Huron, Frank Kroswek in Tuscola and Duane Haggerty in Sanilac. The times and places of the initial meetings are:

Huron... Feb. 14 - 7:30 p. m., Bad Axe High School.

Tuscola... Feb. 13 - 7:30 p. m., New Jail basement.

Sanilac... Feb. 7 - 7:30 p. m., Courthouse, Sandusky.

Medical self-help is a practical, community-family centered program designed to teach the basic emergency medical skills which could save lives.

The Medical Self-Help Program was developed by the US Public Health Service in cooperation with the American Medical Association, the American Red Cross and the Department of Defense.

It provides information and training on lifesaving techniques which will enable people to care for others in times of emergency when professional medical assistance may not be available.

The program has many practical aspects on how to care for the sick and injured, as well as first aid type of training which deals with fractures, artificial respiration, excessive bleeding and other medical self-help ideas.

Free materials are supplied by Civil Defense. Meetings are being promoted by the Thumb Area Women's Extension Council, according to Mrs. Ann Ross, Extension Home Economist. Mrs. Doris Western of Huron's ASC office is also supporting Huron's classes.

Those interested may phone or mail a reservation to the Extension offices either in the Courthouses at Caro or Bad Axe or the Federal Building, Sandusky.
