

From the Editor's Corner

How do errors occur in newspapers? With some 20,000 words printed each week in news, not counting advertising, and a deadline inexorably bearing down, many errors are those that develop in the inevitable last minute rush.

Many, but by no means all. Sometimes the paper is misinformed, for a variety of reasons.

At the very bottom of the list is the malicious idiot who thinks it's smart to see if a false report can find its way into print. . . . this type of erroneous report is very seldom received and makes it print less often than that. Much more typical is the chain of unfortunate circumstances that combine into a false story.

The Chronicle printed one last week. A story listed Everett Higgins of Mead, Wash., as dead and he is very much alive.

How could such an error be a simple innocent mistake? Like this: Harold Perry received a newspaper clipping from a friend in Washington saying that a friend of his, Everett Higgins, was dead. Because Higgins is known by many people in the community he felt that he would pass the news along via the Chronicle.

Perry added a few facts about Higgins, telling when he left Cass City, etc. These were true.

The only trouble was, I learned this week from Mrs. Howard Loomis, a cousin, that the Higgins that died and the former resident are two different persons with the same name.

"It shook me up and I called west to check the story," Mrs. Loomis said.

Names always make mistakes easy. I goofed one up last week on the story about the Nicol centennial farm in Ubyly.

The story read that the home was owned by Stewart Nicol when the right name was William S. Nicol. Stewart Nicol is the grandfather of the present owner.

Sometimes a picture can be "right," but deceiving. Last week's shot of the centennial home doesn't do it justice. It is the rear of the house. The front of the home is framed by beautiful shade trees and is much more picturesque. I took pictures of both the front and back, but, paradoxically, the very trees that add character to the home kept me from getting a shot that captured the true beauty of it.

Harry Richards, district bossman for Detroit Edison, said something in a speech Tuesday that I've been thinking about ever since because it hit me close to home.

He said that during the first half of his business career spanning 40 years there was little pressure, little hustle and bustle and everything seemed serene. Today there doesn't seem to be any let-up in the mounting pressure of business and not enough hours in the day to get things done, he continued. Although I've been in the Chronicle for only 16 years, certainly the last eight have seemed more hectic to me than the first eight.

Now Richards poses 'this question: are the pressures really greater or does it seem so as we grow older?

It's a question that only the individual can answer. As for me, I know I work harder, but I'm not sure that I accomplish more than I did when I started in Cass City at 29.

Set Open Meet

Push for Park Land

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce has scheduled an open meeting Tuesday night, Feb. 21, at the Cultural Center in Cass City to: an opening push to secure additional land for the Cass City Recreational Park in Cass City.

Representatives from the various service clubs as well as any other interested person are invited to attend, Chamber President Clinton House said.

Mort Orr, Cass City, owns an estimated 22 acres around the park. Ten of these acres are in woods and 12 in crop land.

The estimated cost of the property is $26,000.

3rd Crash Victim

Dies in Hospital

The Jan. 18 two-car crash in Sanilac county claimed its third victim Saturday, Feb. 11. Howard Bewernitz Jr. died from injuries in Saginaw General Hospital where he was taken following the accident. His wife Charlotte died four hours after the accident in the Saginaw hospital.

The Bewernitz car collided with one driven by Mrs. Herbert Tait four miles north of Marlette. Mrs. Tait was also killed. She died in the Marlette hospital shortly after the crash.

Mrs. Bewernitz is survived by: four sons, Howard of Ypsilanti and Lonnie, Dean and David, all at home; his father, Howard Bewernitz of Dearborn, and two sisters, Mrs. Maxine Pawlik of Garden City and Mrs. Doris Erickson of Dearborn.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Harmon Funeral Home in Kingston. The Rev. Sherman Biers, pastor of Kingston Methodist Church, officiated. Masonic memorial services were held Monday night by the Kingston Lodge. Burial was in the Kingston cemetery.

Development Corp. Sets Annual Meet

The annual meeting of the Cass City Development Corporation has been scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 9 p. m. at the Municipal Building.

Two members of the board of directors will be named. The terms of Joe Riley and Harry Little are expiring.

Gagetown Raises Rates for Water

Because Gagetown will be assessed at the State Equalized Valuation '67 year, as required by law, the Gagetown village council voted Tuesday, Feb. 7, to lower the mill rate from 15 to 11.

The lowering of the mill rate will help adjust the sharp jump in assessed valuation that the new law makes necessary.

Presently, village property is assessed at about a quarter of the actual cash value. When the village moves to the State Equalized Valuation, the valuation will be at 50 per cent of actual cash value. Concluded on page four.

THIS IS NOT A Chronicle photo. But we can see a bright future for a youngster whose parents obviously believe in starting their daughter with the correct reading habits. The girl is Melissa Barbara Boboltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Boboltz of Pontiac. Mrs. Boboltz is the former Darlene Chippi, a graduate of Cass City High School. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chippi of Deckersburg.

Says Utility Head Change, Growth Due in Thumb

Harry Richards, district manager for Detroit Edison, predicted a "private" electric utility for the Thumb area in the very near future Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

Speaking before Cass City Rotary, he said that when the new Harbor Beach plant is in full operation and with Edison's power tied in with that of Consumer's Power, Edison will cut off from the power supply from the south and then the Thumb will have a generating system all of its own.

Richards used this illustration to show the changes that are occurring almost too fast to follow in the electrical business and in business everywhere.

He recalled his 40 years with Edison and said that the first 20 were sort of peaceful when management worked from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and there didn't seem to be too much to become overly concerned about.

But in the last 20 years, he said, things have been getting more and more hectic because of change in techniques and methods.

The changes in the Edison Company are reflected in the changes in progressive companies everywhere, Richards said, and then reviewed a film produced by Edison in 1964 that made predictions for the future.

Already some of the predictions are outdated, he said, and that's the reason Edison changes this film every three years.

Richards also predicted a rosy future for the Thumb. Cass City is a good example, he pointed out. The work of the community to secure industry is a prime example of what can be accomplished with cooperative effort.

Because of a conflict with the meeting of the Seventh District of the State Association of Supervisors in Marlette Monday, Mar. 6, the regular monthly meeting of the Tuscola County Board has been postponed until Thursday, Mar. 9.

A special meeting of the board will be held Monday at which time the board is expected to set the date for a special election to ask taxpayers for an extra 1 1/2 mills county tax for two years.

Harvey to Visit District Next Week

Congressman Jim Harvey, of Michigan's Eighth District, will hold regular "office" hours throughout the district in February.

His schedule calls for him to be in the three-county area Monday, Feb. 20. He will be at the courthouse in Caro from 1 to 1:45 p. m., and at the Courthouse in Bad Axe from 2:30 to 3:15 p. m. and also at the Courthouse in Sandusky from 4 to 4:45 p. m.

Of the 15 women questioned at random, the survey found six in favor, six against and three who took one side or another with qualifications. They are labeled "maybe."

Civic Leader Dies

Clark MacKenzie Retained Interest In Cass City

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Clark W. MacKenzie, 86, of Kalamazoo and a former resident of Cass City.

Mr. MacKenzie was a prominent business, civic and political leader in Kalamazoo. He was also a 33rd degree Mason, most advanced degree of the Order.

His Masonic career spanned 64 years and in the first 37 years he had earned some 40-odd honorary certificates. In 1922 and 1933 he was Grand Master of Michigan Masons. In 1940 he was selected to go to England to be present at the installation of the Duke of Kent as Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England.

He was active in the Republican party and vice-president and sales manager of Inling Brothers-Everard Company, office supplies.

He was honored on three separate occasions during his long career. He was named "Mr. Republican" in Kalamazoo county. On Dec. 8, 1962, he was named "Mr. Good American" at a testimonial dinner.

A strong booster of Kalamazoo College, he was named to the Board of Trustees in 1956 and was a permanent honorary member of the college, despite never having attended school there.

Mr. MacKenzie was born in Sanilac county and moved to Cass City when three years old.

He graduated from Cass City High School in 1894. He crammed a year's business course into a few months at Detroit Business University and started work at the Cass City State Bank in 1896. He left in January 1907 to accept a management post in Kalamazoo.

He retained his interest in Cass City through the years. In the last two years when the Chronicle printed hardship stories about local residents he was always one of the anonymous donors through his sister, Mrs. Alfred J. Knapp.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in Kalamazoo and burial was at Mt. Ever-Rest Memorial Park in Kalamazoo.

A son, Gordon, is general sales manager of the Ford Division of Ford Motor Company. Also surviving are: two daughters, Miss Margaret L. MacKenzie, of Southfield, and Mrs. Maynard Schau, of Kalamazoo, and two sisters, Mrs. Knapp and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Lathrop Village.

Award Beach Bronze Star for Heroism

LIEUT. COMMANDER Stanley Beach receives congratulations from Capt. John Garver, Force Chaplain, Fleet Marine Force in the Pacific, for winning the coveted Bronze Star.

One Slight Injury In 3 Minor Mishaps

Minor accidents were reported during the week. Thursday, Feb. 9, a car driven by Lynn Jean Haire of Cass City stopped at the intersection of Main and West streets. As the Haire car pulled out to make a left turn onto Main Street it collided with a car driven by Patricia Jean Buniak of Caro.

Both cars were damaged on the right side. No injuries were reported. Miss Haire was issued a ticket for failure to yield right of way.

A ticket was issued to Mark Duene Lymburner for failure to yield the right of way in a two-car mishap at the corner of State and Lincoln streets in Gagetown.

According to Gagetown Marshall Harold Ballagh, cars driven by Marjorie A. Karr of Gagetown and Lymburner collided as Lymburner was attempting to turn left.

Louis Justin Langenburg, 37, of Cass City suffered a slight laceration of the head when he lost control of his van on Bay City-Forestville road, about a half mile east of Gagetown.

According to investigating officer Ballagh, Langenburg lost control when a front wheel caught in the hard snow and he left the road and hit a roadside tree.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer reported one accident in Cass City

Marine Lieut. Commander Stanley Beach has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for his "heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving as Battalion Chaplain with the Third Battalion, Fourth Marines, Third Marine Division in the Republic of Vietnam Sept. 27-28, 1966".

According to the citation, Beach was granted the coveted award by continuously exposing himself to withering enemy fire to administer aid and comfort to the wounded.

Lt. General V. H. Krulak, who announced the citation, said that Beach, "exhibiting daring initiative, heroically carried several casualties to the rear for immediate medical attention and further evacuation. His fearless example and decisive actions under fire were an inspiration to all who observed him."

The citation tells how Beach ran over 400 yards to the helicopter landing zone, picked up two wire stretchers and returned to evacuate the casualties. Because of his work, two seriously injured Marines were evacuated from under enemy fire, undoubtedly saving their lives.

Lt. Beach is authorized to wear the combat "V".

In addition to his award from the Marines, Beach was given the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry. The unit was cited for its action in Tuang Tri Province from Aug. 1964 to Oct. 1965.

It was at hill 400, where Beach earned his Bronze Star, that he was injured. He received shrapnel wounds in his left leg, cutting the flesh and fracturing the bone. He was also wounded in the arms.

Since his injuries, he has been battling to recover in Service hospitals. Now at Great Lakes, the road to health has been rocky.

He has endured several skin grafts in an attempt to get the wound to close. Bone surgery is contemplated in the near future. The cast on the leg has been removed for the past few weeks and Beach is practicing on crutches.

Beach was expected to visit his home in Caro this week for the first time since he was injured.

His present plans call for staying in the service, providing he recovers completely enough for further active duty.

Lt. Commander Beach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Beach of Gagetown and his wife is the former Ellen Sickler of Cass City. He is a graduate of Cass City High School.

Both Banks will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 22, legal holiday. 2-16-1

Local Poll Enough to Make Kinsey Blink

Ladies Agree to Disagree about Telling Ages

Does a woman care to have her age revealed? Well . . . yes . . . and no. It's about like what most males have suspected for many, many years . . . you can't tell a thing for sure about a gal.

At least that's what a Chronicle survey of local ladies revealed when we asked them if they thought it was right to print the age of a woman when she made the news via an accident.

Of the 15 women questioned at random, the survey found six in favor, six against and three who took one side or another with qualifications. They are labeled "maybe."

And while most of the distaff side had varying views . . . none were hesitant about airing them and 10 of the 14 were willing to be quoted by name.

There isn't any one age group which is touchy about telling their years. Some comparative youngsters thought revealing the age was rattling family skeletons, while some grandmas thought the whole idea was quite a lark.

Miss Phyllis Wenk says in her work she finds that "when you're young you couldn't care less, but if you're old you might be sensitive about your age. Use my name but don't mention my age."

Mrs. Myrtle Helwig just loves to see how old the other women are . . . says she is at the age where it doesn't matter anymore. Besides, anyone who would care would know her age anyhow. Go ahead and print my age.

Over the Hump
A rather attractive housewife says that she wouldn't care if her age were printed, but rather not have her name in print.

"My age doesn't matter," she explained, "after all, at 34 I'm over the hump."

Mrs. Dorothy Scollon says she feels that it isn't necessary to print ages . . . except if needed, perhaps, in an accident where two people have the same name. To differentiate you could use the age. I wouldn't like my age printed, she concluded.

Linda Marshall says, "It wouldn't bother me. At least it doesn't make a difference now . . . but maybe it would if I were older."

Mrs. Christine Erla says she has heard a lot about having the ages of women printed in the paper in the different groups she attends. But does it really matter? she asks.

Yes it does, says one lady. I am older than my husband and don't like to see ages printed. But countering this view is Mrs. Ed Greenleaf. "I can't see any harm in it," she explained, "You're as old as you are."

Sympathetic

Mrs. Hazel Gallagher says she's not touchy about the subject, but she's sympathetic to those who are.

Echoing her thoughts is Mrs. Marge Bliss who doesn't care, but doesn't think it's necessary.

Another housewife questioned says pointedly that she can't see what good it does and doesn't think we should. "Most folks find it embarrassing," thinks Mrs. June Ayres. You shouldn't print the ages unless it's necessary to determine different members in a family with identical names.

A farm wife says that she's been at many group meetings where it has been discussed and no one can see what good it does.

Countering these views are those of Linda Helwig who says that it doesn't matter if anyone knows her age and Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn who says, "I think you should. Go ahead and use my name."

So, if this had been a political survey the experts would probably have critically reported, on the basis of the sampling, the election could go either for or against. The undecided vote will probably determine the outcome unless unseen factors crop up to disturb the apparently even contest.

In other words, who knows if the majority of women want to reveal their ages?

Certainly not the Chronicle.

Freshmen Cop First Tourney Tilt

Cass City's ninth grade cage team split a pair of games last week when they fell before powerful Caro Tuesday, Feb. 7, 67-38, and then edged Marlette, 68-59, Thursday.

The Hawks were out of the Caro game by the end of the first quarter. The young Tigers bombed the nets for 20 points while the little Hawks never got off the ground, scoring just six points.

Coach John Bifoss said that the club lacked hustle and aggressiveness on defense. Bruce LeValley scored 18 points and Dave Milligan netted 11 for Cass City. Mark Putnam had 15, Steve Nigg, 11, and G. Miles, 12, for the winners.

Marlette Game

The Hawks jumped into an early lead against the Marlette Frosh and clung to the margin throughout the game for the victory. Bifoss credited the aggressive defense with holding their two normally high scorers to a total of eight field goals.

LeValley scored 20 points and Milligan netted 17. Dale Ashmore helped with 12. Ken Harding was best for Marlette with 15 points, closely followed by Jerry Clark with 14 and Jim Ross with 12.

Tourney Game

Cass City's eighth grade team won the opening round of the Junior High tournament at Laker High Monday with a 41-33 decision over Sandusky.

The Hawks jumped into a 23-12 halftime lead and were never seriously threatened throughout the game. Rob Alexander whipped in 20 points and Scott Guernsey added 10 to pace the attack.

The Hawks will now play Marlette in the semifinals Thursday at 7 p. m.

The Wants Ads Are Newsy, Too

IT'S BEEN A LONG SEASON for the ninth graders this year as taller teams have kept the squad from the winner's circle in the Thumb B.

Hawks Split Pair Of Close Games

Cass City turned the tables Tuesday night as the team registered its second win of the year over Marlette, 85-77, this time at Cass City High School.

In the two previous games, the Hawks faded in the final quarter to lose, but when the Red Raiders tied the score midway through the final quarter, the Hawks rallied to win.

Actually, Marlette was never ahead in the game and the tie was the closest they came to victory. Cass City was in front at the half, 41-33.

Dave Asher, 29 points, Jim Walters, 21 points, and John Maharg, with 18 paced Cass City's attack. Dwaine Marsh led all scorers with 34 points for the visitors.

Cass City shot 46 per cent from the floor and 55 per cent from the free throw line while Marlette sank 65 per cent of its charity heaves and 41 per cent of the field goal attempts.

Paced by unerring accuracy from the free throw line, the Frankenthum Eagles avenged an earlier defeat by the Cass City Red Hawks with a 78-69 decision posted on their home floor Friday.

As they have against several teams this season, the Hawks outscored the Eagles from the floor only to lose the game from the charity circle. Friday they converted a miserable 45 per cent of their free throws while Frankenthum converted 78 per cent.

The Hawks were defeated despite the return to form of Dave Asher who had been in a slight slump for the last couple of weeks. The Hawks' leading scorer and rebounder was in top form as he whizzed in 30 points and snagged 22 rebounds.

But the remainder of the team was as cold as Asher was hot. Jim Walters and Al Zawilinski had one of their poorest nights. Help from John Maharg, Rick Kaufman and Dave Bliss was not enough to stem the tide.

Frankenthum used a hot shooting first quarter to jump into an 11-point lead, 25-14. The Hawks chiseled away at the margin in the second quarter and at intermission trailed by seven, 43-36.

In the second half, accuracy from the charity lane paid off for the winners. The Eagles scored just three field goals in the period, but meshed 14 free throws for a 20-point effort and moved into a 10-point lead at the end of three quarters.

It was the same story in the final quarter. Frankenthum made more points on free throws than on field goals. Nine of their 15 points were garnered with charity heaves.

A Poellet converted seven of eight free throws on his way to a 25-point effort and Terry Weiss netted six of 10 while hitting for 22 points.

JV's Lose

The Junior Varsity lost another game in the preliminary game, 69-56. The Hawks showed balanced scoring with four men in double figures but Coach Ron Bass said that the defense needs to improve.

Friday, the Hawks will play at Vassar in a game that must rate as a tossup. The winner will probably be the club that has the hot shooting night.

One for the Road

The Tigers Will Win the Pennant

By Dan Marlowe

The year 1967 will mark my 30th consecutive season of attending big league baseball games, and not via the television tube. I submit that this longevity makes me an expert, and like all experts I intend to do a bit of prognosticating.

It has long been a source of frustration to me that in the 39 years, although I have lived in or near 5 American League cities, none of them has won a pennant while I was in residence. The culprits, successively, have been Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, and Detroit.

It says here that this year is going to be different.

It says here that in 1967 the Detroit Tigers are going to win the American League pennant.

Mayo Smith is a fine organizer, and Johnny Sain is a fine pitching coach. With no disrespect meant to Mayo, the signing of John Sain could be the spark that sets the Tigers off. The man is a winner, and there's no substitute for it. Pitchers believe in him, as witness Jim Kaat's anguished wail when Sain left Minnesota.

How are the Tigers going to win it? The adjective is easily, Denny McLain, Mickey Lolich, Earl Wilson, and Dave Wickersham will each win 18 games (they have all done so before), and Joe Sparta, each for a pennant without the saves contributed by Hank Aguirre, Johnny Podres, and Larry Sherry.

Mayo Smith will find that he has the run-making machine to complement Sain's pitchers. Willie Horton will knock in 100 runs, Norm Cash 80, Al Kaline 80, Dick McAuliffe 80, Don Wert 70, Bill Freehan 60, and the platooned Gates Brown, Jim Northrup, and Mickey Stanley 50 apiece. That's a total of 630 runs, and since historically 675 runs batted in is a pennant-winning pace, it leaves barely 45 runs to be driven in by Ray Oyler and the pinchhitters.

Only want to bake a few muffins. Put a little water in unused cups. The pan will not warp out of shape.

Deford Tops Snover In 2 Cage Tilts

Deford School's seventh and eighth graders had little trouble defeating Snover's cagers Friday as they posted a 56-22 decision.

Clinton Warner led all scorers with 20 points. Kim Hopper added 14 and Gary Lindahl netted 10. Scoring six points each were Marty LeValley and Henry Wilson.

For Snover, Darryl Blank scored 10 points and Terry Smeckerl, six.

In a previous game between the two schools, Deford edged Snover 25-17.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by H. M. Bulen

Here's one that's hard to believe about Sandy Koufax — but it's true . . . In the spring of 1953, Sandy, then a senior, tried out for his high school baseball team at Lafayette High in Brooklyn, and he made the team — NOT as a pitcher but as a substitute first baseman! . . . Even the next year no one would have predicted Koufax would become a great pitcher . . . Koufax went to the University of Cincinnati on a basketball scholarship and was more interested in becoming an architect than a ball player.

Did you ever realize all the new automobile ideas and equipment that have come about because of auto racing . . . Over the years it has been the competition in auto races that has developed such things as high compression engines, hydraulic shock absorbers, torsion bars, safer tires, better spark plugs, and better piston rings . . . So, we can thank auto racing for these and many other advances they have produced that add to the safety and comfort of our present day passenger cars.

Do you know where and when the first game of basketball was played? . . . The place was the International YMCA Training School at Springfield, Mass., where the game was invented by an instructor at that school, Dr. James Naismith . . . The year the first basketball game was played was the winter of 1891-92.

Laud Miss Beryl Koepfgen For Achievements

Miss Beryl M. Koepfgen, 83, who died in Midland and was buried Friday, Feb. 3, in Elkland cemetery, was eulogized for her work as a teacher at Midland by the Midland Daily News in an editorial.

Miss Koepfgen was born in Cass City March 11, 1883, and received her earlier education here, later graduating from Alma College with an AB degree and from the University of Michigan with an MA degree.

Among her survivors are a brother, Lyle of Cass City, and a sister, Mrs. Harper F. Zoller of Grand Rapids.

Parts of the News' editorial read: "There are bricks in the school buildings that might be attributed to her for she has been active through the years in presenting the needs of the schools to the people."

"More important, there are marks in the minds of men and women, many of whom now have families and are as close to the school system as they were when they actually were in the classroom."

"Those marks have no dollar value and cannot be measured in terms of material gain. They represent that intangible something that the school teachers and supervisors must instill in each new generation."

"Miss Beryl M. Koepfgen was a teacher who learned as she taught and taught as she learned."

"In retirement, she continued with such things as lip reading classes for the handicapped. She took specialized courses in order to qualify and to be adept in this field."

"In death, she leaves indelible memories—all a tribute to a life well spent and in gratitude that so much of it was lived in Midland."

Thought for Lent Four Answers

By Rev. James Braid

Editor's note: Again this year the Chronicle will present a series of messages printed by area pastors during the Lenten season. The first is by the Rev. James Braid of the Methodist Church. The pastor there since 1962, he is also the President of the Cass City Ministerial Society.

Pilate's question to the crowd during the trial of Christ was "What shall I do with this man Jesus?" Each one of us must answer this question today. "What shall I do with this man Jesus?" There are at least four answers to what we can do with him. First, we can reject him. Many in Christ's own day did reject him and he was crucified. Many reject him today, and crucify him again as they reject the ideals for which he died.

Second, we can neglect him. Pilate tried to get Jesus off his hands by asking others what he should do. By refusing to decide for himself he neglected Jesus. Often we hear people say, "I would like to do this for Christ but I don't have time," or "I'm too busy." They neglect him. The truth is we find the time to do the things we really want to do. The way we use our time is a judgment upon us of what is most important to us.

A third alternative that we have is to accept him. Arnold Toynbee has pictured the rise and fall of many nations. He has said that the seeds of destruction have already been sown in our civilization. When asked if there was any hope for our own civilization, he indicated that there is hope if man will become adjusted to the eternal. To accept Christ and his way of life is to become adjusted to the eternal. When this is done, life has a direction in humble and joyful service.

One of the surest ways of determining whether or not we have accepted Christ is the way we answer the questions: "Have we made any changes in our lives?" or "Are we growing as Christians?" It was said of the early Christians: "See how they love one another!" When others look at us, what do they say? Too often those of us who call ourselves Christian cannot be identified as very different from those who make no claim to be Christians. The early Christians could be identified by a greater quantity of love. Do we love people as much as they did?

One of the most positive proofs of whether or not we have accepted Christ is the amount of love we have. If our life has not changed in the direction of greater love, there is a question mark about whether or not we have really accepted Christ.

What shall I do with Jesus? We can do more than accept him. We can surrender our lives to him. A man asked three of the world's great Christians to name one word that best described their se-

The Wants Ads Are Newsy, Too

You're Sometimes Paid Without Money

By Marion Hostetler

A while ago somebody sent a friend of mine a wall motto with this message: "Whatever is worth doing is worth doing for money." In other words, if you aren't going to get paid for it, don't do it. On a value of that policy would be that it might help some busy people eliminate a few of the unimportant volunteer jobs that seem to attach themselves to anyone whose resistance is low.

But our community would be immeasurably poorer if everybody took that motto very seriously. Surely most church work is done by folks whose reward is not measured in dollars and cents. Youth organizations of all kinds are sponsored by adults who neither expect nor receive any money for their efforts. Service clubs and other groups dedicated to community betterment are kept going by members whose remuneration, if any, is very indirect.

And of course you aren't going to receive much "pay" for helping your boy build a snow fort or teaching your daughter to skate or helping your wife pick out a hat. I don't think it's "pay" that makes a woman aim for a perfect cake.

There isn't much "pay" connected with ice fishing or playing golf. But life would be pretty dull if all these had to be eliminated.

We do some things just because we enjoy them, and some because we know they need to be done. And it doesn't really matter whether we receive any pay today or not, for, as the Good Book tells us, any person who does a good deed will certainly receive his reward.

Many of you may have read in a Detroit paper some time ago about an organization called New Eyes for the Needy, whose address is Short Hills, New Jersey 07078. Alex Tyo read about it and he did something about it.

This organization accepts gifts of old glasses, broken jewelry, and gold and silver scrap. Whenever possible they match the glasses to the needs of people who have asked for them, and they sell the metal to buy prescription glasses for others. Last year they bought 9,000 pairs of new glasses and 103 artificial eyes. They have been helping needy people all over the world since 1932, and are currently carrying on their work with the help of 300 volunteers and one part-time paid secretary.

If you have some glasses around the house, why not mail them in, as Alex did? Plastic frames in working condition can be used, and metal frames in any condition. Please include your return address so they can acknowledge your gift.

Alex suggests that it would make for more economical shipment if each person would bring the glasses and jewelry to the church

Band Students Win Top Ratings At Bay City

Five Cass City High School Band students participated in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Assn. Solo and Ensemble Festival held at Bay City Central High School Saturday afternoon, Feb. 11.

The five students received three I ratings and two II awards. Ken Hiatt and John Bifoss were awarded I for their drum duet; Pam Dobbs and Lynn Haire received I for piano solos and Brenda Wagner, II for her piano solo. Also receiving a two rating was Ken Hiatt for his drum solo.

Over 100 schools with nearly 2,000 musicians were at the annual six-county District III event. Roger Farris, Cass City Schools vocal music instructor, accompanied Cass City's students.

Those receiving I ratings are now eligible for State competition.

In other band news, Tim Knight and Miss Haire will attend a festival Feb. 17-18 at Ithaca. In try-outs held earlier at Ithaca, Knight placed first chair for trombones. Saturday will be spent in rehearsing for Sunday's concert.

My wife washes an empty squirt-type detergent bottle and fills it with cooking oil. This is an easy way to dispense the oil. But one time a friend who was helping her wash the dishes after a meal at our house carried the oil bottle from the range to the kitchen sink, and couldn't understand why she had so much trouble getting any suds in the dishpan.

Modernizing?

New Heating System?

Decisions. Decisions. Decisions.

(May we help you with an important one?)

Your choice of a heating system is one you'll live with for a long time. So, naturally, you'll want to make sure you get a system that won't cost too much to own. That's where our new electric heat guarantee comes in.

Here's how it works: We'll see that you get a written estimate of heating costs—before you buy. Then, your monthly bills may be less, but they won't be one cent higher than the estimate. We guarantee it.

If the installation needs adjustments to meet the guaranteed cost figure, we'll see that it's done. And if at the end of three complete, consecutive heating seasons the system is still not operating within our estimate, we'll remove it and refund your money.

Before you make any more important modernizing decisions, get the facts on modern electric heat. You can't lose!

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
 You newspaper folks don't have time to read all the pamphlets and magazines that was put out fer farmers these days and it's a big pity on account of they would learn you editors a heap of things.
 Ed Doolittle bring his latest issue of The Farm Journal to the session at the country store Saturday night and it had some figures in it that would surprise you. This magazine made a survey of 5,000 farm owners and operators and 87 per cent of them was in favor of cutting down on Government spending. And the shocker in the survey was that 63 per cent of the 5,000 voted to git the Government complete out of farm support and control programs. In other words they was not only in favor of cutting down on Government spending in general but they was in favor of less Government spending on farmers. And this piece in the Farm Journal said 68 per cent of the 5,000 farmers was agin Agriculture Secretary Freeman's way of running the farm program.

That's what you would call, Mister Editor, gitting a opinion on the farm program straight from the horse's mouth.

Zeke Grubb reported he didn't git The Farm Journal but he was a regular subscriber to the Farmer's Digest and this magazine had took to including a fable, modern style, from Eesop. The last one, he reported, said that onct upon a time they was a ant that worked hard all day in the fields. It was summer and the ant was busy cutting grass and dragging it home. The ant had a grasshopper fer a neighbor and the grasshopper set in his doorway singing all day. When winter come, the ant had a whole bale of grass, but he had violated the Government farm regulations fer over-harvesting grass. So the Government fined him $162.50 and took his surplus grass and give it to the grasshopper in exchange fer his food stamps. Ed Doolittle, that don't like the Great Society and that has been a feller of strong and steady advice since the November 8 elections, butted in to say this grasshopper was a piker along side some he knowed about. He said he recollected reading about this big landowner in one big state that got $50,000 one year fer not farming, built hisself a $50,000 house with five bghrooms and put the house in his married daughter's name and claimed it as a tenant house deduction on his income tax report.

Personal, I think the Congress is shifting away from the farms to the cities. Folks has left the farms to where they was more votes in the cities. Fer instant, I see where they was setting up a "Demonstration Cities" program to show towns how the Government does it. Hold on to your tax purse, Mister Editor.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Tim

BOOK REVIEW "Tinkerbelle"—A Modern-day Adventure

By Rev. R. J. Searls

The book I wish to review for you today was loaned to me by the Fred (Fritz) Neitzel family. It is an easy-to-read account of an adventure of one man, who fulfilled a life-long ambition to sail across the Atlantic Ocean, alone, in a small boat.

"Tinkerbelle" is the account and Robert Manry is the author. The Robert Manrys had saved for a long time to purchase a small sailboat which they could use for family adventure and family outings in the Great Lakes. Manry worked as a rim man on the copy desk of the Plain Dealer of Cleveland, Ohio.

This position gave him access to the want-ad columns before they became accessible to the general reader. He discovered one night, an ad in the paper for a sailboat, 13 1/2 ft. needing some repairs. He discovered that "needing some repairs" was the understatement of the century. The man who was selling it was a grandparent who had raised two generations of children to love sailing and become familiar with the water. Manry bought the boat, and for months devoted every spare moment (including some which were really not spare at all) in rebuilding the boat so as to make her seaworthy for family use on the Great Lakes.

New ribs were installed, and a new mast step was put in. The Manrys decided that what they really wanted was to transform their sailboat into a small yacht, which meant installing sleeping accommodations for four. The mid-section of the hull became the "cabin". Eventually they arrived at the great day when the much-changed boat was to be tested. They utilized the public launching ramps at Cleveland's Gordon Park; the day, Mother's Day, Sunday May 10. As soon as the boat was launched a heavy rain poured out of the heavens. While the rest of the family retreated to the dryness of the family car, Manry, rather timorously sailed the boat up and down, well within the breakwater. After fifteen minutes, the "skipper" declared it "quits" and the shake-down cruise a success.

As time went by, every available day saw the Manrys out sailing and accumulating both experience and adventure. In autumn "The Tinkerbelle" replaced the family automobile in the garage, for changes discovered over the summer months. Then a friend who owned a 25' cruising sloop proposed that the two men sail her across the Atlantic to England.

Manry agreed, with enthusiasm; the friend backed down, however, but not before Manry had secured time-off for the journey. Out of the depths of his disappointment came the thought: Why not make the voyage in Tinkerbelle? He read up on similar efforts, and convinced that both his boat and himself could successfully make the trip, began, secretly, making plans.

Much of his success was due to precautions he took. Taking advantage of every new advance (such as double-covering the food, using plastic bags) and buying spare parts for all the boat's essential parts, he broke the news to his wife, who entered wholeheartedly in his plans. Imagine his feelings to discover that Lloyd's of London would not insure him!

So much for the preparations. The main part of the book is made up of what happened on the journey, itself. His encounters with ships, for example, were memorable. His one fear was that a large ship, not seeing the Tinkerbelle, should cut her in two. Three times he records hallucinations, seeing non-existent companions, for example.

Then came the great day when he was contacted by both airplanes and surface craft, and, with two day's sailing left, is assured that he has made the trip. He becomes for a day an international hero.

This is an easy book to read, and contains much information of value to modern-day would-be adventurers.

"Tinkerbelle" by Robert Manry, Harper & Row, N. Y. 1966 available from the Elkland Township and Cass City Library.

Proposed Cigarette Tax Could Bring Boost in Black Market

Smoking Problem

Bordering states and our own criminal elements might find themselves curiously allied behind the efforts of one Michigan lawmaker.

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, is proposing a multiple attack on cigarette sales in Michigan which could considerably boost the income of the two groups.

Basic weapon of Faxon's plan is to more than triple the present seven cent state tax on a package of cigarettes. He proposes the levy be set at 24 cents, thus boosting the price per pack to about 50 cents.

A few years back when the cigarette tax was raised to its present level many legislators, particularly those from southern border districts, warned of the potential increase of motorists driving across the border to buy cigarettes in the states where the tax was lower.

Wholesale black-marketing of lower priced cigarettes was also mentioned at that time, but the few-cents-per-pack difference was not really expected to cause a big market for bootlegged quantities.

Because of the potential for lost income to Michigan's treasury, extra law enforcement procedures were put into effect along the borders when the new rate went into effect. A few violators were caught.

Traffic Deaths

In case anyone had any doubts, it is now official that Michigan motorists died in greater numbers during 1966 than in any other single year.

With perhaps a few delayed deaths still to be reported for last year, State Police listed at least 2,270 traffic fatalities. The highest previous year on record was 1937 but the 1966 toll was about 4.5 per cent over that mark.

The 1966 toll represented a 6.9 per cent boost over the highway death mark of the previous year. Personal injury accidents of a non-fatal nature also increased sharply, to nearly 159,000, State Police said.

When certain people find steady work you know business is booming.

The vehicle you drive that costs the most per mile is the one you push down the supermarket aisle.

Save all your empty thread spools and use them to wind all the leftover pieces of bias binding, braid, elastic, and lace.

C. W. Osentoski in Proficiency Jump For Parachuting

Army Sp-4 Charles W. Osentoski, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Osentoski of Nugent Road, Uby, participated in a proficiency parachute jump near Kontum, Vietnam, Jan. 17-19.

Along with other paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade, Spc. Osentoski prepared for this jump with a two-day refresher course. The jumps were made from an Air Force plane on a rice paddy drop zone.

The 1st Brigade is noted as the most traveled unit in Vietnam and has not returned to its base camp at Phan Rang in over a year. It played a large part in Operation Hawthorne last June, one of the most successful and hardest fought battles in the war.

A mortarman in Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion of the brigade's 502nd Infantry, Spc. Osentoski entered on active duty in May 1965 and was stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky., before his arrival in Vietnam last December.

Agent's Corner

Mrs. Ann Ross

Cooking beans in Grandmother's day used to mean an all-night soaking and an all-morning boiling. Today's homemaker knows there's a short-cut for nearly everything in the kitchen - including old-fashioned navy beans.

Bringing dry beans to a boil - boiling them about two minutes, then allowing them to stand uncovered for an hour before cooking will serve the same purpose as Grandma's overnight stint, according to Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb area Extension home economist.

But don't pour off the soaking water, she says. Use this to finish cooking the beans as it contains flavor and nutrients that soak out in the water. It takes about 2 1/2 to 3 cups of water per cup of dry beans for cooking. Boil gently 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until tender, stirring only a few times during the cooking to keep from breaking up the beans.

If overnight soaking suits your plans better, there's still an advantage to the two-minute boil. It sterilizes the beans and keeps them from souring when soaking uncovered for a long period of time in a warm room.

Nutritionally speaking, dried beans are one of the best protein buys we have. A dollar spent for dried beans gives you more protein, more iron and more thiamine and niacin (B vitamins) than you get from any other dollar's worth of food.

To squander time is just as wasteful as to squander money.
