

Skiing on Slippery Footing at School

Interscholastic skiing at Cass City High School found scant favor among administrators when it was discussed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Board of Education.

Skiing as a high school sport was brought before the board because of a letter by Charles Forsythe, director of interscholastic athletics, requesting that the board clear its position in regard to the sport as a school activity.

This year the school certified the eligibility of students to participate in interscholastic meets, but did not sponsor a program. Stuart Atwell has been teaching interested students free of charge and is the coach of teams in Vassar and Caro.

Robert Stickle, assistant principal, said that he was against sponsoring skiing because it was not possible to offer skiing to all students under school sponsorship.

There have been requests for golf and I feel that before skiing is offered, golf should be available, Stickle continued.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that participant sports such as golf and skiing would be valuable additions to the curriculum, but since neither sport was available locally, trying to offer them now would cause many problems and expense.

I feel also, he continued, that any course sponsored by the school should be run by a faculty member as a matter of policy. This should not be construed as a reflection on the job or abilities of Mr. Atwell, the superintendent pointed out.

It was brought out that there are three students skiing in Cass City now and that Caro and Vassar have flourishing programs.

However, there is no Thumb B Conference competition, as there is in golf.

To check all of the facts, the board decided to invite Atwell to the next regular meeting before making a final decision.

Hike School Salaries

Salaries of administrative personnel at Cass City Schools were established Monday night by the Board of Education for the 1967-68 school year.

The board granted pay boosts in all categories, bringing pay levels up to averages paid throughout the State for comparative work, a salary review indicated.

Supt. Donald Crouse was raised a total of $3,000 yearly. He will receive $14,500 in base salary plus $1,000 car expense and $1,000 for work as building inspector at the school. Previously he received $13,500.

Principal Arthur Holmberg was increased $1,100 from $11,400 to $12,500. Robert Stickle, currently assistant principal and destined to become middle school principal when the new high school is completed, was jumped $2,000 from $9,000 to $11,000.

Also sharing in the general wage increase were the grade principal, whose position went from a salary of $8,500 to $9,000, and the principals at Deford and Greenleaf. Both positions went to $8,000 yearly. Greenleaf's administrative post jumped from $6,700 and Deford's principal is paid $7,475 this year.

Gagetown Youths Recovering from Bullet Wounds

Two Gagetown youths are recovering from slight wounds received in an accidental shooting Saturday on a farm on Green Road, southwest of Gagetown.

The boys are David, 16, and his brother, Robert, 12, children of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lesoski.

Officials who investigated said that the double wounds were caused by the discharge of a single .22 caliber revolver bullet from a defective gun. The bullet went through the left hand of David and grazed Robert in the chest, causing a wound, six inches long.

The boys were released after treatment at a Bad Axe hospital.

School Receives Favorable Report from U of M

Garold E. Dyke, general consultant for the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, returned a generally favorable report on the condition of Cass City Schools in a letter written to Principal Arthur Holmberg.

Contents of the letter were revealed to the Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday night at the school. The school retained its accreditation and Dyke complimented authorities on the pleasant atmosphere and general tone of the school.

He said that the teachers seemed optimistic, alert and of generally high morale . . . all of which, he said, is a compliment to the administration, the community and the faculty itself.

From the Editor's Corner

I've been asked many times in the last couple of weeks how my "new machine" is coming along at the Chronicle. It's enough to say that we are going through a new way of life in production methods at the paper and last week in confusion (my wife calls it bad planning) the Rev. Robert Searls' column and an advertisement for Ryan's Men's Wear were overlooked and did not get into print.

Keeping this in mind, you'll know just about what the status is at the paper when I report that this week seems every bit as confused . . . maybe more so.

For the third successive year Cass City's hospitals, pharmacists and nursing home are sponsoring an advertisement telling of the dangers of poison . . . especially to children.

Perhaps poison prevention week would be a good time for each of us to sit down and decide just how we will proceed if an emergency arises. It could be the best five minutes you'll ever spend.

He wasn't in Cass City long enough for too many to learn to know him, but we'll miss Bob Beach who died from cancer last week.

Bob came to work at the Chronicle for just two weeks before Christmas and was quickly becoming acquainted with local businessmen when he became ill.

He liked Cass City and those who met him in his brief stint in the village, liked him.

He also said that the new high school building should help make the school even more suitable for a superior educational opportunity.

However, Cass City did not escape entirely without criticism. Dyke listed five violations . . . most of them minor. Two classes exceeded the recommended 35-pupil limit and two teachers were assuming a too heavy work load, according to U of M standards. Two teachers on the staff were not fully qualified. The librarian with three study halls in a seven-period day is considered too many and inspection of the boys locker room, gym bleachers and decoration of the home economics room suggested.

Two textbooks now in use in geography and English are to be reviewed following the suggestion of Dyke. The books were copyrighted in 1959 and 1958.

THINGS WERE QUIET around the polling places in both Cass City and Gagetown. In Cass City the election board had a relatively easy time as few voted in the non-competitive election. Waiting for another voter are Frank McComb, Clarence Merchant and Amasa Anthes. (Chronicle photo)

New Owners Take Reins At Sommers

One of Cass City's longest established businesses changed hands this week when Mrs. Lucille Sommers sold Sommers' Bakery to Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Merchant of Cass City.

The bakery has been operated by Mrs. Sommers and the late Joe Sommers since May 6, 1937, when the business was leased from Mrs. Earl Heller.

Sommers arrived in Cass City from Alpena where he had worked as a baker. When looking for work, the practice in the '30's was to go to the yeast plant at Flint and apply. When Joe applied, Mrs. Sommers recalled, they told him of the opportunity in Cass City and he decided to take it.

We started with just $350, if you can imagine that today, Mrs. Sommers said, as she recalled her early days in business in the village.

Although the business has changed hands, there will still be a Sommers connected with its operation . . . and on a part-time basis, two Sommers.

Mrs. Merchant is the former Joan Sommers and she will be operating the bakery with an assist from her husband who plans to join the operation on a full time basis later this year.

Mrs. Sommers said that she will be around to help out when needed on a reduced schedule. Cass City is my home now and I plan to stay here, she explained. Asked about the future, she said that her plans are indefinite.

I'll take it easy for awhile and then decide, she said.

Despite a blank ballot in Gagetown, village elections in Cass City and Gagetown followed normal patterns and the anticipated slate of officers were easily elected Monday.

In both communities the vote was light. In Cass City officers as nominated were elected. President Lambert Althaver received 85 votes. The trustees are: Gladys Albee, 86 votes, J. Glenn McCullough, 85 votes, and Bernard Ross, 66 votes. Trustee Dr. William Selby received 89 votes as he ran to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of James Baker.

Mrs. Celia House was named clerk-treasurer, and Mac O'Dell, assessor. There were five write-in votes for various offices.

GAGETOWN ELECTION

Nearly 30 per cent of the votes cast in the Gagetown election were spoiled because they were incorrectly filled out.

The blank ballot evidently confused many of the voters as 24 of the 83 ballots cast were invalidated.

But the spoiled ballots made no difference in the outcome of the election. Only one candidate was written in for each office and the candidate that was ruled from the ballot on a technicality after petitions were incorrectly filled out, was elected without opposition.

President is Elery Sontag. Other village officials named and the votes they received were: Mrs. Leota Ashmore, clerk, 52 votes; William Ashmore, treasurer, 53 votes; LeRoy Stapleton, 55 votes, Eugene Comment, 56 votes, and Alvin Seurnynck, 50 votes, for trustee posts, and Vada Wilson, assessor, 19 votes.

Caro Hospital Head Retiring After 33 Years

Willard W. Dickerson, MD, announced today his retirement as medical superintendent at Caro State Hospital.

He will leave his post at Caro May 1 after nearly 33 years on the hospital's medical staff, 18 years as superintendent.

V. A. Stehman, MD, acting director of Michigan Department of Mental Health, commended Dr. Dickerson for his "outstanding administration" at Caro.

"Under Dr. Dickerson's leadership, significant improvements in care and treatment of epileptics have been made," said Dr. Stehman. "Caro State Hospital has become one of the nation's foremost institutions for the treatment of epileptics, especially for patients with dual handicap of epilepsy and retardation."

"We regret seeing Dr. Dickerson go and extend to him our best wishes for new experiences which will add zest to an already successful and eventful life," said Dr. Stehman.

"There is no unusual significance to my retirement at this time; it was planned long ago and is now somewhat overdue," said Dr. Dickerson. "I have been fortunate in that I have always done what I have wanted to do and have been happy doing it. This is as true today as it has been in the past."

"Mrs. Dickerson and I are looking forward to this opportunity to do some long-awaited traveling and visiting with our children and grandchildren in

Power Bleachers Fail To Move Board

The Cass City Board of Education cast a longing eye at power bleachers for the new high school gym in its regular session Monday, but backed away when it was learned that power would up the cost about 35 per cent.

Investigation has revealed that power adds some $5,000 to the cost of the bleachers.

Elwyn Helwig, who favored the power bleachers, said that the power would preserve the bleachers and pay for itself in the end.

Don Reid remarked that even if the bleachers were ruined at the end of the period, over a third of them could be replaced with the amount of money saved.

Supt. Don Crouse said that there are no power bleachers in the Thumb and Board President Horace Bolen said that perhaps power would be considered a luxury item that cannot be fully justified to the taxpayers.

The board may have been influenced by the lack of power bleachers anywhere else in the Thumb and a poll of the remaining members revealed that manual bleachers were the choice.

A motion was passed to allow Helwig, Ken Maharg and Don Koepfgen to select the manual bleachers after further investigation.

LIBRARY EQUIPMENT

Three companies have submitted quotes for additional equipment for the library. Before deciding on the type tables and related equipment that will be selected, a committee will tour schools with each of three brands under consideration.

Investigating will be Reid, Bolen, Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn and Supt. Donald Crouse.

BUILDING USE

The board endorsed the use of the school for classes in adult education to be staged under the auspices of the Cass City Ministerial Association as established by regular board policy.

Classes in literature, education and sociology will be offered each of three evenings.

QUESTIONS BOARD

Don DeLong, who wanted a bus drivers' job at the school again, appeared to ask why he did not receive it.

He pointed out that he had spent 13 years as a driver before resigning when he ran for a position on the board.

Crouse said that he was not hired because he placed too many restrictions in the way of the school.

Crouse ticked them off for the board by saying that DeLong had said that he might work a couple of weeks or might stay longer; that he would not take a bus to a certain garage for repairs; that he would have to receive first chance on any short mileage run that opened, and that the board's policy is not to hire husband and wife combinations if it is possible to avoid it.

(Mrs. DeLong now drives a bus for the school.)

Under these conditions, Crouse said, it was impossible for the school to hire you.

DeLong then told Crouse and the board that it was his impression that he wasn't hired because of the school board's policy of not hiring husband and wife teams and he cited several instances where they were.

The board gave tacit approval of Crouse's statement that the board tries to avoid husbands and wives working together whenever possible.

Open Meeting to Boost Park Plans

Plans moved rapidly ahead for an addition to the Cass City Recreational Park after prompt work by the committee in charge and the Cass City Village Council.

Meeting in special session Friday afternoon, the village opted 22 acres of land at a cost of $26,400 from Morton and Lottie Orr. The land includes "Orr's Woods" and property immediately north of the present park.

In addition, the council secured option rights to other land owned by the Orrs that is located east of the present park and includes land with an outlet to Main Street.

Meanwhile, the committee appointed at a recent meeting has formulated plans for a drive to raise funds needed to complete the park addition.

Details of the plan will be revealed at a special meeting slated Thursday night, March 16, at the Cultural Center in Cass City, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Chamber of Commerce President Clinton House said that every resident of the community is urged to attend the meeting to learn for themselves how the valued addition to the recreational facilities of the community and area will be obtained.

With an eye towards handling anticipated funds, the council also voted to receive any money collected for the park project and place it in a separate fund to be used for land acquisition only.

Bands Receive II Ratings In Festival

Cass City's Senior and Junior Bands participated in the District III Band and Orchestra Festival Saturday, March 11, at Flint where both bands were judged II ratings.

The Cass City students were among 6,000 pupils attending the annual event. The senior band performed at Flint North-western and the junior band at Flint Ainsworth.

Mrs. Judy Titus of Caro is acting band director.

Mr. and Mrs. Rader Hammett, Mrs. Jim Turner, Mrs. Leslie Hurd and Rev. Richard Spencer accompanied the group.

More Smiths than Joneses at Hospital

There are more Smiths than Joneses . . . at least there were last week at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith Tuesday, Mar. 7, and twins, a boy and girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smith.

Both families live in Caro.

Jim Seals Hurt In Car Crash

James Seals, former assistant principal at Cass City High School, and now living in Union City, was seriously injured in an automobile accident while on his way to classes in Mt. Pleasant Saturday.

Seals was taken to a hospital in Marshall. He suffered broken ribs, cuts and bruises.

Break-ins Follow Pattern

Thieves Plague Village

DISPLAYING A CONTAINER similar to the one in which thieves found in the store with about $8 in paper sales money is Mrs. Thelma Pratt, owner of Thelma's Grocery. (Chronicle photo)

Two Cass City business places were broken into over the week end and minor amounts taken from each of the stores.

Thieves cracked a window in the door at Thelma's Grocery and found some $8.00 concealed in a jar on a shelf in the store.

Mrs. Thelma Pratt, owner, said that the thieves looked into the cash register, but found no money. She also reported that she could discover none of the store's merchandise missing.

The same method of operation was followed in a break-in Sunday at Cass City Lanes.

The Cass City Police Department reported that the northwest door of the alley was entered after the thieves broke the window in the door.

Some $50 was taken. The theft occurred in broad daylight. The building was entered while the owners were away for lunch. Entry was made sometime between 11:20 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The first of the thefts in this pattern occurred some two weeks ago when Tyo's Barber Shop was broken into and $14 taken from the till.

In none of the robberies was anything taken besides the money.

OTHER CASES

Jerry A. Curtis, 21, of Deford and Stephen C. Gibbs, 17, of Caro pleaded guilty before Justice Norman Weitzel in Bad Axe on a charge of furnishing beer and liquor to minor girls.

Curtis paid $54.90 and Gibbs $39.90 in fine and costs.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's a sports puzzler for you . . . The current head of one of the countries of the world was once an athlete, and not only took part in the Olympics, but won a gold medal! . . . Can you guess which ruler this is? . . . It's the king of Greece, King Constantine . . . He took part in the 1906 Olympics at Athens and finished first in an official yachting event . . . He's probably the only head-of-state in history who ever won an Olympic gold medal.

Here's one many basketball fans don't realize . . . Although the NCAA tournament is now considered the No. 1 post-season tournament, the National Invitation Tournament is actually older, by one year . . . The NIT was started in 1938 . . . First NCAA tournament was in 1939, and it wasn't nearly as popular nation-wide in its early years as it is now.

Here's one that's hard to believe from baseball, but it's true . . . A catcher has never been able to win the batting championship of the American League . . . The League has now gone through 66 consecutive years since its founding without a catcher as the bat champ.

Asher Named To Thumb B Dream Squad

Dave Asher, senior forward at Cass City High School, this week was named to the Thumb B All-Conference basketball team in balloting conducted by the schools in the conference. Asher, Cass City's leading scorer and rebounder, was fourth in total votes received. Posting over 30 points in several games, he finished the season with 367 total points, hitting on 44 per cent of tries from the field and 65 per cent of his free throws.

Despite his scoring record, Asher was able to place high in the assist department, trailing only the Hawks' two guards in this department.

Dave Asher

In addition to Asher, this year's team features plenty of good shots and brawny rebounders as well.

Leading all players in the balloting was Terry Weiss, Frankmuth's hot shooting guard.

Rich Campbell, Caro's top rebounding artist, anchors the team at center, while two forwards round out the first five. Honored were Ron Frederick of Bad Axe and Dan Buchman of Vassar.

Oddly enough, the district champion Lakers did not have a man on the first team. Most coaches said that the club's outstanding balance was responsible. The players were so equal it was hard to pick one boy over the other, they said.

SECOND TEAM

The second team includes: Ronald Damm, Lakers; Al Poellet, Frankmuth; Al Wask, Caro; Earl Hunkins, Vassar; Bill McLellan, Lakers.

Among the boys receiving honorable mention was Jim Walters, Cass City senior. He scored 210 points for the Hawks this year, second on the team.

Other boys mentioned included: Dan Bassford, Caro; Dale Hager and Duane Marsh, Marlette; Charles Smith, Caro, and Dennis Thiel, Lakers.

treasurer or other persons entitled to such collections.
The report recommended that an appraisal be made of county property for insurance purposes. A recommendation was also made that the county charge rent to the Intermediate School District for space in the courthouse being used by the District.
The report also indicated that certain township treasurers were not making timely deposits of current tax levy collections with the county treasurer.
Several recommendations were made to improve accounting procedures in various county offices.
All audit exceptions, along with suggested changes, were referred to the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors and the various department heads involved, with a request for a report to Green on the action taken.

HOSTESSES FOR THE open house were the Cadettes. Lois Reagh was busy helping with the refreshments.

An estimated 500 Girl Scouts, relatives and friends attended the Girl Scout Open House Sunday afternoon at Cass City High School auditorium. Feature of the program were exhibits depicting the talents of Brownies, Junior Girl Scouts and Cadettes from Deford, Gagetown and Cass City. Included were rhythm bands, displays of drawings, tote bags, mosaic pictures, holiday centerpieces, table settings, place cards and party favors. One of the more unusual displays was a method of artificial resuscitation demonstrated by Brownie Troop 247. Probably the busiest were the Brownies from Troop 641 who made and served butter.

ONE OF THE MANY arts and crafts projects is string painting. Demonstrating Sunday was Cindy Tuckey.

New England and New Mexico." Dr. Dickerson graduated from the University of Michigan medical school in 1929 and during 1929-31 served his internship and residency in neurology at University Hospital.
After two years in private practice at Cass City and Akron, he joined the Caro staff in 1934. In 1936 he was appointed assistant medical superintendent and succeeded R. L. Dixon, MD, as superintendent in 1949.
Dr. Dickerson is a diplomate of the American Board of Neurology and Psychiatry; a fellow of American Psychiatric Association and American Academy of Neurology. He is a member of the Central Neuro-psychiatric Association, and Association for Research in Nervous and Mental Diseases. He is a past president of the Michigan Society of Psychiatry and Neurology and chairman of the American Psychiatric Association's committee on convulsive disorders.
Dr. Dickerson has authored widely-published articles on epilepsy and is a nationally recognized authority on treatment of convulsive and associated disorders such as mental retardation. He is listed in the current edition of Who's Who in America in recognition of his contributions to medical knowledge concerning epilepsy.
Major changes have taken place at Caro State Hospital since Dr. Dickerson joined the staff in 1934, in types of patients served, in treatment procedures and in physical accommodations.
Development of drugs which effectively reduce the number and severity of seizures has made it possible for most of Michigan's 40,000 epileptics to reside at home. As a result Caro, which at one time admitted many patients afflicted only with epilepsy, today is a hospital primarily for epileptics who are mentally retarded.

A CRISSCROSS FIRE is best in many cases. It's demonstrated by Lisa Champion, left, and Julie Elliott.

ACTING OUT THE WORDS of a song are these three members of Troop 644. Luann Williams, Chris Krueger and Brenda Hahn.

OPEN HOUSE SET

Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken and a list of top civic, agricultural and business guests will join with the invited public at ceremonies to dedicate the new regional Farm Bureau Supply Center located at 4330 Westervelt Rd., Zilwaukee, beginning at 9:00 a. m. Thursday, March 23, 1967.
The Farm Bureau Supply Center is a new concept in agricultural retailing and wholesaling operations designed to offer a complete line of home and garden supplies for both urban and suburban residents of the Tri-County area, said Elton R. Smith, president of Farm Bureau Services, Inc.
"The new one-stop center is our recognition of the fact that people's time, whether they're city or rural dwellers, is increasingly more valuable," said Smith. "We feel that we can better serve our function -- that of serving all the people of Michigan -- if our services and products are available from a central location."
The Farm Bureau Services retail and wholesale outlet for years operated from a downtown location in Saginaw, but shifts in the population, redistribution of traffic because of the new bridge and the need for a convenient, central location were given by Smith as reasons for the change.
Already in operation at the site of the new center is the Michigan Elevator Exchange grain and bean terminal. Adjacent to the terminal is the Farm Bureau Feed Mill.
Named to manage the center is Hein Meyerling. He will be assisted by Reuben Pruett, long-time manager of the Washington Avenue branch of FBS. Sales representative in the field will be Al Johnson, while Arnold Sy will serve behind the sales counter and Frank Olshove as warehouse superintendent.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge
This True Story Deserves Second Look
By Marion Hostetler

My sister in Ohio sent me a freeway story that's just as wild as last week's California one.

A Columbus couple, returning from a month's vacation in a camper, stopped for gas at a filling station on the outskirts of Columbus. The husband had a headache and thought he'd stretch out in the camper the rest of the way home, so the wife agreed to drive. She heard the door of the camper open and close and, assuming hubby was inside, she drove off.

What really happened was that just as the husband was about to get into the camper he saw their neighbors pull into the station, and he went back to say hello. The neighbors were on their way home, too, so when they saw he was without transportation they invited him to ride along with them. Because they used the freeway, they reached home before the man's wife arrived.

He went into the house and opened the windows and doors. Then realizing that she might be worried when she saw that the house was wide open, he hurried out the back door to meet her. The bewildered woman, feeling sure that her husband was asleep in the camper, was so flustered at seeing his double waving to her that she drove right through the garage door.

She might have been prepared for this if she had seen the cartoon showing three identical men coming through a door, and somebody explaining, "Jones fell into the Xerox machine."

I usually have to ignore unsigned letters, but one came last week that deserves some response. It says, in part: "We came back here to Cass City from the big city to try to make a decent living for our family, but it seems as though we are not really welcome. My husband was born and raised here, but now when we need help at any time we get the remark that we did not deal with you folks before, so why should you bother with us now. We always tried to do what we could, but we seem to get the cold shoulder every time we come to town.

With the exception of about ten families in the Cass City area that are friendly, the rest are as cold as a snow storm."

My first comment would be that anybody who has ten families as friends is not in too bad a condition.

Second, if you really want help through correspondence, you will have to be more specific: tell me what kinds of help you need, and what kinds of people have turned you down. If you are talking about needing credit, I suggest that you try to put yourself in the merchant's place. If he wants to stay in business, he doesn't dare to give credit to customers unless he has a reasonable expectation that they will be able to meet their obligations on time.

Third, if you will write and give me your name and address or call me at 872-3435, I'll be glad to arrange to talk with you about your problems.

Fourth, I hope the residents of the area will ask themselves whether they are really as friendly to newcomers as they ought to be. One of the problems that arises in a friendly, close-knit little community is that the local people already have so many friends that they don't feel any need to be friendly to newcomers. That's just dandy for the old-timers, but not so pleasant for people who move into the area.

Last week in his column Dan Marlowe remarked about how much writing he could do over the week end. He should have been in Ghana last month.

David Hostetler, who is teaching math as a Peace Corps Volunteer in St. Paul's Secondary School, Denu, Ghana, reports that there was no school on Friday, Feb. 24, as it was Liberation Day, the first anniversary of the coup which ousted Nkrumah; and that Monday, Feb. 27, was also a holiday, as it was Independence Day, the tenth anniversary of independence from Britain. Sounds like the makings of a really swinging week end.

Veterinary Science Workshop for 4-H At Camp Kett

The world of veterinary science offers new and exciting learning opportunities to 4-H leaders and members.

Tuscola county 4-H leaders will learn more about this new program at the "kick-off" Veterinary Science Leaders' Training Workshop March 16-17.

Leaders from throughout Michigan will attend the workshop at Camp Kett, Michigan's 4-H leadership training center near Cadillac.

The workshop will provide an orientation to this new program and help leaders find ways of relating the project information to the local 4-H Club needs and to the over-all development of young people.

It will provide an exposure to important phases of medicine and public health and an understanding of the field of veterinary medicine.

Tuscola county will be represented by Don DeLong and Ken Kennedy of Cass City and Shirley Perry of Caro.

The program is being coordinated by Dr. Fred Bohmker, Extension specialist in veterinary science at Michigan State University. Dr. James Dalley, instructor in the MSU veterinary clinic, and Graydon Blank, Extension specialist in animal husbandry, will assist with the training.

Dr. D. A. Phillipson of Kalamazoo, director of the agricultural products divisions of the Upjohn Company, will speak on the topic "Industry Looks at Youth". The Upjohn Company provided funds for nationwide development of this program.

Information concerning the veterinary science program is available through your office of the Cooperative Extension Service, at the Courthouse in Caro.

To the Editor,
After getting the Chronicle and reading it carefully today I was moved to write a word of cheer to the snow bound home folks. The sun still has warmth in it and in another six weeks or at most two months should melt away your SNOW. We must admit that ten days ago when the thermometer dropped to -29 on Mt. EASY DOES IT

Overexposure can be fatal to politicians as well as sunbathers and camera film.

Within the past decade, several presidential hopefuls have discovered this too late to avoid it. Early presidential primaries in several states have given the boot to quite a few politicians who thought the way to the nomination was to start early and run fast.

Considerable assessment is going on behind the scenes in the several groups now boosting Michigan's Gov. George Romney for the presidency to determine whether he might already be getting nowhere in a hurry.

On his recent tour westward, Romney returned greatly encouraged by the public response.

Response from the national press entourage which followed his every move on this trip indicated, however, that he may join the ranks of the overexposed by the time the 1968 nominations are handed out.

Living in Michigan it is difficult to properly assess Romney's impact as a national figure. His press relations have not always been to his satisfaction, but have generally been very much in his favor.

National correspondents, especially the columnists who have been through countless campaigns, are a much tougher breed than the newsmen Romney deals with daily in Lansing.

Already, several national columnists are making predictions about the Republican nomination and the greater percentage do not give the nod to Michigan's chief executive.

Computers, used so heavily in the prediction of election outcomes even before all votes are cast, have not come into general use yet in predicting convention delegate preferences.

Even the next year, however, the science of political prognostication could conceivably include extensive use of mechanical brains to predict convention outcomes months before the delegate votes are cast.

With Romney's apparent penchant for coming out well against difficult odds, the national columnists now sticking their necks out and, indeed, computers' betting against him could be proven wrong.

MAYBE NOW

Prospects for a decrease in the present $3.75 auto fee to cross the Mackinac Bridge are considerably brighter this year than ever before.

On the one hand, the State Highway Commission is about ready to resell bonds on the remaining debt. Machinery has been set in motion to have new bonds ready for the market any time there is indication a decent interest rate can be negotiated.

Officials are looking for the bond market interest rate to drop to 3 1/4 per cent. Bonds sold in 1952 to finance the $100 million span carry a 4 1/4 per cent rate. Reselling bonds on the remaining debt would save the state about $1 million annually in interest rates.

Officials say a new issue of bonds would enable a slight reduction in the toll fee now imposed.

These fees, the lowest being that for a one-way auto crossing, have been a bone in the throat of Michigan lawmakers almost since the bridge opened in 1937.

Since the auto ferries once operated on the Straits of Mackinac have been sold, there is no alternative available to the general public wanting to travel between the state's two peninsulas.

Highway Commission spokesmen have set no amount for any reduction made possible by a bond issue, but many people feel any decrease would be a step in the right direction.

On another front Wallace D. Nunn, Commission member from East Tawas, has gone on record saying he would support earmarking part of a proposed gasoline tax hike to retirement of the Bridge bonds.

Putting more money into paying off the remaining debt, which stands at about $98 million would still enable a reduction in the toll fee, Nunn contends.

Emphasizing he spoke as an individual rather than as a member of the Highway Commission, Nunn said he thought the passenger car toll on the bridge could be reduced to about $2.40 if a new bond issue was sold at the lower rate.

If new bonds were sold and part of the gas tax was earmarked to pay off the bonds, the East Tawas spokesman estimated the toll could be but to 50 cents, or perhaps even eliminated entirely. A 50 cent fee, which he would prefer, would essentially cover maintenance and administration costs, Nunn said.

Cub Scouts Attend Hockey Game

Eighty-six Cub Scouts, and chauffeurs, from Cass City and Deford attended the hockey game between the Port Huron Flags and the Port Wayne Komets Friday night at McMoran Memorial Sports Arena in Port Huron. The Flags won 5-3.

Ned S. Hubble, public relations director for the Flags, was in charge of arrangements. After the game, the Cubs met the hockey players and received autographs.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Home Extension Agent

Focus on "do's" instead of "don'ts" if you want to give your child the best guidance. Mrs. Ann Ross, home economist with the Cooperative Extension Service in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties, suggests several helpful guidance techniques.

Mrs. Ross says, "If you listen to the ways parents guide children, you'll hear the words 'don't,' 'stop,' and 'quit' prefacing many commands to children. If the child is in danger of hurting himself or someone else, these words may be necessary. However, in most situations just telling a child what not to do doesn't prepare for what to do, or teach him how to handle a situation in a better way."

For example, instead of saying "Don't throw the ball," translate it into, "Roll the ball on the floor." Or, "Hold the kitty gently," instead of "Don't squeeze the kitten."

It is important for a child to develop a feeling that he is able to do things... that he is a capable and worthwhile person. A 'can do' feeling enables a child to try new things and to approach school and other life situations with confidence.

"Being exposed to too many belittling experiences destroys self-confidence in a child," the home economist points out. For instance, if after a mistake we tell a child, "Can't you ever do anything right?" We may make him feel that, in fact, he never can do anything right. Help him to learn to do it right, within the limits of his ability and maturity.

These suggestions, and others, for helping a child to grow up so he can meet life's situations are contained in a new bulletin, "Child Guidance Techniques," published recently by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University. Anyone wishing a free copy should contact the Extension office in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties and ask for Extension Bulletin 565.

Thought for Lent And It's Free

By Rev. Richard Eyer

Pastor Eyer has been energetic and effective as pastor of Cass City's Lutheran Church.

If there is any message in the season of Lent for the church member and the non-church member alike, let it be that bringing life into focus can only be done through honest reappraisal of ourselves. Traditionally Lent is a time of emphasis on repentance in preparation for the Joy of Easter. But repentance is never easy. It means uprooting habits, re-thinking so-called "religious views," (such as the idea which equates church membership with membership in the Kingdom of God) and an earnest desire to live to the glory of God and not to Self. An occupational hazard of the Repenting Christian is that he finds it easy to list the socially unacceptable sins of others such as drunkenness, adultery, and murder (of which he feels he is innocent), but finds it difficult to see his sins of over-indulgence "in anything," the subtle immoral murmur of his heart, and the desire to see the one who had offended him, get what's coming to him. Repentance starts with the realization that were it not for the grace of God he would not be alive and kicking today. It begins with the awareness that all of life is tied together by the string of God's love and forgiveness in Jesus Christ.

The need for repentance is universal, for the religious and the irreligious alike. For the religious it finds expression in the confession of his sins of omission; the realization and admission that he as a Christian has not always (and seldom, "most of the time"), answered the call of God to service as God's missionary to the community around him. Caught up in the narrow confines of his own religious organization he becomes a slave to institutional procedures and forgets that (taking for granted his life is centered in Christ) "true religion and undefiled is to visit orphans and widows in their affliction . . .," which is representative of the many needs of those around us for the love of God in Christ to take expression through our caring.

For the irreligious repentance must probably begin with the insight that the church is not as hypocritical as he thought; at least no more than he himself is. For hypocrisy consists in doing what you know God doesn't want and letting it appear as though you haven't done it. The church is not made up of people without sin, but it is made up of people who admit that they do sin. If this is true then no one can rightly join a denomination to get away from sinners. He can only share with them the need for repentance.

Lent does not end on a sour note; repentance is not the whole ball of wax. The target toward which the repentance is fired is forgiveness. Not everyone hits the target. Some fly on by with the inability or unwillingness to aim by faith. Those who hit the target do so because the grace of God enlarges the bullseye to the size of a barn-side. Forgiveness in Jesus Christ is free; it's complete; it's life-giving. May God grant us all this assurance on Easter.

Lake Urges Farmers to Fight Dairy Import Flood

RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS from Glenn Lake, MMPA president, at right, is Lloyd Severance of Decker who was re-elected president of the Deford local Saturday. Also re-elected were Hessel Venema, left, vice-president, and Maynard Stine, secretary-treasurer.

Glenn Lake, president of the Michigan Milk Producers Association, lashed out at milk imports and told some 75 members of the Deford MMPA local that the important fact for farmers to remember about prices is not the price you "set", but the price you are able to collect.

Lake was speaking at the annual meeting of the local Saturday at the Deford school. In an obvious, but unspoken, reference to the policies of the National Farmers' Organization, Lake reported that it was one thing to set a price for milk and another to collect it from the dairies.

In Michigan we consistently receive the top dollar for our milk and the current price of $6.10 per hundred for Class I (bottle milk) is a dollar higher than it was a year ago, Lake pointed out.

Michigan is still plagued by the shipping of milk from surrounding states which receive less for milk than is received here, he said. Milk flows to Michigan in large quantities from Wisconsin and Illinois, it was pointed out. Lake told members that the Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation is the answer to the problem. This organization covers 21 markets today, he explained, and has helped the problem of import milk from Ohio and Pennsylvania.

FOREIGN IMPORTS

What this organization does not do is stop the importing from foreign countries of milk products.

These imports are costing the average dairy farmer $50 per month, Lake said, and some of the products are being purchased by the government. He urged farmers to make their congressmen aware of the problem to get the laws changed. Lake explained that the imports have driven the price of Class II (manufactured milk) down 38 cents per hundred in the last six months.

With 20 days left on the current MMPA contract with the dairies, Lake forecast that the current $6.10 price for milk would hold for the next period and that the price would be better for the year as a whole.

FEWER DAIRYMEN

Lake reviewed statistics familiar to most farmers attending. He said that milk production is down and that membership in MMPA is down because of the declining number of farmers.

There are 11 per cent fewer dairymen today, he said.

OFFICERS ELECTED

In the business meeting, all officers of the local were re-elected. Lloyd Severance is the president; Hessel Venema, vice-president, and Maynard Stine, secretary-treasurer. Delegates are Donald Reid, Gerald Hicks and Frank Satchell. Alternates are Ernest Bullock, Paul Becker and Donald DeLong.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance were named the local's choice as nominee for Michigan's outstanding dairy couple contest.

Gloria Stine Will Attend Girls State

Miss Gloria Stine, a junior member of the local American Legion Auxiliary, has been selected to attend Wolverine Girls State to be held June 18-25 in Ann Arbor. Gloria, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Stine and is a high school junior.

Announcement of the selection was made at the Auxiliary meeting held Monday night, by Mrs. Doris Klinkman, Girls State chairman for the unit.

An alternate will be chosen later from a list of junior girls provided by the school.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

FBI and I Talked it Over

By Dan Marlowe

If a bankrobber telephones you, friends, hang up. Better yet, leave town. The FBI doesn't like it; and I speak from experience. Some time ago a book of mine was published entitled The Name Of The Game Is Death. Of it, one critic said: "This is the story of a completely callous and amoral criminal (bankrobber and murderer), told in his own self-justified and casual terms, tensely plotted, forcefully written, and extraordinarily effective in its uncompromising presentation of a viewpoint quite outside humanity's expected pattern." I was pleased, naturally, that my book should receive such favorable criticism, but it was shortly to receive even more favorable criticism, and from a more knowledgeable source. I received a twenty minute phone call in Harbor Beach from a man in Philadelphia who wanted to tell me how much he liked the book. My fan said he was a frustrated writer, and he asked a number of questions about the story's structure and where I had obtained my information. Having been a frustrated writer myself, I answered it, heard no more from him, and forgot about it, until two strangers showed up at my front door one day. "We're from the FBI," the younger one said. I have friends who play practical jokes as a way of life, so I examined the Department of Justice seal in his billfold carefully. They WERE from the FBI. "What can I do for you?" I asked. Two post office circulars of the Man Wanted type were produced. "Do you know this man?" he asked, pointing to one. I looked at the circular. "No, I don't," I said. "We think you do." "Then think again, friend. I don't." "Then how do you explain him phoning you from Philadelphia?" The most prominent words on the circular were WANTED, BANK ROBBERY, and DANGEROUS. "Listen, no bankrobber called--say, I did get an odd sort of call from Philadelphia, but--" "We know you did. And we'd like to hear the details." Perspiring gently, I related the details. They were listened to in stony-faced disbelief until I produced the letter my "fan" had written me, for he, as it turned out, was a professional bankrobber who, with his partner, had been written up in a national magazine as "Most Wanted Criminal Since Dillinger." The pair had robbed eight banks for a total take larger than Dillinger's in his entire career. When the agents came to see me, my fan was already in custody, but his partner, the dangerous one, was not. A paragraph in the letter to me was sent out on the FBI teletype the same day, the dangerous partner was captured before the end of the week, and the Saginaw office of the FBI was kind enough to say that the abstracted paragraph from my letter could have helped. Why did my fan call me? Because my book, although pure fiction, closely paralleled some phases of his partner's career. It's only occasionally now that I wake nights wondering how I

Air Force blues are expected to match the color of the wild blue yonder more closely. By late 1967, the Air Force says, uniforms in a new, deeper shade should be ready for those who care to buy them. A date hasn't been set for making the new shade mandatory.

The old color was often criticized for looking too much like a bus driver's uniform.

Alpha Zeta is a national professional service honorary for the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources. New members are selected each year on the basis of high scholarship, campus leadership and good character after they have achieved sophomore status.

The purposes of the fraternity are to encourage scholarship, leadership, and moral conduct, and to promote the profession of agriculture. Alpha

BOOK REVIEW

This Historical Novel Not Reeking With Sex

By Rev. R. J. Searls

When I read the author's name on a book cover, ordinarily I know at least just what kind of novel I am about to read. In "The Roman by Mike Waltari" the immediate category was not hidden from the reader. This is the concluding novel in a trilogy. The earlier books are easily called to mind: "The Egyptian" and "The Etruscan." This book belongs to the historical novel category; but unlike the run-of-the-mill historical novels, this novel is not just an excuse for the display in sex. Waltari does not take excessive notice of the out-of-ordinary sexual expressions of the period this novel is about. Waltari does not totally ignore all sex. In this period, indeed, he mentions sex that is normal between married people. He mentions, or hints, at the unusual sex practices of the unusual men and women of that unusual period which surrounds the birthday of Christ. There is nothing in this book to cause you to keep it out of your children's reach; nor to shove it beneath a handy pillow if a guest arrives. That is refreshing in our literary illness that capitalizes on excessive portrayals of men and women sleeping together, without the benefit of a ceremony; usually this type of novel is crammed full of sexual practices that are not normal. There is nothing like that!

The plot of this novel is set in the period of Emperors Claudius and Nero. It is the story of Minutus who lived in the first century, and being of noble birth he serves his government and travels widely throughout the Empire, from his home in Antioch to the seat of world power, Rome. He is sent to serve in the army in Britain. There he wins a reputation for honor, integrity and courage.

Increasingly he comes into close contact with an off-shoot body of Jews who call themselves Christians. Minutus admires the sect, but he is too foolish to his logical mind. As he becomes a friend of the mad Nero, he organizes the many brutal festivities in which thousands of Christians are killed, especially for the burning of Rome. Eventually, disgusted with Nero's decadence, Minutus joins the plot to eliminate the mad king.

In spite of what I have written above, Waltari describes a society where Minutus has a son whose activities seem to be largely of no real concern to his father until near to the end of the account. Similarly, he finds his love needs from a wide spectrum of partners.

One is allowed to feel that Minutus is almost persuaded to become a member of the Christian group in Rome when the book ends, a step taken by his father who paid with his life for his beliefs.

A map inside the covers enables the reader to orient the countries Minutus visits in his travels. The publishers added another convenient service when (on page seven) they print a table that shows just who in the story were related, and how. This enables the reader, who finds himself confused, to open the book to a really helpful genealogy. The map and the genealogy should be included in all future historical novels. It would be a help to modern novels, too.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

potaters is better'n all you can say to a hungry man.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was giving their horseback opinion on everthing from foreign aid to bedbugs in Viet Nam and afore it was over Clem Webster of the Great Society and Ed Doolittle was, as them television politicians say, demanding equal time.

Ed was of the opinion with the Congress now in full swing no man's life, liberty or property was safe. He reported he had saw in the papers where we might increase our free wheat to India. He claimed we might as well pore our grain in the ocean as haul it across the ocean to India where the rats eat most of it on the docks and all them sacrid cows eat the rest. Ed said it made him recollect about the feller who said his Pa always made him lick his plate clean during the last war because people was starving in Europe and he had ought to be glad he had somepun to eat. This feller said he kept licking his plate and what happened was he got fat and the people went right on starving in Europe.

Clem was defending foreign aid, said it was keeping them Communists from taking over in a heap of countries and was helping our disarming and peace agencies do a better job. Ed said he was strong fer peace but it was like saying we ought to have a agency to see that a man don't git hung more than onct. When both sides can blow up the other complete, Ed claimed, it don't much matter how high they can blow 'em, and he would sleep just as good if we wasn't using so much foreign aid in the peace program.

Clem was reporting on what fine progress we was making in the Great Society on our science programs. He said science now has found out the cockroach was a real helpful critter to man. He recollected how our soldiers in Viet Nam was using bedbugs to help find the enemy and now cockroaches was used in studying space because they can stand more of that raderatin, more heat and cold, don't eat nothing or will eat anything and they ain't bothered one way or the other by gravity. Clem says they has even got a national Society for the Preservation of the Crow because the crow is worth more by eating bugs than he is harm by eating the crops.

Personal, Mister Editor, I don't act as Judge in these sessions, I just set and listen. And the longer I live the less faith I got in horseback opinions. They say cussing was invented fer the feller that was too mad to run and too scared to fight, and horseback talking was like a lantern with no match to light it. One sack of Dave Osestoski auctioneered at a box-social held by the 70 4-Hers, parents, and leaders. In the future, all meetings will be held on the third Monday of each month.
