He reported that Cass City was the only school in the Thumb B Conference that did not have a golf team and that bowling would probably also attract more students.

In the general discussion that followed, Supt. Donald Crouse said that he was all for more participation for students, but felt that competitive sports for girls has not proved too satisfactory because the girls themselves were not interested enough.

"I enjoy the work," Crawford says, "and am paid $2.00 an hour for the time I put in." Making the frames is sort of a busman's holiday for the Deford resident. He supports his family (six children, of which four are still at home) by working as a carpenter at the hospital. At first glance, a harpsi-chord looks like a piano. The difference is in the inside and, of course, in the sound. A piano's strings are activated by a hammer, while the strings of a harpsichord are plucked to produce music. Like an organ, a harpsichord has a much wider tonal range than a piano, Crawford said, and that's why, like an organ, they have many more pedals to operate than the traditional three on a piano.

I have to take into account this difference when I make the harpsichord frames, Crawford explained.

Just how much difference in range is there between an organ, a piano and a harpsichord? "I really can't say", Crawford said with a sheepish grin. "I've got no ear for music at all".

Farm Group

A recent column in which I commiserated with the present day high school generation initely in evidence. At times the solid beat of the orchestra Community School in the high picked up and carried along school gymnasium, and I atthe entire group on the dance tended. It was my first exfloor. posure to high school dancing When The Frats turned loose on Old MacDonald Had A Farm (I felt quite proud of myself for recognizing the tune; I didn't recognize many of them), 50% orchestra, a group from North Branch calling themselves The of the dancing seemed to be going on 6 to 8 inches above Frats. The 5-man combo must have had at least 200 pounds the gym floor.

Early in the evening when the frenetic energy-outpouring stage with them. I'm not used on the dance floor and the bandto seeing a band work harder stand was in full swing, I would see an occasional couple on the fringes of the bubbling cauldron sedately fox-trotting (although it's probably no longer called that) to the same strong beat, and I remember thinking that it must have been heredity since it certainly couldn't be environment.

Later, though, when an occasional slow number slipped in among the records played during band intermissions (probably as a concession to the chaperones), dozens of youngsters performed the oldstyle cheek-to-cheek dancing as gracefully as any old fogy could have wished. It was a pleasant surprise to me to find out that they knew these dances.

the new-style dancing with its high-jumping, shoulder-shrugging, hip-shaking, torso-twisting, partner-ignoring gyrations, it's almost impossible for teenage girls and boys to look ungraceful. I'm certain they have no bones, and their intricate maneuvers are fluidity itself.

In other words, they may not have converted me, but they convinced me, and I thank them for the experience.

Youth Rally

Slated Sunday in

Harbor Beach

"Perhaps one of the most interesting and stimulating of rallies will be held by the Thumb Zone of the Walther League (a youth organization of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod) Sunday at Harbor Beach", the Rev. R. E. Eyer of Cass City has announced. The theme will be introduced as guests arrive and find that due to some characteristic trait they are being "segregated" throughout the rally. The gimmick is a way of dramatizing the situation in which minority groups find themselves. The speaker for the day will be Rev. William Schmidt from "Way of the Cross," a store-front chapel in downtown Detroit.

The rally will involve youth from the 15 Lutheran churches in the Thumb, Registration time is 4 p. m.

FFA members attended a De-it Kalb corn awards banquet in Frankenmuth April 3. The ban-quet was to honor vo-ag stu-dents with DeKalb corn projects who had made the best record on a corn growing analysis sheet supplied by the company. Attending were Rod Wentworth, Ed Gordon, Larry Puterbaugh, with projects, and Reporter David Little. Two others com-pleted the project but were un-able to attend.
In contrast to most corn con-tests, which are based on yield checked on a spot basis, this project emphasizes costs, fer-itizing, population and recog-nition of corn enemies. The yield is computed, but project recognition is not based on top yields, but yield calculation is a factor in the top score. Top student from Cass City on a total score was. Joe Kloc with a score of 99%. He re-ceived a special wall plaque. Other boys received pins and certificates for adequate rec-ords.
This corn project includes over 1,000 schools in the top score yields. 6 Attend Banquet Four FFA Boys Phone 872-2556 or 872-3487 Cass City PROST Little Bros 9 y, April 22 - Joseph e will sell farm ma-it the place located i north and one and as east of Ruth. He didn't have no trouble than you editors under the Fedfiggering how much a pound of washing powder cost him and what he could sell it fer. But stant, he reported, farm workers could file complaints and now, he reported, the smallest box of laundry powder was marked "Large," and the sizes went on up from there. They was the "Giant Economy Size," and the "Family Bonus Size" and one powder has a box on top of a box and it's called the "Giant Twin Size." But things has changed a heap in 20 year. In them days we was hollering fer a good five cent cigar and we ended up with a five-cent stamp.

Zeke Grubb said the whole country was gitting geared to the loud talk movement. He figgered, fer instant, the whole economy of this country would fall apart if them razer blade people was to come out and say their blade was working real good and they couldn't figger out right off how to make it any better. * LEGISLATURE OVERLOADED

Michigan's legislature is still having its problems getting organized after four months of session.

This was predicted for the House of Representatives because of an even 55-55 vote split, but that is not the problem which continues to plague lawmakers.

The high volume of bills introduced this year has posed acute printing problems; so acute that on several occasions it has been a week or more from the time a measure was introduced before a copy of the bill was available to read.

Deadlines for accomplishing certain phases of the annual lawmaking process have already been missed and reset. At the beginning of the session Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, proposed setting an additional set of deadlines; to schedule committee work.

His idea was a good one although no schedule came about.

Like a family trying to live on an unrealistic budget, the state legislature has consistently set for itself impossible time schedules.

The trouble is inherent in the way they operate. Each year most legislators introduce a whole group of bills to placate their constituents in the full With Mohawk's Acrilan® carpet, Galawood, the playroom knowledge that the proposals will be more like a living room dressed up for company, cozier for family, and still the safe place for the kids to play on rainy days.
