

Contract to Brack

School Sewer Bid Favorable

What was generally considered a bid favorable to the village for building a sanitary sewer to the new high school was accepted Tuesday evening by the Village Council at the Municipal Building.

A local man, Phil Brack, was low bidder from among six bids received.

The bids asked for the costs of digging 3,198 lineal feet of sewer and placing 12 manholes. Brack bid $5.00 per foot for the sewer line for a total of $15,990 and $3,840 for the manholes. His total bid of $19,830 was just $599.10 under the next low bid submitted by Bun Brothers of Mount Pleasant.

Other bids received were: Hunt Construction of Cass City, $25,227; Dryer Brothers Construction Co. of Midland, $25,326.60; Roese Trenching, Bay City, $25,858.08, and Gary Steadman, Bay City, $24,711.36.

The oldtimers can always top any weather that might occur. The late wet spring recalled the 1917 spring to Fred Jaus. On May 23 that year he gleefully recalled it snowed all day. Had an inch on the ground, he said. Jaus, now a robust 85, was on his way to work when he made his "weather report".

I read an advance copy of Chronicle columnist Dan Marlowe's latest paperback, "Route of the Red Gold", this week. As Dan says, these novels are not designed for the family trade. . . but his latest makes an interesting evening of light reading for fans of the spicy who-dun-it school. Like the rest of Marlowe's novels, I'd say that this one will sell.

Unusual but not rare is the way authorities describe a brown and white Holstein calf. It was born at the Raymond Roberts farm, 6 1/4 miles north of Cass City, and Roberts says that he will add the heifer to his grade Holstein herd. Kind of like its looks, he said with a grin.

The rural mail carriers in Cass City are good drivers. Each of the three has driven another year without an accident. Each driver logs about 300 miles a week.

Bob Profit has 19 years; Lynn Spencer 13 years, and Chet Muntz 10 years without an auto accident.

The five-week program is offered by the school and is not part of any Federal program. A fee of $11 will be charged for the course and no bus service will be available.

The course is open to all children in grades one through six.

It will mark the fourth successive year that a reading course has been offered in the summer.

This summer's course is the first that math has been added to the curriculum.

The lessons are designed for students needing extra work in these courses. It will be offered from 8:30 to 11:30 a. m. from June 19 through July 21.

Teaching will be Mrs. Orion Cardew, Mrs. Malvina Howarth and Miss Caroline Garety. The course is open to all students in the system, including Evergreen and Deford.

Parents should notify Mrs. Murray if they have children they wish to enter the course.

Most Businesses Close for Holiday; Chronicle Open

While most businesses will be closed for the Memorial Day Holiday the Chronicle will be open and an office staff will be working. Regular business will be conducted.

Postmaster Grant Glaspie reminded residents that regular holiday schedules will be in effect. No regular post office services, except special delivery, will be provided. Mail will be collected and dispatched on holiday schedules.

Mayor's Exchange Reveals Problems Similar in Cass City and Gladwin

Problems and achievements in Gladwin are surprisingly near to the problems and advancements in Cass City, Village President Lambert Althaver reported this week after he and his wife returned from visiting the county seat community, some 40 miles northwest of Bay City.

Gladwin, slightly larger in population than Cass City, but with a valuation of $5.3 billion as compared to Cass City's $6.6 million, already has voted a community college in conjunction with neighboring Clare county.

The school is not yet under construction, but the school president has been hired and plans are moving forward to begin building soon, Althaver reported.

Althaver said that he was interested to learn that Gladwin has had a landfill type dump for many years, but has abandoned it.

The site of the dump became overcrowded, he explained, and rather than buy new equipment and new land the operation of the dump was turned over to an independent operator on a contract basis for $1,000 per month.

In Gladwin, the city pays for trash removal from general tax funds.

By comparison, in Cass City, the village is just starting a landfill type dump and home owners pay an independent operator for removing trash while the village pays for the site and equipment at the site.

While Gladwin was ahead of Cass City in dumps site construction, Althaver said that he was able to give the city fathers a tip on parking meters.

The community has old style meters and were having trouble. Althaver told of the meters now in Cass City and their serviceability.

Letter to Editor

Dear Mr. Editor and Citizens of Cass City,

Recently a crime has been committed in our town which has caused much concern to us all. We have begun to buy locks we never felt were necessary, we look at every stranger wondering if he's the one, we begin to be afraid to stay alone. Why is it we are so alarmed when this type of offense and others far worse happen daily in cities larger than Cass City? Isn't it because we always felt so secure that we became lax in taking precautions against crime?

I feel we should always be aware of the possibility of the crime and be prepared to prevent them. We should keep our doors and windows locked when leaving the house; we should never let a stranger into our homes, and in many other ways we can prevent a possible offender.

It has been of some concern to me, being a Patrolman's wife, that so many people question the Police Department about this most recent offense. They are constantly hounded and questioned by citizens who should realize it can happen even in a small town like this. Every person is responsible to help his local Police Department by taking precautions against persons who may have criminal intentions. We should be satisfied in knowing that the Police Department is doing everything humanly possible to catch any person who commits a crime as well as this particular one.

It is true this is one of our more serious crimes but many times the more serious crime, the harder it is to solve and it may take a little longer than for lesser offenses.

So, what do you say citizens? How about letting the local Police do their job without questions or interference from us? Let's have that much faith in them.

Mrs. Elaine Jezewski

Beans are State's Third Ranked Crop

Pea beans, navy beans to many, is Michigan's third most valuable cash crop. Michigan farmers annually plant about 500,000 acres and produce a crop valued from $30 to $45 million.

With the planting season approaching, Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent, advises farmers that the first necessity of a good crop is the right variety seed with good germination and free from blight and other diseases.

The three most desired varieties today are Sanilac, Gratiot and Seaway. All three of these varieties are bush-type beans developed by researchers at Michigan State University in the last decade. The vine-type bean, common to the bean grower several years ago, is no longer in favor. In fact, no certified seed is available of the famed Michelite variety, which helped make Michigan famous, or the more recently developed MSU variety, Saginaw.

The county agent points out that Sanilac and Gratiot are both 85 to 95-day-maturity crops. The Seaway matures about five days earlier. Many farmers plant different varieties to escape weather problems that develop throughout the growing season.

Field beans are most productive on well-drained, fine-textured soils, but can be grown on sandy-loam soils well-supplied with organic matter. The bean plant is sensitive to both excess water and drought. The modern bush-type bean plant is less subject to white mold, the county agent points out, and this is one reason for its popularity. It is also easier to combine and since pods are off the ground, there is less possibility of weather damage if harvest is delayed.

Although the state average is about 22 bushels an acre, good bean growers get as high yields as 35 to 40 bushels or 21 to 24 hundredweight an acre, the agent explained.

In selecting seed, farmers should make certain the germination is high and the bean carried little or no disease. Certified seed purchases will assure the grower of obtaining seed with these qualities. "Planting blight-free seed is an important control measure and farmers who seed with certified seed come out best year in and year out," the county agent stated.

Jury Trial Held in Local Justice Court

A Justice jury trial highlighted the cases heard before Justice Hugh Connolly in Cass City during the week. A six-man jury found Jack Kappen guilty of driving with defective taillights Saturday and recommended leniency. Kappen was charged court costs of $15 only. The ticket was issued by Patrolman James Jezewski.

Exceeding the speed limit at night by 15 miles per hour cost David Carl Smith, 28, of Millington a $20 fine and $5 costs. The ticket was issued by State Police. He was also assessed costs of $5 on another charge. He pleaded guilty to a violation of operator's license restriction because he had no right side mirror on his car. Maxine Ruth Profit of Cass City, ticketed by Jezewski for failure to yield right of way in a property damage accident, paid a fine and costs of $15.

Excessive noise with mufflers cost Dennis Edward Zepplin, 22, of Deford a fine and costs of $20 after he was ticketed by State Police. No man can win the battle of life unless he follows the trail of self-discipline.

Supervisor Johnson presented a bill from the Child Guidance Clinic of Bay County for $3,000.00. Moved by Johnson supported by Boardmaster the bill be paid. Motion carried.

Pitching Woes Plague Hawks

The Cass City Red Hawks ended the 1967 baseball season with a three win, six loss record as the team was hurt throughout the season by the lack of a fireballing pitcher. Throughout the year the club showed strong hitting, but allowed more runs than they scored as the hurlers were pounded and errors let in many runs at crucial times. Perhaps the high point of the season for Cass City was in the State tournament when they defeated Fenton, 4-3, in the opening round Wednesday, May 10.

The Hawks then moved on to play Swartz Creek and were eliminated as Cole hurled a two-hitter and the winners scored four runs in the first inning in a 6-0 decision. In the Thumb B Conference Cass City played its best game of the season against Caro. They took the league champions to the final inning before bowing 7-5.

The Hawks led 5-4 going into the last frame, only to see the Tigers turn a base hit, two walks and an error into three runs and another victory. The Hawks lost a close game at Bad Axe Wednesday, May 17, as the Hatchets scored six runs in the first two innings and then held on for a 6-5 decision. With all of Cass City's senior players away, Frankennuth had little trouble whipping the Hawks 11-0 in the final game of the year.

The Eagles scored eight runs in the first inning and three in the second to chalk up an easy victory. One bright feature of the game was the uncovering of a pitcher that should help the team next year, Coach John Oswald said. After the two opening hurlers had been bombed, Oswald tried John Maharg, normally a catcher, on the mound and he responded by hurling shutout ball the rest of the way.

Nichols Only Hawk State Meet Qualifier

Cass City finished in a tie for fifth in the Thumb B Conference meet Wednesday while the Lakers captured their first loop crown, edging second-place Vassar. The Hawks could have finished as high as third except for a disqualification in two relay events where an ineligible man was entered. The disqualification came because a Cass City runner had been entered in too many events. Cass City tied for first in just one event. Phil Nichols, Cass City, and Marty McArdle, Lakers, both cleared 5 feet, 11 inches to tie for the top spot in the high jump. The points compiled by the various teams were: Lakers, 64; Vassar, 61 1/2; Marlette, 45; Caro, 43 1/2; Cass City and Frankennuth, 32 each; Bad Axe, 18, and Sandusky, 10.

REGIONAL MEET In the regional held Saturday at Cass City, Cass City's Phil Nichols qualified for the State finals by winning the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 9 inches. The team trophy went to Vassar as Bob Fry was the only double winner of the meet with victories in both short dashes.

School's Almost Out....And The Kids Are Ready

British Columbia

will be visited by Suzanne Rabideau this summer. The 11th grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Rabideau says that the trip is already planned.

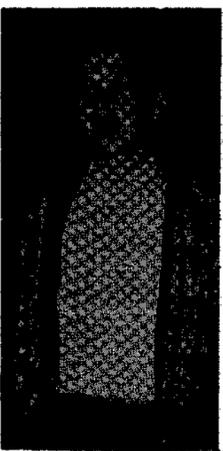

Different Farms

will see Bill Hennessey from the tenth grade. This work will be about all that I will do this summer. I'm happy that school is out.

College Beckons

Judy Ballagh, a graduating senior. But before entering Central Michigan University this fall she plans to work at Sherwood Forest in Gagetown.

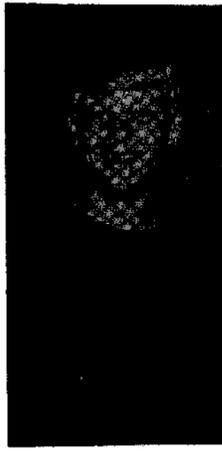

I'm Gonna Ride

horse and my motor bike, said Tim Brinkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Brinkman, who's happy that school's almost out. We're going to vacation up north at Mio, the seventh grader added.

Farm Work

faces Frank Jordan who is in the eighth grade. But it's not going to be all work, he said. We plan a trip to North Dakota in July.

No Plans

for vacation this summer, said Jim Golding, a freshman. I'm just going to work on my uncle's farm. . . . but I'm happy that school is out.

Just Relax

and enjoy my vacation said Mary Lee Russell from the seventh grade. Oh I guess I'll help work around the farm a little, too.

What a difference a few months makes. Last September the Chronicle interviewed students just before they were to return to school and all were happy to be returning. . . . Beats farming, said one. Missed my friends, said another. All those new clothes, explained a third.

To find out if the kids were as enthralled with reading, writing and arithmetic as the year draws to the end, we interviewed several for their reactions.

As you might expect, the Chronicle found the kids are now looking forward towards vacation with the same enthusiasm they showed about returning last fall.

Tips for Control of European Pine Sawfly

While most pines are susceptible to this insect, Scotch, red, jack, Swiss mountain, and mugo pines are most commonly infested, according to Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent. Larvae feed in groups on the mature needles of trees 2 to 15 feet in height and, when disturbed, move their heads up and down in a rhythmic motion. The small immature larvae are often overlooked since they cause limited plant damage. Early larvae feeding is characterized by a straw-like appearance to the old needles. However, as the larvae increase in size, so do their appetites and trees are completely defoliated in a few days. Trees are rarely killed after one defoliation, but their appearance is ruined.

For the control of the European pine sawfly, the use of malathion is recommended. Malathion should be used at the rate of 4 lbs. of 25% wettable powder or 1 quart of 57% emulsion malathion in 100 gallons of water.

Smaller quantities of the malathion spray material may be mixed up as follows: 1 gallon - use 1 tablespoon of the 25% wettable powder, or 1 teaspoonful of the 50% emulsion to 1 gallon of water. This should be sprayed on the tree as soon as evidence of the sawfly appears, said Ballweg.

Pvt. Albee Trains At Fort Knox

Army Private Richard T. Albee is assigned to Company C, 10 Battalion, 5 Brigade, at the United States Army Training Center Armor at Fort Knox, Ky. He will spend the next two months learning the fundamental skills of the soldier in today's modern, action Army—firing live ammunition under simulated combat situations, learning protective measures and first aid for chemical, biological and radiological attacks, as well as being schooled in the use of modern arms.

Following the completion of basic training, Pvt. Albee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert S. Albee, of Cass City, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Stock and Skirts Both on Rise

By Marion Hostetler

Somebody told Nancy Hutchinson that whenever women's hemlines rise, the stock market goes up, too. She didn't know which was cause and which was effect, but Nancy said in her opinion the hemline and the stock market were high enough already.

I do know that the "flappers" were wearing short skirts at the time the market started to soar in the twenties, but aside from that I can't say whether the theory holds water or not; I don't keep track of the stock market that closely.

In the second half of the 19th century, Michigan was the first state in the union to guarantee every child the right to a tax-paid high school education.

Perhaps the great advance in this half of the 20th century will be that the people of Michigan will make a college education available to every young person who can qualify for it.

When it comes to guessing the outcome of an election, I'm usually wrong. . . . and I hope I'm wrong about this one. But my guess is that on June 12 the voters of the Upper Thumb will favor the formation of a Community College District, and will elect seven trustees to guide its destiny, but will defeat the two mill levy for financing the college and the vocational high schools.

Aside from the fact that nobody enjoys paying taxes, the weak spot in the program, as I see it, is uncertainty about the advisability of starting vocational high schools. It's not that folks are opposed to the idea of vocational training for our young people, but that they are, as I said, "uncertain" about how this should be provided. There are three possible arrangements that might work. (1) All vocational education for the three counties might be concentrated on one campus, where a large variety of equipment could be assembled and a faculty with wide experience in various lines of work could be gathered together. (2) In order to minimize the transportation problem, each of the high schools in the three counties might keep on offering whatever vocational training it could. (3) Or special vocational training could be offered in three or four centers, as is now proposed.

The people who have given a great deal of thought to this subject think the third alternative is a good workable solution. But most of the voters haven't given it that much thought, and they hate to vote to spend their money until they are certain it will be wisely used.

From among the high caliber candidates who are running, it shouldn't be difficult to elect seven trustworthy trustees, and we ought to be able to trust them to work out the details of the vocational program as economically and efficiently as possible.

A computer has been programmed to compose business letters by selecting appropriate sentences from a stock of standardized sentiments.

I think I got a letter this week from a computer that belongs to an insurance company. The punch line went like this: "The refund due you (if any) in the amount shown above is enclosed, representing the unearned portion of the premium paid (if any) under this policy." Since the amount shown above was "none," the sentence means: "There isn't any refund coming to you."

And since I wasn't expecting either a refund or a letter, the computer didn't accomplish a thing, except to keep its own circuits warm.

From a Michigan Week place mat at a local restaurant I learned that "if Michigan were an independent nation it would rank as the 11th richest country in the world, measured by gross national product. Only 10 nations including the United States, would rank ahead of it. The other nine: West Germany, United Kingdom, France, Japan, Canada, India, Italy, China and Russia."

One man approached another man on the street, tapped him on the back, and said, "Joe Smith! I'm glad to see you, but tell me what happened to you? Last time I saw you you were short and fat; now you are tall and thin."

The other man interrupted him and said: "Look, my name is not Joe Smith."

"So," said the first man, "you changed your name, too?"

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night and him and some of the fellers got to discussing the moon. Ordinary, said the Good Parson, he confined his discussing to Heaven but from all the money we was spending on the moon project, he figured it was higher than Heaven and he better git in the mainstream of discussing higher things.

He was of the opinion we was being took by them Russians in this race for the moon. He said he was reading where some science feller claimed the Russians, after getting a good look at their moon pictures and ours, has decided they wasn't nothing up there worth nothing and they was making like they was aiming for the moon but was actual give up on it and was spending their billions on other things.

Ed Doolittle was agreed with Zeke's preacher, allowed as how President Johnson would git a heap of praise from the people if he'd just fergit about the moon and put them billions on our public debt.

Clem Webster of the Great Society, that thinks we gather Federal tax money in April from trees like farmers gathers their crops from the soil, said the moon was in our program for progress and he was in favor of gitting up there come tornados and high water.

Ed come back at Clem, allowed as how guns, butter, and the moon was more than we could handle. He reported he had saw where our national debt in 1918 at the end of World War I was $13 billion, and today that was the exact interest, $13 billion, on our public debt of $320 billion. Furthermore, said Ed, this piece said we had added 500,000 employees to the Federal payroll since 1960, our Federal payroll for civilians was now $6 billion a year, and we had 262 Federal poverty programs run by 16 departments and agencies.

The Good Parson was agreed with Ed in this matter, said we was in the greatest prosperity we had ever knowed and still we wasn't paying a penny on our debts and we was gitting in deeper ever day. He figured a good place to start was between Cape Kennedy and the moon.

Personal, Mister Editor, I recollect my Pa told me onct that everthing had a purpose and the land on his little place was so pore until the only thing it was good for was to hold the rest of the world together.

I figger the Lord put the moon up there for a purpose but I'm agreed with Zeke's

Mrs. Ann Ross

Over-protection is not the answer to physical safety for your child, says Mrs. Ann Ross...

This learning will not occur in one easy lesson. It's an on-going thing that a parent must skillfully inject into a child's every day life...

Motor vehicle accidents for this age group are not on the highways as much as they are right in the family driveway or street in front of the house...

Facing the fact that most accidents occur in and around the home makes it seem especially pertinent that a responsible person always be present in a house where there are young children...

Methods of campaigning have changed, stated the Democratic leader. "We noticed that it is increasingly difficult to get people out to our meetings..."

"It's a different ball game," said the party leader when he referred to the 1968 election. He was not considering the important difference in Michigan related to the national significance of Gov. Romney...

The flattery a man ladles out to himself can be dangerous.

Ferency Outlines Dem's Between Election Plans

What's the state Democratic party doing in this "between elections" period when the Republicans are getting gobs of publicity?

Prominence of Gov. George Romney in the national scene naturally makes news for the GOP and a special problem for Zolton Ferency, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee...

Two programs are underway. The first, says Ferency, is to raise enough money to rid ourselves of all financial obligations we have incurred...

Secondly, Ferency indicates, he is laying plans for the 1968 election. "We expect to have a fresh approach to a fresh campaign," the chairman said...

A lamprey poison was discovered in the late 1950's. Used extensively since then, it now appears that the control of lampreys and the rehabilitation of the lake trout is assured...

Some 850,000 coho smolts (Pacific salmon) were released in three Michigan streams early in 1966. Coho began showing up in commercial nets within three months...

A new approach will be needed for this "unique" campaign, according to Ferency. He prefers not to relate specific plans at this time, but seems to live up to his name of "happy warrior" in giving the impression he has some carefully planned ideas up his sleeves.

Voters in Michigan will be electing some Representatives to Congress, some to the legislature in Lansing, numerous county officers, and eight to deal with education...

BETTER FISHING

Sea lamprey and alewife have plagued Great Lakes fishing but will soon be under control. Lamprey entered Michigan's fishing grounds through the Welland Canal beginning in 1940...

Control of the alewife should be accomplished by the introduction of an entirely new sport fish to Michigan's waters. Different species of salmon are raised in government hatcheries and released in the Great Lakes with surprising success...

Why Pay for a Community College?

By Dan Marlowe

In every group discussion of the tri-county community college and vocational high school proposal which will appear on the ballot on June 12th, at least one individual is sure to demand: "Why should I vote additional millage upon myself with the taxes I'm already paying?"

This column will be an attempt to tell all voters why a long-range view is necessary and why the proposal deserves to pass, as follows:

Recently, a minority group of dairy farmers staged a so-called "milk holding" action—reportedly in protest of low milk prices.

It failed because the vast majority of Michigan dairy farmers—who own and operate the Michigan Milk Producers Association—are responsible businessmen, determined to live up to their contracts.

They could not be misled into joining a senseless demonstration; nor could they be forced or intimidated into joining it.

The responsible majority of Michigan dairy farmers are serious businessmen using proven methods to market a product valued at more than $250 million last year. They recognize the many economic problems they face today, and as businessmen, they are working to overcome these problems.

Michigan Milk Producers Association, for example, is an active leader of regional and national cooperative organizations working in several areas:

1. To bargain for the price that dairy farmers receive for their milk. Substantial gains have been made in the past year, within the realistic framework of marketing conditions. Rising costs of production—and the resulting dairy farm profit squeeze—make continued price improvement necessary.

2. To demand national legislation to stop importation of large quantities of foreign dairy products, which have forced down the price of our own dairy products.

3. To update those Federal Milk Marketing Orders which contain obsolete pricing structures.

4. To continue to advertise and promote our wholesome dairy products in order to expand our market, and to tell the true dairy farmer story to the general public.

5. To develop an even broader range of marketing services to help dairy farmers.

6. To promote and secure sales arrangements which provide long range assurance of markets for members' milk. Without secured markets, price talk means nothing.

THE MICHIGAN MILK PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION is a responsible cooperative acting under policies determined and carried out by dairy farmers. We are proud of each responsible member who stands in support of his organization.

WE THANK milk haulers and you, the consumer, for your confidence in Michigan Milk Producers Association.

WE PLEDGE to continue to work tirelessly and responsibly in the best interests of our members and all dairy farmers.

BOOK REVIEW

"The Death of the President" Reviewed

By Rev. R. J. Searls

This week at long last we are able to review what is easily the book of the year: The Death of The President by William Manchester. Subtitled "November 1963", it is the "authorized" version of what happened in 1963, the death of President John Kennedy.

Almost immediately following his assassination, books about what happened in Dallas and about his entire life began to appear on the bookshelves in an obvious attempt to strike while the iron was hot. Some of those books were the result of serious work upon the part of capable writers. We reviewed one of them, Kennedy, by Ted Sorenson which was obviously the most accurate account of Kennedy's years as president, written by a man who had been on the White House staff throughout the Kennedy years in office. He was but one of the "bright young men" whom the President surrounded himself with while he was our Chief of State. These men soon became called the little mafia.

Mrs. Kennedy and the president's family had hoped that, rather than having biographies of the late president pour off the nation's presses, one authorized (by them) account might be written from the perspective of time. When it obviously was not going to be that way, Mrs. Kennedy approached a little known writer and asked him if he would try to pick up the various strands of the president's trip to Dallas, the assassination itself, and the funeral and related events. Manchester, not a member of the White House staff, agreed to do this as a labor of love.

More than 700 pages resulted, as a result of Manchester's research. He was given more assistance than any other of the men who were ploughing in the same field. According to him, the Kennedys reserved the right to read the book in pre-publication form, to ensure accuracy. When they did read it, they were not happy with what they read, especially those sections that dealt with the way the Johnson administration took charge.

We are provided a picture of the President's widow concerning cerned especially with her children, a composed woman, who could remember intimate sidelights of the multitudes of ambassadors and recount them when they went to the White House to express their government's sorrow.

It must have been a hectic time to anyone bearing responsibility for the staff of the White House: family members to be fed and to be assigned quarters. Then, too, to lay out sumptuous buffets for the hundreds of people milling about in the White House. At the same time, President Johnson must immediately be informed of hundreds of details about this nation's foreign affairs.

There were problems, too, of men from Kennedy's staff remaining on as men of Johnson's staff. Being young men they had little experience in dealing with the funeral industry. (Remember that this was shortly after books on the subject had been written, such as Jessica Mitford's The American Way of Death. The Mortician in Dallas was less than kind, we are told.

At the same time as all these things were going on, President Johnson and others in the government were concerned that the assassination might have been the signal for an invasion of American shores by enemies of our nation!

I have left much of the drama of our president's death out of this brief review of the book. For example, the fact that some key cabinet officers were airborne on government missions.

Nor do I have sufficient space left to accurately describe the personalities of the assassin, Lee Oswald, or of the man, Jack Ruby, who had been Oswald's killer in a much mishandled transfer of jails.

Chief Jesse Curry of Dallas Police has been condemned (and rightly) for a particularly inept but routine job.

The Death of a President, by William Manchester, Harper & Row, N. Y., 710 pps., available from the Elkland Township and Cass City Library.
