

Employment down, but still very good in area

Unemployment figures in the nation rose to four percent of the total civilian work force in June, reaching the highest level since 1965. In addition to the national rise in unemployment, the size of the labor force increased.

Carl Oehmke, Michigan Employment Security Commission, reports similar June and July statistics on the state and county employment scene.

According to Oehmke, the number of jobs available at the county level dropped for the first half of July, causing a jump in unemployment figures to four per cent. This compares with a 2.3 per cent figure for the month of June. State unemployment figures rest higher than the average national rate at 5.9 per cent for June. The sharp rise in unemployment is attributed to model change-over layoffs by auto manufacturers, the scarcity of construction work and a shortage of job openings at small auto supply plants. Unemployment figures also include workers on plant vacation shut-down.

To local plants, the labor force increase has meant little trouble in filling job vacancies.

"Our only trouble," said Harold Isard, Walbro Corporation, "has been in finding male applicants."

General Cable's Dave Marshall feels this problem stems directly from the rural agricultural climate and a higher wage scale in Saginaw.

The shortage of men seems to be the situation at most area plants, personnel departments report.

"We've had trouble in finding men to fill positions," and "Our male labor supply is low and we're searching the area for applicants."

At the national level, a breakdown of the statistics showed adult women were hit hardest in the loss of jobs. But in the Cass City area the outlook for women is bright.

Walbro is employing 40 more women this summer and has applications on hand to fill positions being created by schedule increases and new markets. The over-all labor picture is good, says Isard.

Cable's employment picture is bright despite a layoff in assembly. It is the first time in several months, says Marshall, that a number of male laborer applications have been on hand. However, the need for material handlers and warehouse workers is still present.

Cable has openings for women as assembly workers are being called back to their jobs.

"Layoffs are not an annual summer thing," said Marshall, referring to a similar assembly shut-down last year, "... and we expect to be back at full labor force in no time."

Evans Products Company, Gagetown, reports applications and no job openings as the production schedule is low and men are working a standard 40 hour week.

"We've had a better than usual year for finding laborers," says Ken Nye, personnel department. "Many of our employees are on summer vacation from high schools and colleges and have worked at Evans before."

Their only female help is secretarial.

Rodney Krueger, Anrod Screen Cylinder, says his company is all set as far as hiring is concerned.

"We haven't hired men in quite a while and women are no trouble to find."

The only job openings listed with Oehmke at the Employment Commission are for foundry workers at Eaton's in Vassar.

Unemployment figures should level off, said Oehmke, as soon as change-over layoffs and vacation periods end.

No dump help

Quiet council Meet Tuesday

Little business was transacted as the mid-summer doldrums hit the council in its regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The meeting was highlighted by a discussion of the new sanitary landfill dump, now under construction south of Cass City.

Costs may be higher than first anticipated, discussion indicated, and the village will be paying for the entire construction.

A month ago the council agreed to try and get help with the road building from Novesta township and the Tuscola County Highway Department.

President Lambert Althaver reported that a meeting with representatives of both governmental units revealed that there would be no hope of assistance.

Meanwhile, County Highway Engineer Robert Wellington reported that he felt that a road to the site meeting county specifications would cost $4,800.

After looking at the road, the department revised the estimate down $1,000 because of the fill already placed at the site.

Althaver said that he felt that it could be done for much less than this to serve the purposes of the village.

Other areas of dump construction have been delayed. A meeting with the State Health Inspector and the village's consulting engineers has been set for Thursday when several items of construction will be decided.

CONCRETE COSTS

Concrete for the alleys north and south of Main has been boosted 20 cents a ton, from $7.85 to $8.05. The jump will bring the cost of the work to eight cents a square foot.

RAIL CROSSING

The railroad crossing on Garfield is again under study. T. G. Wright of Flint, a Grand Trunk executive, wants the village to authorize stop signs at the crossing.

His request came after a minor truck-train accident recently at the intersection.

The railroad asked for the signs as long as 10 years ago, but was refused because of traffic conditions on the road.

Now the council will again look at the cost of a blinker which was previously discarded because of cost.

NO SCHOOL WALK

The walk in front of Cass City High School will not be replaced this year. The school requested the replacement of the 325 stretch on a matching basis, but was refused when it was revealed that there was not enough money in the budget for the work.

A broken section of the walk will be removed and blacktopped as a temporary measure and the council will try to schedule the walk work next year, trustees decided.

While turning down the school, the council authorized a smaller job of 66-feet in front of Oran Hughes' home. Other matching fund sidewalk replacements include the Fred Auten property on Seeger, the walk in front of the Presbyterian manse and around the Methodist Church.

LICENSE TRANSFER

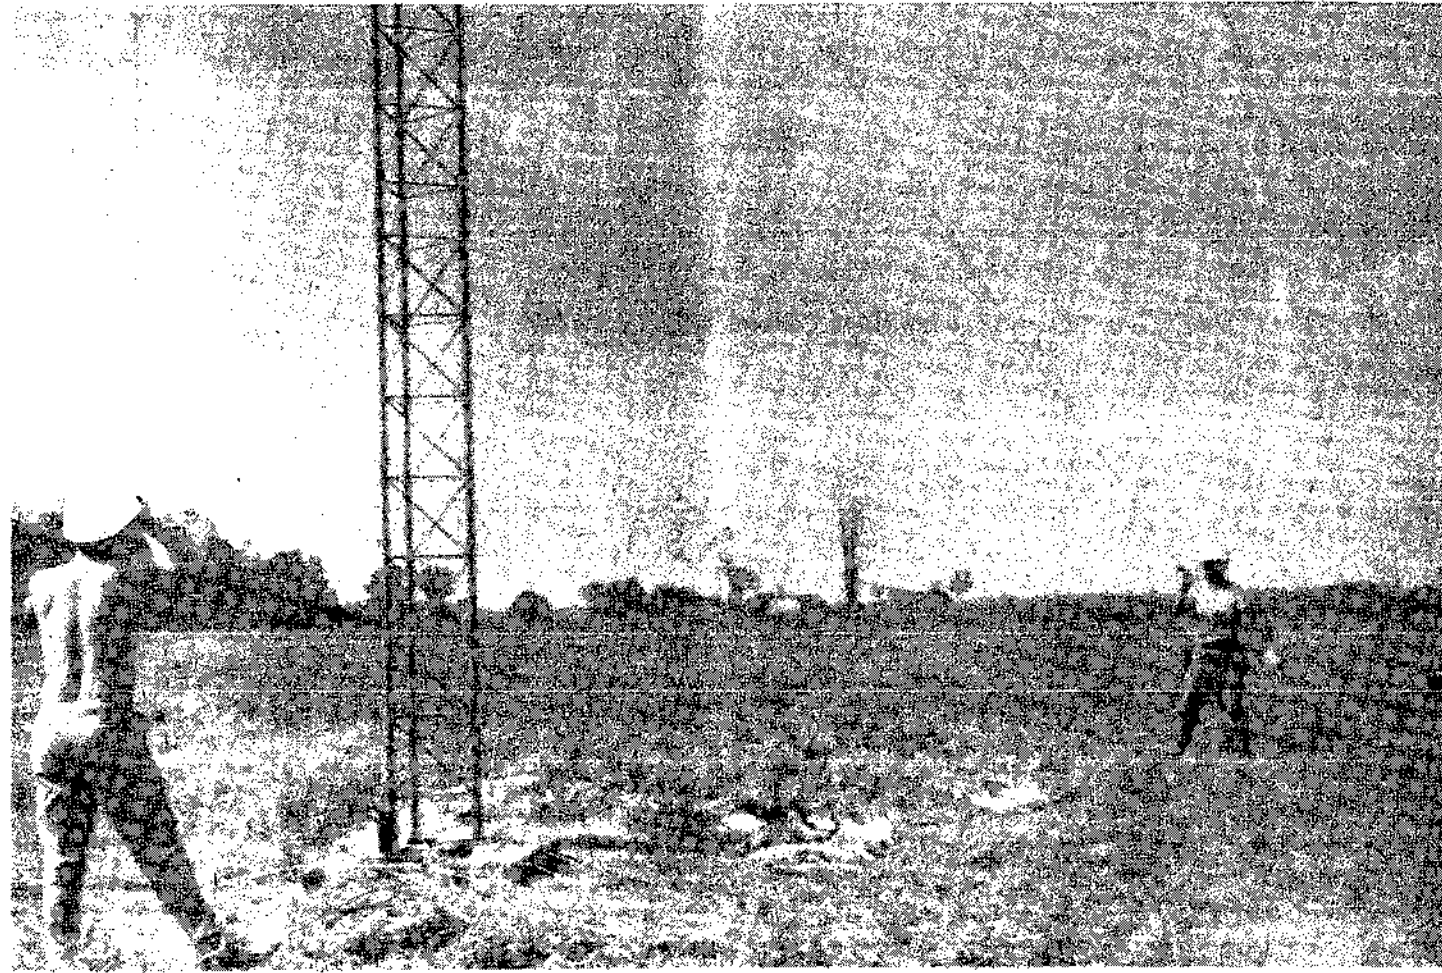

The council authorized the transfer of the liquor license from the Frank Fort estate to Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Retherford.

The approval was needed before any action is taken by the liquor control commission.

The council voted to write letters to owners of property in the village that needs control of weeds and tall grass. Work not done voluntarily will be hired and charged to the property owner, trustees noted.

TV FRANCHISE

The council wrestled with the wording of a franchise for commercial antenna television for Thumb Video Co. owned by Jim McCoy. They tentatively approved a sample ordinance and will submit it to the company.

Cars driving by stopped and the people stared at the men working atop the radio tower. At the 250-300 foot level, the men were nothing more than black specks clinging precariously to a thin shaft of metal.

And, according to Tony Megna, minute specks are what you feel like when a gust of wind catches your 18-inch triangle perch and whips it around in the air.

But the wind, lightning, accidents and the chance of "freezing" are all part of the job when it comes to aerial work.

If you could take a football field and stand it on end, you'd have the height of General Telephone's radio tower erected last week by Megna Brothers of Benton Harbor.

Pair shaken-up in local mishap

Esthell Crawford, 74, and Pearl Hartwick, 70, were shaken up in a two-car collision last week on Main Street in Cass City.

A car driven by Helen Faye Bartle of Cass City hit the rear of a vehicle driven by Mrs. Crawford. The Crawford car had stopped to wait for traffic prior to making a left turn and was hit in the rear by the Bartle auto.

The front of the Bartle car and the rear of the Crawford vehicle were damaged.

Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Hartwick were taken by private vehicle to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment, according to the police report.

Extend Term of Township Officers

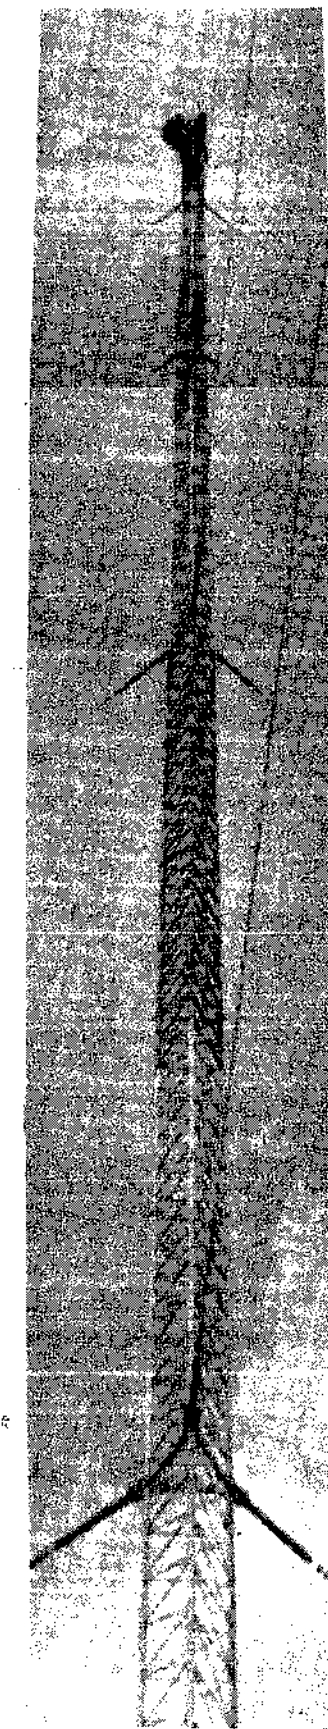

All Michigan township officials will have extended terms of office, after Gov. George Romney recently signed a law that extends terms until Nov. 29, 1970.

The change was made to bring the election sequence back into order.

The law means that township trustees will be returned to two-year terms when the order is straightened out.

There had been a drive to extend all township officers' terms to four years.

The new law excludes Justices of the Peace whose jobs must be abolished by Dec. 31, 1968.

AT 250 FEET, each gust of wind and each jar of the tower swings and sways the men precariously perched at the tower top.

Minor admits Burning barns

Two Caro youths, Bruce Leslie Wilson, 17, and Bernard Joseph Sieland, 17, were bound over to Circuit Court Monday on a charge of arson for allegedly setting a rash of fires in Tuscola county. The preliminary examination was held before Justice Frank Rolka. They have been released on $5,000 bail.

Also admitting participating in the fires were two Caro minor youths 15 and 16 years old. The two youths were petitioned to the probate court for sentencing.

Wilson and Sieland were picked up Sunday by the Caro Police Department on a charge of illegal possession of alcohol. They pleaded innocent.

The four persons implicated in the arson were arrested after one of the minor youths confessed to his father who called the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The two minors were reported to have turned themselves in to the sheriff's department.

A total of eight fires were set Friday and Saturday, four each night.

Friday the fires destroyed three barns and damaged another on an isolated farm. Damage was estimated at near $12,000.

The first fire was reported on Shabbona Road, southwest of Cass City. The Elkland Township Fire Department battled a blaze on a 30x40 foot barn which was out of control when the firemen arrived. Damage was set at $100.

Two miles away on East Deckerville Road a barn owned by Ed Kusek burned to the ground. Damage was set at $1,000.

The most costly blaze occurred at 1:05 a. m. on Colwood Road, 11 miles away. A 120x80-foot, double-tier barn owned by Thomas Smith burned to the ground. The barn was valued at $10,000.

While fighting the Smith fire the Gagetown firemen were called to fight the fourth fire on Colwood Road. The barn was owned by Alex Borodichuk and damage was held to $100.

SATURDAY FIRES

Two barn fires were reported at 11:45 Saturday. Unionville and Gagetown firemen battled a blaze on Colwood Road, 11 miles northwest of Cass City. The fire, at the George Goka farm, was extinguished with little damage.

At the same time of the Goka fire, a blaze destroyed a barn on the Harold Campbell farm, three miles northeast of Caro.

A blaze across the road in a barn owned by Louis Begman, River Rouge, was put out quickly.

Earlier in the evening at 11:15, the Caro firemen quelled a tent fire at the Caro Fairgrounds erected to house sheep exhibits for the Tuscola County Fair. About a third of the tent was burned.

No state Help for Main st.

Things are going from bad to worse on Main Street, according to information received from representatives of the Michigan State Highway Department.

A meeting with representatives and village officials revealed that the State will not consider helping with curb and gutter or drainage.

And while resurfacing of the road is still on the agenda for 1968, the department plans to do only the 48 feet used as roadway. Parking area on either side must be paid by the village if it is resurfaced, they explained.

Thieves loot Rapson's Mkt. And Hotel

Thieves broke into two stores in the area and walked off with cash register receipts in both Cass City and Gagetown.

Sunday night the New Gordon Hotel was struck for about $100. According to Mrs. Al Porritt, there wasn't any visible evidence of breaking and entering. Either the thieves had a key or they came through an unlatched window in the rear of the building, she said.

The money was hidden away from the cash box, but still was found by the vandals.

In Gagetown, Rapson Grocery was entered Thursday night. The theft was discovered by Don Schwartz who opened the store for business Friday morning. The cash register with about $200 was taken.

A glass in the front door was broken and the rear door left open by the thieves.

Neighbors ask Clean-up of Cooley property

Neighbors of Mrs. A. Cooley petitioned the council to do something about the property on 6337 Pine that they claimed was badly in need of cleaning.

Several unused buildings are on the property and some are potentially a danger to children, the petitioners believe.

One of the neighbors is reported to have offered to clean the property free if Mrs. Cooley would grant permission to do so.

The council decided to have the premises inspected by the County Health Department.

SPORTS FANS

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bule

Did you ever realize how many great players in baseball history never had the opportunity of playing in a World Series. . . For example, these Hall of Famers never got to play in a World Series: George Sisler, Luke Appling, Rube Waddell, Nap Lajoie, Ted Lyons and Willie Keeler. . . And there are some modern day stars who've never played in a World Series like Ernie Banks, Al Kaline and Jim Bunning.

One of the best reasons to encourage youngsters to participate in sports came to our attention recently. . . It's one of the finest statements we ever saw, and we wanted to pass it along to you. . . This statement was credited to Mickey Mantle, who said: . . . "A team is where a boy can prove his courage, on his own, on what he can do himself, or on what he can contribute to the team's good. A gang is where a coward goes to hide". . . The difference between a team and a gang was never explained better than that.

What are the most runs ever scored by one team in one big league baseball game? . . . The all-time record is 36, set by Chicago of the National League in a game in 1897.

Mr. John Haire
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear John,
I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for running the Youth Exhibit Building story on the front page of your Cass City Chronicle for last week.

I also note that you apparently are using a new type of print which makes it much easier to read your paper, especially for someone like myself who has to use bifocals for reading. I have noted over the past several years that the Cass City Chronicle is becoming more and more of a community-minded paper including news that is of interest to each one in the family, covering a wide area.

It is nice to see a paper such as yours develop as I see yours has and I am sure that you have increased your circulation as well as your readers' interest.

Very truly yours,

Climbing not hazardous cross-winds without suffering the "freezing" effects.

"I guess when you have it, you have it. And when it's gone, it's gone," said Deaner.

The man explained that age had nothing to do with it as Frank Megna is 42 and brother Tony is 50. "I ran into an 80-year-old the other day painting a 50-foot tower and he wasn't wearing a belt."

The trio entered the antenna business 17 years ago as a part-time project while they were on layoff. As business grew, it became a full time job. They're busy all year with radio and TV antennas and have as many as 200 calls a day when wind causes havoc with the aerial structures. In the Benton Harbor area, where the men do most of their TV antenna work, it's no little job. The smallest antennas begin at 50 feet.

During their 17 years in the business the men have had their share of "close calls." One in particular is recalled by Deaner which happened on a roof in Benton Harbor when guy wires came in contact with a 7,200 volt power line.

"We were all hanging onto the antenna, bringing it down, when the wires hit the power line."

The power company informed the men that they should be dead as six of the eight guy wires were blown off in the mishap and the roof set aflame.

WORK NOT "HAZARDOUS"

Despite all this, insurance companies don't consider this type of aerial construction "hazardous" work. They have never been refused coverage, but Deaner does admit that rates are a little higher than the usual.

During most of the construction work, two men work on top and three on the ground.

Little Leaguers Play Carsonville

Dean Hoag, league president, announced this week that there will be a Little League All-star game against the Carsonville All-stars Saturday, July 29, at 6 p. m. at Cass City Recreational Park.

Erla's win pair of Exhibition tilts

It was an exhibition double header Saturday night and Erla's responded by exhibiting the power that took them to the regional Class C finals last year by defeating a visiting Pontiac team 3-0 and 4-1 at Cass City Recreational Park.

It was the third victory of the week for undefeated Erla's who also defeated Carlings, 4-0, in the Uby League Friday.

The visiting Class A Pontiac squad was unable to solve the slants of Cass City's premium chucker Al Bosch who pitched a no-hitter in the first game and were almost as ineffective against Elwyn Helwig in the nightcap. Helwig allowed just four hits and one walk.

In the opener, Dave Wilson scored the only run Bosch needed when he walked, went to third on a single and scored while Dean Hoag was being retired on an infield play. The final runs were counted in the fifth when Hillaker singled, Helwig walked and Walt Hempton doubled. Bosch whiffed 11 while registering another no-hitter in his brilliant career.

Erla's scored all the runs they needed in the first inning of the nightcap. Hoag singled, Hempton and Alexander walked and LaRoche singled to score.

DEFEAT CARLINGS

Carlings, one of the better teams in the Uby League, bowed to the slants of Bosch, who allowed three hits while posting a 4-0 shutout.

Pacing the undefeated Cass City nine was Hempton who smacked a home run and a double and walked in four trips to the plate. A three-run second inning was more than enough for victory for Bosch.

Hootetler's Hodgepodge The big snow Helped desegregation

By Marion Hootetler

Do you remember how peaceful things were in Cass City six months ago today? January 27 was the day of the big snow, and everything came to a standstill. No school, no meetings, no customers in the stores. Here is a story Emma Ackerman told me at the time about her sister, brother, and sister-in-law, who had attended a funeral in Danville, Illinois and were on their way back to Michigan when the blizzard struck. They were about thirty miles south of Chicago on a four-lane highway when traffic finally slowed to a halt at 4 p. m. on a Thursday evening. They stayed in the car all night, and their only food was some candy and apples they happened to have along.

Friday morning they saw some lights at the side of the highway ahead of them, so they plowed through waist-high drifts to a cafe. Other stranded motorists were lined up elbow-to-elbow at the counter, but the cafe had enough food on hand to serve breakfast to everybody before the cupboard was bare.

They returned to the car, even though the snow-covered windows gave them an uncomfortably closed-in feeling. It is of course never good policy to keep the engine of a parked car running in order to operate the heater; on this particular occasion it was obviously impractical because large refrigerators were lined up in the line-up had left their engines running in order to protect their perishable shipments, and they filled the air with foul fumes.

About 3 p. m. the people in the car beside theirs said, "Come along with us to the farmhouse up the road," and they accepted the suggestion. They found about 80 people had already thought of this idea. . . the house was crowded. . . and they didn't even have any more milk for the farmer's baby. Walking on to the next farmhouse, they found only 60 people there. Every bit of available furniture was in use; even the porch furniture had been set up in the basement.

A trucker went to his truck and got some fresh vegetables. But the potatoes he had were at the very front end, where nobody could reach them without unloading the whole truckload. There was a Chinaman in the house who was smaller than anybody else, and he volunteered to try. He got to the potatoes, but couldn't bring any out.

Everyone accepted the delay without grumbling, occupying the time with cards or conversation. Emma's brother said, "That was the first time in my life I ever had a Negro partner for a game of cards, but we got along famously." The emergency made desegregation seem quite natural. White and Negro people worked together to clean the vegetables and cook and serve them. Nobody really suffered from hunger, especially after a helicopter brought in food on Friday and took out an elderly couple who were ill.

Some time Saturday traffic began to move again, and they were able to reach a motel where they spent Saturday night.

At that time Iris McEachern told me about talking with a woman from Indiana whose household was without electricity for ten days during the ice storm. To prevent themselves and their eight children from freezing to death, her husband rigged up a generator to keep the furnace operating.

More and more people are beginning to wonder what would happen if all electricity were cut off for as much as a month. It doesn't seem practical for each family to set up its own generating plant. . . even though it would be pleasant never to have to pay an electric bill again.

Looking at electric bills from another angle, it occurred to me that a person might buy enough electric company stock so that the dividends would pay his light bills. If my figuring is correct, $4,500 would do it. With that amount you could buy about 150 shares of Detroit Edison common stock. Edison is paying 35¢ per share per quarter, which would bring in $210 a year, and that should be enough to pay the bills for lighting, water heating, cooking, ironing, and running all those electric motors that are scattered around your house.

Did you ever count how many motors you have working for you? While thinking about the washer and dryer, the mixer and blender, the refrigerator and freezer, don't forget the clocks and fans, vacuum cleaner and can opener, pumps and control switches in your heating system, perhaps a garbage disposer, and the power tools in your hobby shop.

A woman's head on a man's shoulder often accomplishes much more than his does.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Witzke will hold open house Sunday, July 30, in celebration of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

The event will be held at the Witzke farm home at Gagetown from 1 to 4 o'clock. All friends and relatives are invited to the golden-year celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Witzke were married July 21, 1917, at the Evangelical Lutheran Zions Church in Cleveland, Ohio. The Rev. Shurdel officiated at the ceremony. They moved to this area in 1920.

The Witzkes have four children, Lydia Munger of Caro, Martha Wildman of Gagetown, Dale Witzke of Utica and Rudolf Witzke of Buffalo Grove, Illinois. They also have 15 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

They are members of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Bach.

Public apathy will bring Closed school board meets

A new rash of efforts to conduct public business in private seems to be developing. It is especially apparent among school boards.

The law states that school boards, and most other public bodies, must hold their meetings in public but does allow for executive sessions. It stipulates that no formal action can be taken except at a public meeting.

Numerous "advantages" are listed for holding closed meetings. These include efficiency, expediency, the need to deal with personnel problems, and property purchases. Another "advantage" not heard so often but nonetheless pertinent is that board members need not worry about looking foolish in their deliberations in the absence of an audience.

It might be more efficient and more expedient for a board to meet in private. But American government is built upon the basis that the individual has a responsibility in making logical, government decisions at the polls. He has a right to know how his elected representatives deal with public problems.

Newspapers lead the fight to keep meetings open and always win when people in the community back them. Without solid, local support officials are inclined to do as they please. It is the old story of people getting the kind of government they demand.

Some boards make too frequent use of the executive session as a means of conducting public business in private. There are records of boards which meet in private to decide what will be "decided" later in formal session. This has the effect of creating a very dull, cut-and-dried meeting.

Another way to avoid the spirit of public meetings is for the board to call a special meeting. State law does not require much in the way of public notice. So a special meeting can be called following a regular meeting or at any time board members want to act officially without being subjected to the public eye.

Irresponsible or unconcerned citizens can expect that their governmental units will move towards more secrecy and more private decisions. After all, it is easier, quicker and more efficient. But it leads to poorer and poorer government with the rights of more and more people endangered. It means government by the few for the many who don't care enough about their collective business to be concerned until it is too late.

INFORMATION PLEASE!

Vast amounts of information are available to citizens of Michigan from state agencies. Six times a year the Michigan State Library in Lansing publishes a list of "Michigan Documents," a compilation of latest Michigan governmental publications.

Some are classified "for official use" and are not available for general distribution. Most, however, can be obtained by residents writing to either the State Library or the issuing office.

Topics vary from specialized concern, such as "Potato Field Crop Report," to such general information as, "Welcome to Michigan's capital as a guest of your legislator."

Homeowners may be interested in such publications as plant pest control; suggested reading for children; recreation in various regions of the state; directories of private trade schools, business schools, institutes, nursing homes or homes for the aged; the outlook for deer season; Michigan guide to summer theatres.

Scholars might need information on Michigan's birth rate; Attorney General opinions; Michigan Medal of Honor winners in the Civil War; the motor vehicle of the future, or county statistics.

Those involved in local school problems can obtain data on special education, general school laws, higher education assistance, educational films, accounting instructions for intermediate school district.

Farm bulletins are numerous. Topics include agricultural prices on different commodities, general farm statistics, field crop reporting, livestock and cattle feed, chick hatchery, fruit trees.

Other publications include departmental year-end reports, general bulletins and directories of statistical research data.

Avoid overdrying children's cotton knit garments. It makes them stiff.

Suppose you help out in the home of a son or daughter. Then don't expect social security coverage. The law does not cover this arrangement.

If you employ a household worker who comes under the law and you are not receiving the forms for reporting earnings, here's how to get them. Ask your Social Security Office or the Internal Revenue Office for a copy of Leaflet No. 21. This leaflet explains how to get the forms and make the reports.

Social security For domestic help

By Mrs. Ann Ross Extension Agent

If your family is one of the many which hire household help regularly enough to pay the person $50 or more in a three-month period, you probably are aware of the provisions of the Social Security Act.

If the requirements of the Act in behalf of these paid helpers have been met, the law, which is not optional, requires that you pay social security tax if payments to the person who helps you are $50 or more in three months' time. This $50 can include transportation expenses if these are paid in cash.

The law is not one-sided. It also requires the person who works for you to pay her share (or his) of social security tax.

Domestic workers, including baby sitters, like other employed persons cannot become eligible for social security benefits unless both employer and employee pay the social security tax, explains Ann Ross, Thumb extension home econo-

It Seems To Me

It was a Wonderful vacation

By Rev. R. J. Searls

If our planning was right, the Searls family has just returned from a wonderful vacation in Seattle, Washington, visiting there Mrs. Searls' parents, and her brother and his family. (This column is being written May 31.) We realize we were several years late but we visited the remaining buildings from the Seattle World's Fair. (Better late than never, I always say; What do you always say?) With Les working in Detroit, and Lynn attending summer school in Mexico, it seemed a good time to go home again! (Mrs. Searls was born and raised in that great north west city, while I attended the last three years of college there.)

Marsha enjoyed being able to go for a swim from the grandparents' front lawn. Her parents saw some old college friends while there, not to mention relatives! (Please, let's NOT mention relatives!) All told, we had a ball out there; and we were able to jet there and back. I'll gladly listen to the story of your vacation as long as you'll listen to mine! Fair enough? So It Seems To Me!

If you plan to go to Expo 67, Montreal's Worlds Fair, plan to visit the unique "Sermons from Science" while there. Nondenominational, the cost of the pavilion was financed by individuals from Canada and the United States. Part of the show at the pavilion is startling, according to visitors.

With school segregation ordered out by the Supreme Court nearly a decade ago, the governors Wallace of Alabama attempted to enlist Governors McKeithen of Louisiana, Johnson of Mississippi and Maddox of Georgia, in defying a lower court action openly. The other governors explicitly condemned the Wallace defiance of the court's orders. And this (Wallace) thinks that a majority of the country's voters would vote him into the White House. It Seems To Me that the cocky little man displays all that is bad for our nation's image in other parts of the world and he shows no statesmanship in America. His party should retire him at the earliest possible time -- like yesterday.

LAUGH! On a report card for a neighborhood boy, the teacher had written: "Johnny's arithmetic is a disgrace to us both. But I try and he doesn't."

A suburban Methodist congregation in Cleveland, Ohio, is helping a Roman Catholic secular institute to establish a foundation in a negro center. The church supplied Father Albert Koklosky with funds to buy a home in the riot-torn district. Some 10 Oblate Missionaries of Mary Immaculate will make the home their base of operations for tutoring children and teaching home economics to mothers. Oblate missionaries are young Catholic women, predominantly teachers or secretarial workers, who spend their free time working with the impoverished.

LAUGH ONE MORE TIME: A golfer was up before a magistrate for beating his wife. His lawyer was pleading his case. "My client is a much maligned man, your honor. His wife is constantly nagging him. Finally driven to desperation, he beat her into silence with a golf club."

The magistrate (judge), with renewed interest, asked "In how many strokes?"

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I got some figgers here on my table that has got me shook up considerable. As a general rule, I ain't much to read what Dizzy Dean used to call "statics" when he was talking about baseball on television. But these statics here was mighty disturbing.

A feller named Stanton Evans, that was editor of the Indianapolis Star, has wrote a book about what causes crime in this country. I always figgered newspaper editors was pritty smart folks, and I ain't got no reason to think this feller Evans ain't got his figgers official.

The gist of this piece I clipped from the papers is that poverty ain't the cause of crime and that welfare creates more crime than it cures.

He says crime in the United States between the Depression and now has increased 80 per cent while the population was increasing 47 per cent. He reports we got less pore people today than any time in our history, but we got the highest crime rate we ever had. He says the town of Johnstown, Pa., had the highest unemployment rate in the nation in 1982 and had the lowest crime rate in America.

He reported the Government was spending $9.58 billion on welfare in 1939, $35 billion in 1958, and $71 billion in 1964. And the crime figgers, he said, showed crime kept climbing right along with ever increase in welfare. For instance, he reported, when they had that riot in Los Angeles in 1965, they checked and found 37 per cent of the juveniles arrested had been on welfare all their lives.

Furthermore, said this editor feller, based on population, these fancy Federal housing developments had the highest crime rate of any type of community in the world. These was the areas where the Guvernment was charging low rents and most of the folks was on some sort of welfare or Guvernment handout program.

He put the stopper in the jug by giving figgers that showed crime in this country never got in high gear from poverty but started going sky high when we went on this all-out welfare and hand-out binge that covered thousands of folks engaged in crime.

I was planning on pasting these figgers up behind the cheese box at the country store but I've changed my mind. Them fellers at the store, Mister Editor, was miserable enough ever time they took a look at the goings on in Washington. I think it would be un-Christian fer me to add to their misery with these statics compiled by that newspaper feller in Indianapolis.

And, incidental, Mister Editor, I know you got a lot of miseries yoreself about these matters in general and I apologize fer this little piece this week.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Baseball race hinges

On Horton, Lolich

By Dan Marlowe

At the halfway point in the big league baseball pennant races marked by the traditional All-Star game, perhaps it's time for a reassessment of the Detroit Tiger chances by a man who picked them in March to win the American League pennant.

It says here that two players hold the keys to eventual Tiger success or failure this year: Willie Horton and Mickey Lolich.

Superficially, the Tigers are doing well. They won 45 of their first 81 games, and were in second place in the standings. History says, though, that a total of 95 victories is usually necessary to bring home the bacon. Can the Tigers win 50 of their next 81 games? It's doubtful, for several reasons.

Earl Wilson won 10 games during the first half of the season, Denny McLain 10, and Joe Sparta 9. Projected over the season, this would indicate 320-game winners on the club. Statistics can be misleading, though. Wilson has pitched better than his record, McLain worse, and Sparta considerably worse. Although 9-1 at the All-Star break, Sparta wasn't selected for the game by those who should know best, his fellow ballplayers.

These 3 pitchers in 58 starts have completed only 17 games.

Lolich in 16 starts completed 4, in April and May. Podres and Wickersham have had 6 starts between them, completing none. This means that the team's relief pitching, supposedly its weak spot, has carried the load. Fred Gladding was invincible in April and early May, Dave Wickersham took up the slack in late May and early June, and recently Mike Marshall has been the stopper.

On balance, and despite individual disappointments, the pitching has probably been a bit better than was anticipated at the start of the season. The hitting--and the Tigers live or die by their hitting--hasn't kept pace. Various factors entered into this state of affairs. Until he was hurt, Al Kaline was having a good year even for Kaline. Bill Freehan had an excellent first half. Norm Cash, always a slow starter, isn't mired too deeply in the stats columns as he readies his annual second-half drive. Jim Northrup has hit, albeit without anticipated power and/or RBI production to date. Reliable Dick McAuliffe is low on average but has driven in a remarkable number of runs considering the number of games in which he has functioned as lead-off man. Don Wert got off to a slow start, then was injured. With the exception of Wert, the run-batted-in figures for these men project out to 80 or better for the season, hardly an indication of futility.

So why has the hitting been worse? Because of Horton, although it's not Willie's fault. Since the first day of the season, Willie has been playing on one leg. If the Tigers had been in sixth place at the All-Star break, it's a fairly safe assumption that club officials would have had Horton submit to the operation that now appears necessary. With the club still in contention, though, even a one-legged Horton is needed in the lineup. Without Willie's right-handed power as a threat, the left-handed McAuliffe, Northrup, and Cash can be pitched to much more successfully. In the final analysis, a one-legged Willie Horton drives in more runs by accident than most ballplayers do on purpose.

Mickey Lolich is another story. If Mickey's 5-10 record at the All-Star break were turned around, the Tigers would be comfortably in first place. If Mickey can do an about-face during the second half of the season, the Tigers can still end up in first place, because Freehan, McAuliffe, Northrup, Cash, Kaline (when he gets back into the lineup), and a one-legged Willie Horton are going to drive in enough runs to keep the club close.

If Lolich's first half is indicative of his full season, though, either someone invisible at the moment has to step in and take charge on the pitching rubber, or it's wait till next year.

Encourage your young child to act out his hostilities and jealousy on toys or dolls, not on other children, advise family life specialists at MSU. Also, help him talk out his feelings. In addition, give him all the time and affection he needs--and you can possibly spare.
