Plan opening landfill dump

The village is poised to open the new landfill type dump south of Cass City on Cemetery Road within a couple of weeks and Tuesday night the council made preliminary plans on how the facility should be operated.

Village trustees are exploring answers to two problems in connection with the operation. The first is the system to be used to identify village taxpayers who use the facility and the second is how much to charge persons from outside the village for use of the dump. The new facility is going to be a great deal more expensive than at first anticipated. Before the current site was purchased, the village had budgeted $3,500 for a new dump.

Already $10,969 has been spent and another $10,000 might well be needed before the facility is entirely completed. The council authorized the purchase of the land for $5,500 and building of the road cost $2,469. The cost of the construction was kept at a minimum by using village labor and fill dirt from village street work to build the base.

To engineer the site and provide the drawings and other material necessary to meet Health Department approval cost $3,000, paid to the village's engineers from Dearborn.

In addition to the work already completed, expensive work still faces the village. In the modern landfill type facility necessary for health department approval, a trench is needed to pour the refuse in and the refuse must be covered within 24 hours.

Plans call for the trench to be 900 feet long, 50 feet wide and eight feet deep. Village Engineer William Schram said that an estimated 6,000 yards of dirt will have to be moved.

The job will require a contractor with a crane. Some discussion was held on the advisability of bidding the work, but no decision reached.

To shove the dirt back into the trench a bulldozer may be needed, especially in the winter when the ground is frozen, most trustees feel. It is probable that a village tractor will be used when the dump first opens. Besides the cost that must be faced in the very near future, other expenses in future years that the village must meet will include making a permanent road to replace the temporary one that will be used and building of a fence around the entire property.

RENTAL PLAN

After the final costs have been established, the council will set a fee for the use of the facility by persons outside the village.

The cost will reflect the capital investment of the village, trustees said. Persons using the dump will be admitted free by use of a card system to be worked out before the dump opens.

OTHER BUSINESS

President Lambert Althaver reported that the complaint about the Cooley property received at the July meeting had been resolved when neighbors helped clean up the offending area.

Ed Anthes was the high bidder for the 1961 pick-up offered for sale by the village. The vehicle sold for $190.50. Five bids were received ranging from $75.

SIDEWALK OKAY

The replacement sidewalk in front of the Intermediate School was okayed after previously being turned down. The village "found" enough money in the budget after other work was completed for less than the $1,000 originally set aside for sidewalk replacement.

Red Cross seeks overseas addresses of servicemen

The Tuscola County Chapter of the American Red Cross is again seeking addresses of servicemen overseas so that they can be remembered at Christmas. Lilia C. DeBoer, executive secretary, announced this week.

Persons with relatives in the service are asked to send the address on a card to the Red Cross, box eight, Caro.

Opening school schedule

Here is the schedule for classes at Cass City High School:

School opens at 1:20 p. m. Tuesday for all grades except kindergarten and special education students.

Kindergarten will attend teacher conferences Wednesday and Thursday and school starts Friday, Sept. 8, when one hour sessions will be held Friday, Monday and Tuesday. Regular sessions start Wednesday, Sept. 13, with rural students coming in the morning and town students in the afternoon.

Used books can be sold Wednesday; new books Thursday and Friday.

The cafeteria opens Wednesday.

PER PETERSEN could be the import that will make the Cass City Red Hawks basketball team function this winter. Jim Maharg measures the lanky foreign exchange student who plays basketball in Denmark.

Cultures similar Denmark exchange youth discovers

Per Petersen, 17, Cass City's foreign exchange student for the year, is apt to make quite a splash when he enrolls as a senior at Cass City High School this year.

The Denmark youth will be watched closely by new head coach, James Wynes, as the new student is 6 foot, two inches and his favorite sport is basketball which he played in league competition in Copenhagen, a city of about one million.

Petersen is liable to make friends easily at the school. Tall, blond and handsome, he speaks English with only the vaguest trace of an accent. . . although some of the meanings of words give him a little trouble.

Per made the trip from Denmark with 180 other students from Sweden and Denmark, flying direct to Detroit where he was picked up by the Kenneth Maharg's where he will live for the first half of his stay here. The second half of his visit he will live with the Keith Murphys.

"Be sure to mention," he said, "that I was able to come here because of the Youth for Understanding program."

Things here aren't too different from his native country, Petersen said. There are many more things the same than there are different, he feels.

Per comes from a family of five. He has a brother 15 and a sister 29. His father is a "chauffeur" of a milk truck. . . which translates as a truck driver in the United States. Times have been good in Denmark, Per explains, but are now tightening up a little and jobs are a little harder to find. . . especially for those without a good education.

Compulsory military training is a must in Denmark for all physically fit young men . . . with the minimum hitch 16 months.

However, Petersen plans to stay longer to be trained for what he hopes to make his career . . . electronic engineering.

After his army service, he will go on to school for another three years, if his present plans materialize.

And while these plans and military obligations strike a familiar chord in the United States, there is one difference that struck Petersen after his arrival here.

The business district is different, he explained. Here all the businesses are on one street together. In Copenhagen you'll find business places and homes scattered throughout the town, all mixed together.

From the Editor's Corner

Keith L. Heezen, game biologist at the Caro field office of the Michigan Department of Conservation, says that his pheasant research project isn't going too well.

You'll remember that he issued a plea to area farmers to report any dead pheasants so that they could be studied to determine what caused the death.

So far he hasn't received a single call. Many bitter area hunters will say the reason there haven't been any calls is that there aren't any pheasants left to call about. . . . alive or dead.

Post office officials are hoping for better results than they had in their first try last year when they sent out kits of postal cards free so that patrons could obtain zip codes for personal mailing needs.

With a good deal of fanfare across the nation the date was set to launch the program only to have the free cards arrive two weeks late.

The department will try again in the latter part of September. A special open house will be held at the local office featuring guided tours through the facility on a day to be selected, Postmaster Grant Gasple said.

The postal department estimates that about 60 per cent of the mail now is zip coded. The more mail that uses the zip the more economical the distribution of mail will be for the department, authorities feel.

Al Seeley, leader of the 4-H Wranglers Club, reports that the canister drive for a new corral is not doing too well. The canisters have been placed around town for about

Library set to join new Saginaw district

The Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library has voted to join a district system with the Saginaw Public Library and other libraries in the three county area.

The move was taken after a meeting held recently in Caro in which 22 area librarians discussed the merger.

The district will be formed if libraries representing 50 per cent or more of the population agree to the district.

The proposed district will include Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties if approved by the boards in the respective library areas.

Mrs. Arthur Little, Cass City Librarian, says that the district plan will place many more books at the disposal of local patrons.

Books now at the Saginaw Library will be sent to the library on a loan basis and it is even possible that a loan bookmobile could be organized.

The proposed centralized system will be eligible for certain State and Federal tax funds.

Replies from all libraries are expected no later than Oct. 1.

Little hope Kenneth Spencer critical

Little hope is held for the recovery of Kenneth Spencer, 11, who was burned in the tragic fire at the Ernest Spencer home July 2.

The youth has been in the Detroit Children's Hospital since the fire and is still listed as critical.

Two more of the Spencer children are in the Detroit hospital and the news is brighter for them.

Robert Dean Spencer, 10, is expected to be discharged very soon and skin grafting has been scheduled for Daniel Spencer, 7.

Ernest Spencer Jr., 12, has been home from the Caro Hospital for about three weeks. Six children were killed in the fire.

Up $105,000

Sign $480,000 Teacher pact

Cass City teachers and board of education hammered out a wage agreement Tuesday night for the 1967-68 school year that will boost total cost of teachers' salaries $105,000 to $480,000.

The new wage scale starts at $6,000 and has increment increases to $8,300 after 10 years' experience. Last year's schedule called for a starting salary of $5,400 with a top of $6,900.

Teachers with masters' degrees will receive a starting salary of $6,300 with a top scale of $8,700. Last year a flat $300 was paid for a masters' degree by the district.

The increase will skyrocket the school's teaching costs some 28 per cent over last year. Part of the cost will be for added teachers.

The percentage increase for teachers will reach a maximum of a little over 19 per cent for teachers with 10 years' experience.

The settlement here is in line with what teachers in other area districts are receiving. Bad Axe's scale is $6,000 to $8,400. Vassar will pay $6,000 to $8,200 and Caro pays $5,900 to $8,322.

The wage settlement was reached after just three meetings, although settling of non salary items in the master contract required the most lengthy negotiations in the history of the school.

Most of the progress in negotiations was made Friday night.

Present at this meeting were a representative of the Michigan Education Association and of the State mediation board.

Tuesday night the agreement was accepted by the teachers and is expected to be formally ratified by the school board.

Township buys new fire truck

The Elkland Township Board voted Monday to buy a new fire truck for the township fire department at a cost of some $24,225.

The unit will be added to the existing fleet and tentative plans call for the new unit to be housed at the fire hall while one of the present trucks is moved to one of the municipal buildings at the park.

The department voted to purchase a Ford truck from Auten Motor Sales at a cost of $7,385. The special fire fighting equipment will be added by the John Bean Co. for an estimated $16,840.

At the present time, the township does not have enough money to pay for the new equipment, but plans call for the money to be available in time for scheduled delivery in about seven months.

According to township authorities, it takes an estimated 90 days for truck delivery and from 90 to 120 days for installation of special equipment.

The purchase price includes all necessary apparatus with the exception of fire hose, Chief Nelson Willy explained.

The new truck has about twice the capacity of the present unit, Willy said. It will pump 750 gallons a minute as compared to the present unit's 500-gallon per minute capacity.

While discussing finances, Clerk R. M. Hunter said that the township has a $10,000 bond and $5,000 in the fire department.

Blood bank slated at Hills and Dales

Hospital officials have announced that the Northeastern Blood Bank will be at Hills and Dales General Hospital Friday, Sept. 1, from 2-7 p. m.

Anyone wishing to replace blood or start new blood accounts may do so at this time.

ALTHOUGH THIS CAR owned by Paul LeValley was completely demolished, he and a passenger, in the car escaped injury in the Saturday accident.

One minor injury Four accidents in area

One minor injury was reported in four area accidents during the week although vehicles of the drivers were severely damaged.

Saturday Paul Eugene LeValley, 17, of Cass City told the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department that he slammed on the brakes of his car in an attempt to miss a dog on the road and lost control of his car.

According to investigating officers, the car skidded 41 paces and rolled over. Neither LeValley nor a passenger in the vehicle were injured.

The car was declared a total wreck. LeValley was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead.

Also rolling over when he lost control of his car Saturday evening was Daryl Franklin Randall, 18, of Deford.

Randall was traveling west on Gun Club Road and lost control as he went over a hill in Indianfields township. The car rolled over twice.

Randall was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead.

Edwin William Schulz, 44, was treated for cuts and bruises and a minor brain concussion at Hills and Dales General Hospital following an accident Thursday on Colwood Road, at the Huron county line, about six miles northeast of Unionville.

Minor property damage was reported in an accident on Main street Tuesday, Aug. 15. A vehicle driven by Bruce L. Bartle hit the rear of a car driven by Alice Elizabeth Hile.

According to the police report, the Hile vehicle with turn signals on was waiting for traffic to clear to make a left turn when hit in the rear by the Bartle car.

Bartle was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead.

SCOTT GUINTEH, a sixth grader, looks over one of the new rooms that will be used to house the fifth and sixth grades temporarily this fall. The classrooms were to have been ready for opening of school Tuesday but may be delayed a week while construction is completed, officials say.

Study ways to cut loss at harvest

Every extra bushel of crop saved at harvest time is "money in the bank", advises Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent in Tuscola county.

Farmers should spend spare time between now and corn or bean harvest checking over equipment and making proper adjustments to get the best possible harvesting job accomplished, the agent advises.

Tests by Michigan State University scientists have shown that harvest losses can run as high as 15 per cent. Other studies show that farmers can make as much as $15 an hour for time spent at improving harvesting efficiency.

Key steps for improving harvesting efficiency:

1. Know where the losses commonly occur and why.
 2. Know how to measure these losses quickly.
 3. Know the minimum loss expected at peak efficiency.
 4. Know and use machine adjustments and operating practices that will keep losses to a minimum.
- Operating manuals that were issued with harvesters give this information. Time spent studying the manuals before harvest begins can save farmers money, the agent concluded.

Do you know why the "bullpen" in a baseball park is called a bullpen? ... In the old days, the Bull Durham Tobacco Co., put their advertising signs on the fences in many, many ball parks around the country and a lot of their signs were located in the area of the park where relief pitchers warmed up. ... That area began to be called the "bullpen", and it's been that ever since.

Has an umpire ever been chosen to be in baseball's Hall of Fame? ... There have been two. ... One is Bill Klem who umpired in the National League for many years and the other is Tom Connolly who was an umpire for many years in the American League.

Here's an oddity. ... There is only one player in major league baseball today who has hit over .300 in the big leagues every year since 1960. ... Can you guess who he is? ... Answer is Roberto Clemente of the Pirates.

AROUND THE FARM

Should be counting our blessings

By Don Kebler

It does one good to see what the other person has in order to appreciate our blessings. This is just what yours truly and family did for two weeks in traveling the circle route around Lake Superior.

There is not much agriculture around the Canadian Soo, and when one goes north to Waiva and west to Duluth he sees very little except conifers, rock and a few hardwoods. We drove over a hundred miles of back roads each day, and I can only remember a dozen or so farms that even resemble any of our less than average operations. These were dairy farms. The only crops I saw were oats mostly and some barley - both of which were poor and immature. We had to wait until reaching Michigan before any recognizable fields of alfalfa could be observed. Grass was the forage and hay crops I observed on my Canadian travels.

I always heard that Wisconsin is a big dairy state. The northeastern tip of Wisconsin certainly did not show this, and I only saw one Registered Holstein sign while in that area.

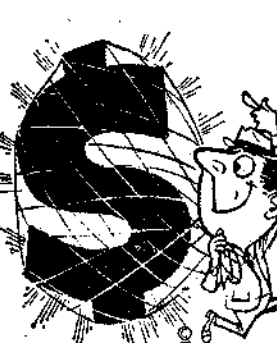

As I made my observations on the agricultural sights these thoughts came to mind. "Here we are not much more than three hundred miles north from an area which can produce more agricultural products than the entire area I traveled". "This part of Canada is entirely dependent on the importation of most of its food and fiber".

"We have an oasis here which those people would give their right hand to own, and which we take for granted". I sure was glad to be returning. "Speaking of our oasis you farmers and your predecessors developed it and the investment has been large. We have a TELFARM cooperator with nearly 600 thousand dollars investment value in the operation with the average cooperator investment value of 177 thousand dollars. Average bare land investment value is almost a thousand dollars per farm with the highest being 534 thousand dollars.

You will be hearing more references being made regarding plant tissue testing for determining plant food needs. Plant tissue testing is not new and this method certainly has a diagnostic use in helping to determine a growing plant's nutrient needs.

I made tissue tests using nitrogen wonder powder and the soil testing reagents in the past as a diagnostic tool to determine nutrient deficiencies in crops. I never made one fertilizer recommendation on the basis of a plant tissue test. The reason for this is because the amount of tissue nutrients does not necessarily indicate the soil nutrient level where that plant is growing.

ELEANOR PETERS, KINGSTON, has been hand decorating chinaware since 1957 and now boasts a collection which includes services for eight and ribbons from a West Anaheim, Calif., art show. Although she has standing offers for many of her works she feels to commercialize her hobby would take the pleasure from it.

Says talented Kingstonite

China work combines art with technical skill

Take time and interest; blend in a generous amount of talent and then apply it to decorating chinaware and you may come up with a priceless and beautiful collection similar to the one belonging to Eleanor Peters of Kingston.

Every piece in Eleanor's collection, which ranges from decorative pitchers to complete services for eight, has been marveled over and spoken for. She has sold some, but "doesn't make a practice of it," and has standing offers for others.

Stemming from a desire to "make, not buy," Mrs. Peters began decorating chinaware in 1957 and took advantage of beginner's luck and talent. Her first pieces hardly resemble the work of an amateur.

Mrs. Peters insists on giving a great deal of credit to her teacher and "inspiration," Mrs. Harold Galloway of Caro. With a degree in art, Mrs. Galloway has been holding art classes in her home for several years where many area women have learned and refined skills.

Although still enrolled in the decorating classes ("There's always more to learn, both in class and from others," Eleanor's no newcomer to the field of art. She has had course work from Eastern Michigan University in commercial art, works with water colors and held an art class of her own at the local high school during her spare time. She has also had offers for her paintings.

Tools and materials used in hand decorating chinaware include various sized brushes, oil paints, liquid gold and platinum, razor blades for carving designs, plain chinaware, a kiln, time and patience.

"Outside of the idea, decorating and painting," said Mrs. Peters, "the work which involves firing and timing is rather technical."

In doing a plate, for example, the first thing is the designing . . . the easiest part of the operation, according to Mrs. Peters. "I have files of ideas for highlighting," and she keeps an assortment of greeting cards on hand for extra patterns. But it's very seldom that she runs out of ideas of her own, most of which come from the seasons, the yard and nature. "Ideas are all around you. The trick is learning to look at things."

Following the basic task of designing, light brushwork lays in the color to be used. If gold is desired, it is also added at this time.

"An interesting thing about the gold," remarked Eleanor, "is that it's fired on the china while the paint is fired in. This explains lasting patterns while gold or platinum edging may chip off."

After the first firing in the kiln, details, colors and shading for effect are added. "The paint you leave off is considered more effective."

Before a third firing, background is added and more design work is done.

Three to five firings may be needed to obtain the effect desired. After heating the kiln to a temperature of 1325 to 1355 degrees Fahrenheit, pieces are left to cool anywhere from six hours to a day.

The collection of gold covered sugar and creamers, flowered platters and the like fill a cabinet and bookcase while smaller pieces grace tables and shelves and prize flatware hangs on the wall.

Although she does have a prize plate and a ribbon from a West Anaheim, Calif., art festival, it's her first piece that's most valued. "That's the one that can never be replaced."

What about the cost of her hobby? Mrs. Peters has never really stopped to think about it but does say that, "... it's not expensive when compared to the finished product."

Because her work is so highly valued as gifts and because it's "something personal," Eleanor feels that to sell it would take the pleasure out of her work. "And that's why I do this type of art work... for pleasure," she concluded.

Coho Growing Big for Fall Runs

Here's what is in store for Michigan sport fishermen this fall when those much-talked-about coho salmon start running up streams where they have been planted during the last two years. The coho being shown to Conservation Director Ralph A. MacMullan (right) by Fish Chief Wayne H. Tody measures about 27 inches and weighs a whopping 9 pounds, 12 ounces. It weighed only about an ounce and was 5-6 inches long when planted by the Department a year ago last spring. Tody says the coho represents "50-100 pounds of alive," explaining that it is that much of the nuisance fish to attain its spectacular growth. The big salmon was landed in gill nets from a Department survey boat operating for sample catches about 3-4 miles northwest of Manistee in Lake Michigan. In two lifts of gill nets made recently by Department fisheries men in that area, sample catches also included an 8 pound, 1 ounce coho and a 4 pound, 4 ounce coho released in the spring of 1966. Also netted in 60-70 feet of water were 57 coho that were planted last spring. They averaged 10-14 inches and weighed about three-quarters of a pound. Other catches in those two lifts included 15 chinook salmon planted, last spring which averaged 8 1/2 inches and 4-5 ounces, and 21 brown trout, the largest of which weighed 11 1/2 pounds. Rounding out the sample take were 26 lake trout averaging 10-15 inches and a 5 pound, 3 ounce steelhead. -Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Class of '62 holds first reunion Saturday

Class of '62 graduates of Cass City High School held their first reunion Saturday evening, Aug. 26, at the country club in Gagetown.

Mrs. Robert Fischer of Cass City, the former Karen Nemeth, was general chairman for the event.

Out-of-state guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Achenback of Chicago. She is the former Connie Long.

The class plans another reunion in five years. There were 77 members in the class.

Arrogance is a smoke screen - it's just a cover-up for lack of poise and stability.

Come prepared-be on hand, fully equipped, when your golden opportunity arrives.

APARTMENT FOR RENT soon—2-bedroom upper, adults only. 4408 West St., Cass City. Phone 872-2354.

ment fund. In addition, $5,000 will be set aside from next year's revenues and the remaining money will be taken from the general fund to complete payment on delivery.

Hunter said that he made the motion to purchase the unit at this time because of the threat of rapidly spiraling prices.

Since we talked about this unit a year or so ago, prices have risen over $1,000, Hunter explained, and I voted to buy now to avoid another increase while we were discussing the purchase further.

Parsch cottage ransacked at McGraw Park

Vandals ransacked the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Parsch of Cass City, near McGraw Park.

In the Parsch cottage a television set was wrecked by throwing it down basement stairs.

Articles from drawers were strewn around the rooms, but apparently nothing was taken.

Two other area cottages were also entered.

Deputy Sheriff Richard Stokan said the intruders held parties in the cottages.

A. Rex Sieling, 36, has been named county agricultural agent for the Cooperative Extension Service in Sanilac county. He will take over his new duties Friday.

A. REX SIETING

His appointment is announced by Director G. S. McIntyre after consultation with the Sanilac County Board of Supervisors. He succeeds Keith Sowerby who is going to a new post in Isabella and Montcalm counties. The appointment is subject to confirmation by the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

The new Extension Service agent is a native of Rapid City in Kalkaska county and a 1953 graduate of MSU. He joined the Extension Service in 1958 as an assistant agricultural agent in Eaton county. From 1959-66, he was county agricultural agent in Presque Isle. For the past two years the new Sanilac agent has been on a leave of absence for advanced graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Sowerby will become the first dairy agent in the state in a new program geared to type-of-farming areas. He first came to Sanilac in 1948 as a 4-H Club agent. He served as assistant agricultural agent from 1953-57 when agent Al Orr left for a foreign assignment in South America. Sowerby has been county agricultural agent since 1958.

2-year probation sentence in court

Judge James Churchill issued a two-year probation sentence to Grant Woodward Tuesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro. Woodward had pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent liberties.

In addition he was ordered to pay a fine of $150 and costs of $150, all payable at $50 per month.

Bernard Walker of Vassar was arraigned on a charge of second offense driving with a revoked license. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered for him.

Harley Holmes, 77, dies in Marshall

Harley W. Holmes, 77, of Marshall, a superintendent at Cass City Schools from 1921 to 1929, died Friday at a Battle Creek hospital.

Mr. Holmes had been retired since 1957 after 28 years as a superintendent at Marshall and 46 years in education.

He had been president of the Michigan Education Association, president of the County Superintendents' Association, of the Southwestern Michigan Superintendents' Association and vice-president of the Michigan Association of School Administrators.

He was a director of the MEA and a member of its professional problems commission.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Marshall Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Slate farm

outlook meet

A livestock and bean outlook marketing meeting has been scheduled at the livestock auction market in Caro Wednesday, Sept. 6, Alfred Ballweg, county agent, announced this week.

The meeting will feature talks by John Ferris and Dave Cole, extension specialists in agricultural economics, and Quent Ostrander, district marketing agent, Bay City.

The meeting starts at 8:30 p. m. and the latest and most complete information on the farm price outlook and the reasons behind the forecast will be presented.

Ideas of what can and cannot be done to improve marketing positions will be presented.

The meeting will be open for the views of producers to be presented.

Agricultural bargaining will be discussed.

The meeting is being called at this time to be ahead of the bean harvest and to give cattle feeders more time to study the outlook before buying feeder cattle, Ballweg said.

Honor ladies for long 4-H service

Several area ladies were among some 200 leaders to receive special recognition for service to 4-H at a special dinner and awards presentation Wednesday, Aug. 23.

MRS. FLOYD WERDEMAN

Receiving "diamond" awards for 20 years of service were Mrs. Arlington Gray and Mrs. Floyd Werdeeman.

Receiving the pearl pin, symbolic of 15 years of service, was Mrs. Clair Auslander.

Former resident dies in Detroit

Edward Bauer, 49, died Monday, Aug. 21, while at work in Detroit.

He came to Cass City with his parents as a child and lived near here on a farm. He was born May 14, 1918, in Akron, Ohio, Nov. 29, 1937.

he married Ada Phetteplace in Argyle. They lived on a farm near Shabbona until 1940, when they moved to Detroit.

He was a member of Detroit Lodge No. 474, F & AM.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. John Mincy of Detroit; two sons, James Bauer of Berkley and Ronald Bauer of Hamtramck; four grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. John Keller of Cass City and Mrs. Warren Childers of Detroit; and two brothers, Valentine Bauer of Detroit and Adam Bauer of Muskegon.

Services were held Friday at 2 p. m. in the Marsh Funeral Chapel, Marlette, conducted by Rev. William Burgess.

Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Today's train of thought could use better engineers.

Pvt. P. E. Smith trains at Ft. Gordon

Army Private Phillip E. Smith, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Smith, 5818 Snover Road, Decker, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Aug. 25 at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises. During guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-14 rifle, M-60 machine gun and 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Klein's hold open house at Cass City fertilizer plant

Heralding the opening of its new fertilizer plant at Cass City, Klein Fertilizers sponsored an openhouse celebration at Cass City Friday. Farmers from throughout the Michigan Thumb area attended the festive occasion which included plant tours, prizes, beef barbecue and educational meetings. Klein Fertilizers operates fertilizer plants in a number of Michigan cities including Fowler, Marne, Perrinton, Shepherd and Cass City, which is the newest addition to the expanding firm. The new plant comprises 8,000 square feet of floor area and has a capacity for storage of 2,000 tons of fertilizer. The latest in fertilizer mixing equipment was built into the new fertilizer facility.

The plant is equipped with a wide variety of fertilizer spreading equipment for both dry and liquid fertilizers and chemicals.

Because of the rapid growth in bulk spreading of fertilizers, the plant has built in the latest in bulk loading facilities. The new plant is located at 4155 Vulcan St. in Cass City on the Grand Trunk Railroad. It has a siding space for 10 rail cars and the plant is rated at 30-tons-per-hour capacity.

The firm handles all kinds of mixed fertilizers, straight fertilizer materials, agricultural limestone, all forms of nitrogen, farm chemicals and other agricultural products.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

From the things I have saw in the papers this week, matters was barely holding their own around the country. First off, things that was falling in Washington was arches, trade, rain and hot air, while in the rest of the country things that was rising was taxes, prices and prayer fer deliverance.

Fer instant, I got this item on my table from a official of the U. S. Treasury Department. He says, "The financial problems of the elderly come down essentially to a lack of income."

That feller, Mister Editor, must be a deep thinker and I wouldn't be surprised none if he ain't in the top salary bracket. It makes me recollect the time a expert in the U. S. Department of Agriculture told Southern farmers the way to kill off the boll weevil was to stop growing cotton fer a couple year. I reckon both of them was kin to the feller that burnt down his barn to get rid of the rats.

And speaking of the Treasury Department, you will recollect here about a year ago they announced they wasn't minting no more silver dollars on account of the cost of silver had gone in orbit. Well, I see where they was not making any more $2 bills. Silver was one thing, but the price of paper was holding steady and the only way I can figger it out is that the $5 bill has now got the buying power of a $2 bill and they was avoiding duplication. I aim to write to my Congressman about the penny. It ain't good fer nothing no more except the parking meter and sales tax. They could turn out a wood slug fer them purposes a heap cheaper.

But this feller Nasser has put the stopper in the money jug with a official announcement Egypt wasn't paying no more on her debts to any country that cut off loans to Egypt. I think Pili tell my banker I'm following international per-cedure and ain't paying no more on my note unless he'll renew it.

Incidental, while we was on the money subject, I see where a agency named Tax Foundation Inc. has made its annual perdition fer 1967. They say the average U. S. family will pay $3,300 in 1967 in federal, state and local taxes. I ain't got up the $300 yet so, on second thought, I better not talk to my banker about this new international banking per-cedure.

Well, I got my handout from the Agriculture folks this morning. They was a item in it saying, on account of the new farm wage law, we now got a half million farm laborers out of work. The small farm owner can't pay the legal wage scale and was quitting. I reckon both the workers and owners will git hooked up with the poverty and welfare programs and make it better'n ever.

There went the rest of your $3,300, Mister Editor.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim

A close shave with my shaver

By Marion Hostetter

My faithful readers (all three of them!) may remember that I had a hard time finding any power for my electric shaver while we were camping last summer. In an effort to eliminate that problem I gave Don a shaver for Christmas that will operate either on 110 volt house current or on a 12 volt car battery.

During the week in which we were trying to see as much of Expo as possible, I saved time by letting Don drive to the Expo parking lot while I shaved in the car. One morning, when a stop light changed right in front of us, I had a close shave.

Inside the case of the shaver is a picture of a very old-fashioned car, to symbolize the fact that it is now possible to shave on the road as well as at home.

Thinking to myself that there wasn't any 12 volt battery in such an antique, I wondered why the shaver maker hadn't used a picture of a more modern car. Then it occurred to me that if the shaver lasts as long as I hope it will, the latest in cars at the time of its manufacture might be somewhat outdated by the time it has whisked its last whisker.

This served to allay my concern about the modern use of such old-time Christian symbols as the shepherd, the grapevine, and the lily of the field. I've sometimes wondered whether it is a sign of the decadence of religion that churches don't use contemporary objects to symbolize eternal truths, instead of continuing to display ancient symbols (such as Alpha and Omega) which need to be "explained" to a modern man before there can be any hope that he will understand them.

While it remains true that Eskimos or modern city dwellers -- or even most Cass City children -- will need some explanation about the shepherd and the sheep before they can properly appreciate such a priceless passage as the Twenty-third Psalm, the image is one which can carry the message of responsible concern to people in all parts of the world in all ages.

In recent decades a German theologian by the name of Bultmann has caused considerable stir by calling for Entmythologizing -- the demythologizing of Christian ways of saying things. It is his opinion that the true message of Christianity will not get across to modern man unless the basic truths which were presented to first-century man in first-century images can be freshly expressed in twentieth century images for the benefit of twentieth century man.

It seems to me that the truth of Christianity will retain its vitality even if men find it advisable to change the words through which it is expressed. But there is also great value in retaining the fondly remembered words and the ancient thought-forms which have served down through the centuries both to make clear the reasonableness of the Christian faith and to veil its ineluctable mystery.

Seen on a young man's dirty sweat shirt: "Fight poverty. Give me a ten dollar bill." Bumper sticker: "I am combating poverty. I work."

Sing on a fruit and vegetable stand: "Vitamins in the Raw." On a used clothing store: "Act II Shop."

One of the buildings at Expo we didn't have time to see was "Man in the Community." The official guidebook that Patty Hoadley lent us before we left quoted a French countess who wondered in this connection, "Why in hell couldn't they have built the city in the country?"

I guess Cass City comes as close to being an answer to her desire as one is likely to find this side of the Elysian fields.

There would be fewer auto accidents if more motorists believed in traffic signs.

Are you getting the whole story on dryer costs?

Maybe you've heard an electric dryer costs more, per load, to operate than a gas dryer.

But, compare original dryer cost. Model for model, you pay $20 to $40 less for an electric dryer.

And you get Free Installation on newly purchased electric dryers, except venting, on Edison lines up to and including four-family flats.

And No Charge Repair Service. No charge on electric parts or labor. You can't get free protection on a gas dryer; if you have to replace the motor on one, it can wipe out whatever small per-load savings you may have accumulated.

So when you hear about the pennies per load you might save with a gas dryer, think about the dollars you save over the life of an electric dryer.

Michigan failing to promote lucrative overseas market

Michigan is losing $100 million annually by not cultivating overseas markets for its products, estimates Sen. Gilbert E. Bursley (R-Ann Arbor), chairman of the International Commerce Committee, Michigan State Senate.

This potential increase over the state's current export total of $1.5 billion would create up to 5,000 new jobs each year. While other states, notably

New York and California, have used imaginative and aggressive promotion to increase world markets for their products, Michigan has done little by comparison.

Twenty-eight states will have sponsored by the end of 1967 "hard-sell" trade missions abroad. Fourteen states have found such missions so profitable that they will have sponsored two such missions by the end of this year. Several states have already sponsored three or four. Michigan has sponsored none this year.

New York runs a consistent advertising program in foreign newspapers which promotes state products and guarantees that by clipping the enclosed coupon foreign importers will be contacted by New York firms within ten days.

The state makes good its promise, says Sen. Bursley. All inquiries are handled by computer systems. The first year this system was installed it handled some 50,000 product inquiries.

Michigan representation is poor at foreign trade shows and fairs. In 1966 sales for companies from other states, represented at 43 shows, totaled $84.4 million; an increase of $20 million over the year previous.

An overseas markets broadened, Michigan's manufacturers and producers should be reaping the rewards. But they are not.

Although Michigan now has the nation's "fourth seacoast," the St. Lawrence Seaway, it is still outdistanced by close-to-home competitors, such as Ohio.

In 1966 some 100 Michigan firms participated in trade fairs or trade-center shows. The number should have been at least five times as large, Sen. Bursley notes.

Quality products of Michigan are well-known and would be welcome in foreign markets, according to the Senator.

Yet, in these fast-rising markets, the state's proportionate share of sales seems to be declining. In 1954 Michigan was the second largest supplier of imports. By 1963, while other states such as New York had doubled their sales abroad, Michigan's increase was so slight as to drop the state to eighth place.

Some measures have been taken to increase foreign markets. A foreign trade zone has been approved at Bay City and an Institute for International Commerce has been established at the University of Michigan. The World Trade Program of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is increasing export promotion. Export conferences, sponsored by the World Trade Program, the International Commerce Committee, the Detroit World Trade Club, and some of the state's major bands and universities have resulted in some awakening of foreign market potential.

More needs to be done, Sen. Bursley recommends a five-point program. First, an International Commerce Division should be created. The international activities of the Department of Agriculture and the State Tourist Council should be expanded.

A World Trade Advisory Council should be created to advise the Governor, Legislature and affected state agencies on international trade activities of the state and help coordinate international trade programs.

A minimum of four industry-organized trade missions should be sponsored within the next fiscal year. At least two all-Michigan-products shows, one in the Far East and one in Europe, should be staged at U. S. Trade Centers within the next fiscal year.

Michigan overseas offices, operating under Commerce Department direction, should be established for both Europe and the Far East.

Although costly, the benefits of an expanded program would be justified by creating new jobs, new profits, and a rise in living standards.

Vast, untapped sources of sales abroad will also lessen Michigan's economic dependency on the nation's fluctuating demand for automobiles. Michigan has the talent, the products, the industry and the seacoast. All it needs is the promotion.

Funeral held for David Wotton, 38

Funeral services for David E. Wotton, 38, son of Basil E. Wotton of Cass City and a resident of Lake Orion for the past 15 years, were held Wednesday, Aug. 23, at the Flumerfelt Funeral Home at Oxford. Rev. Thomas Dunn of the Lake Orion Methodist church officiated. Burial was in the Eastlawn cemetery at Lake Orion under the auspices of Lake Orion's American Legion Post.

Mr. Wotton died suddenly Aug. 19 at Lake Orion. He was born in Detroit Feb. 8, 1929.

He is survived by: one son, Albert Gene of Flint; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Wotton; two brothers, Douglas and Albert Wotton of Lake Orion; four sisters, Mrs. Hazel Goodman of Clawson, Mrs. Carletta Green and Mrs. Joyce Jones of Flint and Mrs. Nellie Beaulieu of Troy; and three step-brothers, Leo Tracy of Cass City, Arthur Tracy of Mt. Vernon, Missouri, and Cullen Tracy of Port Tampa, Fla.

GUYS 'N' GALS 4-H CLUB

About 50 members, parents and friends enjoyed a picnic, ball game and swimming at the Cass City Park Sunday, Aug. 27. Several changes will be made in this winter's 4-H Club meetings.

The final meetings of the club for 1967 will be held Sept. 6 and 7. Reports will be filled out. Members whose last names begin with A to L will meet Sept. 6 at 7:30 and those from M to Z will meet Sept. 7 at 7:30. Members are asked to bring their previous year's reports.

Winter projects will start in October for 1968. Woodworking and sewing meetings will be held at the Evergreen School the first and third Tuesday of the month. Leather and knitting projects will be held the second and fourth week of the month, at the leaders' homes. The leaders will set the dates.

Those wishing to enroll in 4-H for 1968 should call 872-3619. No dues will be collected for 1968, but a 50¢ enrollment fee will be collected. Requirements for enrolling in 4-H for 1968 are that the youngster must be 10 sometime between Sept. 1, 1967, and August 31, 1968. All meetings will be held at night due to the fact that the seventh and eighth grades will not be at Evergreen this year.

Mrs. Paul Auslander was brought to her farm home Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hem of Flint, who are spending a few days at their cottage on Cass River. Mrs. Auslander spent several days in a Flint osteopathic hospital for a check-up.

Book Review

"The Gypsies" recall memories

By Rev. R. J. Searls

I can recall from my childhood bands of Gypsies who visited the small midwest communities during the summer months. I can recall their dark skins, unusual in the midwest at that time. I remember them as wearing nondescript clothing which served to offset their gay colors on such things as neckerchiefs. Following their wagons there always seemed to be a howling pack of dogs.

I seem to remember being warned not to be outside, alone, for these gypsies were said to be accomplished kidnapers, as well as horse thieves, laundry snatchers, among other things. Once or twice a wagon train of these people would spend a night or two just outside of town and the farmer on whose land they stopped could usually report that his chicken population was suddenly lowered.

It was with memories like these that I began to read "The Gypsies" by Jan Yoors. Yoors, at the tender age of twelve, ran away from home to join a Gypsy band. He was accepted by these gypsies, and lived as one of them. After six months, during which he had no contact of any kind with his parents, he returned home in the fall of the year. He arrived just at dinnertime, on an evening when they were having guests.

Because he was wearing rags, he was sent to bed early. He spent the time in tensely waiting and in wondering just what punishment awaited him. He heard the guests leave, and still no parents! Finally, he could wait no longer -- and found them already asleep! With an intellectualism difficult to understand, the following morning his father said that while they had been sad without him they nevertheless felt that at his age (12) he knew his mind. It is surprising (at least to me) that in the few pages on his home life, it was apparently a happy one.

He spoke French to his mother, Spanish to his father, German to the exchange students who helped about the house, and since they lived in the northern part of Belgium, spoke Flemish. One day at lunchtime, his father casually mentioned that a band of Gypsies were camped near-by. If the boy felt that he wanted to go with the Gypsies, his father would give him permission on one condition: that if the boy was ever in trouble, he should remember his parents and come to them for help under any circumstances.

I had to ask myself what kind of parents were these, with such a sense of freedom for a twelve year old boy? At first it seemed good; but more reflection suggested that quite probably they didn't have nor want the responsibilities of parenthood.

"He (Yoors) tells of their exultant celebrations, of their ancient customs and traditions -- the Kris, when the elders sit in judgment on a member of the tribe, the ritual curse, with its frightening power -- of all the traditions that surround this fierce nomadic people which has taken our settled Western world as its hunting ground."

"He writes about the more practical side of Gypsy life -- the daring frontier crossings, the complex network of communications that binds one traveling kumpaaxia to another across hundreds of miles, the yearly horse fairs, the involved business deals in which the Gypsy shrewdness is combined with all the apparatus of modern technology -- the long distance telephone, telegrams, post-office boxes."

The above descriptions of his life among the Gypsies are from the dust jackets of the book, because there are too many ways, too many experiences included in this book to ever report them all. I was quite pleased to learn the Gypsy beliefs in death and the funeral rituals. This is a factual account of Gypsy life as Yoors found it. It is a good book about a misunderstood group of people, whose days now seem few.

"The Gypsies" by Jan Yoors, Simon and Schuster, N. Y., 1967, available at the Elkland Township and Cass City Library.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Edwards

Ralph H. Edwards, son of Mrs. Harold Bowron of Bad Axe, claimed Miss Linda Ann Freiburger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freiburger of Cass City, for his bride Saturday, Aug. 19. The Rev. Arnold Messing officiated in St. Pancratius Church. Brother Joseph, Franciscan order, played and sang the nuptial mass.

The bride was attired in a white Venetian lace A-line gown with bell sleeves and Watteau cathedral train. The full length silk illusion veil was secured by natural foliage and stephanotis. She carried a cascade of Eucharis lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Arlene Kilbourn of Saginaw was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carla Langstaff of Bay City and Miss Janet Rader of Bad Axe.

They chose lemon color floor-length sheaths of silk lining. The Empire styled gowns featured a panel back. All wore headpieces of ivy and daisy chrysanthemums and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow daisy chrysanthemums with velvet streamers. Flower girl Tina Sullivan, Mt. Pleasant, was attired in similar fashion.

Clark Edwards was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Bernard Freiburger, brother of the bride, and Mike Laughrey of Roscommon.

The bride's mother wore a pale pink linen dress with salmon pink sweetheart roses. The groom's mother wore a blue crepe dress with white sweetheart roses.

A buffet reception followed the ceremony at the Sherwood Forest Country Club, Gagetown, for 150 guests. The newlyweds left on a Canadian honeymoon. They will reside in Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowron hosted a rehearsal dinner the Friday night preceding the wedding at Franklin Inn, Bad Axe, in honor of their son Ralph and his bride-to-be. The bride-elect was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at Central Michigan University. A linen shower was given by Mrs. Syl Abraham at her home in Pigeon and a miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Arlene Kilbourn.

Farm Bureau members attend Lansing conference

Area farmers, representing the Tuscola County Farm Bureau, heard Roger Fleming, secretary-treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation, at the second annual Policy Development conference in Lansing Aug. 24.

"Are you willing to keep dishing out tax money", Fleming asked the group, in his Washington report on farm issues and political implications. "With non-defense spending higher than our defense expense, farmers are of the opinion that the more they get, the more they spend", he commented.

Taking part in the program, which was attended by 150 Farm Bureau leaders from all parts of the state, were Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Alfred Goodall of Cass City and Mike Satchell of Caro. Others who attended from here were Mrs. Goodall and County Farm Bureau President John R. Graham of Caro.

Goodall is currently subcommittee chairman on Taxation and Education of the Michigan Farm Bureau Policy Development Committee and Satchell is representing Young Farmers.

Another feature of the program was the appearance of Clarence Lock, advisor to the Governor's office as commissioner of the Michigan Department of Revenue. He explained the new tax package and its effect on Michigan's revenue picture.

Movie makers ruin author's story

By Dan Marlowe

I keep telling myself that I should start going to the movies again.

I'm old enough to have seen the silent version of Ben Hur with Ramon Novarro and Francis X. Bushman—old enough, in fact, to have seen Douglas Fairbanks Sr. in The Thief of Bagdad—but in the past 25 years I know I haven't seen 5 movies.

I exclude newsreels from this sweeping statement. In whatever city I find myself, I'm constitutionally unable to pass a newsreel theatre without dropping in and partaking vicariously of the happenings in the world.

The last Hollywood-style movie I saw was South Pacific, which must be close to 10 years ago. It came about only because a plane flight was grounded, I had a few hours to kill, and I somehow missed the turn toward the airport cocktail lounge. As for South Pacific, if forced to produce a one-line critique I would have to say that the color was great but the story line was blah.

The last movie I made an effort to see was Jules Dashin's remarkable Riff, which I still see listed occasionally among the all-time greats in the movie-suspense genre. In this movie there was a ten minute scene played without a word of dialogue in which the only sounds were those attendant upon a group of men deactivating the burglar alarm on a jewelry vault, and for sheer throat-drying, seat-clutching melodrama, that scene must be near the top of the tree.

I should probably say here that I am not a movie dropout because of television. I not only don't watch television; I don't even own a set. No, my defection came much earlier, in the 1930's, when television was just a gleam-in-the-eye of Allen DuMont, the father of the tube.

Why did I stop going to movies?

Because of what movie producers and directors were doing to the story lines of the books they bought to make into movies. I'm literal-minded enough that when I've read a book and enjoyed it, I want to see that story and not some producer-director's highly colored and individualized version of it transferred to the silver screen. Why buy the story in the first place if the transfer isn't going to be faithful?

But it never was, and I stopped going to the movies. I know I've missed some good ones. Each time From Here to Eternity comes around on the minor circuits I tell myself I ought to go and see it, but I never make it. Recently I've been tempted to see The Sand Pebbles, the movie made from the book by Dick McKenna, a friend of mine before his untimely death.

I've been tempted, but I haven't gone.

If I went to see it and changes had been effected in the story line in the same wilful manner they were in the 1930's, that would finish me with the movies for another 35 years.

As the man says, who needs the aggravation?

Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Atkins

The Cass City Methodist Church was the setting for an all-white wedding Saturday evening, Aug. 5, when Miss Sandra Jean Copeland of Cass City became the bride of Robert K. Atkins.

The Rev. Allen Lewis performed the 7:30 ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Copeland of Cass City and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Atkins of Decker.

Ferns, an altar spray and two baskets of gladioli and shasta daisies decorated the church for the nuptial rites. Roger Parrish of Cass City was organist and Mrs. Gary Atkins of Southfield was soloist.

The bride chose a silk organza over taffeta gown, styled with scoop neckline and short sleeves. The A-line skirt was fashioned with a full length coat, outlined in Chantilly lace, falling to a chapel train. A crystal and pearl crown held her bouffant veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white shasta daisies and white stephanotis with daisies entwined with ivy, extending from her bouquet to the floor.

Mrs. Barry Hedley of Unionville was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Bliss of Cass City, Miss Kay Decker, Miss Jo Pulaski, Miss Judy Downing, all of Saginaw, and Miss Pat Moran of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Preceding the bride down the aisle, the attendants were attired in white linen gowns, featuring daisy appliques on organza bracelet length sleeves. The gowns were styled with bateau neckline, Empire bodice and A-line floor length skirt. The headpieces were matching linen bow bandeaus with daisy accents and bouffant veils. Their flowers were designed as the bride's bouquet and were assorted shasta daisies.

Karl Kuipers of Grand Rapids was best man. Groomsmen included Tony Campo of Roseville, Darrell Smith of Marlette, Gary Atkins of Southfield, Leonard Atkins of Flint and John Bedwell of Dayton, Ohio.

Seating the guests were Wayne Copeland of Cass City, Roger Bolenbaugh of Lansing and Bill Harbrecht of Flint.

Mrs. Copeland chose a candlelight beige lace dress with gold accessories. A corsage of green baby orchids completed her ensemble. Mrs. Atkins wore a two-piece aqua blue lace dress with white accessories. A lavender orchid corsage complemented her outfit.

A reception for 600 guests followed the ceremony at the Deford School. Out-of-town guests were present from Baltimore, Maryland, Ontario, Dayton, Ohio, Royal Oak, Pontiac and Ann Arbor.

The couple will make their home in Big Rapids where he is a senior in the School of Pharmacy at Ferris State College. Their wedding trip included Expo 67, Maine and New York state.

The new Mrs. Atkins is a secretary in the Department of Secretarial Studies at Ferris.

Pair Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Brent L. Gallaway are living in Marquette, Iowa, following their wedding Saturday, July 22, in the American Lutheran Church in Jesup, Iowa.

The Rev. Marvin Beninga, pastor, officiated at the two o'clock double-ring ceremony. The bride is the former Sharon A. Saylor, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Robert Saylor of Jesup, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gallaway of Cass City.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of skinner satin that featured long sleeves with bridal points, scoop neckline and fitted bodice. The full skirt had loose pleats and lace inserts enhanced with pearls and sequins. Her elbow-length veil was attached to a headpiece of illusion and she carried pink and white carnations in a colonial bouquet.

Miss Mary Putnam served as maid of honor in a pink lace Empire floor-length gown with an attached pink train. Her flowers were white carnations in a colonial bouquet.

Leo Boyle of Minneapolis was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Saylor home for thirty guests.

Miss Kathy Frush played traditional wedding music and pink carnations decorated the altar.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of the Jesup Community School and attended Humboldt Institute in Minneapolis. Her husband, a 1966 graduate of Cass City High School, also attended Humboldt Institute.

The one thing our nation needs most today is faith.

Winning arguments must contain more factual ingredients than mere sound and bluster.

Before you attempt to reform others, be sure you display a fault-proof example.

Prayer". The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, designed all of the dresses for the wedding party and chose white velvet for her gown and that of the flower girl, June Lindsay of Pontiac, cousin of the bride. The bodice of the bride's gown was fashioned with long sleeves and a scoop neckline. Pearl and crystal appliques and velvet roses adorned the bodice. The straight skirt of the gown was pleated at the natural waistline. Her flowers were a present arrangement of gardenias.

Miss Charlotte Lindsay designed the flower arrangements for the wedding party.

Charlotte Lindsay of Phoenix, Ariz., was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Jill Eaton of Detroit, cousin of the bride, Betty Kennedy of Decker, cousin of the bride, and Diana Whittaker of Cass City, a friend of the bride. They wore velvet gowns in Royal blue, Ruby red, Kelly green and rust gold, respectively. Their dresses were made with an Empire waistline and Camelot sleeves. Velvet roses decorated the skirt panels in the back. Their flowers were crescent arrangements of white roses. Their headpieces were fashioned of tea roses and camellia leaves.

Richard Donahue of Unionville performed the duties of best man. Others completing the wedding party were James Merchant, brother of the groom, and William Zinnecker, both of Cass City, and Paul Lindsay of Phoenix, Ariz., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Lindsay chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of American Beauty rose velvet with which she wore white accessories. The groom's mother wore a three-piece suit of rust color with which she wore beige accessories. Both mothers had gardenia corsages.

A reception for the newlyweds was held in the social rooms of the church following the ceremony.

Among those attending the wedding were grandmothers of the couple, Mrs. Neil Fletcher and Mrs. Ernest Gibson, both of Cass City.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lindsay, graduated from Phoenix Christian High School in Phoenix, Ariz. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merchant of Cass City, was graduated from Cass City High School and is engaged in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Merchant will make their home at 4326 Woodland in Cass City.

Bean - Mulrath wed Saturday

Rev. Fr. Arnold Messing officiated at the 11 o'clock nuptial mass in St. Pancratius Church Saturday, Aug. 26, which united in marriage Miss Helen Marie Mulrath and Pfc. Arthur Russell David Bean.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulrath of Cass City and the groom is the son of Mrs. Charles Damoth of Cass City.

Mrs. Norman Coates of Cass City was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were the Misses Shirley Neal and Patricia Bean.

David Parrott of Cass City performed the duties of best man for his friend and other groomsmen were brothers of the contracting couple, Kenneth Bean and John Mulrath Jr.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a floor-length gown of imported Chantilly lace, fashioned with wrist-point sleeves, a scalloped portrait neckline encrusted with iridescent and a fitted bodice. Tiers of lace complemented her full skirt which fell to a chapel train. Her queen's crown of lace and Italian crystals held secure an imported English illusion veil. Her flowers were white gladioli.

Mrs. Coates wore a floor-length gown featuring a peacock blue chiffon bodice with brief sleeves and portrait neckline. The white chiffon floor length skirt was accented at the back with Bianco roses and peacock chiffon floating panels. A matching sculptured head-dress and bouffant veil completed her attire.

The bridesmaids' gowns were identical to the one worn by the matron of honor but in powder blue and white chiffon with matching head-dresses. All carried arrangements of blue and white gladioli.

A reception in the social hall of the church followed the ceremony and was attended by over 100 relatives and friends of the couple.

The newlyweds left for the Upper Peninsula on a wedding trip. At the end of a 30-day leave, the groom will return to duty with the Marine Corps in Viet Nam.
