CASS CITY CHRONICLE

From the ditor's Corner

The State's computer evidently missed a cog when it started to pre-address registration forms used to secure license plates.

The Chronicle received one with its address on it and the name "City Product Co." from the Department of State.

Jim Champion, at the Secretary of State's branch office, says that the pre-printed forms are not necessary to secure a 1968 plate when sales start Nov. 1. . . . there are plenty of the blank forms that are filled in by the car owners that will get you a license the same way as they always did.

It's a good thing, too. . . can you imagine the red tape that would be necessary to get the City Product Co.'s registration to City Product and the Chronicle's registration to the Chronicle?

Both of us would end up 1968 without a license.

Did you read the other day that a Dr. Morris M. Cohn was irked because Art Carney, of Jackie Gleason show fame, tarnished the image of sewer workers?

This eminent expert on pollution feels concerned that some associations concerned with water pollution have made Carney "an honorary member of our learned profession".

You read this and you wonder whether the learned doctor is not just a little insecure himself. . .that he lacks the capacity to laugh at himself. . . to realize that the show's faithful are laughing with Carney and not at the job he does. His pompous attitude is repeated more and more by ethnic groups and various professions. You can't do an Al Joison blackface routine because it belittles the Negro; racial characterization must be closely

Find no trace of missing Leland Iseler

No trace of Leland W. Iseler, 44, of Kinde has been found by his brothers, Fred Iseler, Cass City, and Herbert Iseler of Peck, after five days of searching in Northern Ontario.

The Iselers flew to a tiny outpost near Cypress Falls on the Mattagami River where their brother was reported missing Monday, Oct. 9.

According to the Ontario Provincial Police, Iseler left Oct. 4 with Charles Jacobson, Brown City, and Jacobson's son on the fishing and hunting trip.

The Jacobsons left for a day's hunting in the wilderness and when they returned found the boat anchored in a small bay and Iseler missing.

They returned 75 miles to the nearest telephone at Smooth Rock Falls to notify relatives. Since that time an intensive search has been made for the missing man without results.

The bay has been searched by frogmen and was dragged without any trace of the missing man found by Tuesday after-Iseler is the father of three children and was employed as a truck driver for Vogt Packing Company, Flint.

The family lives on a farm 6 1/2 miles east of Kinde.

Window contest planned

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Halloween window painting contest with prizes to students with best designs on the windows of participating businesses. The pupils, under the direction of Mrs. Karen Wallace, will paint the windows on the afternoon of Halloween, Oct. 31, and will be required to be finished by 6:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Ruth Kelley, Judging is scheduled to start at 7 p. m. Three prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded. Participation by stores requires the use of a display window for the evening, Mrs. Kelley said, and owners can join the fun by contacting her or Dick Wallace before the window painting contest starts.

Students interested in participating will sign with Mrs.

Steer's bolt from butcher all in vain

It looked like nothing but a routine job when the truck pulled up to Reed's Slaughterhouse in Cass City with an apparently docile steer waiting to be unloaded and butchered for the Burton Gettels of Sebewaing.

But this was one little steer who went to market and definitely decided that he wasn't going to stay.

The animal bolted while being unloaded and took off, determined not to be caught again. The crazed animal headed cross country near the River Road, with disdainful disregard for anything that happened to get in its way. . . .including several fences that he busted ramming across the fields.

Meanwhile, the Gettels were in hot pursuit of their sirloin on the hoof and once even managed to get within a few feet of it before it took off on another wild rampage.

The steer's unscheduled flight started at 10 a. m. and for awhile it looked as if it was never to be caught. By mid-afternoon the elusive bovine, had completely disappeared in the woods and the distraught owners came to the Chronicle to place an ad for the recovery of the animal.

But later that evening, the fortunes of war turned and man conquered animal again. . . the steer was checked in without further incident at about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. . . .finishing the story. . . . and the

Gen-Tel reveals construction

Officials for General Tele-phone Co. of Michigan an-nounced Thursday that $486,-800 has been projected for telephone construction in the Cass City district. Included will be $148,000 for the Cass City exchange.

The majority of the money, $117,900, will be used locally to provide additional central office equipment to provide for a reduction in the number of parties per line in the southeast rural area.

Central office dial equipment to provide for growth and more party line reduction will cost $28,100 more, officials said. These are completion of projects started this year.

The Cass City district, under District Manager Dick Drews, includes nine exchanges. General also serves Kingston in the immediate area and $22,200 will be spent there for central office dial equipment. This work will be completed in 1970.

Other Cass City district exchanges and the amounts to be spent on each are: Caseville, $39,100; Clifford, $2,000; Deck-erville, $143,200; Elkton, $32,-700; Harbor Beach, $69,500; Kingston, $22,200; Minden City, $500, and North Branch, $29,-

A. T. Jones, eastern division manager, said that the company is still expected to realize its goal of reducing party lines to a maximum of four parties by 1972.

In the eastern Michigan area, Jones said, the company will be spending over $6 million for improvements and expansion for the second consecutive year.

To balance buget

plans for year Board nixes requests

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors are determined to balance the budget in 1968 even though they are faced with increasing costs and a net loss of some $200,000 in valuation because of the elimination of farm personal from the tax

When the budget was sub-mitted for approval last year it was anticipated that the expenditures would be $40,000 more than revenues. These figures have been revised and it is expected that there will be a surplus of about $40,000 at the close of 1967.

Despite less county tax money, the board does not expect to operate in the red in 1968. They have announced an austerity program and followed it in their October session.

A request from county emplovees for a raise in wages was flatly turned down and other budget remiests nixed.

The department of social welfare, one of the more expensive in the county, was sharply slashed. The department had asked for $140,000. In 1965 and 1966 the social welfare budget was $130,000,

The board reduced this allotment by $27,000, making the total budget $103,000.

Total county tax for operating next year will be $586,-241.82. The budget as submitted calls for total expenditures of $852,400, including $11,410.06 in a contingency account. The anticipated expenses for this year were listed at $726,000.

APPROVED

The board did approve several expenditures.

A $300 allotment was granted Miss Asher, an eighth grade to civil defense for communipaid. The Tuscola County Planning Commission's allotment of $4,500 was approved.

NO ACTION

Probate Judge Bates Wills appeared before the supervisors and asked for either a reporter or tape recording equipment with an estimated cost of over $7,000 for use in juvenile cases. No action was

Announce two grand openings

Two grand openings were announced by area businesses this

Clare Mellendorf announced this week that the grand opening of his new station will be held Friday and Saturday.

The new facilities will enable the station to handle minor repairs, car washing and more efficient car servicing, Mellendorf explained. Although the station is new in Cass City, Mellendorf is a familiar figure at the Main street location.

He first came to work for the late Howard "Baldy" Ellis in 1959. He took over the management of the station in partnership with Andrew Kozan Aug. 1, 1962, and bought out his partner Jan. 1, 1965.

Mellendorf was born in Elk-ton and is a 1955 graduate of Owendale High School.

He married the former Ruth Ann Willis May 8, 1965. The couple has no children.

Another former Cass City couple, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Decker Jr., have also announced a grand opening this week. The Deckers are celebrating new, larger quarters for their Caro Home Furnishing Store in Caro. The grand opening starts Fri-

はんびんいかりょくいりノノール More than 250,000 acres of farm lands in Michigan will be open to free public hunting this fall under the federal Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP), administered in this state by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in cooperation with the Department of Conservation. Where you see the above sign posted at more than 2,000 farms, you will be welcomed as a hunter, and the only thing expected of you is that you show good sportsmanship afield. In return for making their lands available to you, cooperating farmers earn special fees from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in addition to payments they receive for diverting their acreage from crop production to conservation land practices. The map here shows, county by county, how much CAP land is offered for public hunting. More specific locations of farms in this program are available from local ASCS offices, which are found in nearly every county seat, or from the Conservation Department's district headquarters. Wherever you are looking for places to hunt, remember to ask the farmer first for permission to use his lands, and then treat his property as you would your own. -- Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Of all the passers who have ever played pro football, which one had the best percentage of completed passes in a season? . . . Record is held by Sammy Baugh, who in 1945, completed 70% of his throws. . . . No other regular pro passer has ever topped that.

Who holds the record for catching the most passes in pro football history? . . . Many fans might say Don Hutson, who is generally regarded as the greatest receiver of all-time. . . . But, that's not true. . . . The record is held by Ray Berry of Baltimore. . . He's caught over 600 passes in pro football. . . Hutson, by the way, who played in the NFL from 1935 to 1945, fin-ished with a total of 488 passes caught. ****

Here's a boxing question for you. . . Of all the heavyweight champions of the world since John L. Sullivan, only five were you name all five? . . . They were Bob Fitzsimmons, champ from 1897-1899, who was born in England. . . Tommy Burns, champ from 1906-1908. who was born in Canada. . . Max Schmeling, champ 1930-

32, who was born in Germany .Primo Carnera, champ 1933-34, who was born in Italy And Ingemar Johansson, champ 1959-60, who was born in Sweden.

Diamond Jubilee

Overflow

"The church was filled to overflowing," said O. H. Blair in describing the diamond jubilee celebration of the Grant Methodist church held Sunday, Oct. 15. Mr. Blair is the oldest living member of this typical circuit parish.

Several former members, pastors and their wives were recognized during the afternoon program. The principal address was given by Rev. Leon Dayringer, a former pastor, now director of adult education in East Grand Rapids. Others who returned where they had ministered to greet friends were Rev. and Mrs. Jason Hollopeter, Freemont, Indiana; Rev. and Mrs. Kemp, Port Sanilac; Mrs. Birch of Columbiaville, whose husband died while serving at the Grant church, and Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Crawford who was the young lay preacher for six months in 1928, before he decided to become an ordained minister. Harold Martin of Cass City and his brother, Merald Martin, Sandusky, provided special mu-season the Cass City Red Hawks now face the unenviable task of hosting the Caro Tigers Friday and it figures to take a minor miracle for Cass City to come up with a victory.

But stranger things have happened in the long series between the two schools when the arch rivalry sometimes makes the pre-season dope seem silly. There have been games that both teams figured to win easily that went the other way because of the emotion generated by the ri-

The Hawks stand a better chance for an upset if they are able to play on a clear, dry field Friday. Last Friday rain ruined the Hawks and the elaborate plans for the Homecoming celebration in the game against Marlette. The score was 14-0. Cass City's only offense this season has hinged around the air arm of John Maharg with Winless in five games this Fred Ryan his principal receiver. Friday Mahargwasable to toss the slippery ball for just one completion that gained a meager five yards.

The Red Raiders controlled

the ball most of the evening and were content to slug it out on the ground. Neither team was able to dent the end zone for the first three periods on the muddy field. The winning touchdown march was a result of a 99-yard drive that started in the middle of the third quarter and was capped by a two-yard plunge by John Alexander for the score, Dave Pollak kicked the extra point.

The second Marlette marker came later in the period when Cass City was trying to play catch up with passes. The Raiders intercepted and rolled deep into Cass City territory, Poliak scored from six yards out. Jim Lamie kicked the extra point.

Besides the wet weather, Cass City was hampered by the Marlette defense that used ends. When the ground game was unable to move, Cass City's offense stalled, Coach John Bifoss said.

Chest funds work locally, nationally

The Elkland-Novesta Community Chest opened its drive for its 20th year of service in the community and local volunteer workers were pointing out that the money is spent for many different local charities as well as the well publicized national organizations supported by the United Fund.

A total of $2,359.09 was spent on such local programs as Boy and Girl Scouts, Huron-Tus-cola Migrant Mission and baskets to the needy. National charities were supported by the local chest's contribution of $4,584.50 to the Tuscola County United Fund.

This year a new record goal has been established for the community. In the 19 previous years, area residents have always met or exceeded the Community Chest goal and Willis Campbell, chairman, says that he is confident that they will do so again.

County GOP women to receive charter

The Tuscola County Republican Women's organization will hold its bi-monthly meeting

Monday evening, Oct. 23.

The group will convene at 8:00 in the Civil Defense Conference room of the jail building in Caro.

According to County Chair-man Mrs. Luther Berry, a report will be given on the Republican Women's State convention and a representative from State Central will be present to issue the club charter. All Republican women are urged to attend.

This is a land where the four freedoms are not a distant hope, but a present reality.

One reason wisdom is so uncommon is that it involves a lot of common sense.

PROMPT ACTION BY the Elkland Township Fire Department limited the damage in a fire at the Wayne Spencer home on River Road Tuesday to a hole in the ceiling. The fire was caused by an overheated stove pipe that was not insulated. It was the first fire call in 29 days for the department. Damage was estimated at about $100. Working at the scene is Fireman Elwyn Helwig.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Woodsman, spare that tree

By Marion Hostetler

One of our retired school teachers says she used to be embarrassed when a woman didn't recognize would speak to her on the street and say, "How's my boy getting along in school?"

A teacher has so many pupils that she can be forgiven if she doesn't recognize all of their parents by sight. So, if you want an intelligent response, why not identify yourself when you speak to a teacher who might not know you?

The story about the window washer who was just back from Viet Nam, and who felt like ducking for cover when he heard the noon siren, reminded me of another person who had acquired a conditioned response.

While Grant Brown was in Scotland last summer herented a car and learned to drive on the left side of the road, according to British custom. Home again, and driving along a Michigan throughway, he had a distinct feeling that he might make the wrong move in an emergency, taking the left lane when he should be taking the right. Turning to his son, he said, "Here, Jim, you take the wheel until I'm sure I'm Americanized again."

Local people who came from the east coast report that Columbus Day is a big holiday there, and they wonder why we don't pay much attention to it in Michigan.

The reason is that the Italian-Americans in the East celebrate it as a kind of Italian reunion, emphasizing the debt America owes to Christopher Columbus and other Italians. Since Cass City has few people of Italian descent, Columbus Day goes nearly unnoticed here.

Charles Western has followed the example of some other bus drivers, and installed a radio, at his own expense, in the Ubly school bus he drives. Says the kids love it, and it's wonderfully effective at keeping them quiet. If they do become rowdy, all he has to do is turn it off, and they become quiet as kittens.

There's an old Latin phrase "caveat emptor" which means, "Let the buyer beware." In other words, the merchant doesn't have to tell everything he knows, and it's up to the purchaser to inspect the property before he buys it.

Now that the village has purchased the Orr property for the park, Mort Orr tells me those magnificent maples aren't all as unblemished as they look. One of them has a piece of a steel bit in it, left there years ago by someone who was tapping for maple syrup. The bit broke off in the tree.

And if that warning discourages anybody from attacking the trees with a chain saw, it will suit Mort just fine. He doesn't want those trees to be cut down.

Years ago some village employee nailed up a street marker at the corner of Church and Maple. Now the bark of the maple tree to which it was nailed is swallowing up the sign that says Maple.

Mort Orr remembers that an early sawyer wrecked his solid circular saw when he ran into a chain hook that was embedded in a log. The hook had been left hanging on a branch of the tree so long that the bark had engulfed it as the tree grew.

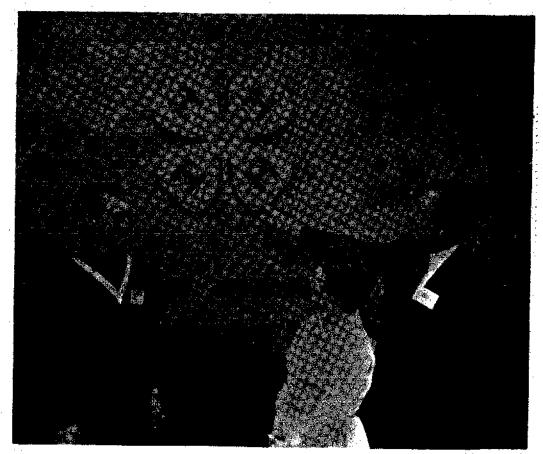

It wasn't so bad if you ran into a piece of metal with a saw that had removable teeth, but when you knocked off the teeth of a saw that was made of a solid piece of metal, you were in real trouble.

Mort tells about a man who took a log to a sawmill.

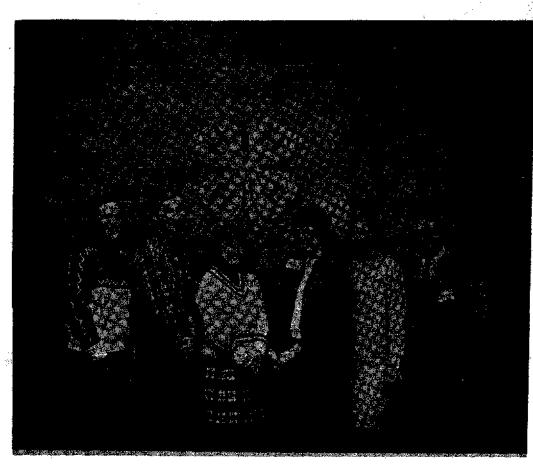

Knowing that a shade tree was more likely to have nails in it than a tree from the woods, the man at the mill asked, "Is this a shade tree?" "Yes," was the answer, "but go ahead and saw it, anyway." "All right," said the sawyer as he prepared to start cutting, "but if I hit a nail, I'll have to charge you the amount it costs to repair my saw."

"Oh, no! Don't do it! Don't do it!" shouted the customer. Like so many of us, he was the risk, but he didn't want to be responsible him-

State Farm Bureau to convene at MSU

"Strength through Group Action" is the theme chosen for the 48th annual meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau, to be held on the campus of Michigan State University, East Lansing, Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

A major change in this year's program involves scheduling the annual banquet for the first night, Nov. 7, at 6 o'clock to take advantage of facilities at the Lansing Civic Center.

Announced as banquet speaker is Dr. Kenneth McFarland, nationally known church leader, farmer, and author, who will talk on a favorite topic, "Selling America to Americans.

Earlier in the day, delegates and guests will hear the President's address by Elton Smith.

Governor Romney will give Farm Bureau delegates a first hand report of state affairs just prior to their discussion and debate of proposed policy resolutions.

Arthur Holst, National Football League official and wellknown inspirational speaker, has been secured by the Young Farmers Committee as their Subject to election are members of the Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors from "odd-numbered" districts, plus one director at large. Business purposes of the three-day convention include reports, consideration of policy statements and adoption of a program of work for the coming year.

Michigan Mirror

Successful publications thrive on getting things done for their communities and readers. This is only part of the Michigan newspaper story.

Change to offset printing is a major industry trend. As contrasted to the conventional letterpress process, offset printing uses no linotypes, molten lead or other materials usually associated with newspaper printing.

Instead, imprinted strips of paper are pasted to large sheets; the sheets are photographed and a thin aluminum plate is made from each neg-

During printing the image is transferred from offset plate to a rubber roller and back onto the newsprint. The plate never touches newsprint.

Advantages of offset printing are numerous. Clear, sharp pictures and more flexibility in page makeup; neat and clean composing rooms with a minimum need for skilled tradesmen; lighter work, better reproduction; offset methods have brought these and other benefits to newspaper and reader. In 1962, 15 Michigan weeklies and one daily newspaper were printed by offset. By 1965 this number had increased to 49 weeklies and three dallies. This year there are 141 weeklies and 13 dailies printed by the offset method.

Accompanying the change to offset has been a move to centralized printing. Offset presses are expensive. It makes little sense for a newspaper to invest thousands of dollars for a press it will use only an hour or two each week.

Because of this investment, publishers who purchase machinery sell "press time" to other newspapers. The system works well for both parties. Newspapers with offset presses receive a good return on their investments and may keep the presses humming five; six and sometimes seven days a week. Newspapers which buy

CASS CITY CHRONICLE-THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1967

Newspapers keep stride

Healthy and getting better and stronger every day, Michigan's expanding newspaper industry reflects the professional planning and foresight of publishers.

From 1966 to 1967 circulation of weekly newspapers increased 3.6%, from 1,207,438 to 1,251,047 subscribers. Circulation of dailies increased 2.5%, from 2,368,965 to 2,429,-

College graduates now occupy key staff positions on many newspapers and find their work stimulating, exciting and financially rewarding.

Processed color in newspapers appears more frequently and "hi-fi" and "Spectacolor" advertisements compete with quality of magazine reproduction.

Modern technology will soon bring many more electronic advances to newspaper production. Already some newspapers have computerized areas of operation. One new typesetting machine can set a full newspaper page of type in two minutes; the same machine handles all routine systems in billing and scheduling classified ads.

Misunderstanding of newsities still exist. Editors and wish to do so.

reporters take much abuse, some of it justified, most of it not. Too often public officials forget that newspaper personnel represent the public and the public's "right to know."

A Kentucky editor wrote a prize-winning column in which he listed 12 sentences guaranteed to shade the complexion of any newspaper editor. "Please use the story as I've given it to you. We want for our group scrapbook."

Around The Farm New kind of "Sears & Sawbuck"catalog

By Alfred P. Ballweg

The market price of wheat has been of real concern to our wheat growers for some time. One of our Tuscola county farmers asked if I knew when the price of wheat had been lower. He was interested in getting an answer to this question because he felt it was such a long time ago he could not remember when it had been

The last time wheat prices reached $1.20 was in 1942 --25 years ago. The market price of wheat on August 30, 1967 reached a low of $1.17 per according bushel, according to Ron Walter, manager of Farmer's Cooperative Elevator, Caro.

Jake Ferris, Michigan State University Marketing Specialist, points out as a reminder some of us older adults that the lowest average monthly price recorded in Michigan was 36 cents a bushel in July of 1932. I can well remember that year out on our farm in North Dakota. Thirty-six cent wheat along with a severe drought certainly made a combination of conditions one cannot readily forget. It was survival of the fittest and many farmers did not survive. With the high cost of production today many of our farmers would be out of business except for other better income crops. Jake Ferris goes on to point out, as I'm sure many farmers well realize, that prospects are not very good at this time and if the market reaches the $1.35 level or above it might be a good time to sell. He goes on to say that if wheat prices can hold their ground through corn harvest they could strengthen late in the year. Generally it pays to sell wheat along in December.

According to our September monthly brucellosis vaccination report of heifer calves to be kept for breeding that were vaccinated between 4 and 8 months of age, Tuscola county farmers have had 1871 vaccinated between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30, 1967. This is 132 more than for the same period a year ago. This deserves a compliment to our county livestock producers. Keep up the good work. Tuscola county has no herds under quarantine for tuberculosis and one herd quarantined for brucellosis as of thousand acres of potatoes were grown that year, placing Tuscola county fourth in the state. Truckers from the state of Virginia came in with coal which they could sell to farmers and in turn buy potatoes. There were also 25,000 dairy cattle and about 10,000 beef animals in Tuscola county in 1938.

An old annual report put out in 1938 by E. L. Benton, Tuscola County Agricultural Agent, states that 40,000 acres of oats and 14,000 acres of barley were grown that year. Wheat was 20,000 acres. on Varieties of wheat were American Banner and Bald Rock. Oats varieties included Swed-Select and Wisconsin 36 barley.

For as long as I can remember I have known about and often referred to the Sears Roebuck catalog. Not long ago our office received a booklet that reminded me of this type of catalog, however, it was not published by a commercial company. I'll bet you could never guess. It was paid for by us federal taxpayers and produced by the Office of Economic Opportunity executive office of the president and carries a title: "Catalog of Federal Assistance Programs" dated June 1, 1967. I think we all realized there were many different kinds of federal assistance programs but I did not believe there were so many that they would fill a book about the size of a Sears Roebuck catalog. It is available at our office for anyone to thumb through.

Retirees tour Thumb Teen Ranch

A tour of the Thumb Teen Ranch at Kingston was enjoyed by members of the Tuscola County Retired Teachers' association when they met Thursday, Oct. 5.

Manager Ray Clendenan, his wife, and Mrs. Ted Sampson, house mother, described ranch life of the ten boys there. The residents are wards of the County Juvenile Court and attend school in Kingston, "Generally, the boys respond well to the home-like atmosphere of the cottage," said the house mother.

Association officers elected for the ensuing year are: Mrs. Minnie Hemmingway, president; Mrs. Louise Turner, vicepresident, and Mrs. Margaret Haire, secretary-treasurer.

The spring meeting will be in April.

Book Review

Adult mystery seen as a "Nancy Drew"

By Rev. R. J. Searis

I was immensely sorry to mysterious forces to move have taken the time to read this book -- a mystery tale, written with all the suspense and craftsmanship of a Nancy Drew mystery for high school Look at it with me a moment: The heroine is a very curious young woman who faces not one mystery but several. She faces these not only by design but because she does not know the other characters well enough to eliminate them from suspicion.

Phyllis Whitney, whose style is described on the book's dust cover as romantic suspense. has written nearly half a dozen such books. They have been published, but I didn't have the odious assignment to recommend them to the readers of this column,

Not that Silverhill is naughty in the style of the sex-soaked novel, so popular with Amering sentences of this review ican readers. It might have we said that this book almost proved a better novel, and a reads like a Nancy Drew mys-more-read book, with a little tery tale written for teen-age more romantic interest. Allow me to write out the publisher's own tale of the book: "Silverhill -- a novel of romantic suspense in which Phyllis Whitney once more creates an atmosphere of shuddering mystery -- of stagnant evil which lurks behind the beauty of the Silverhill -- a gray ghost of a house brooding among its white birch trees which seems to Mallie Rice (the heroine) haunted by evil reflections from the past. In its Hall of Mirrors even her cousin Gerald Gorham, curator of the fabulous Gorham collection of treasures, hardly knows reality from illusion. Yet Mallie must discover the truth the great house so mockingly conceals. Silverhill -- where the shad-

Everyone wants to make the sale, but nobody wants to give the service.

Manufacturers will point out, no doubt, that they set up franchised service centers near populous areas. The key to this claim, of course, is the phrase "populous areas." What does the small town dweller do when he needs service on his equip-

Teach child to build and he won't destroy

Teaching your child to build and repair may be the clue to his having a fine home some day, according to Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension home economist.

When children first learn to build with blocks and toy hammers they are learning muscle coordination.

But as they get a little older, parents can divert this desire to "make things" to the actual building of useful items and structures.

Repair jobs can be learning experiences for children if they are allowed to help. Repairing a broken step or a broken chair can put to work both the muscles and the mind of a child. Parents can encourage the child's interest by actually allowing him to participate fully in the activity. A few mistakes are to be expected but parents must keep mind that the long range goal is a skilled child.

As he grows into adolescence, a young man is ready to learn about other building materials: lath, insulation, wiring materials, paint and wall coverings. He may take woodworking in school or 4-H.

If allowed to experience the thrili of building or repairing sizeable structures with adult guidance, he may then be ready to lay block or trowel cement in his own home some day.

"Many of the building and remodeling projects that I see in the Thumb are the skilled handiwork of the father", says Mrs. Ross. Learning to build while young can lead to doit-yourself home building projects which will save money as well as bring lasting satisfaction to the family.

Assembly of God slates meetings

"Bible Prophecy For Today" will be the theme of services at the Cass City Assembly of God next week when Rev. Lawrence Malone of Grant, Mich., will be the speaker. Services will begin Tuesday, Oct. 24, continue through Sunday, ct. 29, nightly at 8 p. m. Mr. Malone is an ordained minister of the Assemblies of God, a graduate of Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo., and has been a pastor, evangelist and Bible teacher for many years. He will explain current news events in the light of Bible prophecy and will discuss future events.

The local church is located everyone is welcome, according to Rev. Paul Cowan, pastor.

ARCADIAN Chemical Golden URAN

When you Fall top-dress your wheat with Golden URAN liquid nitrogen, the spray covers every one of the 5,292,864 square inches per acre of your soil so that every plant gets the same amount of quick-acting and long-lasting nitrogen. This means fast, uniform growth of your entire field and the same schedule of maturity for every plant. You get an earlier harvest of big grain heads that are all ripe and and ready for the combine at the same time.

Fall application of Golden URAN promotes stooling as the number of tillers a wheat plant shoots is determined during the winter. A plant only develops a large number of tillers when all necessary plant nutrients are available before spring growth starts. Also, by fall application you eliminate the problem of applicators cutting ruts in your field next spring.

Firemen address Hospital Auxiliary

The monthly meeting of the Cass City Hospital Auxiliary was held Monday evening in the new meeting room at the hospital.

Two representatives of the local fire department, Elwyn Helwig and Jerome Root Jr., gave talks on the work of the fire department.

The local department, one of a series of revival meetings 13 fire departments in Tuscola county, has 18 firemen and several auxiliary firemen, and needs more. Monthly meetings of the local department are held, as well as county meetings. The local fire department services a larger area than any of the 12 other departments in Tuscola county. The men explained that eight men are sent out on each fire and others remain on duty at the fire hall. The quickest way to reach the fire department, they said, to dial on the phone. 2-F-I-R-E. The speakers reminded the group that help with resuscitator is available to anyone in the area in need of one.

Each Auxiliary member is urged to bring a new member to the November meeting.

The committee on arrangements for the Monday evening meeting were Mrs. William Eberts, Mrs. Hugh Connolly and Mrs. Edwin Scharr.

Rain, rain go away. Come again some other day! That's about the total of last Friday's wishes. Sure enough, on homecoming night, it rained.

On Friday the 13th - it figures! All the floats that had taken so much of our time during this last week were spoiled by the rain. The parade, the pre-game and half time shows were cancelled, and the queen was crowned at the dance. Even though the rain ruined our plans, it didn't stop people from going to the game. Everywhere you looked there were umbrellas, plastic hats and bags, plastic tarps and tablecloths, and Marlette's band even brought a tent. By half-time the players were so muddy you could hardly tell one team from another, let alone read their numbers. (A good setting for an A-Jax commercial) The only successful event of the night was the dance. A lot of people from both Marlette and Cass City were there. Well, enough of Friday night's

This week, as if it wasn't confused enough with it being homecoming week, was the last week of the marking period. In case you don't know what that means - it is a period of one week with nothing but tests and more tests. Usually all of them on Thursday and Friday.

With everybody working nights on the floats, the results of the tests could be a real threat.

On Tuesday some of the juniors and seniors took a P.S.A.T, (Preliminary Scho-Iastic Aptitude Test).

The score of this test will be kept on record and may be looked at when the students apply for college or even later on for a job, but it also pre-pares us for the more-important test, the S.A.T. (The Scholastic Aptitude Test).

On Thursday, the Pep Club sold suckers during the lunch of the Fish family. The most hour. The students were allowed to eat the suckers in class to show their spirit. The theme of the day was "Lick 'em." On Thursday night, the JV football team played Vassar on our field. The score was The students have been pre- 40-7 in Vassar's favor. Mike paring their student folders for Sherman ran 60 yards for CC's touchdown and Rob Alexander passed to Scott Guernsey for the extra point.

CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY

On Oct. 12, Columbus Day, the kindergarteners gathered together and "sailed the ocean blue". Phillip Zawilinski and Darwin Rushlo each had a chance to play the part of Christopher Columbus, and Lisa Brown and Susan Finkbeiner each played Queen Isabella. In the skit, Christopher Columbus asked Queen Isabella for gold to buy the Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria. A crew was chosen and the three sailing ships crossed the Atlantic Ocean to the tunes of "Sailing, Sailing* and "Row Your Boat" Scott Fleenor's mother dropped in one day and showed the kindergarteners a scarecrow she had made. The students enjoyed it so much that Esau and Mrs. Murphy for their Brian McClorey brought a little milk snake to Mrs. Howarth's third grade room this week. They looked up in a book and found out that milk snakes aren't poisonous and that they are constrictors, which means they squeeze their food to death. Their favorite diet consists of mice and rats. The students in Mrs. Stickle's fourth grade are collecting what they see when they go for walks. In their room they have eleven frogs and one snake, and Ernest Pena contributed five catfish and Pam Ahern contributed one

Among the odds and ends are cocoons, spiders, a praying mantis, ants, milkweed pods, nuts, leaves, and rocks. The fourth grade recently had a spelldown in which Mary Stilson was the winner.

A funny thing happened to the students in Mrs. Hutchinson's room while they had the responsibility of taking care of the flag. One morning Karen Krug and Billy Wills had to put up the flag. As the rest the room, this was new to Karen and Bill.

After raising the flag and securing it, they returned to their room. About one minute later, they had to go put it up again, because the rope had come untied and the flag was on the ground. This time Karen and Bill made sure they tied it more securely.

District Lutherans give Bock memorial

The Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary, West Thumb Chapter No. 10, held its October meeting at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City Monday evening, Oct. 9. Mrs. Arthur Haag introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Richard Eyer of Cass City, who spoke of her work as a deaconess.

Clarence Kern was Mrs. elected delegate to the state convention at Peace Lutheran Church in Saginaw Oct. 10. Mrs. Arthur Haag was elected alternate.

A Memorial was given to the new church in Cass City and also to the Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary in memory of Mrs. Eugene Bock. The next meeting will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Linkville, in January.

Cake and coffee were served

Elmwood Extension studies fabrics

by the local hostesses.

The lesson, "Today's Fabric Families", was presented by Mrs. Grover Laurie and Mrs. Vincent Wald when the Elmwood Extension Study group met at the home of Mrs. Dennis Rocheleau, with 12 members present.

Leaders discussed permanent press fabrics, patterns of good laundry, removal of stains and advised reading the labels and washtags on cloth-Mrs. George Hartman, chairman, opened the meeting with the women's creed repeated in The group furnished 18 dozen cookies for the Veteran's Hospital in Saginaw Oct. 1. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William Anker. The Want Ads are newsy too.
