Neil Hurry at Walbro is a pun-loving Scotchman. The other day at Walbro he spotted me from his office and called out, hello John, At this precise moment John Berry walked into view and Neil called out hello to him, also.

Then, he said with a chuckle. two Johns....aren't we wealthy.
After our exclamations of disgust. . . . he stabbed a little deeper by remarking, that was a HAIRY one wasn't it?

But we got in the last blow when by mutual consent John and I told him that it was time to HURRY out of there. All of which proves nothing except that the pun, already known as the lowest form of human wit, really plunged to a new low.

Erick Pavel, who kicked off the Cass City Rotary adventure and travel series, was well received and presented a professional, entertaining performance.

The whole affair was handled smoothly. Especially gratifying was the prompt starting time. Billed to begin at 8:04 p. m.. that's exactly when the lights were dimmed.

So if you plan to take in others in the series, make a point of being on time, . . . or you'll miss part of the show.

Over the years we've had our differences with Chief Carl Palmateer and the Cass City Police Department.

Believing that it's necessary for a paper to report the news and comment on the activities of any and all public officials, sometimes causes ill feelings. But this week we have a more pleasant task.

Because it's time to remark on the exemplary achievements of the department in keeping the peace on Halloween.

While Huron county was plagued with a semi-riot and numerous incidents of malicious destruction of property, Cass City recorded another year of limited disturbance.

This speaks well for the department's relations with the youth of the community and its vigilance in averting trouble before it started Oct.

It was a job well done.

File $40,000 damage suit in Circuit Court

Alice Benoit Powelson of Caro this week filed a $40,000 damage suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court for injuries allegedly sustained in an auto accident on M-24.

The plaintiff, a passenger in a car driven by Richard Adams of Caro, claims that a car driven by William A. Donovan was at the left of the center line when the crash occurred Nov. 13, 1965.

She further alleges that John H. Moyer and Richard P. Moyer owners of the North Grove Inn are liable because they furnished liquor to Donovan after he was under the influence of alcohol prior to the time of the crash.

Commission

has new policy; new equipment

The county road commission will no longer repair damaged mailboxes, replace sod, nor recognize similar claims in connection with maintenance or construction work within the limits of public rights-of-way in Tuscola county, announced Robert J. Wellington, county highway engineer.

In a communication dated Nov. 3, Wellington stated that when a mailbox is knocked down in the process of snow removal or seasonal maintenance work, it can be assumed that road commission personnel are acting in the best interest of the unavoidable. As such, neither the public nor the road commission acting in behalf of the public is liable or responsible for any damages. "In many cases, the mailboxes are in poor condition to begin with, improperly located, or sod has been improperly placed within the right-of-. . . and are allowed on the public right-of-way for the convenience and benefit of the public. Therefore, the Road Commission cannot assume any responsibility for any damages to them." the letter said.

The commission's policy of taking every precaution with regard and respect for the property of others within its rightof-way will be continued, the spokesman concluded.

On the same date, announcement was received that seven additional pieces of snow removal equipment have been acquired by the road commission. at a cost of $116,000.

The new units include five large trucks costing approximately $12,000 each when equipped with underbody scraper and snow plow; two large graders with snow plow and wing, totaling about $56,000.

Finkbeiner nurses bruises after aid try

Tim A. Finkbeiner, 18, of Cass City is nursing a black eve and cuts on his shoulder after his attempt at a good deed Saturday night boomeranged.

Finkbeiner told State Police that he passed a car and then returned when he realized that it was stuck at the corner of Green and Joshua roads, seven miles southwest of Cass City.

When he got out of his car he was told by the youths that his help wasn't needed and one of the youths swore at him and hit him in the eye with his fist, Finkbeiner said.

As he was leaving, one of the group threw a bottle which shattered the left front window of the car. Finkbeiner suffered small cuts on the shoulder from the flying glass.

Thermal blankets and what they do

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Extension Agent

Whereas most blankets are to keep you warm, today's thermal blankets function somewhat differently according to Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension Home Economist.

"Thermal" refers to the type of construction, not to the fiber content. As to fiber, thermal blankets may be purchased in wool, cotton, acrylics, and polyesters.

Thermal refers to an openweave construction with spaces between the yarns. Air which is warmed by the body is caught in the spaces between the yarns. Thermal blankets, for maximum warmth, should have another cover - such as a sheet - over them. This sheet or cover keeps the body heat from escaping through the open spaces in the thermal blanket.

Research has shown that the effectiveness of a thermal blanket depends somewhat upon whether a sheet or a heavy blanket is placed over them. Thermal weave blankets, even with a sheet cover, were not as warm by test as were heavy (4 1/2 pound) wool blankets. All thermal blankets tested with a light cover were as warm, however, as light weight (2 1/2 pound) acrylic blankets. These tests were conducted by Consumer Research, Incorporated, impartial testing agency.

For warmth without weight, try thermal blankets. But when old man winter really howls, you may need the heavier wool

As to coolness, all thermal blankets (without cover) were found to be cooler than a woven wool blanket but some were not cooler than a woven acrylic blanket.

With a little knowledge, a consumer can choose her blankets according to her needs and preferences, concludes

Life resident of Gagetown dies

Miss Bridget Phelan, 77, Gagetown, died Tuesday, Oct. 31, in Saginaw General Hospital. She was born Feb. 10, 1890, in Elmwood township and had lived there her entire life. She was the daughter of the late Patrick and Mary Jane Phelan. She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Paul Seurynck, Detroit, Mrs. David Durst, New Rochelle, N. Y., Miss Susan Gagetown, and Mrs. Phelan, Vincent Wald, Cass City, several nieces and nephews.

Services were conducted at 11:00 a. m. at St. Agatha's church in Gagetown by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Friske and burial was made in the church cemetery Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmateer of 129 Albertson St., Rochester, Mich., will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 19.

Their children, Stanley, Arnold, Mrs. Ruby Biddle of Rochester and Mrs. Maxine Acre of Royal Oak, will honor them with an open house, for friends and relatives at Avon Park Pavilion, Rochester, from 2-5 p. m.

The elementary school is having Parent-Teacher conferences Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 6 and 7. These conferences are usually meetings where the parent and teacher get together and talk - about the student. About five years ago those conferences were a real threat and probably still are today to everyone except the third graders. This year the third graders are being an experiment, Instead of having Parent-Teacher conferences they are having parent-student, (yep, I said student) teacher conferences, which means the students get to attend and defend - themselves! This could be a real advantage to the student, because he can hear some of his good points along with the bad, which the parents usually bring up at home. Also a lot of misunderstandings between the student and teacher could be cleared up.

Speaking of misunderstandings - maybe the high school (grades 7-12) should have parent, student, and teacher conferences also!

YOU DIDN'T

By H. M. Bulen

Here's a hard-to-believe fact about the great Jim Brown who played in the National Football League from 1957 through 1965 . .Did you know that Brown NEVER missed a game because of injuries in any of his nine full seasons in pro football!

. . . That's rather amazing when you consider how many times Brown carried the ball and when you consider the terrific beating he took from tacklers game after game. How's this for a football oddity. . .Did you know there was once a man who was head coach of both a college and a pro football team AT THE SAME TIME!....It seems unbelieveable, but it's true. . . Back in 1941, Buff Donelli was head coach of Duquesne University and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League at the same time. . . Finally, the pro league ordered him to choose one job or the other and he gave up the Steeler post. . . But, for part of the 1941 season, Buff Donelli made football history.

Ever wonder what the record is in pro football for a passer having the most passes intercepted in one game. . .The record was set in 1950 when passer Jim Hardy of the Cardinals had eight of his passes intercepted in one game.

What makes A good homemaker?

Keeping a sparkling clean house, doing all the family errands with the efficiency of a corporation expert, and looking sharp have long earned many a homemaker the title of "good home manager."

But modern home managing takes more than this, Thumb extension home economist Mrs. Ann Ross points out. Here's a way to see if you rate a "AA" in the good home manager department:

1. Are you alert to what your most important family goals are -- short range? Long range? Are you good at deciding whether your family resources will be used for present needs or future needs, keeping your eye on your family's goals? This is "home managing."

2. Are you good at combining family resources of time, skills, money and property so the goals you aim at can come true. If so, you're managing.

3. Are you just as good at keeping track of your family's business affairs from bookkeeping to important family records, as you are at meal making? In fact, as "homemaker president" of the family corporation or just plain "stock girl," how well do you go about your job of doing, guiding, retary, and Mrs. Betty Decker, directing and involving others so your family moves toward its goals? And do you, as managers must, accept the responsibility and the consequences for your decisions? Then you're

4. Finally, how well do you fit together all the policies and activities of your family -- the whole picture -- to achieve both family and personal satisfactions. This is managing of the finest kind. In doing this, today's good home manager realistically recognizes her Events scheduled this month own abilities and limitations

Eight 4-H Club members from Tuscola and Huron counties were among over 400 young Michigan showmen vying for top honors in the 38th annual Detroit Junior Livestock Show, held Oct. 30 - Nov. 2 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

Bernard Jardot, Extension 4-H Youth Agent, explained that all animals exhibited in the fat-stock show were sold for slaughter at the livestock sale, one of the most exciting features of the show.

The four-day show started Monday with weighing and live evaluation of carcass steers, lamb and hogs. Area showmen who exhibited steers included: Vickie, Susan and Jim Maharg of Mayville; Dennis, Dean and David Little of Cass City; Jill Philp of Bad Axe, and Tom Armbruster of Pigeon.

Judging was held Wednesday, highlighted by the exhibitors' award banquet at the Pick-Fort Shelby Hotel in the evening. Vickie Maharg, of Mayville, gave the 4-H pledge at the banquet.

Where oh where has my VW gone?

By Dan Marlowe

A Volkswagen owner in St. Paul suffered the ultimate indignity recently; he lost his VW in a storm sewer.

The unhappy affair originated beneath a railroad viaduct during a heavy afternoon rain. The water rose so rapidly that the car owner became alarmed and departed via a window. He waded safety and then stood by helplessly while the car was swept toward a tunnel opening into an underground passage.

When the sudden floodwaters subsided, there was no trace of the VW. The owner notified his astonished insurance agent, and the car was written off as a total loss. An enterprising amateur skin diver searched the river bottom into which the underground passage emptied and located the VW a half mile from the spot where it vanished. The skin diver raised it to the surface with a block and tackle mounted on a platform supported by oil drums and sold the battered carcass for enough to cover his expenses.

A couple of high-level government employees have jobs that would make interesting conversation on the cocktail circuit if they could talk about them. One man is an engineer and the other a physicist, and they both work for the Bureau of Standards in Washington, D. C. For the past 10 years their principal occupation has been safecracking.

The idea is for them to test the quality of safes that are to be purchased for government use, and they use everything from 12 pound sledgehammers stethoscopes to X-ray machines. Results of their work are so secret that their redirectors.

Every time I am called to examine a field of corn around harvest time to determine why the stalks are lodging, I become suspicious of Gibberella

As yet this fungus disease on corn has not been observed to be very common in Tuscola county. And the other known corn diseases have not been observed for positive identification as yet except smut.

Last week I identified the third instance of Gibberella diseased corn I have seen in the past six or seven years. My first observation was a couple of miles east of Richville, the second in the north part of Columbia township and the most recent field is located about two miles southeast of the above mentioned second field.

How can we identify this corn disease? First of all the stalks break over anywhere from the tassel to the ground. The breaks always occur right across the node and not elsewhere.

Upon examination at this time of the year a new break will show the internal pith of the nodes to have pink to red areas visible. This coloration is the growing fungus and later on the color will turn to brown or darker grevish black.

To prevent this disease we need to know its life cycle, how it spreads and its best growing conditions.

Gibberella zeae like all fungi reproduce by spores from living bodies. Gibberella zeae has crop host plants which are corn and small grain but is most commonly found on corn.

The fungus organism grows and develops during the growing season of the corn and matures on the corn plant tissue the following spring and early summer. At this time the mature spores are carried by the wind to growing susceptible host plants where they germinate and penetrate the tissue to start the cycle all over again.

The extent of infestation and development of this disease depends on the weather conditions at the time of wind spread and germination. Wet weather really favors best germination and tissue penetration. If the wet weather occurs at time of silking the disease can develop in the ear also and discolors the husks, ear and kernels. Control measures include rotation and clean plowing. But if the disease is wide-spread control measures are not to be expected unless the practices encompass the entire area.

One last comment, infected corn is especially poisonous if fed to hogs.

Since my last writing I visited three operators who were either in the planning stage or actual construction of farm operation improvements. One operator is planning to develop a beef feeding operation, another expand his dairy operation and the third was interested in grain storage drying facility.

In every case examination of cost vs returns ratios were studied. These operators had allowed me to work with them before so they understand what constitutes costs. They understand that costs include cash outlay, charges for assets used plus charges for operator and family labor used. They know that they must charge to the business non-cash expenses of five percent for the owned portions of their assets such as machinery, buildings, livestock and land plus annual depreciation plus at least $1.50 per hour of unpaid operator and family labor. All of our farm operators figure cash expense costs into their operation analysis but only a few charge anything up to non-cash costs. These operators are only fooling themselves by thinking these noncash asset and labor charges are not necessary for business analysis because they have these assets anyway. Therefore, because no cash is being paid out for them these assets are for free. After all, if any cash and/or non-cash inventory increase is accumulated annually above cash expense, this amount is the operator's wage.

When these non-cash labor costs plus charges for assets used, plus annual depreciation on assets used are computed and the business balance is on the plus side of the ledger, operation is on a sound basis. If the ledger shows zero the operator and family labor has been paid for. But, if the ledger shows a negative figure to the extent of the operator and family labor charge all operation cash and non-cash costs have been paid for except the family labor.

In closing let me suggest you make this comparison on your business. If you find a negative figure your operation is in need of adjustment at least for that year.

Quickly regaining his composure, he turned to his favorite subject, his two sons and his daughter. He spoke of Joseph and Frank and Phyllis with deep and quiet pride, and in telling about them Emily is brought into the family picture. He married Emily two years after Mary died when the children were eight, seven and five, respectively, and she became their mother in every way, he said.

Joseph is the oldest and has lived in Cochise, Arizona, since retiring from the automobile industry. It is with this son and family the senior Jankech will live. "He coaxed and coaxed and coaxed me to come to live with them," he said so he finally gave in. Joseph Jr. was in the U. S. Army four years.

His boy Frank spent a total of 28 years serving his country, 12 years in the Marines and another 16 in the Air Force. Frank and his wife now live in Wisconsin.

A father's delight in his daughter is clearly seen when he talks about Phyllis whom he calls' "Phelia." She is Mrs. James Schroeder and lives in Lapeer where the Schroeders own and operate a store. "Phelia didn't cost me a cent," he chuckled. "I delivered her myself and did not have to pay the doctor anything." He related how it was impossible to get help from the neighbor lady because she was sick and Mary insisted he stay at her side instead of hitching up the horse and buggy to bring the doctor from many miles away. So, doing his wife's bidding and following her instructions, he helped bring his daughter into this world. When Joe leaves the area, some of Cass City's older residents will miss him, too. "He was a good bowler in town many years and is a sharp card player, always ready for a joke and always laughing," said one of them. He will be remembered in the surrounding communities as one of the era's smoothest dancers, excelling in the waltz steps learned in his native country.

In Joseph Jankech's opinion, the saying, "Go West," applies not only to young men but to the young in heart.

Funds allocated to county roads

The State Highway Commission in Lansing has announced the apportionment of federal matching funds for construction on state and county secondary roads.

Michigan will receive about $4,000 less during the fiscal year starting July 1, 1968, than the amount of the current fiscal year. The total state allotment in federal monies for secondary road construction will be $8,-531,677, said acting highway director, Henrik E. Stafseth.

$212,081 will be distributed among Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac countles as follows: Tuscola, $69,360; Huron, $67,220, and Sanilac, $75,501.

Probate Court duties explained at BPW meet

Cass City Business and Pro-fessional Women Club met for its regular dinner meeting at the New Gordon Hotel on Nov.

Tom Moore and Dave Skiles entertained with three musical selections on their electric guitars.

Dorothy Schram was accepted into membership and Jean Dergis was granted a transfer to a Saginaw club. Committee activities were reported by Lor-raine O'Dell, Betty Carmer and Leota Anthes, Grace Nemeth reported on the Fall District V meeting held Oct. 8 in Clare.

Named to the Project committee were Lorraine O'Dell, Mary Kirton and Sharon Kelly. Christmas committee members appointed were Leota Anthes, Phyllis Wenk, Thelma Pratt, Helen Bartle and Margaret Weippert.

Beatrice Berry, Tuscola County Register of Probate, was guest speaker. In addition to explaining her duties, and those of the Probate Judge, she answered many questions relative to child adoption, and the care and handling of juveniles who come under the jurisdiction of the court, of the meadows, the duels of the cows to see which one stood first in the pecking order, the traffic on the hairpin turns of a mountain highway, the thrilling shots of skiing, the clothing and the wedding customs of the mountain people, or the making of the cheese and the ways of serving it.

My own particular interest was concentrated on the difference between the high cities of the mountains and the low cities of the valleys. My Hostetler ancestors came from Switzerland when George Washington was a baby. Hostetler is German word for high, and "Stadt" means city, so a "Hochstadtler" is someone who lives in a high city. The film indicated that most of the people who lived there were either herdsmen or cheesemakers.

Swiss cheese is still being made in Wisconsin and Ohio by the same methods the Swiss use. The milk is brought to a central "cheese factory," where it is gently heated in a huge copper kettle until it begins to Funeral services were held curdle. (A bacterial culture Church. Rev. > Publicity is publicity, but really, Mrs. Romney, did you have to break a shoulder to get your picture on the front

Pve just been looking over a copy of "Modern Maturity," a magazine published by the American Association of Retired Persons. It includes seven full-page scenic pictures in gorgeous color, some articles of general interest, other mathat would appeal primarily to retired people, and two pages of jokes. Here are a few samples of the jokes.

Apparently any person 55 years of age or older may become a member of the American Association of Retired Persons, whether he is retired or not, by sending $2 to AARP Membership Department, 406 E. Grand Avenue, Ojai, Calif. 93023. In addition to receiving the magazine, members have various services available to them which could well be worth more than $2 a year.

Use metal plate connectors for stud-to-floor connections in large grain storages, say Michigan State University agricultural engineers. A stud socket set in concrete and a tie connection from the concrete to the reinforcing timber around the wall should also be used to resist tremendous grain pressures.

The Michigan Public Service Commission has denied a request by the Chesapeake, and Ohio Railway Company to discontinue its Fairgrove freight agency station in Tuscola coun-

The railroad company in its petition held that the nearby Akron agency could handle the work of the Fairgrove agency by telephone and that customers at Gilford, a non-agency station presently serviced from Fairgrove, would be handled through the Saginaw agency.

There was opposition to the discontinuance request by Fairgrove shippers and officials who testified that the termination of the agency station would be detrimental to the community and present users, and would adversely affect the possibility of attracting new business into Fairgrove.

before Recovery.

One of the goals of Recovery

Fifty mental patients were waiting to see Dr. Abraham A. Low, a psychiatrist, as he walked through the doors of the University of Illinois Medical School. Realizing that he could not possibly give an hour to each one, Dr. Low conceived the idea of helping them in a thereafter, Dr. Low realized that patients who have largely recovered from their psychosis can be helpful to others who dismissed from been mental hospitals but still get and frightened. He founded Recovery, Incorporated, a "club" composed of laymen who have largely or completely recovered from their mental problems and who aid others in need of help.

Thirty years later Recovery, Inc. has a membership of over 10,000 and has helped many thousands more overcome their mental problems. There are 157 chapters in Michiganalone; 36 states and three Canadian provinces have local chapters. It is a self-help organization of people whose extreme nervousness interferes with their lives. For some it's a means of recuperating from a nervous breakdown. Members meet regularly in small open meetings with the reading of a chapter from Dr. Low's book, "Mental Health Through Will Training," followed by panel discussions. Members relate personal experiences, report how Recovery helped them handle their difficulties. First names only are used unless the person wishes to reveal his last name.

The shortage of physicians in Michigan is felt in many communities. The immediate needs are 300 additional doctors per year. Michigan currently has three doctors for every 2,000 people, one of the highest doctor-to-population ratios in the nation. It is beginning to show an alarming change.

MSU's new facility is now categorized as a "two year" school. Its program is considered a "continuous six-year experience." with "medical school" training starting in the fourth year after three years of undergraduate work. The school is aiming for an enrollment of 64 students per class and is completing plans for an $11.8 million Life Sciences Building,

Wayne State University's medical school is also expanding under the new "medical complex" planned for the university. University of Michigan medical school, already the largest in the nation, has filed detailed expansion plans with the state board of education and the legislature.

The Social Security Representative will be at the Municipal Building in Cass City Friday, Nov. 17, from I to 3 p. m. instead of the normal day, Friday, Nov. 10, because of Veterans Day, a legal holiday. The change was announced today by Stefan Gasparovic, District Manager of the Saginaw Social Security office.

Social Security

Rep. here Nov. 17

Anyone wanting information or assistance in filing for Social Security is reminded to contact the district office at 312 S. Washington, Saginaw, for complete and faster service. The office is open on Monday from 8:45 a. m. to 7:45 p. m. and Tuesday through Friday from 8:45 a, m, to 4:45 p, m. The district office will be closed Nov. 10.

Gasparovic noted that any persons over 65 who are not enrolled in supplemental medical insurance benefits under Medicare have an opportunity to enroll from now through March 31, 1968. They should contact the district office for further information and to en-

Final rites held for Clara Seeger

Mrs. Clara J. Seeger, 84, died Thursday, Nov. 2, at the Marlette Community Hospital. She was the widow of John Seeger and had resided in Cass City since 1944. Daughter of the late Edwin and Margaret Sewell Sawyers, Mrs. Seeger was born July 30, 1883, at Barbersville, Ky.

In 1900 she married Lewis Faulker, who died in 1914. She married Seeger Oct. 16, 1945, in Saginaw, and he died in 1962.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Fred (Margaret) Hull, Cass City, Mrs. Robert (Lena) Schofield, Birmingham, and Mrs. Lois Dawkins, Royal Oak; eight grandchildren; 24 great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Georgia Ross, Mrs. Mary Miller and Mrs. Bess Vackert, all of Florida; one brother, Benjamin Sawyers, Port Huron, and one stepson, Allister Seeger, California.

Services were held at 2:00 p. m. Sunday at the Cass City Methodist church of which she was a member, the Rev. James Braid, pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Elkland cemetery.

Avoid spring fever. Fertilize now.

Spring is hectic enough, without having to do most of your fertilizing too. Q-Plan can get most of next year's fertilizer requirements on now. Save you time and labor costs in the bargain.

Fall fertilizing actually increases spring fertility, too, because crop trash is being turned into rich soil humus and extra nitrogen throughout the winter months. Gives your young crop an edge on a strong, healthy stand.

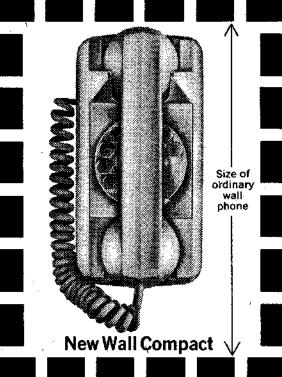

Q-Plan products and recommendations are field-tested and proven to grow more and grow it more profitably. Exclusive Interlocking makes Q-Plan a complete, workable crop production program designed for top quality, top profit yields. And you get the benefit of expert agronomic advice and farm services.

We don't want you to get hot under the collar come spring. Let us show you how Super Q-Plan can put you at ease this fall.
