CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1967

Review year's 10 top stories

In retrospect, 1967 was an eventful year in Cass City. Picking the top 10 stories from the galaxy of important events that swept the community through the year is a near-impossible task. Some of the top stories were of a continuing nature and have to be considered among the most important because of their impact on the economy of the community.

One of these stories was the removal of the farm personal property tax. It caused a $2 million reduction in the Cass City Schools' tax base and cut revenues of the county.

Its ripples are still being felt by organizations dependent on tax money for their survival.

SNOW STORM

More spectacular and easily one of the top events of the year was the severe snow storm that blanketed the area the end of January.

It stopped the economy dead in its tracks and many Thumb stores didn't even bother to open for the week end. The heavy snow broke down roofs and awnings of buildings and caused untold damage throughout the area.

TRAGIC FIRE

The community was horrified and saddened by the worst house fire in the history of the county as seven children died in a fire at the home of the Ernie Spencers and others were badly burned.

COLLEGE VOTE

Another blow to the community was the loss of the Thumb Community College as voters in the three-county area turned down the facility in a special vote. Two years of work went down the drain with the people's decision, but undaunted backers immediately started to plan for another vote that they hope will have a better chance of being accepted.

SPRING RAINS

Although Cass City was not as hard hit as many communities, the spring rains were another news highlight of the year. Especially stricken were farmers east and south of the community. Many farms' entire crops were literally wiped out by one rain after another.

On the brighter side of the news, Cass City was able to point to a couple of significant achievements. A drive to expand the park was carried out to a successful conclusion as the village added land to the present park and optioned land for a new site in the southeast section of the village.

The second big story of community advancement was the establishment of a sanitary landfill to replace the present dump.

The new site came after over 10 years of discussion, investigation and squabbling and when the final location was purchased there were virtually no complaints.

TEACHER CONTRACTS

As always, the school was a prime source of news. Because of its concern to every resident, the annual union talks and the shortage of teachers were again a top story. . . . as was the progress of the new high school which moved very close to opening during the year.

Another top story was actually a series of stories. It was the increase of vandalism in the area.

The destruction of 46 parking meters and the wanton burning of several empty barns for no apparent reason were examples of senseless crimes committed through the year. . . . crimes which showed a sharp increase in 1967.

Finally, another top story that was never spectacular, but always vital was the economic advancement in the community. Cass City experienced another banner year as personal incomes rose, retail business generally was very good and factories productive.

The year was marked by a year of good labor relations with only a short strike at Evans Products in Cagetown interrupting the work flow.

4 openings for village council posts

The Cass City Village Council accepted with regret the resignation of Glenn "Scotty" McCullough Tuesday night at the Municipal building.

The veteran councilman became stricken in mid-summer and has been unable to attend the meetings. Prior to his illness, he had compiled the best attendance record of any trustee, never missing a regular or special meeting of the council.

His resignation will leave a fourth opening on the council and the Jan. 2 at 4 p. m. deadline for submitting petitions is drawing near.

Although no petitions have yet been turned in to the clerk, all incumbents whose terms expire are circulating petitions. Trustees whose two-year terms expire are Dr. D. E. Rawson, George Dillman and Dr. William Selby.

Also seeking re-election for one-year terms are: President Lambert Althaver, Clerk and Treasurer Mrs. Ruth Hoffman and Assessor Mac O'Dell.

PACKING UP - These students aren't planning to spend the holidays doing nothing but studying. They are simply clearing out their lockers at the intermediate school and taking everything home prior to bringing it back to the new Cass City High School.

Vanover pleads innocent in circuit court

Few crashes mar holiday week

Three persons pleaded innocent and a fourth pleaded guilty when arraigned on criminal charges in Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Lowell Vanover of Davison pleaded innocent on two charges. He was charged with assault with intent to murder Milton Bedore, his father-in-law. He allegedly beat up the Columbia Township supervisor at his home, 3 1/2 miles east of Millington.

A second charge stemming from the incident was for unlawfully carrying a dangerous weapon which it is claimed that he used to threaten his wife and the Bedore family.

Bond was continued at $20,000. Eugene Schmitt of Caro pleaded innocent to unlawfully accosting a 10 year old child to commit an act of gross indecency.

Leo Weiss of Frankenmuth stood mute when charged with Mrs. Mary Pasteczny of Bedford was in fairly good condition Wednesday morning at Hills and Dales General Hospital following an accident Tuesday afternoon on Phillips Road.

She is suffering from concussion, shock and a possible right wrist fracture. Mrs. Pasteczny was a passenger in an auto driven by Wasly Pasteczny. He lost control of his car at White Creek bridge, near Shabbona Road.

The car was a total wreck. Several other minor property damage accidents were reported.

Peter Zawilinski, 20, lost control of his car on Christmas Day on Krapf Road, about a half mile south of Cass City Road.

He damaged the left side of his car and was issued a ticket for failure to stop in assured clear distance ahead.

A two-car crash occurred Thursday on M-81, about a half mile from Schwegler Road.

Earl Owen Hendrick of Decker had stopped on the road after being flagged by a school bus driver. He had his flashers on. His vehicle was hit in the rear by a car driven by Shirley M. Ross. She told investigating officers that she didn't see the flashers and did not realize the car was stopped until it was too late to avoid hitting it.

Council ups wages 10%

The Cass City Village Council granted village employees a 10 per cent across the board increase at its regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal Building. The package will cost village taxpayers more than $5,500 annually.

The action came Tuesday after the village employees and the council met in a special unannounced meeting the previous Tuesday in which the demands of the employees were submitted.

Evidently most of the discussion concerning the wage boost was held at this meeting. The employees had asked for a 10 per cent raise and also requested that the village pay $2.10 per week per employee for major medical insurance. The third request was that sick leave pay accrue over 30 days and some of it used as holiday time.

The village voted to extend the sick leave to a maximum of 60 days, but stipulated that it be used only as sick leave and said that the increased insurance cost would be figured as part of the 10 per cent increase.

CHANGE HOURS

The raise will be computed on the total salary received by the employees last year. The maintenance men worked 49 1/2 hours per week. The base pay ranged up to $2.10 per hour with 9 1/2 hours on a time and a half basis.

The men making the most money now will receive a bigger pay boost under the arrangements devised by the council.

Still facing the council is an adjustment in the hours. There is some talk of reducing the work week for the maintenance men to 45 hours and placing the men on salary. This plan is now being discussed by the employees.

The village patrolmen are already on salary and Jay Crane, assistant at the disposal plant, was placed on salary by council action Tuesday.

REDUCED SALARY

The village also voted to reduce the salary of the village assessor. The move was taken on a straight vote without discussion in the regular session.

President Althaver said that the matter was discussed in a morning meeting. Under the law, villages and the township must have the same assessed valuations and if there is a difference in the two assessments the assessment of the township must be followed.

BUY LOADER

Also purchased at the special meeting was a $7,500 front loader to be used at the sanitary landfill. The machine will also be available for use in snow removal.

Deliver 29 Yule baskets

Christmas for 29 area families was made a little brighter this year by the distribution of baskets with funds provided by the Elkland and Novesta Township Community Chest.

The baskets were packed by the Junior Woman's Club with the help of Erla's Food Market. They were distributed by Harry Little.

A feature of the baskets this year, reported Harold Isard, Community Chest president, was the addition of a 12-pound turkey.

Over $400 of the Chest's funds were used to fill the baskets this year.

Tell winners in Chamber drawing

The drawing sponsored by the retail division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce was concluded with money drawings for 12 persons.

Receiving $50 each were: Mrs. Merl Winter, Linda Haebler, Nelson Willy, Wayne Babcock, Brion Bass, Harvey Asher, Marian Turner, Mrs. James Grez and Ricky Sugden.

Receiving $25 were: Margaret Gerda, Willie LeBlanc and Adrian Lajole.

Planners okay building use for Masonic Lodge

A decision of the Cass City Planning Commission as read to the village council Tuesday by President Lambert Althaver authorized the use of the former Lutheran Church building on Maple and Garfield Streets as a Masonic Lodge.

The former church is in an area now zoned for one and two family residential use. It was built before the new zoning laws became effective.

The request for a ruling was made by the Masons who evidently are interested in purchasing the building.

School scribbles

By L. H.

C.C.H.S.

At last, finally the time has come! The moment every- body has been waiting for since school started in the fall -- CHRISTMAS VACATION.

Last week was the count- down. . . 5 more days, 4 more days, 3. . . and Friday Blast Off!!!! (and everybody did, too.)

To start out the week right, on Monday, first hour, we had our December Assembly. An accordionist, Donald Hulme, entertained us with his playing. Mr. Hulme has won many honors for his playing, includ- ing being a guest on the Ed Sullivan show. He demonstrated something new - his accordion was amplified by remote con- trol, and thrown throughout the gym by a rotating amplifier.

The Student Council met first hour Tuesday. After a very short business meeting, (about 10 minutes) the council went up to the new school for a tour. The administration is try- ing to get as many students familiar to the new building as possible, so that when we return to school next year, not everyone will be lost. (Wanna make a bet?) The council went around the entire school, but nobody really knew where they were!

Wednesday morning home- rooms were held. Locker and room assignments were handed out, with some other informa- tion to confuse us upon en- tering the new school. We are responsible for keeping these materials until next January 8th when we go back.

Thursday we had another as- sembly. The band and choir gave a short program, which was a preview of the program they gave for the public that night. After the music, Santa came!! He even gave a few people some gifts. He gave Debbie Boylan a Paul Le Valley doll, (I've never seen one of those) and Kally Pine some mouth freshener - I guess she has gabbitis or something; Mr. Wynes a sign that said "Get to Work," so instead of al- ways saying that to his stu- dents, he could just hold up the sign, and Jack Selby got a list of girls he could ask to the Christmas dance since Carla Calka was gone for the whole week end. (I guess Carla gave the list to Santa to give to Jack!?)

The Christmas Concert Thursday night featured the Junior and Senior Bands and the Choir. Some students took a special part in the program. In the Junior band Jane Turner, Joan Russell, Lorie Spear, and Pam Kilbourn played two Christmas carols in a flute quartet and Jerry Hunt played Silent Night as a cornet solo. Students who sang solos were, Tom Fulcher, Lorraine Smith, Juanita Phelps, Dale Bullock, and Mary Rexin. Duets were sung by: Dale Bullock and Mary Sue Burns, Tom Fulcher and Mr. Parrish, and Bill Spencer and Richard Barriger.

Friday was a mixed up day. It was a great day in that it was the last day before Christ- mas vacation and it was dif- ferent from any other day be- cause it was the last day that the high school students (grades 9-12) would ever go to school in the same building. And talk about a lot of things going on!!! There were parties, classes caroling through the halls every hour, tests, and packing going on everywhere to get everything boxed by the end of the day, but the best part was the parties!!!

The French class caroled through the halls second hour. (Singing carols in French of course). They really sounded great - they should, they have been practicing every day for some time now.

At 3:35 Friday afternoon De- cember 22, 1967 the bell rang and Blast Off!!! Everybody in the halls was cheering, papers were flying, and everything was one big party. So now we are out for almost three great weeks of vacation.

CLUB NEWS

The first edition of the Hawk Crier came out Friday, and were sold in the 8th hour classes.

TID BITS

The Cheerleaders sponsored a Christmas dance Friday night.

Happiness is going to school, to find out that all of your teachers are sick and stayed home.

For the past couple of weeks Sam Wells, a former student of CCHS, has been substituting for our poor, sick teachers. He's been teaching everything from Spanish I, to Algebra II to Typing I and, of course, study hall. I think he must have taught just about every class up at school.

This vacation the teachers tricked us into taking ALL our books home!! How? - They said if the lockers weren't clean, anything left would be burned. Actually, we had to clean them out since we wouldn't be using them anymore after Friday.

Confidence is the feeling you have before you know better.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

What are the odds that two football teams meeting two straight years would see those two games end with the same team winning by the same score and with the same man scoring the same number of winning points in both games? . . . Did you know this coincidence once happened to Army and Navy. . . Navy beat Army in 1910 and in 1911. . . The score of each game was Navy 3, Army 0. . . And in each of those games, the scoring was done by the same man in the same way as Jack Dalton of Navy won each game by kick- ing a field goal for the only points in the games. . . Who would ever predict that two straight games could be so similar.

Any idea how much the regu- lation footballs that are used in the National and American Football Leagues cost? . . . Answer is about $22.50 per ball.

Of all the football bowl games, none is more appropriately named than the Sugar Bowl. . . The Sugar Bowl stadium is actually located on the site of the old plantation where sugar was first granulated in this country!

Book Review

This book laughs at arch conservatism

By Rev. R. J. Searls

As I read more and more of this book, it seemed that the author just had to be an unusual humorist plus having the abilities of a novelist, historian and what have you! He just must be a member of the famous Benchley family, and the biographical notes revealed that this was, in fact, so. Bob Benchley, until his death, was probably the world's outstanding writer of humor. I was introduced to him, through his writing, during my college days. It wasn't unusual that the young lady, with whom I desired to share my life, also had a high appreciation of the great humorist. Books by and about Bob Benchley made their appearance on our bookshelves faster than any others, with the exception of books required by my profession.

Nathaniel Benchley, the son of Robert Benchley, has fast made a name for himself in the world of letters. He has avoided the temptation to ride on his father's coattails and still acknowledge the justified fame of his humorist-father. Like his father, many of his articles and stories have appeared in "The New Yorker" and "Life". He also wrote a biography of his late father. He has written, and had published, at least ten novels, of which "The Monument" is the latest.

Among other things, the author has written in "The Monument" a non-too-subtle irony. This will not be on the literature tables at John Birchir gatherings. As a matter of fact, the whole fossilized movements of extreme conservatives (political) are held up to be laughed at. The simple framework of the novel has to do with a scheme two town drunks conceived following their town's Armistice Day celebration. Horace Sutter is the town's one (out of at least five others) attorney whose practice has never flourished, due to a natural antipathy to sustained hard work.

Around The Farm

Farmers, let's count our blessings

By Alfred P. Ballweg

While Tuscola county is not one of the top counties in dairy cattle we still do have about 450 farms with milk cows. A high percentage of these are classed as grade A herds. According to the last census, income from dairy was $5,446,223.00.

While visiting with a number of dairy farmers this past week I noted a spirit of optimism in their comments. They all indicated an interest in better herd management and increasing their herd production.

I wish to take this opportunity to pass a few bouquets along to some of our top dairymen who have attained a coveted award of being on the State DHIA "500 pound club" list. To qualify for this award the herd must average 500 pounds or more of butterfat each year for the past five years: Ronald Hampshire, Deford - 14,675 pounds of milk production per cow; 557 pounds of butterfat production per cow; number of cows, 25. Don Koepgen, Cass City - 14,558 pounds of milk production per cow; 525 pounds of butterfat production per cow; number of cows, 24. Howard Loomis & Sons, Gagetown - 14,772 pounds milk production per cow, 529 pounds butterfat per cow, 33.1 cows.

Tuscola county dairymen having herds that produced an average of 500 pounds butterfat for the year 1967 are as follows: Ronald Hampshire, Deford - 15,467 pounds milk; 576 pounds butterfat; Howard Loomis & Sons, Gagetown - 15,341 pounds milk; 545 pounds butterfat; Donald Doerr, Cass City - 14,661 pounds milk; 542 pounds butterfat; Wilfred & Richard Leix, Fostoria - 13,845 pounds milk; 508 pounds fat; Don Koepgen, Cass City - 14,722 pounds milk, 508 pounds fat, and Lloyd Walz, Vassar, 14,804 pounds milk.

AAUW gets college outlook from panel A panel of students from Cass City attending various colleges discussed the changing attitudes and activities on the campus today. Participating were Ann Sheppard, Mary Lou Spencer, Bob Milligan, David MacRae and Les Searls. They agreed that there is a definite confusion among students about attitudes and values. Two said that they knew students who take drugs while three reported they knew of none at their schools. While the students were not in accord about the persons they most admired in politics, sports or other activities, they were agreed that it was "certainly not (President) Johnson." All were enthusiastic about the future and felt that their generation was different, yet the same; wanting and working towards a better America. The AAUW meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ed Baker Wednesday, Dec. 20. Mrs. Malvina Howarth was cohostess. Mrs. Marilou Drews moderated the discussion panel for the 21 members and one guest present. No car on the road is safe unless it has a safe driver.

Specialist to tell of family values

The poorest folk may be the richest in family traditions at Christmas time, says Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb area extension home economist. And traditions build strong families of unity.

Traditions may be as simple as hanging up the stockings on Christmas eve or as deeply significant as being spiritually involved in religious Christmas pageantry. But whatever they are, they teach your family that this is something you feel has great value. They know they can count on it year after year.

It gives the family a sense of continuity. It helps them hold onto values from the past. It helps show our children that we have faith.

Christmas is primarily a family affair. It may be just the closely knit family -- mother, father and the children -- or it may expand to family reunion size. Grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and all may get together traditionally for a holiday dinner. This can be one of the happiest events of the year. Eating together is one of the oldest and best expressions of unity.

Decorating the house can be thought of as a tradition. Even giving presents is a tradition that is an expression of love. By our gifts we say to our children that we love them. And they learn to express their love in this way, too.

Building family traditions need not be a costly part of Christmas. It's just finding something real special for an emotional experience for your family each year at Christmas time.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

And all the candy you can eat....

By Marion Hostetler

Ever since there's been a Cass City, more candy and cookies are consumed at Christmas time than at any other season of the year. Ernest Reagh, 84, remembers many a change that has taken place during his lifetime in the methods of satisfying Elkland Township's sweet tooth.

While still a schoolboy Ernest went to work for a grocer, in exchange for room and board, a cash salary, and "all the candy you can eat." Nearly every new boy, according to the grocer, would eat so much candy the first couple of days in the store that his appetite for sweets was never very strong again. Ernie was no exception.

He does remember one boy who was an exception, though. This young fellow would nibble on candy from the time the store opened in the morning until it closed at 9 p. m. Then on his way home he would stop at the confectionery which was in the building now occupied by Sommers' Bakery, and buy another nickel's worth of candy! Today we'd suspect that anyone with such a desire for sugar might have diabetes.

Nowadays if a schoolgirl wants to make some fudge, she may very well open a package of mix that includes all the ingredients properly blended. It hasn't been many years ago that she would have had to blend her own ingredients, opening a box of sugar to secure her sweetening. A decade or two prior to that, she would have bought sugar from a barrel, with the grocer scooping out as much as she required and weighing it in a brown paper sack.

Even before that, the grocer wouldn't have had any sacks, so he would have wrapped her sugar in a plain piece of paper -- and that's when Ernest entered the picture. He remembers that it was fairly easy to wrap a quarter's worth of brown sugar, because it tended to pack and hold its shape, but it took considerable skill to create a flat sheet of paper in such a way as to make a packet that would contain white sugar without spilling any.

In those days the farmers had very little cash to spend for items like sugar, so they bartered eggs or butter for their groceries. Since crates had not been invented yet, eggs were carried to market in a bucket. If she had to ride to town in a lumber wagon, the housewife might cushion the eggs by putting some oats into the bucket to keep the eggs from bouncing around.

The hens ran loose and laid their eggs in secluded places, so that they might lie around for several days before they were found, and a few more days might elapse before they were brought to market. So it was essential that eggs be candied before being sold. Ernie would sit in a darkened room in front of a piece of stovepipe that had a couple of egg-sized holes punched in it. The candle was inside the stovepipe, and by holding the eggs in front of the holes, the candler could tell whether the eggs were fresh enough to sell. Each candler would pick up two eggs with each hand. After inspecting them, he would put the good eggs in one box, the cracked ones in another, and the rotten ones in still a third.

The grocer allowed the boys to keep a jug of vinegar near the bench, and if they found a good egg that was too badly cracked to sell, they might open the shell, pour a little vinegar over the egg, and swallow it raw.

More butter would be brought into the store than could be sold locally, and the surplus was sent to Detroit. The home-town grocer would save the butter from the best butter-makers for his prized local customers; the less desirable butter was sent to the city. Most of the butter was delivered to the store in crocks. When it was time for a shipment to Detroit, the grocer's boy would scoop the butter out of the crocks with his bare hand and throw it into a barrel. The butter would later be washed and reworked by machine before being sold to the city customers.

Nina and Gertrude McWebb showed me some copies of a magazine published by the National Retired Teachers Association. I had a kindred feeling for the man who was asked whether he had realized any of his childhood wishes. As reported in the Journal, he said, "Yes, when my mother used to make me comb my hair, I often wished I didn't have any."

Being a good husband is like any other job -- much easier if you get along with the boss.

The only person who makes little things count today is a kindergarten teacher.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history a deer shot in the Cass City area was big enough to rank in a state-wide contest. The trophy animal was shot by Jim Knowlton, second from left, and was the fourth best in the 11th annual "Michigan Outdoors" contest hosted by Mort Neff. The buck had 17 antler points and a spread worth 21 inches in the contest for a total of 38 points. Other winners pictured are, from left: Charles Patterson, Manistique; Knowlton; Delos Higland, Hart; Mort Neff; Paul Isaacson, South Lyon, and grand prize winner Ruben Lesser Jr., Chelsea.

Quarter Century Club meets

Wednesday evening, Dec. 20, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Holcomb attended a Christmas dinner party at Klumps Restaurant, Harbor Beach.

The occasion feted employees, and their wives, of the Nestle Company who have worked for the company 25 years or more. The group is called The Quarter of a Century Club.

There were 24 members and their wives present from the Uby plant and the plant that was in Cass City.

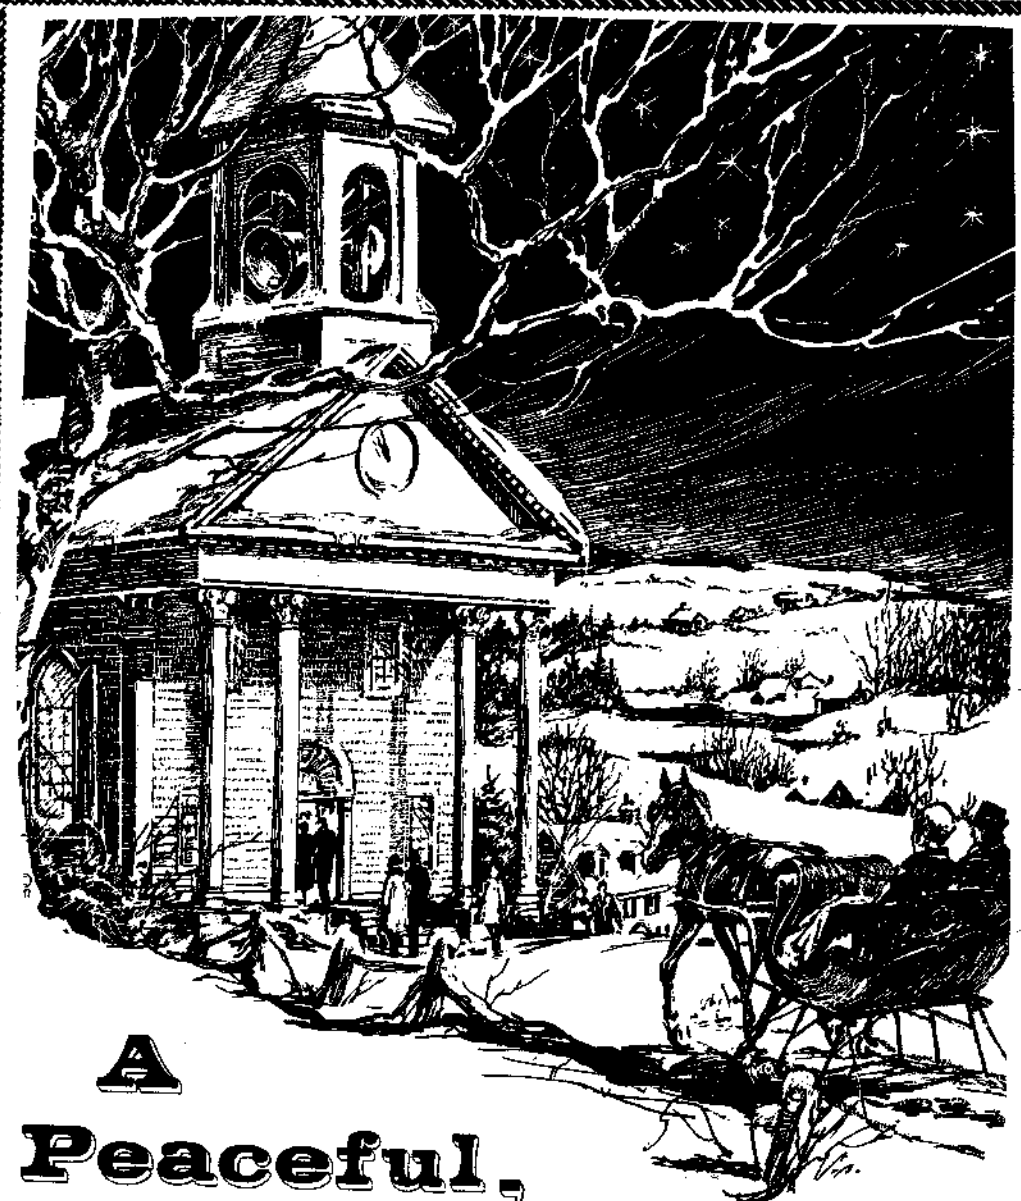

Three more employees became members of the club, having completed 25 years of service this year.

They were presented with gold watches by the Uby plant superintendent, Olin Ramseyer.

Mr. Turner, Mr. Holcomb and Mason Wilson are the only members left from the former Cass City Nestles plant. Holcomb is still employed at the Uby plant, but Turner and Wilson are retired.

Free water system bulletins available at agent's office

Submerged inlets in drinking cups and automatic waterers can cause "back siphoning" of cup water into milk-house faucets, warns Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent.

This problem can be alleviated by purchasing stock watering equipment with an air gap between the inlet and the water level.

To insure that all areas of your water system meet minimum Department of Public Health standards, Ballweg suggests farmers obtain a copy of the new Extension Bulletin 597, "Recommendations for a Safe and Adequate Water System."

The bulletin, which clearly illustrates proper and improper water systems, is based upon the latest standards for grade A milk producers. The recommendations include well location and construction, pump installation, and systems of adequate design and distribution.

The bulletin is now available from the Tuscola County Extension Office, Courthouse, Caro. It may also be obtained without charge by sending a postal card and asking for it by number EB 597 from: Bulletin Office, Michigan State University, Room 10 Ag Hall, East Lansing, Michigan 48823.

Because their back is against it, many people never see the handwriting on the wall.

The whole question of safety in driving resolves itself down to the individual motorist.

State offering on-the-job training to unemployable

Hard-core unemployed will receive more help in getting off the public dole. A limited program of on-the-job training is now offered by the State of Michigan.

Noting that private enterprise has already taken steps to provide jobs for those formerly felt to be "unemployable," the state program has 1,100 jobs presently available in its various departments.

Some of the openings are temporary or seasonal, but all have the primary goal of providing job skills and the opportunity to advance to a higher position. If successful, the program will save Michigan taxpayers millions of dollars in welfare costs. The 41,000 families who received aid during the 1966-67 fiscal year cost the state $72.7 million.

Plans to hire the hard-core unemployed originated in the State Civil Service Department in July. The way was cleared to make it possible for any of the 19 major departments to hire unskilled workers through a type of "contractual agreement" with the applicants.

State Budget Director Glenn S. Allen Jr. ordered a survey of the departments to determine

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

State of Michigan, Probate Court for the County of Tuscola.

File No. 20134
Estate of Kenneth W. McRae, Deceased.

It is Ordered that on January 11th, 1968, at ten a. m. in the Probate Courtroom in the Village of Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of Lela I. Hall for probate of a purported will, and for granting of administration to the executor named, or some other suitable person, and for a determination of heirs.

job possibilities, types of employment available and geographical location of the openings. Although not all of the departments have responded, there are currently 1,100 jobs which can be filled by hard-core unemployed, 900 of these in the State Conservation Department.

A minimum wage of $1.25 per hour is paid to beginning workers; intermediate wages run $1.50 per hour and maximum pay is $1.75 per hour.

Ernest H. Wallick, special program director for the State Civil Service Department, stated that those in the program do not receive fringe benefits and that all departments were instructed not to consider using these "aides" to replace or in substitute of regular civil service personnel.

Workers under the program may still receive some supplemental welfare benefits if wages do not cover rent, food, clothing and incidentals. Whenever a worker feels he has developed enough knowledge and skill, he may take a regular civil service examination. If he passes, he is then classified and may move into a regular civil service position.

Lack of funds may limit the participation of some departments, Wallick said. However, he noted that 13 already are on jobs as clerical and service aides in administration, civil rights and labor departments. State Police are also expected to hire two. A large number of openings are expected to be found in the mental health department where the survey is presently being conducted.

Once the survey is completed, the program will be fully implemented. The plan is not tied into any federal program, although Wallick admits that federal authorities are probably watching the project with interest.

Applicants will be referred from local Office of Economic Opportunity facilities and from the Michigan Employment Securities Commission. Since most hard-core unemployed reside in large urban areas, it is felt that these two agencies can best process the applicants.

Records of achievement and job performance will be closely kept and within a year there should be a good indication of whether the program has merit.

UNIQUE SENIOR CENTER

Flint Senior Citizens can well boast of their unique and beautiful senior center as probably the only one of its type in the United States. The center is located on a golf course and offers a golf clubhouse, lounge, concession, recreation program, offices and multi-purpose rooms. The center is hopefully only the pilot center for three other such facilities in the city.

The building cost $278,350 plus $37,000 for furnishings. Construction was financed through the City of Flint capital improvement fund and the golf wing was built with funds from the golf reserve of the Flint Recreation and Park Board, money acquired through the profits on all other Flint municipal golf courses. Part of the furnishings cost was contributed by private donors.

Plans call for expanding the building from its present 12,720 sq. ft. size to 25,104 sq. ft. within a few years. A large dining room, kitchen, stage and additional crafts rooms will be added and the parking lot will be enlarged and lighted.

The building, dedicated Oct. 1, has already attracted considerable attention. The director points out that the complex is a "different" approach to senior citizen programming, noting, "With people retiring early, you have to upgrade your program!"

One fair test of a patriot is whether he'll do as much for his country as his country has done for him.

The Want Ads are newsy too.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Chappel

Miss Susan Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley of Kingston, became the bride of Ronald G. Chappel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chappel of Marlette, Saturday evening, Oct. 28. The Rev. John E. Larkin performed the candlelight double-ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian church of Marlette.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a nylon organza and lace gown over taffeta, trimmed with sequins, sabrina neckline and long sleeves forming points over the wrists. The full skirt with lace ruffles fell to a chapel train. A headpiece of petals held her illusion veil.

She carried a cascade style bouquet of white pompon mums centered with two white orchids with white satin streamers.

Their circular veils were held in place by a velvet bow and a pearl setting. They carried a cascade arrangement of white pompon mums and yellow and green carnations to match their dresses.

Natalie Long and Maria Jensen were flower girls. Their floor-length light green dresses were identical to the attendants' gowns. They each carried a basket of white pompon mums and yellow and green carnations.

Paul Chappel served his brother as best man. Ron Coulter, John Lambert, friends of the groom, and Larry Chappel, cousin of the groom, served as groomsmen. Ushers were George Pollack and Hugh Coupar, uncles of the groom. Fredrick Kelley, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kelley chose a two-piece aqua dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Chappel wore a two-piece avocado knit suit with olive trim and matching accessories. They both wore escort corsages of red sweet-heart roses.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Josh Clodhopper announced to the fellers at the country store Saturday night he aimed to try and git on the welfare and relief rolls. He said he was going to base his claims on the grounds of insanity.

He reported he was already starting to worry about them income tax forms farmers has got to file in February, that he has got some questions from the Labor Department about farm labor regulations, and he had done started dreading that census form they was going to put out fer 1970.

Josh said he just couldn't take it no longer, claimed he wasn't sleeping good at night, his eating has fell off, and he was a nervous wreck. He figured the best way to git out of the mess was to claim official that he had lost his cotton pickin' mind and git on the Government handout programs. He told the fellers he had been advised that folks on them free-loading projects didn't have to fill out nothing, that high paid Government workers in the various agencies looked after all the forms and red tape.

Ed Doolittle said he was in favor of insanity or anything else that would git a feller loose from the Great Society red tape but he was doubtful if Josh could swing it. Ed said they would send one of them

Government sykitryists to examine Josh and he'd feel him to see if he was warm, ask him how old he was, and a few more questions and declare him sound and fitten to pay taxes.

Josh was a bit more optimistic about the prospects. He said he would put on a good act and when the feller ask him how old he was he would say he didn't remember exact but he could recollect he was with General Grant when Grant took Richmond. That, claimed Josh, had ought to fix him up real good.

Zeke Grubb was agin Josh's plan. He was agreed we was all slow but sure going crazy from what you might call "red tapeitis" but he allowed as how the thing to do was to git stubborn, take 3 weeks out of ever month and keep filling out them forms from them Government clerks and outlast 'em. He even predicted they was a chance we might outlive 'em.

Personal, I got a heap of sympathy fer Josh in his hour of great sorrow. I ain't ready yet to git on what them lawyers calls the nonkompus mentus list, but fer the last 10 year I been filling out Government forms till I was swingin' a little off my hinges. We got child labor laws to perfect the younguns and I see where one Congressman was now in favor of gitting another child labor law to keep the younguns from working their parents to death. We need one more piece of labor perfection, Mister Editor, a law to keep the Government from working the taxpayers to death.

Yours truly, Uncle Tim
