No new village taxes

Council to "hold line" despite hefty wage boosts agenda Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the village council as it approved its 1969 "hold the line" budget at the Municipal Building.

By unanimous vote, the council approved a budget of $224,-000, some $11,000 bigger than the amount spent in 1968.

President Lambert Althaver said that while the figure approved is higher than last year's budget of $213,706 it includes no new special projects.

The additional funds represent a normal increase in 1 operating expenses and an eight per cent pay boost for village employees.

The pay boost authorized Tuesday will eat up better than $6,000 of the extra $11,000 and the cost of doing business will take the rest of the increase, Althaver explained,

While more money will be spent in 1969, there is not expected to be any increase in taxes. The new budget is based on a tax of 13 mills, the same as is paid now. How will this bit of legerde-

Jerome Root Jr. was elected chief of the Elkland Township Fire Department, replacing Nelson Willy who was in charge for five years.

While he was chief, the department secured a new pumper and a new truck for the water

Willy is also credited with establishing the stand-by system for payment of fire protection by sections and helping the department to a more sound financial position.

Willy also was active as a representative of the firemen with the Elkland town board which is mulling plans for a new increase in property tax, increase in income tax refunds and highway monies.

Althaver said that increase in property taxes would come from normal growth and not a rate or assessment raise. The budget estimates $2,000 more from this source.

Also up $2,000 is motor vehicle fund revenue to $26,-000. $1,000 more is expected from State Income taxes.

WAGE SCALE

The council's raise of village employees brings the hourly rate from a top of $2.63 per hour to $2.84 per hour. In addition to the eight per cent boost the council raised the two lowest paid employees an additional eight cents. The lowest village rate is now $2,77. All department heads were raised at the same level.

The raises are retroactive to Jan. 1.

Also voted a raise was Mac O'Dell, the village assessor. He was making $750 per year and had asked for a $400 increase. The council voted a $250 boost, bringing the salary to $1,000.

STREET WORK

There will be very little added street work in the village this year. Some $45,000 will be spent. Presently the council leans to curb and gutter and drainage on East Church Street and the hard surfacing of Oak, north of Main, and of Woodland, both of which have been curb and guttered.

A discussion of Main street drainage resulted in the same conclusion that had been previously reached: too expensive for the village at this time to meet state specifications.

PARKING METERS

Parking meters continued to be good business for the village. The report showed that $2,000 was transferred to the general fund after the meter company had been paid half of the revenue and all of the parking lot expenses paid. .

The meters took in $5,780.-27 in 1968 and fines added another $541.

Gerald Prieskorn asked if the money was being used exclusively for parking. President Althaver explained that the money turned into the general fund had been spent for increased funds from normal of Seeger and Main streets. Every dime of revenue has been spent for parking, he concluded.

DOG COMPLAINT

Mr. and Mrs. James Jezewski wrote a letter complaining about loose dogs in the village. The council will ask for more help from the county dog warden and if this does not prove satisfactory, will launch a local campaign for the removal of dogs running loose.

VIOLATION BUREAU

The council is in the midst of establishing a parking violation bureau. All village parking infractions will then be paid at the municipal building.

The ordinance covering the bureau was delayed Tuesday so that village attorney could establish a set of fines for each infraction.

The council is establishing the bureau so that the fine money can be kept by the village and Supervisors urge salary, per diem pay.

If the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors approves the preliminary salary schedule submitted by the salary committee Thursday, costs will jump sharply over the $15,373-.50 spent last year for this purpose.

The schedule calls for a salary of $4,000 per year for attending all meetings of the board, plus 10 cents per mile for travel.

In addition, members will receive $30 per day for at-tending committee meetings that require a full day and $20 for half day session, plus 10 cents per mile for travel. In 1968 the supervisors were

The change was to have been accompanied by redecorating and paneling of the offices. But after discussion it was decided to save as much of the estimated $1,000 cost as possible and paint and patch instead of remodel.

6 criminal cases heard in Circuit Court

Six criminal cases highlighted a busy week in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro as Judge Norman Baguley heard arraignments Tuesday and Judge James Churchill presided Friday.

Friday a jury found Leo Weiss Frankenmuth guilty of stealing a pair of tires from a modified racing car owned by Harvey Hecht. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and sentence will be passed Mar. 4.

The case for the State against George Gean of Vassar collapsed when the prosecution's two principal witnesses, including the alleged 15-year-old victim, refused to testify.

Snowmobilers want a curfew and shortest direct route from one point to another in the village to be allowed.

Louis Pierce, 41, Seventh street, Cass City, is recovering from open heart surgery performed Jan. 22 at Henry Ford Hospital, his wife told the Chronicle Tuesday.

Pierce, who received an artificial valve, is out of the intensive care department of the hospital. Pierce was insurgery for five hours.

His wife said that it has not been determined how long it will be before her husband is able to return home.

The council discussed establishing a snowmobile trail at either the village park or at the landfill site on Cemetery Road for the use of the snowmobilers.

Questions of liability and insurance shelved the program, but the consensus was to try to compensate for removal of the machines from village streets.

The council was ready to cass an ordinance Tuesday that would prohibit the machines, but at the last moment, delayed until the snowmobilers receive a chance to be heard.

This chance will come Tuesday, Feb. 4, in a special meeting at the Municipal Building. The council plans to pass the new ordinance at this time. Meanwhile, the snowmobilers were meeting at the Gun Club Tuesday to devise a code for village use of the machines. They suggest:

I get a left out feeling when I read articles recalling "most memorable", "most unforgettable", "most important" or other similar times in the life of the writer.

To tell the truth, most of the really important events in my life have been anticlimactic.

Certainly the end of World War II should have been a great day. . . but I was playing ball with a service team and had to crank up a little emotion to yell with the rest on the bus ride back to the base. I had waited too long.

Like all of the really big moments of my life it seemed unreal at the time. . . like the day I got married. I didn't truly realize what had happened until weeks later.

What stands out are the little insignificant occasions, . . the unexpected windfalls that come to each of us over the course of a lifetime.

The day that my high school basketball team won a district tournament, and a walk to Tahquamenon Falls are indelibly etched.

No one expected us to win the basketball game. . . it was like Cass City playing Frankenmuth for the title.

The game ended in a tie and two overtime periods later the teams were still tied.

Back in 1940 there were strange rules for basketball ... after two overtimes the actual victor was determined by some inane rule on the basis of free throws or something ... anyway we walked off the floor and didn't know who had won the

For the first time that I can recall, a Cass City person's business has been named in a national general circulation magazine.

In the business section of "Newsweek" last week, Kritzmans' was named as one of the buyers who storm New York.

Kritzmans' was pointed out as an illustration of the smaller concerns who attend the shows.

Owendale oldster tells of lifetime in taxidermy

Edward Bannick, 76, of rural Owendale has been a taxidermist for nearly a half century and is still going strong at the age when most persons want nothing more than a pipe, slippers and good hot fire.

Perhaps not quite as active as he once was, but he still travels at a faster clip than you'd expect for an oldster who graduated from the Northwestern School of Taxidermy

Most often, birds and bats have been found dead, Bannick said, and are smelly. I won't take one like that, he asserted indignantly. People think that taxidermy is dirty work, but it's not. . . . it's as clean as been deer heads (over 400) and slaughtering a hog or a cow. Bannick said he charges about

A tiny and very abundant soil insect, Collembola, is offering Michigan State University scientists hope of eventually eliminating DDT contamination. The insect breaks down DDT to DDE, which is relatively nontoxic to desirable soil organisms and warm-blooded animals, including man, 1962, only 29 persons were shot dead in all of England and Wales, the United States with four times the population, had 4,954 firearms murders. That same year, only 73 British robbery victims reported even seeing a gun! The country's $7 million Great Train Robbery of August 1964, the biggest cash haul in history, was carried off without a gun! The point that I'm trying to establish is that carrying hand guns does not ensure or protect people. Getting guns is no problem so far, at least, Many kinds of guns may be purchased by mail, (as was true of Oswald's armament, patiently accumulated over a length of time!) The Sullivan Law of New York is the law other states pattern themselves after, but even more difficulties have followed in its wake. For about the price of a pack of cigarettes the teenager can buy (freely OWN A GUN, HOW LONG WILL and legally) all the ammunition he can possibly use. At as he can be the owner of 'zip guns') To find out for himself how easy it is to buy a mail-order gun, Mayor Frank X. Graves of Paterson, N. J., in a bet with two disbelieving newsmen in April 1965 ordered a .22caliber revolver from a Chicago mail-order house. He sent along a money order for $23,95, giving no information except his name and address. The gun arrived a week later. This is not unique. The National Rifle Association, has been the fore-runner in opposing any legal moves to amend the situation. Their selfish interest accounts for their militancy in fighting any restrictive legislation, This book, a paperback edition is not the easiest book to read. yet it fairly can be described 'interesting reading.' It's worth the price ($1,25) asked at the book seller. NO RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS.

Right contractor important for conservation work

Whether it's a pond, a waterway or a tile system, the careful choice of a good conservation contractor is like having money in the bank, Even though his hourly rate may be a little higher, an experienced conservation contractor can produce a top quality job that not only fulfills its purpose, but also protects your soil and water resources, according to Cyril Jacot, Soil Conservation Service Technician. The conservation contractors are experienced in applying conservation practices for landowners who belong to the Tuscola Soil Conservation District or for those who just believe in practicing wise land use. They cooperate with the SCD in following the engineering plans prepared by SCS technicians. They are familiar with guidelines for ACP cost-sharing programs which help pay a part cost. The petter con tractor is generally familiar with the characteristics, problems, and acceptable landuses of the soils in your area. He is concerned with possible soil erosion on the freshly exposed ground and follows SCS suggestions for reducing erosion, Jacot emphasized.

An able contractor runs a highly efficient operation. He saves his clients money by using the equipment best suited for the job. He and his crew know how to use surveyors' instruments and figure grades and cuts on the land. Safety, particularly with respect to pipelines, buried cables, and overhead obstructions, is one of his concerns. He is especially careful when working around people and their personal pro-

Behind the Counter Burn Injury

A recent study indicated that the cost of treating an extensively burned patient can run as high as $20,000—enough to destroy the life savings of most families. In addition to the long period of hospitalization, there is the terrible pain, deformities and scarring. In 1965, 612,000 children suffered burns which needed medical care, or which caused at least one full day of re-stricted activity. More than 2,000 children die from fires and explosions in this country each year.

Children are fascinated by matches and open fires; they like to pull on protruding handles or dangling cords. Another group highly susceptible to burn injury is the aged, many of whom are helpless in case of fire.

One way to reduce fire injury is through the application of durable flame-retarding finishes to cotton and synthetic fabrics used for sheets, blankets, draperies and clothing. Also, there are some synthetic fibers which are, in themselves, flame-resistant. It has been estimated that burn injury caused by exposure to open flame would be reduced by 50 percent if these fabrics were generally adopted.

Another way of reducing burn injury in children is through education. In Arkansas, a single year of the school's fire-prevention program cut in the number of injuries from fires and explosions re-ported to hospitals and clinics in that area.

Co-operate with community agencies that seek to prevent fires. And be sure that everybody in your home is alert to what should be done in case of

By Don Kebler

If your farm operation was either cash crop or specialized dairy, here are some average business analysis factors you can use to compare your operation. These are averages for the 1967 year to size and type of operations in the southern half of lower Michigan.

In looking at the cash crop operation we find from our Telfarm cooperators the following: On cash grain farms with total investments of under $160,000: Value of farm production, $19,-000; total costs (cash and noncash) $21,500; return on invest-ment 2.6%; tillable acres per farm, 294; Number of men .6; value of farm production per tillable acre $64.30 and labor income, $400.

In comparison with cash grain operations with total investments of above $160,000, we find these factors: Value of farm production $37,700; total costs $43,500; return on investment 1.7%; tillable acres per farm 530; number of men 1.5; value of farm production per tillable acre $77.43 and labor income $1900.

In brief the average these two different size and investment cash grain crop farms show that the operators could have just about doubled the return on their investment had their investments been in cash drawing interest at rates available today. By the time the cash costs and non-cash charges were deducted from the cash income plus increase in inventory for the year the family had no money left to live unless they used the money set aside for the non-cash cost payments. These families on the average were living from their investment plus operator labor charge. The specialized dairy operations in 1967 on the average fared better economically than the cash grain operators.

The business comparison factors in the following order of investments under $100,000; $100,000 to $160,000 and above $160,000 are as follows: Value of farm production $24,300; $36,400 and $63,000: total cost $25,000; $35,000 and $59,000; labor income $5,200, $6,700 and $9,100. Rate earned on invest-

4.6%, 6.3% and 7.1%; pounds of milk sold per cow from all three operations was just over 12,000; value of farm production per tillable acres $147, $154 and $155; tillable acres farmed 165,236 and 405; number of men 1,6, 2.0 and 2,9; milk sold per man 2,560, 3,000 and 3,440 cwt.

Basically, the averages of returns from under $100,000 invested to over $160,000 shows the operators in the average level of comparison to have paid all cash and non-cash costs and had left over at least $5,200 to use for family living before dipping into their investment reserves.

How long this comparison between cash grain and specialized dairy operations in Southern Michigan will give the same picture is not known. But about five years ago the picture in general was reversed with the dairy operations being the low return operations and cash grain the highest.

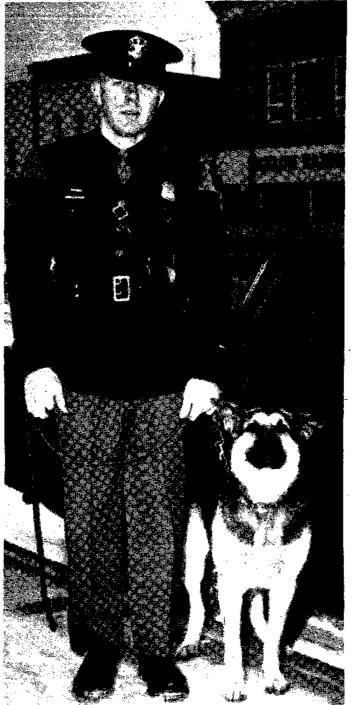

Zonta hears of rural journalism

Dick Allen, editor of the Tuscola County Advertiser, spoke to the Zonta Club of Cass City the Cass City School and iournalism class Tuesday, Jan. 21. on the "Role of Journalism in Rural America".

Following the address a question and answer period was held. In the business meeting, plans for a rummage sale were discussed. Mrs. Edith Little is the chairman. The annual antique show will be held at the St. Pancratius Social Hall Feb. 22. Evelyn Wells and Mildred McConkey are the co-chairmen. Agnes Milligan, Mrs. Mc-Conkey and Mrs. Kathryn Gauer were named to a nominating committee for new officers. Mrs. Helen Baker, area director for District 5, directed a memorial tribute to Mrs. Belle Knapp, honorary Zonta member.

A poem "Eternal Friendship" by Edgar Guest was recited by Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Knapp was a personal friend of the Guests and this was her favorite poem.

For the canine corps of the Michigan State Police has compiled an enviable record over the years with specially trained German Shepherd dogs and volunteer handlers.

Trooper Ray Brotebeck of the Bay City Post, a handler of one of two dogs serving the mid-Michigan area, explained the activities of the canine corps to Cass City Rotarians Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

The dogs are used in three principal areas: tracking lost persons, tracking fugitives and search of buildings.

The dogs, all males, are trained in a 14-week course Houghton Lake where obedience and attack are instilled. All of the dogs used by the corps are donated.

Most of them come from homes where the dog's temperament is too surly to be used as a house pet.

For most of the police dogs are "one man" dogs and the handler is the one that feeds them, trains them and uses

"SLOW START"

Michigan's Legislature is off -- but not exactly running. Early proceedings have been snarled by inter-house squabbling over time schedules and organizational matters,

"They could be there until Christmas," said one legislative observer.

The House recently enjoyed a two-week recess and was to return to work Jan. 27. Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, said the breather was needed to set up committees, hire secretaries and allocate office space.

The Senate has been sticking to a daily work routine that includes little more than housekeeping matters. A flood of new legislation is expected next

WHO'S AHEAD?

"We're usually a step or two ahead of the House, " said Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis. "It appears the same will hold true this session."

Ryan said the House will "get moving as fast as the Senate" once organizational chores are out of the way. He predicted a business-minded attitude throughout the session.

"There are some tremendous problems that must be resolved. and I don't think we are going to duck from them," he said. "We'll move right along,"

MANY PROBLEMS

The big issues of the session--taxes, spending, state aid to schools, teacher strikes and criminal law reform -- still remain in the background.

Major items submitted during the early stages include proposals to scuttle the $24.1 million pay increase package for the state's 43,000 classified civil service employes; block salary boosts for the Governor and legislators; repeal the $1 fee insured drivers must pay into the uninsured motorists fund each year; enact election reforms, and extend the terms of House members from two to four years, and of Senators from four to six years.

A resolution is also in the hopper calling for a one-year investigation of student disorders on Michigan campuses. It is sponsored by 15 Senate Republicans and two Democrats. The probe would cost

There are too many kooks on the loose," said Sen. Ro-bert J. Huber, R-Troy, a principal backer of the investiga-

On the strictly partisanship front, Sen Sander M. Levin of Berkley unseated Sen. Raymond D. Dzendzel of Detroit as Senate Minority Leader. The Democratic caucus vote was 10-6.

The action thrusts Levin to the forefront of legislative power. It may also propel him along the road to the 1970 Governor's race and a showdown with Republican Gov. William G. Milliken.

At 37, Levin is one of the youngest lawmakers to serve as minority leader of the tradition-encrusted Michigan Sen-

His deposing of Dzendzel was somewhat unexpected in that Levin has only been a member of the Senate since 1964 while Dzendzel is a 10-year veteran.

But it was not too surprising, Levin has become known as an effective, constructive force in the party hierarchy since he took on the thankless task of state chairman and rebuilt a shattered Michigan organization a year ago.

SUCCESSES

Many of the Democratic successes since then including new party unity, Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey's win in Michigan, the recapture of the State House of Representatives and sweeps in all the education and university board races -can be traced directly to Levin.

Levin, a studious-looking but hard-driving legislator, is admired by old-time party regulars and the "new politics" faces alike as a man who gets things done.

In essence, that's why Senate Democrats agreed to dump Dzendzel, a 47-year-old Detroit labor union representative. They felt he was working too closely with Senate Republican leaders.

Dissidents tried before to unseat Dzendzel, but they could never agree on a replacement.

Cancer of the female genital tract is what doctors refer to as gynecologic cancer.

Once the patient gets to the doctor, the most important thing is for the doctor to recognize that this patient has an abnormal symptom or an abnormal sign. There are several ways in which they diagnose the disease of cancer - primarily by listening to the history of the patient and then the physical and pelvic examination and the "pap" smear. The pap smear detects cancer of the cervix primarily. If cancer in the female pelvis is found early something can be done about it. The biopsy is often used. This is the taking of a piece of tissue from a suspected area which is submitted to the pathology department, evaluated, and the pathologist makes a diagnosis.

Neither a pap smear nor a biopsy is painful. The pap smear taken by a cotton pledget and scraping is taken from the cervix and spread out on the slide which is treated by specific agents and then read by the cytologist. The biopsy is taken by an instrument which clips off a piece of tissue. One does not have to be hospitalized for this procedure.

There is another technique that doctors use to actually go up inside the uterus which is called endometrial-biopsy-it's a little instrument that goes up inside and gets a specimen from the endometrial lining. It is then submitted to the pathologist for his evaluation. Again, this does not require hospitalization.

Every woman should have an annual checkup examination. As one gets older, after a patient is 50 years of age, then she should probably be seen by a doctor on a semi-annual basis. The word of warning is that she shouldn't wait for the semiannual or annual examination if she has a symptom or an abnormal sign - she certainly should consult her physican immediately. These abnormalities are:abnormal bleeding, abnormal pain, abnormal vaginal discharge or any lump or sore that persists for two or more

The physician plays a tremendous role in educating patients, in encouraging patients to have periodic checkups. By and large people know they should be checked annually. It's just that the year goes by so fast, they don't realize that the time has come for the annual checkup. Most people know some of the symptoms and the signs. But unrealistic as it is, patients delay because of fear. They have an abnormal symptom and they are afraid it is cancer and afraid to find out that it is. So they get used to this abnormality and deny the abnormality. But it doesn't go away and it will not. It seldom gone away once it has started. The most important thing is that if the doctor picks it up early there is so much that can be done about it. There are some cancers that no matter how early you detect the disease the patient is going to succumb to them. But in most cancers that doctors can look at, if the lesion is detected in its early stages, a great deal can be done

Doctors have to be a little pessimistic about cancer because it is a very serious disease. However, if you take all the cancers in the gynecologic field, and avail these patients of good examinations, good attention, good therapy, then doctors should be able to cure 80% of the cancer they see

HARD START

Michigan's legislators contheir 1969 session and braced for some hard multimillion dollar decisions in the weeks ahead. As is customary, the first days were devoted to organizing, adopting rules and formally selecting leaders. Plenty of fireworks looms on the horizon. More than 1,500 bills to eliminate, or alter existing laws, or enact new ones are expected to be introduced in the Legislature before final adjournment, probably late next summer. During the 75th biennial session of the Legislature, the state's lawmakers will turn their attention to: Spending and taxes, the two issues which customarily trigger the longest, strongest debate because they affect all of the state's nearly 9 million residents.

Education, including tax aid to parochial schools and increased appropriations to state-supported colleges and universities.

Public employe strikes and how to prevent them. Special consideration will be given to teacher-school board problems in an effort to avert a classroom crisis next fall.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN-THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1969

THE CASS CITY BAPTIST Church burned the mortgage on the church's parsonage at 6787 Houghton, Cass City, at regular Sunday evening services Jan. 26. The building was contracted in July, 1966.

Among the church dignitaries participating were: William Ewald, Elwyn Helwig, Pastor Richard Canfield and Mack MacAlpine. The three laymen represent the board of trustees of the church.

Vassar Vulcans turn tables on Hawks

The Vassar Vulcans turned the tables on the Cass City Red Hawks Friday as the two schools started the second round of the Thumb B Conference schedule Friday at Cass City High School.

The two clubs opened the cage year Dec. 3 at Vassar and the Hawks came home with a 51-46 decision, Last Friday it was Vassar's turn and the Vulcans won 64-62.

It was the third game this year that the Hawks have lost by two points or less.

Cass City will face improving Bad Axe Friday in an effort to break a losing streak that has reached seven games. Coach Jim Wynes said that poor shooting and turn overs caused the most recent Cass City loss, The Hawks took a and converted just 24 of them. Vassar shot 50 times from the field and converted 20, On defense, Cass City committed too many fouls and the infrac-

Cass City's field goal perman scored 16 points. Also in centage would have been worse double figures were Hecht, 14 than its final 34 per cent if Marty Zawilinski had not come up with his best shooting night tosses, a decisive factor in the of the season. He hit 9 of 15 game. shots from his guard spot in what Wynes termed his best performance of the season.

Joe Hillaker played his usual strong game at center scoring 14 points and picking off 19 rebounds. Cass City fouled 25 times while Vassar was guilty of 20 infractions and it was accuracy from the free throw line that spelled victory for the visitors.

The game was as close all the way as the final score indicates. At the end of the first period Cass City was in front

The Vulcans erased that tiny margin in the second period and went ahead by the inter-38-34. The Hawks mission chopped two points from the lead in the third quarter as neither team hit consistently, to enter the final period behind by a single bucket.

Both teams netted 15 points in the final eight minutes and Vassar had won its first game of the year to tie for last place with the Hawks in the Thumb

Take a Red to lunch

I wish I belonged to the Detroit Press Club so I could quit. Such a gesture would merely cut me off from a mediocre bar and restaurant. When in the big city, I would have to look elsewhere for the boozy companionship of other newspaper men. No great problem, to be

But quitting my Press Club membership would also allow me to make a point about admitting Red China to the United Nations. That would lend a higher tone to my letter of resignation, you must admit.

Press Club directors recently voted 6-5 not to admit William Allan because he is a Communist and/or a propagandist. Allan is Detroit correspondent for the Daily World, a Communist newspaper.

The "propagandist" charge can be laughed off the bar. "Propagandist" is an impolite word meaning "public relations man." A PR man's job is to sell ideas favorable to his product. Whether it be a Chevrolet or a political party, it's all the same jar of honey. Dozens of Press Club members are PR men, employed by the utilities or the auto companies or youname-it. If Allan was declared ineligible, because he's a "pro-pagandist," all the other PR members should also be locked out. And the management could lay off several bartenders.

The propagandist charge is obviously phony, almost a joke. But let's not hear anyone laughing about the Communist charge, That's serious, Everyone knows the Communists are leaning on our door, just waiting for someone to forget to lock up at night. That's why your boy is in Vietnam (Why isn't he in Cuba? Shut up).

Allan might be a spy, for gosh sakes. He might pry the location of the Detroit tunnel out of some lushed-up Free Press reporter. And besides, Allan is said to be articulate and witty and wise. What kind of a Communist is that to have hanging around your tavern? He could give the Reds a good name. He might even make friends with a Republican, And that's where the real danger lies. If other members get to know Allan, they might understand and like him. Then they wouldn't want to fight him. Who wants to belong to a sissy club where the Communists and Christians don't have fistfights? I do. And that's also the type of world I want to belong to. William Allan should be adand Red China should be just plain capitalists: admitted to the United Nations.

Mutual understanding is the answer. You can't have understanding without communicaworth a darn when your mouth is full of blackballs.

It is ridiculous that the U.S. continues to oppose Red China's admission to the UN. After all, Russia belongs and they're the biggest bogeymen of all, Red Onward and Upward.

China is nothing more than Chiang Kai-shek's retreat in Taiwan,

It is way past time for the U. S. to begin communicating with Red China, Both countries might learn something worthwhile - such as how to quit making bombs and start making sense.

Just as Allan and other Press Club members might exchange some valuable nuggets if they were allowed to sit at the same

Many Press Club members agree that Allan should be admitted. They signed a petition which says it well. It reads:

"Whereas the Detroit Press Club is replete with capitalist journalists, capitalist pubmitted to the Detroit Press Club licists, capitalist politicans and

"And whereas, there is not a single publicly admitted communist in its membership; ...

"And whereas . . . we often tion. And you can't communicate find the present non-exchange of non-ideas that takes place at the press club between the capitalists boring as hell;

"We therefore petition the board of governors. . . to ad-

Why Plymouth?

1. The GREAT! Plymouth Sale—Our specially-equipped Fury, Belvedere, Barracuda, and Valiant models are now costing even less. But our GREAT! Sale of the Year is only one of a lot of good reasons why you should consider buying a Plymouth. 2. Engineering-Plymouths are tight and strong because structural steel members, body braces, and sheet-metal panels are welded into a single, unitized shell. Unibody construction gives more resistance to the twisting forces of rough roads than body-on-frame cars. 3. Good Handling-High-chrome steel torsion-bar front springs combined with rugged multi-leaf rear springs make Plymouths better handling, better riding than other cars. 4. Durability-7-Step Dip-and-Spray Anti-Rust Treatments on all Plymouth exterior body surfaces and all inner and outer surfaces of lower body metal mean longer body life. 5. Beauty-All Plymouths are painted with super-hard Acrylic Enamel that retains a mirror-like finish with only cold-water washes. Acrylic Enamel means beauty that lasts. 6. Safety-Plymouth's big brakes give smooth, safe braking. They're bigger and heavier than brakes on most other cars. 7. Comfort -Head room. Hip room. Shoulder room. Leg room. And trunk room . . . loads of it!

That's why!

To state it lightly--exams are a strain on the brain. School in Chile begins at 8:30

At C.C.H.S. exams are held for two days. The first four hours on one day and the last four hours on the other. Fourth and fifth hours, which are lunch periods, are held first; therefore, on at least one of the two days students could sleep in. (Some students don't have a class during one of the lunch hours, so they could sleep in two days!) If a student doesn't have a class during a given hour, he isn't required to be in school.

When exams are finally over, it's as if a ton of weight has been lifted off your shoulders. It's a great feeling to know that the last semester is finished, that the school year is half over, and that this semester you can start all over

This year students were given a semester break--there wasn't any school Friday!

The kindergarteners have been taking tests and for the first time they will be given report cards to take home this week! (Maybe at that age they can be thrilled about it, but wait until they get older!)

Each month the kindergarteners prepare a music program. For January they sang and skated to the famous "Skater's Waltz". In this music program they practiced their agility in being trees blowing to and fro in the wind. The students also sang about showmen, snowflakes and a little old shoemaker.

Expert to speak of alcohol at Thumb meetings

Who is the alcoholic in our society, and how can we identify her/him at an earlier stage of alcoholism? How can we help the alcoholic person sooner?

If you wonder about this, you are invited to hear John McConnell of the Michigan Department of Public Health tell how alcoholism cuts across divisions of our society and touches many families. He will use a film entitled "A Time for Decision" and have other materials available.

Duane Harder will represent the Thumb Council on Alcoholism and tell about the information Center in Bad Axe to which alcoholics may be referred.

The meetings are sponsored by the Family Living program of the Cooperative Extension Service as an effort to improve family life through education and understanding.

The meetings are scheduled at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4, in the Farm Bureau Building, Sandusky; Wednesday, Feb. 5, in the Civil Defense Center in the New Jail basement in Caro, and Thursday, Feb. 6, in the meeting room on the third floor of the County Building in Bad

Berkeley dissidents terrorize families

By Dan Marlowe

Sergeant Phillip Mauer is a 22 year veteran of the police force in Berkeley, California. He spoke recently to the Northern California Chapter of Mystery Writers of America, his subject being CRIME SOUTH OF THE CAM-PUS, The campus referred to,

of course, was the Berkeley campus of the University of California. The area discussed was the Telegraph Avenue area which has been designated by the police as a critical area since 1965. Inside the critical area is a "core area" of 8 blocks where the majority of the "action" takes place. The first major incident of the modern era which involved what the police call "the smellies" occurred with the Chessman death vigil combined with a draft board demonstration in 1960, Ten police officers made 721 arrests, winning the battle, said Sergeant Mauer, but in hindsight losing the war.

Because those rather naive demonstrators gave way to true anarchists, the "people against everything" whose outspoken aim it is to take over the university and destroy the Berkeley city governing structure. They are well funded, Complicating the problems with this hard core of dissidents and true revolutionaries are two other groups: runaway kids in the 11-17 age bracket, and the thugs who prey on these hippie-types. The kids need "pads" and

"bread", and so sell narcotics. Or they sell oregano for "grass" and baking powder for "crystal" or heroin. The hood element is racial, and will hit anything that moves after dark. On week end nights the police have 30 men in this 8 block area. Rape, burglary, auto theft, and the sale of narcotics are the usual crimes with murder not unusual, 70% of the burglaries are committed by criminals who are out on for previous burglary arrests. To the Berkeley police, south of the campus is a war zone.

A common practice of the hard-core dissidents is to call up policemen's wives and tell them that their husbands have just been shot to death. Some hippie types working in the postoffice sell policemen's names and addresses and the names of their wives and children for $5 and $6 each, so activists can call them at home, make obscene remarks, or suggest that the officers' children will not be returning home from school.

As a result, the turn-over in personnel in the Berkeley police force which is considered one of the nation's finest, best educated, and most progressive departments, is nearly 100% in the past 4 years.

There have been signs recently of a tougher attitude on the part of educational and governmental institutions faced by so-called students belonging to anarchistic groups,

It's about time.

The folks hardest to convince they are of retirement age are school children at bedtime.

Janet Russell named Homemaker at Owen-Gage

Janet Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Russell of Gagetown, has been named 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Owen-Gage Area Schools on the basis of her score in a written test on homemaking given senior girls in December. Her instructor is Mrs. Victor Kain.

Unfortunately, the thought of were week-end guests of Mr. leisure time is frightening to too many housewives. They fear boredom, and perhaps without even knowing it, avoid leisure time. Instead of enjoying their newly found freedom, they make additional work for themselves.

Some even work at their play. Everything they do has an emphasis on organization. If painting becomes their hobby, they may do it to supplement their income, to make gifts, or to beautify their homes -- but seldom just because they enjoy

The time to reorient yourself about leisure is now. Stop when you find yourself "making" work. Leisure needn't be a burden. It can be an opportunity to develop strong interests in community affairs, to read, or to enjoy friends. With technological advances -- more, not less, leisure is in the future.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A regular meeting of the Village of Cass City Council was held Dec. 30, 1968 at the Munici-Building. All members were present except Trustee Dillman.

The minutes of the regular meeting held Nov. 26, 1968 were read and approved. The financial report for Nov.

was read and approved. The committee reporting for the Streets requested that the signs for 2 hour parking be removed where meters are installed. It was requested that the ice on the hill on North Seeger St. be removed more promptly. The Park Committee reported work had progressed on the Little League Diamonds, until weather had prevented continuation of the project, and also requested that an ice skating rink be readied. President Althaver appointed himself and Trustee Selby, council members who also function on the Planning Commission, to the committee to study the Library plans. Warren Wood and Maynard McConkey will be appointing members from the Planning Commission and the Township Board.

President Althaver submitted figures representing the costs to install gas lights on Kennebec Drive, Trustee Selby suggested that the wood poles that used in the other areas would be the only fair means of servicing the area and suggested they be installed in accordance with previous actions of the council.

In discussing the need for the United Fund contribution to the summer recreation program, Trustee Rawson suggested that an additional amount be requested. Council decided that $500.00 would cover the increased cost of the program.

Trustee Rawson moved that the bills as approved by the finance committee be allowed. Motion supported by Trustee Selby. Yes 5, No 0, motion carried.

President Althaver informed the Council that Nelson Willy, Supt. of Waste Water Treathas been awarded a financial grant to assist him attending the advanced Laboratory course in colorimetry and bacteriological analysis at Gull Lake, Michigan for a week of advanced training. This financial assistance is made possible by funds from the Water and Waste Water Equipment Manufacturers Association. President Althaver explained that all parking meter violations must be referred to a Violation Bureau and that a Bureau must be established in Cass City by ordinance. There being no further business to come before the council, Trustee Rawson moved to ad-
